

Full text of "The Hebrews in America"

See other formats

a5 Q^

^ .« 5:) ■°. <5,

9d ■'o V-* o,"?- o * ^^ -4 oEy

.4 °^

'='^^-^^''-' ^&'r\,^^

%•> " J'/, ^

■^d i?"-^

#' *^ '•.

?" ' ^ ^ I %^°° ^ ^

\\^^' :^\\MW/A' -.^^^v

.^^

.«0. -^

A,

^'-:''' /.^i:^' ^% <?^^J^^'% 0°^;^^. % *• ^^

'^^l

\> » ^ * 0

- '^0^ ^ SIR ^0 " ^ ^!M - '^ ^!fe - ■

.^^

V

.^^ . V

^0., •'„, X

THE

Hebrews in America.

A SERIES OF HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES.

^

BY

ISAAC MARKENS.

of*

/

F

^

(

■UBLISHED BY THE AUTHOR,

No. 234 Broadway, .

NEW YORK.
1888.

Copyrighted, 1888,

BY

ISAAC MARKENS.

^<r0

CONTENTS.

PAGE.

Preface v

Historical i

In the Army and Navy 126

In Commercial Life 139

In Public Office . 174

Biographical 196

In the Pulpit 275

Institutions and Associations 309

Addenda ' 335

Index , , . . 347

PREFACE.

THE design of this volume is to show the degree of prominence and influence attained by the Hebrews of the United States. The preparation of the work was undertaken at the suggestion of the numerous readers of a less elaborate series of sketches upon the same subject which appeared in the " New York Mail and Express " about one year since. In the course of his earlier researches the author brought to light a vast amount of interesting material regarding the Hebrews in this country, the publication of which, in the secular press was, for obvious reasons, found impracticable. The material then secured, which has been supplemented by further investigation, constitutes the present volume. In preparing this work the author has consulted various State and Municipal histories and the collections of various Historical Societies, including " Colonial History of New York," " Westcott's Philadelphia," " Historical Collections of Rhode Island," " Daly's Jewish Settlements in North America," " Steven's History of Georgia," "Historical Collections of Georgia," ""Arnold's

VI PREFACE.

History of Rhode Island," " Historical Collections of Rhode Island," Rosenbach's "Jews of Philadelphia, prior to 1800," New York newspapers of the last century, Valentine's " Manual of the City of New York," " Legislative Records of Maryland," and files of the various Hebrew periodicals and newspapers published during the past forty years. Besides this, the author has put himself in correspondence with prominent gentlemen in the principal cities with a view of securing data pertaining to the early settlements, the organization of synagogues and the biographies of persons of note, from most of whom valuable information has been secured. It is to be regretted, however, that repeated requests for important material have been peremptorily declined in some instances and ignored in others.

The writer desires to tender his acknowledgments to the following gentlemen, who have kindly complied with requests for material and otherwise aided in the preparation of this volume : Rev. Drs. Berkowitz, of Mobile ; Bloch, of Portland, Oregon ; Felsenthal, of Chicago ; Grossman, of Detroit ; Landsberg, of Rochester, N. Y. ; Machol, of Cleveland ; Mendes, of Savannah ; Naumburg, of Pittsburg ; Stern, of Washington, D. C. ; Wintner, of Brooklyn ; Wise, of Cincinnati, and Messrs. Hyman Blum, S. N. Carvalho, Max Cohen, Daniel P. Hays, Myer S. Isaacs, P. J. Joachimsen, Isidore Osorio, Benjamin F. Peixotto and Willy Salomon, of New York ; Paul Weil, of New Haven ; William B. Hackenburg, of Philadelphia ; Joseph Abraham, Jacob Ezekiel and Lewis Seasongood, of Cincinnati ; H. Krakauer, of Boston ; Samuel Evans, of Columbia, Penn. ; A. Weill, of Wilmington, N. C. ; Sol Marx, of New Orleans ; C. B. Feibleman, of Indianapolis ; William Horgan, of Memphis ; Nathaniel Levin, of Charleston ; Rev. Uzal Condit, Easton, Penn. ; L. C. Levy, Augusta, Ga. The biographical sketch of Isidor Bush, Esq., of St. Louis, is partly taken from the United States Encyclopedia.

PREFACE. VII

I. M.

New York, April, 1888,

HISTORICAL

MARVELOUS prosperity and steady progress mark the history of the Hebrews in the United States. In every department of commercial and intellectual activity they are continually making headway. Subjected to no restrictions and accorded the privilege enjoyed by all citizens of the Republic, they are enjoying unexampled prosperity. With a population of only 400,000 in the entire country, of which number 125,000 are credited to New York, the Hebrews have made themselves felt throughout the land to an extent far greater than any other like number of people. Not only have they shown surprising growth and amassed immense fortunes, but they are recognized as among the most useful of our citizens. Enterprising and foremost in all public movements looking to the welfare of the entire community, patriotic and law-abiding, cosmopolitan in their charities, and permitting none of their own people to become a burden on the State or city, their presence is welcomed and their power is extending year after year. Close observers of the times are of the opinion that within half a century the Hebrews of this country will control the balance of trade. This appears quite likely if the recent increase in population is maintained. During the year 1886 over 30,000 Hebrew emigrants were landed in New York, of whom more than two-thirds remained there. During the six years previous, upwards of 55,000 came from Russia, Poland, Germany and Roumania, 14,000 being landed in the United States from 1881 to 1886. There are no indications that this influx will be soon checked. On the contrary, Hon. Benjamin F. Peixotto, our late consul to Roumania, estimates that by the end of the second decade of the coming century Russia will have driven at least half of her 2,500,000 Hebrews to this country, and other countries where Draconic laws and insensate persecution are hardly less terrible, will contribute proportionately. Over 50,000 are already settled on the Western plains. Inasmuch as the great majority of the most prosperous Hebrew merchants of to-day landed on these shores under conditions not dissimilar to the later comers, it is reasonable to expect that the latter will experience equal progression. The story of the Hebrews in this country, which dates back 235 years, forms an interesting chapter. The conditions under which they first came here, the manner of men composing the early colonists, what they have accomplished in the commercial and intellectual world, what part they have taken in the affairs of the nation, the extent of their charities, their remarkable accumulation of wealth, and how they already control numerous branches of business, is shown in the following pages.

2 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK.

The expulsion of the Hebrews from Spain and Portugal, beginning in the year 1492, caused many to seek refuge in Holland. In 1624, the Dutch having secured a foothold in Brazil, numbers of Hebrews found their way to that country.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 3

The formation of the West India Company of Amsterdam in 1638, which had for its object the opening up of trade with Brazil, was followed by a large emigration of Hebrews to that country, 600 having left Amsterdam in the autumn of 1642 alone. Moses Raphael de Aguilar and Isaac Aboab accompanied the latter. Numerous congregations were organized in Brazil. While the Hebrews in Mexico, Lima and Carthagena were subjected to indignities similar to those experienced in the Old World, Brazil, Dr. Kayserling says, was the only portion of the New World where they were not burned at the stake. In the City of Mexico, according to the same authority, the celebration of the Passover, in 1554, had been marked by the erection of large tribunes and eighty unfortunate Judaizers died at the stake, amid festive music, the ringing of bells and the wild rejoicings of the populace. The restoration of Portuguese power in Brazil led to the removal of many of the Hebrews from that country, and in 1654 a party of twenty-seven men, women and children set sail from the port of Cape St. Ann, near Bahia, Brazil, on board the barque St. Catarina, commanded by Jaques De La Motthe, bound for New Amsterdam. The party included Abram De Lucena, David Israel, Moses Ambrasias, Abram De La Simon, Salvator D'Andrada, Joseph De Costa, David Fiera, Jacob Barsunson, Jacob C. Henrique, Isaac Mesa and Isaac Levy. On their arrival at their destination their baggage was seized and sold at public auction as payment for their passage. The amount thus realized was insufficient to defray the charges and Israel and Ambrasias were arrested and held as hostages until the full amount was liquidated.

The official record of this transaction shows that an

4 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

" extraordinary meeting of the Dutch magnates was convened at the City Hall on Wednesday, September 16, 1654, to consider Captain De La Motthe's complaint, at which were present : ' The Heeren,' Arent Van Hatten, M. Krigier, P. L. Van Dergrist, Peter Wolfertsen, Oloff Stevenson and Cornelius Van Trenhoven." The defendants are recorded as " David Israel and the other Jews." The session was held to consider " the ballance of the payment of the passage of the said Jews, for which each is bound in solidiim," and the minutes further read that " whereas, their goods sold thus far by residue do not amount to the payment of their obligation, it is therefore requested that one or two of the said Jews be taken as principal, which according to the aforesaid obligation cannot be refused. Therefore, he hath taken David Israel and Moses Ambrasias as principal debtors for the remaining ballance, with request that the same be placed in confinement until the account be paid. The Court having weighed the petition of the plaintiff and seen the obligation, wherein each is bound in solidum for the full payment, have consented to the plaintiff's request to place the aforesaid defendants under Civil arrest, namely, with the provost-marshal, until they shall have made satisfaction ; provided, that De La Motthe shall provisionally answer for the board, which is fixed at sixteen stivers per diem for each person, and it is ordered that for this purpose forty to fifty guilders proceeding from the goods sold shall remain in the hands of the Secretary, together with the expense of this special court. Done in New Amsterdam, New Netherland."

The arrival of the first Hebrew colony excited the wrath of Peter Stuyvesant, the Dutch Governor, who notified his Government of their presence and suggested that " none of the Jewish nation be permitted to infest New Netherland." The home authorities, however, took a different view of the matter and the testy Governor was informed that their proposed exclusion from New Amsterdam was " inconsistent with reason and justice." This decision is presumed to have been in a measure, owing to the fact that several Hebrews were directors of the West India Company. Incensed at Stuyvesant's unwarranted assumption of authority, an act was passed permitting the Hebrews to reside and trade in New Netherland, so long as they cared for the poor of their race.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 5

In 1655, D'Andrada having expressed a desire to purchase a house and lot, objection was raised as to the competency of Hebrews to hold real estate and his application to the Governor and Council was denied. During the same year, De Lucena applied for permission to prepare a burial ground for Hebrews. This too, was refused on the ground that there was " no need for it." The death of one of his co-religionists a few months later, caused a revocation of this decision.

It was also during the same year that Abram De La Simon was in the meshes of the law for a violation of the Sabbath. His offense being brought to the attention of the authorities, "The Heeren," Allart Anthon, Oloff Stevenson, Cornelius Van Trenhoven, Johannes Verbrugge, Johannes Nevius, Johannes de Peyster, Jacob Striker and Jan Vinge, proceeded on Monday, March first, to deliberate what punishment should be meted out to the offender. Here is the official entry of this episode :

Cornelius Von Trenhoven, in quality of Sheriff of this City, Plaintiff, vs. Abram De La Simon, a Jew, Defendant.

Plaintiff, rendering his demand in writing, says that the defendant hath kept his store open during the sermon and sold by retail, as proved by affidavit. Concluding, therefore, that he shall be deprived of his trade and condemned in a fine of six hundred guilders, and the charge having been read, and he, not understanding the same, it was ordered that copy tloereof, be given him to answer the same before next Court day.

6 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Stuyvesant appears, by Colonial records, to have been engaged in frequent correspondence with Amsterdam relative to the status of the Hebrew settlers, and was involved in numerous quarrels on their account. Jacob Barsunson and Asser Levy, for expressing an unwillingness to " stand guard," and a readiness to pay a fine in consideration of their exemption from military duty, were notified to depart at once. On August 28, 1654, eight months previous to this episode, Stuyvesant and his colleagues decided that " the captains and officers of the trainbands of this City, having asked the Director-General and Council, whether the Jewish people, who reside in this city, should also train and mount guard with the citizens' bands, this was taken into consideration and deliberated upon. First, the disgust and unwillingness of these trainbands to be associated with the aforesaid nation, and to be on guard with them in the same guard-house, and on the other side, that the said nation was not admitted of account among the citizens, as regards trainbands or common citizens' guards, neither in the illustrious city of Amsterdam, nor (to knowledge) in any city in the Netherland, but in order that the said nation may pay a tax, for their freedom in that respect, it is directed by the Director-General and Council, to prevent further discontent that the aforesaid nation shall, according to the usages of the renowned city of Amsterdam, remain exempt from the general training and guard duty, on condition that each male person over sixteen and under sixty years, contribute for the aforesaid freedom towards the relief of the general municipal tax, sixty-five stivers [equal to $1.20 gold] every month," Abram de Lucena and others, on November 29, 1655, wishing to extend their field of operations, addressed a petition to the "Honorable Worshipful Director-General and Council of New Netherland" for permission to trade in other directions. Their address "shows, with due reverence, Abraham de Lucena, Salvador D'Andrada and Jacob Coen, residing in this city, that under date of 15th of February, 1655, they petitioned through the honorable Lords Directors of the Incorporated West India Company, Masters and Patroons of this province, for permission and consent to travel, reside and trade like the other inhabitants and enjoy the same liberty. They request, therefore, respectfully, that your Noble Worships will not prevent or hinder them herein, but will allow and consent that they may with other inhabitants of this province, travel to and trade on the South River of New Netherland, at Fort Orange and other places situated within the jurisdiction of this Government of New Netherland." Stuyvesant's opinion was that "the petition is to be denied for weighty reasons." Nicasuss de Sille's decision was that he "did not like to act herein contrary to the orders of the Lords Directors, but that at present, as they have put on board ship goods for the South River, permission might be given them and further orders in answer to the Lords Directors should be awaited." One Lamon-tagne's, a third member of the Council, reply was, that "for weighty reasons the petition is denied." Cornelius Van Trenhoven believed that "to grant the petition of the Jews for permission to go to the South River at Fort Orange, although the Noble Lords Mayors had allowed this Nation to live and trade in New Netherland, is nevertheless very injurious to the community and population of this place, and therefore the petition must be denied for the coming winter, and ample report made thereon to the Lords Directors, to say also that for this time a young man of that nation may be allowed to go to the South River with some goods without establishing thereby a precedent."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 7

8 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Stuyvesant's persistent hostility led to the removal of many Hebrews to other localities, while the Directors at Amsterdam took occasion to remind him of the privileges they had accorded them and his refusal to comply. " We have observed with displeasure," was the language of one of these rebukes, " that, contrary to our concessions granted on July 15, 1655, to the Jews or Portuguese nation, you have forbidden them to trade to Fort Orange and to the South River, or to purchase real estate which is here allowed without any difficulty. The Jews or Portuguese nation are not, however, to be at liberty to exercise any handicraft or to keep any open retail store which they cannot do in this city, [Amsterdam]. But they shall pursue, peaceably and quietly, their commerce as aforesaid and be at liberty to exercise their religious worship within their houses." Thereupon, one Asser Levy, a former burgher in Amsterdam, and Salvator D'Andrada, made application for the rights of citizenship. The petition was denied, but the decision was subsequently reversed by the authorities in Amsterdam.

In 1665 the authorities levied an assessment upon each citizen, to be paid weekly, in order to quarter 100 soldiers. Asser Levy's contribution for that purpose was fixed at two florins. David Frere, a co-religionist, during the same year, was " charged with removing from the Baihff's house, contrary to express prohibition, a certain chest which was brought by order to the BaiHff's house, in order to obtain five beavers due him." The penalty imposed upon Frere was the confiscation of the beavers, a pubHc whipping at the stake and banishment, together with a fine of 800 guilders, with cost of suits and imprisonment until the fine was paid. Asser Levy, whose name frequently appears in the records of Colonial times, soon acquired, evidently with an eye to business, title to a house on " Hoogh Straat," the first house within the city gates, which had been for some time used as an inn, and was the resort of the country people entering the town from Long Island. These people he intercepted, no doubt with profitable results. There he lived for some years, his family removing to Long Island on his decease in 1682. That the credit system was in vogue in those days, and that Levy conducted his business upon that plan, is shown by the following transcript of the proceedings at a Court of " Schout and Burgomasters held September 11, 1673 :

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 9

Asser Levy appears as plaintiff against Edward Smith, defendant. Plaintiff demands from the defendant the sum of 125 florins, the balance of account for trusted goods. Defendant's wife appears in court, admits the debt, but requests a little delay, as her husband is on his return home. The worshipful Court orders that the goods now in the defendant's house shall be delivered into the hands of the plaintiff, so that they may not be diminished, and there remain until further orders from the Court.

In 1674 the name of Mary Jacobs appears in the list of property holders on Pearl Street, between Broad and Whitehall, the value of the property being estimated at $1,000. In 1664 the city boundary was defined by stockades in the vicinity of the present Wall Street, and among the inhabitants residing close by was one Henry Brazier, who from the names of his three sons, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, is presumed to have been a Hebrew, while Jacob Israel owned property on William Street, near the present Hanover Square.

10 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Little progress was made by the Hebrews remaining in New Amsterdam after the withdrawal of the Dutch in 1664, and numerous restrictions imposed by the English Governors checked their growth. In 1685 Saul Brown, subsequently a prominent merchant and minister of the synagogue, was not allowed to trade at retail. Two years before a provision was incorporated in the charter restricting its religious privileges to those "professing faith in God by Jesus Christ," and when, therefore, the Hebrews in 1685 petitioned for liberty to exercise their religion, answer was returned that "no public worship is tolerated by act of Assembly but to those that profess faith in Christ."

In 1695 a temporary synagogue was established in Beaver Street, near Broadway, and twenty families held regular services under the direction of Mr. Brown.

In 1703 we find enrolled among the inhabitants the names of Joseph Isaacs, with a household of "one female, four children, and four negroes," while Messrs. Solomons are credited with two females and two children to one household, and one female and two children to another.

Lord Bellamont at this time, appears to have entertained a high opinion of the judgment of one Simon Bonave, in one respect at least, for in transmitting a report to the Lords of Trade respecting the capture of a band of pirates near Boston, together with their booty, his Lordship encloses the deposition of "Bonave, a Jew," who "understanding Jewells well," he had employed for the purpose of appraising a lot which he admits he " at first sight thought were valued at i^10,000, but upon Bonave's inspection proved to be counterfeit."

The prosperous condition of some of the Hebrew colonists at this period is attested by a report of Lord Bellamont, who in October, 1700, advised the English Government that he had experienced much trouble in the method he had adopted of paying the soldiers' subsistence in money weekly." The merchants of the town, he complained, finding that they were forced to take money and draw bills on the agent in London, had combined together to " traverse him " all they could. At first they lowered the exchange of the money considerably, and what he claims was still worse " would advance no money whatever on his orders " so that " were it not for one Dutch merchant and two or three Jews that had lent me money I should have been undone."

In the early part of the Eighteenth Century Abram De Lucena and Louis Gomez were engaged in the shipping business with the West India Islands, and attracted attention by heavy exportation of wheat to Lisbon.

Abram De Lucena addressed a petition to Governor Hunter in 1710 for exemption from certain duties on account of his office in the synagogue. It read that " your petitioner's predecessors. Ministers of the Jewish nation, residing at the city of New York, by reason of their ministerial functions have from time to time been exempted by ye Government in New York from bearing any office, civil or military, within this city, but likewise been excused from several duties and services incumbent upon the inhabitants of this city. Wherefore your petitioner most humbly begs your

12 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Excellency's care of him (in consideration of his ministerial functions) that he may likewise be excused from all such offices, duties and services and be allowed the like privilege and advantage within this city as have formerly been granted to his said predecessors, his ministers aforesaid." The petition is endorsed, " Read in council, and referred to Capt. Walters and Mr. Mompessen to examine and make their report."

Moses Levy, recognizing the value of printer's ink, announces in the columns of the New York "Gazette" on Monday, April 14, 1726, that he wishes to dispose of " a house in the town of Rye, with about sixty or seventy acres of upland and about five acres of meadow, together with part of mansion, formerly belonging to John Heward and now to Moses Levy, in New York, or any part thereof, on reasonable terms to any person that has a mind to purchase the same." He adds that he may be found " over against the Post-office." In the same newspaper, in June, 1728, appears this advertisement :

Whereas, a scandalous report is spread abroad by some malicious persons that Asher Levy of London, merchant, is greatly indebted to sundry persons in this city, which report is entirely groundless. However, if any person has any just demand on the said Asher Levy the same shall be duly paid by Nathan Levy,

Whether the circulation of this malicious report in any wise affected the credit or standing of the advertiser does not transpire. At all events announcement is made, four months later, through the same medium, that " all persons that have had any dealings with Nathan Levy of this city, merchant, are desired to come and settle their accounts with him, he designing to depart this province in two months at farthest."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 13

Louis Gomez's queer occupation appears by the following advertisement, published March 3, 1729:

Louis Gomez Hath brought a Parcel of very fine Pier Glasses with fine brass arms. Gold framed, Japanned Walnut and Olive Frames. He is likewise in readiness to new Quicksilver and take the stain out of Old Looking Glasses, which will render them as good as ever. He also undertakes to square Diamond, cut and polish all looking glasses and converts them to the best use. All of which he performs at reasonable charge.

During the administration of Gov. Clinton, in 1749, a riot broke out in New York, which, according to the language used in the Governor's report to London, was directed "against a Jew and his wife," whose names are not given. These unfortunates, the Governor said, had but recently arrived from Holland, where they had lived in handsome style, "even to keeping their coach," but had been reduced by misfortune. A Mr. Delancey appears to have been the leader in the assault, and he with several others, " with their faces blackened, and otherwise disguised, smashed all the windows, broke open the door, tore everything to pieces." The outcome appears to have been more satisfactory to several members of the Bar than to the unfortunate Hebrew, for Gov. Clinton avers that "the Jew was advised to go to Mr. Murray, the Attorney, for his opinion, who took a fee, and advised him not to take up the case, as the persons concerned were related to the principal people of the town. Mr, Chambers advised the like and told him he would be ruined if he proceeded against them. Mr. Smith advised the same."

As showing the degree of affluence attained by some of the Hebrews of New York, one hundred and twenty years ago, it is interesting to read in a newspaper bearing date March 30, 1767, an announcement by Moses M. Hays, of a robbery committed at the house of Mrs. Rebecca Hays, where burglars secured, among othes articles, " a silver tankard, large silver punch bowl, sugar castor, round salts with feet, salver, tea-pot and pan, tea-tongs and tea-spoons, table-spoons, coffee-pot and pair of diamond earrings," for the recovery of which a reward of ;!^io was offered. In 1775 Solomon Simson owned two houses and lots in Oyster Bay, Long Island.

14 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Prior to the Revolution the New York Hebrews were already successful and wealthy merchants. Hayman Levy, owned most of the houses on Duke Street, now Beaver Street. His principal business was in furs, in which he traded largely with the Indians. A local historian claims that he not only was beloved by the Red man but was " actually worshipped by them." One of his advertisements in 1773 announces the fact that he "has on sale, black and white wampum, the best northern beaver, old coast beaver, raccoons, dressed martin skins and deer leather, both Indian dressed and in the hair." Two men who became eminent in the history of New York found employment with Mr. Levy when mere lads. One was John Jacob Astor, whose first experience in the fur trade was acquired while in Mr. Levy's house as a stripling. The other was Nicholas Low, the celebrated merchant, who served as Mr. Levy's clerk for some years and then embarked upon his mercantile career with one hogshead of rum purchased from his former employer, who encouraged and rendered him substantial assistance.

During the French and Indian War, Isaac Myers notified the citizens of New York of his intention of going to the seat of war in the capacity of Captain of " Battoe-Men," and extended an invitation to those who desired to enter that service under him, to report as soon as possible at his house, " at the Rising Sun." This period was doubtless one of activity and profit for Hayman Levy. That enterprising merchant, during his business career, kept his name constantly before the public by liberal advertising. His readiness to furnish supplies to the troops in war times is shown in the announcement of a large stock of " English shoes and pumps, for officers, English and New York shoes for soldiers, likewise camp equipage, such as tents of best Ravens duck, kettles, kanteens and tents, sufficient for twelve regiments." A competitor was found in Emanuel Abrahams, a dealer in Indian goods in Stone Street, and Maurice Josephson, a dealer in " Broadcloths, Threads, Bed Ticks and sundry other articles," whose store was at Slip Market. Judah Hays, who dealt in " Broadcloths, velvets, linens and sundry other goods, too tedious to mention," entertained his customers at the corner of Stone and Broad Streets. Samuel Judah's supply of goods was of a decidedly miscellaneous character, and consisted, according to his advertisement in the New York " Gazette," of " Callicoes, Chintz, Bombazeens, Sattins, Blunderbusses, Cannon balls. Regimental Shoe buckles and buttons, perfumery, etc." The result of the competition in those days, which was undoubtedly keen, and probably, at times, overstepped the limits of propriety, may be seen by an examination of the newspapers of the day, one of which, on September 5, 1756, published this notice signed by Solomon Hays:

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1$

There has been several scandalous Jews, trying to hurt my character and credit, as they have done already. This is, therefore, to give public notice that if any person will give me intelligence who they are and where they are, they shall have 100 Pistoles reward.

16 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

A few years later Moses Hays advertises " West India and New York Rum with Molasses " at his store near the Fly Market ; and Uriah Hendricks offers at his establishment in Broad Street, near the Exchange : " Pepper in bales, likewise the very best of Russia and Ravens duck, extreme cheap," and he further reminds the public that "a few tickets for the State Lottery are daily expected, and that schemes may be seen at aforesaid store."

Hayman Levy met with severe losses during the great fire of 1776, when most of his property was swept away. He died about 1790, and his wife (formerly a Miss Slowey) followed him a few years later. He was considered one of the most upright and enterprising merchants in New York during the last century.

The marriage of the Rev. Gershom M. Seixas, on November I, 1789, is thus publicly announced in the New York "Journal" of the following day: "Married yesterday, the Rev. Gershom Seixas to Miss Manuel, a lady endowed with every qualification necessary to render the connubial state happy."

Uriah Hendricks, whose name is so frequently mentioned in the early history of New York, was a native of Amsterdam, and reached New York early in the Eighteenth Century. He was prominently identified with Hebrew affairs and commercial enterprises, and died September 27, 1798. Aaron Hendricks, his father, died in 1771, and Esther, his wife, died in 1775. Harmon, son of Uriah and Esther Hendricks, was born in December, 1767, and on June 4, 1800, he married Frances, daughter of Joshua and Brandly Isaacs, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Mr. Seixas. Harmon Hendricks, in 1813, started the Soho copper rolling mills at Belleville, N. J., now known as the Belleville Copper Mills, and was engaged in the metal business with his brother-in-law, Solomon I. Isaacs, up to the time of his death in 1837. During the war of 1812, when Congress called for a loan of $16,000,000, Harmon Hendricks was a subscriber to the amount of $40,000. His three sons, Uriah, Montague and Henry, succeeded him. Their combined fortunes amounted to $3,000,000. Much of the wealth of the former generations was due to their ability to import largely of Chili ores on credits ranging from six months to one year. The old firm were likewise in close business relations with the great Boston house of Hemingway & Co. The present Hendricks firm engaged in the metal business, which is the most extensive in the country in that line, and the oldest Hebrew business concern in the United States in any branch, is composed of Joshua, Edmund, Francis and Harmon Washington, all sons of Uriah Hendricks, the second, who was the father of sixteen children. The surviving male descendant of Henry Hendricks is Dr. A. T. Hendricks, and of Montague Hendricks the living male descendants are Mortimer, Harmon, Albert and Charles. In the New York directory, a century ago, are found the names of Uriah Hendricks, ironmonger, No. 43 Hanover Street; A. Isaac, tailor, No. 3 Princess Street; Joshua Isaac, merchant, No. 8 Water Street; Benjamin Jacobs, merchant. No. 10 Duke Street; Lyon Jonas, furrier. No. 21 Broad Street; Raymon Levy, merchant, No. 7 Duke Street; Philip and Jacob Marks, merchants, No. 16 Dock Street, and Solomon Simpson, No. 31 Broad Street.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1/

The first Hebrew congregation in New York, and which was the first in this country, is known as Shearithk

1 8 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Israel (Remnant of Israel), and was organized in 1680, twenty-six years after the Hebrew colonists first reached Manhattan Island. The minutes of the congregation for the most remote period were recorded in 1728, and are written in Spanish and English. They are dated Tishri the 20th, 5489-1728. Prior to the erection of a regular synagogue, services took place in a frame building in Mill Street, about one hundred feet east of the lot on which the congregation built their first synagogue in 1729. The consecration of this building took place on the eve of the Seventh day of Pesach, or Passover, in 1730. The members of the congregation at this time were : Moses Gomez, Parnass ; Daniel Gomez, Adjunte ; Benjamin Mendez Pacheco, Abraham R. Riviera, Mordecai Gomez, Nathan Levy, Isaac D. Medena, Joseph Nunez, Dr. Nunez de Costa, Abraham Isaacs, Baruch Judah, Jacob Franks and Moses Gomez, Jr. Eleven years later the membership was increased by J. Myers Cohen, David Gomez, R. Rodriguez, Judah Hays, Judah Mears and Solomon Hays. It was resolved at this time that the management of the synagogue should be vested in the Parnass and two Hataniin. In 1741 the congregation determined upon the election of two Parnassin, one to serve from Rosh Hoshonah to Pesach, and one from Pesach to Rosh Hoshonah. This method continued in force for twenty years, when one Parnass, as originally existed, was again substituted until 1776 when Hayman Levy was requested to act in giving out the Metzvath in the synagogue. The records of the congregation covering the period of the Revolution are missing, but it is known that among the members who left for Philadelphia soon after the breaking out of hostilities were : Isaac Moses, Hayman

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 19

Levy, Benjamin Seixas, Simon Nathan, Moses Gomez, Jr., Solomon M. Cohen, Myer Cohen, Asher Myers, Eleazer Myers, Solomon Maruche, David Gomez, Jr., Matthias Gomez, Samuel Judah. The three last named died during their residence in Philadelphia. On the evacuation of New York by the British, in 1783, the refugees returned from Philadelphia, and at a meeting of the congregation called by Hayman Levy, the year following, these resolutions were adopted :

Whereas, Mr. Alexander Zunz, late Parnass of the Congregation, did on Saturday last resign his office publicly in the Synagogue, having only accepted that office until this place should be evacuated; therefore, be it resolved that Hayman Levy do act as Parnass until proper officers shall be elected, and that he exercise the same power as a Parnass formerly did according to the Constitution. Resolved, that an address be presented to his Excellency, Governor George Clinton, and that Messrs. Hayman Levy, Myer Myers and Isaac Moses sign and present the same in behalf of this Congregation.

At the same meeting Jacob Cohen was designated to officiate as Hazan until the return of the Rev. Mr. Seixas. The congregation continued to worship in the same building until 1817, when the synagogue was demolished and one of stone erected in its place. The dimensions of this were thirty-six by fifty-eight feet. The consecration took place on the eve of Shabat Hagadol, in 1818, the congregation worshipping in the interim in a room in an engine-house on Beaver Street next to Broad.

Disisoway, the author of "Earliest Churches in New York" says that his earliest impressions are scenes connected with this synagogue," the venerable Rabbi reading out of the Book of Law, his splendid robes of office, the long flowing beard,

20 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

the men with their silk scarfs, the females latticed in the gallery and the whole congregation chanting aloud in Hebrew, were sights and sounds to leave lasting remembrance upon the youthful mind.

During the prevalence of the yellow fever in 1822, service was performed in a school-house corner of Henry and Oliver Streets. In the spring of 1833, the property in Mill and Beaver Streets was sold, but the materials of the old synagogue having been reserved by the Trustees, were as far as possible, used in the erection of a place of worship in Crosby Street, which was consecrated on the eve of the first day of Shebuot 1833-1834. The congregation worshipped in the meanwhile in a large room fitted up for that purpose, over the New York Dispensary, corner of White and Centre Streets, which, without interruption, has ever since been used by various congregations as a temporary synagogue. In 1859 the synagogue was removed from Crosby Street to the present site on Nineteenth Street west of Fifth Avenue. The congregation by judicious investments in real estate has since been enabled to accumulate a capital sufficient to defray the support of the synagogue, and claims to be the wealthiest in the United States at the present day. The following are the names of the ministers of this Congregation as far as can be ascertained from the records : Abraham De Lucena, Benjamin Wolf, Moses Lopezde Fonseca, David Mendes Machado, Benjamin Pereira Mendes, Joseph Jessurun Pinto, Jacob Rafa Cohen, Gershom Mendes Seixas, E. Nunes Carvalho, Moses Levi Maduro Peixotto, Isaac Mendes Seixas, Jacques J. Lyons, Haim Pereira Mendes. Gershom M. Seixas was a Trustee of Columbia College for twenty-eight years.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 21

The first Hebrew burial ground in New York, as far as known, was on the corner of Madison and Over Streets, and was purchased in 1681. It stood on a high hill adjoining the ground acquired in 1729, which extended to Chatham Street, then known as the King's High Way. This was deeded in the year last named by Noe Willey of London, England, to his three sons, merchants in New York, to be used as a burial ground. The year following a trust was created providing that " the said land shall forever remain as a burial place for the Jewish nation and to no other use whatever." On its ceasing to be used for that purpose a quit-claim deed of it was extended to the Congregation Shearith Israel by Isaac Gomez, Jr. Interment having been prohibited by the Common Council, a portion of the ground that had not been used was sold. In November, 1829, a second cemetery was dedicated. This was on Eleventh Street, near Sixth Avenue, and interment here was discontinued in 1851 for similar reasons.

In 1800 Isaac Abraham, merchant, was at No. 66 Ann Street ; Isaac A. Abraham, tobacconist, 24 Water ; Jacob Hays, marshal, 51 Chambers; Moses Gomez, merchant, 64 Nassau ; Benjamin Gomez, book dealer and stationer, 97 Maiden Lane ; Moses Gomez & Co., auctioneers, 75 Wall ; Solomon Simpson, merchant, Greenwich Village; Isaac Moses & Sons, auctioneers, 63 Wall and 86 Pearl ; Joshua Isaacs, broker, 7 Gold ; Rev. Gershom Seixas, 20 Mill ; Asher D. Levy, merchant, 159 Greenwich; Simeon Levy, merchant, 2 Water; Simeon Nathan, 27 Water.

Half a century ago the Hebrew population of New York was about 2,000. Doctors Daniel Levy Maduro, Peixotto and Leo Wolf were the only Hebrew physicians, and Alexander Kursheedt and S. B. H. Judah the only practitioners at the bar. P. J. Joachimsen had but recently been admitted to the bar.

22 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Dr. Peixotto, whose father, in the early days of the present century, was Minister of the Congregation Shearith Israel, was born July 18, 1800, and graduated at Columbia College in 1816. Entering the office of Dr. David Hosack, who had been the physician of Washington, he profited greatly by his studies, and in 1819 received from his Alma Mater the degree of M. D. He passed some years in the West Indies and Caraccas, and during his stay practiced his profession. In 1823 he returned to New York and soon took rank among the leading physicians of the city. As a writer, Dr. Peixotto acquired fame by articles of acknowledged merit, and of considerable importance to the profession. In 1825-26, conjointly with Drs. Beck and Bell, he edited the New York " Medical and Physical Journal " and " Gregory's Practice." All subjects pertaining to medicine enchaind his thoughts and quickened his pen. He served as one of the physicians of the old City Dispensary in 1827, and as President of the New York Medical Society from 1830-32. He was also one of the projectors and organizers of the Society for Assisting the Widows and Orphans of Medical Men, and urged the establishment of a Medical Library. In 1836 he received the appointment, of Professor of Theory and Practice of Medicine and of Obstetrics, and was elected Honorary Member of the Medical Society of Lower Canada. In the same year he was called to the Presidency of the Willoughby Medical College and removed with his family to Cleveland, Ohio, occupying the position of Dean of the Faculty for several years, when he returned to New York and resumed his practice. Dr. Peixotto was gifted with high literary endowments and was a frequent contributor to the magazine literature and newspaper press of the day. An intimate friend of General Jackson, he advocated his election to the Presidency, editing the " True American " in his behalf. He was also for a time connected with the New York *' Mirror," when that journal was under the control of N. P. Willis and George P. Morris. Dr. Peixotto was an eminent linguist, writing and speaking no less than seven languages with equal fluency. He died in New York City, on May 13, 1843. He was the father of Consul Peixotto, a sketch of whose career is given on a later page.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 23

The annual ball, under the auspices of the Hebrew Benevolent Society, and other public social gatherings, were held in those days at the City Hotel on the west side of Broadway, between Liberty and Cedar Streets. Among the merchants during that period may be mentioned S. Lindo, a pioneer in the manufacture of copal varnish in the United States. Simon Content conducted a retail dry goods store on Grand Street near Ludlow. Moses Henriques lived in Carroll Place, Bleecker Street. Elias L. Phillips resided in Broadway near Ninth Street. Seixas Nathan, at one time a stock broker and afterward one of the Commissioners of Charities, lived in White Street ; Moses L. and Isaac Moses, extensive cotton brokers at this period, made their home in Chambers Street, then a fashionable neighborhood. Samuel N. Judah, son of Naphtali Judah, who had been one of the first presidents of the Mechanics' Bank, was engaged in the South American and Spanish trade, and resided in Broome Street. I. B. Kursheedt's home was in Houston Street at the corner of Wooster. Solomon J. Isaacs, a brother-in-law of Harmon Hendricks, resided just across the way.

24 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Chatham Street at that period was almost wholly devoted to the second-hand clothing and pawnbroking trade, though the business was by no means monopolized by Hebrews. Among those to be found in that celebrated avenue were Henry M. Silverman, whose clothing establishment stood near the present terminus of the Brooklyn Bridge. J. Hart, father of Henry Hart, President of the Third Avenue Railroad Company, was also engaged in the loan business, and in his establishment close by were developed some of those financial schemes which finally resulted in the building of that great street railway. Morrison & Levy, subsequently Morrison, Haber & Co., who were among the first manufacturers of clothing in New York, transacted a large business farther up the street, while just opposite was the clothing and pawnbroking establishment of Moses S. Pike, father of S. N. Pike. Another merchant close by was L. H. Simpson. He conducted a clothing business, but this he afterward discontinued to undertake the development of coal lands in Pennsylvania.

Hyam M. Salomon, son of the famous Haym Salomon of Philadelphia, the friend of Madison, Jefferson and other founders of the Republic, was a dealer in powder and shot. He occupied a store in Front Street. During the great fire of 1835, when every building for blocks around him was destroyed, his alone was saved. At the corner of Broad Street and Exchange Place stood the wine importing house of Tobias I. Tobias. On Lispenard Street, near what is now West Broadway, resided Bernard Hart, and nearly opposite lived Samuel Souza, a leading liquor dealer. Isaac Soria, who was one of the first to introduce the French dyeing and scouring method in this country, was located in Pearl Street. Old citizens will remember E. S. Lazarus, father of Moses Lazarus, and grandfather of the late Emma Lazarus, whose home was on Howard Street. Mr. Lazarus was for many years elected and re-elected assessor of the Fourteenth Ward. He was at one time President of the Congregation Shearith Israel, and was the translator of the Common Prayer-book of the Portuguese Jews, a peculiarity of which was his translation throughout the book of the word Jehovah as The Eternal Self-Existent. This book was first printed by Mr. Jackson, who subsequently published the very first penny paper in New York, called " The Sun."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 25

One branch of trade in which many New York Hebrews were engaged fifty years ago was the manufacture of sealing wax and quill pens. Not long afterward Emanuel Velleman introduced the manufacture of whalebones. Before concluding this account of some of the conspicuous characters of half a century back, mention should be made of Myer Levy, son of Jacob Levy, who was for a long time associated with the Joseph Brothers, bankers, and whose handsome face and manly figure gave him the sobriquet of "Adonis of Wall Street."

Asher Marx is remembered as one of the prominent merchants of former times, as is his son, Henry Carroll Marx, who was one of the swells of Old Gotham, and known as " Dandy" Marx because of his inordinate fondness for dress and exquisite taste. He spent a vast sum of money organizing a company of Hussars, and was a member of a hose company. When the fire-bell sounded an alarm " Dandy" Marx was the first on hand, frequently dragging " the machine" while attired in patent-leather shoes and white kid gloves. The name of " Dandy" Marx is enrolled in history as the originator of the waxed moustache.

26 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

At the time of the introduction of India-rubber clothing in this country, about 1848, a sensation was created in one of the synagogues by the appearance in the pulpit of the acting minister, clad in a long India-rubber coat and cape in lieu of the regulation silken robe. For some time afterwards the house of worship was known as the " India-rubber shule!"

Benjamin Morange arrived in New York about 1815- His distinguished services as Minister from France to Spain under Napoleon I. insured for him a hearty welcome, and he was one of the most respected and useful members of the Hebrew community. He became known in the course of time as the inventor of oil silk, in the manufacture of which he became extensively engaged. Henry H. Morange, the eminent lawyer of later years, was his son. One of his daughters, Galathe, married Solomon Menken, of Cincinnati; another, Cornelia, was the wife of Michael De Young, of Baltimore; Betsy, a third daughter, was the wife of Zadok A. Davis, the prominent author of a Masonic manual, while Eliza, a fourth daughter, married Charles Newman, the father of Lieutenant-Colonel Leopold C. Newman, who fell in the Civil War.

Mordecai M. Noah, of New York, in 1820, conceived the idea of founding a Hebrew colony on Grand Island, in Niagara River, with the object of attracting emigration from Eastern countries. The Albany "Gazette," commenting on the proposed scheme, said: "'Here they (the Hebrews) can have their Jerusalem without fearing the legions of Titus.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 2/

Here they can erect their temple without dreading the torches of frenzied soldiers. Here they can lay their heads on their pillows at night without fear of mobs, of bigotry and persecution. Here they can become citizens attached to the soil, defending the laws and interested in the protection of liberty." Mr. Noah's scheme, despite this and other endorsements, was abandoned after several years of agitation. On the site of the proposed colony, a monument was erected, inscribed, "Ararat, a city of Refuge for the Jews, founded by Mordecai M. Noah, in the month of TisJiri (September, 1825) and in the Fiftieth year of the American Independence."

In 1843, fifteen gentlemen formed a society, the object of which was expressed in the following words: "We can undertake no work more acceptable in the eyes of the God, and more advantageous for the spiritual welfare of our co-regionists, of our children and of our children's children, in this world and the next, than by striving to introduce an improved form of divine service, and thus to influence the religious and moral culture of the members of the Hebrew persuasion." In 1845 their numbers had increased to thirty-three, who called themselves Congregation Emanu-El, and divine service was held in a private dwelling, corner of Grand and Clinton Streets, with Rev. Dr. Ludwig[^] Merzbacher, as Rabbi and preacher, and G. M. Cohen, as reader. The Congregation then bought a church in Christie Street, which was occupied until 1852, when they removed to Twelfth Street, between Third and Fourth Avenues. Rev. Dr. Merzbacher died during his term of office. The Congregation Emanu-El, now on Fifth Avenue, is the oldest reform congregation in the United States. Over 500 pew and seat holders are among its members. During the great holidays it affords seating accommodation for 3,000 persons. The synagogue, which is the handsomest in the United States, cost $650,000, and, with the site, could not be replaced to-day for less than $1,000,000. At the first auction sale of seats, held immediately after the dedication, nineteen years ago, the amount realized was far in excess of the cost of the building and ground, a financial feat unparalleled in the history of any other religious edifice in the world. A Sunday-school with 400 scholars is attached to the Temple, and the congregation own the largest and most beautiful Hebrew cemetery on the continent.

28 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

High Constable Jacob Hays was one of the unique characters of New York many years ago. Born at Bedford, Westchester County, N. Y., in 1772, he came to the metropolis in 1798, and was appointed by Mayor Varick as one of the marshals of the city. Four years afterwards he was appointed by Mayor Livingston High Constable of the city, corresponding to the present office of Chief of Police. So faithfully were his duties performed that he occupied the position up to the time of his death in 1850, discharging for some years also the duties of Sergeant-at-Arms of the Board of Aldermen and Crier of the Court of Sessions. New York never had a more vigilant, industrious or efficient head of police. During his long public career of forty-eight years he slept, on an average, not more than six hours out of twenty-four. The cry of "Set old Hays on them!" always sufficed to quickly disperse the unruly element. In hunting down and bringing criminals to justice he had no equal. The first on hand at all signs of disturbance, the "Terror of Evil Doers" promptly restored order out of chaos by the magic of his presence. His fame as a detective was known all over the world. Fifteen years after his death the London police officials, unaware of his demise, addressed a letter to "High Constable Hays, New York," on important professional business. His picture for some years adorned the walls of the Governor's Room in New York. His personal appearance was striking, being about five feet six inches in height, weight about one hundred and eighty pounds, round face, dark complexion, penetrating eyes and an expression denoting intense sternness and vigilance. The High Constable was twice married, both wives being estimable ladies. He left six sons, as follows : Benjamin J.; Aaron B., for many years Cashier of the North River Bank ; Gilbert, who was for a long while connected with the New York Clearing House ; William H., President of the Bank of the State of New York and President of the Eighth and Ninth Avenue Railroad Companies ; Dewitt C, formerly Treasurer of the New York Stock Exchange and now President of the Manhattan Company's Bank ; and Jacob, formerly of the banking firm of Hays & Tompkins. Gilbert and De Witt C. alone survive. The Hays family were well known and ranked among the most prominent citizens, early in the Eighteenth Century, in the neighborhood of New York. They came from Holland, but the precise date of their arrival is a matter of conjecture. They settled in Westchester County. The earliest of these, of whom there is any positive knowledge, is David Hays, Sr. the father of David Hays, Jr., who kept a store at Oblong in Dutchess County, in the year 1759. The former's wife was Hetty or Esther Hays. Letters in her handwriting addressed to her son Michael, from New York, and dated early in the Eighteenth Century, refer to her daughter, Charity, then residing at Philadelphia. David and Hetty, or Esther Hays had also three sons besides David, Jr., whose names were Michael, Benjamin and Moses. David Hays, Jr., was born at New Rochelle, also in Westchester County. His store at Oblong was evidently discontinued shortly after 1759, for in 1771 he is described as a merchant at Bedford in Westchester County. The books kept in his store at the latter place and which are made of the stamped paper of the Colonies, shows that his business was an extensive one. David Hays, Jr., was a devout Israelite. He was also an ardent supporter of the Colonists in the struggle for Independence, and served in the Colonial army on Long Island, in retaliation for which the Tories burned his house and store. The patriot's family consisted of three sons : Benjamin E., Moses, a bachelor, and Jacob ; and five daughters : Rachel, Hannah, Esther, Charity and Abigail. Michael Hays, son of David Hays, Sr., already referred to, was a man of considerable business capacity and a large land-owner at Mount Pleasant in the town of North Castle, Westchester County. Prior to the Revolution he was one of the Commissioners appointed by the Crown to lay out lands in that portion of the County, as appears by an old volume printed in England, and formerly in the possession of the Hays family. The two sided with the Colonists during the war. In 1785 his large estate was increased by the purchase of a farm of 170 acres at Pleasantville for £¹/₂ 5s., the money being paid to Isaac Stoutenburg and Philip Van Courtlandt as Commissioners of Forfeiture for the State of New York.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 29

30 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

This tract had belonged to one Phillips, and was confiscated because of his loyalty to the British. Numerous other large tracts of land were acquired by Michael Hays, during his life-time, £26 being paid for one small piece as early as 1753- All of his property was left at his death (which occurred about 1786) to his brother David, great grandfather of Daniel P. Hays, now a prominent member of the New York Bar. David Hays took possession of this farm and resided there for many years. . He, too, was a devout Hebrew and one of the first seat-holders in the Mill Street synagogue of the Congregation Shearith Israel, at New York. He died October 18, 1812, and was buried in the old burying ground at Oliver and Chatham Streets. His large estate, including the farm, was devised to Benjamin E. Hays, who also engaged in farming throughout his life. " Uncle Ben," as he was known throughout the country, was the only Hebrew farmer in Westchester County in his day. He was strictly orthodox in his religious belief and adhered closely to all the forms and ceremonies observed by the most pious and devout of his race. In order to conform to the prescribed dietary laws he obtained a certificate, authorizing him to kill his own meat, as appears by the following verbatim copy of the document in possession of the family :

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 3 1

Mount Pleasant, N. Y., November 11, 1813.

I do certify that Benjamin Etten Hays is duly Qualified to Kill any Kind of Clean Beasts or Fowles according to Law, and that I have examined the said Benjamin Etten Hays, Finding that his Knowledge of the (Shaceta) of the (Cuts) and the (Badecan) for the searching, According to the Denim of them, is so much to my satisfaction that I do give him Leave to Kill, and that all the (House of Israel) may eat of his Killing and this is his (certificate) for the same, and that the same Benjamin Etten Hays has promised me that he will look over the said Denims and I whom give this Liberty have been myself examined by Jacob Abrams the (Shoath) of K. K. Shearith Israel in New York and Received a certificate from the said Jacob Abrams Declaring my qualification of the Denims of Shaceta and Badecan and leave to Kill according to them, therefore from this power I do give the same to Benjamin Etten Hays whom is an Israelite. I do give this under my hand and seal, Hesvan 27th, 5575. Jacob L. Solis.

32 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

This pious Hebrew, though living in a comparatively remote section and completely isolated from his co-religionists, observed the Mosaic law as strictly as though he lived in their midst, and enjoined upon his children a like observance. On his extensive farm he contented himself by going over the fields a single time in garnering the hay and the grain, their leavings, together with the fruit that fell to the ground, being left for the benefit of the poor, thus following out the Biblical injunction. " Uncle Ben " was universally loved and respected. An old Quaker once assured him that he was " the best Christian in Westchester County." He was also a man of generous impulses, and among his charities may be mentioned the donation of a piece of land to the Trustees of the School District, on which to build a school, the sole proviso being that the school should be free to all without discrimination. Benjamin E. Hays' incapacity for military service, owing to a double affliction, is attested by the following unique certificate, which also betrays some slight orthographical errors on the part of the mender of broken limbs and skulls :

This is ti certify That Benj. Etting Hays is not fit for Militay Duty on the account of having a Lamel Ankel and fracterd Cranium, whom it May Consfern this 19 day of June 1790.

Seth Miller, Surgen.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 33

The children of Benjamin E. Hays were : David, Michael, Benjamin, Jacob, Esther and Hannah. He lived to the age of eighty, David Hays, the first named, married Judith S., daughter of Dr. Daniel L. M. Peixotto, the famous New York physician.

NEWPORT.

Attracted by the tolerance of Roger Williams' settlement in Rhode Island, where freedom of faith and worship was guaranteed to all, many Hebrews, disheartened by Stuyvesants' illiberal treatment, made their way to Newport about 1657. These, were joined on August 24, 1694, by others from Curacoa, where two years previous to the settlement at New Amsterdam, a tract of land had been granted by the West India Company of Amsterdam to Joseph Nunez de Fonseca, Before the close of the Seventeenth Century, the Hebrew population of Newport was large and prosperous and included the following persons, the names being secured from a memorandum made by N. H. Gould, of Newport, at the request of Charles H. Marshall, of New York, and by the latter furnished to Hon. C. P. Daly, of New York: Samuel, Isaac and Judah Moses, soap boilers ; Moses and Jacob James, workers in brass ; Isaac Benjamin, Abraham Bezam, Isaac Moses, Jacob France, Jacob and Joseph Judah, Benjamin and Moses Myers, Naphtali Myers, Isaac and Nathan Lyon, David Salomon, Abraham Jacobs, Solomon Mendes, Solomon Cohen, Aaron Cohen, Isaac Cohen, Joseph Jacobs, Abraham Mendes ; Isaac Isaacs, money broker ; Aaron Myers, Joseph Jacobs, Abraham Mendez, Ueazer Eleazer^ Moses Isaacs and Isaac Eleazer.

34 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The terrible earthquake at Lisbon, in the year 1755, brought, additional emigrants to Newport. Their settlement in Rhode Island, however, is said to have been accidental, the vessel bearing them being driven by tempestuous weather into Narragansett Bay, while proceeding to some point on the Virginia coast. It was determined to land there, and thus reinforced by the new arrivals, the Newport colonists were soon in the enjoyment of remarkable prosperity and influence.

In 1750, Moses Lopez was excused from all other civil duties in recognition of his gratuitous services to the government in translating important Spanish documents. In 1753, he was granted by the General Assembly, a patent for the manufacture of potash. The inscription on his tombstone reads : " He was a gentleman in whom were united every moral and social virtue, which prepared his immortal part for the fruition of that glorious state, where the pious and virtuous receive the reward of their good actions." In 1761, Aaron Lopez, who reached Newport in 1750, and Isaac Elizar petitioned for the right of naturalization, which was denied, the following opinion being handed down from the bench :

"The petition of Messrs. Aaron Lopez and Isaac Elizar, persons professing the Jewish religion, praying that they may be naturalized on an act of Parliament, made in the thirteenth year of his late Majesty's reign, George II., having been duly-considered, and also the act of Parliament therein referred to, this Court was unanimously of the opinion that the said act of Parliament was wisely designed for increasing the number of inhabitants in the plantations, but this colony being already so full of people that many of His Majesty's good subjects, born within the same, have removed and settled in Nova Scotia and other places, cannot come within the intention of said act. Further, by the charter granted to this colony, it appears that the free and quiet enjoyment of the Christian religion and a desire of propagating the same, were the principal views with which the colony was settled, and by a law made and passed in the year 1663, no person who does not profess the Christian religion, can be admitted free of this colony, the Court, therefore, unanimously dismisses this petition as wholly inconsistent with the first principles upon which the colony was founded, and a law of the same now in force."

Arnold, the historian of Rhode Island, attributes this decision to party spirit, and expresses the opinion that it subverts an act of Parliament, violates the principle of the charter and enunciates principles never acted upon in the colony. Seventy-six years previous to this incident the Hebrews had received assurance from the Assembly that they might expect the same protection in Rhode Island as any other resident foreigners, being obedient to the laws. Of Aaron Lopez, one of the petitioners, it is said that no citizen of Newport was more respected or enterprising, his extensive business requiring a fleet of twenty-seven square-rigged vessels, including several whalers, and his operations extended as far as the Falkland Islands. The estimation in which he was held by the people of Newport is shown by a well-known writer, who says that he was "a man of immense probity and benevolence, and his charities were widely diffused. They were not confined to creed or sect, and the people of Newport have for more than half a century continued to venerate his memory." Aaron Lopez was drowned near

36 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Providence in 1782. His resting-place is marked by a stone bearing this inscription :

He was a merchant of eminence, of polite and amiable manners.

Hospitality, Liberality and Benevolence were his true characteristics.

An ornament and valuable Pillar to the Jewish Society, of which he was a member. His knowledge in commerce was unbounded and his Integrity irreproachable ; thus he lived and died, much regretted, esteemed and loved by all.

Jacob Rodrigues Riviera, father-in-law of Aaron Lopez, was another respected Newport merchant, who owned numerous manufactories of oil and spermaceti, he being the first man in this country to engage in the manufacture of the latter. His manufactories were on the island now known as Fort Walcott.

The flourishing condition of the Hebrew colony at Newport, and their rapid increase in numbers, were largely due to Mr. Riviera's influence. He came from Lisbon, bringing with him a large amount of gold, but was eventually a bankrupt. Despite his misfortune, he set industriously to work and recovered a portion of his losses, so that " on a certain day in a certain week, which according to his faith was devoted to works of righteousness and of charity, every creditor received the whole amount of his debt, both principal and interest," and at the time of his death he was worth $120,000. These words upon his monument in the old cemetery record his virtues :

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 37

If to profess and patronize the principles of Judaism — to observe the strictest integrity in extensive commerce and to exhibit unbounded benevolence for all mankind, can secure to the spontaneous and invariable practiser of these virtues, eternal bliss.

Jacob Rods Riviera, whose mortal frame is deposited beneath this marble, must, consonant to the ardent hopes of all who knew him, be in full possession of that superlative happiness.

He lived beloved and died lamented the 23d Sebat A. M.

5549, corresponding with 18th Feby. A.D. 1789,

Aged 72.

A glimpse of social life among the Hebrew colonists is offered but rarely. One of these instances is presented in the year 1761, when a Hebrew club was organized at Newport. It was limited to a membership of nine, who at this time were : Moses Lopez, Isaac Pollock, Jacob Isaacs, Abraham Sarzedas, Moses Levy, Issachar Pollock, Naphtali Hart, Naphtali Hart Jr., and Jacob Rodriguez Riviera. The by-laws provided that the club should meet every Wednesday evening during the winter months. A chairman was elected to serve each month. Each member was permitted to invite his friends to the club, "one at a time only." The hours for meeting were 5 to 10 P. M., and from 5 to 8 each member was at liberty "to divert at cards." An offer to play for more than twenty shillings at whist, picquet or any other game was a violation of the established regulations, and subjected the offender to the payment of the value of four bottles of good wine for the use and benefit of the club. Supper was served at 8 o'clock and the playing of cards or other games after this repast was interdicted. Should any member after the supper hour have a motion to make in relation to the club he was required to "wait until the chairman had drank some loyal toast," Conversation at the club regarding synagogue affairs was also prohibited under penalty of payment of the value of four bottles of good wine, and cursing, swearing or other objectionable conduct could only be indulged in on payment of a like fine.

38 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

In 1763, when the Hebrews numbered sixty families, a synagogue was erected a short distance from the cemetery, the congregation styling themselves Yeshuath Israel. The building was of brick, square in form and stood on a plateau in a street known by the name of Touro. Over three hundred worshippers attended the synagogue before the Revolution, when the Hebrew population at one period numbered nearly eleven hundred souls. From 1790 to 1850, a period of sixty years, the doors of the synagogue were closed, and no service was held until Rev. Dr. M. J. Raphall, of New York, in the year last named, delivered a discourse. This venerable edifice, which stands but a short distance from the State House, is built in old-fashioned style. It is lighted by seventeen windows on the front and sides, and fine chandeliers are suspended from the ceilings.

The author of " Channing's Recollections of Newport," describing its appearance at the beginning of the century, writes : " Gradually the impressive service subsided and finally died out, and then the building was left to the bats and moles and to the invasion through its porch and windows of boys who took great pleasure in examining the furniture scattered about. I had often been apprised of a suspended lamp over the altar, the light of which had never been extinguished. This legend excited my curiosity, and one day, upon going into the lofty gallery, I espied it and expected to see the flame which had been first kindled at Jerusalem issuing from the socket, but my childish hope was destined to be foiled. It was not until the death of the Touros, long after I had left Newport, that their valuable gifts appropriated for the repair of the synagogue, of the street in front of it and of the cemetery, effected an entire change in the external aspects of those sacred relics."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 39

Rev. Isaac Touro, minister of the congregation, came from Jamaica, and married a daughter of Michael Moses Hays, a leading Boston merchant. On the breaking out of the Revolution he returned to Jamaica, where he died in 1783, his widow surviving him but four years. In the Newport cemetery has been erected a monument bearing this inscription :

In memory of the

Rev. Isaac Touro,

The able and faithful minister of the Congregation

Yeshuath Israel,

in Newport, R. I.,

who departed this life

on the 14th of Tebet A. M. 5544, and December 8th MDCCLXXXIII,

At Kingston, Jamaica,

Where his remains lie buried

^ 46 years.

The memory of the Just is blessed.

Rebecca, the daughter of Isaac Touro, and wife of Joshua Lopez, died in the City of New York in 1833. Abraham Touro, a son, died in Boston in 1822. They and their brother Judah were reared and educated by their mother's brother at Boston.

40 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

In 1769, the commerce of Newport, both foreign and domestic, exceeded that of New York, and up to the Revolution the Hebrew colony enjoyed a period of remarkable prosperity. As their forefathers had been compelled to flee from Spain to more tolerant countries in Europe many years before, and later generations had been denied even a foothold in Portugal by the upheaval at Lisbon, so now the refugees and their families, warned by the opening of hostilities at Lexington, and the appearance of a British fleet in Newport harbor, hastened to escape the ravages of war, and from their departure dates the decline of Newport's commercial supremacy. Moses Hays left for Boston ; Isaac Touro, with his wife and children, returned to Jamaica ; Rabbis Cohen and Seixas, left for New York and Richmond, Va. Moses Lopez, a distinguished mathematician and nephew of Aaron Lopez, was the last to leave, and removed to New York. Joseph Lopez was one of the few to return after the Revolution. The town records show that among those dwelling at Newport, during a portion of the Revolutionary period, were Hiram Levy and family of five, and Moses Seixas and family of five, both of whom resided on " Jew Street," now Bellevue Avenue, and Moses Levy and family of four, living on East GrifTen, now Elizabeth Street. Peterson's History of Rhode Island, says that the Hebrews, before their dispersion, occupied residences on what was later on known as the Mall, " which was covered with them." Most of these were finally destroyed by fire, while that of Mr. Levy became the property of Commodore Perry. In 1792, Abraham R. Riviera was a member of the Newport Artillery Company. Moses Isaacks, was one of the early Newport settlers, and married Rachel Mears, a lineal descendant of the Spanish refugees. He sided with the Colonies during the Revolutionary War, and had the honor of entertaining ,Gen. Washington at his house, during that period. His eldest son, Abraham, married a sister of Sampson Simson, of New York.

Washington's visit to Newport in August, 1790, evoked the following letter, signed by Moses Seixas on behalf of the congregation :

Sir : Permit the children of the stock of Abraham to approach you with the most cordial affection and esteem for your person and merit, and to join with our fellow-citizens in welcoming you to Newport.

With pleasure we reflect upon those days of difficulty and danger when the God of Israel, who delivered David from the peril of the sword, shielded your head in the day of battle ; and we rejoice to think that the same spirit which rested in the bosom of the greatly beloved Daniel, enabling him to preside over the provinces of the Babylonian Empire, rests and ever will rest upon you, enabling you to discharge the arduous duties of the Chief Magistrate of these States.

Deprived, as we have hitherto been, of invaluable^ rights of free citizens, we now – with a deep sense of gratitude to the Almighty Disposer of all events – behold a government erected by the majesty of the people, a government which gives no sanction to bigotry and no assistance to persecution, but generously affording to all liberty of conscience and immunities of citizenship, deeming every one, of whatever nation, tongue or language, equal parts of the great governmental machine. This so ample and extensive Federal Union, whose base is philanthropy, mutual confidence and public virtue, we can not but acknowledge to be the work of the great God, who rules the armies of the heavens and among the inhabitants of the earth, doing whatever seemeth to him good.

For all the blessings of civil and religious liberty which we enjoy

42 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

under an equal and benign administration, we desire to send up thanks to the Ancient of days, the great Preserver of men, beseeching him that the angel who conducted our forefathers through the wilderness into the promised land may graciously conduct you through all the difficulties and dangers of this mortal life ; and when, like Joshua, full of days and full of honors, you are gathered to your fathers, may you be admitted into the heavenly paradise to partake of the water of life and the tree of immortality.

To which Washington replied as follows :

While I have received with much satisfaction your address, replete with expressions of esteem, I rejoice in the opportunity of assuring you that I shall always retain a grateful remembrance of the cordial welcome I experienced in my visit to Newport from all classes of citizens. The reflection on the days of difficulty and danger, which are passed, is rendered the more sweet from the consciousness that they are succeeded by days of uncommon prosperity and security. If we have the wisdom to make the best use of the advantage with which we are now favored, we cannot fail under the just administration of a good government to become a great and happy people. The citizens of the United States of America have the right to applaud themselves for having given to mankind examples of an enlarged and liberal policy worthy of imitation. All possess a like liberty of conscience and immunities of citizenship. It is now no more that toleration is spoken of as if it were b}- the indulgence of one class of people that another enjoyed the exercise of their inherent natural rights, for happily the Government of the United States, which gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance, requires only that they who live under its protection should demean themselves as good citizens in giving it on all occasions their effectual support. It would be inconsistent with the frankness of my character not to avow that I am pleased with your favorable opinion of my administration and fervent wishes for my felicity. May the children of the stock of Abraham who dwell in this land continue to merit and enjoy the good will of the other inhabitants, while every one shall sit in safety under his own vine and fig-tree and there shall be none to make them afraid. May the Father of all mercies scatter light and not darkness in our paths and make us all in our several vocations useful here and, in His own due time and way, Everlastingly happy.

THE HEBREWS IN" AMERICA. 43

In 1677 the growing population demanded the laying out of a cemetery which according to the records in the Town Clerk's office was thirty feet square. The cemetery, which was acquired in 1677 from Nathaniel Dickens by Moses Pacheco and Mordecai Campanal, is thus described in the deed : " A piece of land thirty feet long, resting southwest upon the highway that leads from ye Stone Mill towards Benjamin Griffin's land, and thirty foot upon the line cutting southeast upon John Easton's land, and thirty foot upon the land northwest, cutting upon a slip of land which the said Nathaniel Dickens hath yet remaining between this piece of land now sold and the land belonging unto Benjamin Griffins, and the line northeast butting also upon Nathaniel Dickens, his land to be in length forty foot. Sold unto ye said Jews and their heirs and assigns and successors for them to possess and enjoy for the use abovesaid forever." In 1820 Abraham Touro, of Boston, erected a brick wall around the cemetery, which had fallen into decay, and in 1842 Judah Touro, his brother, expended the sum of $12,000 in further improvements, bequeathing upon his death the sum of $20,000 to the city of Newport, the interest of which is annually expended in keeping the grounds in perpetual repair. Over the massive and imposing stone entrance to the cemetery is an inscription, reading : " Erected 5603, from a bequest made by Abraham Touro."

Among the monuments in the cemetery are the following:
that of Mrs. Phila, relict of Marcus Elkan, of Richmond, Va., who died in 1820; Catharine Hays, of Boston, who died at Richmond, Va., in 1854; Stowey, daughter of Moses M. and Rachel Hays, who died in Richmond, Va., in 1836; Moses Lopez, of Portugal, who died in 1830, aged eighty-six ; Moses Seixas, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the Masonic Order of the State and Cashier of the Bank of Rhode Island ; Abraham Minis, of Savannah, Ga., who " fell a victim in the bloom of life to the accidental fracture of a leg," in 1801 ; Isaac Mendes Seixas, of New York, who died in 1780 ; Isaac, the son of Rabbi Meyer Polak. The oldest of all the inscriptions is that on the monument of Rachel Rodriquez, and reads as follows :

44 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Here lieth the body of ye virtuous Mrs. Rachel Rodriquez Rivera, who departed this life on Saturday, the 8th of Veadar, 5521, which corresponds to ye 14th of March, 1761.

May her blessed soul enjoy eternal happiness. Amen.

• States sui 77.

The next oldest monument is that of the wife of Aaron Lopez and bears the following inscription in Latin :

Whatever remains after death of Abigail Lopez, is here.

She was distinguished for virtue and lively charity,

A faithful wife and companion.

The tenderest of parents, died 21 St lyar.

In the year of the world 5522, which is the 14th day of May, 1762, of the Vulgar era.

Her age, 36.

In recording the story of the earlier Hebrew settlers at Newport, historians have frequently indulged in eulogistic comments upon their integrity, enterprise, thrift and liberality. The sources from which these pleasing comments have emanated have been in almost all cases Christian writers. For many years the character of these people has been regarded by the citizens of Rhode Island as a model worthy of imitation. In 1847, the Hon. William Hunter, LL.D., in a public address delivered at Newport, declared that after a very close examination of the records of the Courts of Justice, he had failed to discover a single indictment; neither does tradition indicate an accusation of reproach against any of the race.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA, 45

SAVANNAH.

Scarcely had Oglethorpe founded the colony in Georgia, in 1733, when, on July 7th of that year, a party of forty Hebrews sailed up the Savannah river on a vessel direct from London and proceeded to make themselves at home in the midst of their predecessors. Their names were Benjamin Sheftall, Perlah Sheftall, his wife; D. Minis and Mrs. Minis, his mother; Daniel and Moses Minis, Shem their son; Raphael Barnal and wife; David Olivera, Jacob Olivera and wife; David, Isaac and Leah, their children; Aaron Depena, Benjamin Gideon, Jacob Crosta, David Lopez De Pass and wife, Mr. Veneral, Mr. Molena, David and Jacob Moranda, David Cohen and wife, Isaac, their son, and Abigail, Hannah and Grace, their daughters, Abraham Minis and wife, and Leah and Esther, their daughters; Simon Minis, Jacob Yowell and Abraham De Lyon. The memorandum from which these names were secured was originally kept in Hebrew by Benjamin Sheftall, and at the request of his sons translated into English. From it we learn that the "emigrants were in nowise dependent on the British crown for one dollar to facilitate their emigration." The captain of the ship bringing them was Beverly Robinson, and the vessel, whose name is not obtainable, encountered boisterous weather on the voyage from London. It was almost wrecked off the North Carolina coast and compelled to seek harbor at New Inlet, where it remained for some weeks. This ship was the second to leave London for Savannah. The Hebrew emigrants brought with them a Safer Tora with two cloaks and a Circumcision box, both the gift of a Mr. Lindo, of London, and also the Hechal.

Though Oglethorpe's charter guaranteed freedom of religious opinion and observance to all save Papists, the unexpected presence of these Hebrews caused a flutter among the colonists which finally extended to London, and was for months the subject of bitter controversy. The colonists had come to the New World with money collected under a commission appointed by trustees under Oglethorpe's charter, contrary to regulations, which prescribed that colonization should be undertaken only by means of funds furnished through the Bank of England. The trustees thereupon informed Oglethorpe of the concern caused in London by their arrival at Savannah, and expressed the hope that they would meet with no encouragement. Meanwhile, Oglethorpe, who had conceived a liking for the new comers, had written to England eulogizing their good conduct, and especially commending one Dr. Nunes. To this reply was made that Dr. Nunes should be properly compensated for his services, but it was urged that the granting of land in the province to any of the Hebrews be withheld. The breeze raised in London on account of their presence in Georgia was undoubtedly caused by the violation of positive instructions by the Com-- missioners rather than special hostility to the people of the ancient faith. The men composing this commission were Thomas Frederick, Anthony de Costa, Francis Salvador and Alvaro Lopez Suaro. For their high-handed action the trustees demanded the return of their commissions, and decided that inasmuch as " certain Jews have been sent to Georgia, contrary to the intentions of the Trustees, and which may be of ill consequences to the colony, the Trustees do hereby require of said persons to immediately re-deliver to Mr. Martyn, their secretary, the said commission, and to render an account in writing to the Trustees of what money has been raised by virtue thereof, and if they refuse to comply with this demand that then the Trustees will think themselves obliged not only to advertise to the world of the demand and refusal of the said persons to deliver the commission and accounts, and of the misapplication before mentioned, in order to prevent any further impositions on His Majesty's subjects under pretence of an authority granted by these vacated commissions, and likewise to recover those commissions and demand an account of money collected in such a manner as their council may advise."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 47

Some months later an entry of the proceedings of the Trustees shows that an unsatisfactory reply had been received from the Commissioners, coupled with the statement that " as they cannot conceive but the settling of the Jews in Georgia will be prejudicial to the colony, and as some have been sent without the knowledge of the Trustees, the Trustees do likewise require that the said persons, or whoever else may have been concerned in sending them over, to use their utmost endeavors that the said Jews be removed from the colony of Georgia, as the best and only satisfaction that they can give to the Trustees for such an indignity offered to gentlemen acting under his Majesty's charter."

48 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA,

After repeated protests against their presence, on the ground that they were " prejudicial to the trade and welfare of the colony," the Hebrews were permitted to remain unmolested. One of the first movements by the colonists was the erection of a synagogue. "In this temporary house of God," says the historian Stevens, " divine service was regularly performed, and the great I AM was worshipped in the same language in which Abraham, Isaac and Jacob prayed, which was heard on Sinai and in the gorgeous Temple of Solomon, in which inspired men of God poured forth their sublime and far-seeing professions. They were not able to employ a regular Hazari, but the Avorship was conducted by the voluntary services of the brethren, who, even in the pine forests of Georgia, did not forget the God of their fathers or to lift up their voices in prayer, with their faces turned to the East." The same authority states that " while the Trustees of the colony were expending large sums for subsisting many slothful and discontented emigrants, whose idleness weakened and whose factions almost ruined the scheme of benevolence, these descendants of the father of the faithful, asking for no charity, clamorous for no peculiar privileges, demanding from the Trustees nothing but the freehold which their money purchased ; proved their worth by services of real value and by offices of tried devotion."

While none of the Georgia colonists attained great prominence, they numbered among them several men of enterprise and intelligence, the most learned being Dr. Nunes, whose services were early recognized and rewarded, and Abram De Lyon, who stood high as a horticulturist.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 49

Isaac, son of Abraham Minis, was the first white male child born in Savannah. His oldest descendant now living is Abraham Minis, a merchant of Savannah. Benjamin Sheftall was a merchant who was known for his decided anti-slavery views, and was the originator and founder of the Union Society, an organization for the care and education of orphan boys, which is still in existence. Mordecai, son of Benjamin Sheftall, was born in Savannah, December 13, 1735. During the Revolutionary War he was Deputy Commissary General of the Georgia Brigade, while his son, Sheftall Sheftall, born in Savannah, September 8, 1762, was appointed Assistant Deputy under his father at the early age of fourteen. When the British took possession of Savannah, on December 29, 1778, Mordecai Sheftall, with his son Sheftall, endeavored to make his escape, but was compelled to surrender by a body of Highlanders. He was taken to the guard-house, where the officer in charge was instructed to guard him well as he was " a great rebel." There he was confined with a number of soldiers and negroes without a morsel to eat until a Hessian officer named Zeltman, finding he could talk his language, removed him to his quarters and permitted him to communicate with his wife and son. In an interesting narrative, published many years ago, Mr. Sheftall states that he was treated with abuse by Captain Stanhope of the " Raven " sloop-of-war and he and his son were ordered on board the prison ship.

The names of Mordecai Sheftall " Chairman Rebel Provisional Committee," Phillip Jacob Cohen, " shop-keeper," and Sheftall Sheftall, " Rebel officer," are enrolled among those selected as coming under the Disqualifying Act of July, 1780, which rendered them incapable of holding or exercising any office of trust, honor or profit in the Province of Georgia. About the year 1800 Mordecai Sheftall was a magistrate of Savannah. The name of Abraham Seixas also appears on the roll of officers in the Continental Line of the Georgia Brigade during the Revolution, with the rank of lieutenant. Moses, son of Mordecai Sheftall, was born in Savannah, October 12, 1769. He was a physician of note, and for many years a member of the Legislature. The ecclesiastical returns sent to London by the Rev. Mr. Frink, in 1771, thirty years after the arrival of the first Hebrews, gives thdr population in Savannah at that time as forty-nine. It appears that many of theni during the intervening period, had left for Charleston, which accounts for their slow progress in numbers at that time. A. large number of them went to Philadelphia also.

50 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Religious service by the Hebrews in Savannah was first held in a house in " Market Square," the same place being used until 1740-41. A second place of worship was then fitted up in the residence of Mordecai Sheftall, and here the Hebrew colonists held divine worship for many years. In 1773, Mordecai Sheftall deeded a piece of land for the purpose of erecting a synagogue, the trustees being Abraham Hart and Joseph Gomperts, of London, Samson Simson and Joseph Simson, of New York, Isaac Hart and Jacob Riviera, of Newport, and Philip Minis and Levi Sheftall, of Savannah, In 1786, the re-establishment of the congregation was determined upon and for that purpose a house was rented in what is known as " St. James' Square.'" A charter was granted the same year, with Levi Sheftall, Sheftall Sheftall, Gushman Pollock, Joseph Abrahams, Mordecai Sheftall, Abraham De Pass and Emanuel De La Motta, named as Trustees. This' building was occupied for many years when the congregation was again disbanded.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 5 1

The congregation having sent a congratulatory lette.r to Washington on his accession to the Presidency, the following reply was returned in the month of May, 1790:

I thank you with great sincerity for your congratulations on my appointment which I have the honor to hold by the unanimous choice of my fellow-citizens, and especially for the expressions which you are pleased to use in testifying the confidence that is reposed in me by your congregation. As the delay which has naturally intervened between my election and your address has afforded opportunity for appreciating the merits of the Federal Government, and for communicating your sentiments of its administration, I have rather to express my satisfaction than regret at a circumstance which demonstrates (upon experiment) your attachment to the former as well as approbation of the latter. I rejoice that a spirit of liberality and philanthropy is much more profound than it formerly was among the enlightened nations of the earth, and that your brethren will benefit thereby in proportion as it shall become still more extensive. Happily, the people of the United States of America have, in many instances, exhibited examples worthy of imitation, the salutary effect of which will doubtless extend much farther if, gratefully enjoying those blessings of Peace, which, under the favor of Heaven, will have been obtained by fortitude in war, they shall conduct themselves with reverence to the Deity who charitably directs their fellow-creatures. May the same wondering Deity who long since delivered the Hebrews from their Egyptian oppressors and planted them in the promised land, whose providential agency has been conspicuous in establishing these United States as an independent nation, still continue to water them with the dews of Heaven and make the inhabitants of every denomination participate in the temporal and spiritual blessings of that people whose God is Jehovah.

Moses Sheftall was active in securing funds for reviving the synagogue, and liberal subscriptions were made for that purpose both by Hebrews and Christians. The consecration of the synagogue, which took place in 1820, was an important event in the history of the city. The discourse was delivered by Dr. Jacob De La Motta, who officiated for several years without compensation. In acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the discourse transmitted by Dr. De La Motta, the author of the Declaration of Independence wrote as follows :

52 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Th. Jefferson returns his thanks to Dr. De La Motta for the eloquent discourse on the Consecration of the Synagogue of Savannah, . which he has been so kind as to send him. It excites in him the gratifying reflection that his own country has been the first to give to the world the truths, the most salutary to human society, that man can govern himself and that religious freedom is the most effectual antidote against religious dissension ; the maxim of civil government being reversed in that of religion where its true form is " divided we stand, united we fall." He is happy in the restoration of the Jews, particularly to their social rights, and hopes they will be seen taking their seats on the benches of science as preparatory to their doing the same at the board of Government. He salutes Dr. De La Motta with sentiments of great respect.

James Madison, who was likewise favored with a copy of Dr. De La Motta's discourse, took occasion to observe in a letter of reply:

It is particularly pleasing to observe in the good citizenship of such as have been most distrusted and oppressed elsewhere, a happy illustration of the safety and success of this experiment of a just and benignant policy. Equal laws, protecting equal rights, are found as they ought to be presumed, the best guarantee of loyalty and love of country as well as best calculated to cherish that mutual respect and good will among citizens of every religious denomination, which are necessary to social harmony and most favorable to the advancement of truth. The account you give of the Jews of your congregation brings them fully within the scope of these observations.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 53

CHARLESTON.

On the day following the Jewish, new year, 1750, the first Hebrew congregation was formed in Charleston, S. C. At this, time the Hebrew population of the city was composed of Moses Cohen, Isaac DeCosta, Joseph Tobias, Meshon Tobias, Moses Prinenta, David de Olivera, Abraham DeCosta, Mordecai Sheftall, Levy Sheftall, Michael Lazarus and Abraham N, Cardoza. Moses Cohen was elected Chief Rabbi of this congregation, Isaac De Costa, Minister, and Joseph Tobias, President. A small wooden house in Union Street was occupied as a synagogue which was known as Kahal KadosJi Beth-Elohim - " Holy Congregation of the House of Israel." Eighteen persons chosen by ballot, were vested with the government of the congregation. The members likewise formed a benevolent association under the name of the Hebrew Benevolent Society, which still exists. After several changes, the congregation in 1780, purchased a lot and brick building which had been used as a cotton-gin manufactory, for 310 guineas. In 1790, Jacob Cohen, President of the congregation, addressed a lengthy congratulatory letter to Washington on his elevation to the Presidency, in which he said :

When laudable ambition had nothing more to tempt you with; when fame had wearied itself in trumpeting your renown ; yielding to the disinterested impulses of uniform protestations, and the urgent invocations of your fellow-citizens, you quitted your peaceful and pleasurable mansion to involve yourself in the cares and fatigues which now throng on you ; and you have shown yourself as eminently qualified to preside at the helm of government, as at the head of armies. While historians of this and every age shall vie with each other in doing justice to your character, and in adorning their pages with the splendor of your endowments, and of your patriotic and noble achievements ; and while they cull and combine the various good and shining qualities of the Pagan and modern heroes, to display your character, we, and our posterity, will not cease to chronicle and commemorate you, with Moses, Joshua, Othniel, Gideon, Samuel, David, Maccabeus, and other holy men of old, who were raised up by God for the deliverance of our nation. His people, from their oppression. May the Great Being, our universal Lord, continue propitious to you and to the United States ; perfect and give increase and duration of prosperity to the great empire of which He has made you so instrumental in producing. May He grant you health to preside over the same, until He shall, after length of days, call you to eternal felicity, which will be the reward of your virtues in the next, as lasthig glory must be in this world.

54 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The original of Washington's reply, having been destroyed in the fire of 1838, no copy can be obtained. In 1791, the congregation numbered fifty-three families, and the Legislature granted an act of incorporation. The year, following, land was acquired from the heirs of Nicholas Trott, formerly Chief Justice of the Province, for the purpose of erecting a more commodious house of worship. The sum of $20,000 was contributed for this purpose and the corner-stone of the synagogue was laid by the Masonic fraternity. The ceremonies were thus described by Nathaniel Levin, the present Secretary of the congregation :

Friday, the 14th day of September, 1793, was the day appointed for the ceremony of laying the corner-stones of the sacred edifice. On that day the congregation assembled in the " Old Synagogue," and after divine service proceeded in procession to the spot where the new building was to be erected. Eight marble stones were laid; one at each corner of the building, and one at each corner of the porch. Each stone bore the name of the person laying it, also the date and an inscription in Hebrew and English. The first stone was placed in the East by Mr. Israel Joseph, and the second in the West by Mr. Philip Hart. These two gentlemen having contributed very generously to the building fund the congregation awarded them this honor. The privilege of laying the other six was disposed of at auction, privately and was secured by the following gentlemen at the annexed prices ; Mr. Lyon Moses, the third, at ^15 ; Mr. Isaac Moses, the fourth, for ^13 ; Mr. Emanuel Abrahams, the fifth, for ;;^i8 ; Mr. Mark Tongues, the sixth, for ^9 6s. ; Mr. Hart Moses, the seventh, for ^2> ids., and Mr. Abraham Moses, Sr. , the eighth, for ;f?> 7s. The committee of arrangements having charge of the ceremony, in their report to the Vestry speak in glowing terms of its having been " conducted by the rules and regulations of the ancient and honorable fraternity of Freemasons."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 55

The building was completed in 1794 and the consecration took place in September of that year. Governor Moultrie and numerous civil and military dignitaries were present. In 1835, forty-seven members of the congregation out of about ninety, petitioned the Board of Trustees to alter and curtail the Liturgy. They desired that the service should be shortened so that portions repeated twice might be recited once in English and once in Hebrew, and that the children and many grown persons might, during a portion of the time, be able to understand the prayers recited. Precisely what was sought, however, can be best comprehended from the following extract from the petition .

Your memorialists seek no other end than the future welfare and respectability of the Nation. As members of the great family of Israel, they cannot consent to place before their children examples which are only calculated to darken the mind and withhold from the rising generation the more rational means of worshipping the True God. It is to this, therefore, in the first place, we invite the serious attention of your honorable body, by causing the Hazan or Reader to repeat in English such part of the Hebrew prayers as may be deemed necessary. It is confidently believed that the members of the congregation would be more forcibly impressed with the necessity of Divine Worship and the moral obligations which they owe to themselves and their Creator, while such a course would lead to more decency and decorum during the time they are engaged in the performance of religious duties. With regard to such parts as it is desired should undergo change, your Memorialists would strenuously recommend that the most solemn portions be retained. Those parts considered superfluous should be rejected (the frequent repetition of the same prayers) and, if possible, all that is read in Hebrew should also be read in English, so as to enable every member of the congregation fully to understand every part of the service. Your memorialists would next call the attention of your honorable body to the absolute necessity of abridging the service generally. They have reflected seriously upon its present length, and are confident that this is one of the principal causes why so much of it is hastily and improperly hurried over. According to the present mode of reading the Parashah it affords to the hearer neither instruction or entertainment, unless he be able to comprehend as well as read the Hebrew language. But if, like all other ministers, our Reader would make a chapter or verse the subject of an English discourse once a week, at the expiration of the year the people would, at all events, know something of that religion which at present they so little regard.

56 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Vestry of the congregation, consisting of the President, Vice-President and five other gentlemen, rejected the petition, and ordered, it is alleged, that it be laid on the table without discussion, the memorialists receiving no reply. Nathaniel Levin, Esq., for many years Secretary of the Congregation, in an exhaustive history of the synagogue, published some years since, avers that " the proposed changes were believed to strike at the fundamental principles of Judaism." At all events, the forty-seven petitioners resigned in a body, immediately rented an appropriate hall and organized the " Reform Society of Israelites," with a form of worship in accordance with their desires. Mr. David Nunes Carvalho, a brother of the gentleman who occupied the pulpit of the Congregation Beth-EloJiini and one of the memorialists, gratuitously performed the required services in Hebrew and English, which were well attended.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 57

In 1835 the Rev. Gustavus Poznanski was elected minister of the Congregation BctJi-Elohini, subsequently re-elected and then elected for life. The destruction of the synagogue by the great fire of 1838 deprived the congregation of their place of worship, and a new edifice was erected in 1840, at a cost of $40,000. About this time thirty-eight members of the congregation petitioned the Trustees for the introduction of an organ in the synagogue. The petition was denied by a vote of four to one, but at a general meeting of the members this action was overruled by a vote of forty-seven to forty. This led to the withdrawal of the minority, who recognized the proposed innovation as a violation of the sacred laws, and these in 1843 formed another congregation, known as ShearitJi Israel. A union of the two congregations was effected in 1866. During the Civil War the organ and the scrolls of the law were destroyed at Columbia, whither they had been taken for safe keeping. From 1750 to 1850 the following ministers occupied the pulpit of the Congregation Beth-Elohim : Isaac De Costa, Abraham Alexander, Abraham Azubee, Benjamin C. D'Azevedo, Emanuel N. Carvalho, H. Cohen, S. C. Peixotto and Gustavus Poznanski. Michael Lazarus was Secretary from 1750 to 1780, Lyon Levy from 1781 to 1805. Nathaniel Levin, the present incumbent, has occupied the office since 1866. Emanuel De La Motta, Moses C. Levy, Israel De Lieben and Abraham Alexander took an active part in organizing and establishing the Supreme Council of the Ancient and Accepted

58 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Scottish Rite of Free Masons in South Carolina in 1801. Mr. Levy was a Pole and emigrated at an early age to Charleston, where he died in 1815 at the age of eighty-nine years. Mr. Alexander was an Englishman and a noted calligraphist. Mr. De La Motta was a Spaniard. He was born in 1761 and died in 1821. He was the father of Dr. Jacob De La Motta, President of the South Carolina Medical Society.

Isaac Harby, President of the Reform Congregation and a well-known author, was one of the most prominent Charlestonians early in the century. He was a son of Solomon Harby, whose father was Lapidary to the Emperor of Morocco, and was born at Charleston, S. C, in 1788. Abandoning the study of law after deciding to adopt that profession, he opened a school on Edisto Island, which he conducted with success. At Charleston he undertook the editorial management of "The Quiver" and then the "Investigator," subsequently known as the "Southern Patriot," in which he championed the then Republican cause. In 1822 he conducted the "City Gazette," and subsequently the "Charleston Mercury." In 1807 he appeared as a dramatist, being at the time but nineteen years of age. His first production was "The Gordian Knot ; or Cause and Effects," a five-act play, founded on Ireland's novel, "The Abbess." Next he wrote "Alexander Severus," and in 1819 he produced a play called "Alberti," the original object of which was the vindication of the character and conduct of Lorenzo D'Medici from the calumnies of Alfieri's Conspiracy. The second performance of this play was honored by the presence of President James Monroe, then visiting Charleston. Mr. Harby's "Letters on the Presidency," in 1824, over the signature of "Junius/" attracted wide attention. Among his earlier contributions to literature are a review of Byron's "Cain," critique on Marino Fahero, essay on criticism and a Defence of the Drama. He married Leah, daughter of Samuel Mordecai, of Savannah. He was Vice-President of the Hebrew Orphan Society of Charleston, and in 1825 delivered the first anniversary oration before the Reformed Society of Israelites of Charleston, of which he was President. Removing to New York City in 1828, he contributed to the columns of the "Evening Post." He died in that city November 14th of the same year (his wife having died a few months previously), possessing the friendship of many of the best people of the day, including Thomas Jefferson, Edward Livingston and other statesmen with whom he was in correspondence, and letters from whom are in the possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. Joseph P. Joachimsen of New York.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 59

In 1833 literary circles of Charleston became much interested in a little volume of poems entitled "Fancy's Sketch-Book." The work showed its author to possess a high order of talent, deep feeling and an extremely sensitive and poetic nature. It was the first publication of the writings of Miss Penima Moise, a name that is dear to thousands of Hebrew hearts, especially in the South. Miss Moise was the daughter of Abraham Moise, of Charleston, S. C, and was born in that city on the 23d of April, 1797. Poetic expression came natural to her from girlhood, and her tender and sympathetic nature caused her poetry to touch the popular heart at once. After the publication of her book she was engaged to write for a number of leading newspapers and periodicals, among her chief subjects being the great fire in Charleston in 1838, the yellow fever visitation, the charitable work of Sir Moses Montefiore, and others of like nature. She also composed a book of hymns for the Congregation Beth-Elohim of Charleston, of which she was a member. This book is still in use there. Such a favorite did Miss Moise become that she was known as the " Singer of Israel." During many years of her life Miss Moise had the care of her mother, who was a paralytic, and her brother, who was a sufferer from the asthma. Her devotion in these cases, as well as to the yellow fever sufferers in Charleston in 1854, was whole-souled and touching. During the last years of her life Miss Moise became blind, but she continued to compose poetry and was looked upon by her congregation as a holy one among them. She died September 13, 1880, in the eighty-fourth year of her age.

60 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Marx E. Cohen, youngest son of Mordecai Cohen, was an extensive planter, born and residing in Charleston, and having his plantation at " Tissabon" (the Indian name for " Clear Spring"), about eighteen miles from the city, on the Ashley River. At the age of twenty-eight he married Armida, youngest daughter of the distinguished litterateur, Isaac Harby, by whom he had several daughters and one son, Dr. Marx E. Cohen, who was killed in the Civil War. After the close of that great conflict, in which he lost most of his fortune, he removed with his family to Sumter, S. C, where he died February 24, 1881, at the age of seventy-two. He was graduated with high honors at the college in Glasgow, Scotland, and was a well-read and highly cultured gentleman. At the time of the Henry Clay excitement he was a candidate for the Legislature, but was defeated, in common with the entire Democratic ticket. He was somewhat of a litterateur, and his name was a synonym for integrity and the most unbounded hospitality. Mr. Cohen was radically liberal in his religious views. The first discovery of the famous phosphate beds was made on his plantation soon after he had sold it, at the close of the war.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 61

Mordecai Cohen came to Charleston, from England, while yet a lad, and with scarcely a dollar in his pocket. His industry and unquestioned integrity brought him deserved prosperity, and he subsequently became the richest man, with the exception of Robert Adger, in the State of South Carolina. Retiring from active business pursuits, he presented each of his four children with an independent fortune. He married Miss Leah Lazarus, a lady belonging to one of the most exclusive of the aristocratic families in Charleston, and died at the age of eighty-six. He was a man of ready wit and dry humor. His charities were great, but unbounded by any consideration of age, sex, color or religion. A tablet to his memory was erected by the city of Charleston in the Orphan House (an unsectarian institution which has been in existence since the city was in its infancy), to which he had been a most generous and unfailing donor. He is the only Hebrew to whom the city of Charleston has ever reared a memorial stone. His religious views were exceedingly liberal and he was highly respected by Christian and Hebrew alike.

PHILADELPHIA.

An especially prominent position is held by Philadelphia in the history of the early Hebrews of the United States. One of the earliest names mentioned in connection with the race there is that of Samuel Keimer, an Englishman by birth, who was the publisher of the " Pennsylvania Gazette," and the printer with whom Benjamin Franklin secured employment upon reaching Philadelphia, in 1723. Franklin, in his autobiography, makes no mention of Keimer's Hebrew origin, the publisher of the " Gazette " being described therein as wearing a long beard and abstaining from work on the seventh day. From this statement has originated a belief that Keimer was a Hebrew. The author of a valuable work on American literature, recently published, evidently accepting Franklin's inferential testimony as authority, designates Keimer as a "Jew." There is good reason for believing, however, that Keimer was a member of a sect known as " French Prophets."

62 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

According to Rosenbach's " Jews in Philadelphia previous to the year 1800," Arnold Bamberger, who by special act was permitted to hold lands and to trade in the province of Pennsylvania, in the year 1726, was the first Hebrew in Philadelphia regarding whom documentary evidence is extant. Previous to the Revolution it is supposed that worship was conducted in Sterling Alley. As early as 1738, Nathan Levy laid out a burial place for himself and family, on Spruce Street, between Eighth and Ninth Streets, and in 1751, Mr. Levy published a notice in the "Pennsylvania Gazette" complaining of injury to the fence of the cemetery caused by the firing at marks set against it by sportive marksmen.

Among the members of the Congregation Mickve-Isracl in 1781 were the Sheftalls of Savannah, several persons from Charleston and others from Newport and New York, the latter including the Rev. Gershom Seixas. Already in 1773 the financial maintenance of the Congregation Mickve-Isracl, then located in Sterling Alley, between Third and Fourth Streets, had been the subject of much concern to the members, the necessary funds being derived from voluntary subscription. In that year Bernard Gratz, the Parnass, contributed $10, Michael Gratz $10, Solomon Marache and Henry Marks each $5, Levi Solomon $5 and Mordecai Levy $3, to continue annually for three years. The influx of co-religionists from other cities on account of the war swelled their numbers to such an extent that more commodious quarters were found necessary, and the congregation removed to Cherry Alley, where it remained until 1782, when Isaac Moses, Haym Levy, Solomon M. Cohen, Simon Nathan, Bernard Gratz and Jonas Phillips were entrusted with the duty of securing still better accommodations. The sum of $600 was raised by subscription for erecting a new place of worship. This amount proving inadequate, Haym Salomon came to the rescue by offering to defray one-fourth of the entire cost, regardless of the amount.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 63

The new synagogue in Cherry Street, near Third, was solemnly dedicated in September, 1782, by the Rev. Gershom Seixas, the committee in charge of the ceremonies being Solomon Marache, Simon Nathan, Haym Levy, Isaac Moses, Solomon M. Cohen and Benjamin Seixas. The building, which had accommodations for nearly two hundred persons, was of brick, with a residence of the minister adjoining. Notwithstanding Haym Salomon's liberal contribution the financial condition of the congregation was far from satisfactory for some years after, and so pressing was the necessity for further funds that in 1788 relief was sought by a memorial to the General Assembly to permit a lottery, with a view of securing the money necessary to liquidate the indebtedness. An address to "all humane, charitable, and well disposed people," was then issued, setting forth at length the financial difficulties under which the congregation labored, and asking their worthy fellow-citizens of every religious denomination " their benevolent aid and help, flattering themselves that their worshipping Almighty God in a way and manner different from other religious societies will never deter the enlightened citizens of Philadelphia from generously subscribing toward the preservation of a religious house of worship."

In April of the same year Rev. Jacob Cohen informed the congregation that his term of service was about to expire, and desired to know whether a re-engagement was contemplated. The minister during the preceding year had been sustained by subscription, and it was determined at this meeting to continue the subscription plan for another year. For this purpose Manuel Josephson contributed ;i^i 5s. 6d.; Samuel Hayes, £1 2s. 6d.; Solomon Lyon, ;^i los.; Jonas Phillips and son, £2 12s. 6d.; Sholas Barrnitza, 14s. 6d.; Tiny Phillips,. 12s.; Bernard Gratz, £1 i6s.; Michael Gratz and son, £1 19s.; Michael Levy, 17s. 6d.; Isaac Moses, Sr., 7s. 6d.; Moses Nathan Levy, 2s. 8d.; Moses Nathan Levy's brother, i8s.; Solomon Aaron, 7s. 6d.; Jacob Cohen, Sr., £1 2s. 6d.; Myer Hart, lis.; Abraham Hart, 7s. 6d.; Michael Hart Cohen, £1 lis.; Solomon Etting, £1 2s. 6d.; Benjamin Nones, £2 3s. 6d.; Isaac Ximemus, 6d.; Joseph Henry, 8s.; Meyer and Solomon Marks, 3s.; Aaron Syefort, £10 los.

A few months later the congregation took into consideration the subject of depredations at the burying ground and it was voted to permit the erection of a building close by, at the expense of the builder, in order to remedy the evil. This cemetery Avas at Spruce and Ninth Streets, and among others buried there, prior to the present century, were : Nathan Levy, 1753; Jacob Henry, 1751 ; David Gomez, 1780; Matthew Gomez, 1781 ; Sarah Judah, 1783; Miriam Marks, 1784; Sarah Marks, 1784; Abraham Levy, 1786; Emanuel Josephson, 1796. The stone marking the grave of the latter gives the date of his death as February 30, 1796.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 65

On February 24, 1790, Bernard (jX2X.z,Parnass, and Manuel Josephson, Trustee, on behalf of the congregation, issued a fresh appeal for funds wherewith to pay off the indebtedness on the synagogue. This was addressed to the congregation in Parimarirba Surinam. "In former times," it read, " the few housekeepers that were settled here, being impressed with a sense of duty to assemble on Sabbath and Solemn days, to offer up their prayers in Congregation, thereby preserving the mode of worship and those ceremonies appertaining to our holy religion, and initiating their young offspring therein, that the same might become familiar to them, and so be handed down inviolate to succeeding generations, and in order that they might have a place wherein to assemble for that purpose, they hired a room in a private house and furnished and decorated it proper for a synagogue, although in miniature, it being suited to their numbers and circumstances. This they continued many years, satisfied and happy in that particular, until the year 1776, when the disturbances in this county began and which caused numbers of our brethern from the different congregations in America to come with their families to reside here. Thus the congregation greatly increased, so that the room aforesaid, became insufificient to contain so considerable a number. * * * * But no sooner did the news of peace reach these parts than they all returned to their respective homes and former places of abode, leaving this small congregation saddled with a debt that had been contracted chiefly on their account, and is become impossible for this handful to discharge, without the assistance of their benevolent brethren abroad, finding it at present even difficult to raise the annual salaries of the Haza?z, Shochet and Shamasy

66 • THE HEBREWS IN "AMERICA.

Two years after the application to the Legislature for a lottery, an act was passed, allowing the congregation to raise ;^800 by that means.

The story of Haym Salomon's life is an interesting one. His prominence was not confined to the synagogue, to which he was the most liberal contributor, but was attained by generous and timely assistance to the founders of the Republic, and will cause his name to be remembered for all time to come. He was a native of Poland and of Portuguese descent. His family were highly respectable and learned people. His wife was Rachel Frank, daughter of Moses B. Frank of London, who, with his brother, the distinguished Jacob Frank of the Revolutionary War, died in New York while it was yet a colony. ~ ■ Moses and Jacob Frank were sons of Aaron Frank of Germany, \who was the companion and friend of King George of Hanover, and who loaned that monarch the most valuable jewels in his crown at his Coronation. Jacob Frank was the British King's sole agent for the Northern Colonies at New York, and his son David was the King's agent for Pennsylvania. After visiting many countries and acquiring various languages, Haym

Salomon left Lissa and came to America. He was in New York when the British took possession of the city, and with other patriots was arre-^ted and confined in the prison

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. ' 6/

known as the " Prevost," which stood on the spot now occupied by the Hall of Records in the City Hall Park. So closely were the prisoners packed there that " when they laid down at night to rest, wheri their bones ached on the hard oak planks and they wished to turn, it was altogether by command 'right-left,' being so wedged as to form almost a solid mass of human bodies." Escaping from the clutches of the British, Haym Salomon made his way to Philadelphia, and there married the sister of Colonel Frank. It was during his residence there that he was entrusted with the negotiation of all the war subsidies of France and Holland on his own personal integrity, which were disposed of to the resident merchants in America without any loss, at a credit of two and three months, for which he received the small commission of one-fourth of one per cent. It was Haym Salomon who, when the people of Philadelphia were deprived of the use of any circulating medium by the act of withdrawal of Continental money and great distress existed, caused $2,000 in specie to be distributed among the poor of that city. In Madison's letter to Virginia in 1881, he writes: "My wants are so urgent that it is impossible to suppress them. The case of my brethren is equally alarming." And later on he declares that " the kindness of our friend in Front Street (Mr. Salomon) is a fund that will preserve me from extremities, but I never resort to it without great mortification, as he obstinately rejects all recompense. To necessitous delegates he gratuitously spares from his private stock." And the same year he admits, in a letter to Edmund Randolph, that he had been " for some time past a pensioner on the favor of Haym Salomon." The magnitude of these great favors granted by

68 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Mr. Salomon may be judged by what was written by one distinguished Virginian in 1781-82, who said: " We have tried to raise funds to reheve ourselves by offers of depositing the best names in Virginia, but it is in vain. My brethren are in like distress." Relief from any other quarter than from Mr. Salomon was so rare that the only instance where it occurred is thus recorded in Mr. Madison's journal, in September, 1782:

" I succeeded in getting the sum of fifty pounds from

Mr. Cohen by depositing the obligation of Mr. Randolph payable for it at sixty days." The disinterestedness of Haym Salomon was again forcibly illustrated in his intercourse with the members of the Government. When he was called on to advance the entire pay for the ensuing year to Messrs. Jones, Randolph and Madison, as members of the Revolutionary Congress, they had in writing allotted that Mr. Madison should get fifty pounds less than the other two, but Mr. Salomon seeing in this young statesman, then only twenty-nine years old, those great, latent talents, for which he became in after years distinguished, presented him, from his own private purse, the fifty pounds, and thus equalized the pay of the whole delegation. Jared Sparks, the historian, in the Life of Gouverneur Morris, a member of Congress in 1780, publishes a letter written by Mr. Morris, in which he declares that "the person who did loan cash to a member to relieve his distress in that day, was in no expectation of ever getting repaid." While many of the merchants who subscribed to make up army supplies in 1780, were represented as having given their names without any security, it is shown by Mr. Madison's journal that they had a contingent security of the best Sterling Exchange to the amount of $i^{\wedge} 150,000$, in excess of their subscription. Facts not generally known are contained in a document presented to a committee of Congress, from the Bank of North America, the first and only bank chartered by the Revolutionary Congress. This document shows the relative proportion of the account of Mr. Salomon, and forty other principal merchants, who commenced with the opening of the bank. Their accounts, up to the period of his death, when his account closed, occupied in all fifteen pages of the large ledger, and his single account occupied fifteen pages, double columns, of the same ledger. The amount of his one account was as large as their entire account in the aggregate. His balance at the various times of settlement in his bank book show specie balances of \$15,000 to \$50,000 at each period. The amount charged by the bank to his account as paid to the financier of the Revolution was more than \$200,000, while Robert Morris own account during the same period has but a deposit of less than \$10,000, and which was received on the very day from Haym Salomon as it was charged to him. Funds were also given, when necessity required, to Jefferson, Willson, Ross, Duane, Reed, and others of the Congress of the Declaration, and also to Madison, Mercer, Arthur Lee, Joseph Jones, Harrison, Mifflin, Rittenhouse, Pendleton, Randolph and others. Haym Salomon was also the confidential friend of that ardent adherent to the American cause, the Chevalier de la Luzerne, the French Ambassador, as well as to the two Consuls-General Marbois and De La Forrest, both of whom were subsequently ministers of Napoleon I

rm[^] HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 69

In the archives of the Intendancy of Cuba, there is a letter from Don Francisco Rendon, Minister from Spain to the United States, addressed to Don Diego Jose de Navarro,

70 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Governor-General of Cuba, in which the former says : " I am entirely indebted to the particular kindness of Mr. Salomon to support my credit with any degree of reputation, and without it I certainly could not have been able to render that protection and assistance to the subjects of His Most Catholic Majesty which is enforced on me by his royal Commands." The list made and deposited at the Probate office of the certificates of Revolutionary indebtedness, of which he was seized at the time of his death in 1784, shows upwards of $350,000, consisting of War office, Loan office, Commissioner, Treasury and Continental certificates, not one cent of which was ever received by the infant children, owing to circumstances for which they could not be accountable. Henry Wheaton says that Judge Wilson, so distinguished for his labors in the convention that framed the Federal Constitution, would have retired from public service had he not been sustained by the timely aid of Haym Salomon, administered with equal generosity and delicacy.

A committee of the United States Congress, in 1850, to whom was referred a resolution to reimburse the heirs of Haym Salomon, for the moneys so generously advanced by their illustrious ancestor, admitted the justice of the claim and reported that he had " advanced liberally of his means at a time when the sinews of war were essential to success," and as late as 1864, the Committee on Revolutionary Claims of the United States Senate, reported a bill appropriating the sum of $353,726.43, provided that Mr. Salomon's heirs would relinquish all further claim upon the Government.

Isaac Moses was a Philadelphia merchant whose patriotism was emphasized by a contribution of $3,000 when Robert Morris undertook to raise money with which to prosecute the war. He subsequently removed to New York, where he was for years a leading merchant and was one of the founders of the Bank of New York. David Franks, son of Jacob Franks, of New York, was a prominent Philadelphia merchant, whose fortune was swept away by confiscation on account of his adherence to the British cause. In 1743 he married Margaret, daughter of Peter Evans, of Philadelphia, having previously abjured the Hebrew faith. Three daughters and one son were born to them. The three daughters were among the belles of Philadelphia during the Revolutionary War, the eldest, Abigail, having married Andrew Hamilton, the owner of " Woodlands," and at one time the Attorney-General of the State ; the second was unmarried, while the youngest, Rebecca, was, after the war, wedded to Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Johnson, who rendered important service in the rebellion in Ireland. Rebecca Franks was distinguished for her beauty, wit and intelligence. She was a conspicuous figure in Philadelphia society during the period named. General Lee said of her that she was " a lady, who has had every human and divine advantage." She was universally courted for the charms of her conversation. At the celebrated fete of the Mischianza, which took place at Philadelphia, May 18, 1778, and which was given by the British officers to Sir William Howe before he relinquished his command to Sir Henry Clinton, Rebecca Franks was one of the princesses. The following interesting description of social life in New York towards the close of the Eighteenth Century^ occurs in a letter from her pen, and is taken from Mrs. Ellett's " Queens of American Society : "

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 71

By the bye, few ladies here know how to entertain company in their own houses, unless they introduce the card-table. Except \~i-.

72 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Van Homes, who are remarkable for their good sense and ease, I don't know a woman or girl who can chat above half an hour, and that on the form of a cap, the color of a ribbon, or the set of a hoop, stay ox jupon. I will do our ladies, that is the Philadelphians, the justice to say, that they have more cleverness in the turn of an eye than those of New York have in their whole composition. With what ease have I seen a Chew, a Penn, an Oswald, or an Allen, and a thousand others, entertain a large circle of both sexes ; the conversation, without the aid of cards, never flagging, nor seeming in the least strained or stupid. Here in New York, you enter a room with a formal set courtesy, and after the howdos things are finished ; all is a dead calm till the cards are introduced; when you see pleasure dancing in the eyes of all the matrons, and they seem to gain new life. The maidens, if they have favorite swains, frequently decline playing, for the pleasure of making love ; for to all appearance, it is the ladies, not the gentlemen, who now-a-days show a preference. It is here, I fancy, always leap-year. Indeed, scandal says, that in the cases of most who have been married, the first advances came from the lady's side, or she got a male friend to introduce the intended victim and pass her off. I suspect there would be more marriages were another mode adopted ; they have made the men so saucy that I sincerely believe the lowest ensign thinks he has but to ask and have ; that a red coat and smart epaulette are sufficient to secure a female heart.

At a ball given by Mrs. Washington to the French Minister in honbr of the alliance between France and the United States, Miss Franks took occasion to show her Tory sympathies by bribing a servant to decorate a dog with the cockades of the two countries and usher the animal into the ball room. In 1810 the former Philadelphia beauty was living in Bath, England, where she was visited by General Scott some years later. In the course of an animated conversation, she remarked to the hero of Lundy's Lane :
" I have gloried in my rebel countrymen. Would to heaven^ I, too, had been a patriot! I do not- I have never regretted my marriage ! No woman was ever blessed with a kinder - a better husband ; but I ought to have been a patriot before marriage."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 73

A sister of David Franks married General Oliver De Lancey, of the British Army. David S. Franks, a nephew of David Franks, was an officer of the Continental Army. Mayer Isaac Franks, a brother-in-law of Haym Salomon, was for a time Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. One of the sons of David Franks returned to England, and died a member of Parliament, while Colonel Franks, after the war, was appointed Prothonotary of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which office he held at the time of his death.

Israel Israels, a native of the Island of Barbadoes, was a prominent character in Philadelphia, up to the time of his death in 1821. During the Revolution he resided on the Delaware, near Wilmington. The female members of the family being dependent upon Israel and his younger brother Joseph, for protection, lots were drawn to determine which should become a soldier. The lot fell upon Joseph, the younger, while Israel devoted his time and attention to his farm on the Delaware, where he resided with his wife. The story of Israel's trial and escape, after his arrest by the British, forms one of the most thrilling episodes of the Revolution and is thus graphically described by the historian Lossing:

" Israel Israels, was a member of the Committee of Safety, and, of course, a marked man. Betrayed by Tory neighbors, he and his wife's brother were made prisoners and taken upon the frigate ' Roebuck,' lying in the Delaware, in sight of his house, for trial. He was treated harshly ; his bed was a coil

74 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

of rope on deck, his food was of the meanest kind. It was reported that he had declared that he would ' sooner drive his cattle as a present to General Washington, than receive thousands of dollars in British gold for them.' On being informed of this the British Commander ordered a detachment of soldiers to go to his (Irsael's) meadows, in full view, and seize and slaughter his cattle then feeding there. His young wife (then only nineteen years old) saw her husband and brother taken to the frigate, and she also saw the movement of the plunderers. She guessed their purpose when she saw the soldiers land. With a boy eight years old, she hastened to the meadows, cast down the bars and began driving out the cattle. The soldiers told her to desist and threatened to shoot her. ' Fire away !' cried the heroic woman. They fired, and the balls flew thickly but harmlessly around her. The shield of God's providence was over her, and, though the cowardly soldiers fired several shots, not one grazed her. The cattle were all saved, and the discomfited marauders returned to the frigate. The trial of Israel took place. A kind-hearted soldier asked him if he was a Free Mason. He answered in the affirmative and was informed that a lodge was to be held on board the vessel that night, the officers being Masons. The trial ended. The life of Israel was in jeopardy. He made a manly defense before the Court, and when opportunity offered he gave a sign of the brotherhood. It was recognized ; the haughty bearing of the officers was changed to kindness ; the Tory witnesses were reprimanded for seeking the harm of an honorable man : presents were prepared for his heroic wife, and himself and brother were sent on shore in a splendid barge and set at liberty. The records of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Pennsylvania bear testimony that Mr. Israel (who was at one time Grand Master) was saved from an ignominious death by the use of Masonic signs."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 75

Israel Israels, was at one time High Sheriff of Philadelphia, and was seventy-eight years old when he died. A clock owned by Israels is among the relics in possession of the Pennsylvania Historical Society. Israel's wife was Hannah Erwin, a Christian, and Mrs. Ellett, author of " Women of the Revolution," and "■ Queens of American Society," was their daughter.

Jonas Phillips, who lived at 110 North Second Street, married Rebecca, daughter of Hazan Machada. Their son, Nathaniel Phillips, was born October 19, 1773. Zelegman Phillips, another son, was born June 28, 1779. He married Arabella, daughter of M. Solomon. He was one of the ablest criminal lawyers in Philadelphia, and died in 1839. Moses Levy, another lawyer, sold his house in Chestnut Street to the Bank of North America. Another distinguished member of the Bar, was Sampson Levy, whose impromptu speeches were said to be "perfect gems."

For many years the Hebrews of Philadelphia have occupied an honorable place in the community. Prominent among those in the mercantile world, half a century ago, were John and Samuel Moss, shipowners, and Lewis Allen, who carried on an extensive wholesale dry-goods business from 1815 to 1841. A merchant then widely known was Leon J. Levy, who occupied a large establishment on Chestnut Street. Among the numerous bankers were found the Gratz family. Michael Gratz came from Austria when a lad, and traded largely with the Indians. He sided with the Colonists during the war, and his name appears among the signatures to the

-j^ THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Non-Importation Resolutions after the passage of the Stamp Act. Of his eleven children, Simon, the eldest son, was one of the founders of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Hyman, a brother, was President of the Pennsylvania Insurance Company. Rebecca, a daughter, who is immortalized as the heroine of Scott's "Ivanhoe," was born March 4, 1781. She was prominently identified in the organization of numerous charitable and benevolent associations. When fifty-seven years old she organized the first Hebrew Sunday-school in the United States.

Writing of her in her younger days, Gratz Van Rensselaer says: "Her eyes were of exquisite shape, large, black and lustrous; her figure was graceful and her carriage was marked by quiet dignity - attractions which were heightened by elegant and winning manners. Gentle, benevolent, with instinctive refinement and innate purity, she inspired affection among all who met her; and having received the best instruction that the time and country afforded, she was well-fitted for practical and social duties." Among her numerous acquaintances was Washington Irving, and to the latter it is said Scott was indebted for the character of Rebecca in Ivanhoe, Irving having portrayed to him, during one of his visits abroad, the fair Philadelphian's "wonderful beauty, the story of her firm adherence to her religious faith under the most trying circumstances, and particularly illustrated her loveliness of character and zealous philanthropy." She died in 1869 at the age of eighty-eight.

Hyman Marks was also engaged in the banking business. Other bankers were Robert and Isaac Phillips, the latter a son-in-law of John Moss, the Joseph brothers and Joseph Andrade. Mr. Andrade was a Frenchman and a man of immense fortune. Though received in the best society he was noted for his penury, eccentricity and shabby attire. Among the members of the bar Zehgman Phillips and his sons, Altamont and Henry M., occupied high places.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. J']

Johaveth, a daughter of Moses Isaacks, of Newport, married Michael Marks of Philadelphia, who came from England with Hyman and Michael Gratz. He, with his father, Henry Marks, were among the founders of the synagogue Mickve-Israel.

Anna, a daughter of Michael Marks, married Lewis Allen, a well-known and highly respected merchant of Philadelphia, who succeeded his father, Lewis Allen, Sr., in business in 1815. Mr. Allen was for many years President of the synagogue of which his father-in-law was a founder, and his widow, Mrs. Anna Allen, assisted Miss Gratz in the formation of the first Hebrew Sunday-school of that city and was one of the founders and first President of the Jewish Foster Home and Orphan Asylum, and was forty years Treasurer of the Female Hebrew Benevolent Society of Philadelphia. Mrs. Allen, who was born in the village of Sing Sing, N. Y., in the year 1800 is now (1888) a resident of the city of New York.

Abraham Hart, was for many years a member of the firm of Carey & Hart, the leading book house of the United States. Mr. Hart's uprightness and integrity, during his business career of more than a quarter of a century, was marked, on his retirement from active life, by a public dinner, tendered him by the publishers and booksellers of Philadelphia, in 1854. He was, for upwards of thirty years, President of the Mickve-Israel congregation, and his opinion was sought after by all his co-religionists. He generously aided and encouraged all Hebrew institutions in his city and elsewhere, and " many a time in the synagogue when the Sabbath was over, a crowd of poor would gather about him, and he would deal out money to them, and many a poor soul went forth rejoicing, calling God's choicest blessings upon the head of this generous man." He enjoyed the friendship of General Grant, George W. Childs, and other famous men, and the announcement of his death, in July, 1885, called forth expressions of sincere sorrow in many Hebrew households. Miss Louisa B. Hart, was one of the three Jewesses of Philadelphia, to whom we are indebted for the first Hebrew Sunday-school in the United States. She was born at Easton, Penn., June 3, 1803, and, after the death of her father, a merchant of that town, removed to Philadelphia, where she became interested in the formation of the Sunday-school founded by Miss Gratz, and of which she became a teacher and first Vice-president and subsequently Superintendent. She died in 1874.

78 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

LANCASTER.

A numerous Hebrew community existed in Lancaster, Penn., in colonial days. The most prominent of the early settlers there, was Joseph Simon. He reached Lancaster about 1735, and taking out a license as an Indian trader, soon monopolized the business in that section, ranking for almost half a century as one of the wealthiest Indian traders and merchants in America. The colonial records of Pennsylvania made frequent and honorable mention of his services. As early as 174a, he began to acquire land in Lancaster and the surrounding country, and gradually accumulated immense tracts in Pennsylvania. In 1747, he bought one piece of 288 acres, near Maytown, from John Lowrey. Mr. Simon's store was the largest at Lancaster, and was in Penn Square, in the centre of the town. Levy Andrew Levy, was a partner in this store for many years and his (Simon's) sons-in-law, Levi Phillips, Solomon M. Cohen, Simon Gratz and Solomon Etting, were also, at various periods, associated with him. Another son-in-law was Dr. Nicholas Schuyler, of Albany, a surgeon in the Revolutionary war. Prior to the French and Indian wars of 1755, Mr. Simon made frequent excursions to the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers with his pack horses, trading with the Indians.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 79

In 1763 the series of Indian depredations culminated in the attack by the Shawnees, Delawares and Huron tribes at " Bloody Run," in Bedford County, Penn. This resulted in heavy losses to the traders, among whom were David Franks, Joseph Simon, William Trent, Levy Andrew Levy, and Colonel Alexander Lowrey, twelve traders sustaining thereby a loss of i^80,000 (four hundred thousand dollars). Five years after this disaster, on November 8, 1768, at the treaty of Fort Stanwix (Rome, N. Y.), all the tribes of the Six Nations joined in a deed to the aforementioned Indian traders of the tract of land " beginning at the south side of the mouth of Little Canhawa Creek where it empties into the Ohio River, and running from thence southwest to the Laurel Hill until it strikes the River Monongahela, thence along said river to the southern boundary line of the Province of Pennsylvania, thence along the boundary line of Pennsylvania to the Ohio River, and down that stream to place of beginning,"

The region referred to in this deed, which may be seen in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, at the present time comprises the large State of West Virginia. The settlement of this land was resisted by Virginia, and the breaking out of the Revolution put an end to all negotiations looking to its acquirement. Mr. Simon, however, cherished for many years a hope of reclaiming it and until the day of his death expended large sums of money to obtain possession of the grant. The losses at Bloody Run proved but a temporary check to Mr. Simon, who was a man of push and enterprise, and he enjoyed a lucrative trade until after the Revolutionary War. On July 5, 1773, the different tribes of the Indian nations in Illinois conveyed to twenty-two residents of Lancaster and surrounding country a grant of land which now embraces the southern half of the State of Illinois. Eight Hebrews were interested in its purchase. They were Moses Franks, Jacob Franks, David Franks, Barnard Gratz, Michael Gratz, Moses Franks, Jr., Joseph Simon, Levy Andrew Levy. This land, like that in Virginia, never passed into the control of the purchasers, which was also owing, it is presumed, to the Revolution. Levy Andrew Levy's interest in Mr. Simon's business ceased in 1778, when he and Susanna, his wife, conveyed it to Aaron Levy, also a storekeeper in Lancaster, presumably a son. The Levys reached Lancaster a few years after the arrival of Mr. Simon, his (Simon, s) sons-in-law coming many years thereafter. One of them, Solomon Etting, had previously lived at York, Penn.* Mr. Simon's closing years were embittered by his son-in-law, Michael Gratz, whom he fancied had dealt unjustly with him in certain business transactions. On this account Mr. Simon disposed of the whole of his real estate, including several thousand acres in Northumberland County, in order to prevent him from enjoying any part of it.

80 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Colonel Alexander Lowrey, was, for over forty years, engaged with Mr. Simon in the fur trade. Colonel David Clark, of New Orleans, father of the late Mrs. Myra Gaines, whose claims involving millions of dollars were the subject of many years of litigation with the Government, was employed as wagon boy by the two traders when they visited the Ohio and Mississippi country.

Mr. Simon lived to the ripe age of ninety-two years and was buried in the Lancaster Cemetery. The inscription on his tombstone reads :

And Joseph gave up the Ghost, and died in a good old age.

An old man and full of years and was gathered to his people. •

Joseph Simon

Departed this life

the 12th day of the month Shebath, in the year 5565, corresponding with the 24th day of January, 1804, aged 92 years, in a good old age

And he walked with God, and he was not, for God took him.

At his side rests his wife, on whose tombstone is this record :

The Body of Mrs. Rose Simon, wife to

Mr. Joseph Simon,

who departed this life

the 3d day of May, 1796, in the 69 th year of her age.

Levi Phillips and Belah, his wife, (son-in-law and daughter of Mr. Simon) were appointed his executors. A clause was inserted in his will providing that the " silver plate used for religious worship " in his family and two scrolls of the law, were to remain in Mr. Phillips' family, during the latter's life-time, after which they should revert to the Philadelphia synagogue.

82 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

After Mr. Simon's death the Phillipses, Cohens, Gratzes and Ettings all removed to Philadelphia. Mr. Simon left five daughters and two sons. The latter were imbeciles and were amply provided for in his will.

In the year 1747 one-half acre of ground was acquired for a Hebrew cemetery, Isaac Nunus Ricus and Joseph Simon being named as Trustees. The deed conveying the property reads that it is to be held " for the Society of Jews settled in and about Lancaster." The first interment in the old cemetery after 1804 was in the year 1855. Two years prior to this the Hirsh brothers reached Lancaster. They took measures to form a congregation, and on February 25, 1855, a charter was obtained with twenty-one members, the congregation styling themselves Shaaray-Sharnoyim. On September 13, 1867, their synagogue was built and dedicated. It stood at the corner of Orange and Christian Streets. For some years the following gentlemen officiated as Hazan, or Reader, of the congregation : Joseph Eckstein,

L. Rosenstein, W. Frankenstein, Jacob Stein, Weil,

William Shuster, A. B. Black and Henry Weile.

Easton, Penn., was settled in 1750, and eleven families numbering about forty men, women and children, comprised the population two years thereafter. Among these was one Hebrew family, the head of which was Meyer Hart, who was the first merchant in the town. In 1763 he was the heaviest tax-payer found there. That year his assessment amounted to nineteen shillings. Meyer Hart's business career, according to the town records, was a satisfactory one.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. . 83

By thrift and industry he prospered so far as to become the owner of three houses and several negroes, besides which he owned a good stock in trade. In 1782 his stock was valued at $1,200. Michael his son, encouraged by his father's success also embarked as a merchant, and in 1776, was found occupying a store on the north-east corner of the square. He also owned slaves. It was at his house that Washington accepted an invitation to lunch while tarrying for a few hours in the town. The late Miss Louisa B. Hart, his daughter, thus proudly records the event in her diary : " Let it be remembered that Michael Hart was a Jew, practically, pious, a Jew reverencing and strictly observant of the Sabbath and festivals ; dietary laws were also adhered to, although he was compelled to be his own Shochet. Mark well, that he, Washington, the then honored as first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen, even during a short sojourn became for the hour the guest of the worthy Jew."

A congregation, Beth-Shalome, was started in Easton in 1839, and chartered in 1842, with the following members : Henry Rosenfield, Michael Lederer, Solomon Rohden, Sam-' uel Bachenheimer, Moses Cohen, Solomon Scheit, Samuel Able, Adolph Hirsch, Lewis Bachenheimer, M. Gardner, Wolf Rosenbaum, Emanuel Scheif and Isaac Meline. Rev. Morris Cohen was the first Rabbi, and was succeeded by Messrs. Kling, Pritzel and Jacoby.

RICHMOND.

In Richmond, Va., the Congregation Beth-Shalome, was founded in or about the year 1791. Among the organizers and earlier members were Jacob Mordecai, Samuel Alexander, Joseph Marx, Gershom Judah, Myer M. Cohen, Baruch

84 « THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Judah, Zalma Rehine, Asher Marx, Benjamin Myers, Israel I. Cohen, Benjamin Solomons, Samuel Mordecai, Jacob I. Cohen, Marcus Elkan, Joseph Darmstadt, Isaac H. Judah, Isaac Mordecai, Lyon Hart, Aaron Henry, Benjamin Woolfe, Manuel Judah, Isaiah Isaacs, Mordecai M. Mordecai, Abraham Myers, Satnuel M. Myers, Jacob Lyons, Solomon Jacobs, Moses Myers, Jacob Block. Divine service was- held in early years on Nineteenth Street, in the rear of the Union Hotel. In excavating the foundation for the hotel a portion of the building in which the synagogue was located was demolished. This caused its abandonment and subsequent removal, about 1817, to Mayo Street, where the city donated a lot for synagogue purposes. On October 21, 1791, Isaiah Isaacs deeded to the Trustees of the synagogue a portion of his garden, on the south side of Franklin Street, west of Twenty-first, for the purpose of burying " all Jews, male and female, that may hereafter die in the City of Richmond, or whose bodies may be brought there to be interred." The cemetery had a frontage on Franklin Street of forty feet and extended southwardly 102 feet. Here many of the oldest and best known citizens found a resting place. As the population increased, a larger cemetery was laid out in the northwest section of the city. Isaac H. Judah officiated as Minister of the synagogue early in the century. Isaac B. Seixas was acting minister after his retirement. Rev. Abram Hyam Cohen, occupied the pulpit from 1829 to 1830. He was the son of Rev. Jacob Raphael Cohen, a native of Gibraltar, who officiated in the synagogue Mickve-hrael, of Philadelphia, and died in 1811. Rev. Jacques J. Lyons and Rev. Ellis Lyons, brothers and natives of Surinam, were Mr. Cohen's successors in the Richmond synagogue.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 85

The following letter of Washington is in reply to an address from the congregations of Richmond, Philadelphia, New-York and Charleston, felicitating him upon his accession to the Presidency :

The liberality of sentiment toward each other, which marks every political and religious denomination of men in this country, stands unparalleled in the history of nations. The affection of such a people is a treasure beyond the reach of calculation, and the repeated proofs which my fellow-citizens have given of their attachment to me and approbation of my doings form the purest source of my temporal felicity. The affectionate expressions of your address again excite my gratitude and receive my warmest acknowledgment.

The power and goodness of the Almighty so strongly manifested in the events of our late glorious Revolution, and his kind interposition in our behalf, have been no less visible in the establishment of our present equal government. In war he directed the sword and in peace he has ruled in our councils.

My agency in both has been guided by the best intentions and a sense of duty I owe to my country. And as my exertions have hitherto been amply rewarded by the approbation of my fellow-citizens, I shall endeavor to deserve a continuance of it by my future conduct. May the same temporal and eternal blessings which you implore for me rest upon your congregations.

Jacob I. Cohen, one of the early members of the Congregation Beth-Shalome came from Rhenish Prussia in the year 1773. After a brief sojourn at Lancaster, Penn., he proceeded to Charleston, S. C, with a view, it is supposed, of establishing himself there in business. During the active hostilities which soon followed, Mr. Cohen took part as a volunteer soldier in the defense of the colonies, serving under Moultrie and Lincoln, in the ranks with numerous co-religionists from Charleston and other sections, until the British were driven out of the Carolinas. He was then honorably discharged from service, and shortly thereafter, and before Cornwallis' surrender, at Yorktown, settled at Richmond. Mr. Cohen soon became a successful merchant and subsequently a banker, and in the latter capacity was able to render important service to the young Republic. Frequent reference to Mr. Cohen is found in the Madison papers and the future President, on several occasions, bore testimony to his valuable services. Though absorbed with the cares of business, Mr. Cohen, during his residence in Richmond, was interested in public affairs and was conspicuous in all municipal movements, being chosen a magistrate and a member of the City Council. He was twice married but had no children. He died at Philadelphia, in 1823, and his remains rest in the old Hebrew burying ground on Spruce Street. After the close of the Revolutionary War, Israel I. Cohen, a younger brother of Jacob I., joined the latter at Richmond. He subsequently made a voyage to England, where he was married, and in 1787 returned to Richmond, bringing with him his wife. He died in that city in 1803, and was there buried, leaving a widow, six sons and one daughter. The sons were : Jacob I. Cohen Jr., Philip I., Mendes I., Benjamin I., David I., Joshua I. In 1802, the six sons, with their mother and sister, removed to Baltimore. Hyman Marks was a citizen of Richmond towards the close of the Eighteenth Century. His wife was a native of Newport and a child of Hillel and Abigail Seixas Judah.

86 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The burning of the Richmond theatre in the year 1811, resulting in the death of the Governor of the State and many other prominent citizens, caused a painful sensation throughout the country, and brought grief to numerous Hebrew households. Among those who perished in that memorable catastrophe, were : Mrs. Zipporah Marks, Miss Eliza Jacobs,

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 8/

Joseph Jacobs, Charlotte Raphiel and Adelaide Boseman, the two latter being children.

Joseph Marx was a wealthy merchant. His son Samuel was cashier of the Bank of Virginia. Marcus Levy was an eccentric character. He claimed to be a prophet. Solomon Jacobs, besides occupying various public offices, was President of the synagogue. Reuben Canter, an intelligent Englishman, was a tobacconist. Mr. Norstedlan, a prominent German and highly respected in the community, was engaged in a similar business. Alexander Levy came from Alsace, France. He had been a soldier under Napoleon. L. Isaac Lyon was a prominent business man, and in his youth was engaged in the printing establishment where the State laws were published. Israel B. Kursheedt reached Richmond soon after the war of 1812, having come to New York from Germany in 1796. In Richmond he conducted a lottery and exchange business. His wife was a daughter of Rev. Gershom Mendes Seixas, of New York. Abram L. Philip, was a well known merchant. Henry L. Philip was an importer of fancy goods. Myer Ansel, who married the eldest daughter of Rev. Abraham Hyam Cohen, was also a merchant. Zalma Rehine was a storekeeper, and the uncle of Isaac Leeser. One of the leading members of the synagogue was David Judah, a merchant.

About the year 1840 the Hebrew community in Richmond was one of the most flourishing in the country. The year 1844 witnessed the formation of the Synagogue Beth-Ahaba. An unpleasant episode occurred about this time, steps having been taken by the older congregation to prevent the interment of members of the new synagogue in the cemetery, of which the first congregation claimed exclusive control. A legal contest was necessary in order to settle the points at issue. Gustavus A. Myers, a co-religionist and prominent member of the bar, was retained as counsel by the Germans. The decision of the Court was in favor of his clients.

88 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

During the second decade of the present century the Hebrew population included Abram Levy, Jacob Levy, Simon Block, Benjamin Jewell, Marcus Levy, Solomon Raphael, Mordecai Marks, Solomon Fallen, Israel B. Kursheedt, Myer Angel, Samuel Daniels, Isaac Cardoza, Reuben Canter, Isaac Lyons, Jacob Phillips, Myer Ansel, Abram L. Philip, Henry L. Philip, Solomon Marks, Adolph Ancker, Mitchell Ancker, Hart Ancker, Jacob Ancker, Gustavus Ancker, Mr. Norstedlan, Alexander Levy, David Judah, Joseph Jacobs. Prior to 1845 the population was increased by the arrival of Elias Mayer, Abraham Seixas, Hyman Seixas, Elias Marks, M. J. Michelbacher, Abraham Hirsh, Solomon Soher, Aaron Myers, Lewis Pyle, Abram Pyle, Isaac Schriver, Isaac Rosenheim, Joseph Myer, Moses Waterman, Myer Stern, Joseph Milheiser, William Fleishman, Emanuel Strauss, Solomon Hunt, Emanuel Hunt, Henry Hyman, Lewis Hyman, Lazarus Rosenfeld, Lewis Rosenfeld, Emanuel Rosenfeld, Simon Rosenfeld, Isaacs Bachrach, Moses Mittledorfer, Abraham Hutzler, Simon Hutzler and Augustus Mailert.

Emanuel Hunt, who lived to the age of 106 years, was a highly respected merchant. He strictly observed the Hebrew Sabbath and holidays up to the time of his death, including the twenty-four hours fast on the Day of Atonement. He was the recipient of numerous testimonials for saving the lives of several citizens from drowning. His death, which occurred in 1845, caused profound sorrow in the community. His funeral was attended by the Governor of the State and numerous State and Municipal officers.

THE HEBREWS IN_ AMERICA. 89

NEW ORLEANS.

Of the early settlement of Hebrews in the State of Louisiana the information obtainable is somewhat meagre. The edict known as the "Black Code," in the reign of Bienville, forbade them from becoming settlers, denied them the rights of citizenship, and placed them in the same category with the negroes for whom the code was originally intended and whence it derives its name. The Huguenots, however, were subjected to similar restrictions, and when, after their expulsion from France, they expressed a desire to emigrate to Louisiana, the answer was returned from the Home Government that they had not been expelled from France for the purpose of allowing them to settle in any of the French colonies. Hence, it appears that the provisions of the "Black Code" deterred Hebrews from venturing to Louisiana until the edict was regarded as inoperative and, to some extent, a *' dead letter." Judah Touro, Alexander Isaac and Asher Phillips, were among the arrivals early in the present century. Abraham Labatt, father of the present well-known lawyers, was among the old-time residents. Bernard Cohn, born in 1820, is one of the few survivors of early days.

The first Hebrew burial ground at New Orleans was located just beyond the suburb of Lafayette in the Parish of Jefferson, and fronted on Jackson Street, the purchase price being $361.24 which sum was paid by Manis Jacobs and Aaron Daniels the Senior Wardens, and Abraham Plotz, Asher Philips and Abraham Green, the Junior Wardens of a benevolent society styling themselves SJiaaray-CJiesed. On June 28, 1828, the first interment in the cemetery, that of Hyam Harris took place, followed on July 23d by Emanuel Stern, and the following day by that of his wife. Among the interments up to 1834 are G. S. Gomperts in 1828; Sarah Jacobs in 1829; M. Marx in 1829; Susan Barnett and Samuel Hart in 1832, M. Strauss 1833; August Luzenburg 1834. Most of the earlier interments were natives of Germany and Holland, many of those later on coming from Charleston, London, England, Cincinnati, Baltimore and Kingston, Jamaica. The first congregation adopting the name of the benevolent society {Shaaray-Chesed) before referred to, worshipped in a room on the top floor of a building in St. Louis Street.

The population of New Orleans did not exceed 10,000 when, in 1801, Judah Touro took up his abode in the town. He was then but twenty-five years of age, and was the son of the Rev. Isaac Touro of Newport, where he was born. Having lost his father when eight years old, and his mother four years later, his care and education devolved upon his mother's brother, a son of Michael Moses Hays of Boston, in whose counting-room he was reared. At the age of twenty-two he was selected as supercargo of a valuable shipment to the Mediterranean. After returning home he went to New Orleans where he opened a store and soon built up a thriving trade in New England products. His earnings were invested in ships and real estate and he soon attained prominence. Forming the acquaintance of Rezin D. Shepherd, also an enterprising merchant from Virginia, a warm attachment soon sprung up between the two.

During the memorable defense of New Orleans by Andrew Jackson, Judah Touro entered the ranks as a common soldier, and on January 1, 1815, volunteered his services to aid in carrying shot and shell from a magazine to a battery. Whilst thus engaged he was struck on the thigh by a twelve pound shot and seriously wounded. Mr. Shepherd was also serving in the ranks when he learnt of his friend's misfortune, and though the surgeon in charge declared that Touro's life could not be saved, he procured a cart and lifting the wounded man into it, drove to the city and carried Touro into his house, returning to the field after seeing that his friend was properly cared for. Shepherd and Touro were ever afterward inseparable, and both became millionaires. Judah Touro died at New Orleans, June 18, 1854. Public journals and eminent divines offered eloquent and just tributes to his virtues. In New Orleans his death created a profound sensation and this feeling extended to many other places. By his will one-half of his estate was distributed among various charitable institutions, including $80,000 to the New Orleans Alms House, handsome endowments to all Hebrew congregations in the country, and numerous private legacies to individual friends. Rezin D. Shepherd was made the universal legatee of the residue of the estate, in recognition of having preserved his life. One of the personal legacies in Mr. Touro's will, was the sum of $3,000 to the Rev. Dr. Theodore Clapp, the eminent Universalist divine.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 91

Upon learning that Amos Lawrence, of Boston, had pledged himself to give $10,000 to complete the Bunker Hill Monument, if any other person could be found to give a like amount, Mr. Touro immediately sent a check for the amount. At a dinner given at Faneuil Hall, at the celebration of the completion of the monument, the following toast was given :

Lawrence and Touro, united names,
Patriarch and Prophet, press their equal claims ;
Christian and Jew, they carry out one plan.
For though of different faith, each heart, a man.

92 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

In accordance with his dying request and a provision in his will, Judah Touro's remains were conveyed to Newport for interment, accompanied by the Revs. J. K. Gutheim, Isaac Leeser, and S. M. Isaacs.

Rev. Mr. Leeser, in the course of his remarks at the grave, said :

He massed wealth by honest frugality, treasures flowed into his coffers in the pursuit of his mercantile enterprises. He had no one near him who was bound to him by the ties of blood and kindred, yet he squandered not his acquisitions in extravagance and intemperance, in boisterous wassail or secret debauchery ; but he relieved distress when it presented itself to his benevolent eye ; when he saw the naked, he clothed them ; and those that needed food, obtained it at his hands, whether they belonged to his faith or country, or whether they worshipped at other shrines, and had just seen the light of day in foreign lands. And if you had seen him in his daily walks, you would not have suspected him to be the man of wealth, and the honored protector of the poor, as he was ; the exterior of our brother betrayed not the man within. But when he gave you his hand, when he expressed in his simple manner that you were welcome, you could not doubt his sincerity ; you felt convinced that he was emphatically a man of truth, of sincere benevolence. And thus he lived for many years, unknown to the masses, but felt within the circle where his character could display itself without ostentation and obtrusiveness, at a period when but few of his faith were residents of the same city with him.*

Ezekiel Salomon, a son of Haym Salomon, of Philadelphia, was the cashier of the branch of the United States Bank at New Orleans, in which office he died in 1822. Gershom Kursheedt, one of the sons of Israel B. Kursheedt, settled in New Orleans about 1835, and during his early years served as a clerk, and afterwards published a daily newspaper. Judah Touro appointed Mr. Kursheedt one of his executors.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 93

BALTIMORE.

According to the Provincial Court Record of Maryland, there reside in that Province, as early as 1658, one "Jacob Lumbrozo, late of Lisbon, in the Kingdom of Portugal," who was known as "Ye Jew Doctor." Lumbrozo was committed for blasphemy, in the year mentioned, and in 1663, he was granted letters of "denizacion." In 1665 he received a commission to trade with the Indians. Jacob Hart, a Hebrew of German birth, who came to this country in 1775, was a merchant in Baltimore during the Revolution. He is the person mentioned in the secret journals of the Revolutionary Congress, as having headed a subscription of the merchants of that city, and raised 2,000 guineas for the relief of a detachment of the American Army, under the command of Lafayette, while passing through Baltimore. Mr. Hart was the father-in-law of Haym M. Salomon, son of Haym Salomon of Philadelphia. Nathaniel Levy of Baltimore, fought under Lafayette, during the campaign of 1781.

In 1758 Jacob Myers erected an inn at the southeast corner of Baltimore and Gay Streets. Reuben and Solomon Etting settled in Baltimore towards the close of the Eighteenth Century and were prominent citizens as early as 1795. Reuben was captain of the Independent Blues. He removed to Philadelphia where he married, and where his descendants still reside. Solomon Etting was a native of York, Penn., where he was born in 1764. He was one of the committee of citizens appointed to forward resolutions to Washington, expressive of disapprobation of the proposed treaty with Great Britain. In 1804 he was one of the Directors of the Baltimore Water Company, whose shares at one time sold at 900 per cent, above par. In 1816 he was appointed a Street Commissioner, and in 1828 a Director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He was for many years a Director of the Union Bank of Baltimore, and was elected a member of the City Council immediately after the passage of the Enfranchisement Bill in 1825, and was made President of the First Branch. Mr. Etting's second wife was a daughter of Simon Gratz, of Philadelphia. He reared a large family, and resided in Baltimore up to the time of his death, about 1847.

94 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The six sons of Israel J. Cohen arrived in Baltimore soon after the death of their father at Richmond in 1803. They were Jacob I., Jr., Philip I., Mendes I., Benjamin I., David I., and Joshua I. Jacob I., Jr., was about thirteen years of age at the time. Under the watchful care of a good and pious mother he became at an early age a successful business man. He established at Baltimore, where he removed after his father's death, the banking house of J. I. Cohen, Jr., & Brothers, which was widely and honorably known in its day. He took an active part in business affairs, and his opinions and counsel were constantly sought in matters of public importance. When the Legislature of Maryland, in 1826, removed the disabilities of the Hebrews, who had previously been ineligible to public office, Mr. Cohen was elected to represent his ward in the City Council. He was several times re-elected and finally chosen annually as a member of the First Branch. He was President of the Council from 1845 to 1851. During his early connection with the Council Mr. Cohen was particularly active in the establishment of the Baltimore Public School system. The developments of all works of internal improvement engaged his attention, and when the building of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad was suggested, Mr. Cohen was one of the most active projectors of the movement. He was for a long time Vice-President of the company and remained a Director until his death. In 1836 he was chosen a director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, and in 1849 ^^ became the President of the Baltimore Fire Insurance Company. This office he also occupied up to the time of his death, the administration of its affairs being attended with great prosperity to the corporation. Mr. Cohen, who was a bachelor, died in 1869, in his eightieth year, attended by the loving ministrations of his two brothers and of the nieces and nephews to whom he stood a parent. He was beloved and respected by all who knew him. Mr. Cohen's residence in Baltimore was the first private dwelling in that city to be lighted with gas. This event took place in 1820. Philip I. Cohen, the second son of Israel I. Cohen, married at Norfolk, Va., and died there in 1852. He was postmaster of the city at the time of his death. In the war of 1812-14 he was a member of Captain Nicholson's company of Fencibles, and served in the defense of Fort McHenry during the bombardment.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. ^5

When the British menaced Baltimore in 1814, Mendes I. Cohen volunteered in its defence, and served in Fort McHenry during the memorable bombardment. After retiring from the banking business, in 1829, he travelled extensively, visiting the principal cities of Europe and the East, and ascended the Nile. While abroad he acquired numerous objects of antiquarian value, including the great collection of Consul-General Salt, at London, which number 680 objects. This collection was presented by his nephews to Johns Hopkins University in 1884, and is known as the "Cohen Collection of Egyptian Antiquities." While abroad Mr. Cohen was the recipient of marked attention, from numerous celebrities including the Rothschilds and Pope Gregory XVI. He also witnessed the Coronation of Queen Victoria. Mr. Cohen served a term in the Maryland Legislature, where he introduced several important bills. He served for some years as Director of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and was a prominent member of various commercial and benevolent associations. In Baltimore no man was better known than he, or more highly respected. He was ever lending a helping hand to worthy charities and always a firm upholder of the faith of his fathers. He lived to the age of eighty-three.

CJG THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Benjamin I. and David I. Cohen were both married, and both were actively engaged in the banking business with their brothers. The former died in Baltimore in 1845, and the latter in 1847. Both were prominent in business and social affairs, and left large families. David I. Cohen was the father of the distinguished Civil Engineer, Mendes Cohen, now a resident of Baltimore. Joshua I., sixth son of Israel I. Cohen, was at the time of his death, in 1870, one of the leading physicians of Baltimore. He attained distinction in the treatment of diseases of the ear, and was a man of scholarly and scientific attainments. He was known as a mineralogist of high rank, and for some years filled the chair of Geology and Mineralogy in the University of Maryland. He was also a member of the American Philosophical Society, and many other scientific bodies.

David Nunes Carvalho resided in Baltimore in 1828. He was a brother of Rev. E. N. Carvalho. In 1814 he married

Sarah, daughter of Rev. Benjamin Cohen D'Azevedo, of Charleston, S. C. In Bahimore he was engaged in the manufacture of marble paper, and on his removal to Philadelphia, was appointed one of the City Judges of the Court of Arbitration, occupying the office until business recalled him to Baltimore, where he died, in 1860, aged seventy-six years. Among his literary remains was a tragedy in blank verse, in five acts, entitled, " Queen Esther," and a metrical translation of the Psalms of David, in English, from the original Hebrew, neither of which have been published.

In the State of Maryland, as early as 1649, the full rights of citizenship were denied to those not professing the Christian religion. The first movement looking for the enfranchisement of the Hebrews, took place in 1797, and in 1818 the first persistent and organized effort was made in that direction. At that time, a citizen of Maryland, if of the Hebrew faith, though eligible to appointment to any office, under the Constitution of the United States, could not, under the government of Maryland, be appointed a Justice of the Peace, and though compelled to perform military duty, he could not rise even to the rank of ensign in the militia, nor plead as an attorney at the bar ; in short, he was disqualified from holding any office under the State Government. The attempted removal of these disabilities by the House of Delegates, in the year 1818, led to heated and protracted discussion. On December 9th of that year Mr. Kennedy, of Washington County, moved that a committee of three be appointed "to consider the justice and expediency of extending to persons professing the Jewish religion the same privileges that are enjoyed by Christians." Twelve days thereafter, Mr. Kennedy, who with Messrs. Brackenridge and

98 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

E. S. Thomas of Baltimore, had been appointed such committee, made an exhaustive report recommending the passage of an act extending such rights and privileges. Numerous attempts were made to postpone consideration of the bill, and on the question being put, "Shall the Bill pass?" Mr. Kennedy opened the debate. In the course of his remarks, which cover thirty printed pages of the official report, and abound in eulogies of the Hebrew race, he said :

Poor, hapless, unfortunate children of Israel, how are ye fallen ! once the peculiar people of God, and enjoying His favor, His protection and His immediate presence ; blest with a land flowing with milk and honey, with a climate bland as the dew of heaven and a soil luxuriantly fertile ; now scattered and dispersed, oppressed and persecuted, without a country and without a home ! Ye have drank deep of adversity's bitter draught ; ye have indeed emptied " the cup of trembling even unto the dregs " – yet scattered and dispersed as ye have been ; amidst all your distresses and unparalleled sufferings– ye have still been faithful and true to the religion of your forefathers ; ye have still worshipped the God of Abraham ; and ye have lived to see your destroyers destroyed. But fear not ye sons of Jacob – faint not ye children of Israel ; though cast down, ye shall never be destroyed ; persecuted, ye shall never be utterly forsaken ; the hour of your deliverance approaches ; the day of your redemption draweth nigh ; and he who led your fathers through the wilderness, he who has hitherto preserved you as a nation – as a peculiar people, will, ere long, restore you to the promised land.

I call upon you as legislators to whose hands are committed the destinies of a free and generous people, to do them justice. I call upon you, as Christians, to consider what you would expect, what you would ask, were you now in their situation, and to do them justice. I ask no more.

After a three days' debate the bill was lost by a vote of twenty-four in the affirmative and fifty in the negative. A few days thereafter, a motion was made in the Senate for permission to bring in a bill to repeal such parts of the Constitution and Bill of Rights as establish a religious test as a qualification to office, which was also refused. These exciting debates were the subject of discussion and formed the topic of newspaper comment in all parts of the country. The Natchez, Miss., " Independent Press," said:

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

99

As it was not required, when a soldier was enlisted in the armies of the Revolution, that he should give an account of his religious tenets before he could be permitted to shed his blood in defence of liberty ; as it was not demanded of a citizen when he was called upon to give up his property to support those heroes who were fighting the battles of his country, to what God he prayed to prosper her arms, before he was allowed to contribute to the achievement of her independence ; little does it become us now, to say to one who has borne the heat or burthen of the combat, because he eats not of the same bread, nor drinks from the same cup as we do – *'Thou art not one of us."

The following verses appeared in the " Franklin Gazette " of Philadelphia, after the rejection of " The Jew Bill."

What ! still reject the fated race,
Thus long, denied repose –
What 1 madly striving to efface,
The Rights that heaven bestows !

Say, flows not in each Jewish vein.
Unchecked – without control ;
A tide as pure – as free from stain –
As warms the Christian's soul !

Do ye not yet the Hmes discern,
That these shall cease to roam –
That Shiloh, pledged for their return,
Will bring his ransomed home !

Be error quick, to darkness, hurl'd !
No more with hate pursue –
For He who died to save a world, IMMANUEL– was a Jew.

100 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

After being voted down session after session, the bill was finally passed by both Houses of the Legislature in 1822. In accordance with the Constitution, its ratification was required by the next Legislature. This failed of accomplishment, but the friends of the measure were indefatigable and on Saturday, February 26, 1825, the last day of the session, the bill passed the Assembly. It was ratified at the succeeding session and thus became a law. According to Solomon Etting, of Baltimore (of whom an account is given elsewhere in this volume) the total Hebrew population of Maryland at that time did not exceed 125, whose combined wealth was estimated at $500,000, and at the same time he computed their total number in the United States at this period to be about 6,000, whose wealth was estimated at about $10,-000,000. These facts were elicited in the course of an examination by a committee of the Legislature during the pendency of " Tire Jew Bill."

In 1832 the Hebrew citizens residing in Baltimore were J. M. Dyer, Tobias Myer, Jonas Friedenwald, Levi Benjamin, Solomon Etting, Jacob I. Cohen, Mendes I. Cohen, Joseph Simpson. Mr. Dyer was the first President of the synagogue which Avorshipped in " Old Town," Abraham Rice being the first Minister.

CINCINNATI.

Previous to 1818 no Hebrews are believed to have been included in the population of the then far-off Western town of Cincinnati. In that year P. I. Johnson arrived there, and later removed to Louisville and then to St. Louis. Soon after Mr. Johnson's arrival he was joined by Joseph Jonas, who had already reached New York in 1816, and proceeded to Philadelphia where he lived for some time with Samuel ■ Joseph and Levi Phillips. The latter urged him to abandon his intention of taking up his abode " in the wilderness of America and entirely amongst Gentiles, and where he would forget his religion and his God." In 1818 there arrived at Cincinnati David Israel Johnson, who lived for a time at Brookville, Ind. He was a brother of P. I. Johnson, who had preceded him. They had numerous children, amongst whom were Edgar M. Johnson, for many years a prominent member of the Cincinnati bar, and at the present time a member of the law firm of Hoadly, Lauterbach & Johnson, of New York City. Lewin Cohen, of London, Barnett Levi, of Liverpool, and Jonas Levy, of Exeter, England, all reached Cincinnati in the month of June, - 1819. Solomon Buckingham, Moses Nathan and Solomon Menkin came from Germany in 1820. The last named established the first wholesale dry goods house in Cincinnati and was respected as a man of sterling worth.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 101

Among the arrivals in 1821, when the total population was but 14,000, were the six Moses brothers, Morris, Phineas, Solomon, Simeon, Benjamin and Elkin. Most of these were from England, Simeon coming from the Island of Barbadoes, The only survivor of these six brothers is Phineas. In 1823, Joseph, Morris, Simeon and Simon Symonds, arrived from Portsmouth, England. Joseph Jonas was joined soon after his arrival by his three brothers, Abraham, Samuel and George. A son of Abraham, Benjamin F., is the ex-United States Senator from Louisiana. The parents of the four brothers followed them to Cincinnati, bringing with them another son, Edward. Samuel and Moses J. De Young and wife, and Joseph Abraham, were among the old-time residents of Cincinnati coming from England. Mr. Abraham was one of twenty-two brothers and sisters, and emigrated from England to Jamaica, where his uncle was established in business. Ill health caused his departure for New York where he arrived during the great fire of 1835. Major M. M. Noah gave him employment in his newspaper office. At the suggestion of his friend, Phineas Moses, Mr. Abraham removed to Cincinnati in the Spring of 1836, where he married Miss Sarah De Young, a daughter of one of the pioneers.

102 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Of the early residents who formed the nucleus from which has grown the present large, influential and wealthy Hebrew community, Phineas Moses and Joseph Abraham, are the sole survivors. Elias Mayer and his brother, David Mayer, emigrated from France. The former who recently died at the age of eighty-four years, married Miss Ancker of Richmond, Va., and was active in organizing the first synagogue in Cincinnati.

The growing population, recognizing the necessity of concerted action with respect to religious services, assembled at the residence of Morris Moses, January 4, 1824, with Mr. Moses in the Chair and Joseph Jonas acting as Secretary. Resolutions were adopted to form a congregation "for the purpose of glorifying our God and observing the fundamental principles of our faith, as developed in the laws of Moses." Those taking part in the proceedings were Morris Moses, Joseph Jonas, David I. Johnson, Jonas Levy, Solomon Moses, Simon Moses, Phineas Moses, Samuel Jonas, Solomon Buckingham and Morris Symonds. Two weeks after, on January 18th, another meeting was held, when a constitution and by-laws were adopted, Joseph Jonas being elected Parnass, and Phineas Moses and Jonas Levy, Vestrymen. Resolutions were passed to secure a proper place for holding services in which chorus singing was for some years a feature. David I. Johnson, Morris Moses and Joseph Jonas officiated for some time as Hazan, and in 1826 Morris Moses was elected Parnass, and David I. Johnson, Gabay. Being pressed for funds, the congregation made an appeal to sustain the synagogue which was generously responded to by the congregations of Charleston, Philadelphia, Barbadoes and Portsmouth, England. In 1830, the Congregation B'nai-Israel was regularly organized under a special act of incorporation by the Legislature. In the early part of 1836, a committee was appointed for the purpose of purchasing a lot of ground and erecting thereon a synagogue. Liberal contributions followed, and the first synagogue was successfully erected, the consecration taking place in September, 1836.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 103

In the same year Hart Judah was elected first Hazan of the congregation, with a salary of $100 per annum. Before the close of his term of service his salary was increased to $1,000. Members' dues were fixed at six dollars per annum. The era of peace and concord was soon disturbed by the misconduct of a member of the congregation, which led to his expulsion. The offender, together with several partisans, thereupon withdrew and organized a new congregation, whence has developed the large and influential Congregation B' nai-Jesurun, of which Rev. Isaac M. Wise has been for many years the head. The original congregation which was located on Broadway, near Sixth Street, continued to prosper despite this disaffection. The phenomenal growth of the congregation rendered a more commodious synagogue necessary. About 1852, a new building was erected with accommodations for 500 males, and 400 females. The new building was consecrated by the late Rev. Dr. M. J. Raphall, of New York. Up to this period the service and ritual was strictly orthodox. The Rev. Dr. Lilienthal was made Rabbi and preacher of the congregation, and at his suggestion certain changes in the ritual were adopted. A number of members opposed to the proposed innovations then withdrew and organized a new congregation under the name of Shearith-Israel, which still exists as an orthodox congregation. This disaffection, however, in no wise impaired the growth of the old Congregation F nai-Israel, which now ranks among the ultra Reform Congregations.

I04 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

CLEVELAND.

In Cleveland, Ohio, the earliest settlers were Samson Thorman, of Unsleben, Bavaria, who arrived in 1837. Aaron Lowentrite, of Schoningen, Bavaria, reached there the same year. The first Hebrew family to settle in Cleveland was that of Samson Hoffman, in 1839, who also came from Unsleben. Isaac Hoffman, a son, is still residing at Cleveland. During the same year Simon Thorman, also from Unsleben, arrived in Cleveland, and during the following year Simon Newmark, from Wilmersdorf, near Fuerth, Bavaria, Moses Alsbacher, from Unsleben, S. L. Coleman and Gerson Strauss, from Geroden, near Ruedenberg, Bavaria, and Kalman Rosskopf, from Gerstfeld, settled in that city. In the year 1839, "the Israelite Society" was started and services were held in a hall on South Water Street and Winyard Lane, with Samson Thorman as President, and Isaac Hoffman as Minister. A burial ground was purchased in 1840, at a cost of $100. Two "splits" occurred in the congregation, one in 1846, when several members withdrew for the purpose of forming a second synagogue styled Anshe-Chesed, which was soon abandoned, and again in 1848, when the Congregation Tiferith-Israel, was organized. The members of the latter, in 1852, erected a Temple on Huron Street. George Davies was the first President.

CHICAGO.

With a view of engaging in agricultural pursuits, a number of Bavarians about the year 1841 or 1842 delegated a Mr. Meyer to proceed to Schaumburg, Ill., and inquire into its advantages for Hebrew colonization. It was found inexpedient to settle here, although Mr. Meyer had reported the section to be one "in which milk and honey is flowing, particularly for the tillers of the soil." Removal to Chicago was then decided upon, the pioneers being Jacob Fuller and Benedict Schubert, who erected the first brick building on Lake Street. Benedict Schubert was already a resident of the then insignificant town, and engaged in the business of merchant tailor, in which he became wealthy. Abraham Kohn, Levi Rosenfelt, Jacob Rosenbergh, Isaac Teigler, Isaac Conk, Meyer Klein, the Rubel brothers, Samuel Cole, M. M. Gerstley, Messrs.. Greenebaum, Fuller, Weinemann, Brunneman, Clayburgh, Weigselbaum, Zeigler and others arrived about this time. Increase in numbers and success in business enterprises enabled the purchase of ground for a cemetery, which is now within the limits of Lincoln Park, and the formation of a congregation, under the name of Kehiluth Anske MeraJi (Congregation of the Men of the West) soon followed. Worship was conducted on the upper floor of an old frame building at the southwest corner of Lake and Wells Streets, whence they removed to a small building on Clark, between Quincy and Jackson Streets, remaining there until 1854, when they removed to Wells and Adams Streets, Ignatz Kimreuther was the first Minister of the congregation, and was succeeded by Hazans G. Syn-dacker, G. M. Cohen, L. Lebrecht, L. Levi, M. Mensar, M. Moses and L. Adler. In 1851 the Congregations Kehiluth and Sinai were founded. The former occupied at first a hall in a building on Clark, near Jackson Street, and the latter established themselves on Monroe Street, near La Salle. Abraham Kohn was one of the first to occupy public office. He was chosen City Clerk, and Henry Greenebaum was elected to a seat in the City Council from 1856 to 1858, E. S. Salomon was elected to a like office from 1859 ^1861, The advance guard at a very early period took measures for the organization of charitable associations, the result of which was the institution of a Benevolent Association, Relief Association and Ladies' Benevolent Society.

Io6 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

ST. LOUIS.

Four years previous to Missouri's admission into the Union as a State, the Territory was inhabited by Hebrews. The Bloch, or Block family, was the first and most numerous to settle west of the Mississippi River. This was in 1816. The family consisted of several brothers and numerous cousins, and were natives of Schwiham, in Bohemia, Austria. They first settled at Cape Girardeau; Troy, in Lincoln County; Perryville, in Perry County, and Louisiana, in Pike County. Some of them then removed to St. Louis, which began to rise into prominence about that time (1819) when the first steamer for New Orleans landed there. Two years later the population of St. Louis had increased to 5,000. Eliezer Block was at this time (1821) an attorney-at-law, while Thomas H. Benton, subsequently the distinguished United States Senator, and Edwin Bates, some years later Attorney-General of the United States, were practicing at this time in the courts of that city. The Block family were distinguished for their remarkable vigor and longevity, some of them reaching the age of ninety years, while one lived to the age of 100. All were respected as industrious, high-minded and successful business men. Throughout the Mississippi Valley few firms were better known or more highly esteemed than Block & McCune, owners of the Northern Mississippi Steamship Line.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 107

While the Blocks were the first to settle West of the Mississippi, Phineas Israel Johnson was the first Hebrew to settle at St. Louis. Mr. Johnson was a descendent of the famous D'Israeli family, of which Lord Beaconsfield was a member. Accompanied by his brother, D. J. Johnson, he sailed from Portsmouth, England, in 1817, and settled in Cincinnati. Here the latter remained, while his brother, Phineas, removed to Louisville. In 1819, he established himself at St. Louis where he engaged in the auction business with the elder Patrick Walsh, then as clerk and afterwards as partner with John D. Daggett, under the firm name of Walsh, Johnson & Co. In April, 1827, Mr. Daggett was elected an Alderman of St. Louis. This was during the administration of William Carr Lane, the first Mayor of St. Louis, and, in 1841, Mr. Daggett was himself Mayor of the city. Mr. Johnson married a Christian lady, Miss Clarissa Clark, of Virginia, a grand-niece of Abraham Clark of New Jersey, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

I08 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Hebrew settlements up to the third decade of the present century, were few and wide apart, that in St. Louis being separated from the East by a gap of several hundred miles. Louisville and Cincinnati were the nearest, hence the frequent inter-marriages between Hebrews and Christians.

The prospect of going to a far-off wilderness deterred the daughters of the eastern settlers from accepting offers of marriage. As a result, the Block family also married Christians, and many of the old and most prominent families of St. Louis are connected by blood and marriage with Hebrew ancestry. The Carrs, Edgertons, Faggs, Taylors, Meisenburgs and others, are grandchildren of the Blocks. The Hebrew emigrants themselves, however, and most of their descendants, have always adhered to the Hebrew faith, Matilda, daughter of Phineas Israel Johnson, married Captain Sol. L. Levi, a zealous Hebrew, of St. Louis, who worked faithfully in establishing the first synagogue, E'liai-El, and contributed largely to the purchase of the first Hebrew cemetery. In 1839 ^^ "^^^ appointed by Governor Clark, Captain of the first Volunteer Militia Company, was a member of the City Council in 1854-55, and held the office of Notary Public from 1849 up to the time of his death in 1877.

The first religious service by the Hebrews of St. Louis, was held in September, 1836, on the Hebrew New Year. In 1839, steps were taken for organizing a congregation, to be known as Achduth-hracl or United Hebrew Congregation. Abraham Weigel was elected first President and Rabbi, Samuel Davidson first Reader. Mr. Weigel died January, 31, 1888. The congregation up to 1859 occupied rented rooms in various localities. Dr. Illovy was elected Rabbi in 1854, and A. J. Latz served as President from 1852 to 1861. The corner-stone of the new synagogue, the first in St. Louis, was laid March 1, 1857, and the edifice was opened and dedicated in 1859, R'^^— Dr. M. J. Raphall, of New York, officiating.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. I09

PITTSBURG.

The pioneers of the prosperous and influential Hebrew community at Pittsburg, Penn., were David Strasburger, Emanuel Reis, Jacob Klein, Louis Stern, William Frank, L. Hirschfeld, Simon Stein, N. Gallinger and E. Wormer. In the year 1846, a congregation known as Etz-CJaiyini, was organized, the place of worship being on Third Street, on a floor over the " Vigilant " Engine Plouse. Mr. Manheimer was elected first Minister. He was succeeded by Mr. Sulzbacher. In 1851, Rev. William Armhold, was elected Minister. He continued in office until 1865, when L. Naumburg was chosen in his place. William Frank was first President of the congregation, and Mr. Hirsfeld Secretary. The membership was soon increased by the arrival of Messrs. A. Fink, Mr. Jaroslowsky and three sons, Mr. Silverman, L. Eisner, Joseph Myers, J. Morganstern, L. Morganstern, Asher Fraunefeld, Emanuel Frauenfeld, Abraham Frauenfeld, Simon Kaufman, J. Klee, A. Guckenkeimer, Emanuel Wertheimer, Samuel Wertheimer, Isaac Wertheimer and others. A disagreement led to the withdrawal of the German element together with their Minister, Mr. Armhold, and the formation in 1858, of the Congregation Rodef-Shalome, which secured suitable quarters in the " Irish " Building on St. Clair Street, where they remained until the erection of their own building on Eighth Street, in the year 1861, the dedication sermon being delivered by Rev. Dr. M. J. Raphall, of New York.

no THE HEB-REWS IN AMERICA.

W. Frank was President of the congregation at this time, and Messrs. Hirshfeld and Jaroslowsky later on. A Hebrew, German and English school was opened in connection with this synagogue, with W. Armhold and Josiah Cohen as teachers. The Presidents of the congregation, at a later period, were Joseph Morganstern, Henry Rosenbach, N. Gallinger, Louis Morganstern, Emanuel Wertheimer and S. Kaufman. The Congregation Etz-CJaiyiniy meanwhile, acquired a synagogue on Ross Street, Messrs. Herzman, Weil, Crone and Bernstein, occupying the pulpit at various periods. The Hebrew Benevolent, organized in 1847, together with the Ladies Benevolent Society, accomplished much good during the Civil War, in conjunction with their Christian friends. A Sewing Society was organized in 1883, by the young ladies of Pittsburg and Alleghany, to provide clothing for the sick and needy.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The first settlers in Indianapolis, Ind., were Moses Woolf, Alexander and Daniel Franco. They came from London, England, in 1849. ^ Family of Hungarian Hebrews named Knefler arrived soon afterward. Adolph Rosenthal and Dr. J. M. Rosenthal reached there in 1854, and remained many years, finally removing to Louisville. Herman Bamberger reached Indianapolis in 1855, and has resided there ever since. He has always shown much public spirit and led most movements looking to the amelioration and advancement of his race. He now occupies a seat in the school board and is a leading merchant. Jacob Goldman arrived from Germany the same year, and in 1859 came Joseph, Morris and Henry Solomon, originally from London, but direct from

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. III

Philadelphia. Adolph Dessar, now of New York, was among the settlers in 1853. Max Glazier and Max Durham reached there the same year, establishing themselves in the clothing business. The late lamented Leopold Feibleman settled in Indianapolis in 1860. He was a successful lawyer for many years, and was a candidate for the State Legislature at the time of his death. Among other earlier settlers were David Newman, Henry Rosenthal, Emanuel M. Hays, Samuel Kahn, Isaac Kahn, Levi Kahn, Jacob Kahn, Solomon and Morris Greisheimer. The regular religious body called the " Hebrew Organization " was organized in 1856.

MOBILE.

A number of Hebrews arrived at Mobile, Ala., early in the Forties. The most prominent among them was I. I. Jones, who came from Charleston, S. C., who organized the first congregation of which he served as President for quarter of a century; B. L. Tim, who came from Hamburg, Germany, I. Goldsmith, a Bavarian, S. Lyons and D. Markstein, both Germans, Solomon Jones, brother of I. I. Jones and A. Goldstucker, from Germany, the Frank brothers, who removed to New York, H. Marks, M. Marks ; Isidore Newman, now residing at Starkville, Miss., Messrs. Kyler, Elkus and Waldauer.

The Congregation Shaaray-Shamayim is the oldest in Alabama, and was organized in 1844. Service was first held in the residence of B. L. Tim, Mr. Tim and other lay members officiating. The first synagogue was dedicated December 27, 1846, with Israel J. Jones as President, and Rev. Mr. De Silva, Minister. Mr. Jones remained in office for thirty years. Mr. De Silva died in New Orleans, in 1848, and was succeeded by Baruch M. Emanuel, who served five years. The building now in use was purchased in 1853, from the Mobile Musical Association, and dedicated March 11, 1853, by the Rev. Dr. J. K. Gutheim, Rev. J. Ekman, being the Minister. The year following Rev. J. Epstein, now of St.

112 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Louis, arrived from Germany, and was chosen Minister of the congregation which then numbered forty families. He remained in office ten years. In the fall of 1865, the congregation established an English and Hebrew day-school with Lawrence Moor as Superintendent, and Rev. Dr. L. Wintner, now of Brooklyn, as Superintendent of the Hebrew department. The school was open to all sects, and was for many years one of the leading educational institutions in the South. With the introduction of the Public School system it yielded to these, and is now open only in the Hebrew department, and forms the regular religious school of the congregation. Dr. Wintner was succeeded by Dr. M. Fleugel, as Rabbi, and Rev. A. Laser as Assistant Minister and Teacher. During the yellow fever epidemic in 1870, Dr. Laser died at his post, though admonished by his constituents to leave. The community being disorganized, a certain commercial traveler was appointed to occupy the pulpit, but not proving satisfactory and the congregation being unwilling to elect him permanently, he withdrew and joined the Baptist Church. Rev. Dr. Adolph Moses, then stationed at Montgomery, and now at Louisville, Ky., was chosen as his successor. He remained in Mobile ten years. Rev. Dr. Emanuel Schreiber, of Bonn, Germany, was the next incumbent, occupying the pulpit for two years. He was succeeded by the present Rabbi, H. Berkowitz,

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. II3

AUGUSTA.

At Augusta, Ga., there arrived about 1825 a Mr. Florence, a Hollander, bringing his wife. Isaac Hendricks arrived with his family in 1826, coming from Charleston, S. C, and it is believed that Isaac and Jacob Moise, also Charlestonians, reached Augusta about the same period. In 1820 or thereabouts, Isaac Henry came from Newport, R. I. Charlestonians came in large numbers from this time on ; Isaac and Lewis Levy arrived about 1840, and John J. Cohen 1840. Samuel Levy arrived from Germany in 1844, and Abraham Levy from Germany in 1847. Isaac Levy was for many years City Sheriff and Samuel Levy for two years Judge of the Superior Court and ten years Judge of the Court of Ordinary. The Congregation B'nai-Israel was organized in 1846.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Aaron Lazarus and Aaron Riviera were the first settlers in Wilmington, N. C. Aaron Lazarus, born in Charleston,

S. C, August 26, 1777, was one of the earliest Hebrews to reach Wilmington, coming there in early manhood, and dying at Petersburg, Va., October 2, 1841. He was one of the first directors in the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Company, to which he was a large subscriber. In 1803 he was married to Esther Cohen, who died November 21, 1816, leaving nine children, and March 28, 1821, he married Rachel Mordecai, by whom he had four children. Aaron Riviera was also an early settler in Wilmington. He was Cashier of the Bank of Fear. In 1849 the number of Hebrews in the town did not exceed twenty. An organization was formed for burial purposes in 1852, under the name of " True Brothers' Society." Previous to that time no Hebrew burial place existed in the State. In 1861 the Hebrew population numbered but seven families, all of whom removed to Charlotte with the exception of one. In 1867 a congregation was formed and Rev. E. C. Myers elected Minister. In the fall of 1872 the Temple of Israel was permanently organized, with Solomon Baer, President ; Abraham Weill, Vice-President ; N. Jacoby, Treasurer, and J. I. Macks, Secretary. The corner-stone of the building being laid with Masonic ceremonies, July 15, 1875, Rev. S. Mendelsohn was elected Minister, and the Temple was dedicated by him May 12, 1876.

114 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The heavy tide of travel towards the Pacific Coast on the announcement of the discovery of gold was the occasion of an influx of Hebrews, who went there in large numbers and were among the first to foresee the opportunities offered by a residence in that section. The population was of a heterogeneous and shifting character. While some settled permanently in San Francisco, others ventured in the direction of the gold fields, and others again took up their residence at various interior points. Of those in San Francisco many returned to the Eastern States after a few months' stay, while of others remaining many subsequently ranked among the leading citizens of the State. The numerous changes occurring in the numbers and character of the population during the period named renders it difficult to secure reliable data concerning the first Hebrew settlers in the State.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA, II 5

Two congregations were organized in the year 1851, named respectively, Emanu-El and Shcarit-Ji-Israel. Rudolph Wyman had brought with him from New York the first Scrolls of the Law seen in San Francisco. These were used in one of the temporary synagogues during divine worship, which was first conducted by Albert Priest, a wealthy resident of Long Island, who had reached the Pacific Coast in the wake of Fremont's expedition. These Scrolls of the Law proved a bone of contention and led to curious complications at one time. It appears that the Rothschilds, of London, on learning of the heavy emigration to San Francisco, generously donated and transmitted a Sephardic Torah for the use of the synagogue, which, however, failed to reach its destination until a second house of worship had been formed. Both congregations claimed possession of the Scrolls, and the title to ownership was not adjusted until much unpleasant feeling had been engendered.

PORTLAND.

The prosperity of the Hebrew colony at Portland, Oregon, is attested by their wealth, which, in proportion to their numbers, is more widely distributed than in any other section of the Union, and by their prominence in public affairs. The influx to that State commenced as early as 1850. The first to arrive were Messrs. May and Goldsmith, A. Kaufman, David Abrahams, S. Blumauer, D. Simon, J. Cohn, Gus. Elfeld, Edward Kahn, Moses Kahn, H. F. Bloch, A. Kahn, J. Seller, H. Seller, the Weinshenks and Mansfields. Most of these were Bavarians by birth. About 1855, the first Hebrew Benevolent Society was organized. A burial-ground was purchased by this organization, which now holds a fund of $30,000 in its treasury, as the nucleus for a Home to be established at an early day. The Congregation Beth-Israel was founded in 1857 with Rev. H. Bories as first Hazan and Rev. Dr. Eckman first Rabbi and Preacher. Rev. Dr. Schwab, now of St. Joseph, Mo., next occupied the pulpit. During his ministrations reform was introduced in the synagogue. The present Ritual is the Mishnah-America, and Rabbi J. Bloch, M.A., a native of Bohemia, occupies the pulpit. A quarter of a century ago Rev. Dr. Elkan Cohn, of San Francisco, assisted in the dedication ceremonies. The increase in the Hebrew population in recent years has necessitated the erection of a more commodious building, which will soon be completed at a cost of $70,000. The Sunday-school is attended by 150 scholars and is conducted by Rabbi Bloch and seven assistant teachers.

116 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

ALBANY.

The year 1837 witnessed the arrival of the first Hebrew settlers in Albany, N. Y. These numbered but nine, and were : Mayer Rice, Simeon Schwartz, Bernhard Schmidt, Louis Spurburg, Julius Gershon, Mayer Isaac, Anshel Lind, Samuel Lindenstien and Morris Herrman. Two years later came Philip Altman, Michael Hydeman, Gotlieb Schmidt, Myer Stern, Moses Simpson, Myer Stein, Cushman Stern, Veit Traut, Ferdinand Schuetz, Isaac Cohn, Joseph Erich, Jacob Erich, Nathan, Moses and Simon Kastamenbaum, Sampson Rosendale, Joseph Sparburg, Isaac Smith, Myer Friend, Henry Blatner, Judah Bettman, Moses Schloss, Philip Schloss. Most of these were Bavarians. In 1840, the Hebrew population of Albany numbered thirty families. Today it numbers five hundred families.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. II 7

The Congregation Beth-El was organized in 1838, the Congregation Beth-Jacob, in 1845 and the Congregation Anshe-Emeth in 1850. Nathan Nathanson, a merchant, who arrived at an early period from Portland, Maine, was a talented man, and the mouthpiece of the Hebrews for many years. He officiated in the pulpit of the Congregation Anshe-Emeth pending a vacancy. Rev. Isaac M. Wise took charge of the Congregation Beth-El, in 1846, and four years later was called to the Synagogue Anshe-Emeth, where he remained until 1854. Rev. Dr. Elkan Cohn, now of San Francisco, succeeded him, and later on came Dr. Maurice Mayer whose stay was a brief one. The late Rev. Samson Falk, of Buffalo, settled in Buffalo as a teacher, and was finally chosen Minister of the Congregation Beth-El. In 1886, the Congregations Anshe-Emeth and Beth-El, were consolidated, a consummation due in a great measure to the untiring zeal of Rev. Dr. Max Schlessinger, for twenty-two years the incumbent at Beth-Emeth. Jacob Labushiner was for a period of thirty years, prior to 1880, a prominent teacher of the Hebrew youth.

ROCHESTER.

The city of Rochester, with its present Hebrew population of 2,500 souls, contained but a few individuals of that faith previous to 1848, although some were found there as early as 1840. As in all new communities, the organization of a religious association engrossed the attention of the first settlers at a very early period after their arrival, with the result of the organization of a congregation in the year 1848. This event took place in a house at the corner of Clinton Street and Clinton Place, the following gentlemen taking part in the proceedings: Messrs. M. Rothschild, Joseph Wile, Samuel Marks, Joseph Katz, Gabriel Wile, Henry Levi, Jacob Altman, Joseph Altman, A. Adler, Elias Wolff, A. Weinberg and J. Ganz. After six months a permanent organization was effected under the name of Berith-Kodesh, more desirable quarters having been meanwhile secured at the corner of Main and Front Streets ; and on May 23, 1848, a burial ground was purchased at Mount Hope. Mayer Rothschild was chosen first President of the Congregation, which was incorporated October 8, 1854. The purchase of a site for a Temple took place 1856 (the ground being acquired from Louis Deane) and a building previously occupied as a Baptist Church, was remodelled and occupied until 1876, when the synagogue now occupied was erected at a cost of $25,000, the dedication taking place on September 15, 1876. Hitherto several ministers had occupied the pulpit, the first incumbent being a Mr. Tusky. From 1856 to 1859, Rev. Dr. Isaac Mayer acted as spiritual head. Upon his retirement the Rev. Dr. Sarner officiated for nine months. For a period of three years, 1860 to 1863, a vacancy occurred when Rev. Dr. Ginsberg was chosen to the pulpit, which he occupied until 1868. Another vacancy occurred at this time, when, after a lapse of two years and six months, the Rev. Dr. Max Landsberg, the present incumbent, was appointed Rabbi of the congregation and entered upon his duties in the spring of 1871. The congregation, up to 1862, was classed as orthodox, but in that year a tendency to Reform manifested itself. The movement spread slowly but surely, and the year following witnessed some changes in the ritual, an organ having been already introduced some months before. Further innovations took place from time to time, culminating in the introduction of family pews in 1870, and the almost total abolishment in the year 1883, of the use of Hebrew in the service, a new ritual being agreed upon in which the Vernacular is almost wholly employed.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. II9

In the year 1884, the Rev. Dr. Landsberg officiated for seven consecutive weeks, in the pulpit of the Unitarian Church of Rochester, whose pastor was confined to his home by illness. The incident produced a profound impression in Central New York at the time, and gave rise to unfavorable criticism in some quarters, which, however, was soon silenced when it appeared that Dr. Landsberg's "new departure" met with the approval of the mass of Hebrew and Christian citizens.

BUFFALO.

The growing city of Buffalo, N. Y., attracted Hebrew emigrants as early as 1835, when a Mr. Flersheim, a teacher of the German language and a native of Frankfort-on-the-Main, took up his abode there. Bernard Lichtenstein arrived in Buffalo in 1838, and continued to reside there for over forty years until his removal to Waupun, Wisconsin. From this time on the colonists rapidly increased in numbers, Solomon Phillip, Elias Bernheimer, Joseph E. Strass, Mark Moritz, Samuel Altman and Michael W. Noah being among the earlier arrivals. All were Germans with the exception of the latter, who came from England. The organization of the Synagogue Beth-El took place in 1847, with Mark Moritz as President and Rev. Isaac M. Slatky as Minister. The congregation worshipped in the Hoyt building on the northeast corner of Main and Eagle Streets. Here they remained for over two years. The late Rev. Dr. Samson Falk relates the following amusing incident, which occurred at this place :

It was on a Day of Atonement that Rev. Mr. Slatky stood in the synagogue the whole day, as the custom was, in his white linen robe and white cap, with a white girdle about his loins. Towards dusk he again began to officiate. The congregation could no longer read without lights ; but it being strictly forbidden to the Hebrews of the orthodox school to kindle a light or touch a candlestick on such a day, they sent for some non-Israelite to light their hall. They happened to procure a tall negro. He, on entering the synagogue, seeing Mr. Slatky with his pallid face and his long white beard, in keeping with his white attire and scarf, with the fringes prescribed in the Bible, was seized with terror, ran out as quickly as he could, and, reaching the stairs, fell headlong down the whole flight causing a sensation by his precipitate exit.

This congregation in 1850 purchased an old school house on Pearl Street, near Eagle, which was remodelled and dedicated on July 22d of that year. Rev. Dr. Isaacs, of New York, delivered the dedication sermon, the first in the English language ever delivered in Buffalo. This building was abandoned in 1873, when a more spacious and handsome edifice was erected on Elm Street, between Eagle and North Division, the dedication taking place August 14, 1874. The use of the Polish liturgy caused the withdrawal of several members in November, 1850. These formed a congregation (according to the German liturgy) which they named Beth-Zion, with Rev. Mr. Slatky as Minister. For his services he received five dollars per month the first five months, and $100 per annum thereafter, his duties being confined to reading the prayers and the Torah.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 121

NEW HAVEN.

The permanent settlement of Hebrews in New Haven, Conn., dates from the year 1840, and was hastened by proximity to the city of New York. Trading with the farmers of the surrounding country engaged the attention of many of them, and by honesty and frugality they soon won the respect of their Christian neighbors. The early pioneers came principally from Bavaria, and among them were the Lehman, Ullman, Bretzfelder, Rothschild, Kaufman, Waterman, Milander, Williams, Kern, Lauterbach, and others. The growing colony received rapid accessions, Messrs. Heller, Frankall, Zunder, Mailhouse, Asher, Strouse, Shoninger, Coleman, Kreitzer, Rosenberg, Mandelbaum, reaching New Haven soon thereafter. In 1842 the acquisition of a burial ground was determined upon, and a plot of ground was purchased for the purpose in the adjoining town of Westville, the first interment being that of Mr. Lehman. The Congregation Mishkan-Israel had already been organized at this time and worship was held in various halls dedicated for the purpose until 1856, when with the aid of $5,000, a bequest from Judah Touro, an edifice formerly occupied by the Third Congregational Church in Court Street, was purchased and dedicated. In this building the congregation has worshipped ever since. In 1857 ^ division was caused in the congregation by the progress of the Reform movement which is believed to have been the direct result of the leading members of a lodge of E'nai-Bcrith which had been formed the year before. The founders of the lodge, it is alleged, were imbued with the principles of the order, and declared that " light and truth should take the place of darkness and superstition." The result was the withdrawal of the orthodox members and the formation of the Congregation B'nai-Shalome, of which Solomon Cahn has been an earnest and indefatigable worker. The Congregation Mishkan-Israel to-day ranks as one of the liberal congregations of the country. In recent years the Russian Hebrew exiles, a considerable number of whom were attracted to New Haven have formed several congregations.

122 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

NEWARK, N. J.

The first synagogue in the State of New Jersey was dedicated June 29, 1857, in Washington Street, Newark, by the Congregation E'nai-Jesurun which had been organized nine years prior to that time. They started with fifty members, Bernard Hauser being President, Jacob Rothschild, Aaron Trier and B'erthold Weil, Trustees, and Rev. Mr. Schwartz, Minister. The synagogue had a seating capacity for 200 persons, and cost $3,500.

MEMPHIS.

One of the best known of the old-time residents of Memphis, Tenn., was Joseph I. Andrews, who reached that city about 1850, his family joining him seven years later. After conducting a general store he became a cotton factor. He took a deep interest in the welfare of his co-religionists, and donated the ground for a Hebrew cemetery, in which the first interment was his brother. His wife was Miriam, daughter of the late Joseph B. Nones, of New York City. Their daughter, Sally, married N. D. Menken. Mr. Andrews built the first brick house in Memphis, and also the first large brick hotel, known as "The Commercial." David Kauffman was another of the settlers arriving between 1850 and 1865, as were the brothers, John Walker, Jacob Walker, William Walker and Louis Walker. These were dry-goods and clothing merchants. A. E. Frankland, M. Simon, E. Barinds and M. Bloom, were all useful and prosperous citizens about the same period. Hart Judah was the first regular Minister of the first synagogue, Mr. Stanheimer, a layman, having officiated previous to his installation. Dr. Simon Tuska was the third Minister.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 23

DETROIT.

The Congregation Beth-El, the first at Detroit, Mich., was organized in 1850 and re-organized in 1853. Rev. L. Marcus was the first Rabbi. His successors were Rev. Drs. L. Marcus, L. Adler, L. Laser, L. Kalisch, K. Kohler, L. Winter, H. Zirndorf and L. Grossmann. The membership at the start was twelve. In 1887 the number had increased to 130. A Sabbath-school was formed in 1863 with seventy pupils. In 1888, the membership was 200. The Presidents of the Congregation from 1859 ^^ 1888, were, Emanuel Schloss, Simon Freedman, David J. Workum, Simon Heinrich, Martin Butzel, Seligman Schloss and Julius Robinson. On September 27, 1861, a second congregation was organized with seventeen members, under the name of Shaaray-Zedek, of which the following gentlemen were the Ministers, from 1865 to 1887: Kontrowitsch, A. Goldschmidt, B. Moskowitz, J. Rappaport, R. Kaplan.

GALVESTON.

Prior to 1857, the following Hebrews settled in Galveston, Tex.: J. Osterman, I. Dyer, Samuel Mass, Jacob Harman,

124 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

R. M. Elkes, I. Jalonick, A. Prochovonick, Michael Seeligson, Joel Adler, Simon Ruff, Henry Gros, Louis Gros, I. C. Levy. Later on came M. Kopperl, J. W. Frank, L. C. Harby, A. Blum, Jacob Block, A. Lippmann, J. Pos-

ner, Louis Block and Samson Heidenheimer. On the Day of Atonement, in 1856 the first religious service was held. The Congregation B'nai-Israel, organized July 12th, was the first in the city. J. W. Frank was the first President, and the first Board of Trustees were Leon Blum, S. E. Loeb and L. Dyer. M. Kopperl, was the first President, F. Halff, the second, and Leo N. Levy, the third. The present synagogue was erected at a cost of $30,000 for the ground and building, and was dedicated on Shebuoth, 1871, Rev. A. Blum being the first Minister. He continued in office until 1885, and was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. J. Silverman, who occupied the pulpit until February 20, 1885.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

In the District of Columbia, the first Hebrew resident, as far as known, was Morris Fisher, who reached Washington in 1847. A. Fisher, his son, was the first child of Hebrew parentage born in that city. Between 1847 and 1850, Isaac Hirsh Lissberger, Abraham Strasburger, Jonas Glueck, Leopold Oppenheimer, Captain Jonas P. Levy and Captain M. Lulley arrived there. Religious service was held for some time at the residence of Mr. Strasburger, on Pennsylvania Avenue, with Rev. Mr. Jacoby as Minister. In 1855, the Washington Hebrew Congregation was chartered by Congress. The instrument provided that the congregation should be allowed from time to time by a vote of two thirds to elect their own trustees, the same to be displaced by a like vote at pleasure.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 125

The charter was approved and signed by Franklin Pierce, President of the United States, on December 3, 1855. A Methodist Church was purchased on Eighth Street, near H. and fitted up for synagogue purposes. The introduction of pews and an organ in 1866, caused the withdrawal of several members who organized the Congregation Adath-Israel.

126

IN THE ARMY AND NAVY.

OWING to the destruction of valuable records in the War Office at Washington, in 1800, and in the Southern States during the Civil War, reliable data concerning the part taken by the Hebrews in the various wars is not obtainable. Solomon Etting, of Baltimore, wrote in 1824, that there were many Hebrews in the army during the Revolution " who were always at their post and always foremost in all hazardous enterprises." One of these was Colonel Solomon Bush. In 1769 a corps of volunteer infantry was raised in Charleston, S. C, composed chiefly of Hebrews residing on King Street. They were commanded by Captain Lushington, and afterwards served under General Moultrie, at the battle of Beaufort. Major Benjamin Nones, of Philadelphia, and Captains Jacob De Lamotta and Jacob De Leon, of Charleston, served as aids on De Kalb's staff, and when their chief fell mortally wounded at the battle of Camden, S. C, the three carried him from the field. Major Nones was a native of Bordeaux, France, and came to this country in 1777, settling in Philadelphia. Early in the war he formed the acquaintance of Lafayette and Washington, and subsequently served on the staffs of both. His first service was under Pulaski, as a private, and what he accomplished under the gallant Pole is shown in a testimonial, now in possession of the Nones family, of New York, and signed by Captain Verdier, of Pulask's staff. The following is a translation of the document, which is written in French, and dated at Charleston, December 15, 1779:

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 12/

It is but just that I should render an account of the conduct of those who have most distinguished themselves for bravery in the Legion. I take advantage of the occasion, and with much pleasure in my capacity of captain of volunteers attached to the suite of General Pulaski to certify that Benjamin Nones has served as a volunteer in my company during the campaign of this year and at the siege of Savannah in Georgia, and his behavior under fire in all the bloody actions we fought have been marked by the bravery and courage which a military man is expected to show for the liberties of his country, and which acts of said Nones gained in his favor the esteem of General Pulaski, as well as that of all the officers who witnessed his daring conduct. For which reason I have delivered to him this certificate, having been an eye witness to his bravery and good conduct on the field of battle, and which I make it a duty to certify to with truth, satisfaction and pleasure.

On his retirement from the army, Major Nones was appointed sworn interpreter for the United States government at Philadelphia. Captains De Lamotta and De Leon returned to Charleston after the war, where they were for many years engaged in the auction business.

During the second war with Great Britain Myer Moses, of Charleston, father of the Chief Justice of South Carolina, was commissioned as Captain. Abraham Mitchell, who died in Philadelphia in 1857, ^^^ who for many years was Parnass of the Congregation B'nai-Jesurun, of New York, was also a defender of his adopted country in the war of 1812. Another Hebrew taking part in the war was Mordecai Myers, who was born at Newport in 1776 and lived to the ripe age of ninety-five. He held the rank of Captain in the 30th United States Infantry, and at the battle of Chryslersfield was wounded in the arm. He was at one time a merchant at

128 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Richmond, Va., and then removed to New York, where he was prominent in financial affairs. He resided at Schenectady, N. Y., where he was twice elected Mayor of the city, served with distinction in the State Senate and was honored with the office of Grand Master of Free Masons and Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons of the State of New York.

Two sons of Joshua Moses, a prominent New York merchant engaged in the China trade, and who died in 1837, have held commissions in the United States Army. These are Israel and Isaac Moses. The former was appointed Assistant-Surgeon of the United States Army in 1847, ^^^ served with the army of occupation at Vera Cruz and Toluca, Mexico, at Fort Crawford, Fort Leavenworth, in Oregon, Washington Territory and Texas, until his resignation in 1855. In the Civil War he was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel of a regiment attached to Sickles' Brigade, but owing to ill-health he resigned. He was appointed Surgeon of the United States Volunteers, and was placed in charge of camp hospitals in the Army of the Potomac, and subsequently served with General Gordon Granger in the West. He was mustered out of service in 1865, after receiving the brevet of Lieutenant-Colonel for faithful and meritorious services. Isaac Moses was Adjutant-General of the Third Army Corps of the Army of the Potomac, commanded by General Heintzleman, during the Civil War, and participated in all the battles of the Peninsular Campaign. Subsequently he served in General Banks' army. Previous to the war he was engaged in the East India trade, with a branch house at Canton, and then he settled in Galveston, Texas, and lived there several years, remaining during the yellow fever epidemic of 1868. General Charles Griffin died of the fever at Mr. Moses' house during the epidemic. Another brother, Joseph Moses, at the age of twenty-four, fought a desperate duel in Texas with Colonel Hickey, of Mississippi, with double shot-guns at twenty paces. He killed Hickey at the first fire.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 129

The late Major Alfred Mordecai ranked second to none in the military world, in the field of scientific research and accomplishments and in practical application of mechanical deduction to war uses. He was born at Warrenton, N. C, in 1804, and graduated at the head of his class at the United States Military Academy, in 1823. He rendered valuable service in the Mexican War, as Major of Ordnance, and in company with Captain George B. McCiellan and Major Delafield, was sent by the Government to witness and report upon the operations in the Crimea. Major Mordecai was the author of " Experiments on Gun-powder," and other works. He died at Philadelphia, towards the close of 1887.

President Lincoln's call for troops in 1861, was promptly responded to by Louis M. Emanuel, of Philadelphia, who was appointed Surgeon, and rose to the rank of Brigade Surgeon, before the close of the war. Lyon L. Emanuel, a brother, was a Lieutenant in Shaler's brigade of the Army of the Potomac, and rose to the rank of Major. Both died of disease contracted while in the service. Leopold C. Newman was mustered in service as Captain of the 31st Regiment New York Volunteers. He rose to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, his term of service expiring a few days prior to the battle of Chancellorsville, Virginia, in 1863. In view of the pending battle, he expressed a desire to remain at the front, and during that terrible struggle his foot was shattered by a cannon ball. He was carried to Washington where he died of his wounds. David Ezekiel, of Cincinnati, was severely wounded while serving in an Ohio regiment, his life being saved by the loving attention of his mother, who hastened to the battle-field on learning of his injuries. The death of Elias Leon, of the 5th Pennsylvania Cavalry, at Andersonville prison, was the result of a gallant soldier's solicitude for a comrade in his command. His regiment being surrounded by the enemy and threatened with annihilation, young Leon, in the midst of a terrific onslaught, dismounted to assist a fellow-soldier who, like himself, was attempting to escape. His companion being restored to the saddle, eluded the enemy, but the delay resulted in Leon's capture and his confinement in Andersonville prison, where he died.

130 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Among the Hebrew officers in the Federal Army, were : Lieutenant Sulchman, 44th New York Volunteers ; Captain Gremitz, 626. Pennsylvania ; Lieutenant Colonel E. S. Salomon, 82d Illinois ; Sergeant Cohen, 626. Pennsylvania ; Corporal Gisner, 142d Pennsylvania ; Sergeant Myers, 62d Pennsylvania; Lieutenant E. Davis, 115th Pennsylvania; Captain A. Goldman, 17th Maine; Lieutenant A. Rhinehardt, 148th Pennsylvania ; Lieutenant Nieman, 103d New York ; M. Stergean Asher, 103d New York ; Lieutenant Leo Derdinger, 39th New York ; Lieutenant Philip Truffinger, 57th New York ; Lieutenant Hermann Mussehel, 68th New York ; Lieutenant Herman Krauth, 103d New York: Lieutenant Julius Franck, 103d New York ; Captain Henry R. Schwerin, 19th New York ; Lieutenants Max Von Bosh, Julius Niebergall, Levi Keuhne and Henry Lauterman, all of 3d Battery Artillery, New York. Lehman Israels, a brother of Josef Israels, the famous Dutch painter, was a

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 131

Lieutenant in the 55th Regiment, New York Volunteers, and served in the Army of the Potomac.

Frederick Knefler, of Indiana, attained the highest rank reached by any Hebrew during the Civil War. He enlisted as a private in the 79th Indiana Volunteers of Infantry, and rose, step by step, until he became Colonel of his regiment, soon rising to the rank of Brigadier-General and then Brevet-Major-General, for meritorious services at the battle of Chickamauga. He participated in all the principal battles of the Army of the Cumberland, under Generals Rosecrans, Thomas, Sherman and Grant, and took part in all the engagements under Sherman in his march to the sea. General Knefler has the reputation of having been one of the most gallant soldiers in the Army of the Cumberland. After the War he was appointed Pension Agent at Indianapolis, where he now resides. He is a native of Hungary, and was born in 1833.

Leopold Blumenberg, of Baltimore, on the breaking out of the Civil War, abandoned his mercantile pursuits, entered the army and gained honorable distinction. He was a native of Frankfort-on-the-Oder, and was born in 1828. In the Prussian-Danish war of 1848 he rendered meritorious service in the Prussian Army, for which he was decorated. On returning home at the close of hostilities, the strong anti-Semitic feeling prevailing at the time in some portions of Germany caused a number of fanatics to strip him of his decoration, which so incensed him that he at once determined to sail for America. Arriving in Baltimore in 1854, he embarked in business, in which he continued up to the attack on Fort Sumter, when he helped organize the 5th Regiment, Maryland Infantry, of which he was appointed Major, His first service was near Hampton Roads, and he was soon thereafter attached to Mansfield's corps, and took part in the Peninsular Campaign, and subsequently in Maryland, where his regiment was engaged in the battle of Antietam, under his command as Colonel. Here he was shot in the thigh by a sharpshooter and compelled to return home, where he was confined to his bed for many months. President Lincoln appointed him Provost-Marshal of the Third Maryland District, with headquarters at Baltimore, and the stringency with which he executed the conscription laws while holding this office incurred him the animosity of many citizens. On the death of President Lincoln Colonel Blumenberg was appointed by President Johnson to the rank of Brevet-Brigadier-General, United States Volunteers. During his long residence in Baltimore he was immensely popular, especially with the German and Hebrew element. Prior to his death, which occurred in 1876 and was the result of the terrible wound received at Antietam, General Blumenberg was elected President of the National Schuetzen Verein of America, and was a prominent and active member of the Congregation Haar-Sinai and Hebrew Orphan Asylum.

During President Grant's administration the member of Congress from Nevada decided to appoint as a cadet at West Point such scholars from the public schools of that State as should pass the best competitive examination. Albert A. Michelson, a native of Poland, was one of the competitors, and at the close of the examination, it was found that he and another boy stood equal, the result being a tie. Three subsequent examinations were held with like results, a tie at each. It was then decided that as young Michelson was a native of California, and had been educated in the public schools of that State, where the opportunities were better, and his competitor had been educated in Nevada, where the opportunities were less favorable, that the Nevada boy should be awarded the appointment. President Grant, upon recommendation of the examining committee, then appointed young Michelson to a cadetship in the Annapolis Naval Academy, in 1869. He graduated in 1873, served on board the Steamers "Roanoke" and "Worcester," was promoted an ensign in 1874, was on duty at the Naval Academy two years, and served on board the practice ship "Constellation." In 1879 ^^^ ^^^^ promoted to Master, and resigned from the service in 1881.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 33

David M. Cohen, a native of Norfolk, was for fourteen years an officer in the Marine Corps of the United States Navy, receiving his appointment as Lieutenant in 1855. He was First-Lieutenant in 1861, and Captain the same year. In 1867 he was appointed Major, and in 1869 was transferred to the Retired List on account of physical disability. Edward David Taussig, of St. Louis, Mo., was appointed a Midshipman in the Navy in 1863, when sixteen years of age. He rose to the rank of Ensign, Master and Lieutenant, and has performed fourteen years sea service and seven years shore duty.

Major A. Mordecai, an engineer of high repute, and son of the late Major Alfred Mordecai, is now Chief of the Ordnance service on Governor's Island, N. Y. Major Massias was a paymaster in the Regular Army in 1820. In the Ordnance Department, Capt. Otho E. Michaelis, of the Regular Army, rendered valuable service during the Civil War. During the last twenty-five years a number of Hebrews have graduated from West Point, including Lieutenant J. E. Bloom, who resigned shortly after his graduation, and Lieutenant Ostheim, of Philadelphia, who is still in the service. Jonathan M. Emanuel, Passed Assistant-Engineer, United States Navy, has been in the service since 1861. He took an active part in the Civil War, serving under Commodore Mead and was twice shipwrecked. Solomon Harby, son of Isaac Harby, was a Lieutenant in the Navy and died at an early age while in the service.

134 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

One of the best known American naval officers of former days was Commodore Uriah P. Levy, the highest ranking officer in the United States Navy at the time of his death in 1862. He served in the war of 1812, being then Master of the brig-of-war "Argus," and in the contest with the "Pelican," in the British channel, was captured and confined in Dartmoor prison. While Lieutenant he became involved in a dispute with Lieutenant Potter, at a ball in Philadelphia, which was followed by a duel in which Potter lost his life. The young Hebrew demanded a court-martial and was honorably acquitted. In recognition of his valuable services to the nation the Common Council of New York honored him with the freedom of the city. His intimacy with Thomas Jefferson and affectionate regard for the author of the Declaration of Independence led to the purchase of Monticello, which upon his death was bequeathed to his nephew, Jefferson M. Levy, the well-known lawyer of New York. Commodore Levy vigorously opposed the application of the lash to seamen, and upon his tombstone at Cypress Hills is recorded the fact that "he was the father of the law for the abolition of the barbarous practice of corporal punishment in the Navy of the United States."

When Henry Clay, Gallatin, John Quincy Adams and Bayard sailed for Europe on the Ghent mission, on board

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 35

the frigate " John Adams," in 18 14, they were accompanied by Joseph B. Nones, who was Mr. Clay's private secretary. Mr. Nones was but seventeen years of age at the time. Two years previous he had entered the United States Navy as Midshipman, and upon Mr. Clay's return home was assigned to the frigate " Guerriere," commanded by Commodore Decatur. He was attached to the staff of that famous naval officer two years, during which time he took part in the engagement with the Algerian battle ship " Mesusa," on the coast of Algeria. Several wounds received in this contest caused Mr. Nones' retirement from the naval service in 1822. Most of the prominent men of the nation w^re numbered among his friends. Mr. Nones died in the city of New York shortly after entering upon his ninety-first year, in the spring of 1887. It was his proud boast that while in swaddling clothes he had been frequently dandled on the knee of the Father of His Country. Mr. Nones was, for forty-five years prior to his death, a Commissioner of Deeds for every State in the Union. Five other members of the Nones family have served in the Navy, Henry B., who was a Captain in the Revenue Service at the time of his death, and Henry B., Jr., at present Chief Engineer. Captain J. P. Levy, a brother of the Commodore and father of Jefferson M. Levy, was Commander of the United States ship " America." During the Mexican War he assisted in the landing of the United States troops at Vera Cruz, and was by General Scott appointed Captain of that port. Emanuel J. Phillips, of Philadelphia, and Jonas Barnett, of the same city, were both Paymasters in the Navy, many years ago. Barnett was attached to the frigate " Essex," and lost his life by falling from the rigging of his vessel while at sea.

136 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Levi Myers Harby, a prominent naval officer, known as Captain " Livi Charles Harby," and also as Captain " Charles Levi Harby," was a brother of Isaac Harby. He was born in Georgetown, S. C, September 21, 1793, and died in Galveston, Texas, December 3, 1870. At the age of fourteen, he was a Midshipman in the United States Navy. During the war of 18 12-14 he was taken prisoner by the British and confined for over two years in Dartmoor prison, from which he escaped by swimming. In December, 1823, he served as Sailing Master on the United States vessel " Beagle." He served for fifty-two years. under the United States flag, and rose to the rank of Captain. He was on leave of absence at the time of the Texan War and went to Texas, where he participated in its fight for independence. For thus serving under a " foreign " government, he was cashiered, but when that State was admitted into the Union, he was restored to the service. He afterwards took part in the Mexican War and also served in the Seminole War of Florida, and had command of a vessel in the expedition against the pirates of Algiers and Tripoli. He also fought in the Bolivian War of Independence. When South Carolina seceded, he resigned his commission and entered the Confederate service, with the rank of Commodore in the navy, and afterwards distinguished himself, under General Magruder, in the defence of Galveston, where he commanded the " Neptune " at the capture of the " Harriet Lane," and, later on, when in command of a fleet of gun boats on the Sabine River. Though his real name was Levi Myers Harby, he was, early in life, nicknamed " Charley," but was best known as " Captain Livi Charles Harby." He made a romantic love match. When about forty-six years of age he eloped with Miss Leonora, the accomplished and talented daughter of Judge De Lyon, of Savannah, Ga., the bride being but sixteen years old. By her he had three children, all of whom (with his widow) survived him.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 37

One of the heroes of the Civil War was Dr. Marx E. Cohen, of Charleston, only son of the late Marx. E. Cohen, of that City. He studied surgery and dentistry at the Medical College in Baltimore, and had just been graduated, at the age of twenty-one, when the Civil War broke out. He immediately enlisted in the Confederate Army, serving with distinction in various States. Towards the close of the last battle of the war, at Bentonville, N. C, some shells containing explosive materials were thrown into the Confederate ranks from the guns of the Union forces. The Captain of Hart's Battery, in which Dr. Cohen was a soldier, called for volunteers to hurl them aside before they should burst and cause destruction to the company. But three men had the courage to undertake so dangerous a task. Dr. Cohen being one of them. He and his companions were successful, but, while returning to their own ranks, all of the three were shot dead by Federal bullets and buried on the field where they had fallen. The body of the brave young man, was subsequently removed from the battle-field, and carried to his native city, where it was interred, with military and civic honors, in a plot in the Hebrew Cemetery, donated by the Congregation for that express purpose.

Louis P. Levy, of Richmond, entered the Confederate Navy as Midshipman in 1863, when fifteen years old. His appointment was secured through the influence of ex-President Tyler, and Governor Brown, of Mississippi. He was assigned to duty on the gun-boat " Chicora " which was stationed at Richmond and Charleston, and accompanied Jefferson Davis and his Cabinet in their flight from Richmond, as far as Georgia.

138 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Adolph Proskauer, a prominent citizen of Mobile, Alabama, entered the Confederate Army as a private and was appointed Color Sergeant of the 12th Alabama Infantry. He rose to the rank of Captain, and was four times wounded. He also served as a member of the Alabama Legislature, has been Honorary Secretary of the Board of Trade, was for ten years President of the Hebrew Congregation and was the first President of the first lodge of the order of B'nai-Berith formed south of Memphis. A. T. Moses, of Sheffield, Alabama, was attached to the United States Survey, and during the Civil War served on the staff of the Confederate General Richard Taylor. Edwin I. Kursheedt was Adjutant of the Washington Artillery of New Orleans, and Alexander Hart was Major of the 5th Louisiana Regiment from the same city. In another Louisiana regiment was found N. Kraus, now of Alabama, who served as Lieutenant, and subsequently on detached service as Adjutant to General Miller in the Department of Florida. From 1871 to 1872 Mr. Kraus was a member of the Alabama Legislature. Jacob J. Jacobus, Lieutenant of the Washington Artillery of Georgia, lost his life at the battle of Shiloh. George W. Rush, a Georgia Captain, was killed while in command of his regiment. W. E. Levy, Lieutenant in a Georgia regiment, was killed while in action. Jacob Levy was Lieutenant in a Georgia regiment. Leon Jastremski, of Baton Rouge, La., enlisted in the Confederate Army, and rose to the rank of Captain in the 10th Louisiana Infantry, In 1876 he was elected Mayor of Baton Rouge.

IN COMMERCIAL LIFE.

WITHIN the past twenty-five years the American Hebrews have been making such strides in the commercial world as to attract attention in every department in which they are engaged. A review of the career of those who have attained a commanding position in this field shows that most of them started in life in a modest way, the majority being penniless and friendless on landing on these shores. Patient labor and application have brought them to the top round of the ladder, and to-day the Hebrews are foremost in nearly every department of commercial activity in the United States. On all New York commercial exchanges they are now recognized as among the most influential members.

In banking alone the Hebrews of New York City represent a capital of $100,000,000. As early as 1792 the financial operations of the city were in part controlled by Hebrews. In that year twenty-five brokers, in anticipation of the growth of the metropolis and foreseeing the necessity of some joint action for the conduct of their business, held a meeting and solemnly promised and pledged themselves "not to buy or sell for any person whatsoever any kind of Public Stock at a less rate than one-quarter of one per cent, commission on the specie value, and that we will give a preference to each other in our own negotiations." Among the Hebrews who attached their signatures to this agreement were Isaac M. Gomez, Bernhard Hess, Benjamin Seixas and Ephraim Hart. Since that period the "Hebrews have been among the most active and leading members of the Stock Exchange, the outgrowth of the organization so quietly formed in 1792. In 1824 Jacob Isaacs was elected Secretary of the Exchange, and continued in office until 1830. He was succeeded by Bernard Hart in 1831 and Benjamin Hart in 1853. In 1851 the latter was elected Vice-President. Bernard Hart had been a partner of Leonard Lispenard, with whom he engaged in business in 1812 under the firm name of Lispenard & Hart. In 1806 he married Rebecca, daughter of Benjamin Seixas, a prominent merchant of Hanover Square as far back as 1780. Mr. Hart was also Quartermaster of a brigade of State troops and a prominent Freemason. During the yellow fever scourge, in 1795, he earned the admiration and gratitude of his fellow-citizens by his attention and devotion to the sufferers.

140 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Among the members of the Exchange from 1820 to 1830 were Joseph L. Joseph, S. I. Joseph and M. Henriques (who constituted the firm of J. L. and S. I. Joseph & Co., agents of the Rothschilds), M. J. Cohen, Seixas Nathan and Joseph Leon. These were followed some time after by Joseph Brandon, whose son, Edward Brandon, has been a prominent member of the Board of Governors for many years and Chairman of the Committee on Securities. The Open Board of Stock Brokers, which was formed in 1861, and consolidated with the New York Stock Exchange in 1869, had among its charter members George Henriques, Emanuel B. Hart, Charles C. Allen, S. M. Schafer and Simon Schafer.

In the New York Stock Exchange D. C. Hays, son of the famous High Constable, was for many years Treasurer, and Jacob and Edward Hays, grandsons of the High Constable, have been members. Among the more prominent Hebrew members of the present Stock Exchange are Alexander Henriques, Harmon, Frederick and Julian Nathan, A. Wolff, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Theodore W. Myers, James Seligman, Julien L. Myers, Henry Budge, S. Neustadt, B. Mainzer, of Hallgarten & Co.; Charles Minzesheimer, Leopold Cahn, S. Cantoni, Noah Content, H. H. Hart, Alfred De Cordova, E. L. Frank, W. B. Bonn, Richard Limburger, of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co.; P. J. Goodheart, Albert Goodheart, B. Neumogen, H. P. Goldschmidt, Simon Wormser, Isidor Wormser and Leo Speyer. Alexander Henriques has been for many years Vice-Chairman of the Exchange, and is one of the most efficient and popular officers who has ever presided over that body. He was born in 1818, in the Island of Jamaica, and is the son of an Englishman who came to the United States when Alexander was a lad. He was educated at Columbia College and went to Texas at the age of eighteen, where he was made private secretary to President Houston. Mr. Henriques has been a conspicuous figure in Wall Street for over forty years.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 141

The first of the eight Seligman Brothers to reach this country, was Joseph, the eldest, who came to the United States in 1838, after graduating at the University of Erlangen. He soon found employment as cashier in the bank of Asa Packer, of Philadelphia. Joseph Seligman remained in Mr. Packer's bank several years, meanwhile economizing, in order to accumulate a fund wherewith to bring his brothers to this country. Before long he was enabled to send for his brother Jesse, who secured employment in New York. At the end of three years his savings amounted to $1,000.

142 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Joseph had meanwhile removed to Greensburg, Alabama, where he had successfully carried on a clothing store. Returning to New York, he established himself in a similar business on Church Street. Among the first to arrive in San Francisco, during the gold fever of 1848, was Jesse Seligman, who opened a store and conducted a thriving business. When the city was visited by a conflagration, every business house in the town was destroyed excepting his. The thriving business which followed contributed to his earnings, which, during his seven years' sojourn in that city, were swollen to considerable proportions. Returning to New York he formed a co-partnership with his brothers, Joseph, James and William, as wholesale clothiers and importers of dry goods, in which the other brothers, Leopold, Isaac, Abraham and Henry, were later on interested. In this business they were engaged on the breaking out of the Civil War in 1861, and having met with great success, they determined to embark in the banking business. In a short while they opened branches in London, Paris, Frankfort, San Francisco and New Orleans. Mainly through their instrumentality the government was enabled, at the beginning of the war, to place large amounts of bonds in the German markets. They were subsequently appointed fiscal agents of the government in Europe, and are to-day recognized as among the great bankers of the world. They rank with the most public spirited of our Hebrew citizens, are enterprising and charitable, and identified with all the great questions which enlist the sympathy and support of the best people in the community. Joseph Seligman, the eldest brother, died at New Orleans, April 25 1880.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 143

The late Philip Heidelberg, of Heidelberg, Ickelheimer & Co., presents another illustration of what can be accomplished by perseverance and industry. He was a native of Bavaria, and was born in 1814, coming to this country a poor lad and engaging for some time in trading as a peddler. In the course of time he embarked in the clothing trade at Cincinnati and eventually controlled the largest manufactory in the Mississippi Valley. As founder of the firm of Seasingood & Co., he was well known throughout the country and is remembered as one of the promoters of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad, a director of the Little Miami Railroad, and a member of the firm of Espy, Heidelberg & Co., of the Queen City. Lazarus Hallgarten, founder of the firm of Hallgarten & Hertzfeld, now known as Hallgarten & Co., had very little means when he reached this country in 1849. ^^^ ^^^ occupation was note and exchange broker,, This yielded a moderate income and enabled him to start as a banker. He and two sons associated in the business have passed away within a brief period. One of them, Julius Hallgarten, who died in Germany, bequeathed $100,000 to various charitable institutions in New York and elsewhere, aside from liberal bequests to Hebrew societies. The Wormser brothers started in Sacramento, Cal. Like many others, they also were engaged in the clothing business in their early days. In Sacramento they were large purchasers of city scrip, which increased their already handsome capital, and resulted in their removal to the East.

Lewis Seasongood, the Cincinnati merchant and banker, and one of the most progressive, influential and respected citizens of the West, was born in Bavaria, August 3, 1836. He received a public school education in Germany. At the age of fifteen he reached this country, proceeding to Cincinnati, where his uncle, Jacob Seasongood, was engaged in the cloth-jobbing and clothing business. He spent two years at St. Xavier's College, Cincinnati, and on the completion of his studies, was offered an opportunity of entering the firm of Heidelbach, Seasongood & Co. His usefulness was appreciated, and in 1858 he was given an interest in the firm, and, in 1860, he was admitted as a general partner. In 1869 he formed a co-partnership with his uncle, Jacob Seasongood, his brother, Alfred Seasongood and Elias Moch. The year following, he established a banking house, which is regarded as one of the strongest financial institutions in Cincinnati. Few enterprises looking to the advancement of that city have been undertaken without Mr. Seasongood's active support. He suggested the first Textile Fabric Exposition, in 1869, and was treasurer of the Cincinnati Exposition of 1872. He was appointed by President Grant a Commissioner to the Vienna Exposition in 1873, and took a leading part in promoting the building of the Cincinnati Southern Railway. He was twice elected a Director of the University of Cincinnati, was one of the Sinking Fund Commissioners of the city, and has occupied the office of President and Director in numerous financial corporations. Mr. Seasongood has served for twenty years as Financial Secretary and Director of the United Jewish Cemetery Association of Cincinnati; has been an active member of the Young Mens' Mercantile Library Association; was one of the projectors of the great American Saengerfest, held at Cincinnati in 1870 and 1875, and has been prominently identified with the Masonic fraternity, the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce, Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the Alliance Israel, of London, etc. He is also a Director of the Union Bank of New York, In politics Mr. Seasongood is a Republican and has been for several terms a member of the State Executive Committee. He twice declined a nomination for State Senate, and in 1879 and 1881, came within a very few votes of receiving the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor.

144 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Lazard Freres, the bankers, of New York, San Francisco and Paris, laid the foundation of their fortune in California. They came from Alsace, and started as merchants, finally establishing extensive woolen mills. They now rank among the leading bankers of Paris and New York. The Scholle Brothers came from Germany with no means whatsoever. Settling in San Francisco soon after the discovery of gold, they met with success as store-keepers and then came to New York.

Nathan Bloom was for years one of the leading merchants of Louisville. When twenty-one years of age he came from Hesse-Darmstadt. Landing in New York in 1848, with a few dollars, he equipped himself with a stock of goods which he proceeded to peddle in New York, Pennsylvania and the West. In two years his few dollars had increased, and he invested in a general store in a Kentucky village. The dollars rapidly multiplied and he removed to Louisville in 1852, where he embarked in the wholesale dry goods business, in which he was very successful. The trade of his firm, Bamberger, Bloom & Co., which extends throughout nearly all of the Southwestern States and aggregated at the time of his death, in 1886, $5,000,000 annually. Not only as a wealthy and respected merchant, but as a philanthropic and enterprising citizen, who was prominently identified in all public measures, will his name be remembered by the people of Louisville.

146 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Samuel N. Pike, who was of humble origin, became one of the greatest merchants of Cincinnati, and amassed several millions in the whiskey trade. No man was more respected or contributed more to the prosperity and prestige of that city, especially in matters pertaining to art. The opera house bearing his name was erected by him. He also built the magnificent building on Eighth Avenue in New York, now known as the Grand Opera House.

The late Joseph and Max Weil, of St. Louis, were natives of Pirmasens, Bavaria, and came to this country in 1836. With a combined fortune of twenty dollars, they purchased goods in New York, and peddled through Pennsylvania. In 1845 they settled in Hopkinsville, Ky., and opened a general store. After four years they removed to St. Louis where under the firm name of J. Weil & Bro., they established a wholesale dry goods and clothing business. While enjoying a degree of remarkable prosperity, the great fire of 1853 swept away the earnings accumulated by years of patient industry. Securing a fresh stock of goods they started anew, and by 1860 their annual transactions had increased to $3,00,000.

Isaac Friedlander, the late grain king of California, was one of the many of his race who rose from obscurity to affluence. He left Charleston for the Pacific Coast in 1849, and for a time "rocked the cradle of the gold-seeker on the sand-bars of the Yuba." He was one of the first to perceive that California was destined to be a great wheat-producing section, and in 1856 he projected the first exportation of oats to Australia. For eighteen years he absolutely controlled the grain market of the State, his exports in a single year requiring a fleet of 270 large ships. He is said to have handled more money in his time than any of the bonanza giants of the Pacific Coast, owned one tract of 100,000 acres in the San Joaquin Valley, and served two terms as President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. He died in 1878. A New York paper commenting upon his death observed: "Not California alone, but the whole world has cause to regret the loss of such a man."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 147

Morris Ranger was one of the largest cotton operators in the world previous to his death in 1887. He came from Germany in 1855, settled in Kentucky, and in 1866 established himself in the cotton business at Galveston, Tex. He opened a house in Liverpool, where he for several years held the key to the cotton trade of the world. In 1881 he engineered a "deal" which resulted in a profit estimated in the millions. In 1883 he attempted to "bear" the market but his calculations proved erroneous, and he was forced to suspend with liabilities of $5,000,000. In 1885 he returned to New York where he resumed business on a smaller scale.

Emanuel and Mayer Lehman, of New York, are among the leading houses in the cotton trade in this country, and are natives of Wurtzburg, Germany. They started at Montgomery, Ala., as store-keepers. Few merchants have shown greater enterprise, or contributed more to the prosperity of Alabama. They have been connected with numerous railway projects and manufacturing enterprises in that section and are, at the present time, the principal owners of a cotton mill on the Tallapoosa River, one of the largest in the South, and whose annual output is $1,000,000. When the credit of the State of Alabama was seriously impaired, after the panic of 1873, ^^^ it was found difficult to negotiate the bonds of the State, Messrs. Lehman promptly subscribed to the amount of $100,000, after numerous unsuccessful efforts in other quarters. Emanuel Lehman is a Director of the Richmond and Danville ; Richmond, Terminal and Virginia Mid-land Railways, and of the Mercantile National Bank and Commercial Insurance Company of New York, Mayer Lehman is a Director of the Hamilton Bank of New York, and a most influential member and Director of the New York Cotton Exchange.

148 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Adolph Scheftel, one of the largest leather dealers in New York, started business with a capital of 300 francs twenty years ago. Solomon Loeb, of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, was a poor boy when he left the Old World. He is now one of the leading bankers in America. His son-in-law, Jacob H. Schiff, a member of the same firm, has attracted much attention for some years past, by his philanthropy, which has earned him the title of " the Montefiore of New York." Mr. Schiff was born in 1847, ^t Frankfort-on-the-Main, where, after a common school education, he was apprenticed for three years in the dry goods business, and for two years thereafter served a clerkship in a small banking establishment in the same city. Reaching this country in 1865, he found employment with the banking firm of Frank & Gans, of New York, predecessors of the house of Heidelberg, Ickelheimer & Co., with whom he continued for nine months. At the end of this time he formed a co-partnership with Henry Budge, now of the New York firm of Hallgarten & Co., as bankers and brokers. Towards the close of 1872, he retired from business and sailed for Europe, where he remained for some time. He returned to New York in 1875 and entered the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.,

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

149

of which he has since been an active member. In 1881, Mr. Schiff was appointed by Mayor Grace, a Commissioner of Education, holding the office for three years. He has also served as Director of the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railway. He now occupies the chair of President of the Montefiore Home for Incurables, is a Trustee of the Aural and Ophthalmic Institute of New York, a Trustee of the New York Free Library, and one of the managers of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association.

The late Edward Cohen, of Richmond, Va., son of Benjamin I. Cohen, of Baltimore, founded the City Bank of Richmond, Va., and was its President at the time of his death on January 18, 1888. He served in the Confederate Army and settled in Richmond at the close of the war. Though penniless and unknown to the business community, his cheerful industry, unswerving integrity, and remarkable business sagacity, together with great modesty, soon secured a place for him. Beginning business on a small scale as a stock-broker, he soon established the Richmond Savings Bank, and finally became President of the City Bank. Mr. Cohen led a life of great public usefulness and won for himself a name second to none in the city of his adoption.

Joseph Fox, another bank President and self-made man, was born in 1843. He was for many years a member of the wholesale clothing firm of Fox, Mendel & Co., of New York, and towards the close of the year 1887 was elected President of the Columbia Bank, in which position he has shown high capacity as a financier. In 1881-82 he was President of District Lodge No. I, I. O. B. B., and was for four years President of the Home for Aged and Infirm at Yonkers. He is an active member of most of the eleemosynary and charitable institutions of New York, in all of which he has exercised considerable influence.

I50 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

M. Thalmessinger, President of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank, of New York, is one of the best known Hebrews of this country, and one who, like many of his co-religionists, has advanced from the lowest round of the ladder by his own inherent force of character. He is a native of Wiirtemberg. At the school of a neighboring town he distinguished himself by his scholarship in all the branches, and after leaving college was engaged in various business establishments in responsible positions. The year 1848 found him in Paris, and the revolution which convulsed Europe at that time induced his departure for the United States. He first secured employment with a drug firm in Boston, and soon afterward was offered an engagement as chief of the financial department of a prominent New York firm. He then determined to engage in business on his own account. He opened a book and stationery store in a small way, and by his energy and perseverance it soon assumed large dimensions and became one of the best known concerns of the kind among merchants and bankers. In January, 1885, he was elected President of the Mechanics' and Traders' Bank. In this position Mr. Thalmessinger adopted the same methods of industry and energy which marked his mercantile career, and as a result the business of the bank has nearly quadrupled since his advent. He has occupied numerous offices of honor and trust in banks and financial institutions, but, with the exception of a school trusteeship for five years, has held no public office. As Honorary Secretary of the Executive Committee of the order E'nai-BcritJi, Mr. Thalmessinger's services are greatly appreciated throughout the brotherhood, especially his labors in extending the sphere of its operations to Germany and the Orient. Equally conspicuous have been his services as one of the founders of the Maimonides Library and in the creation of the fund for building the Home for Aged and Infirm at Yonkers. He is also one of the Directors of the Hebrew Technical Institute.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 151

The most striking evidence of Hebrew progress may be witnessed on Broadway, New York, which, within the past fifteen years, has undergone a complete transformation by the transfer of the retail trade to the uptown thoroughfares, and the invasion by Hebrew firms. Of the 400 buildings on Broadway, from Canal Street to Union Square, the occupants of almost all are Hebrews, over 1,000 wholesale firms out of a total of 1,200 being of that persuasion. Hebrew firms also predominate in the streets contiguous to Broadway within the territory named.

Most remarkable has been the growth of the clothing trade, of which there are 241 manufacturers in the city of New York. Of these, 234 are Hebrew firms, some of which employ as many as 2,000 hands, while the great majority of the 30,000 people engaged in the clothing trade throughout the United States are also Hebrews. The New York Hebrew firms alone transact a business of $55,000,000 annually in the manufacture of clothing. Fifteen years back the number engaged in this business was insignificant compared with the present day ; now as many firms are found on a single block in New York as then existed in the entire city. In the city of New York the leading manufacturers are : Alfred Benjamin & Co., August Brothers, Banner Brothers, Bernheim, Bauer & Co., Bierman, Heidelberg & Co., H. & B.

Brown, Fechheimer, Goodkind & Co., Hammerslough Brothers, Heavenrich, Hirschberg & Co., Hornthal, Whitehead & Co., Jerkowski & Ernst, Kaufman, Isidor & Co., Korn & Holzman, A. Levy & Brother, Levy Brothers & Co., L. Lippman & Sons, Mamlock & Green, A. W. Mann & Co., Marks, David & Sons, Mendel Brothers & Co., Myres&, Wallach, Naumburg, Kraus, Lauer & Co., Peck & Hauchhaus, Rindskopf & Barbier, M. Sampter, Sons & Co., Mark Samter, N. S. Schloss & Co., Seligman, May & Co., Sinsheimer, Levenson & Co., Stark, Isidor & Brothers, Stein. Bloch & Co., Stern, Falk & Co., B. Sturman & Son, Swartz & Jerkowski, S. Sykes & Co.

Less than ten years back the manufacture of cloaks in this country was upon a very small scale, the entire business in New York being confined to less than one dozen firms all told. The Hebrews were not slow to recognize the importance of this industry. They were among the first to perceive that it was destined to expand to an extent far beyond its proportions at that time, and many plunged into the business, the result being that there are now in New York a large number of manufacturers, the great majority of whom are Hebrews whose annual production is $15,000,000).

In the manufacture of shirts the Hebrews have secured a monopoly, it being estimated that 25,000 men and women are directly and indirectly employed in New York City by Hebrew firms alone. The wealthiest concerns in the trade, which include several millionaires, were all in moderate circumstances when they embarked in the business.

In the manufacture of undergarments the Hebrews of New York control the greater part of the trade. Those in the business carry the names of 10,000 employees on their pay-rolls, and their annual transactions are $5,000,000.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 153

It is estimated that the Hebrew capital engaged in the importation, manufacture and jobbing of diamonds, watches and jewelry in this country, will not fall short of $25,000,000. Of the 400 jobbers in New York, the Hebrews constitute the bulk. The leading New York firms sharing in the annual trade of this department are : L. Adler & Co., A. Bernhard & Co., D. & M. Bruhl, Solomon Davidson, Henry Dreyfus & Co., Samuel Eichberg, Falkenau, Oppenheimer & Co., Max Freund & Co., Adolph Goldsmith, Goodman Brothers, L. Hammel & Co., Louis Herzog Sc Co., L. M. Kahn & Co., Keller & Untermeyer, Krohn, Clovis & Co., Levy, Dreyfus & Co., Lissauer & Sondheim, Albert Lorsch & Co., Marx & Weis, Henry May, S. F. Myers & Co., Oppenheimer Brothers & Veith, Pforzheimer, Keller & Co., Adolphe Schwob, Stern & Stern, Stern, Brothers & Co., Louis Strasburger & Co., Sussfeld, Lorsch & Co., Traitel Brothers, D, L. Van Moppes, Leopold, Weil & Co.

David Keller, of Pforzheimer, Keller & Co., came to America a poor lad. He worked for years at the bench as a cigar maker, and is to-day a member of the above jewelry firm. He is also Grand Treasurer of the Order of Free Sons of Israel.

Seligman Oppenheimer, senior member of the firm of Oppenheimer Brothers & Veith, was a school-master in Germany. He came to this country some years ago, and by industry and shrewdness has amassed a considerable fortune.

In the wholesale jewelry trade the house of S. F. Myers & Co., of New York, stands in the front rank. From the smallest beginning, some fifteen years ago, it is to-day the <?nly firm in the metropolis who manufacture, import and export everything appertaining to the jewelry trade, while their establishment is the largest in their line, and their yearly sales of immense proportions. The firm is composed of two brothers and a brother-in-law, American born, whose age averages thirty-three years. Much of their remarkable success is due to the untiring energy, shrewd business tact and great executive ability of the senior member, Samuel F. Myers, whose first experience in commercial life was in the humble capacity of a New York newsboy, and to whose ability is due the foundation and wonderful prosperity of the present extensive house. He is at present the youngest member of the Executive Committee of two trade organizations.

154 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Louis Strasburger, a Bavarian, who arrived here almost penniless, was for many years one of the leading importers of Swiss watches in this country in which business he amassed a fortune. He is now one of the heaviest importers of diamonds; conducts an establishment* of his own at Paris, and owns a diamond cutting house at Amsterdam,

H. Muhr & Sons' jewelry manufactory at Philadelphia, is one of the most extensive establishments of the kind in the United States, and is conducted by Simon, Joseph and Jacob Muhr, sons of H. Muhr, who established the business in 1853. They employ 400 workmen. They are also extensive importers of diamonds, and are the owners of the largest black diamond in the world, which is valued at $25,000.

Over 300,000 cases of leaf tobacco are dealt in in this country every twelvemonth. Two-thirds of this amount is controlled by the Hebrew merchants on Pearl and Water Streets, New York. Some of the most extensive of these merchants gained their first knowledge of the leaf as workmen in cigar factories, many of the wealthiest having worked their way up from this humble beginning. The leading New York houses in this line are: S. Auerbach & Co., I. Bijur, J. Berliner, Basch & Fischer, E. Bach & Son, S. Barnett, J. J. Bunzl & Son, A. Cohn & Co., Cullmans & Rosenbaum, Cohn & Leopold, W. Dessauer, Davidson Brothers, G. Falk & Brother, E. & G. Friend & Co., Henry Friendman, Friedman, Leonard & Co., L. Goldschmidt & Co., L. Gershel & Bro., Gans Brothers & Rosenthal, I. Hamburger & Co., E. Hoffman & Son, Hirsch, Victorius & Co., H. Koenig & Co., Joseph Lederman, D. Levy & Son, Lichtenstein Brothers, M. Lindheim, N. Lachenbruch & Brother, Landman & Bernheimer, M. Levy & Brother, Joseph Mayer's Sons, Meyer & Mendelsohn, L. Newgass, Pretzfeld & Co., S. Rossin & Son, G. Reismann, E. Rosenwald & Brother, A. S. Rosenbaum & Co., Julius Shack, J. Seligsberg, Gustav Salomon & Brothers, L. Sylvester, Son & Co., C. Spingarn & Co., L. Spear & Co., M. & E. Salomon, Theo. Wolf, Jr., L. & E. Wertheimer and Weil & Co.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 55

Equally surprising has been the growth of the cigar trade, in which the Hebrews have risen higher and higher, until almost the entire business has passed under their control. Some idea of their operations may be had when it is stated that their production, in the city of New York alone, reaches the enormous figure of 600,000,000 cigars per annum. The manufacture of this immense stock involves the employment of 8,000 hands. With few exceptions the mammoth manufactories in this line scattered throughout the city of New York, are owned by Hebrew firms whose annual transactions foot up $15,000,000. The National Cigar Manufacturer's Association, of which Morris S. Wise is counsel, is composed of sixty-five of the leading manufacturers in this country, of which forty-five are Hebrew firms. In the city of New York the bulk of the cigar trade is controlled by : Louis Ash & Co., Bondy, Lederer & Co., D. J. Boehm & Co., Julius Ellinger & Co., Foster, Hilson & Co., Louis Fromer, Frey, Brothers & Co., David Hirsch, Hyman Brothers & Lowenstein, Hahn, Brussel & Co., Frederick Hofmann, S. Jacoby & Co., Samuel Josephs & Co., Jacoby & Bookman, Kaufman Brothers & Bondy, Kaufman Brothers & Co., L. Kahner & Co., Kerles & Spies, Lichtenstein Brothers & Co., Levy Brothers, A. Lichtenstein, Son & Co., Lewyn & Martin, Landauer & Kaim, M. W. Mendel & Brother, Morris & Batt, Emil Ney & Co., S. Ottenberg & Brothers, P. Pohalski, Prowler, Lehman & Co., Rosenthal Brothers, Sutro & Newmark, M. Silberthau & Co., M. Stachelberg & Co., Seidenberg & Stiefel, Schlosser & Co., Wertheim & Schiffer. Elsewhere the largest concerns are : Baron & Co., of Baltimore ; Rothbruner & Feist, Cincinnati ; Krohn & Feiss, Cincinnati ; Gumpert Brothers, Philadelphia ; Mange, Weiner & Co., Philadelphia ; Louis Graf & Co., Milwaukee ; and S. Hershheim, Brothers & Co., New Orleans, the latter employing one thousand hands.

156 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

In the cities of New York and Brooklyn there are 4,000 retail and 300 wholesale butchers, one-half of whom are Hebrews, including several millionaires and many whose wealth is represented by six figures. They employ in this business an army of 6,000 men, and their annual trade is $25,000,000. The abattoir of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, occupies an entire block and they employ 500 men. Joseph Stern's establishment covers half a block.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 57

The manufacture of hats and caps, the importation and manufacture of hides and leather, furs, laces and embroideries, artificial flowers and feathers, is largely controlled by the Hebrews, while the wine and liquor trade is one of the most extensive in which they are engaged. It is estimated that the Hebrew capital represented on the New York Cotton Exchange is not far from $6,000,000.

According to carefully prepared estimates of the Hebrew wholesale trade in the city of New York, the annual transactions in the leading lines are as follows :

Manufacturers of clothing $55,000,000

Jobbers of jewelry 30,000,000

Wholesale butchers 25,000,000

Wines, spirits and beer 25,000,000

Jobbers of leaf tobacco 15,000,000

Manufacturers of cigars 15,000,000

Manufacturers of cloaks 15,000,000

Importers of diamonds 12,000,000

Leather and hides 12,000,000

Manufacturers of overshirts 10,000,000

Importers of watches 6,000,000

Artificial flowers and feathers 6,000,000

Importers and jobbers of furs 5,000,000

Manufacturers of undergarments 5,000,000

Lace and embroidery importers 4,000,000

Manufacturers of white shirts 3,000,000

Manufacturers of hats 3,000,000

Manufacturers of caps 2,000,000

$248,000,000

The holdings of real estate by the Hebrews of New York, is estimated at $150,000,000. Five-eighths of the transfers in real estate, in the city of New York, are for their account. The following are the most prominent holders of real estate in the city: Estate of Max Weil, Siegmund T. Meyer, J. B. Smith, Max Danziger, Simon Sternberger, Jacob Rothschild, Jacob Scholle, Sylvester Brush, estate of Edward King, Lewis Seasongood, Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, Stern Brothers, Ottinger Brothers, Solomon Loeb, Benjamin Lichtenstein, Adolph Kerbs, Edward Oppenheimer, Henry Brash, A. S. Rosenbaum, Frederick Haberman, Newman Cowen, J. Jacob's estate, Isaac Neustadter, J. Reckendorfer's estate, Simon Herman, Isaac Meyer, Isaac Wormser, Simon Wormser, Adolph Bernheimer, Isaac Bernheimer, Simon Bernheimer, S. M. alid B. Cohen, Morris Littman, Henry Schubart's estate, Lieberman Brothers and Jacob H. Schiff.

158 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

In the city of New York most of the mammoth retail dry goods and fancy goods establishments are owned by Hebrews. That of Benjamin Altman on the west-side, is one of the most extensive. Mr. Altman began business about twenty-one years ago, with his brother Morris, who died in 1876 ; his business has steadily increased and now requires the services of about 1,600 persons. Mr. Altman is not only one of the most enterprising and liberal citizens of New York City, but he has devoted much of his time and money to the encouragement of the fine arts, and is a liberal patron of our American productions. His collection of paintings is valued at $200,000. Most of these are the work of American artists. His collection of antique and rare Chinese porcelains is also one of the finest in this country, being valued at $80,000.

On the east side, the firm of Bloomingdale Brothers, conduct one of the most extensive establishments in this country. The firm is composed of Lyman G. Bloomingdale and Joseph B. Bloomingdale, sons of Benjamin Bloomingdale, who emigrated from Bavaria in 1837. Both gentlemen are natives of New York, the former having been born in 1841, and the latter in 1842. In 1872 they opened a small dry goods establishment with a stock of $6,000 and two saleswomen to assist them. Having had some experience in the business as clerks for their father and others, they were not slow to profit thereby. They determined at the outset to give good values and polite service. Their progress was steady, and they have succeeded in building up one of the greatest bazaars on the continent. The stock of $6,000 was steadily increased, and at the present time they carry a line of nearly $1,000,000, while their annual transactions foot up to $3,000,000. Their force of employees numbers 1,000. The Bloomingdale establishment is a representative Hebrew house, their employees being largely of that persuasion, while due observance of the principal Hebrew festivals has been adhered to ever since the house was founded. Lyman G. Bloomingdale is a Director of the Young Men's Hebrew Association and of the Montefiore Home, and Vice-President of the Mutual Relief Association. Joseph B. Bloomingdale is Director of the Hebrew Technical Institute.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 59

Messrs. Samuel W. and Julius S. Ehrich constitute the firm of Ehrich Brothers, proprietois of the great Eighth Avenue dry and fancy goods bazaar. The business was founded in 1856 by Samuel E. Ehrich, their father, who died in 1858. The firm ranks as one of the most progressive in the metropolis. The Messrs. Ehrich M[^]ere the first New York merchants to inaugurate a line of free stages between their establishment and various ferries and other prominent points in the city with a view of attracting custom.

160 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The growth of the house of Stern Brothers, in West Twenty-third Street, has been phenomenal. Messrs. Isaac and Louis Stern, who compose the firm, were in early life engaged in the jewelry business at Albany, N. Y. On reaching New York City, just after the close of the Civil War, they secured situations as clerks in a Bowery fancy goods house, and in 1867 established themselves in a similar business on Sixth Avenue, starting with a small stock in a store with one window. Several hundred persons are now given employment in their establishment.

The most extensive pottery and glassware establishment in this country, and probably in the world, is that of L. Straus & Sons, of New York. Lazarus Straus, founder of the firm, came to New York from Georgia at the close of the Civil War with a view of temporarily gaining a respite from the four years' turmoil he had witnessed in the South. He opened a small wholesale crockery establishment in Chambers Street, and, meeting with unexpected success, removed three years later to No. 44 Warren Street, gradually taking in the adjoining premises until four buildings passed under his control. The firm is now composed of L. Straus, his sons Isidor, Nathan and Oscar S. (the latter now United States Minister to Turkey) and L. Kohns. They carry a stock of several million dollars, and have factories and offices at London, Paris, Limoges, Carlsbad, Rudolfstadt, Stein-Schonau and other cities. The number of employees in all parts of the globe engaged in the manufacture, purchase and distribution of their wares is upwards of seven hundred. Few examples of such remarkable growth are found in any country. On January 1, 1888, Messrs. Isidor and Nathan Straus associated themselves with the firm of R. H. Macy & Co., the largest retail dry goods and fancy goods bazaar in America, whose establishment occupies a block and gives employment to 2,000 men and women. This alliance, however, in no wise changed their relationship with the house of L. Straus & Sons, in which they still retain their interest.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 161

The Kursheedt Manufacturing Company, of New York, the largest establishment in this country engaged in the manufacture of laces, embroideries, ruchings, braids, etc., and employing about 800 hands, was founded by Asher Kursheedt, whose sons conduct the business. Mr. Kursheedt is a son of the late Israel B. Kursheedt. He, Asher Kursheedt, was the originator of the Board of Delegates of American Israelites, having suggested the formation of the Board at a meeting of prominent Hebrews, held at his residence to take action in the Mortara abduction case.

Since 1878, Messrs. Joseph Stettheimer and David Bettman, both of New York, have been among the most prominent and enterprising producers of oil in the Pennsylvania fields. Their first venture was a well which produced forty barrels of oil per day. After this they leased and bought lands extensively in various localities, and at the present time, are the owners of over 180 wells in the Bradford region alone. In 1885, they interested themselves in the Washington, Penn., fields. Their first operations in that section were unsuccessful. Instead of striking oil they struck a roaring gas well, which they sold. This well is now heating and lighting the city of Washington, Penn. In drilling for oil in one of their fields, they struck a well which produced 250 barrels per day, and a few weeks later they struck one of the largest wells ever known, its daily production being almost 3,000 barrels. This "gusher," which is still flowing, has produced over 150,000 barrels of oil. The present production of Messrs. Stettheimer and Bettman's various wells is about 20,000 barrels of oil a month.

162 ' THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Frederick Haberman is a member of the Central Stamping Company, of New York, a combination of five of the leading firms in the United States, engaged in the manufacture of tin and house-furnishing goods, and employing 2,000 men. Mr. Haberman was born in Bavaria in 1840. He came to this country in 1854, and for some time worked on the tow-path of the Morris Canal in New Jersey. After acquiring a knowledge of the tin-ware trade, in a New York establishment, he opened a small store of his own. By frugality, integrity and activity, he made steady progress, and his former employers are now his business associates.

Prominent among the great trunk manufacturing firms of this country is that of Edward Simon & Co., of Newark, N. J., founded by Edward Simon in 1863. William and Samuel Simon and Morris Schwerin became members of the firm later on. In the manufacture of their goods 1,500,- - 000 feet of lumber are required annually, fifty hides of leather are used daily, and 800 workmen are given employment.

Lagowitz & Co., another Newark firm, have been prominent in the trunk and bag trade for over forty years. They give employment to 400 persons, and turn out each week 2,000 trunks and 2,000 bags. The members of the firm are Jacob Lagowitz and Arnold Tanzer.

In the leather trade of the United States, R. G. Salomon, of Newark, has within a brief period grown to be a recognized power. He was born at Lunenburg, near Hamburg, Germany, and having mastered the trade of a tanner, came to the United States in 1866. His beginning was a humble one and his success has been attained by remarkable promptness in opening new fields of industry as soon as they appeared inviting and likely to lead good results. Thus, some years since, he began the manufacture of Cordovan leather, the name by which leather made from hides of horses is now known. Like almost every new product, it met with opposition, but through Mr. Salomon the superiority of the stock soon became acknowledged and it is now a staple. He also turned his attention to the tanning of alligator skins, which fifteen years ago were a curiosity and used only for boots. Perceiving the qualities possessed by leather made from the skin of the kangaroo, he began its tannage, and the shoe trade was not slow to recognize its merits. He now tans 350,000 kangaroo skins and 100,000 alligator skins annually. Mr. Salomon was also the first to introduce the manufacture of porpoise leather in this country. His factory is one of the largest of its kind in America, employing 400 workmen. The retail fancy goods establishment of L. S. Plant & Co., in Newark, known as the "Bee Hive," has grown from a very small store with two clerks to be the largest business of the kind in the State of New Jersey. The managing partners are Louis and Moses Plant, E. Plaut and Oscar Michaels. They employ 200 clerks. Leopold S. Plaut, who died in 1885, was the founder of the firm. He was born in 1849, ^^^ ^^^ employed as a boy in the dry goods store of Gerson Fox, of Hartford, Conn. In 1871 he formed a partnership in Newark with Leopold Fox, son of his former employer, which continued up to 1882, when Mr. Fox retired. Meanwhile, the business had amazingly increased. Mr. Plaut was an incessant worker, not a single detail of the business escaping his attention. His generosity and liberality during his lifetime kept pace with his accumulation of wealth, and numerous charitable institutions, both Hebrew and Christian, were liberally provided for in his will.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 163

Hon. Nathan Barnert, ex-Mayor of Paterson, N. J., has been prominently identified with the silk business and the manufacture of paper screens. He is a native of Prussia, and is now in his forty-seventh year. He located in Paterson in 1858 in the tailoring business. During the Civil War he manufactured clothing for the Army and continued in the business until 1878, when he retired from mercantile life and gave his attention to real estate. He is the owner of valuable property in New York City and Long Branch. The Barnert Mill, at Paterson, with its massive Corliss engine, is one of the finest structures in the United States. In 1883 Mr. Barnert was elected Mayor of the city, and his benevolence and liberality were illustrated by the distribution of his official salary among the various city charities. Mr. Barnert is a man of rare tact and foresight and is justly * regarded as one of Paterson's foremost citizens.

The development of the organ and piano trade and manufacture throughout the United States is due in no small measure to Bernard Shoninger, of New Haven, Conn., who is President and proprietor of the B. Shoninger Organ and Piano Company. Mr. Shoninger came from Bavaria in 1841 when fourteen years of age, with a capital of $14.50. In 1850 he founded the B. Shoninger Organ Company. The story of his rise to fame and fortune is the old story of industry and enterprise combined with manly and honorable traits. It is unnecessary to follow his career step by step from his first entrance into the vortex of business life up to the present time. Suffice it to say that his establishment to-day is one of the largest in New England, covering an area of 300 by 130 feet on Chestnut Street, and 95 by 130 on Chapel Street. It is six stories high and gives employment to 400 people. Mr. Shoninger has kept fully abreast of the times, as is attested by thirty patents owned by him covering improvements in the construction, compass and action of the instruments made by his firm, which now ranks among the leading musical manufactories of the world. Not only as a successful business man is Mr. Shoninger known in New Haven ; he has contributed liberally to the prosperity of the city on numerous occasions. He commands the respect of his fellow-citizens of all classes by reason of his honorable and upright career during a residence of thirty-eight years in their midst, and his commercial and social station is surpassed by none in the community.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 165

The largest establishment in the world devoted to the manufacture of corsets and corset-clasps is that of Mayer, Strouse & Co., of New Haven, Conn. It was founded in 1861 by Isaac Strouse. Abraham Strouse, Max Adler and S. I. Mayer now constitute the firm. They employ a force of 1,500 men and women. The capacity of the establishment is 800 dozen corsets a day, and the annual transactions exceed $1,000,000 per annum. They occupy an entire block in the heart of the city, the building thereon having cost $150,000.

Hirsch & Brother, of Philadelphia, are proprietors of the largest umbrella manufactory in this country. The business was founded in 1860 by Mason Hirsch. Their employees number 500, and their factory occupies six floors, the area of each being 180 by 75 feet. Mason, Henry, A. C. Harry and William Hirsch and Otto J. Lang, constitute the firm.

166 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Nelson Morris, of Chicago, who is engaged in the cattle trade and packing interests, arrived in this city a poor lad. By application, integrity and good management, he has come to be regarded as one of the wealthiest and most enterprising men in the West. He is a director of the First National and Union Stock Yard National Banks, is proprietor of the Fairbanks Beef Canning Company, and supplies fresh beef to the leading cities of the United States and the continent of Europe.

Henry Greenebaum was for nearly a quarter of a century, a prominent banker in Chicago. Since 1882, he has been a representative of a New York life insurance company. He was born on June 18, 1833, at Eppelsheim, in Hesse-Darmstadt, was graduated at the public school when eleven years old, and after further studies emigrated to Chicago in his sixteenth year. His intellectual ability, industrious habits, and unselfish character, made him immensely popular, both at home and abroad, and he has numbered amongst his warmest friends, such men as Stephen A. Douglas, Abraham Lincoln, General Grant, John A. Logan and James A. Garfield. Mr. Greenebaum led the Republican State Ticket of 1872, as Presidential Elector-at-Large, and had previously declined a nomination for Lieutenant-Governor of Illinois, as well as Mayor of Chicago. He has contributed much to the development of Chicago, in every direction.

The firm of Selz, Schwab & Co., of Chicago, are managers of the boot and shoe manufactory at Joliet, 111. Charles

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 167

Schwab, of this firm, has served as Comptroller of the city of Chicago, in which office he displayed great executive capacity. He is a native of Mulhouse, in Alsace.

The firm of Hart Brothers, control the largest gentlemen's furnishing manufactory in Chicago. Abraham Hart, of this firm, is known as "the Montefiore of Chicago," and is President of the Cleveland Orphan Asylum.

In the State of Georgia, Hebrew firms control the bulk of the trade in the leading cities, and constitute the most useful and respected element in the community. At Savannah we find the shipping and commission house of A. Minis & Son, one of the largest concerns in the city, the members of which are descendants of the first settlers, under Oglethorpe's administration, 150 years ago. The members of the firm of Meinhard Brothers & Co., who embarked in business in 1865, have by industry and integrity established a wholesale business in boots, shoes and clothing, amounting to more than $1,000,000 annually. Henry Meinhard, Isaac Meinhard, Samuel Meinhard and E. A. Weil, constitute the firm. Mr. Weil has been President of the City Council and is now a director in the Southern Bank of the State of Georgia. The firm of H. Myers & Brothers is the largest in that section engaged in the manufacture of cigars and tobacco, and are the owners of factories in Virginia and Florida. Herman Myers, the head of the firm, is also President of the Savannah National Bank. Leroy Myers, another prominent tobacco merchant, transacts an annual business estimated at half a million dollars. He is also a director of the Southern Bank of the State of Georgia. A like amount of goods is disposed of each year by A. R. Altmayer & Co., who conduct one of the largest retail fancy and dry goods establissements in the South. Eckman & Wezburg and Guggenheimer & Son, are the leading wholesale grocers in Savannah. Lippman Brothers control the wholesale trade, and Solomons & Co., the retail drug trade. The wholesale dry goods and notion house of S. Waxelbaum, at Macon, is one of the largest in the Southern States.

168 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The city of Baltimore boasts of numerous Hebrew capitalists and merchants, of whom it may be said that no class are more respected or more distinguished for their liberality. Among these are : Stein Brothers & Frank, Rosenberg & Co., bankers ; Henry Sonneborn & Co., Ambach, Burgunder & Co., Strouse Brothers, H. & E. Hartman & Co., I. & H. Mann, and Hamburger Brothers, wholesale clothiers ; Frank & Adler, Cohen, Adler & Co., and Pretzfelder & Kline, wholesale dealers in boots and shoes ; Robert Austrian & Co. and Mandelbaum & Frank, hats and caps ; Joel Gutman & Co. and Hutzler Brothers, dry goods ; Albert Gottschalk and Albert Ulman, distillers.

The firm of Tim, Wallerstein & Co., of Troy, N. Y., manufacture a larger number of shirts, collars and cuffs, than any other house in the business. They occupy six buildings. The concern is composed of Solomon Tim, Louis Tim, E. Wallerstein, Max Herman, J. O'Sullivan and M. Ober.

The Hebrew merchants of San Francisco are among the wealthiest and most public-spirited in the United States. A large proportion of trade on the Pacific Coast is controlled by Martin Sachs & Co., fancy goods ; Sachs Brothers & Co., dry goods ; Levi Strauss & Co., dry goods ; Louis Sloss and Louis Gerstle, of the Alaska Commercial Company ; M. Heller & Sons, dry goods ; L. Dinkelspiel & Co., dry goods ; Esberg, Bachman & Co., tobacco ; L. & E. Wertheimer &

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 169

Co., tobacco ; M. Ehrman & Co., groceries ; Haas Brothers & Co., groceries ; S. Lachman & Co., wines ; B. Dreyfus & Co., wines ; W. & I. Steinhart & Co., clothing ; Louis Sloss & Co., hides, wools and furs ; Neustadter Brother, men's furnishing goods ; Livingston & Co., cigars ; Lewis & Co., jewelers ; Ignatz Steinhart is manager and Philip Lilienthal cashier of the Anglo-California Bank.

The Hebrew community at Galveston, Texas, is one of the most respected and influential to be found in any city in the Union. Foremost in the business world are Messrs. Leon and Hyman Blum, H. Kempner, M. Lasker, Sampson Heidenheimer and Albert Weiss. The two former constitute the firm of Leon & H. Blum, importers and wholesale dealers in dry goods, who carry a stock valued at $1,000,000, transact an annual business of $5,000,000, and employ a staff of 125 persons. The house, which has been established over thirty-five years, is second to none in the State in enterprise and liberality. The Leon & H. Blum Land Company, of which they are the head, is the largest land and live stock company in Texas, the lands controlled by them in almost every county in Texas being valued at $1,000,000. H. Kempner, one of the oldest citizens and most prominent merchants and real estate operators in Texas, is President of the Island City Savings Bank, one of the soundest financial institutions in the State. M. Lasker, a brother of the late distinguished German statesman, is President of the M. Lasker Real Estate Company. His investments in lands, cattle and other interests have made him one of the noted men in Texas. He is also a director in numerous banks in the State, including the First National at Galveston. Sampson Heidenheimer, of the wholesale grocery house of

170 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Heidenheimer & Co., one of the largest establishments of its kind in the State, is prominent in every public movement and prominently identified with all railway and financial enterprises. The progress and development of the State has always enlisted his encouragement and active support. Albert Weiss, another wholesale dry goods merchant, enjoys the respect of all classes of citizens. He is director in many banking and commercial institutions, and also occupies the honorable office of President of the Union Club, the leading social organization in Galveston and numbering among its members the best classes of Hebrew and Christians.

Among the prominent citizens of Cincinnati is Louis Krohn. He was, a few years since, President of the Cincinnati Board of Trade, and has also been a director of the Union National Bank and Vice-President of the Metropolitan Bank. Bernhard Bettman, a leading Cincinnati merchant, has shown much interest in educational affairs and is one of the most prominent members of the School Board. He is one of the Governors and main promoters of the Union Hebrew College of Cincinnati and holds high rank in the Masonic fraternity. M. J. Mack, of Cincinnati, is the representative of one of the largest life insurance companies in the West. He comes from Alten-Kinstadt, Bavaria, and was born in 1831. He also stands high in the Masonic fraternity.

One of the great mercantile firms of the South is that of B. Lowenstein & Brothers, of Memphis, wholesale and retail dry goods merchants. Benedict, Bernard and Elias Lowenstein founded the firm in 1862. The business is now conducted by Bernard, Elias and Abraham Lowenstein and L. D. Marks. When the Lowensteins reached this country in the Fifties they were without money or friends. Securing a small stock of wares with a few dollars saved from their weekly wages as clerks in a Memphis store, they purchased a "ticking bag" which they filled with goods, and trudging through Shelby County as peddlers accumulated sufficient means to open a little store in Paris, Tenn. They then removed to Memphis. Their career since that time is "one of the most remarkable commercial episodes connected with a single generation of Memphis history." They now employ 350 clerks, their annual transactions are $4,000,-000 and they have just erected a magnificent seven story building, at a cash outlay of $750,000. Elias Lowenstein was for many years President of the synagogue, has taken an active part in municipal affairs, and though repeatedly urged to do so has invariably declined to accept a public office.

The immense dry goods firm of Menken & Company, of Memphis, Tenn., which is comprised of J. S. and J. A. Menken, William Horgan and J. S. Andrews, has been for years one of the largest establishments of its kind in the Southwest, occupying five lots on the principal streets of the city and conducting an extensive trade in that section. An incident connected with this firm is well worth recording, and occurred at Cincinnati where they were engaged in business during the Civil War. They were engaged in a large business on the Southern border States, and the war forced them into bankruptcy. Subsequently they compromised their debts at fifty cents on the dollar, but later on when fortune favored them they paid the additional fifty per cent, in full with interest. This unusual act of mercantile honor made such an impression on their creditors that the brothers were tendered a banquet at Delmonico's in New York City, on which occasion each was presented with a solid silver service. The late Nathan D. Menken, of the present firm of Menken & Co., was, during his residence in Memphis for fifteen years, a most public-spirited, charitable and enterprising citizen, and died a martyr in the cause of humanity amid the horrors of a raging pestilence. The son of Solomon Menken, one of the early Cincinnati settlers, he spent some years at St. Xavier's College in that city, whence he entered the law office of Stanley Matthews, now a Justice of the United States Supreme Court. He soon tired of law, and in 1860 joined his brothers, Jules A. and Jacob S., merchants of Cincinnati. Inspired by patriotic ardor, he organized a body of cavalry in the early days of the Civil War, and was chosen Captain, and was engaged in over thirty battles and skirmishes in West Virginia. At the second battle of Bull Run his horse was shot under him. As commander of General Pope's body-guard, he won the esteem and admiration of all for his bravery, courtesy and firmness. At the solicitation of his brothers he resigned his commission and joined them in business at Memphis. In 1869 he travelled abroad, and at Paris married Sallie A., daughter of Joseph J. Andrews, a wealthy pioneer citizen of Memphis. At home he was ever ready to lend his influence, his labor and his money to deserving objects. In State and National politics he was mainly interested and did herculean work in bringing about an honest administration in municipal affairs. His devotion to principle, his gentle heart and his love of justice were conspicuous traits. Born and reared a Hebrew, and practicing that faith, his religion was of that broad and deep character which includes all mankind within its folds. At the first alarm, when the yellow fever scourge of 1878 visited Memphis, when nearly all who had the means – men, women and children – rushed in dismay from the panic-stricken city, Nathan D. Menken remained and joined the little band of the Howard Society, formed for the relief of the poor, the sick and the dying. By day and by night he walked from house to house, paying no heed to letters and telegrams bidding him leave the hot-bed of pestilence, until he, too, fell a victim at the age of forty-two. No citizen of Memphis was esteemed more highly than Nathan D. Menken, and his memory is dearly cherished by all who appreciate moral worth and true manhood.

I'JL THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1/3

X74

IN PUBLIC OFFICE.

IN National, State and Municipal affairs, the Hebrews of America have taken a leading part. They have been represented in the United States Senate, in the House of Representatives, in the Consular Service, and have held high official positions in leading States and cities. A place in a President's Cabinet was tendered to a Hebrew, President Grant having offered the Secretaryship of the Treasury to the late Joseph Seligman. The offer was declined by Mr. Seligman for personal reasons.

In the consular service of the government Hebrews have been conspicuous for many years. During the first decade our Consul-General to Portugal was Solomon B. Nones, a son of Major Nones and brother of Joseph B. Nones. While proceeding to his post he was captured by corsairs on the Mediterranean. All of his shipmates were killed and he alone was spared by giving a Masonic sign. Abraham B. Nones was United States Consul-General to Maracaibo in 1837, and died du-ring his term of office. Samson M. Isaacs, the " patriarch " of the New York Custom House, was for upwards of forty years connected with that institution in an official capacity. He was born at Norwalk, Conn., in 1776, and resided for a while at Newport, whence he came to New York. He witnessed the inauguration of Washington, and served as Private Secretary to General Knox.

Mordecai M. Noah was appointed by President Madison as

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 175

Consul-General at Tunis. He next occupied the office of Surveyor of the Port, and then that of Sheriff of New York. On his accession to the latter office he was taunted with the remark : " Pity Christians have to be hung by a Jew ! " to which he promptly replied: " Pity Christians require hanging at all!" Mr. Noah was subsequently elected Judge of the Court of Sessions. He was a man of high literary attainments and the author of numerous plays, including " Fortress of Sorrento," " Paul and Alexis," " The Siege of Tripoli," and " The Grecian Captive." He edited the " National Advocate," "Enquirer," " Evening Star," "Commercial Advertiser," " Times" and " Messenger." He died in New York in 1851.

Henry M. Phillips was for many years one of the most prominent citizens of Philadelphia, and was honored with numerous public offices. He was a son of Zeligman Phillips, the noted criminal lawyer, and was born at Philadelphia in 1811. Having been educated in private schools he read law and was admitted to the bar in 1832. For some years he followed criminal law with marked success, and afterwards gave his attention to civil law in which he amassed a fortune, finally ranking as one of the best constitutional lawyers in the country. In 1856 he was elected to the Thirty-fifth Congress, and during his term figured conspicuously in the debates, especially during the discussion on the admission of Kansas as a State of the Union. On the expiration of his term he declined to accept any other political office, though frequently urged to become the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Philadelphia. He was prevailed upon, however, to accept numerous high positions in educational, charitable and financial institutions, and was a Commissioner of the Board of City-Trusts, having control of the Stephen Girard Estate and was made President of the Board. He was also chosen President of the Board of Directors of the Academy of Music; President of the Fairmount Park Commission; Director of the Pennsylvania Company of Insurance and Annuities ; Director of the Pennsylvania and other railroad companies, of the Jefferson Medical College, Western Union Telegraph Company and other corporations. He also served as Grand Master of Free Masons of the State of Pennsylvania. Mr. Phillips was for some years interested in the affairs of the Congregation Mickve-Israel, and was a member of the Board of Managers. He died April 28, 1884.

In 1845 Lewis C. Levin was elected Representative in Congress from the First District in Philadelphia. Born in Charleston, S. C, November 10, 1808, he was educated there and at the Columbia (S. C.) College. In early manhood he located at Woodville, Miss., and taught school for several years. While residing in Mississippi, he fought a duel with Alfred Bynum, Jefferson Davis acting as Mr. Levin's second. Rifles were the weapons used, and Mr. Levin was seriously wounded. He then adopted the profession of the law, which he practiced in several States. In 1838 he removed to Philadelphia where he attracted much attention as an impassioned speaker in the cause of temperance. He published and edited a temperance paper entitled "The Temperance Advocate," and established a daily paper, known as " The Sun," its editorial columns being devoted to the principles of Native .Americanism. On May 6, 1844, Mr. Levin was addressing a large audience in Kensington, when the meeting was fired upon and several American citizens killed. This act caused great excitement throughout the city and was followed by riot and bloodshed. Mr. Levin used persistent efforts to check the fury of his friends and partizans, and on several occasions exposed' his life by bold and fearless denunciation. He was indicted for treason to the Commonwealth and was acquitted. The following year his popularity secured him a seat in Congress and he was twice re-elected, occupying the ofifice six years in all. He served his constituents with great credit, and while holding the Chairmanship of the Committee on Naval Affairs, was instrumental in the building of the Dry Dock at Philadelphia. He died March 15, i860. He was a man of genius and remarkable eloquence, and was likewise distinguished for his kind-heartedness and benevolence.

Henry Michael Hyams was elected Lieutenant-Governor of Louisiana in 1859. ^^ came from Charleston, where he was born in 1809, in company with Judah P. Benjamin. In New Orleans he found employment as a bookkeeper, and in 1832 removed to Donaldsonville, La., where he acted as Cashier of the Canal Bank. After studying law and being admitted to practice he married and removed to Alexandria, La., where he engaged in practice as a member of the law firm of Dunbar & Hyams. Having returned to New Orleans, he was elected to the State Senate and, after the expiration of his term of office, was elected Lieutenant-Governor of the State. From 1858 up to his death in 1875, Governor Hyams was associated in the practice of law with Hon. B. F. Jones.

Judah P. Benjamin attained eminence as a member of the United States Senate, as cabinet officer of the Confederate Government and as a member of the bar. He was born at St. Croix in 1811, and reached Charleston, S. C., about 1816.

178 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

His parents being in straitened circumstances, opened a small retail store in King Street, that city. Not prospering, they removed to Beaufort, S. C., but meeting with no better success there, they returned to Charleston. Judah developed such remarkable talent as a youth as to attract the attention of Moses E. Lopez, a member of the Hebrew-Orphan Society, who, from his own means, bestowed a classical education upon his protegee. Fayetteville and Wilmington, North Carolina, also claim the honor of his residence early in the century. From Charleston young Benjamin was sent to the Columbia (S. C.) College. He finally settled in New Orleans, where his classical scholarship and eloquence soon secured for him a host of friends and a large clientele at the bar. In 1834 he wrote "A Digest of Reported Decisions of the Supreme Court of Louisiana." Six years afterward he became a member of the law firm of Slidell, Benjamin & Conrad. In 1845 ^^ was a member of the State Constitutional Convention; in 1847 ^ United States Commissioner; in 1848, a Presidential Elector for Louisiana, and in 1852 he was elected to the United States Senate, and re-elected in 1859, resigning his seat on the secession of his State. At the bar of the United States Supreme Court no man stood higher, even his opponents conceding his profound knowledge of the law and eloquence. The Provisional Government of the Southern Confederacy found Mr. Benjamin occupying the offices of Attorney-General and Acting-Secretary of War, and in February, 1862, he was appointed Secretary of State of the Confederacy, which position he filled until the fall of the Confederacy in 1865, when he left Richmond disguised as a farmer. On his way southward he passed two days at

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 179

Charlotte, N. C, as the guest of A. Weill, now a resident of Wilmington, N. C. Reaching the Florida coast he made his way to Nassau, N. P., in an open boat fifteen feet long, proceeded to Havana, and thence sailed for England, where he determined to resume the practice of law. He eventually rose to the very highest rank at the bar. Sir Henry James and Sir Charles Russell declared that Mr. Benjamin was facile princeps the leader of the English bar at the time of his death. During his residence abroad he wrote his celebrated treatise " On Sales," now the standard authority in England and the United States. Mr. Benjamin died in Paris, France, in May, 1884, after a brief illness occasioned by a fall from a street car.

Franklin J. Moses, the late distinguished Chief Justice of South Carolina, was born at Charleston, August 13, 1804, and was the son of Myer Moses, an officer in the war of 1812, and a representative in the Legislature of South Carolina in 1810. After graduating at the South Carolina College in 1823, he studied law with Hon. James L. Pettigrew, and being admitted to the bar, located at Sumter, S. C. In 1841 he was elected to the State Senate over two competitors, and re-elected for thirty years. For twenty-five years he served as chairman of the Judiciary Committee of that body. In 1866, while yet a member of the State Senate, Mr. Moses was elected Circuit Judge, and after the reconstruction period was elected Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State. In 1872, he was honored with a re-election and still occupied the office at the time of his death, which occurred at Columbia, March 6, 1877. He was also at the time Professor of Law at the University of South Carolina. In early life Mr. Moses married Miss McClellan, a Methodist lady with peculiarly beautiful traits of character. Several daughters were the fruit of the union, the youngest child being an only son who became the Republican Governor of South Carolina - Franklin J. Moses, Jr.

180 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Emanuel B. Hart, of New York, was born in that city in 1811. His aspiration for office was early rewarded by his election to Congress from 1851 to 1853, after which he was made Surveyor of the Port of New York, and subsequently appointed an Excise Commissioner. David L. Yulee, of Florida was United States Senator from Florida for many years prior to the Civil War. His wife was a daughter of Governor Wickliffe, of Kentucky.

By appointment of President Pierce, Isaac Phillips was made General Appraiser of the Port of New York, which position he occupied for fifteen years. He also filled the Grand Master's chair of New York Free Masons from 1849 to 1854. He was for ten years a Public School Commissioner and Trustee, and has been for thirty years one of the most active and influential members of the Chamber of Commerce of New York. William Lovenstein has been for nineteen years a member of the Virginia Legislature. He served five terms in the Assembly, and is now a member of the State Senate. He also holds high rank in the Orders of Free Masons, Royal Arcanum and E'nai-Bcrith. He was born near Richmond in 1840.

Raphael J. Moses, a distinguished lawyer and statesman of Georgia, was born in Charleston, S. C, in 1811, and is the only child of Israel Moses, of Philadelphia,. He opened a dry goods store in Charleston in 1832, and in 1837, having acquired a little knowledge of law, removed to Apalachicola, Fla., and was admitted to practice. He soon won a high reputation at the bar and took an active part in politics. In 1849 he removed to Columbus, Ga., with his family, and at once entered into the political contests of the day with Joseph E. Brown, Linton Stephens and Charles J. Jenkins. In 1851 he purchased a large fruit farm (the Eskeline) a few miles from Columbia, where he removed with his family. He was prominent in the Presidential contest of 1860 and when the War began he and three sons, aged respectively twenty-one, nineteen and seventeen, all enlisted. The eldest son served as a private throughout the war; the second Albert, served as a Lieutenant in a North Carolina regiment, and was killed at Seven Pines, and the third, Raphael J. Moses, Jr., was a Lieutenant in the Confederate Navy. Mr. Moses, the father, was appointed on the staff of General Robert Toombs, and General James Longstreet, and in 1864 was made Chief Commissary of Georgia with the rank of Major, in which capacity he received the last official order issued by the Confederate Government, which was to provide 250,000 rations to General Johnston's troops. He also received from the train bearing the Confederate Cabinet in their flight through Georgia, $40,000 in bullion for transfer to another official. After the War Major Moses resumed the practice of law, and, in 1866, was elected to the Legislature of Georgia, where he attracted attention as a legislator and orator of uncommon ability. Major Moses has been for years a conspicuous figure at all political assemblages, and with Robert Toombs, Benjamin H. Hill and Howell Cobb, formed one of what was known throughout the South as a "rare and unequalled quartette of popular speakers." The esteem in which he is held by the great men of Georgia attests his right to the place he occupies as the foremost

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 181

1 82 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Hebrew at the Bar and in "the politics of the Southern States.

Samuel Weil, of Atlanta, Ga., represents that city in the Georgia Legislature. He has been prominent in the politics of his section for thirty years and is known as one of the best lawyers in the South. He read law under Joseph E. Brown, now United States Senator from Georgia, and came from Germany in 1847, when twenty-three years old. At the meeting of Grand Lodge, No. 5, L O. B. B., in January, 1888, Mr. Weil was elected First Vice-President.

Dr. Herman Bendell, of Albany, N. Y., was appointed by President Grant, in 1871, Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Arizona. Resigning in 1873, he accepted from the same source the position of Consul to Elsinore, Denmark. He and Dr. Joseph Levi, also of Albany, were for several years members of the Board of Public Instruction in that city as was Henry W. Liprgan, another popular Albanian. M. L. Moses, a native of South Carolina and the leading spirit in all enterprises involving the progress and prosperity of the State, has been Mayor of Montgomery for two terms.

Phillip Schloss has been for some years and still occupies the office of State Senator for Vigo County in the Indiana Legislature. The late Bernhard Schweitzer, of Indianapolis, served both in the Lower and Upper Houses of the Indiana Legislature from Owen County. C. B. Feibleman has been for eight years Justice of the Peace of Marion County, Indiana, and has acted as Mayor of the city.

In New Haven, Conn., Louis Feldman has been Grand Master of Odd Fellows of the State of Connecticut and a representative to the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the World. Paul Weil has been honored with high office in the Masonic fraternity. Maier Zunder has been for years a member of the Board of Education, in which capacity he has been conspicuous for his services in building up the magnificent school system in operation in his city. Charles Kleiner has been President of the Board of Councilmen and is now an Alderman. Isaac Rosnosky, of Boston, was elected a member of the City Council for five terms and to the State House of Representatives for one term. He is President of the Congregation Ahab-Shalom. Henry Muck is now a member of the Ohio Senate. M. Bauer is Chairman of the Board of Control of Cincinnati. Victor Abraham is Vice-President of the Mercantile Library of Cincinnati. Mayer Cahn was a member of the Louisiana State Senate in 1878, and a delegate to the Constitutional State Convention about the same time. At Philadelphia, Alexander Reinstine, a native of Germany, has been returned several times to the City Council. He has also been officially connected with various Hebrew institutions. Emanuel Furth, a Philadelphia lawyer, has served two terms in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 83

At Portland, Oregon, B. Goldsmith, a native of Worms, is Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, and has been Mayor of the city. The construction of the Oregon City Falls locks, which made navigation possible on the Willamette River, was effected through his instrumentality. Philip Wasserman, of Bavaria, a wholesale tobacco merchant, has also been Mayor of the city and a member of the Public School Board and its President. Col. Louis Fleischner has been State Treasurer. Sol. Hirsch is the leader of the Republican party in Oregon. For some years he was Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. He served one term in the Lower House of the Legislature as the Speaker, and was State Senator for three consecutive terms of four years each, and President of that body. In the contest for United States Senator in 1886 he was the choice of many of his constituents for the office, and lacked but a few votes of election. Edward Hirsch, a brother, residing at Salem City, Oregon, has occupied the office of State Treasurer. Joseph Simon, the leading lawyer in Oregon, is an ex-State Senator and at present Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee.

184 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

At Detroit, Mich., Edward Kanter has been a member of the Legislature, and State Treasurer. Adam E. Bloom was a member of the Legislature in 1881, and a School Inspector in 1878.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Morris Dzialinsky served twice as

Mayor of the city. Jacob A. Huff was for many years City Treasurer. Bernhard M. Baer, a leading merchant and Director of the National Bank of the State of Florida, was chosen to the City Council. Philip Walter has been for fourteen years Clerk of the United States Court, and was in 1885 a member of the Constitutional State Convention of Florida.

The following are some of the Hebrews who have held office during the period named : Michel W. Ash, of Pennsylvania, a member of Congress from 1835 to 1837; Adolph Brandt, of Atlanta, Ga., served two terms in the Georgia Legislature ; Edwin Einstein, a member of Congress from the city of New York, in 1876; Moritz Ellinger, Coroner of New York City for a number of years ; S. H. Fishplate, of Wilmington, N. C, Mayor of the City, 1878-79; Morris Friedsam, Internal Revenue Collector of the city of New York ; Solomon I Heydenfelt, Justice of the Supreme Court of California 1851 ;

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 185

Julius Houseman, member of Congress from Michigan, 1880 to 1881 ; Israel Jacobs, member of Congress from Pennsylvania 1791 to 1793 ; Leonard Meyers, member of the Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth and Fortieth Congress from Philadelphia; Philip Phillips, member of Congress from Alabama, 1853 ^^ ^55 '» Charles H. Schwab, Comptroller of Chicago, 1886; Edward S. Solomon, appointed Governor of Washington Territory 1870 ; Myer Strouse, member of Congress from Pennsylvania, 1848 to 1852; David Eckstein, Consul to Van Couver's Island and Amsterdam ; Louis Barkhouse, four times elected a member of the Louisville, Ky., School Board, and the first Hebrew chosen to the ofBce ; Gerson N. Hermann, Coroner, New York City. Marcus Otterbourg, of New York, the first American Hebrew to occupy the high office of Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, was born at Landau, Rhenish-Bavaria, in 1827. He was educated in Paris and after securing a position as teacher in England, took up his residence in Mannheim, in the Grand Duchy of Baden, where he was very successful as teacher of French and English. Being marked as a Revolutionist, he concluded to come to this country in 1852. Directly after Lincoln's election he was appointed Consul at the City of Mexico, Thomas Corwin being Minister to that country at the time. Mr. Otterbourg's position, in consequence of the then contemplated European intervention and Mr. Corwin's retirement, became an exceedingly delicate- and important one. After the surrender of General Lee, Mr. Otterbourg tendered his resignation as Consul, which was accepted in a very complimentary letter signed by Clarence Seward, Acting-Secretary of State. After returning to the United States Mr. Otterbourg was urged by Secretary William H. Seward to withdraw his resignation.

Thereupon he returned to Mexico and assumed charge of the United States Legation and Consulate until June, 1867, when he was nominated as Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary. In conformity with an understanding with Mr. Seward, Mr. Otterbourg, as soon as the Republican Government was restored in the City of Mexico, resigned his office. On his return to New York he took an active part in municipal politics. He was admitted to the Bar in 1871. On the election of Mayor Havemeyer, Mr. Otterbourg was appointed a Police Justice, which office he creditably filled for nine years. Since that time he has been engaged in the practice of his profession.

-\\'^'^ Oscar S. Straus, United States Minister to Turkey, was born in Germany in 1851. Emigrating with his parents to this country he settled in Talbotton, Ga., where he resided until 1862, and removed to New York after the close of the Civil War, entering Columbia Grammar School and graduating from Columbia College as an "honor man" in 1871. Two years afterwards he graduated from the law school of Columbia College and began the practice of law as a member of the firm of Stern, Hudson, Straus & Thompson, Counsel to the Board of Trade, and a firm of high repute, especially in corporation law. Mr. Straus retired from the practice of law in 1880 on account of ill-health, and spent some time in Europe, entering the business house of L. Straus & Sons, the well known pottery and glassware firm, upon returning home. Mr. Straus has been for years a close student, being specially interested in American history. One of the results of his researches in this field is a volume on "The Origin of Republican Form of Government in the United States of America." He has appeared as a contributor to the "Westminster Review," on "The Development of Religious Liberty in America," and has frequently lectured on historical subjects. During the Presidential Campaign of 1884, Mr. Straus was Secretary of the Executive Committee of the Merchants' and Business Men's organization which supported the Democratic nominee, and was an industrious and influential co-operator in that movement. His nomination for the Turkish Mission was an honor unexpected and unsought, and was the result of a spontaneous effort on the part of the many leading merchants, and received the endorsement of the Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher also interested himself in Mr. Straus' appointment, in a letter to President Cleveland urging his nomination as follows :

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 8/

It is because he is a Jew that I would urge his appointment as a fit recognition of this remarkable people, who are becoming large contributors to American prosperity, and whose intelligence, morality and large liberality in all public measures for the welfare of society deserve and should receive from the hands of the Government some such recognition. Is it not also a duty to set forth in this quiet but effectual method the genius of American government, which has under its fostering care people of all civilized nations, and which treats them without regard to civil or religious race peculiarities as common citizens ? We send Danes to Denmark, Germans to Germany; we reject no man because he is a Frenchman. Why should we not make a crowning testimony to the genius of our people by sending a Hebrew to Turkey ? The ignorance and superstition of mediaeval Europe may account for the prejudices of that dark age. But how a Christian in our day can turn from a Jew I cannot imagine. Christianity itself suckled at the bosom of Judaism ; our roots are in the Old Testament. We are Jews ourselves gone to blossom and fruit. Christianity is Judaism in evolution, and it would seem strange for the seed to turn against the stock on which it was grown.

188 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Benjamin F. Jonas was born in Williamstown, Ky., July 19, 1834. He resided for some years in Adams County, Ill., where he was educated, and thence removed to New Orleans, where he graduated in the law department of the University of Louisiana. On the breaking out of the Civil War he entered the Confederate Army as a private and rose to the rank of Adjutant. He was elected to the Louisiana Legislature in 1865, was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention of 1868, elected to the State Senate in 1872, and then elected City Attorney of New Orleans. After a second term in the State Legislature he was elected in 1889 United States Senator from Louisiana. Upon the accession of Mr. Cleveland to the Presidency he was made Collector of the Port of New Orleans.

Leopold Morse, of Boston, who is now serving his fifth term as a member of Congress, received a common school education at Wachenheim, Bavaria, his birthplace. He was born August 15, 1831, and arrived in Boston in 1848. He resided for awhile in New Hampshire and later at New Bedford, Mass. In 1854 he entered the employ of Henry Haverman & Co., and in 1864 started in business for his own account. His clothing business is now one of the most extensive in this country.

Isidore Rayner member of Congress from Baltimore, was born in that city, April 11, 1850, and is the son of W. S. Rayner. He was educated at the University of Virginia, where he graduated with honors. He has for some years been an acknowledged leader at the Baltimore Bar, where his legal talents and eloquence have brought him a large clientage. His first public office was in 1878, when he was elected to the Maryland Legislature, after which he served four years in the State Senate. In the fall of 1887, he was elected a member of the Fiftieth Congress, and on taking his seat immediately attracted attention by his participation in important legislation and the delivery of several eloquent speeches, notably one on the subject of trusts and monopolies. His public utterances in Congress have made a deep impression upon his fellow-members of the House and have also evoked favorable comment from the press throughout the country, his efforts showing scholarship, vigor and a readiness to grapple with the questions of the day.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. rSg

Joseph Blumenthal was born in Munich, Bavaria, December 1, 1834, and came to this country in 1839. He was educated in the public schools of New York City, and in 1853 removed to California, where he resided five years. Returning to New York in 1858 he engaged in business until 1874. He participated actively in the reform movement in 1870 and 1871, and was a member of the Committee of Seventy. He represented the Fifteenth District of New York City in the Assembly in 1873 and 1874, and was successful in placing the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of New York on the same footing as other institutions, whereby an annual sum is allowed for each inmate. In the fall of 1887 he was elected to the Assembly from the Twenty-Second District of New York City. Mr. Blumenthal is President of the Jewish Theological Seminary Association and is ex-President and present Trustee of the Congregation ^{^/^^^^r/Z/^}-Zyr^{^^}/ and a Director of the Young Men's Hebrew Association. He is a member of all the Hebrew charitable and educational societies and was the first President of the Sanitary Aid Society.

Jacob A. Cantor, Senator from the Tenth District of New York, was born in the city of New York, December 6, 1854.

I go

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

His inclinations led him to enter the office of William Wall Peck for the purpose of studying law, and in 1872 he became a reporter on the "New York World" remaining on the staff of that paper until 1877. While thus employed he entered the Law School of the University of the City of New York, graduating with distinction in 1875. As a lawyer he has shown exceptional ability. He has been a delegate to various Democratic conventions and was chosen a member of the New York Assembly in 1884, and was triumphantly re-elected in 1885-86. During his term in the Legislature he introduced numerous bills, including almost one hundred during his last two terms. Among the more important which passed were those requiring certain sanitary improvements in the construction, alteration and building of tenement houses in the city of New York ; providing that a resident of the city of New York should be included on the Board of State Assessors and the prevention of indiscriminate marriages and divorces by Rabbis without legal authority. Mr. Cantor was the father of numerous bills in the interest of various Hebrew institutions in which he always evinced a warm interest.

Leo C. Dessar, Justice of the Eleventh District Court of the city of New York, was born in Germany in 1847, ^'^ is a son of the late Dr. Julius H. Dessar, who was President of a Hebrew Institute of Cincinnati. After a preliminary education he was sent to Columbia Law School, New York, where he graduated, and at an early age became interested in political affairs. For seventeen years he was a prominent leader in local politics. In 1875 he was elected a member of the Assembly from the Seventeenth District and served on the Judiciary Committee. He was active in securing the passage of the Elevated Railroad bills and before the expiration of his term was appointed a member of the famous Committee on Crime. In 1884 Mr. Dessar was elected Civil Justice of the Eleventh District Court, which had but recently been created by act of Legislature. During his term of office not one of his decisions have been reversed by a higher tribunal.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 191

Hon. Simon M. Ehrlich is a native of Boston. He was born January 6, 1852. He received a preliminary education in the public schools of New York, and then entered the New York University where he graduated with honor, subsequently attending the Columbia Law College, associating soon after his graduation with the Hon. Leo C. Dessar, now one of the Civil Justices of New York. Later on he was associated with the well-known criminal lawyer, Charles W. Brooke. In 1884 Mr. Ehrlich was elected Judge of the City Court by a decisive majority, and during his incumbency has deservedly won the respect and esteem of his brethren at the Bar by the painstaking, courteous and consistent discharge of his judicial duties. Judge Ehrlich is a member of various Hebrew fraternal organizations and charitable institutions and manifests a deep interest in all matters bearing upon the interest and welfare of his co-religionists.

Henry M. Goldfogle, one of the Civil Justices of the city of New York, was born in that city May 23, 1854. He was educated in the public schools and then received private instruction. When fifteen years old he entered the law office of J. J. Rogers and made rapid progress. On reaching his majority he was duly admitted to the Bar, and shortly afterward formed a connection with Henry Fisher, now of San Francisco. In 1884 he associated with Charles L. Cohn.

192 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Mr. Goldfogle, previous to 1887, had never been a candidate for public office. In the fall of that year he was nominated for the Civil Justiceship of the Sixth Judicial District, and was elected by a plurality of 287 votes out of a total vote of about 25,000. Mr. Goldfogle is a member of most of the Hebrew charitable institutions and fraternal organizations.

Jacob Hess is a native of Germany and was born in 1847. He has resided in New York since 1850 and has been prominent in municipal politics since 1874, when he was elected a member of the New York Assembly, serving one year. The following year he was elected Alderman-at-Large. In 1876 he was appointed by Mayor Wickham an Inspector of Schools, and after serving two years and a half resigned to accept the appointment of Commissioner of Charities and Correction tendered by Mayor Cooper. This office he occupied with credit for six years. At the expiration of his term of office he was appointed a Commissioner of Electrical Subways, and is now President of the Board. Mr. Hess is a member of various Hebrew institutions and societies and has been prominently identified with the National Guard, having for twenty years been private, color-sergeant and Commissary of the 71st Regiment, and is at present a member of the Old Guard.

Joseph Koch, of New York, was born in that city in 1844, and graduated from the Free Academy at the age of eighteen. During the Civil War he served as Lieutenant and Captain, and in 1868 was appointed Law Clerk of the Supreme Court, afterwards Deputy County Clerk. He received the appointment of Civil Justice of the Fifth District Court of the City of New York in 1869, and the year following was appointed School Trustee of the Eleventh Ward. After serving for two years as State Senator, he was appointed a Dock Commissioner. Mr. Koch has been President of District Lodge No. i, of the Order of B'nai-Berith, and was chairman of the general convention of the order held at Chicago in 1874.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 1 93

Samson Lachman was born in New York in 1855. He attended the Public Schools, and graduated at the College of the City of New York in 1874. He was Salutatorian of his class and took ten out of eleven medals in his class on graduating. He is also a graduate of Columbia College Law School, where he secured the prize for an essay on Municipal Law. He was with the firm of Vanderpoel, Green & Cuming a number of years, and then became a member of the firm of Lachman, Morgenthau & Goldsmith. At the election in 1887 he was elected Justice of the Sixth District Court on the Democratic ticket by a large majority over two opposing Candidates. Mr. Lachman has been Chairman of the County Democracy Committee in his District for the past three years, is a member of various clubs and associations, including all the Hebrew Charitable Societies, and has been prominently connected with the Order of B'nai-Berith, and has been the President of the Mount Sinai Lodge and a member of the Grand Lodge of the order.

Ferdinand Levy, of New York, was born in Wisconsin, in 1842, and is the son of Simon Levy, who served in the Civil War as Colonel of a New York regiment. He was educated in his native State and at the age of fifteen came to New York where he has resided ever since. He was one of the first to volunteer on the breaking out of the Civil War, participated in many important engagements during three years' service in the field and rose from the ranks to a Captaincy. Since his return to civil life Mr. Levy has been a conspicuous member of the Democratic party. As such he has been a delegate to numerous conventions, and has been a member of the Tammany Hall General Committee. In 1872 he was elected Alderman-at-Large and was an active member of the Board, retiring at the close of his term with the respect and confidence of the citizens irrespective of party. In 1882 Mr. Levy was elected Coroner by a majority of 20,000 votes, and re-elected in 1885. He is a member of various Hebrew societies and German organizations and is very popular with the German element. In February, 1885, he was elected Grand Master of the Order Sons of Benjamin. Theodore W. Myers, Comptroller of the city of New York, was born in that city in 1844, and is a son of the late Lawrence Myers, for many years a prominent importer of wines. After completing a course of study in a private school, young Myers was sent abroad to complete his education in the Elysee Bonaparte of Paris, and a private educational school in Frankfort-on-the-Main. He travelled extensively abroad and, returning home was associated for several years with William M. Fliess in the rectifying business. He was then appointed cashier of the banking and brokerage firm of Polhemus & Jackson, and subsequently formed a co-partnership with H. S. Camblos in the same business. He was also special partner in the firm of N. E. De Rivas & Co., and then established the firm of Theodore W. Myers & Co., as now conducted. Mr. Myers was an ardent supporter of Mr. Cleveland in the Presidential Campaign of 1884, previous to which time he had taken no active part in politics. In 1887 he was appointed by Mayor

194 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 195

Hewitt one of the Park Commissioners of New York City, and was elected by his colleagues as Treasurer of the Board. In the fall of the same year he was elected Comptroller of the city by a majority of 47,000 votes. Mr. Myers is a member of the Congregation Shearith-Israel, of which his father was for many years a Trustee, and is a member of various Hebrew charitable and benevolent associations.

Jacob Shroder, of Cincinnati, was elected Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Hamilton, Ohio, in 1886.

Alfred Steckler, Justice of the Fourth Judicial District of the city of New York, was educated in the public schools and in his seventeenth year was appointed managing clerk in the office of a prominent law firm. He entered the law department of Columbia College, graduated with honors and soon thereafter undertook the practice of law on his own account. The abuses which had grown up in the administration of the affairs of the Fourth District Court having aroused a storm of indignation, in the fall of 1881 Mr. Steckler, who had not yet attained his twenty-fifth year, determined to enter the canvass as an independent candidate. He was elected by a handsome majority. In November, 1887, Judge Steckler was re-elected to the office by a plurality of over 4,000 votes. He is a member of various Hebrew secret and benevolent associations and his firm are counsel for numerous trade unions and beneficial organizations.

Philip Benjamin was elected an Alderman of New York City in 1887. Samuel D. Rosenthal was elected a member of the New York Legislature from New York City in 1887 and re-elected in 1887.

196

BIOGRAPHICAL.

ABRAHAM B. ARNOLD, M. D., of Baltimore, is a German by birth and has resided in this country since 1832. He began the study of medicine in the office of his relative, Dr. Lehweß, of New York, and matriculated in the University of Pennsylvania. His professional studies were completed in the Washington University of Baltimore. For the past forty years he has been actively engaged in an extensive practice, and has taken a deep interest in the establishing of a Hebrew Hospital and Orphan Society in his city. He was elected to the Professorship of the Practice of Medicine in the Washington University and was appointed to fill the chair of Professor of Clinical Medicine and of diseases of the nervous system on the consolidation of that institution with the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He is the author of a "Manual of Nervous Diseases," and his professional brethren have repeatedly honored him by electing him to fill the chairs of President of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, the Medical Association of Baltimore and the Medical Academy. In the Ninth International Medical Congress, which was held in Washington in 1887, Dr. Arnold presided in the Section of General Medicine. On the nomination of Abraham Lincoln for the Presidency in 1860, Dr. Arnold arrayed himself with the Republican party and was made a member of the State Executive Committee. His contributions to the medical press are numerous.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 197

Joseph Aub, M. D., of Cincinnati, son of the philanthropist, Abraham Aub, has attained high rank as an oculist and is authority on diseases of the ear. He was born in Cincinnati in 1846, was educated in the public schools, and is a graduate of the Medical College of Ohio and the University of Erlangen, Bavaria. After a residence in New York as Surgeon in the Ophthalmic and Aural Institute, he entered the Cincinnati Hospital as oculist and lecturer on diseases of the ear. In 1877 he made a transplantation of skin from the arm to the eye-lid for ectropion, the size of the flap being 2 3-8 inches in length by 1-4 in width, the second operation of the kind in this country.

Herman Baar was born at Hanover in 1826. He received a thorough classical and Hebrew education under various eminent tutors, and after graduation at the University of Gottingen was appointed teacher at a school near Brunswick. At the age of thirty Dr. Baar was elected Minister of a congregation at Liverpool, England. While here his sermons attracted wide attention, one, delivered on the death of Prince Albert, drawing from Prince Ernst, of Coburg-Gotha, an autograph letter of thanks. An affection of the throat compelled his resignation, and he opened a school at Brussels. He afterwards accepted a call to a synagogue in Washington, D. C, subsequently removed to New Orleans, where he conducted a Hebrew school, and since 1875 has been the Superintendent of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of New York over which he so creditably presides.

Simon Baruch, M. D., was born at Schwersenz, Province of Posen, Prussia, July 29, 1840. He graduated at the South Carolina Medical College and Medical College of Virginia, and resided for many years at Camden, S. C.

198 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

In 1874 he was President of the South Carolina Medical Society. In 1880, Dr. Baruch was appointed by Governor Hagood, a member of the State Board of Health of South Carolina, and as Acting-Chairman of the Board he published a report on vaccination, demonstrating the exposed condition of the State, which led to the adoption by the Legislature of measures to introduce general vaccination. In 1881, he removed to New York in order to obtain educational advantages for his sons. He has published numerous monographs, among which are " Malaria as an Etiological Factor in New York City," "The Diagnosis of Malarial Fevers," " The Therapeutic Significance of the Cervical Follicles," and " The Prevention of Puerperal Infection." In 1886, Dr. Baruch was appointed Chief of Staff of the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids, and Attending Physician to the New York Juvenile Asylum, and in 1887 he was made Attending Physician at Manhattan Hospital. Dr. Baruch attained additional prominence in the spring of 1888, by his connection with the musical prodigy, Josef Hofmann. It was urged by Dr. Baruch that the continued appearance of the child in public was an overstrain which threatened serious results, while three of the most eminent New York physicians, acting in the interest of the young musician's manager, did not share in this belief. Dr. Baruch, however, succeeded in withdrawing the boy from the stage. Jefferson Bettman, M. D., of New York, was born in Cincinnati, October 9, 1858, where he graduated from St. Francis Xavier's College at the age of seventeen. He entered the Ohio Medical College in 1876, graduating with high honor three years afterwards. He then took up the special treatment of diseases of the ear and throat and served for two years in the New York Ophthalmic and Aural Institute as Clinical Assistant under Dr. Knapp. Two years were spent in the various hospitals devoted to the same specialty in Paris, Vienna, Heidelberg and London. In the latter city he was appointed assistant in the London Throat and Ear Hospital, and later on became chief private assistant to Doctor now Sir Morell Mackenzie. The laws of England regulating the practice of medicine by foreigners being very stringent and Dr. Bettman, possessing no qualification under English law, it was under the title of "Acting Resident Medical Officer" that he could accept the responsibility of those positions. Dr. Mackenzie at this time was actively engaged in writing his treatise which is now the standard on "Diseases of the Nose and Throat," and while acting as his private assistant. Dr. Bettman was also selected to help in the compilation of the great work. In 1883 Dr. Bettman returned to America and associated himself with his brother who had in the meantime located in Chicago as oculist and aurist. Laryngology had not then gained a firm footing in the West and Dr. Bettman may be said to have been the first to devote himself exclusively to that branch in Chicago. In 1885, Dr. Bettman removed to New York City, and immediately received the appointment of Assistant Surgeon to the New York Ophthalmic and Aural Institute. Several of his original articles have been published in English and French journals, and are referred to in leading works on diseases of nose, ear and throat.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 199

Julius Bien, proprietor of one of the most complete and best known lithographic establishments in the world, is a native of Hesse-Cassel, Germany, and has resided in the

200 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

United States since 1849. -His name has been more or less connected with the most important works of the Government, including the Coast Survey reports and the great map of the United States published by authority of the General Land Office. Since 1870, Mr. Bien has been a shining light in the order of B' nai-Berith and now occupies the office of Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Grand Lodge. Intrusted with a general direction of the affairs of the order, he has exercised much influence in shaping its policy and to his industry, energy and mental acquirements the steady growth and present prosperity of the order is in a large measure due. He has also been active in the affairs of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, the Hebrew Technical Institute and other institutions.

Isidor Binswanger, a prominent Philadelphia merchant, reached this country from Bavaria in 1841, when twenty-one years old. He has been engaged in the dry goods business in Baltimore and Cumberland, Md., and in 1848 formed a partnership with David Eger in the wholesale notion business at Philadelphia, which was continued until 1862. He was also a member of the firm of Charles Hern & Co. of St. Louis. In 1868 he was elected President of the Richmond Granite Company, of which he has since been the head with the exception of two years. Though unceasingly active in his business, Mr. Binswanger has devoted much of his time and energies to the promotion of educational and charitable institutions, in many of which he has been a Director and President. He has served as Director of the Union National Bank, a member of the Union League, Director of the Wills Hospital, and for twelve years a Director of the Mercantile Club.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 201

Mark Blumenthal, M.D., of New York, is a native of Bavaria, and was born in 1831. He studied in Philadelphia and New York, and graduated in 1852. He is a member of the New York Academy of Medicine, New York Pathological Society, New York County Medical Society, and has been President of the New York Medical Union. He has also been honored with the Presidency of the New York Articulating School for Deaf Mutes and of the New York Physicians' Mutual Association. His literary contributions are numerous.

Isidor Bush, of St. Louis, was born at Prague, Austria, in 1882. He is the only son of a wealthy cotton merchant, Jacob I. Bush. Young Bush received a careful home education and studied ancient and modern languages, music, painting, mathematics, etc., until 1837, when his father withdrew from the cotton trade and purchased the large Oriental publishing house and printing establishment of Von Schmidt, in Vienna. When eighteen years old he became publisher and four years later editor of many valuable works. Experience as a publisher and editor in early youth, together with a peculiar gift to recognize and appreciate genius, led him to first introduce Leopold Kompert, the Ghetto poet, Simon Szanto, the journalist, and Leopold Low, the Hungarian historian, to the literary world. During the Revolution of 1848 young Bush was a Liberal, and sought safety by flying to America. Arriving in New York in 1849, with but ten dollars in his pocket and aided and encouraged by co-religionists, he opened a small book and stationery store in Grand Street, and published a German weekly called "Israel's Herald." Lack of means and insufficient knowledge of the language induced his removal to St. Louis where he opened a grocery and later on a hardware store. At Carondelet, Mo., he also started a general store. In 1857 Mr. Bush founded the People's Savings Bank, and under his Presidency, which continued for some years, it became one of the most successful savings institutions in the city. In 1868 he was elected representative of St. Louis to the Constitutional Convention, and in 1864 he was again elected a member of the State Convention. In 1866 and 1867 he served as Alderman, and from 1881 to 1884 was a Director of the St. Louis Public Schools. He was an Aide-de-Camp on the staff of General Fremont in 1862, with the rank of Captain, and was subsequently appointed General Agent of the St. Louis & Iron Mountain Railroad, which he held for several years. While occupied with his official duties he prepared and laid the foundation to his present great wine business. He bought a large tract of forest land, specially adapted to grape growing, which is now famed even beyond the limits of this country, as "Bushberg," the largest grape nursery in the United States. Mr. Bush is recognized in the agricultural world both in Europe and America as authority on American grapes and their culture. France acknowledges itself indebted to him for the salvation and reconstruction of its phylloxera-ravaged vineyards. In 1872 Mr. Bush was elected Grand President of District No. 2 of the order B'nai-Berith, and in 1874 one of the Executive Committee of the Constitution Grand Lodge of the United States. He is one of the founders and first trustees of the Jewish Orphan Asylum at Cleveland, Ohio, and the Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Covenant Widow's Fund. His humanitarian labors are not restricted to his co-religionists. As President of the German Emigrant Aid Society, which office he held for many years, he was appointed a member of the State Board of Emigration and its Secretary, and was retained in this position by every succeeding Governor of the State since 1865, irrespective of party.

202 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Michael H. Cardozo was born in the City of New York in 1851, and received his elementary education at the Grammar School. In 1865 he entered the College of the City of New York, from which he was graduated in 1870. He then entered the law office of Morris & Billings, and also pursued his studies at the University Law School until his admission to the bar in 1872. He subsequently formed a copartnership with the members of the above firm, Coles Morris and Oliver P. C. Billings, under the firm name of Morris, Billings & Cardozo. The firm has represented a large number of corporations. Mr. Cardozo's attainments in the various branches of the profession attracted the attention of the General Term of the Supreme Court, and in January, 1883, he was chosen one of the committee on examination of applicants for admission to the bar. Mr. Cardozo is a member of the Bar Association and various leading clubs.

Solomon Nunes Carvalho was born at Charleston, S. C. April 27, 1815. He received an educational training at Charleston College, and also at the schools of Isaac Harby and M. M. Cohen, in his native city. When twenty years old he went to Philadelphia and resided for a while in that city and at Baltimore. In early life he developed a taste for the fine arts and for many years followed the profession of portrait painter. For an ideal portrait of "Moses Receiving the Tablets of the Law on Sinai," he was awarded a prize at an exhibition in Charleston. Later on, when he had removed to New York, Mr. Carvalho painted a masterly portrait of Thomas Hunter, now President of the Normal College. In 1853 he accompanied John C. Fremont upon his famous expedition, in the capacity of artist and assistant in various scientific investigations. In recent years, Mr. Carvalho has been engaged in scientific researches and has been awarded several patents for super-heating apparatus and steam engineering appliances. He has also devoted much of his time to the preparation of a volume entitled "The Two Creations; a Scientific Hermeneutic and Etymologic Treatise on the Mosaic Cosmogony from the Original Hebrew," a work betraying profound scholarship and one calculated to awaken much interest in the literary and scientific world.

204 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Mr. Carvalho's account of his experience with "The Pathfinder" was published in 1857, under the title, "Incident of Travel and Adventure in the far West with Colonel Fremont's last expedition across the Rocky Mountains ; including a three months residence among the Mormons in Utah, and a perilous trip across the Great American Desert." At the request of John Bigelow, who was in later years United States Minister to France, Mr. Carvalho contributed from his note-book, incidents of the journey which was embodied in Mr. Bigelow's "Life of Fremont."

Emanuel Cohen, of Minneapolis, Minn., was born in Scranton, Penn., in 1855. He pursued his studies at various schools and then entered Williams College, where he graduated with distinction. He is a close student, especially of history and scientific subjects, and has delivered many public addresses. During his residence in Philadelphia he frequently lectured before the Young Men's Hebrew Association. In that city he studied law under ex-Judge F. Carroll Brewster, and practiced there for several years until his removal to Minneapolis in 1886. He is now a member of the well-known law firm of Kitchel, Cohen & Shaw, of Minneapolis.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 205

Jacob Da Silva Solis Cohen, M.D., of Philadelphia, was born February 28, 1838. He received a preliminary education at the Philadelphia Central High School and is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. During the Civil War he received an appointment as Assistant Surgeon in the army, and afterwards in the navy. After several years experience in various branches of the service, including the army hospital at Philadelphia, he tendered his resignation, resided for a short time in New York, and returned to Philadelphia where he has gained an enviable record, especially in the treatment of diseases of the throat and chest. Dr. Cohen is a member of various medical societies, and in 1875 was honored with the office of President of the Philadelphia Northern Medical Association. His contributions to medical literature includes a "Treatise on Inhalation," "Diseases of the Throat" and "Croup, in its relation to Tracheotomy."

Josiah Cohen was born November 29, 1840, near London, England, where he acquired his education. In 1857 became to America, and in 1860 entered upon the duties of teacher in the school of the Rodef-Shalom Congregation at Pittsburg, Penn., and continued that vocation till 1866. During this time he was prominently identified with the Public School System of Pennsylvania, and flattering commendations of his school appear in the reports of State Superintendent of Schools. His associates in that profession manifested their esteem of Mr. Cohen by electing him Vice-President of the Teachers' Association of Allegheny County, Penn. During his service as a school teacher, Mr. Cohen also figured promi-nently in the Western part of Pennsylvania, as a public teacher where he lectured frequently to public audiences and societies of learning. In 1866 he was admitted to the bar of Allegheny County. Since then he has been recognized as a most eloquent pleader and without a superior in that regard in the legal profession at Pittsburg. Though eminently adapted to the life of a political leader, he has vigorously resisted many flattering inducements to enter the political arena, accepting simply the burden of such labors as would foster the interests of the Republican party, which, by his powerful eloquence and ability as a parliamentarian, he has often promoted and defended. Mr. Cohen has served as Chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee at Pittsburg. He has been a member of the City Councils of Pittsburg and the Central Board of Education of that city, and has figured prominently in their deliberations. He was appointed by the Governor in 1876, as a member of Western Pennsylvania Reform School Board of Managers, in which capacity he served for a term of six years. He was also a Blaine elector, of Pennsylvania, in 1884. Mr. Cohen's eloquence and power as a public speaker has been recognized upon nearly every public occasion of importance which has taken place at Pittsburg and the surrounding section. Notably was this the case at the banquet tendered to General Grant on his visit to Pittsburg when returning from his tour around the world, Mr. Cohen being called upon to respond to the toast, "Our Adopted Citizens." His eloquent reply stirred the souls of his hearers. General Grant himself rising from his place at the table and approaching Mr. Cohen congratulated him upon his masterly effort. Mr. Cohen has been twice President of the conventions of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations at their meetings in Buffalo, N. Y., and at Pittsburg, Penn., upon which occasions he presided with that ability as presiding officer and parliamentarian for which he is so well known. Mr. Cohen has been President of the District Grand Lodge, No. 3, of Independent Order B'nai-Berith, and presided at their meeting in Philadelphia. During the past twenty years he has worked unceasingly for the success and welfare of the Order of E'nai-BeritJi and has never failed to participate in all its important deliberations. His devotion to the Order was recognized by his election in 1884 as Vice-President of the Order of B'nai-BeritJi in this country.

206 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 20/

Nina Morais-Cohen, wife of Emanuel Cohen, of Minneapolis, Minn., and daughter of the Rev. Dr. Sabato Morals, was born in Philadelphia, December 6, 1855. She received a thorough education, which was completed at the Girls' High School of that city. She early displayed a fondness for literature, and devoted many hours to deep reading. She has written largely for the secular and the Hebrew press, and for magazines, including the "North American Review." Two articles from her pen in that publication attracted wide attention. They were "The Limitations of Sex," an argument in favor of woman suffrage, and "Jewish Ostracism in America." She has written many poems, and translated in verse poems from the Italian. She is also the author of a paper entitled "Circumstances as a Factor," for which she was awarded a prize. Her first-named contribution, and others pertaining to school discipline, instruction, etc., are always in demand, and she has likewise gained distinction as an elocutionist.

Alfred De Cordova, one of the youngest and most promi-

208 • THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

ment members of the New York Stock Exchange, was born at Kingston, Jamaica, on August 19, 1848. He is a son of Aaron De Cordova, a wealthy merchant, and has resided in New York since boyhood. He was engaged in various mercantile pursuits until 1875, when he became a member of the Board of Brokers of the New York Stock Exchange. When he began he had little or no capital, but with genial manners, hard work, tact, perseverance, and the strictest integrity, he gradually paved the way to his present honorable position. The fact that he has succeeded in gaining the esteem and friendship of some of the wealthiest and oldest members of the Stock Exchange is probably, from a business point of view, one of the main causes of his advancement and success. He is now able to indulge his early tastes, owns several noted horses, and is one of the best amateur drivers on the road; is a disciple of Isaac Walton, owns a beautiful steam yacht, and is a member of the "New York," the "Gents' Driving Park," the "Turf," the "Jerome," and the "Coney Island Jockey" Clubs. He is also a great pigeon fancier, and some time since established regular communication between his Wall Street office and his summer residence in New Jersey by means of carrier pigeons. Mr. De Cordova, is both liberal and generous in giving freely to all charitable institutions, and has been for many years a member of the Congregation ShearitJi-Israel.

Miriam Del Banco, the poetess, was born at New Orleans, in 1865, and is the daughter of the late Rabbi Max Del Banco. Shortly after the death of her father, which occurred during her infancy, she removed to St. Louis with her mother. In the public schools of that city she already displayed remarkable poetic talent, and was then placed with her uncle Louis Meyer, at Cape Girardeau, Mo., where she attended the State Normal School, and received a liberal education. After graduating there with honors she joined her mother, who had meanwhile settled in Chicago, where she finally obtained a position as teacher in the public schools. Among her early literary productions are translations of " Jewish Women " by Dr. Kayserling, which appeared in the " Jewish Advance," and also numerous articles, including poems in various Hebrew journals.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 209

S. Henry Dessau, M.D., of New York, was born at Macon, Ga., July 24, 1847- f^ graduated from Jefferson College, Philadelphia, and was Resident Physician at the Philadelphia Hospital. He was connected for five years with the New York Dispensary, in charge of the Children's Department. For nine years thereafter he acted as District Physician of the same institution, and was for nine years connected with the New York Foundling Asylum. He was also one of the medical staff of the Deborah Nursery. In 1871 Dr. Dessau was appointed one of the Health Inspectors of the city of New York. While engaged in general practice he has made a special study of diseases of children, in which he is considered an authority. He is a member of various medical societies and his contributions include a treatise on " The Value of Small and Frequent Doses of Medicine " which appeared in the " New York Medical Record" of 1877, and an article on " Whooping Cough," published in the " Journal of Obstetrics and Diseases of Children."

A. J. Dittenhoefer was born in South Carolina in March, 1836. His parents moved to the city of New York when he was four years old, and he has resided there continuously since. After first receiving a public school education he entered Columbia College Grammar School and subsequently the College, whence he graduated. There he was at the head of his class and received, at every examination, a prize for Latin and Greek, in which he displayed such proficiency that the famous Professor Anthon referred to him as his "Ultima Thule." At the age of twenty-one he was admitted to the Bar, soon made rapid progress, and within one year thereafter he was selected by the Republican party for Justice of the Marine (now City) Court. Some years later he was appointed by Governor Fenton a Judge of that Court, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Florence McCarthy. After the expiration of his term he declined a renomination. While on the bench he donated the entire salary to the widow of his predecessor, who had been left in destitute circumstances. In 1860 he was elected Presidential Elector of the State of New York, and had the honor of joining with the other electors in casting the vote of the State of New York for Abraham Lincoln, with whom he was on terms of friendship. He was offered by President Lincoln the position of United States Judge for the District of South Carolina, which he declined, being unwilling to give up his large practice in the city of New York. He was appointed by the Republican State Convention a Delegate to the Cincinnati Convention which nominated President Hayes. Though a Southerner by birth. Judge Dittenhoefer joined the Republican party in its infancy, when there seemed to be no possible prospect of its ever gaining power in the State or nation. This course was adopted against the advice and protests of most of his friends and clients, who were all identified with the Democratic party, but, being true to his convictions, he allowed himself to be controlled solely by his sense of right. He has never since swerved from his allegiance to the Republican party, serving as Chairman of the General Republican Central Committee for twelve terms, and has wielded considerable influence in the councils of the party. As a lawyer Judge Dittenhoefer has gained a very high reputation, being often engaged in the most important cases. While his services have been required in all branches of the legal profession, he has been conspicuous in theatrical litigations, and is recognized as an authority on the law relating to the drama and the stage. There have been few cases of this character in which he has not appeared upon one side or the other; generally with success. One of the most notable victories gained by him in this line was in the famous "Mikado" litigation, in which he succeeded in behalf of James C. Duff, of the Standard Theatre, in preventing the injunction that had been applied for by Joseph H. Choate on behalf of Messrs. Gilbert & Sullivan. He procured the incorporation of the influential association known as the Actors' Fund, and has ever since aided it by his advice, exacting no compensation therefor. He was also chiefly instrumental in securing the repeal of the law which for twenty-five years gave to the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents the license fees collected from the theatres of the city of New York, and the stigma thus cast upon the dramatic profession as a nursery for young criminals has been removed, and a large portion of these fees have ever since been donated by the city to the Actors' Fund. In recognition of these services he was presented with a testimonial, and with President Cleveland, Dr. Houghton and others, was elected an honorary member. His father, Isaac Dittenhoefer, was one of the founders of the order of B' nai-Berith and of the Temple Enianii-El, and the Judge has for years been an influential member of both.

210 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 211

212 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Henry L. Eisner, M.D., was born at Syracuse, N. Y., August 15, 1855. He graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York in 1877, continuing his studies at the Allgemeine Krankenhaus in Vienna, Austria. Since 1878 he has been a practicing physician in Syracuse, N. Y. From 1882 to 1884 he was instructor of the Practice of Medicine at the Medical College of Syracuse University, from 1884 to 1886 a lecturer at the same institution, and since 1886 he has been Professor of Clinical Medicine in the same institution. He has been Visiting Physician to St. Joseph's Hospital since 1882. In 1883 Dr. Eisner was elected Secretary of the Onondaga County Medical Society, and the two following years President of the Syracuse Medical Society. He has also been Vice-President of the Onondaga County Medical Society and President of the Boerhaavian Society. His contributions to medical literature are numerous and valuable.

Moses J. Ezekiel, the sculptor, was born in Richmond, Va., in 1844, and graduated from the Virginia Military Institute in 1866. In 1869 he entered the Royal Academy of Arts in Berlin, remaining there two years and then pursuing his studies under Professor Albert Wolf. In 1873 he was awarded the Michaelbeer prize, which entitled him to two years study and residence in Italy without expense. His works, which have been exhibited in all the art centres of Europe, have elicited universal commendation. Among them may be mentioned : " Religious Liberty," now at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, " Pan and Armor," "The Martyr," " The Sailor Boy," " Grace Darling," " Mercuiy," " Faith " and "Consolation." An American writer says of his " Religious Liberty ": " He thoroughly understands, venerates and appreciates Michael Angelo's greatness, and he has gone to nature like a confiding, trusting child, with reverence for nature's mighty power of superiority." Of the same work an Italian critic says : " Usually abstract ideas, incarnated in marble or on canvass, are mute. Ezekiel gives them speech. Modern sentiments of a philosophico-religious character utter audible words in his marble. One can see in it the synthesis of civilization, the sublime conception of a religion which draws one people to another in the bond of brotherhood." Ezekiel's bronze bust of Liszt, in the Conservatory of Music at Pesth, is considered, a masterpiece, and is said to have drawn from one of the great pianist's pupils the exclamation, " It is the great master himself!" Ezekiel's studio, which is located in the Baths of Diocletian, is said to be the quaintest and most artistic of all in Rome. The floor is covered with rich antique tiles, 1,500 years old, the walls are fragments of the Bath of Diocletian and eight elephants' heads hold the candles that light the studio.

Aaron Friedenwald, M. D., of Baltimore, is a specialist in diseases of the eye and ear. He was born in Baltimore, in 1836, and is a graduate of the University of Maryland. He is a member of various Medical Societies, and is the author of " Indications for Removing the Eye-ball and Difficulties Attending the Wearing of Artificial Eyes." Dr. Friedenwald is Professor of Diseases of the Eye and Ear in the Baltimore College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Daniel Frohman, the theatrical manager, has for some years given the public first-class theatrical attractions of artistic merit and dramatic importance. He is thirty-six years of age, and has been a theatrical manager for thirteen years. He is at present manager of the Lyceum Theatre, New-York. From 1876 to 1878 he was one of J. H. Haverly's managers, and took the control of the Fifth Avenue when Mr. Haverly was its lessee. In 1880 he became the business manager of the Madison Square Theatre, and upon Mr. Steele Mackaye's withdrawal was given the general management. Under Mr. Frohman's management were produced " Hazel Kirke," " The Professor," " Esmeralda," " The Rajah," " Young Mrs. Winthrop," " May Blossom," and other plays, and a dozen companies were kept travelling. After five years* of profitable management Mr. Frohman retired from the house, and in 1885 he assumed the sole management of the Lyceum, where he has been remarkably successful. In 1887 he produced "The Highest Bidder," "The Great Pink Pearl," and " The Wife." He also developed a bright star in young Sothern.

214 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Morris Goodhart was born in Amsterdam, Holland, in 1838, and came to this country when eight years of age, soon after which he was sent to a public school of New York City. There he pursued his studies until 1849, when, with his parents, he removed to Hartford, Conn., where his studies were resumed. In 1865 he graduated at the Law Department of Yale College, and was the first Hebrew admitted to practice law in the State of Connecticut. He commenced the practice of his profession at New Haven, in which city he held the office of Justice of the Peace, and was appointed to the responsible position of Clerk of the City Court a short time afterwards. In the month of July, 1869, he was admitted a member of the Bar of the State of New York, where he soon became known, meeting with the success due to a painstaking and able lawyer. Mr. Goodhart takes particular delight in advising and helping his own countrymen, and also members of his faith. He has been for years an active member of most of the fraternal societies in this country. He has been the President of District Grand Lodge No. 1 of the Order of B'nai-Berith, and President of the B'nai-Berith Benevolent Society, and is now Judge of the Court of Appeal of that Order, having been selected to that honorable position by the District Grand Lodge in Germany. He is a prominent member and officer of the Knights of Honor, American Legion of Honor, Royal Arcanum, Odd Fellows, and Free Masons. Mr. Goodhart is also President of the Hebrew Mutual Benefit Society, and a member of the Advisory Board of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society for children. He is also ex-Vice-Chairman of the Committee of the Maimonides Library, L. O. B. B.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 21 5

William B. Hackenburg, of Philadelphia, has taken a leading part in many prominent Hebrew movements throughout the country. He presided at one of the Councils of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, and was among the first connected with the Jewish Hospital Association of Philadelphia. He was for a long period its Treasurer, and on the retirement of Abraham A. Wolf as President some five years since, was chosen his successor. He is an indefatigable worker and is regarded as one of the most prominent Hebrew citizens of Philadelphia.

Leah Cohen Harby (known as " Lee C. Harby ") is the daughter of the late Marx E. Cohen, of Charleston, S. C. She married her cousin, J. D. Harby, and removed with him to his home in Texas. After her marriage she developed a taste for literary pursuits, and is known in her section of the country as a writer of verse and fiction. Some years ago she contributed religious articles to the " Jewish South," published in New Orleans, and also took charge of its woman's department. She has frequently written for the " Jewish Messenger " and the " New Orleans Times-Democrat."

216 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Daniel P. Hays, of New York, is a native of Pleasantville, Westchester County, N. Y. He was born March 28, 1854, and was educated in the public schools and College of the city of New York. He entered the law office of ex-Judge Elias J. Beach, and in 1875, having graduated from Columbia College Law School two years before, he formed a partnership with Judge Beach, who died a few months later, whereupon Mr. Hays associated with James S. Carpentier under the firm name of Carpentier & Hays, which was dissolved by the death of Mr. Carpentier in 1886. Mr. Hays is now head of the law firm of Hays, Greenbaum & Shram, and is engaged in general practice in mercantile, corporation and real estate law, in which he has been very successful and has built up a large practice. Mr. Hays was one of the early supporters of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, served for many years as Director, was Vice-President in 1878, and in 1879 ^^^ 1880 was elected President. He was one of the founders of the " American Hebrew," and one of the original Board of Editors. He is Vice-President of the Congregation Temple of Israel, of Harlem, and President of the Mount Morris Club, a large and influential social organization in the upper part of the city. In 1880 Mr. Hays removed to Nyack, Rockland County, where he lived for some years. He was a delegate from that County to the Democratic State Convention in 1884, but has never otherwise taken any active interest in politics.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 21/

Angelo Heilprin, son of Michael Heilprin, is a native of Hungary, and was born in 1853. In London, Florence, Geneva and Vienna he studied Natural History, and at the age of twenty-seven received the appointment of Professor of Invertebrate Paleontology of the Academy of Natural Science at Philadelphia, and was also made Curator in charge of the Museum of that institution. Five years afterward the Wagner Free Institute of Science, in the same city, selected him as Professor of Geology. His writings are valuable and widely circulated. Among them are " Contributions to the Tertiary Geology and Paleontology of the United States," " Geographical and Geological Distribution of Animals," and " Explorations on the West Coast of Florida and on the Okeechobee Wilderness," etc. His works show an enormous amount of labor and intelligent study, and have placed the author in the front rank of naturalists, Michael Heilprin was born in Poland, in 1823. He was attached to the literary bureau of the Department of the Interior of Hungary during the Revolution of 1848, and in 1856 reached the United States. He has attained eminence by his contributions to various literary journals and his labors in connection with the "American Cyclopaedia." In 1879-80 he published " The Historical Poetry of the Ancient Hebrews." Under his direction, several Hebrew colonies have been successfully established in various parts of the United States.

Louis Heilprin, son of Michael Heilprin, was born at Mis-koelz, Hungary, in 1851. He is the author of "The Historical Reference Book," published in 1885.

Otto Horwitz was born in the city of New York in 1851. After a four years' course in the College of the city of New York he went to Europe, where his studies were continued for two years under the personal supervision of his uncle, Dr. Joseph Horwitz, of Berlin, who holds the office of " Justizrath," and has been for fifteen years a leading member of the City Government of Berlin and member of the Reichstag. He will be remembered in this country by his connection as senior counsel in the famous case of Madame Kalomine and the Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt, son-in-law of Queen Victoria. Upon his return to this country Mr. Horwitz resumed his studies, and in April, 1872, was admitted before the General Term of the Supreme Court of New York, and has continued in active practice ever since. Among important cases in which he has been retained was that known as the Kelly Will Case, in which the Court of Appeals reversed the decisions of the lower courts and sustained Mr. Horwitz's contentions. In one assignment case by a firm with $2,000,000 liabilities, he represented creditors whose claims aggregated $100,000, and succeeded in setting aside the assignment, being opposed in the course of the contest by about seventy of the ablest members of the New York Bar. In another assignment case, with $600,000 liabilities, Mr. Horwitz also succeeded in setting aside the assignment and recovered the whole amount due his clients. His rank at the New York Bar is high and his practice is extensive.

218 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Herman N. Hyneman, the eminent artist, is a son of the late Isaac Hyneman of Philadelphia, and a native of that city. In 1874, having abandoned mercantile pursuits, he commenced his studies at Paris under the renowned Bonnat. His success was rapid, and at the Paris Salon of 1879, he exhibited his picture " Desdemona," which was afterwards purchased by Mr. Klemm, of Philadelphia. The following year he exhibited " Juliet " at the Paris Salon, and remained abroad eight years. His later pictures which have been extensively reproduced, are " Margarite in Prison," " It Might Have Been," and " The Passing Glance." Mr. Hyneman's " Desdemona," received the approval of all discriminating critics, one of whom has said : " Looking at Shakespeare's heroine as one sees her here, one sees no commentary on the story of which she was the heroine. Although in the main intended as an ideal, Hyneman has represented her after one of those stormy interviews with Othello. The face is very sad, and the expressive attitude, clasped hands and patient resignation, all bring Shakespeare's lovely heroine before one's eyes."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 2ig

Abram S. Isaacs, son of the late Rabbi, S. M. Isaacs, was born in the city of New York in 1853 and educated at the University of the City of New York where he graduated in 1871, receiving the degree of B.A. After graduation he proceeded to Europe and completed his studies at the University of Breslau and the Jewish Seminary in the same city, where he received the degree of Ph. D. Returning to America he assumed the editorial management of the "Jewish Messenger" with which he has since been identified. In 1886 Dr. Isaacs was appointed Professor of Semitic languages in the University of the city of New York.

Myer S. Isaacs was born in the city of New York, in 1841. He is the eldest son of Rev. S. M. Isaacs, and received from his parents an exceptional home-training. He attended Forests' Collegiate School, and in 1856 entered the New York University where he was awarded all prizes of Freshman and Sophomore years and graduated in 1859. ^^ ^^2 he graduated from the New York University Law School, and was admitted to the Bar the day he became twenty-one years old. He adopted as his particular department of practice real estate law, wills and trusts, and his firm of M. S. & I. S. Isaacs are now (1888) among the leaders in that branch. Mr. Isaacs is Vice-President of the Real Estate Exchange, one of the Executive Committee of the University Alumni Association, and of the Republican Club. He has taken an active part in public affairs. While warmly interested in politics, he has held public office only once, when, in 1880, he was appointed by Governor Cornell, Judge of the Marine Court of the city of New York. In 1857 Judge Isaacs became interested in the establishment of the " Jewish Messenger," and was for twenty years associated with his father and brothers as editor. In 1859 ^^ aided in founding the Board of Delegates of American Israelites, and served as Secretary until 1876, when he was elected President, resigning from the Board in 1885, the Society having meanwhile become a Committee of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. In 1881 Judge Isaacs was elected to the Central Committee of the Alliance Israelite Unive?'-selle. In 1865 he became one of the founders of the Hebrew Free School Association, of which he is now President. In 1873 he took the initiative in organizing the United Hebrew Charities. He also took a leading part in organizing a hospital for chronic sufferers, subsequently crystallized in the Montefiore Home ; in the foundation of the Hebrew Technical Institute (the outcome of the United Hebrew Charities, Orphan Asylum and Hebrew Free School Association) and of the Purim Association, of which he was the first President. He called the meeting of December, 1881,

220 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 221

to consider the condition of the emigrants fleeing from Russia, and was one of the Executive Committee of the Aid Society and subsequently Treasurer of the Montefiore Agricultural Aid Society which founded and assisted colonies in Kansas, Dakota and New Jersey, and he was Chairman of the Committee in charge of the Cremeiux Memorial of 1880, and took part in the obsequies of Lasker and in the Montefiore Memorial service. Judge Isaacs* activity in Jewish organizations has followed a line which keeps in view the promotion of education, intellectual and moral, and the fashioning of institutions for the Hebrew denomination, akin 'n method and purpose to the most approved and successful institutions among other religious bodies.

Ephraim A. Jacob, of New York, was a member of the class of 1864 of the College of the City of New York, and of the class of 1866 of Columbia College Law School. He has been practicing law since 1867, devoting much of his time tp editorial work of a legal nature. His first work, " Jacob's Fisher's Digest," which with supplements is comprised in eleven volumes, ran through many editions and reached a larger circulation than any other digest. For several years past Mr. Jacob has been engaged in editing the reports of the Court of Common Pleas of the City of New York, and has now in course of preparation a work of great magnitude entitled the " Complete Digest," the first volume of which is already in press.

Abraham Jacobi, M.D., of New York, was born in Hartum, near Minden, Westphalia, Germany, May 6, 1830, and educated at the Gymnasium of Minden and Universities of Greifswald, Gottingen and Bonn. He has resided in New York since 1853, and has been President of the New York

222 THE HEBREWS IX AMERICA.

Medical Society and Professor of Diseases of Children in New York University. He holds memberships in leading medical societies in Berlin and Wiirzburg and honorary memberships in societies in many American cities. His contributions to medical literature are voluminous and of the highest importance.

Sigismund D. Jacobson, M.D., of Chicago, is known as a skillful surgeon. He comes from Copenhagen, Denmark, where he was born February 13, 1837. At the age of eighteen, having graduated from college, he entered the University of Copenhagen, where he studied medicine until his graduation in 1862. From 1862 to 1865 he was attached to the staff of the Royal Hospital at Copenhagen, serving meanwhile as a surgeon during the Schleswig-Holstein War of 1864. He was for one year connected with the Royal Lying-in Hospital at Copenhagen, and in 1866 settled at Chicago, where he has resided ever since. In that city he was for eight years surgeon at the Cook County Hospital, Honorary Physician at Rush College, Consulting Surgeon at Michael Reese Hospital, Consulting Surgeon of the German Hospital and Professor of Surgery of the Chicago Polyclinic.

Caroline Cohen Joachimsen, wife of Joseph P. Joachimsen, was born in Charleston, S. C., where she resided until after the war, at which time she removed to Sumter, S. C. She is a daughter of the late Marx E. Cohen, and a granddaughter of Isaac Harby. At an early age she developed literary ability, composing poems before she was able to write. One piece ("The Rainbow ") composed when she was but nine years old, is still preserved in her family. Many of her poems were published in Southern journals during the war. For three years previous to her marriage she was assistant editor of the " Philadelphia Jewish Record." A short time previous to her marriage, she severed her connection with the " Record," but still continued her literary pursuits, which included articles upon theological subjects and current events, poems and romances. Among her writings are " Just One Family," published in the "Charleston News and Courier," and re-published in book form under the title " Our Women in the War," " A Royal Secret," a romance of ancient Egypt, published serially in the " Hebrew Standard," in which the heroine (the Princess Thermutis, daughter of the Pharaoh Sesostris) figures as the actual mother of Moses, whose life she saved. Her poems include " In the Bed-chamber of Elizabeth," and "After the Death of Mary Stuart," published in " Donahue's Magazine," of Boston. It represents an ideal meeting of the souls of the two queens. Poems from her pen have appeared in a number of leading newspapers.

Philip J. Joachimsen was born in Silesia, November 1817. Arriving in New York in 1831, he studied law in the offices of Clinton & Kane, Samuel Meredith and John L. Lawrence, and, having been admitted to the bar, was in 1840 appointed Assistant Corporation Attorney of the city of New York, and fifteen years later, Assistant United States District Attorney, and under special provision of an Act of Congress, was appointed Substitute United States Attorney. During his term of office he secured the first conviction for smuggling, the first capital conviction for slave-trading, and also the conviction of the Nicaragua filibusterers and the violators of the Neutrality Laws during the Franco-Russian War. By direction of President Franklin Pierce, Attorney-General Caleb Cushing officially conveyed to Mr. Joachimsen the thanks of the Government for the ability with which he discharged his duties. Tendering his resignation on account of differences growing out of the Kansas-Nebraska question, Mr. Joachimsen resumed the practice of law, and, in 1870, was elected a Judge of the Marine Court of New York City, remaining on the bench until the expiration of the term in December, 1876, when he returned to active practice. In 1850 Mr. Joachimsen was elected Vice-President of the Hebrew Young Men's Fuel Association. In 1854 he was chosen Vice-President of the Hebrew Benevolent Society, and in 1855 its President. He was elected first President of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum in 1859 and secured its charter the following year. In 1871 he became interested in the progress of the Home for Infirm and Indigent Hebrews, and was made Honorary Counsel, his wife, Mrs. P. J. Joachimsen, being at the time President. He organized the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society for Children, in 1879, ^^^^ ^^^ since remained Chairman of the Advisory Board. Mr. Joachimsen is a member of the Congregation Shcarith-Israel, the I. O. B. B. and the Masonic Order, and has contributed frequently to the " New York Staats Zeitung," " Albany Law Journal," " Jewish Messenger," and other publications.

224 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Abner Kalisch was born in Cleveland, Ohio, September 2^ 1853, ^^^^ 3.t an early age jemoved to Newark, N. J., where he read law and attended lectures at the Columbia College Law School, New York. In 1875 he was admitted to the Bar, and soon after began to practice with considerable success, especially in cases of a criminal nature, in Avhich he was associated with his brother, Samuel Kalisch.

Leonard Kalisch was born in Cleveland, Ohio, April 12, 1849, and received his academic education in the public schools of New York City. In 1877 he was graduated L.L.B. from Columbia College Law School, and in the same year was admitted as an Attorney-at-Law. On receiving his license, Mr. Kalisch entered upon the practice of his profession in Newark, N, J., where he has since resided.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 225

Samuel Kalisch was born in Cleveland, Ohio, April 11, 1851, and received a classical education under the tuition of his father the eminent Rabbi, and in the schools of Cleveland and Lawrence, Mass. Subsequently he was graduated from Columbia College Law School and was admitted to the Bar of New Jersey, where his parents had meanwhile settled. His successful and ingenious defense of several criminals charged with murder, in 1876 and 1878, placed him in the front rank of criminal lawyers in that State. In many important civil causes he also received a brilliant reputation. In 1875 Mr. Kalisch was Corporation Attorney for the City of Newark.

Ephraim Keyser, the sculptor, was born in Baltimore in 1850. He studied in the Royal Art Academy of Munich, under Professor Widmann, for four years, and at the Royal Art Academy of Berlin, under Professor Albert Wolff, where he carried off a prize for a life-size figure of " Psyche," which entitled him to a year's study at Rome at the expense of the Government. " The Toying Page," another of his productions, is the property of a Baltimore connoisseur. His crowning work is a statue of DeKalb in the State House at Annapolis, Md.

Edward Lauterbach was born in the City of New York August 12, 1844. He received a common school education, and then entered the New York Academy, where he graduated in 1864. He first studied law with Townsend, Dyett & Morrison, and then practiced with Henry Morrison of that firm, and Siegmund Spingarn. On the death of Mr. Spingarn, he associated with Messrs. Wilham Cohen and Louis Adler, under the firm name of Lauterbach & Spingarn, and in the spring of 1887 ^"^^ associated with George Hoadley, ex-Governor of Ohio, and Edgar M. Johnson. During the past two years Mr. Lauterbach has engineered some of the most intricate problems, many of them involving millions of dollars. His familiarity with the law, combined with a high order of diplomacy, renders him at all times a formidable antagonist at the Bar. In earnestness, courtesy, thoroughness and remarkable tact in harmonizing conflicting interests, Mr. Lauterbach has attained high rank. He is Vice-President and Counsel of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, President and Counsel of the Consolidated Telegraph and Electrical Subway Company, Director and Counsel of the Third Avenue Railway Company, Director of the Richmond and West Point Railway and Warehouse Company, Counsel for the East Tennessee and Virginia Railroad and associate railway companies, and Director and Counsel of the Union and Brooklyn Elevated Railways. Mr. Lauterbach has been for years an active member of most of the New York Hebrew charitable and benevolent associations, and has served as Vice-President of the Society for Ethical Culture, Director of the Home for Aged and Infirm, Benevolent and Orphan Asylum, Technical Institute, Emigrant Aid Society, and many other organizations.

226 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Henry M. Leipziger, of New York, was born in England in 1854, and graduated from the College of the City of New York when eighteen years old. He has given much attention to educational matters, and is now, and has been since its organization, Director of the Hebrew Technical Institute of New York, the remarkable success of which is largely due to his management. Mr. Leipziger taught for seven years in the public schools of New York City, and resigned in 1888, since which time he has devoted special attention to the study of educational problems. He is a man of high attainments, and has delivered lectures on the philosophy and science of teaching, as well as on religious topics, with marked success, having been for many years connected with the Temple Eniamt-El religious school.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 22;

Joseph C. Levi, who is counsel for numerous corporations and estates, is one of the leading real estate, conveyancing and probate lawyers in New York. He was born in Cincinnati, in 1839, in a house owned by Salmon P. Chase, but has resided in New York since he was five years of age. He graduated from the Grammar School of Columbia College, studied law in the office of Joshua M. Van Cott, and was admitted to the Bar in 1860. He is one of the best known and most respected members of the New York Bar.

Alexander Blumenstiel graduated from New York College in 1863, received the degree of Master of Arts in 1866, studied law in Columbia College and commenced practicing the same year. Prior to his admission to the Bar he was engaged as reporter on various daily papers and was for a time Associate Editor of the "Jewish Record," and New York correspondent of the "San Francisco Hebrew." His practice has been confined almost exclusively to bankruptcy cases, and he is the author of "Blumenstiel on Bankruptcy," which was issued about the time of the repeal of the bankrupt law and had a large sale.

Jesse W. Lilienthal, son of the late Rabbi Lilienthal,

228 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA,

of Cincinnati, is one of the most promising among the younger members of the New York Bar. He graduated at the Cincinnati College, and entered upon a course of law at Harvard College, but just before graduating, and after having been chosen the orator of his class, his health failed him, and he devoted upwards of two years to travel in all parts of the world. Upon his return home. Harvard College took the extraordinary course of conferring on him its degree of Bachelor of Laws, without examination, justifying its act because of the conspicuous record made by Mr. Lilienthal while in attendance at College. Mr. Lilienthal is, in point of service, the senior member of the Committee on the Amendment of the Law of the New York Bar Association. He is also one of the standing contributors to the "Harvard Law Review," one of the leading law journals of the country. He possesses his father's gift of oratory, and is constantly sought after for public addresses. In his practice, which is large and lucrative, he occupies himself more particularly with questions arising under the law of corporations.

Samuel Lilienthal, M. D., was born in Munich, Bavaria, in 18x6, and graduated in the University of that city. He is a brother of the late Rabbi Lilienthal, of Cincinnati. He came to this country when twenty-seven years of age, settling in Lancaster, Penn., whence he removed to Haverstraw, N. Y., and finally took up his abode in the city of New York, where he resided from 1856 to 1887. He is the author of a valuable work on therapeutics, of which three editions have been published ; a work on skin diseases, and has written a treatise on nervous diseases. In the Hahnemann College of the city of New York he was Professor of Nervous Diseases and Demonstrator at Clinics, and occupied a similar office in the

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 229

New York Woman's Medical College. He is now engaged in like duties in San Francisco, where he settled in 1887.

Louis Marshall, of Syracuse, one of the most distinguished lawyers in the Empire State, was born at Syracuse, N. Y., December 14, 1856. He graduated from the High School of that city in June, 1874. He studied law at the Columbia College Law School in New York City, and was admitted to practice at Syracuse in January, 1876, and at once entered the firm of Ruger, Jenney, Brooks & French, the head of which is at the present time (1888) Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York. Mr. Marshall was associated with this eminent jurist until his elevation to the bench, and since that time has been a member of the firm of Jenney, Brooks, Marshall & Ruger, the leading firm in Central New York. Scarcely an important case arises in that section in which Mr. Marshall is not called in as counsel. He gives more attention to the purely legal aspects of the cases in which he is engaged, although he also takes part in jury cases and in the trial of equity cases. During the past five years he has argued more cases at General Term and in the Court of Appeals than any lawyer of his age in the State of New York, and a greater number than any lawyer in Central New York.

Constant Mayer is a native of Besancon, France, and was born in 1831. He studied in l'Ecole des Beaux-Arts in Paris, and also under Leon Cogniet. He has resided in New York since 1857. His specialty is life-size genre pictures. His better known works are " Consolation," " Recognition," "Good Works," "Love's Melancholy," "Maud Miiller," " Street Melodies," " Dream of Love," " Song of a Shirt," " The Oracle of a Field." Among his portraits are those of Madame de Lizardi, Lady of Honor to the Empress Carlotta ; Gen. Grant and Gen. Sheridan. In 1869 Mr. Mayer was created by the Emperor Napoleon III. a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Marcus R. Mayer, for some years prominent in the theatrical business, introduced Julia Dean Hayne, and piloted Charles Kean, Ellen Tree, Lawrence Barrett, Rose Eytinge, Fanny Davenport, Sarah Bernhardt, Edwin Booth, Christine Nilsson, Mrs. Langtry, Henry Irving, Ellen Terry and Mary Anderson throughout the United States. Mr. Mayer was born at New Orleans in 1843, and was educated at Fordham, (N. Y.) College. He was a member of the California State Senate in 1869, is a practical printer, and has been identified with journalism. He has been in the theatrical business since 1862.

The Rev. Dr. Sabato Morals was born in Leghorn, Tuscany, Italy, April 13, 1823. He studied Hebrew lore and theology under various eminent preceptors, including Abraham Baruch Piperno, chief Rabbi of Leghorn. After teaching in Leghorn he went to London in 1846 as master of Hebrew in the Orphans' School of the Portuguese congregation in Bevis Marks. During a five years' residence in London he became intimate with many leaders of the community, among them Sir Moses Montefiore. In 1851 he sailed for this country, and in March of that year was chosen Minister of the Congregation Mickve-Israel of Philadelphia, which position he still occupies. He at once identified himself with Hebrew affairs, writing for numerous secular and Hebrew publications upon a variety of topics. He early became known as a leader of the orthodox wing of Judaism. He has preached to congregations in various cities and has addressed many public meetings. Dr. Morais has been a member of most of the leading Hebrew organizations in this country. He espoused the cause of Anti-Slavery, and during the Civil War was elected an honorary member of the Union League of Philadelphia. On June 8, 1887, he received the honorary degree of LL.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, being the first Hebrew thus honored by that institution. He has been somewhat connected with the politics of his native land, and enjoyed the friendship of the patriot, Joseph Mazzini, from whom he received a number of autograph letters. Dr. Morais was Professor of the Bible and Biblical Literature in the Maimonides College, of Philadelphia. In these branches he is regarded as second to none in America, and he speaks with ease five languages and understands in all seven. He was active in founding the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York. Dr. Morais is President of the Faculty of that institution, and of the Advisory Board of Ministers. His correspondents include the leading men in Hebrew circles throughout the world. Among his numerous works are "ItaHan-Hebrew Literature," "The Ritual Question," "The Falashas," translations of several works by Maimonides and Samuel David Luzzatto, articles and lectures on many great Hebrew scholars, on the Bible, Post-Biblical history, on the Talmud, on the Jewish religion, on Mazzini, Abraham Lincoln, Victor Emanuel, Montefiore, and many others. A lecture on the Book of Esther was delivered by him in London. He has also revised a number of Hebrew works. He has always opposed the permanent publication of his writings, some of which have been electrotyped and stereotyped.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 23 1

Henry Samuel Morais, son of the Rev. Dr. Sabato Morais,

232 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

is a native of Philadelphia, and was born May 13, 1860. Receiving a regular school education, he graduated from the senior class of a Philadelphia Grammar School, and then read law, which he soon abandoned, in order to follow a literary career. For some years he has contributed articles on various subjects to secular and Hebrew papers, including current matters in Judaism, Jewish literary topics, and general questions, biographical sketches of Hebrew celebrities, on music, the drama, etc. In 1880 he published a book containing biographical sketches of 100 personages, men and women, distinguished in various lines, calling it "Eminent Israelites of the Nineteenth Century." He has also issued a review, entitled "The Daggatouns; a tribe of Jewish origin in the Desert of Sahara," discovered by Rabbi Mordecai Aby Serour, whose pamphlet on the subject written in Hebrew was translated into French by M. Isidore Loeb, of Paris. Mr. Morais has contributed frequently to most of the Jewish papers in this country, and has also written for the "Philadelphia Press" and "Philadelphia Times." He made the first move towards establishing the "Jewish Exponent," of Philadelphia, of which he is now one of the editors, his associates being Messrs. Charles Hoffman and Melvin G. Winstock, young lawyers of well-known ability.

J. S. Moore, the apostle of Free Trade, was born in Germany in 1822. He received a common school education, and came to this country when quite young, settling in Mississippi where he opened a store. In 1849 ^^ went to San Francisco, and was there associated with the firm of Moore, Phillips & Co., merchants in the China trade, in whose interest he established houses at the Cape of Good Hope and Sydney. Returning to the United States in 1865, he formed the acquaintance of Hugh McCullough, Secretary of the Treasury, who found Mr. Moore invaluable in the investigation of economic questions. Mr. Moore was then made Assistant Special Commissioner of the Revenue under David A. Wells, and the same time there appeared in the "New York World," a series of letters in denunciation of the protective policy signed, "Parsee Merchant." Since that time Mr. Moore's contributions on the tariff question have been numerous and find wide circulation both in the United States and Europe.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 233

Godfrey Morse, of Boston, has attained eminence as a lawyer and as the incumbent of numerous important public offices. He was born at Wachenheim, May 19, 1846, and reached Boston when eight years of age. He graduated from the public schools, High School and Latin School, and finally from Harvard College in 1870, receiving the degrees of A.L.B. and A.B. At Harvard he was for two years editor of the college journal, "The Advocate." Having graduated at the Law School in 1872, he was admitted to the Bar, having meanwhile served as a teacher of the Boston Evening High School. In 1882-83 he was elected a member of the Boston Common Council, serving as President of that body for some months during his second term. He was also counsel for the United States in the Court of Commissioners of the Alabama Claims.

Adolph Moses enjoys the respect and confidence of the Bench and Bar of Chicago, where he has been since 1869, a shining light in the legal fraternity. He was born at Speyer, in the Palatinate, on February 25, 1837, and graduated at the Gymnasium, in his native city. When sixteen years old he came to the United States, settling at New Orleans, where he attended the Law Institute and graduated. He served in the Confederate Army, rose to the rank of Captain, and was made prisoner, and being paroled, took up his residence at Quincy, Ill., whence, after a few years, he settled in Chicago. He has been a most valuable member of the Board of Directors of the Public Library and enjoys a lucrative legal practice.

234 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Henry Mosler, an artist of world-wide renown, was born at Cincinnati in 1840. After pursuing his studies in Europe under the best masters, he made rapid progress as a painter, and in 1883 he exhibited at the Paris Salon a picture known as " The Prodigal's Return." It portrayed a son kneeling at the death-bed of his mother, the priest in attendance at religious duties and two lighted candles at the foot of the bed. The work, which was much admired, was purchased by the French Government and placed in the Luxembourg Gallery, whence it was sent to Germany for exhibition. It was afterward returned to the Luxembourg Gallery. Mr. Mosler now resides in Paris, where he is engaged on three pictures depicting Indian life, on an order for W. Warner, of Rochester, New York, for which he is to receive the sum of $75,000. In order to thoroughly master the characteristics of the Red man for the proper execution of these works, M. Mosler has visited various Indian tribes in America under Government protection.

Nathan Myers, of the well-known law firm of Stern & Myers, of New York, is a native of St. Louis, where he was born August 4, 1848. He was educated in the St. Louis High School, and studied law in the office of Glover Shepley of that city, and was admitted to the Bar in 1868. In St. Louis Mr. Myers established a large practice, which he enjoyed up to 1881, when he removed to New York and associated with Simon H. Stern, under the firm name of Stern & Myers.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 235

Benjamin Franklin Peixotto was born in the city of New York, November 13, 1834. He is a son of the late Dr. Daniel L. M. Peixotto, an eminent physician. His parents removed to Ohio in 1836, but returned to New York in 1841, where Benjamin received his earliest education. In his thirteenth year, shortly after his father's death, he settled at Cleveland. Here, though engaged in commercial business, he completed his education in the classics and the modern languages under the tutorship of Prof. Karl Ruger, who fitted him for a collegiate course, but circumstances prevented his realizing this wish. Mr. Peixotto was an early favorite of Stephen A. Douglas, under whom he studied for a short time, and for whom he showed a sincere attachment, which continued uninterrupted until the death of that eminent statesman in 1861. He early engaged in politics, and became an associate with the late Joseph W. Gray in editing the " Cleveland Plaindealer," advocating with great force and ability Mr. Douglas' election to the Presidency. Conspicuous in literary circles, he associated with many distinguished scholars. Three of his associates on the " Plaindealer " who afterward became eminent were Charles F. Brown (Artemas Ward), William E. McLaren (now Bishop of Illinois), and John B. Bouton (now of the "New York Journal of Commerce"). From youth, affairs pertaining to co-religionists excited Mr. Peixotto's warmest interest. His voice often resounded in societies and in the Hebrew lodges. As a member of the Independent Order of B'nai-Berith (Sons of the Covenant), he did much to elevate the standing of

236 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

American Hebrews, and in the year 1863 he was chosen Grand Saor or Grand Master of the Order in the United States. Under his energetic administration the Order was raised in membership from 4,000 to 12,000, about one-half of its present number. The idea of establishing an Orphan Asylum at Cleveland was first conceived by Mr. Peixotto, and his influence secured the passage of a bill which led to its foundation. Mr. Peixotto went back to his native city in 1866, but sailed for California in 1867, and took up his residence in San Francisco, where he obtained a lucrative practice as a lawyer. This profession, while it demanded considerable of his time, did not check his zealous labors in behalf of his co-religionists. Thus, in June, 1870, when the news of the frightful massacres of Hebrews in Roumania, followed by dire persecutions, was cabled across the Atlantic, Mr. Peixotto, just in the prime of life and in the enjoyment of ease, stood up a champion and offered his services in behalf of the cause of civilization and humanity. He was nominated as Consul-General by President Grant, and unanimously confirmed by the Senate. Arriving at the Court of Prince Charles of Roumania, he succeeded at once in arresting the tide of persecution, and by his diplomatic skill and enlightened conduct created more humane sentiments in behalf of the unfortunate Hebrews. He remained nearly six years at Bucharest, and during the whole of this time but one serious outbreak, the riots of Ismail and Bessarabia, occurred, every other attempt at outrage being throttled by his sleepless vigilance. His despatches to our Government reciting the terrible scenes of Ismail and Cahul led to Secretary Fish's addressing letters to our Ministers at the Courts of St. James, Paris, St. Petersburg, Berlin, Vienna,

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 237

Austria, Italy and Turkey, instructing them to use their diplomatic and moral power to put a stop to these brutal occurrences which had become a scandal to civilization, and to the writing of the famous dispatches of our envoys, Messrs. Bancroft, Schenck, Washburne, Jay, Boker, Marsh, Maynard, etc. Mr. Peixotto's correspondence also evoked the great meeting at the Mansion House, London, presided over by the Lord Mayor and having amongst its Vice-Presidents, Cardinal Manning, the Earl of Shaftesbury, the Bishop of Gloucester, while some forty members of Parliament participated. The assembly unanimously adopted the resolution offered by Lord Shaftesbury : " That this meeting protests against the outrages committed on the Hebrews of Roumania, as a disgrace to modern civilization, and deeply sympathizes with the unhappy sufferers." Following this the subject of the treatment of the Hebrews in Roumania was made the subject of discussion in the British, French, German, Austrian and Italian parliaments, and instructions were sent by these governments to their respective representatives in Roumania to co-operate with Mr. Peixotto in all measures calculated to put an end to the infamous riots. In addition to his diplomatic offices, Mr. Peixotto effected a vast amount of good for the down-trodden, improving their moral condition by the formation of schools and associations of various natures, notably the Society of " Zion," which he founded in 1872, with objects similar to the Enai-Berith in this country. During his residence in Europe he was actively engaged in correspondence with the leading philanthropists and statesmen, and enjoyed particularly the personal confidence of Adolph Cremieux, Sir Francis Goldsmid, Baron Lionel de Rothschild, Ritter Joseph von Wertheimer and Berthold

238 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Auerbach. Through his instrumentality in a large measure the celebrated Conference of Brussels, of which he was a member, was called together, presided over by the great French statesman and jurist, Cremieux, and it was to his untiring correspondence and efforts that the Berlin Congress, in 1878, enacted the clause making it a condition of Roumania's becoming a sovereign kingdom that the civil and political rights of the Hebrews of that country should be recognized. Mr. Peixotto returned to the United States in 1876. He was cordially received everywhere. The services he had rendered formed the topic of general conversation. Mr. Peixotto was requested to lecture in different parts of the Union. He addressed large assemblages, and exerted himself to promote the educational scheme started in the West. To further the design of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, he made appeals wherever he set foot, and soon $12,000 were subscribed, mainly through his individual efforts toward the establishment of the American Hebrew College at Cincinnati, now a flourishing institution. Mr. Peixotto took part in the Presidential campaign of 1876, and with Carl Schurz, Garfield and Blaine, stumped Ohio, ardently supporting Mr. Hayes. In 1877 he was tendered the appointment of Consul-General, at St. Petersburg, Russia which he declined. President Hayes subsequently nominated him as Consul at Lyons, and the Senate confirmed the appointment. This position he accepted and held under the successive administrations of Presidents Hayes, Garfield and Arthur. At Lyons, the second city of France, he displayed a degree of fidelity and intelligence rarely found in the consular service. Here Mr. Peixotto attracted wide attention in the diplomatic and commercial world by his reports to the State Department, which included investigations into the subjects of capital and labor, production of wine in France, telegraphic service, the fisheries, the coal and iron yield, the silk industries of France and Europe, and the wheat and tobacco crop. The excellence of these reports, both from a commercial and economical standpoint, was conceded by foreign governments as well as our own, and they rank as the most valuable of their kind in the national archives. In December, 1885, he returned to New York and resumed the practice of law. In July, 1886, he founded the "Menorah Monthly," which, in the short space of less than two years, by its high literary character, has risen to the first place among the magazines of the country, and to whose pages he has succeeded in drawing contributions from the most eminent scholars of America and Europe. Since his return to his native city, Mr. Peixotto has also renewed his interest in literary, social and communal work. He is a Trustee of the Hebrew Technical Institute, of the New York Sanitary Aid Society, one of the founders of the Ohio Society, and an active member of several other prominent literary and benevolent organizations. Mr. Peixotto is justly regarded as a representative American Hebrew, his marked intellectual and moral force of character having made him a leader in most matters pertaining to the welfare of his co-religionists, both at home and abroad.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 239

George D. Madura Peixotto, eldest son of B. F. Peixotto, was born February 1, 1859, in Cleveland, Ohio. His earliest youth was passed in America, but subsequently, when his father was appointed by President Grant to the Roumanian Mission, the boy was placed at school in Dresden. It was there he entered the Royal Academy of Fine Arts, from whence he graduated in 1877, receiving for his picture of '* St Mary, the Egyptian," the silver medal of the Academy. His teachers at that time were the celebrated Belgian painter Ferdinand Pawels and Professor Leon Pohle of the Weimar school. Before leaving Dresden Mr. Peixotto painted the portrait of Prof. Julius Hiibner, the Director of the Dresden gallery, where the picture now hangs. In 1878 Mr. Peixotto removed to Paris and began to study under the most celebrated French painters, but preferred not to enter in any particular studio. He inclined to the severe teachings of Carolus Duran, Bonnat and Munckacsy, whose pupil he considered himself, and he frequented the studio of Meissonier. About this time Peixotto painted the picture of "Cleopatra," and also went to England to paint portraits of Cardinal Manning, Sir Moses Montefiore and the Countess d'Avigdor. The picture of Cardinal Manning elicited universal praise from the press and from artists, and was among the many works Mr. Peixotto sent from time to time to the Salon, where it received a place of honor. Whilst in France Mr. Peixotto painted portraits of a number of Americans and Europeans. Among the former were Father Sylvester Malone, of Brooklyn, and Dr. A. P. Putnam, of Concord. The portrait of Professor Yeatman, editor of "Galignani," painted in 1885, was considered one of the best examples of American art at the Salon of 1886. Sir Moses Montefiore's portrait was on exhibition at the artist's studio in 1885, and in 1886 was sent to New York and Washington. Mr. Corcoran purchased this marvelously executed work for the Corcoran Gallery and presented it as his last art gift to the collection. Mr. Peixotto returned to his native city, Cleveland, in 1886, and there painted portraits of Bishop Gilmour

240 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 241

and several other people of note ; he was then called to St. Louis, Mo., to execute a portrait of Dr. Eliot, the eminent Chancellor of the Washington University. This picture was pronounced the work of a master artist, the hands being no less remarkable for life-like character than the face. This is a feature in all Peixotto's portraits, as also his treatment of drapery, the harsh outlines peculiar to modern masculine costume being painted with unusual freedom and grace. The coloring is pure and clear, painted in a low harmonious key, and the handling is masterly. Mr. Peixotto's latest production, a portrait of Hon. Morrison R. Waite, Chief Justice of the United States, is accorded the highest encomiums by the press as well as by artists. Paul Rajon, the renowned French etcher, is about to make an etching of this portrait. Of the two portraits of Cardinal Manning an eminent British critic says : " One of them, a half length, represents the Cardinal in full pontifical vestments. The crozier is in his left hand, in his right he holds a copy of Thomas A. Kempis' 'Imitation of Christ,' while his archiepiscopal mitre stands on a table beside him. Mr. Peixotto has caught the noble and dignified expression of his Eminence in his most serious mood, and has produced a picture of rare and marvelous strength both in tone, coloring and character. The portrait is to be presented to St. Thomas' Seminary, at Hammersmith, a magnificent institution, which it is the pride of the Cardinal's life to have established. The second portrait is considered the better, bringing out the majestic and noble features of the great Cardinal in their happiest moral and intellectual expression. It is a powerful painting and deserves to rank among the grand old masters."

Morris Phillips, editor of the "Home Journal," of New

242 . THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

York, began life as a lawyer in the firm of Brown, Hall & Vanderpoel. Mr. Phillips began early to write, and the talent he displayed attracted the attention of G. P. Morris. At the age of nineteen young Phillips was acting as sub-editor of the " Home Journal," and had secured the warm attachment of its chief. Aspiring to still higher rank in the profession, he soon after embarked his whole means in the old " Knickerbocker Magazine," which, however, he abandoned after a year's trial, and returned to the " Home Journal," where he resumed his duties as acting editor which he held until the death of Mr. Morris. When N. P. Willis' name first appeared upon the imprint of the " Home Journal," the youthful editor and the old but graceful prose writer and poet soon clashed in their views respecting the proper conduct of the journal, but Mr. Phillips' views prevailed. At the death of Mr. Willis, the remaining half-interest in the paper was purchased by Mr. Phillips, and soon afterwards the proprietorship passed into the hands of that gentleman and Mr. George Perry, who had been engaged for some years upon its columns. The general character of the " Home Journal " was considerably modified when these gentlemen secured control. Mr. Phillips is a shrewd and practical man of business, and by his ability in this, rather than by his talent as a writer, strongly developed as the last is, has arisen to his present position.

Warley Platzek, a prominent member of the Bar, was born in 1854. He was Assessor and Treasurer of Marion, S. C, in 1874 and 1875, studied law in the office of Judge Joachimsen, and attended lectures at the New York University Law School. For five successive years he served on the Examining Committee in the law department of the University, and has been engaged in the practice of the law in New York since 1875. In the order Kcshcr Shel Barselho. has attained great prominence, having been elevated to the office of Grand President, in February, 1883, never before having served in any subordinate capacity. He was a delegate to the Constitutional Supreme Lodge of the Order which convened at Cleveland, Ohio, in March, 1883, and was chosen President of the Convention. Mr. Platzek was elected President of the Young Men's Hebrew Association during the same year, and has been frequently heard from the platform on such themes as " The Press," " Longfellow," " The Origin and Development of the Jewish Orders," "Israel" and " Islam."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 243

Simon W. Rosendale was born at Albany, N. Y., June 23, 1841. At an early age he was sent to the public schools thence to the Albany Academy, where he graduated with honor. When sixteen years of age he entered the office of Courtney & Cassidy, then one of the most prominent legal firms in the State. Remaining with them until the fall of 1859, ^"- Rosendale abandoned his law studies and entered the Barre (Vt.) Academy. On graduating, in 1861, he entered the law office of Solomon F. Higgins and was soon after admitted to the Bar. In 1863 he was appointed Assistant District Attorney of Albany, and in 1868 was elected Recorder of the city by an unprecedented majority, and for four years acquitted himself of his judicial duties with impartiality and ability. He was subsequently appointed legal adviser of the city government, but owing to his growing law practice resigned the office in 1882, and formed a partnership with Mr. Peckham, the surviving partner of the famous firm of Peckham & Tremaine, which continued until 1884, Mr.

244 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Peckham having meanwhile been elected Justice of the Supreme Court. Mr. Rosendale then united his fortunes with Mr. Albert Hessberg, and the firm is now known as Rosendale & Hessberg. In April, 1884, ^"- Rosendale was appointed Corporation Counsel. Mr. Rosendale is a Director of the National Commercial Bank and Albany Railway-Company, a Trustee of the National Savings Bank, and one of the Governors of the Albany Hospital. He has been also prominently identified for years with Hebrew charitable and fraternal organizations. He was for ten years President of the Court of Appeals of the Order B'nai-Berith, and temporary presiding officer at its septennial general meeting in New York, in 1885. He has been a Trustee of the Congregation Anshe-Emeth for years, is a representative of the Albany Congregation, and a member of the Executive Board of the Union of Hebrew Congregations, and presided at the triennial meeting of the Union held in Chicago in 1882.

He has been President of the Jewish Home Society since its organization.

Julius Rosenthal, a leading member of the Chicago Bar, is a native of Germany, and was born about 1850. He came to the United States when a child, entered the public schools at Chicago, and after studying law and being admitted to the Bar was appointed Public Administrator, which office he occupied for several years. He subsequently became a partner of A. M. Penze, a prominent Chicago lawyer. Mr. Rosenthal ranks high as a lawyer, a citizen and a man of erudition. His law practice, which is lucrative, is specially devoted to real estate, wills and probate matters.

Lewis Rosenthal was born at Baltimore, September 10, 1856. He was educated at Columbia Grammar School, New York, and at Dartmouth College, N. H., where he graduated in 1877. He then removed to Paris where he was for four years a member of "The Parisian Staff," being at the same time engaged as tutor to a son of Hon. Thomas F. Noyes, United States Minister to France. In 1882 he published "America and France; the influence of the United States in France in the Eighteenth Century." Subsequently he was a special contributor to various New York daily newspapers. Among his magazine articles are : "Poe in Paris," "Rousseau in Philadelphia," and "Bret Harte in Germany." He also wrote for the "North American Review" an article on "Our Services to the French Republic," and for "The Theatre," a series of sketches on the Dramatic Critics of New York and the European capitals.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 245

Toby Rosenthal was born in Hessen, Germany, and came to this country in his infancy, settling in San Francisco, where he studied in the public schools, and at the same time received instruction from a Spanish painter. At the age of seventeen he was sent to Munich, entering the Royal Academy, where he remained two years. At the end of this time he spent three years as a pupil under Professor Raupp. Resuming his studies at the Royal Academy, he spent seven years more at that institution, where he was further instructed by Piloty. While here he painted "Morning Prayers in the Family of Bach," which is now in the Leipsic Museum. His "Elaine," which was on exhibition at Philadelphia in 1876, is an illustration of Tennyson's lines : "and the dead steered by the dumb went upward with the flood." "Love's Last Offering" and the head of Mrs. Greatorex are among his other works.

Adolph L. Sanger is a native of Baton Rouge La., and

246 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

was born October 8, 1842. At the age of eight years he came to New York, attended a private school and the Free Academy, now College of the City of New York, where he graduated with honors, and next entered Columbia College Law School, graduating in 1864. He had meanwhile studied law with Benedict & Boardman, at that time the recognized leading commercial lawyers in the city. In 1865 he established himself in practice in the office of Myer S. Isaacs, associating with that gentleman soon thereafter, and remaining with him up to the present day. During these thirteen years he has been engaged in general practice and as counsel for numerous corporations, and has been very successful in many important litigations. In politics Mr. Sanger is a Democrat. In 1870 he was appointed by Governor Hoffman one of the Commissioners of the United States Deposit Fund. In 1881 he was an unsuccessful candidate for Judge of the Marine Court. In 1885 Mr. Sanger was elected President of the Board of Aldermen of the city of New York, his plurality being about 25,000 votes. While occupying this honorable office, the first created under a new law providing for the election of its incumbent by a popular vote, it was his duty to receive the officers of the French frigate bringing to this country Bartholdi's "Statue of Liberty." In the same year he delivered an address on the unveiling of the statue of "The Pilgrim" in the New York Central Park, and performed a similar duty in accepting on behalf of the city of New York, the statue of the distinguished merchant, William E. Dodge. Mr. Sanger was a Presidential Elector of the State of New York in 1880 and 1884. In the Order of I. O. B. B. he held the office of President of District No. I for two years, and has been for some years one of the

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 247

Judges of the Court of Appeals of that Order. In 1876, as Chairman of the Centennial Committee of the Order, he delivered an address at the unveiling of Ezekiel's statue of "Religious Liberty," at Philadelphia. Mr. Sanger has shown much persistency in his efforts for the establishment of a Public Library in the city of New York, and a few years since he originated and had introduced in the Legislature a bill incorporating such an institution. Mr. Sanger has been President of the Board of Delegates of American Israelites, and has been for several years Vice-President of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Count L. B. Schwabe, of Boston, was born in Hamburg, Germany, and in 1833 arrived in the United States. He was in former years extensively engaged in the importation and sale of oil paintings, and retired from business during the Civil War, after donating to the Art Museum at Washington, D. C, a large collection of his oil paintings. Since then he has devoted his time almost wholly to charitable work, especially the amelioration of his co-religionists.

De Witt J. Seligman has been Commissioner of Education of the city of New York since 1884, by appointment of Mayor Edson, and re-appointed by Mayor Hewitt in 1887. He was born March 22, 1853. He was associated for some years in business with his father, James Seligman, the banker. After his marriage he attended a three years' course at Columbia College, where he studied law and Political Economy, his ambitious endeavors being rewarded by gaining the degrees of Ph. B. and L.L. B. In 1887 he founded the "Epoch," a prominent New York weekly journal. He is devoting much attention to the subject of manual training and is interested in its introduction into the public schools of New York.

248 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Edwin R. A. Seligman, was born in New York, April 25th, 1861, and is a son of the late Joseph Seligman. He was educated at Columbia Grammar School, and entered Columbia College at the age of fourteen, graduating second in his class in 1879. He studied Political Science for three years in Berlin, Heidelberg, Geneva, Rome and Paris, taking the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Returning to the United States he graduated from Columbia College Law School and School of Political Science in 1884. In 1885 he received the appointment of Professor of Political Science. Mr. Seligman is one of the founders and editors of the "Political Science Quarterly," and is Treasurer of the American Economics Association. He has published works on the "English Guilds," "Christian Socialism," the "Railroad Problem," and "Taxation and Finance," the latter forming one of the nine volumes in the series of Systematic Political Science.

Adolphus S. Solomons was born in New York, and was educated in the University of the State of New York. He began life as a store boy, and in 1859 he went to Washington and formed the partnership of Phillip & Solomons, and conducted for nearly twenty-five years one of the largest book publishing and stationery establishments in the country. Though closely occupied in his business, Mr. Solomons found time in Washington to organize numerous charitable institutions, appearing frequently at the same time as a contributor to various newspapers under the nom de plume of "Semi-Occasional," the topics generally relating to the interests of Judaism. When the District of Columbia was given a Territorial form of Government, President Grant tendered

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 249

Mr. Solomons the office of Governor which he declined. He subsequently was elected to the Legislature of the District. On the accession of President Garfield to office, he was offered the Collectorship of Georgetown, D. C, which he also declined. President Arthur appointed him a representative at the Congress of the Association of the Red Cross at Geneva in 1884, where he was chosen as one of the five Vice-Presidents, and at the present time he is Vice-President of the Association of the United States. He has been one of the most prominent and active members of various charitable organizations in the National Capital, and was for fifteen years a resident member of the Jewish Board of Delegates. Mr. Solomons is now President of the New York Council of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, and he was also a founder of the Sanitary Aid Society of New York. At the Sir Moses Montefiore centennial birthday celebration in New York, 1884, Mr. Solomons suggested that the great event be permanently recorded by founding a Home for Incurables and was one of the Executive Council to undertake the enterprise.

Simon H. Stern, of the firm of Stern & Myers, who are attorneys for some of the largest corporations in the city of New York, was born in Richmond, Va., October 13, 1847, and has resided in New York since early childhood. He was educated in the public schools of the latter city and in the well-known New York educational establishment of Dr. Quackenboss, studied law in Columbia College Law School, was admitted to the Bar in 1869, and was for twelve years engaged in practice on his own account.

Simon Sterne, the eminent lawyer, political economist and reformer, was born at Philadelphia, July 23, 1839. After a course of study in the public schools, and under private tutors, he began the study of law in the office of John H. Markland of Philadelphia, and graduated in the Law Department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1860. In the same year he was admitted to the Bar in the city of New York. Early in his career Mr. Sterne paid special attention to the study of Political Economy and, in 1852 he was elected lecturer on that science in the Cooper Union. In 1864 he took part in organizing the American Free Trade League. The year following he became editor and proprietor of the "Social Science Review." In 1866 he visited Europe, taking letters of introduction to John Bright, John Stuart Mill and other leading statesmen, with whom his relations were especially happy. In 1866, Mr. Sterne, in connection with David Dudley Field, organized the Personal Representation Society, having for its object the representation of minorities in boards of direction and political representative bodies, and was afterward its President. In 1870 he became a member of the famous "Committee of Seventy," was chosen as its Secretary and drafted its charter. The law making election days legal holidays was suggested by Mr. Sterne. He became a conspicuous member of the Bar Association, and was private counsel to Mayor Havemeyer during his term of office. In 1879 Mr. Sterne was appointed by a Committee of the Legislature, the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Trade and Transportation, as counsel, to investigate certain charges of abuses incident to railway management, the result of which was the drafting of a bill by Mr. Sterne for the appointment of a Board of Railroad Commissioners. Mr. Sterne was pitted, during the whole of the investigation, against the ablest lawyers that the railway interests could summon to their aid. In 1876 Mr. Sterne was appointed by Governor Tilden one of the Commission to devise a plan for the government of the cities of the State, giving two years work to the subject without compensation. The Adirondack bill having for its object the reclamation of the Adirondack wilderness for a park reserve for the people of the State, was drafted by Mr. Sterne. Mr. Sterne is a leading member of the Constitution Club, having for its objects opposition to monopoly and to maintain honest and just government, and, with the exception of the unpaid appointment on the Tilden City Government Commission, he has never held an office. In 1863 and 1864 he edited the "New York Commercial Advertiser." One of his principal literary efforts is a political work entitled "Constitutional History and Political Development in the United States;" another is a volume on "Representative Government and Personal Representation." He also wrote the introduction to Mongredien's "Creation of Wealth," and the articles on "Monopolies," "Government of Cities," "Legislation" and "Railways" in Lalor's "Cyclopedia of Political Science." He has frequently lectured on the subject of monopolies and corporations. In 1884 he lectured on " Slipshod Legislation," which awakened widespread attention. In 1885 he was invited by the Committee of Commerce of the United States House of Representatives to give his views upon the necessity of interstate railway legislation, and the bill, which is now the basis of power of the Interstate Commerce Commission, is the bill prepared and drafted by Mr. Sterne. Mr. Sterne was appointed by President Cleveland to make a report on the relations of Governments of Western Europe to the railways, which report was submitted to the President in 1886 after two successive visits to Europe. He is a diligent and painstaking worker in any cause in which he becomes interested, and is indefatigable in laboring for pure government, the welfare of his fellow-citizens, and the commercial advancement of the city of his adoption,

250 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 25 1

252 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Mayer Sulzberger, of Philadelphia, one of the most successful lawyers of that city, was born in Germany, and came to this country at an early age. Entering the office of Moses A. Dropsie, he studied law and was duly admitted to the Bar. He has now a larger clientage than any other Hebrew lawyer in Philadelphia. Mr. Sulzberger was for one year after the death of Isaac Lesser the editor of the "Occident," and for many years prior to his death was a valuable assistant to the founder of that well-known periodical. He has contributed largely to the Hebrew and secular press, and his services as lecturer have always been in demand. Mr. Sulzberger possesses a magnificent and^ rare private library, and has been connected with a number of Hebrew organizations, being now President of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Philadelphia.

Martin E. Waldstein, a prominent manufacturing chemist and a leading contributor to scientific journals, was born in the city of New York, October 18, 1854. He was educated in private institutions in this country and in Europe. He subsequently studied in the School of Mines of Columbia College, New York, and then returned to Europe where, after a two years' course at Heidelberg University, he received the degree of Ph. D. He is a brother of Charles Waldstein, the renowned archaeologist.

Solomon Cohen Weill, was born in Charlotte, N. C., May

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 253

18, 1864. He received a preliminary education at Wilmington, N. C, whence he removed to Cincinnati, in order to study for the Ministry in the Hebrew Union College. After receiving the Degree of Bachelor of Hebrew Literature, he abandoned the idea of entering the Ministry, and entered Hughes' High College in the same city where he graduated, receiving the highest average ever attained by any scholar in that institution. He then entered the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, receiving while there a gold medal for proficiency in Greek, and graduating with the highest honors in June, 1885. Whilst preparing himself for the study of law he was invited by the faculty of the University to fill the chair of Professor of Greek. He accepted and occupied the post for over one year to the great satisfaction of the Faculty and Board of Trustees. He was then admitted to the practice of law, by the Supreme Court of the State in February, 1886, and is now a shining light of his profession, being associated at Wilmington with Hon. Charles M. Stedman, Lieutenant-Governor of the State. Mr. Weill was elected by the General Assembly of North Carolina, as a Trustee of the State University for a term of six years ending November, 1894.

Simon Wolf, of Washington, D. C, was born at Hinzweiler, Rhein Pfalz, Bavaria, October 28, 1836, and was employed as clerk and cashier in the store of his uncles, Abraham and Elias Wolf, at Uhrichsille, Tuscarawas County, Ohio, succeeding them in the business in 1855. ^^ 1859 he sold out and commenced reading law in the office of Joseph C. Hance, at New Philadelphia, Ohio. He next took a course of lectures in the Law School at Cleveland, graduating in the winter of 1860-61, and being admitted to the

254 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Bar in Mount Vernon, Ohio. Mr. Wolf practiced in New Philadelphia until June 1862. He had been an Alternate Delegate to the Charleston-Baltimore Convention, but when the war broke out ceased to be a Democrat, and has ever since been a strict Republican. He volunteered his services in the Army, but was rejected because of imperfect sight. In June, 1862, he went to Washington. His first visit was to the great War Secretary, Edwin M. Stanton, to whom he had a letter of introduction. Mr. Wolf made known his desires to enter the Department when the Secretary observed : " If you are a man, stay out ; if you are not, I have no use for you." Mr. Wolf then joined forces with Captain A. Hart, who had resigned from the Army, and the law firm of Wolf & Hart continued until May, 1869. Mr. Wolf soon took a prominent part in all social and political matters, widened his circle of friends and became a recognized leader. He was appointed a Trustee of the Public Schools, organized the Washington Literary and Dramatic Association, was for nine years President of the Washington Schutzen Verein, and then made Honorary President and for the tenth time elected President; was for years President of the Schillerbund, a Literary Society of high order; was Chairman of the Yellow Fever Fund, and raised, single handed, $10,000 for relief of the Chicago fire sufferers. For his services as Honorary President of the German-American Fair, in 1870, in aid of the German wounded soldiers, he was thanked by an autographic letter from the Emperor William. Mr. Wolf is now Chairman of the Committee on Charities of the Committee of One Hundred, Chairman of the Republican National League, and is a member of the Executive Committee of Twenty-One of the Exposition to be held in Washington, 1889-92. He is an Honorary member of the Washington Saengerbund and Light Infantry, and there is scarcely a church, synagogue or charity in which, or for which, he has not spoken in Washington, and always with credit. He has also lectured in all the leading cities of the Union, and always to crowded houses. He is a bold and fearless speaker, terse and epigrammatic, eloquent and fervid. In 1869 Mr. Wolf was appointed by President Grant Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, He held the office until May, 1878, when he resumed the practice of law, and in July, 1881, President Garfield appointed him Consul-General to Egypt. This was the last commission President Garfield signed. In May, 1862, Mr. Wolf retired from the office, having in the interim rendered valuable and important service, and has since that time been engaged in his profession. Mr. Wolf has been on terms of closest friendship with the leading men of the day, of both parties, including Lincoln, Stanton, Grant and Garfield. In 1867 Mr. Wolf became a member of the Order B'tiai-Berith, of which order he has ever since been one of its prominent members, and was chosen President of the Conventions held in Chicago in 1874 and Philadelphia in 1879. ^^ has also served as Judge of the Court of Appeals of the order, and has lectured in the leading lodges of the order all over the country. He was twice President of his own District, No. 5, and has been the leader of every District Convention. The Orphan Asylum at Baltimore and that now being built at Atlanta, are both the result of his efforts. In 1879 Mr. Wolf was elected President of the Executive Committee for the United States of the Order Keshet Shiel Barzel, in which capacity he secured $10,000 for the endowment of the Montefiore Home, at Cleveland, Ohio. He is also a prominent Mason and has at every occasion, for twenty-five years, spoken at annual meetings and banquets. Mr. Wolf was President of the Union of American Israelites in 1876, and is now a member of the Executive Committee of the Council. He never loses an opportunity to vindicate the people of his race, of whom he is proud. His characteristics may be thus summed up : - in politics, a Republican ; in nationality, an American ; in progressive religion and humane philanthropy, a Hebrew.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA, 255

Frederick Wolffe, the well-known promoter of railway enterprises, is a native of Switzerland, and was born in 1832. He has been a resident of this country since 1855. While residing at Mobile, Ala., during the Civil War, he was appointed General Agent of the Confederate States for the purchase of supplies, and served as Captain of a company of volunteers. After the war he engaged in the cotton and commission business at Mobile. In 1877 he purchased the Alabama & Chattanooga Railroad for the Erlanger Syndicate, and as financial agent for the Syndicate, bought the Alabama & Chattanooga Railroad and several other railroads, and built, leased and re-organized and purchased, numerous other important lines. He has been engaged in the banking business at Montgomery, Meridian, Miss., and New York, and compromised and exchanged with the State of Alabama, several millions of Alabama State bonds, held at London and Frankfurt. In 1886, Mr. Wolffe purchased the entire loan of $3,400,000 Georgia State bonds, at four and a half per cent, a lower rate than the State had ever before paid, and placed the same successfully.

Joseph Zeisler, M. D., of Chicago, was born at Bielitz, Austria, October 7, 1858. He studied at the University of

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 257

Vienna, where he graduated with high honors in 1882, and while there served in the General Hospital. Having thoroughly familiarized himself with the various branches of his profession, he determined to devote his special attention to the study of dermatology, and after serving for one year as a volunteer in the army and attaining the rank of First Lieutenant Surgeon, he sailed for America, arriving at Chicago in 1884, where he successfully established himself in practice.

Professorships are held by Hebrews as follows : Cyrus Adler, at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; A. A. Ancona, University of California; Joseph B. Grabfield, Boston School of Technology ; Richard H. Gottheil, Columbia College, New York ; Henry Fleishner, Yale College ; S. Wolf, College of the City of New York ; Abram S. Isaacs, University of the City of New York.

Dr. Louis Elsberg, a graduate of Jefferson College, Philadelphia, and at one time Resident Physician of Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, was the first to introduce the laryngoscope and achieve distinction as a specialist in throat diseases. He also ranked high as a biologist, being in constant correspondence with such men as Haeckel, Herschel, Darwin and Huxley, who recognized his skill in that department.

Adolph Sutro, of California, conceived the idea of opening up the great Comstock lode by means of a tunnel, which now bears his name. Another of his remarkable achievements was the erection, near Virginia City in 1852, of amalgamating works, which cost but $30,000 and yielded a profit of $10,000 a month. Charles Waldstein, son of a New York optician, is the greatest living authority on Greek art and archseology.

258 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

He holds the position of Director of the FitzwiUiam Museum of the University of Cambridge, England. Leopold Eidlitz, of New York, is one of the ablest architects in the United States. Dankman Adler, of Chicago, enjoys an enviable reputation in the same profession. Alfred R. Wolff, of New York, a mechanical engineer and author of the standard work on windmills, is a recognized authority in his specialty of steam engineering. Mendes Cohen, of Baltimore, has for many years ranked as one of the most skilful civil engineers in this country. He has been connected in a professional capacity with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and is now one of the Directors of the American Society of Civil Engineers, in which, by his participation in the discussion of important papers, he has frequently given evidence of his scientific and scholarly attainments. Clemens Herschel, of the Holyoke Water and Power Company, is a recognized authority on hydraulic engineering. Miss Sallie Strasburg, of Cincinnati, one of the best dentists in the West, is a graduate of a leading dental college, and has been awarded medals for essays on dental surgery and practical dentistry, out of a large class of competitors. Miss Josephine Walter, a graduate of the Woman's College of the city of New York, occupied for some time the position of Resident Physician at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, in charge of the children's department.

Prominent among the musicians is Rafael Jossefy, an Hungarian. He has resided in the United States since 1879. ^^ ^ pupil of Tausig and Lizst, and is unrivalled as a pianist. Wilhelm Gericke, of Boston, conductor of the Boston Symphony concerts, is a native of Austria. Of such concerts he is one of the most successful conductors in America. He is a man of excellent judgment in musical matters and a close student. Leopold Lichtenberg, of Boston, ranks as one of the greatest solo violin virtuosos. He has met with much success, and is a thorough artist. He is a pupil of Wieniawski, and a New Yorker by birth. Michael Banner is about twenty-one years of age, a Californian by birth, and a first prize violin graduate of the Paris Conservatory of Music. In 1887 he met with great success in Berlin. Max Bendix, a native of Philadelphia, is first violinist and concert master of the Theodore Thomas Orchestra and a musician of remarkable qualities. S. E. Jacobsohn, of Chicago, is known as one of the most prominent violin teachers in America. Fannie Bloomfield, of Chicago, has resided in this country since childhood. She is regarded as one of the most talented pianists in the United States, and is a pupil of Leschetitzky of Vienna. She has played with marked success in all the leading cities. Louis Blumenberg, a native of Baltimore, is the leading solo violincellist in this country, and the 'cellist of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston, next to the Philharmonic of New York, the oldest musical organization in the United States. Carl Wolfsohn, of Chicago, a German by birth, has resided in that city for the past twenty years. He ranks high as a pianist, and is Conductor of the Beethoven Society of that city. He has done much for legitimate music in the West. Jacob Rosewald, formerly of Baltimore, and now of San Francisco, is Conductor of the Oratorio Society in that city. He is an accomplished violinist, and is the husband of Julia Rosewald, the soprano, who is a daughter of the celebrated Cantor Eichberg, of the Stuttgart Synagogue. Joseph Mosenthal, the well-known Organist and conductor of the Mendelssohn Glee Club of New York, ranks high as a musician. Frederick Brandeis, of New York, is an organist of note and equally well known on account of his meritorious work as a composer.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 259

260 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Miss Emma Lazarus, one of the leading woman writers of the age, was born in 1849, ^^^ despite the fact that death came to her just as she had reached her prime, she had gained a place and made a mark in literature far above the achievements of many eminent lives well rounded by age. She was the daughter of Moses Lazarus, a well-known merchant of New York, where she was born in 1849, ^{^^^} <^i^d November 19, 1887. ^^ the age of seventeen she published a volume of poems, " Admetus," which created great interest in the circle of her family's friends and acquaintance, and led to flattering notice from persons eminent in fashionable society. In 1874 she produced " Alide," a prose romance founded on episodes in the early life of Goethe. Some translations from Heine that followed were even more successful in making her known. In 1882 was begun the publication of the work to which she had for some time addressed herself, upon the position, history, religion and wrongs of her people. The first book was called " Songs of the Semite," and opened with a five-act tragedy called " The Dance to Death," dealing with the stories of Jewish persecution in the Fifteenth Century. Essays that were published in the " Century" on "Russian Christianity vs. Modern Judaism " and " The Jewish Problem " were in the same direction. Her last important work was published in the " Century" in May, 1887. It was a series of poems in prose entitled, "By the Waters of Babylon." The attention it excited and the admiration accorded to it were general here and across the Atlantic. Said a writer at the time of her death : " Such was her modesty of mind and desire to do her work without putting forward unduly her own personality, that one has a certain delicacy in attempting to describe a most exceptional and valuable figure in American letters. It was the refined, dignified, sympathetic and sanely enthusiastic character of the woman – the personal charm and force of her lofty nature – that made her literature what it was, and what, alas ! it would have been. There was no art to which she did not respond with subtle appreciation. Music, painting, poetry, the drama – she felt keenly, intelligently, and generously the special charm of each. For moral ideas, she had the keenness of her race. And she had, too, that ' genius for friendship ' which so few fully understand. That such a nature should have formed close ties of intellectual sympathy with men of the character of Emerson in America and Browning in England, is not a matter of surprise."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 26 1

Rafael J. De Cordova, for over thirty years prominent on the lecture platform in the United States, is a native of Kingston, Jamaica, and was born in December, 1824. His early life was devoted to mercantile pursuits, and he was for many years connected with Aymar & Co., one of the largest shipping houses in the city of New York, for whom he became managing clerk a few years after reaching this country in 1850. In 1857 Mr. De Cordova was invited to deliver an address before a social organization at Yonkers, N. Y. He chose as his subject, " Money," and such was his success, that he determined to become a professional lecturer. He has travelled extensively through Europe and America, and this has given him abundant means of finding subjects in various parts of the world, for humorous description of character for which he has become famous. His repertoire is an extensive one. Among his subjects are : " Our New Clergyman," " Our First Baby," " That Dog Next Door," " The Dyspeptic Club of East Pietown," "An Omnibus Ride down Broadway," " Mrs. Fizzlebury's New Girl," etc. Mr. De Cordova's lectures are pregnant with mirth and humor, and his literary style ranks high. He is also the originator of a valuable code of signals for use by steamships and sailing vessels during fog or at night, or for prompt and immediate communication in clear weather during the day without the delay attendant on the changing of signal flags.

262 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The greatest book and news emporium in this country, is that established by the late August Brentano, a native of Austria, who embarked in the business with ten dollars borrowed money with which he started as a paper carrier. His establishment in Union Square, New York, has been for years the rendezvous of the litterateurs of the metropolis. E. H. Chapin, Dr. Hall, Gov. Andrew, of Massachusetts ; Sir Edward Thornton, Lord Dufferin and Wilkie Collins, have been a few of the patrons, the latter describing it as " an elysium for literary people." Three nephews of the founder, August, Arthur and Simon Brentano, now conduct the business.

Benjamin E. Woolf, of Boston, dramatized " East Lynne," and " Mighty Dollar," and has written a score of farces and after-pieces, including a comic opera, entitled " Pounce and Company." Michael Angelo Woolf, an artist, is connected with several leading publications and a contributor to the National Academy.

The Aronson brothers, Rudolph, the leader and composer, and Edward, the business manager, first came into prominence as theatrical proprietors in New York City in 1880, when the Metropolitan Music Hall was dedicated. This building has since been known as " The Casino." The enterprising Aronsons made a new and more successful start in building their present theatre, first called "The New Casano." From that moment these energetic gentlemen have been among the most successful and respected purveyors of light opera in America, and their carefully selected productions, their beautiful staging of them, and the remarkable excellence of their companies, in voices and in comedians, have become known all over the world.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 263

Daniel E. Bandmann, the actor, made his first appearance in the part of a girl, at a performance given by the Turn Verein, New York, in 1855, when seventeen years old. He acquitted himself with such credit that the manager of the Stadt Theatre contracted with him for a nine months' engagement in various characters. In 1863, having acquired a knowledge of the English language, he appeared at Niblo's Garden in "Shylock," supported by John McCullough and a powerful company. Subsequently he appeared in "Narcisse," in the principal American cities and also in London for 300 consecutive nights. While in the latter city he was visited by Henry Irving, who wished to be assigned a part in the play at a salary of £y a week. Mr. Bandmann has four times circumnavigated the world, the results of his observations being embodied in a volume entitled, "An Actor's Tour, or Seventy Thousand Miles with Shakespeare." He has recently acquired an extensive cattle ranch in Montana.

Washington Harby, a Charlestonian, and a brother of Isaac Harby, was the author of a number of plays. Among the latter, "Nick of the Woods," a drama of the Western plains, was the most popular.

264 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

H. B. Sommer, a Philadelphia merchant, has attained distinction as the author of "Our Show," "Memoirs of Prince de Monego" and "Help Wanted." He has also contributed to some of the leading papers of the country and has appeared with success as a lecturer and as director of musical and dramatic performances. Mr. Sommer has been President of the Irving Literary Association and Young Men's Hebrew Association of Philadelphia.

Maurice Grau is prominent as a theatrical manager. He is a native of Austria, and is thirty-six years old. He first introduced Salvini to an American audience in 1874. He also brought to this country Mmes. Aimee, Theo and Judic.

Dr. Ernest Krackowizer was for many years a prominent physician in Brooklyn and New York. He took a conspicuous part in organizing the German Dispensary Society and the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, and^ was for some time attached to the Mount Sinai Hospital. His contributions to medical literature were valuable. He died at Sing Sing, N. Y., in 1875, aged fifty-three years.

Rose Eytinge was born in Philadelphia in 1835. In 1852 she took part in a performance given by an amateur company at Brooklyn. Shortly afterwards she joined a dramatic company and appeared with success in various cities, and in 1862 played at the Olympic Theatre, New York. She then became a member of Edwin Booth's company, and in 1868-69 accepted an engagement with Wallack's company, appearing as " Nancy Sykes," •" Lady Gay Spanker " and " Beatrice." She afterwards essayed the role of "Rose Michel." Miss Eytinge has been thrice married. Her first husband was David Barnes, a journalist of Albany, from whom she was divorced. She then married George H. Butler. Her third husband was Cyril Searle.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 265

J. Newton Gotthold is one of the best known " leading men " in the theatrical world of America, He has " starred " in heavy roles with success, and his services are frequently in demand to add strength to the cast of a new play, or to support a star in difficult roles, which require unusual force and stage experience. Mr. Gotthold's method is severe and a little labored, something after the manner of the old school ; and this is of great use to him in the characters which he is sometimes called upon to assume. In addition to his efficiency in several romantic parts, and in the " legitimate," he has made several distinct successes as the polite villain of several modern plays, his firm and varied art adapting him to such characters as well as those of a more sympathetic kind. Mr. Gotthold is a Virginian by birth.

In journalism considerable progress is being made by the Hebrews who are conspicuously identified with the leading journals of the day. The " True American," published at Trenton, N. J., by members of the well-known Naar family, by whom it has been conducted for thirty-five years, is one of the leading newspapers of the country. David Naar, the first member of the family identified with its publication, was born in St. Thomas, W. I., November 6, 1800. He was educated at Manhattanville, New York, and entered mercantile business with his father and brothers, being located on Front Street, New York, where they were burned out by the great fire of 1835. He then established himself on a farm near Elizabeth, N. J., where he attracted attention by his skill as an orator and thinker. In 1844, ^^ was elected a member of the New Jersey Constitutional Convention and aided in the adoption of those features which guaranteed religious liberty to all people within the State. The same year he attracted the attention of James Buchanan and after the election of President Polk, was appointed United States Consul to St. Thomas. In 1848 he resigned his office and returned home, when he was elected Mayor of Elizabeth. In 1851, he was Clerk of the House of Assembly, and two years afterwards removed to Trenton to take charge of the "True American." By his ability and energy he strengthened the paper and it soon became recognized as the official mouthpiece of the party and an organ of much influence throughout the State. Mr. Naar was elected State Treasurer in 1864, and retired from the control of the "True American" in 1866. He died in 1880.

266 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

For fifty years "Der Morgenstern," a German newspaper of considerable influence, was published by Moritz Loeb, at Doylestown, Penn. Mr. Loeb, who died in December, 1887, at the age of seventy-five, was a brother of Dr. Henri Loeb, formerly Chief Rabbi of Belgium, and was on terms of intimacy with Henry Clay and other prominent Americans. President Lincoln tendered him the Consulship at Stuttgart, which he declined.

Emanuel N. Carvalho was a member of the editorial staff of the "Turf, Field and Farm" for eighteen years. He was born in Charleston, S. C., in 1818, and lived in the West Indies and Baltimore before coming to New York in 1857. ^^ early showed a genius for dramatic writing, and was the author of several plays and lectures. He was attached to the "New York Herald" for a while, and he was the first dramatic critic of the "Turf, Field and

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 267

Farm," For fourteen years he gave his attention to turf matters, and, in addition to writing sketches, reports and editorials, he did much in the way of study book compiling. He died in 1883.

The first German newspaper in New Orleans was established in the year 1841, by the late Joseph Cohn, a native of Hamburg, Germany, and was called "Der Deutsche Courier." It was published under this name until 1846, when it was changed to the " Deutsche Zeitung."

Joseph and Albert Pulitzer's success in journalism is one of the marvels of the day. The reconstruction of the " New York World " by the former and the founding of the " New York Journal " by the latter has, to a certain extent, revolutionized the methods formerly employed in American journalism. The Messrs. Pulitzer, however, are not to be classed as among the chosen people, their father being a Hebrew and their mother a Christian lady of Vienna. Joseph Pulitzer married a grand-niece of Jefferson Davis. This reference to the distinguished journalists has been deemed proper in order to correct a popular misapprehension. At San Francisco Charles and Michael DeYoung founded the " Chronicle," now, and for years, the leading newspaper on the Pacific Coast. Montague Marks edits the " Mirror," Morris Phillips the " Home Journal," and DeWitt J. Seligman the " Epoch," of New York. The " Jewelers' Weekly," of New York, an ably-conducted and influential publication, controlled by Messrs. Ullman & Rothschild, is a bright and handsome sheet with a large circulation, which has been secured by familiarity with the wants of the trade and liberal expenditures for securing news. It is widely quoted by the daily press. The " Musical Courier " of New York, owned and edited by Marc A. Blumenburg and Otto Floersheim, was founded in 1880 and has done great service for the cultivation of a taste for opera and classical music and the best features of the higher grade of musical entertainments. It has also aided in establishing Wagnerian music on a firmer and more extensive basis, and has been persistent in exposing as in-artistic what is termed the mutilated form of Italian opera in this country with the star system at its head. Every important feature of the music trade in America is covered by the " Musical Courier," which is also the recognized organ among the manufacturers.

268 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Samuel Harby, a son of Isaac Harby, when a boy, left Charleston and settled in New Orleans, where he indulged in his natural bent for literature and became connected with several prominent newspapers, finally becoming editor and part owner of the " New Orleans Bee," which remained a leading and prosperous journal up to the time of his death.

Messrs, Max and Benjamin Hayman, of Indianapolis, Ind., are publishers and proprietors of the " Weekly Herald," in that city. Both are self-made men, Benjamin Hayman having been reared in the Cleveland Hebrew Orphan Asylum.

Moritz Ellinger was the founder and editor of the " Jewish Times " of New York, which was for ten years the leading exponent of Reform Judaism in America. He instituted the first lodge of the order B' nai-Berith on German soil, and by his speeches in England, France and Germany assisted in effecting the union of German, English and French Hebrews in co-operation for the relief of Russian co-religionists. Mr. Ellinger is Corresponding Secretary of the Medico-Legal Society and a Fellow of the Academy of Sciences of New York.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 269

The " Menorah," the only Jewish Monthly Magazine, and which is published in New York, was founded in July, 1886, by Benjamin F. Peixotto, by whom it is still edited. Though ostensibly the organ of the E nai-Berith, the largest Jewish philanthropic body in the world, it is, in reality, a representative journal of the best thought and broadest and most humane principles of Jews and Judaism. It has succeeded in bringing on the same platform writers of the most diverse views, scholars and publicists, poets and philosophers, whose writings command the highest consideration for learning and genius. Among its contributors it numbers such eminent scholars and scientists as Dr. Morals, Dr. B. Felsenthal, Dr. K. Kohler, Dr. H. P. Mendes, Dr. Sonneschein, Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, Dr. Philipppson, Dr. A. P. Putnam, Dr. A. Kingsley Glover ; Professors Gottheil, Jastrow and Mitchell ; Julius Bien, Isidor Bush, Alfred Morgan, R. J. De Cordova, Miriam Del Banco, etc. The " Menorah " is a magazine instructive and of absorbing interest, not only to Hebrews, but to all who desire to study the brilliant phases of Hebrew literature, science and art. The magazine is typographically perfect, beautifully printed on heavy toned paper.

The " Hebrew Journal " was first published in New York in 1885, by Joseph Davis, the present editor and publisher, and John J. Davis, since deceased. Mr. Davis is the oldest publisher of a Hebrew newspaper in the city of New York, he having been the publisher of the " Jewish Messenger," from the time of its establishment in 1857, 'JP to the year 1885, when he disposed of his interest and commenced the publication of the " Journal." While Mr. Davis belongs to the orthodox wing of Judaism, his paper avoids doctrinal arguments and invites discussion on all proper topics from any standpoint. Society matters are the principal features of the "Journal."

2/0 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The " American Israelite," one of the most influential and widely circulated Hebrew periodicals in the United States, was founded in 1854, at Cincinnati, by Rabbi Isaac M. Wise, who has edited it continuously since that date. Its original object was to advocate those reforms which its editor deemed necessary to bring the synagogue into harmony with American institutions, but it gradually became the medium for the dissemination of the news of special interest to the Hebrews scattered in all parts of the country, as well as the vehicle of conveying information, as to their doings, to each other. The " American Israelite " did its share in building up all of the Hebrew-American charities, but its most prominent work was the part taken in founding the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. In recognition of this, when that body established its theological seminary, the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati, Dr. Wise was unanimously chosen President, and has been annually re-elected to the office. The " Deborah," a companion paper to the " American Israelite," was founded in 1855 by Dr. Wise, who still edits it. It is a Hebrew family paper, and is published in the German language.

The " American Hebrew " was founded at New York in 1879 by the American Hebrew Publishing Company, and is conducted by a Board of Editors, which includes many of the leading Jewish writers of the country. While the "American Hebrew " is one of the leading conservative organs of Judaism in America, its columns have been at all times open to the most liberal writers. The late Emma Lazarus was for some years a regular contributor to its columns, and her tragedy, "The Dance to Death," made its first appearance therein. The organization of the Hebrew Technical Institute was mainly due to the efforts of the "American Hebrew," which had for years agitated the subject of manual training, in which it was aided by Miss Lazarus in numerous articles. General literary matters are a feature in this journal which has won the admiration of the public and its contemporaries by its neatness and ability.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 2/1

The " Jewish Exponent," of Philadelphia, is a first-class and representative Hebrew weekly, published at Philadelphia by Messrs. Henry S. Morals, Melvin G. Winstock and Charles Hoffman, editors, and Nathan Billstein, business manager. It is published by the Jewish Exponent Publishing Company, a stock company with upwards of fifty stockholders. The first issue was on April 15, 1887. The editorial policy of the " Exponent " has been non-committal, though its leanings are plainly shown to be in favor of the preservation of Orthodoxy as against the tendencies of Reform, so far as the latter may imperil the ancient landmarks of Judaism. The "Exponent," from the very first issue, has displayed remarkable ability and conservatism, and its columns have been graced by accomplished writers. Its successful development, in view of the misfortune surrounding the publication of previous ventures in Philadelphia, and the influence it has exerted during the short period of its existence, has been quite remarkable.

The "Jewish Tidings," was founded in 1887, by Samuel M. Brickner and Louis Wiley, its present editors, and published at Rochester, N. Y. The "Tidings" has done much to advance Hebrew interests in its section, and has endeavored to contribute to the amelioration of the social and intellectual condition of the race in all portions of the United States. It has advocated reform, progress and justice, and has sought the cultivation of a friendly feeling between Hebrew and Christian, the advancement of educational interests among the Hebrews, the encouragement of literary talent and the promotion of charitable objects. Its columns bear testimony of candor, enterprise and ability. Its circulation throughout New York State and Pennsylvania gives evidence of a prosperous future.

2^2 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The "Hebrew Standard," of New York, was established in 1882 by J. P. Solomon, who is yet its chief editor. It is orthodox in its sentiment, and a faithful exponent of conservative Judaism. It is the official organ of most of the Jewish Benevolent Orders, to which much of its space is devoted, at the same time paying great attention to the current events in Jewish society and family life. Its editorial articles are well written and bear the stamp of scholarship and mature thought.

The "Jewish Messenger" of New York, founded by the late Rev. S. M. Isaacs, in 1857, ^''^^ ^o^ many years the organ of orthodox Judaism in this country. Myer S. and Isaac S. Isaacs, sons of the founder, were for a long period associate editors. Dr. Abram I. Isaacs is now sole editor.

"The Hebrew," of San Francisco, was founded in 1863, and is still published by Philo Jacoby, its original founder.

"The Hebrew Observer," is the oldest Hebrew paper on the Pacific Coast, and has been published by William Saalburg for the past twenty-five years. It is an ultra-orthodox journal.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 273

The " Jewish Progress," is a conservative reform weekly, published at San Francisco, and has a number of able writers.

The "Jewish Spectator," of Memphis, is edited by Rev. Dr. Samfield. It is of the moderate reform school.

The " Jewish Times," of San Francisco, is a reform weekly, of which Emanuel Katz is manager, and Rev. Jacob Voorsanger, is editor. It is a brilliant, sparkling sheet, newsy and outspoken.

" The Voice," of St. Louis, of which Rev. M. Spitz is editor, is a new weekly and successor of the defunct "Jewish Free Press." It is strongly orthodox.

" The Occident," of Chicago, is an ultra-reform weekly published by Julius Silversmith.

Among the publications devoted to Hebrew interests in former years, " The Occident," published by Isaac Leeser, at Philadelphia, was the most influential. In its first issue, which appeared in 1843, Mr. Leeser wrote : "We have now fairly commenced ; our frail bark is launched upon the waves; we have ardor and buoyancy of disposition; little difficulties do not startle us; we request, therefore, all those who may have doubted our ability or willingness to undertake the work, and who withheld their support on that account to come forward now and give us their encouragement. Public favor is the healthful breeze which is to waft our little vessel along on its tempestuous voyage ; and the aid from above is the anchor upon which we rely to keep it from being wrecked upon a rocky shore." " The Occident" was published uninterruptedly up to the death of its founder, in 1868, after which it was conducted by Mayer Sulzberger of Philadelphia for one year. Its publication was then discontinued. As the vehicle for the dissemination of the best Jewish thought, and the record of all interesting movements in the various communities, "The Occident " found its way into almost every Hebrew household, and' was for many years the recognized organ of American Judaism. Its pages bear witness to Mr. Leeson's intelligence, unceasing industry and enthusiastic efforts in championing the interest of his co-religionists.

274 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Robert Lyon, an Englishman, who was born in 1810 and arrived in New York in 1844, began three years later the publication of the "Asmonean" and the "New York Mercantile Journal."

IN THE PULPIT.

THE first systematic effort for obtaining reliable statistics pertaining to the Hebrew population and the synagogues in the United States, was undertaken in the year 1876 under the auspices of the Board of Delegates of American Israelites and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. The result showed 273 congregations with a total membership of 12,546, whose real estate holdings were estimated at $4,788,700. Property belonging to the public institutions under Hebrew control was then valued at $8,860,000, and scholars receiving religious instruction, 82,886, under 652 teachers. The total Hebrew population, ascertained by this canvas, was 250,000. At the period named not a single Hebrew congregation existed in the following States and Territories: New Hampshire, Delaware, Nebraska, Montana Territory, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Dakota, Washington Territory and Wyoming. Up to 1830 the congregations in the United States did not exceed twelve. In 1850 the number had increased to fifty-six. At the present time the number is not far from 400. Magnificent synagogues are found in all of the leading cities. In the city of New York the more costly synagogues number about thirty. Less elaborate places of worship are scattered over Manhattan Island to the number of 150. The American congregations are under the control of no synod or central organization. About 150 of the larger congregations in the United States are members of the association known as the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, established in Cincinnati, in 1873, by representatives of thirty-four congregations, the primary object of which was to establish a Hebrew Theological Institute, to preserve Judaism intact; to bequeath it in its purity and sublimity to posterity, to Israel, united and fraternized; to establish, sustain and govern a seat of learning for Jewish religion and literature; to provide for and advance the standard of Sabbath-schools for the instruction of the young in Israel's religion and history, and the Hebrew language; to aid and encourage young congregations by such material and spiritual support as may be at the command of the Union, and to provide, sustain and manage such other institutions which the common welfare and progress of Judaism shall require – without, however, interfering in any manner whatsoever with the affairs and management of any congregation. The duty of the Union is to keep a watchful eye on occurrences at home and abroad, concerning the civil and religious rights of Israelites, and to call attention of the proper authorities to the fact, should any violation of such rights occur, and to keep up communication with similar central Israelite bodies throughout the globe, through the Board of Delegates of Civil and Religious Rights, elected by the Council of the Union. The Hebrew Union College was formally opened in Cincinnati, October 3, 1875. The college was made entirely free, no fees of any kind were to be paid by students, no test except scholastic qualification, no test of sex, race, creed or age was stipulated ; it was left entirely free to all. Any student or graduate of the High School, having the adequate knowledge of Hebrew, could enter the Preparatory Department, and any student or graduate of the university or aca-demical course could enter the Collegiate Department and graduate from the college with such degree, or degrees, which it confers. Henry Adler, of Cincinnati, contributed the munificent amount of $10,000 to the Sinking Fund of the College. The following gentlemen compose the Faculty of the College: Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Wise, President and Professor of Philosophy ; Rev. Dr. Moses Mielziner, Professor of Talmud, etc.; Rev. Dr. Henry Zirndorf, Professor of History, etc.; Rev. Sigmund Mannheimer, Preceptor of Hebrew, etc.; Rev. David Davidson, Preceptor of Biblical Literature ; Rev. Dr. Goldstein, Preceptor of Liturgy and Music ; Ephraim Feldman, Assistant Preceptor of Talmud, etc. Bernhard Bettman is President of the Board of Governors, Julius Freiberg, Vice-President and Jacob Ezekiel, Secretary. Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Wise, was elected President of the College, which started with seventeen students, of whom twelve were American born. In 1878 the Preparatory School of the Temple j5';«<3:/z?/-f"/, New York, was adopted as one of the schools of the Hebrew Union College, the present building of which was dedicated April 24, 1881. The graduates of the Hebrew Union College to-day, and who compose the first Rabbis receiving their degree in this country are as follows : Israel Aaron, Henry Berkowitz, Edward N. Calisch, Samuel Freuder, Louis Grossman, Max Heller, Moses Perez Jacobson, Joseph Krauskopf, David Phillipson, Joseph Silverman, Tobias Schanfarber, Joseph Stolz and Isaac Rubenstein.

2/6 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 277

The Jewish Ministers' Association of America was organized in the city of New York on January 19, 1885, by the following gentlemen of New York and vicinity :
From Albany, N. Y., Rev. Dr. M. Schlesinger; Baltimore, Rabbi D. Phillipson ; Boston, Rev. R. Lasker ; Brooklyn, Rev. E. M. Chapman, and Rev. Dr. L. Wintner ; Rev. W. Sparger; Elmira, N. Y., Rev. A. Radin ; Newark, N. J., Rev. J. Leucht; New York, Rev. Messrs. G. Gottheil, M. H. Harris, H. S. Jacobs, K. Kohler, F. de Sola Mendes, H. Pereira Mendes, M. Maissner, A. Wise, J. W. Sophar ; New Haven, Conn., Rev. L. Kleeberg ; Philadelphia, Rev. Drs. M. Jastrow, S. Morals ; Rochester, N. Y., Rev. Dr. M. Landsberg ; Syracuse, N. Y., Rev. Dr. A. Guttman. At the first meeting Rev. Dr. G. Gottheil was elected President ; Rev. Dr. M. Jastrow and Rev. H. S. Jacobs, Vice-Presidents ; Rev. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes, Corresponding Secretary, and Rabbi D. Phillipson, Recording Secretary. The objects of the Association are " to promote brotherly feeling and harmony among its members, to be mutually helpful by friendly counsels without fettering individual opinions, and to strive by friendly union and co-operation to advance and promote unity in Judaism without interference in the congregational autonomy." The Association now numbers sixty. The latest work of the Association is an attempt to stir up devotion in Jewish homes by the publication of a Jewish prayer-book, a manual of household devotion in English for old and young, sold at a popular price. The book has been written by Rev. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes, with the co-operation of Rev. Dr. Gottheil, of the Temple Emami-El.

278 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Dr. Samuel Adler was born at Worms-on-the- Rhine, in 1810. His studies were pursued at Worms, Frankfort, Giessen and Bonn, and he early distinguished himself in various branches, being appointed, at the age of twenty-six, Rabbi of a congregation and Inspector of Jewish schools in his native city. He soon became well known throughout

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 279

Germany as a bold and able champion of Jewish progress. In 1842 he was placed in charge of the Rabbinical District of Alzei, and, in 1844 was a member of the Synod of Rabbis. After declining an offer as Rabbi at Limberg, in Galicia, he was called to New York, in 1856, as successor to Dr. Merzbacher, of the Temple Emami-El, where he remained for nineteen years, and displayed profound learning, earnestness and eloquence, and exercised considerable influence in all measures pertaining to reform Judaism. During his ministry he revised the ritual and nurtured and developed the Sunday-school of the Temple, retiring from active duty in 1875, when the congregation voted him a handsome life pension in recognition of his long and faithful services.

Rev. E. N. Carvalho was born at London, England, November 13, 1771. He was the second son of S. N. Carvalho, an artisan of the same city. Owing to his father's limited means he received only a common school education, but by indefatigable industry and ambition rapidly acquired knowledge, becoming in a few years a classical scholar. At the age of eighteen he had mastered his father's profession, which was that of a coral, jet and amber worker, and was enabled to superintend the business. After his marriage, at the age of twenty, he established himself at Liverpool, but, desirous of living near his parents, he returned to London, where, in a few years, he was solicited by his friends to offer himself as a candidate for Minister of the Hebrew Congregation at Bridgetown in the Island of Barbadoes. Being duly elected, he embarked for that place in 1799. Prior to his departure, however, he had identified himself with a Democratic party favoring the American principles of government, which action almost led to serious trouble. During Mr. Carvalho's first four years' residence at Barbadoes he made himself acquainted with several Oriental languages. Owing to ill health he was compelled to leave the congregation, with whom he had established a feeling of mutual regard and affection, and arrived in New York in 1806, where he taught the Spanish, Hebrew and Chaldean languages. He then accepted a call to Charleston, S. C, and became Minister of the Congregation Beth-Elohim, remaining there for several years. He was afterward elected Minister of the Congregation Mickve-hrael of Philadelphia. In that city he prepared the Key to the Hebrew Grammar, which was not yet published at the time of his death, March, 28, 1817.

280 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Dr. David Einhorn was born in Bavaria in 1819. After pursuing his studies at the Universities of Erlangen, Wiirtzburg and Munich he was connected with synagogues at Birkenfeld, Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Pesth. While occupying the pulpit at Pesth, in 1848, the Emperor of Austria caused the closing of the synagogue on the plea that the advanced and liberal opinions of the members were the offshoot of the prevailing revolutionary spirit. This hastened Dr. Einhorn's departure for America. He reached Baltimore in 1855, where he presided over the Congregation Har

Sinai for seven years. Becoming soon interested in the political questions of the day, he expressed his sympathy with the Abolition party, and in consequence became unpopular with many of his flock. While in Baltimore he published a monthly magazine called "Sinai," devoted to the principles of Reform Judaism and the abolition of slavery. His outspoken opinions on the latter question caused him to seek safety by flight to Philadelphia, whence, after a brief stay, he was called to New York in 1866 as Rabbi of the Congregation Adas-Jesurun, which subsequently united with the Congregation Anshe-Chesed under the name Beth-EL. Dr. Einhorn occupied the pulpit of this congregation until his retirement in July, 1879. ^^ died four months afterward.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 28 1

Rev. Dr. B. Felsenthal, of Chicago, was born at Munchweiler, in Rhenish-Bavaria, 1822, and received an educational training at the University of Munich. At the age of thirty-two he came to the United States, and assumed the pastorate of the Congregation Sinai, at Chicago, soon after its organization, remaining there three years. He then became Minister of the Congregation Zion, where he officiated for twenty-four years, a pension being voted on his retirement from active service. Dr. Felsenthal is noted for his profound scholarship, especially in Hebrew and German literature, and for his genial and manly traits, all of which have endeared him to a wide circle not only in the home of his adoption, but throughout the country. His literary works include "a Practical Grammar of the Hebrew Language," "Juedisches Schulwesen in Amerika," "Zwei Proselytenfrage im Judenthum," and a Hebrew reader.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Hirsch, of Chicago, was born at Luxembourg, in 1851, and he is a son of Rabbi Samuel Hirsch, of Philadelphia. He has resided in the United States since early childhood. After a preparatory training under his father, he was sent to Berlin, where he received an University education, and graduated as Rabbi. His first appointment as Minister was at Louisville, whence he was called to the Sinai Temple at Chicago, where he now receives a salary of $12,000, the largest amount paid any Rabbi in the world. Dr. Hirsch is a Reformer of the most radical class, and is distinguished for his profound scholarship and eloquence. Among his published sermons and addresses are : " Longfellow ; a Memorial Discourse," " How shall we Bury our Dead?" "Mediaeval Civihzation," "Reformed Judaism," "Sir Moses Montefiore," "Jesus of History and Jesus of Romance."

282 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Dr. Gustav Gottheil, of the Temple Emanu-El, at New York, was born at Posen, in 1827, where he pursued his theological studies, and later on was sent to the University of Berlin, where he received further instruction under Zunz, Heimschneider and Holdheim, the eminent leader of Reform Judaism in Germany. After serving as Assistant Minister of the Reform Congregation at Berlin, he was called in 1860 to the pulpit of the synagogue of British Jews in Manchester, England, where he remained many years. In 1873 Dr. Gottheil was elected successor of the Rev. J. K. Gutheim, at the Temple Emanu-El, New York. On the retirement of Dr. Samuel Adler, as pastor emeritus of the Temple, Dr. Gottheil was re-elected for a term of five years, and has since occupied the pulpit of that synagogue, displaying during his incumbency much interest in the progress of its Sunday-school, taking a prominent part in all Hebrew movements of the day, and finding time at frequent intervals to contribute articles displaying great literary ability.

Rev. Dr. Adolphus Huebsch, Ph. D., was born at St. Nicholas, Hungary, September 18, 1830. He was a descendant of the famous Jaffa family, whose geneology can be traced back into the Fifteenth Century, He received his first education in the house of his parents, Joachim and Julia Huebsch, and, in 1840, was sent to the College at Budapesth, where he graduated in 1845. Soon after a position as teacher was offered him which he accepted and retained until the political events of the year 1848 inflamed his patriotism, when he left his position and became a volunteer in Kossuth's regiment, where he rose to the rank of major. After the disastrous battle at Vilagos he escorted Kossuth's mother and sister over the border, and then resumed his theological studies at Prague, where he received the degree of Ph. D., in 1861. In that city he became the Rabbi of a leading congregation. In 1866 he was called to the pulpit of the Akawa^A-Cke^ed Congregation, at New York City, then a poor synagogue. He soon drew about him many wealthy Hebrews, who, after he had preached for them six years, built the present Temple on Lexington Avenue, at a cost of $295,000. The congregation is classed among the moderate reform Hebrews. Dr. Huebsch was an eminent scholar and the author of several works, among which are a translation of a portion of the Syriac version of the old Testament into Hebrew, with a commentary; the " Gems of the Orient," a compilation and translation of Arabic and Syriac proverbs into English ; a prayer-book, a hymn-book, and the ritual in use at the above mentioned Temple. As an orator. Dr. Huebsch had few equals among the Hebrew clergy ; his lectures were always eloquent and scholarly, and he frequently electrified his auditors. In 1871 he was elected President of the Rabbinical Conference in Cincinnati. Among the Hebrew clergy, as well as those of other creeds, Dr. Huebsch was much beloved. He had acquired an excellent reputation as a lecturer upon theology and other subjects as well. His discourses have received the highest commendation from clergymen without distinction of creed. He also took part in organizing the Young Men's Hebrew Association. Eighteen years of unceasing devotion to the cause of American Judaism had stamped his name in, indehble characters upon its history, and when the melancholy news of his sudden death was announced on October 10, 1884, a gloom of sadness hung like a funeral pall over many Hebrew homes where his name was known, for his profound scholarship and geniality. His home life was a very happy one. His widow has published a memorial volume of her late husband, entitled " Memoirs of Rev. Dr. Adolphus Huebsch," which has found wide circulation.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 283

284 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Samuel M. Isaac (deceased) was the son of a Dutch banker, and was born in 1804. He settled in London when ten years of age and reaching New York in 1839, took charge of the Congregation B'nai-Jeshurun, then worshiping in Elm Street. A schism in the congregation led to the formation of a new organization known as Shaaray- Tefila, of which he became Minister, retaining the position up to the time of his death, in 1870. He established the " Jewish Messenger" in 1857, ""^ which he vigorously opposed the Reform movement, was active in all philanthropic work and frequently appeared as a public speaker.

Rev. George Jacobs, for many years a popular and much beloved minister of Richmond, Va., and Philadelphia, was a native of Kingston, Jamaica, and was born in 1834. When twenty years old he settled in Richmond, where he was for some years engaged as a merchant and married a daughter of Jacob A. Levy, for many years President of the Congregation Beth-Shalome. Abandoning mercantile life he devoted much time to theological and Rabbinical studies and soon showed capacity as a Reader and Preacher. He occupied the pulpit of the Synagogue Beth-Shalome, at Richmond, for several years, and in 1869 accepted a call from the Congregation Beth-El-Emeth, at Philadelphia, which he occupied up to the time of his death, in 1886. Mr. Jacobs was the author of several Sunday-school books and was prominent in various benevolent organizations.

Among the numerous occupants of the Hebrew pulpit in America who claim the West Indies as their birth-place none is better known than the Rev. Henry S. Jacobs, of the Synagogue B'nai-Jeshurun, of New York. Mr. Jacobs is a native of Kingston, Jamaica, and he was born in the year 1827. His Hebrew studies were pursued in his native city, first under the Rev. M. N. Nathan, and afterwards under Dr. Stern and Morenu Stenklar. In 1853 he came to the United States, and was elected Minister of the Portuguese Congregation Beth-Shalome, remaining there several years, and then removing to Charleston, S. C. He subsequently occupied the pulpit of synagogues at New Orleans, Augusta and Columbia, S. C. At New Orleans he remained for several years with the Congregation Dispersed of Judah, enjoying the acquaintances of all classes, and winning many friends especially among the prominent members of the Masonic Fraternity, in which he was a conspicuous officer. He occupied during his residence in New Orleans, the Chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Correspondence of the Grand Lodge of the State. His energy and intelligence contributed much to the prosperity of the Hebrew Sunday-school of his congregation, a department in which he has always shown much aptitude since boyhood. On leaving New Orleans Mr. Jacobs was for a time connected with the Synagogue Shearith-Israel, of New York, whence in 1876 he was called to his present position.

286 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The name of Rev. Dr. Marcus M. Jastrow, now of Philadelphia, was well known long before he reached this country in 1866. Born at Ragasen, Posen, in 1829, he graduated at the Gymnasium of Posen at the age of twenty-three. Two years later he graduated as Ph.D. at Halle, and in 1857, after teaching at a religious school at Berlin, was appointed assistant preacher at Warsaw, where he remained five years. While at the height of his popularity he offended the authorities by the free expressions of his political opinions, favoring the Revolutionary party. This resulted in his arrest and imprisonment for three months in the citadel of Warsaw, where his health was seriously impaired. A decree of exile soon thereafter caused his return to Prussia, and he received a call to the Ministry of the congregation at Mannheim, which he accepted for a short time only, soon returning to Warsaw on learning that the decree had been revoked. A renewal of Revolutionary proceedings again led to his removal from Warsaw, and he took up his abode at Worms, Hesse-Darmstadt, where he served as Rabbi for three years. While h^re he was ' invited to come to the United States, and on reaching Philadelphia, in 1866, was elected Minister of the Congregation Rodef-Shalome. As an orator he has few superiors, as a classical scholar he ranks high, and as an author he is well known in both hemispheres, his best known works being a dictionary of the Talmud, a volume of Polish sermons entitled ^^ Die Lage der Juden in Polen'' and '^Varzania Polskie und Vier Jahrhunderte aus der Geschichte der Jiiden!'

Rev. Dr. Isidor Kalisch was born at Krotoschin, Prussia, November 15, 18 16, and studied at the Universities of Berlin, Breslau and Prague. The war feeling throughout

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 287

Prussia in 1842 aroused his ardor and enthusiasm and evoked from him a patriotic poem, entitled " ScJilacht Gesang der Deiitschen^' which he dedicated to the Prince of Prussia, who, -in an autograph letter, acknowledged its acceptance. The song became one of the most popular in Germany. Leaving Germany during the revolutionary fever he made his way to London and after a stay of seven months sailed for New York, reaching that city in 1849. '^^^ following year he received a call from the Congregation Tifireth- Israel of Cleveland, Ohio, to officiate as their minister, which he accepted, and later on he received a call from the Congregation Ahabath-Achini, of Cincinnati. Here he remained one year, when he resigned to become Minister of the Congregation E'nai-Jesurun of Milwaukee, Wis. After three years religious work in Milwaukee, Dr. Kalisch removed to Indianapolis, Ind., as Rabbi of the congregation in that city. Two years later he accepted a call as Rabbi of the Congregation Beth-El at Detroit, Mich., where he resided for three years, during which time he published his German poems entitled " Toene des Morgen-Landes " (Sounds of the Orient) which were warmly received and highly commented upon. From Detroit he removed to Leavenworth, Kansas. While here he contributed interesting articles to the Jewish press, and also undertook the translation of Lessing's '■'■Nathan der Wetse" from the German into English prose. In 1868 Dr. Kahsch established an educational institute in New York, which, after a years' trial, was abandoned for lack of encouragement. In 1855 Dr. Kalisch succeeded in deciphering a Phoenician inscription found near Sidon, which was sent to him by Professor Gibbs of Yale College. The authoritative. In 1870 he received a call from the Congregation B' nai- Abraham of Newark, N. J., with whom he remained for two years, and then removed to Nashville, Tenn., to accept the position of Rabbi of the Congregation Ohavey-Scholoin. In 1875 he returned to Newark and devoted himself mainly to the lecture field and literary work. The mere titles alone of his various essays, monographs, translations, disquisitions and controversies would occupy several pages. His close application to literary labors undermined his health, resulting in a stroke of apoplexy, from which he never recovered. He died on the nth of November, 1886.

Syro-Egyptian Society of London accepted his translation as

288 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Dr. Kaufman Kohler was born in Fuerth, Bavaria, in 1843. He was educated at Hassfurt, Mayence, Altona, Frankfort-on-the-Main, and finally at the University of Munich and at Berlin. In 1869, Dr. Kohler was elected Minister of the Congregation Beth-El, at Detroit, Mich. In 1871 he accepted a call from Congregation Sinai, of Chicago. In that city he inaugurated a series of Sunday lectures in addition to the regular Saturday service. In 1879, on the retirement of his father-in-law. Rev. Dr. David Einhorn, he became his successor as Minister of Temple Beth-El New York, where he still occupies the pulpit. Dr. Kohler is a prolific writer and his contributions are always sure of a cordial reception. In 1868 he published a thesis entitled " Der Segen " (Jacob's Blessing), a contribution to Bible criticism, which secured for him the degree of Ph.D., and created a sensation at the time because of its radical tone. Among Dr. Kohler's numerous published lectures are : " The Wandering Jew," " The Song of Songs," " Backwards or Forwards," which contains an exposition of reformed Judaism as opposed to orthodoxy ; and several Sabbath-school textbooks. From 1884 to 1885 he was editor-in-chief of the " Sabbath Visitor," and in 1886 he published the "Jewish Reformer." He has been for many years a contributor to the Jewish press. Dr. Kohler was the projector of the Pittsburgh Convention of Reformed Jewish Ministers, which adopted a platform or declaration of principles for Reformed Judaism. Beginning in October, 1887, he inaugurated a series of Sunday lectures in his synagogue which were widely published in the secular press and have proven decidedly successful.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 289

Rev. Dr. Alexander Kohut was born in the Hungarian village of Febegyhiza in 1837. His parents were poor, and the village having no well-regulated schools, he was compelled to accept the hospitality of an uncle living at Kres-Keme'h. Here, at the age of eight, he learned the alphabet, and by hard study and perseverance completed a course in the gymnasium. Young Kohut then presented himself at the Breslau Theological Seminary, and under the tutorship of Professors Gratz and Frankel, made rapid progress in Oriental languages. His career in Breslau was a checkered one. Pride, on the part of the young student, compelled him to refuse the " free board " offered to worthy students, and poverty and hunger stared him in the face. At this climax he was favored by fortune by receiving 100 gulden, as payment for a sermon delivered by him before a small country congregation on the New Year. In 1867 he was graduated from the Breslau Seminary. During his stay at Breslau, he officiated at times at Sarnovitz, and, after being graduated, he was called to the pulpit of Stuhlweissenberg where he remained for eight years. While here he was elected Director of Schools. From Stuhlweissenberg he went to Groswardein, where he remained three years. In 1884, after much deliberation, and owing to the death of Dr. Adolph Huebsch, it was decided by the Congregation Ahawath-Chesed, of New York, one of the largest and most influential congregations in America, to call Dr. Kohut to the vacancy. After much hesitation, and with a feeling of regret at leaving his native land where he was so well known, but filled with disgust at the display of anti-Semitism, and feeling that much awaited him in this country, he accepted the call, arriving in New York May 3, 1885. Before leaving Hungary, Dr. Kohut, through Premier Minister Tisza, was called to the Hungarian Parliament, an honor never before conferred on an Israelite. Dr. Kohut's high reputation as the author of " Aruch Completum," and other works had already secured for him a host of admirers in the New World, and he was cordially welcome on reaching this country. During his two years' residence in America Dr. Kohut has become identified with many American institutions, the Jewish Theological Seminary having received his special attention. His lectures in German on Saturdays are listened to by an audience of about 1,800. His principal work, and the one by which he is best known in the scientific world, is the " Aruch Completum," a Talmudic dictionary which has required twenty-two years of labor, and which he expects to complete in a year or two. This work is a Hebrew Talmudical encyclopedia based on the Talmudical Midrashical dictionary of the renowned R. Nathan ben Jechiel of the Eleventh Century, and the volumes thus far completed have been highly eulogized by M. Renan, Profs. Tranz, Delitzset and Mueller, Cardinal Magnaes, Bishop Ferdinand Dulansky, Dr. Zunz, Dr. Stern, Salomon Buber, the Prussian Minister of Education, the chief Rabbis of

290 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 29 1

France, England and Germany, and many others. Among Dr. Kohut's other works are: "Angelologie and Demonologie, and their relation to the Parsismus " (1863), which has been used by Dr. Spiegel, the greatest Persian scholar of this century as a basis for his research ; " Criticism on the Translation of the Persian Bible by Josef Travis " (1878), " History of Judaism from Ezra to 1880" (Hungarian 1881), " Kohut on Ethics" (1885 English), treatises on Jewish Science in various perodicals, and Talmudic Studies (English 1886).

Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, of the Congregation Keneseth-Israel of Philadelphia, was born in Prussia, emigrated when quite young, and was educated in Massachusetts and Cincinnati, graduating with degrees from the University of Cincinnati and from the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati. In 1883 he was chosen to the pulpit of the Congregation E'nai-Jehudah of Kansas City, Missouri, where he remained until invited to Philadelphia. His age is twenty-nine. Dr. Krauskopf's works on " The Jews and Moors in Spain " and " Evolution and Judaism," have been widely read and favorably commented on by competent critics. He is also the author of " Koth Tanchumim," a Ritual for Funerals, etc.

Rabbi H. Berkowitz, of the Congregation Shaari-Shomayim, of Mobile, Ala,, was called to the pulpit of that synagogue in 1883. He was a student at the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, whence he graduated in the first class of American rsfbbis educated in this country.

Rev. Isaac Leeser was born at Neuenkirchen in Westphalia, Prussia, in 1806. After a preliminary education at Miinster, he sailed for America in 1824, and settled at Richmond, Va., where he found employment in the store of his uncle Zalma Rehine. His spare moments were devoted to literary pursuits, and in the synagogue he assisted in imparting religious instruction to the Sabbath-school, While in Richmond he appeared for the first time as the champion of his co-religionists, in the columns of a newspaper of that city, in reply to certain aspersions on the people of his race which had been published in the " London Quarterly Review." After five years' residence in Richmond young Leeser was called to the pulpit of the Synagogue Mickve-Israel, of Philadelphia, where he inaugurated a system of English discourses in the synagogue, the first being delivered on June 2, 1830. - Literary labors continued to engage his attention, and during the same year he published a translation of Johlson's " Instruction in the Mosaic Religion." Three years later appeared his defense of the Jews in a volume entitled " The Jews and the Mosaic Law.'" About this time his labors were interrupted by sickness from the small-pox, and his brother, Jacob, who had been summoned to his bedside, fell a victim to the disease. On being restored to health his literary work was resumed with unabated vigor, and there followed in rapid succession a series of sermons, a spelling-book, contributions to the " Philadelphia Gazette " in defence of the Hebrews, entitled " The Claims of the Jews to an Equahty of Rights," a catechism and a volume of discourses, and besides he edited Miss Aguilar's " Spirit of Judaism." In 1843 he began the publication of "The Occident," and in 1845 he published the " Pentateuch " in Hebrew and English. Then followed an edition of the " Daily Prayers," an English translation of Schwarz's " Geography of Palestine," an edition of the Hebrew Bible (the joint production with Dr. Jaquette, a Christian clergyman of Philadelphia) and finally a Bible in the English language. He retired from the pulpit of the CongregSition Mukve-Israe/ in 1850, but again resumed his ministerial labors in 1857, when he was called to the Synagogue Beth-El, where he continued till his death in 1868. During this period he published " Dias' Letters," a controversial work in favor of Judaism, Mrs. Hester Rothschild's " Meditations and Prayers " and Miss Aguilar's " Jewish Faith and Spirit of Judaism." He also republished " The Inquisition and Judaism." Two years before his death he undertook the publication of all the discourses he had written, covering ten volumes of 400 pages each. Numerous other works were in course of preparation at the time of his death. Mr. Leeser's literary works, which were sufficiently voluminous to absorb the entire time and attention of most men, did not interfere with his activity in other directions. In all public charitable and educational movements he was the leading spirit and rendered valuable service in every project looking to the advancement of Judaism. Few enterprises were undertaken without his counsel, and all commendable projects received his hearty support. The organization of a Hebrew College, Jewish Hospital, Foster Home, Union of Charities, Board of Delegates of American Israelites, Education Society, American Publication Society, and many other organizations was in a large measure due to his influence. Mr. Leiser's death occurred on February 1, 1868. Mayer Sulzberger, Mr. Leiser's successor as editor of the "Occident" and one of his executors, says: "There have been greater Talmudists, there may have been more eloquent orators and more graceful writers; but among them all there has been no greater genius, no better Jew and no purer man than Isaac Leiser."

292 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 293

294 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Dr. Max Lilienthal was born in Munich, Bavaria, in 1815. He graduated from the famous University of that city, taking the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, with a rank so high that the greatest inducements were held out to him to abjure his faith and enter the service of the State. He indignantly rejected the temptation, and left his native country for all time, accepting employment in Russia, under Emperor Nicholas, as Superintendent of the Hebrew schools of the Empire, where his services were recognized as so valuable, that the Emperor, on one occasion, presented him with a diamond ring from his own hand. After seven years' employment, the Doctor, finding that it was proposed to use his influence with the Hebrew people to convert them to the Greek Church, hastily departed from Russia, and in 1844, emigrated to America, settling in New York City, where he was chosen Rabbi of three of the leading congregations. His advanced views, however, embroiled him with the more orthodox of his parishioners, and, in 1850, he withdrew temporarily from ministerial duties and established a very successful educational institute that was universally recognized as the most popular of its kind in the whole country. Again becoming restless to champion from the pulpit the cause of Judaism, he accordingly, in 1855, accepted a call to Cincinnati, from the Congregation B'nai-Israel, with whom he remained for twenty-seven years, until his death, in 1882. Dr. Lilienthal occupied prominent positions in all the various charitable and educational commissions of the municipality, but declined again and again the offer of very high political honors. He was President of the Medical College, and was the first Rabbi to make a constant practice of preaching from Christian pulpits, in one instance, even assuming entire charge of a Congregationalist parish during the enforced absence of its pastor. Doctor Lilienthal was a distinguished linguist. He did an immense amount of work in all departments of letters. He established and edited the quarterly "Hebrew Review," and the weekly

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 295

" Sabbath School Visitor," and contributed regularly to the "Asmonean," the "Occident," the "Israelite" and the " Deborah "; published several volumes of addresses and sermons, wrote numerous dramas, published a volume of poems and a history of his travels in Russia, and wrote a book of Object Lessons, which is still extensively used in the public schools. Dr. Lilienthal was the founder and head of the American Rabbinical Association, and was one of the Professors of the Hebrew Union College ; his heart was aroused in every good cause, and his hands busy in furthering it. Judaism had no more fervent champion, American institutions no more devout admirer and supporter, and his death, which occurred in 1882, was mourned as a memorable catastrophe by every member of the wide community in which he moved.

The late Rev. Jacques J. Lyons was a native of Surinam, W. L., and settled in Richmond, Va., where he officiated as Minister of the Congregation Beth-Shalome for several years. On removing to New York, he was called to the pulpit of the Synagogue Shearith-Israel, and at the end of two years was elected to the position for life, his term extending over a period of thirty-eight years in all. Mr. Lyons was one of the founders of Mount Sinai Hospital, and was for many years active in all Hebrew movements. At the time of his death, which many attributed to his arduous labors in combatting the spread of the Reform movement which threatened a split in his congregation, he was engaged in the preparation of a History of the Hebrews of this country.

296 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Rev. Isaac P. Mendes, of Savannah, Ga., was born at Kingston, Jamaica, W. I., January 13, 1853. In early childhood he manifested an inclination for the Ministry, and was sent to England to his uncle Rev. A. P. Mendes (recently of Newport), where he was educated, first at Northwick College, and then by his uncle and other learned Rabbis. He first officiated in 1870 in Bevis Marks, and afterwards received permission from the Board of Trustees to accept an invitation to preach in the branch synagogue during the absence of the regular Minister. In December, 1873, he was appointed Minister and Lecturer of the Congregation Beth-Shalome, at Richmond, Va. A few years later he was called to Savannah.

Rev. Dr. Frederick de Sola Mendes was born in 1850 at Montego Bay, Jamaica, W. I., where his father, Rev. Abraham Pereira Mendes, was Minister of the Jewish congregation. Removing to London in 1858, he received instruction at Northwick College, an institution of which his father was founder and principal, and also at the School of University College, Gower Street. He matriculated at the London University in 1867, and graduated Bachelor of Arts, with honors in French, mental philosophy and physiology in 1869. In January, 1870, he was admitted at the University of Breslau, Prussia, and the Jewish Theological Seminary of that city, receiving the Trustees' scholarship at the latter institution the following year. In 1872 he graduated as Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Jena. Returning to London in the fall of the same year, he was appointed Preacher at the great St. Helen's synagogue there. In October, 1873, a committee from New York, appointed by the Congregation

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 297

Shaaray-Tefilla, to select a Preacher as assistant to the aged pastor, Rev. Samuel M. Isaacs, induced Dr. Mendes to proceed thither. In January, 1874, he was elected Assistant Minister, being at the same time tendered the Preachership in the Congregation Shearith-Israel in the same city. In 1877 he was elected Minister of the Congregation Shaaray-Tefilla, Rev. S. M. Isaacs retiring from all duty. Dr. Mendes' tastes are scientific, rather than archaeological, and he varies the routine of pastoral and educational work with research in electricity, chemistry and photography. Possessing a great love for nature, he has for some years owned and worked a farm of 130 acres in northern New Jersey, near Morristown, and utilizes it as a delightful summer residence. His practical experience there is turned to account in caring for the "Alliance" colony of Russian Jews, near Vineland, N. J., in which he takes interest, and serves as Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the colony who have it in charge for the London Mansion House Committee. He is likewise Secretary of the Jewish Ministers' Association of which he is a founder. From 1879 to 1885, he was a chief editor of the "American Hebrew," a weekly journal founded by him and his personal friends. Having brought it to an acknowledged position in the community. Dr. Mendes resigned its editorial control into hands less occupied with public affairs. He is the author of several successful school-books: the "Child's First Bible," now in its fourteenth thousand; "Outlines of Jewish History," (1886); "Synagogue and School," (1887); also of "A Hebrew's Reply to the Missionaries" (1876) "Jewish Family Papers," translated from the German of Herzberg (1874), "Life of Manasseh ben Israel," translated from Kayserling (1874); "a Talmudical Hand-lexicon" (first part only printed) besides numerous contributions to the current

298 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Jewish and Christian religious press. Dr. Mendes is editor and chief contributor to the " Jewish Home Prayer-book," now being issued by the Jewish Ministers' Association.

Rev. Dr. Henry Pereira Mendes, of the ancient Spanish and Portuguese Congregation Shearith-Israel, of New York, was born in England. He was educated at the University College, London, and gained a " first-class" in the year 1870. Prior to this, in his school education, he carried off for several consecutive years, the first prizes in Hebrew and Scriptural subjects. His first distinction was in 1863, when he won the " Windle " prize of his class for Scripture, beating his competitors who obtained marks for New Testament, which he did not. Determining to follow the ministry as a profession, in due time his studies were turned in that direction ; he studied for the sacred calling under private tuition, and in the fall of 1873, officiated for the first time in the old Bevis Marks synagogue. Early in 1874, Haham Artom, the ecclesiastical chief or Chief Rabbi of the Spanish and Portuguese Jews of England, placed before him the choice of a position, either in St. Thomas, W. I., where there was a vacancy, or in Manchester, Eng., where a new congregation was just formed. He chose the latter, and in May of that year he assisted in the consecration of the synagogue with Dr. Artom and Rev. D. Piza. He officiated on the following Sabbath and on the Pentecost Holy days that followed almost immediately, and on the next day was formally elected Minister. He at once organized a choir, started classes for Hebrew and other instruction and formed a young men's society. In 1877 he was invited by the Trustees of the Congregation Shearith-Israel, to this country. Pending the fall congregational meeting', he was appointed Preacher. But in July of that year, the Rev. J. J. Lyons being incapacitated as Reader by sickness, Dr. Mendes, by request, assumed the duties of Reader. Mr. Lyons died in the following month, and in October Dr. Mendes was elected at the congregational meeting as Preacher and First Reader, an unsought for and unexpected combination, which was heightened by subsequent congregational action, marking their satisfaction very substantially. In the winter of that year Dr. Mendes commenced classes for ladies, for the study of Hebrew language and Jewish history. These classes have been continued every year, others being added for young men, boys and children, together with special courses of Lectures on Literature or History. In 1884 Dr. Mendes graduated as Doctor of Medicine in the University of the City of New York, finding time to devote his attention to the necessary studies, notwithstanding his engrossing ministerial duties. In communal matters he has always taken an active part. In 1880, he aided in promoting the foundation of the Training School for Nurses, an institution identified in its initiation with the name of an esteemed lady member of his congregation. In 1884 he moved the Trustees of his synagogue to invite the united action of the Jewish community of this city to erect an appropriate mark of the esteem in which Sir Moses Montefiore was held. The result was the establishment of the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids. In 1886 he was one of the prime movers in the establishment of the Jewish Seminary in this city of which he acted as Secretary for some time, and has since continued to act as Secretary of the Advisory Board. He is also Secretary of the New York Ministers' Association and of the New York branch of the

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 299

300 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Alliance Universelle the head-quarters of which are in Paris (France). In literary work Dr. Mendes is known as the author of sketches of " Post-Biblical History," " Grandpa Salma's Stories," "Aunt Rivca's Stories," published in the "American Hebrew "; " Crustaceous Papers," and "Ay-de-mi '" series ("Jewish Messenger"); " The Position of Jewish Woman in Bible and Rabbinic Times "; " The Sphere of Congregational Work "; " Why am I a Jew " (" North American Review "); " The Lifting of the Veil " (" Menorah Monthly ") and " Jewish Lyrics for Sunday-schools."

Rev. Mayer Messing, of the congregation of Indianapolis, Ind., arrived in that city in 1867, when twenty-four years of age, and has ever since occupied the pulpit of that synagogue. He was born in Germany, and had officiated at Gross Glogan, Mecklenburg, before reaching this country. He could speak in English when he reached Indianapolis, but his English is now almost classical in its purity. Soon after his arrival, the congregation, which had always shown orthodox tendencies, took a decided step forward, and it now ranks among the progressive reform congregations. Dr. Messing has always encouraged the progressive spirit of his congregation rather than appearing in the role of a leader. He is active in works of charity and mercy and is a great favorite in social circles. He has been for twenty years the Secretary of the Hebrew Ladies' Relief Society, is a fine Hebrew scholar, and possesses a valuable library. He is the principal and best known Rabbi in Indiana, and his good offices are always in demand not only in his own city but within a radius of seventy-five miles.

Rev. Dr. Morris J. Raphall was born at Stockholm, Sweden, in 1798, and died in the city of New York, June 23,

1868. He received an education at Copenhagen and studied four years at the University of Giessen. Removing to England in 1834, he published "The Hebrew Review, or Magazine of Rabbinical Literature," the first Jewish periodical ever published in Great Britain. In 1840, he acted as Secretary to the Chief Rabbi of England, and in 1841, was appointed Rabbi and Preacher of a congregation at Birmingham. On his departure from that city for New York, in 1849, the Mayor and other leading citizens united in an address thanking him for his efforts in behalf of public education. In New York, Dr. Raphall was appointed to the pulpit of the Congregation B'nai Jesurun. His works, which showed much ability, include "Devotional Exercises for the Daughters of Israel," "Post-Biblical History of the Jews," "The Path to Immortality" and the "Bible View of Slavery."

Rev. Dr. Solomon H. Sonneschein is a native of Turoz St. Martin, in Hungary. His early education was under the care of his father, who was Chief Rabbi of the district and a well-known Talmudical teacher. For centuries past his family have numbered some of the most distinguished divines in Poland, Moravia and Hungary, including Nathan Sporo (1585-1633) and Marcus Benet (1758-1829). Dr. Sonneschein graduated from the Seminary of the late Moravian Chief Rabbi, Abraham Platzek, in 1863. The following year he was elected Rabbi at Varasdin (Croatia). In 1866, he accepted a call as Rabbi and Preacher at Prague, as successor of the late Dr. A. Huebsch. While there he edited a Homiletic monthly. In 1868, Dr. Sonneschein came to New York as Rabbi and Preacher for a leading congregation, whose conservative tendencies, however, soon induced him to find a more congenial field for his radical religious views, and he accepted a call to the pulpit of the Temple Gates of Truth, at St. Louis. Here he labored for seventeen years the congregation meanwhile increasing to such an extent as to become too bulky and unwieldy. Dr. Sonneschein's prominent participation in the Pittsburg Conference, in 1885, and his outspoken championship of the doctrines and principles enunciated by the Conference, were severely criticized by many of his congregation, and for the purpose of restoring tranquility he resigned his charge in April, 1886. The strife between his enemies and his adherents, which followed, was long and bitter and resulted in a split of the congregation and the formation, on October 11, 1886, of a new congregation upon the most advanced reform principles, with Dr.

Sonneschein as Rabbi and Preacher, the present membership of which is over 200. Dr. Sonneschein's journalistic career extends over a period of twenty-four years. He has been editor of "Die Wahrheit" and "Jewish Tribune," of St. Louis, "Die Deborah," of Cincinnati, and the "Homoletische Monatschrift," of Prague. He has also contributed to the "Menorah," "Die Deborah," "American Israelite" and other publications. Dr. Sonneschein has been twice elected one of the three Vice-Presidents of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, and has been constant in his endeavors to conciliate the church and the synagogue.

After an active career of almost half a century in the pulpit, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Hirsch, one of the leaders of the extreme Radical Reform wing of Judaism, retired from active service in 1887, after occupying for twenty-two years the pulpit of Congregation Keneseth-Israel of Philadelphia. Dr. Hirsch was born at Thalfinger, Rhenish-Prussia, June 8, 1815. After a Rabbinical training at Metz he studied at the Universities of Berlin, Leipsic and Bonn, receiving at the second-named institution the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. His first ministerial office was at Dessau in 1838, and so creditably did he fulfill his duties that five years later he received the appointment of Chief Rabbi of Luxembourg, in which capacity he served twenty-three years. His reputation having reached the New World, the Congregation Keneseth-Israel, of Philadelphia, solicited his services as successor to Rev. Dr. David Einhorn, and in 1866 he was made Rabbi of that congregation. During his long career in the ministry Dr. Hirsch, both in Europe and America, has been active by pen and voice in inculcating the most advanced views of the Reform party, going so far as to advocate the abolition of certain ceremonial features which are regarded by the Orthodox wing as the very corner-stones of Judaism. Dr. Hirsch is the author of numerous works in German, including a catechism and a series of articles entitled, "Religious Philosophy of the Jews" and "What is Judaism?"

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 303

Rev. Dr. Benjamin Szold, who was called to the pulpit of the Synagogue Oheb-Shalome, of Baltimore, in 1859, since been elected for life, was born at Nemishkurt, Hungary, in 1830. He studied at Breslau University from 1854 until 1859, when he was called to Baltimore. His religious views are described as conservative, such innovations as he has introduced being due to the claims of the age and the country of his adoption. With the aid of the Rev. Drs. M. Jastrow, of Philadelphia, and H. Hochheimer, of Baltimore, Dr. Szold arranged a ritual for the public worship in the synagogue, which is now used by over thirty congregations. He is the author of a commemorative biography, an address published, on the hundredth anniversary of the death of Moses Mendelssohn, and also of various text-books for Sabbath-schools. Two years since he published the result of ten years' investigation upon the Book of Job, in the form of a Hebrew commentary, which was very favorably received by competent critics. He made use of this, esteemed the most difficult of Biblical books, to prove the efficiency of his method of treating the Hebrew language by which he has been enabled to explain poetically and rationally every line of Job, and (in MS.) of the Psalms and prophetic writings without having recourse to a single emendation. Dr. Szold is held in affection by his congregation, and is highly esteemed by the community at large.

304 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Dr. Leopold Wintner, who belongs to the progressive school in American Judaism, has been, since 1878, the Rabbi of the Congregation Beth-Elohim, at Brooklyn, the largest and most prominent in that city. He was born at Kortvelyes, a village in Hungary, about fifty-two years ago. He received Biblical and Talmudical instruction from his father, Rabbi Pinhas, who was a Talmudical scholar of renown, and, when thirteen years old, he could read well and understand the Biblical writings in the original Hebrew, and parts of the Talmud with its commentaries. His rabbinical training he received in different Talmudical-theological schools of Pressburg, Alt-Ofen, and other places in his native country, and received rabbinical testimonials and diplomas from celebrated rabbinical authorities. He studied at the University of Vienna, Austria, and graduated as Ph. D., from the University of Tübingen, Germany. In 1863, he came to America, was teacher for a number of years in educational institutions in Mobile and Louisville, and then received a call from the congregation of Jackson, Miss., as minister and as teacher of the school. Subsequently he occupied positions as Rabbi in St. Paul and Detroit (1871-1876), and visited Europe in 1876, where he remained for two years, taking special courses in the University of Jena, Germany. He returned to the United States in 1878, and has since occupied his present position.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 305

Rev. Dr. Aaron Wise was born in Hungary on May 2,

1845. His father was Dr. Joseph Wise, chief Rabbi of Erlau, Hungary. He pursued his rabbinical studies at various seminaries and received his rabbinical degrees at the Royal Jewish Seminary of Eisenstat. He studied philosophy at Leipzig and Berlin where he received the degree of Ph. D. After returning to his native land. Dr. Wise was appointed Chief Director of the public schools of Erlau. Some years later he was editor of various periodicals. Soon after his arrival in this country, in 1873, Dr. Wise was invited to occupy the pulpit of the Synagogue Beth-El, of Brooklyn. At the dedication of the Clinton Street Synagogue, on April 15, 1875, he was invited to officiate and produced such a favorable impression that he was soon afterwards elected as Rabbi of that congregation. Dr. Wise is a member of the Deutsche Morgenlaendische Gelehrten-Gesellschaft of Leipzig and Halle, and of the Board of Ministers' Association of New York. Together with the celebrated Orientalist, Dr. Bernard Fisher, Dr. Wise revised "Buxtorf's Lexicon of Leipzig." He edited the "Jewish Herald" and wrote the religious school book Beth-Ahron, now used in his congregation. Dr. Wise is one of the founders and at present a member of the Advisory Board of the Jewish Theological Seminary. He has now in course of preparation a work in the English language entitled "Palm Leaves, or Women in the Bible." Dr. Wise is very popular with the Hungarian colony in New York, and is favorably known for his charitable work, especially among the emigrants, both Christians and Hebrews being the recipients of his bounty.

306 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Isaac M. Wise, of Cincinnati, was born in 1819. He arrived at New York in 1846, and the same year took charge of the Congregation Beth-El, at Albany, N. Y. In 1850 he was appointed to the pulpit of the Congregation Anshe-Emeth, remaining with them four years and establishing during his stay there the first Hebrew-English day-school and various literary and benevolent societies and introducing choir, organ and family pews. In the meanwhile he received a call from the Reform Congregation of Charleston, S. C., which he declined, and in 1854 was appointed Minister of the Congregation E'nai-Jesirim, at Cincinnati. Dr. Wise carried the Reform idea to that city, and preached and lectured in all the larger cities of the country. In Cincinnati he has been connected with many societies, lodges and scholastic institutions, and from 1872 to 1882, was examiner in the public schools. He was also a member of the University Board and took a prominent part in founding the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and Hebrew Union College of which he is now President, and Professor of Theology and Philosophy. In 1854, Dr. Wise published a " History of the Israelitish Nation," and established the "American Israelite," and the year following "Die Deborah." In 1856 appeared his " Minhag America," to which was added one year later, " Hymns, Psalms and Prayers in English and German." Another work, " Essence of Judaism," was published in 1857 and rewritten in 1872, under the title of " Judaism its Doctrines and Duties." Then followed " Christianity," " The Origin of Christianity," " Jesus Himself," " The Martyrdom of Jesus," and " Lectures on the Origin of Christianity." In 1876 appeared " The Cosmic God," a fundamental philosophy, and four years later " History of the Hebrews' Second Commonwealth." His last publication in book form was "Judaism and Christianity, their Agreements and Disagreements," which appeared in 1883, and he is now engaged on a work entitled, " The Theology of Judaism." Dr. Wise is the author of numerous novels and poems in English and German, and has delivered a large number of lectures, sermons and addresses in many portions of the country. In reviewing his career, he thus tersely estimates his public services : " I have written much, worked much and been more lauded and more abused than any other man of my age."

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 307

Rev. James K. Gutheim was born in Prussia in 18 17, and at the age of twenty-eight reached this country, and was chosen minister of the Congregation E'nai-Jesurun of Cincinnati, where he continued in office for three years, and utilized his spare moments in studying law and teaching. From Cincinnati he went to New Orleans, where he served in the pulpit of three congregations. He officiated for a brief period at Montgomery, Ala., and from 1866 to 1868 was assistant Rabbi of the Temple Emanu-El at New York. After vacating this position he returned to New Orleans, where he remained until his death in 1886. Dr. Gutheim's philanthropy, integrity and amiability had endeared him not only to the Hebrew population but to all classes of citizens, and his death was the occasion of such manifestations of profound sorrow as are seldom witnessed. State and municipal authorities uniting, with persons of all rank and creeds, in testifying their appreciation of the loss sustained by his removal, while the State Senate adjourned as a mark of respect on the day of his funeral. Dr. Gutheim was the author of numerous essays and addresses. He translated into English the fourth volume of Graetz's " History of the Jews," and contributed to the " Sabbath Visitor," a metric translation of psalms. He showed deep interest in all charitable and educational affairs, and was at one time President of the New Orleans Board of Education.

308 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

INSTITUTIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS.

THE efforts made to elevate the moral, intellectual and physical condition of the American Hebrews is attested by the generosity with which charitable and philanthropic institutions have been founded, by the race, in all portions of the United States. With the increase in population and wealth, Orphan Asylums, Hospitals, Homes for the Aged and Infirm, Free Schools and similar institutions have sprung up in all parts of the country. The extent and unsectarian character of the Hebrew charities is illustrated by their work in connection with the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association of New York. Though the patrons of this association are permitted to designate their gifts in the general collection in accordance with their denominational associations or preferences, the Hebrews persistently abstain from availing themselves of this privilege. Leo N. Levi, of Galveston, Texas, estimates that the Hebrews of the United States expend annually $1,300,000 in strictly Hebrew charities and half as much again in general charities, making a grand total outlay of nearly $2,000,000 per annum. Proportionate expenditures for charitable purposes by the people at large would foot up $400,000,000 per annum.

Jacob S. Solis, of Mount Pleasant, Westchester County, N. Y., first conceived the idea of establishing in this country an asylum for the reception and education of the Jewish youth of both sexes, to be located near the Hudson River in Westchester County. With that object in view he prepared and issued a circular in 1829, soliciting members and contributions. His sudden demise on December 29th of that year put a stop to the fruition of his hopes for the establishment of an asylum. Mr. Solis was born in the city of London, England, on August 4, 1780, and at an early age came to this country. Having occasion to proceed to New Orleans on business, and finding, on inquiry, that there was no

310

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Hebrew place of worship in that city, he sought out his co-religionists and suggested the propriety and necessity of combining and building a synagogue. A meeting was held and it was resolved that funds should be collected for building an appropriate place of worship. Mr. Solis took charge as chairman of the building committee, a proper site was purchased, and the structure was commenced and completed. The Congregation Shaaray-Chesed (Gates of Mercy), was incorporated March 25, 1828, by Morris Jacobs, Aaron Daniels, Isaac Philips, Souza, Senr., Plotz, J. S. Solis and Bernard Lejeune, and others. The best energies of the life of Mr. Solis were occupied in practical usefulness for the amelioration of the condition of the poor and in contributing to the elevation of the Jewish character.

The opening of the first Hebrew Orphan Asylum in the United States was not accomplished until thirty years after Mr. Solis had first agitated the subject, when the institution was brought into existence under the following circumstances : The Hebrew Benevolent Society of New York was organized on April 8, 1822, with a fund amounting to about $300, the unexpended balance of a collection which had been obtained for the benefit of a Hebrew, a former soldier in the Revolutionary War, who had been brought to the New York City Hospital in a critical condition in the year 1820. He was a stranger in the city. John I. Hart and Joseph Davies undertook to solicit subscriptions for the unfortunate man who died soon after. With the $300 remaining on hand, the following gentlemen determined to organize the society : Daniel Jackson, Charles D. Hart, Joseph Jackson, Joseph Davies, John H. Hart, Abraham Collins, Rowland Davies, Simon Meyers, Abraham Mitchell, Charles I. Hart, Joseph Samuel. Mr. Jackson was elected President and Mr. Hart, Secretary. The society was incorporated in 1832, and in 1859 a consolidation was effected with the German Hebrew Benevolent Society. Measures were at once instituted to establish an Orphan Asylum, the funds of both associations at this time being $25,000. In 1860 an asylum was opened in Lamartine Place, on West Twenty-ninth Street, and in 1862 a building was erected at Third Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street, at a cost of $45,000, the ground being leased to the society by the city for a term of ninety-nine years. In 1883 the present magnificent and commodious structure overlooking the Hudson was erected at a cost of $750,000. The Asylum covers two blocks on Tenth Avenue, from 136th to 138th Street. The building is unsurpassed in its sanitary arrangements, solidity and comfort. Specially noteworthy are the dormitories and dining-rooms, and little chapel with colored glass windows and lamps, fashioned after those in use in places of worship during the Middle Ages. Over 2,000 members contribute to the support of the institution with its 500 inmates. The annual expenses for the last fiscal year were $85,000, and receipts $138,000. The assets of the society are, $170,000 exclusive of the grounds and building.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 311

312 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

and the society has outstanding bonds to the amount of $334,000 on the ground and building, at three per cent. The entire expense of clothing the orphan children is defrayed by the Ladies' Sewing Society, an independent organization attached to the Asylum and numbering 1,200 members. Jesse Seligman has been for fifteen years President of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society, and contributed liberally to its support. Myer Stern, his predecessor, has been for many years the Secretary.

The Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, was incorporated in 1852 by Sampson Simson, Samuel M. Isaacs, John I. Hart, Benjamin Nathan, John M. Davies, Henry Hendricks, Theodore I. Seixas, Isaac Phillips and John D. Phillips. Sampson Simson was chosen first President, John I. Hart, Vice-President; Benjamin Nathan, Secretary, and Henry Hendricks, Treasurer. Previous to 1871 the corporation was known as the Jews' Hospital. The first hospital building was located in West Twenty-eighth Street upon a lot donated by the late Sampson Simson, and the Trustees also received from Judah Touro a bequest of $20,000. The locality of the first hospital was admirably adapted to its uses, but yielding to the changes which occur in all our large cities, succumbed to the demands of trade and the necessities of an increasing population. The Twenty-eighth Street building proving inadequate to meet the demands, the city authorities, with characteristic liberality, granted a lease for ninety-nine years of twelve lots situated on the east side of Lexington Avenue, bounded by Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh Streets, upon which the present building was erected at a cost of $300,000. While the hospital was originated by Hebrews and supported by people of that persuasion, yet the benefits of the institution are freely extended to all of every religion or nationality. The total number of patients treated since the opening of the hospital is 31,000. According to the last annual report over ninety-one per cent, of patients were treated gratuitously. The hospital is supported by 3,564 patrons and members. The bonds and mortgages held by the Hospital for the permanent fund aggregate $201,000. Among the numerous legacies and bequests to this institution since its organization are the following: Miss Sarah Burr, $30,000 ; Michael Reese, $25,000; Judah Touro, $20,000 ; Benjamin Nathan, Joseph Fatman, Simeon Abrahams, D. S. Abrahams and Julius Hallgarten, $10,000 each. The present officers and directors are: Hyman Blum, President ; Isaac Wallach, Vice-President ; Samuel M. Schafer, Treasurer ; De Witt J. Seligman, Honorary Secretary ; Henry Gitterman, Solomon Sommerich, Isaac Blumenthal, Louis Stix, Mayer Lehman, L. M. Hornthai, Louis Gans, Simon Rothschild, Solomon Loeb, S. L. Fatman, William Vogel, Elias Asiel, Adolph Herrmann, Anthony Wallach, Henry Goldman, Joseph L. Scherer, Assistant Secretary ; Theodore Hadel, Superintendent.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 313

The Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids in the city of New York, was founded by representatives of different lodges and congregations who in the spring of 1884, held a meeting for the purpose of agreeing upon some method for perpetuating the centennial anniversary of the birth of the distinguished philanthropist whose name it bears. At this meeting it was determined to build a home for the relief of such Hebrews who by reason of the nature of their disease are unable to procure medical treatment in the hospitals. On March 29, 1884, a benefit performance of " Iolanthe," at the Academy of Music netted $1,400. With this nucleus steps were then taken to raise an additional sum, Messrs. Jacob H. Schiff and Jesse Seligman being elected as trustees of the fund. At a meeting of the patrons held on June 2, 1884, Messrs. Jacob H. Schiff, Henry S. Allen, Adolphus S. Solomons, Isaac Eppinger, Myer S. Isaacs, Marcus Berliner, Louis Gans, Adolph L. Sanger, Judah H. Solomon, Isaac N. Seligman, Henry Strasburger and Siegmund N. Lehman, were elected a temporary Board of Directors. Subsequently Henry S. Allen, was elected President, Louis Gans, First Vice-President ; Adolphus S. Solomons, Second Vice-President ; Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer; and Adolph L. Sanger, Secretary. Soon afterwards Mr. Schiff tendered his resignation as Treasurer and Trustee, accompanying his letter of resignation by a donation of $2,500. On October 26, 1884, the Home at Eighty-fourth Street and Avenue A was formally dedicated. At the first annual meeting held immediately after the ceremonies the following Officers and Board of Trustees was chosen : Henry S. Allen, President ; Louis Gans, First Vice-President ; Adolphus S. Solomons, Second Vice-President; Louis S. Wolf, Treasurer; Frank Russak, Secretary; Levi Bamberger, Marcus Berliner, Samuel H. Eckman, Isaac Eppinger, Myer S. Isaacs, Siegmund N. Lehman, Julius J. Lyons, M. Mendel, Adolph L. Sanger, Henry Solomon, Judah H. Solomon, Isaac Stern, Louis Strasburger, Isidor Straus, Joseph Waxelbaum. The membership at this time was 350, and the accommodation of the building was confined to thirty persons. In the spring of 1887, a fair was held for the purpose of securing funds with which to erect a more commodious home, by which means $158,090.11 was secured, with which sum a building to accommodate 100

314 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 315

patients is now being erected on the Boulevard between 138th and 139th Streets. The present Officers and Directors are : President, Jacob H. Schiff ; Vice-Presidents, Louis Gans and Adolphus S. Solomons ; Treasurer, Isidor Straus ; Secretary, Julius J. Lyons; Directors, Henry S. Allen, Jacob H. Lowenstine, Isaac Eppinger, Adolph L. Sanger, Judah H. Solomon, Louis Strasburger, Siegmund M. Lehman, Lewis S. Wolff, Joseph Waxelbaum, Levi Bamberger, Samuel H. Eckman, M. W. Mendel, Henry Solomon, Lyman G. Bloomingdale, Siegmund Neustadt, Marcus Kohner.

The Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, of New York, was founded by Mrs. Priscilla J. Joachimsen, wife of the Hon. Philip J. Joachimsen, on September 6, 1879. Since its organization about 1,150 destitute children have been fed, clothed, lodged and educated. It has an average of about 550 children constantly under its care. The asylum is located on Washington Heights and occupies ten full city lots. The building, formerly the " Union Home and School for Children of Our Volunteers," is a solid brick structure, four stories in height and varying in width, averaging eighty-five feet front and no feet deep. The branch of this Institution, for girls, is located on the corner of Avenue A and Eighty-seventh Street. Hon. Elbridge T. Gerry, President of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in speaking of this Institution has said that it is " a credit alike to those concerned in its management, and to the great religious denomination whose children it so faithfully and effectually cares for." As soon as the ages of the boys permit, employment in trades and honorable occupations by which they can earn their support is found for them. The girls are taught all branches of needlework, cooking and housekeeping. Specimens of their work will challenge comparison with the accomplishments taught in private institutions or industrial schools. The amount expended annually for the maintenance and support of its inmates is about $65,000.

316 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Home for Aged and Infirm at Yonkers, N. Y., was projected about five years after the organization of the Order of Enai-Berith by members of that order, who formed the B' nai-Berith Benevolent Society. Nine acres of ground were then purchased in Yonkers, on an elegant site overlooking the Hudson, at a cost of about $35,000, and steps were taken for the erection of a building, which was completed at a cost of $125,000. The sum of $15,000 was also expended for furniture and other fixtures. Joseph Fox was Chairman of the Building Committee, and amongst the first Board of Governors were Joseph Loth, Dr. S. Waterman, M. S. Hyman, David Wile, H. S. Herrman, S. Latz, M. Minzesheimer, Julius Bien and S. Hamburger. Joseph Fox was the first President of the Board and remained in office four years. He was succeeded by Dr. S. Waterman. Moses S. Hyman, the youngest member of the Board, was elected President in 1888. The number of inmates at the present time (1888) are fifty-six. Only members of the Order, their wives or widows, are admitted. These must have attained the age of sixty years, or be suffering from infirmity. The entire support of the institution, the cost of which is about $15,000 annually, is derived from the annual dues of the members, no donations being accepted. Kitchen utensils, linen and all household articles are provided by a Ladies' Auxiliary Society, composed of about 1,200 members, of which Mrs. M. Heyman is President. The society is composed only of the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of members of the order.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. • 317

The Hebrew Technical Institute of New York City, was founded in 1884, its object being the fitting of the Hebrew youth for industrial callings, many of the Hebrew emigrants at that time being unable to earn an honorable livelihood. Liberal contributions were made by the Hebrew Orphan Asylum Society, the United Hebrew Charities and Hebrew Free School Association, as well as by private individuals. Two floors were fixed up in a building in Crosby Street with appliances for instruction in wood-working, mechanical drawing, modelling in clay and the English branches. The school took at once a favorable hold upon the public, and the number of scholars rapidly increased. At the close of the year 1886 the first class of twenty, of the average age of fifteen, were ready to enter active life, and were given employment in various lines of work. At an exhibition of industrial work, held in April, 1886, at which a large number of schools was represented, the pupils of this institute were awarded fourteen prizes, being the largest number awarded any school, and the stimulus thus aroused led to a public meeting, which was held in the Temple Emanu-El, by which general interest was awakened and a membership society was started. By means of liberal subscriptions the buildings Nos. 34 and 36 Stuyvesant Street were purchased at a cost of $45,000, and $10,000 additional was expended for alterations, the premises being occupied March 1, 1887. The course of instruction includes metal-working, wood-working, wood-carving, modelling in clay, free hand drawing, mechanical drawing, physics and the English branches. The school is a technical school and gives instruction in the principles which underlie the leading trades. Pupils are taught the use of tools and are not confined to any particular branch until they acquire this general knowledge. The number of pupils at date (February, 1888) is ninety, and the number of teachers, seven. The management of the school is vested in a Board of Directors, composed of the most prominent Hebrews of the city. J. H. Hoffman has been the President since its organization. The expenses are defrayed by 132 patrons and 350 members.

318

• THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The formation of the Aguilar Free Library, of New York City, was suggested in 1886 by a number of gentlemen prominently connected with the Young Men's Hebrew Association and Hebrew Free School Association who wished to organize a free circulating library in order to enable the good work, formerly accomplished by the Young Men's Hebrew Association among the Russian emigrants, to be vigorously pushed. The former owned a library of upwards of 8,000 volumes, and the latter 3,000 volumes. The plan was suggested to Jacob K. Schiff, Esq., the founder of the Hebrew Free School Library, who became so satisfied with the feasibility of the proposed plan, that he agreed to contribute $10,000 towards the new library if the plan were carried into effect. The Aguilar Free Library Society was then fully incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, with Samuel Greenbaum, President ; V. Henry Rothschild, Vice-President ; Nathan Herrmann, Treasurer ; and Louis B. Schram, Secretary. Before the close of the year 1887, the circulation of the library had reached fully 90,000 for the year then closing, and the sum of $23,000 had been raised by private subscription toward the real estate fund. In November, 1887, the society purchased No. 206 East Broadway for the sum of $27,500, with a clear equity of $20,000 in the real estate. The library has three branches, one in the rooms of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, corner Fifty-eighth Street and Lexington Avenue, one at No. 206 East Broadway, where the Hebrew Free School has also a branch, and one at No. 625 Fifth Street. The library is absolutely non-sectarian. The erection of a large building in the neighborhood of East Broadway, at a cost of about $125,000, is at present contemplated.

The first practical step towards the organization of the Maimonides Library Association was taken in October, 1850, when a ball was given by the members of various New York lodges of the order B'nai-Berith, for the benefit of the projected institution. During the succeeding twelve months the various lodges took active measures for furthering the project and on October 22, 1851, the Library was opened. The Association was maintained as an independent organization although membership was limited to such members of the order who contributed annual subscriptions. In 1879 the Association was merged with the District Grand Lodge, No. I, as an integral part of the district, each member being taxed a small amount for its maintenance, and entitled to a reader's card for the home use of books. At that time there were 5,200 volumes in the library and 580 readers. The volumes now number 30,000 and the annual circulation is nearly 50,000 volumes. Ever since the first organization of the Intellectual Advancement Committee, William A. Gans has been an active member of it and the leading spirit in developing the welfare of the Library. In 1883, Max Cohen was appointed Librarian, and he still continues in charge. He is an active member of the New York

320 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Library Club, whose discussions are usually enlivened by his participation. He frequently lectures on subjects relating to Hebrew or general literature, and is the leading editorial writer for the "American Hebrew."

The Hebrew Free School Association of New York was founded in June, 1864, and originated with gentlemen who found that on the east side of the city Christian missionaries were seeking to convert Hebrew children. Accordingly Rev. S. M. Isaacs, Hezekiah Kohn, Barnet L. Solomon, Moses S. Cohen, Nathan Sonnenberg, David Davies, Simon Rossman, Solomon Hyman and others, organized the Hebrew Free School Association, and the modest beginning of an important movement took shape in the building purchased on Avenue C, near Fourth Street. Barnet L. Solomon was the first President of the Society, followed by Moses S. Cohen and Abraham Oettinger. M. S. Isaacs, the present President, has held the position seven years. In 1879 the pupils numbered 1,129, and the first industrial school for girls was established with fifty pupils in sewing. In 1881, the first of the present administration, two industrial classes and the kindergarten were opened and also a class for teaching the Russian emigrants the English language. The school-house, No. 624 Fifth Street, was purchased and adapted to its new purpose. The Society cordially cooperated with the Young Men's Hebrew Association in the new sphere of activity among the emigrants, and is now recognized as a factor in Jewish communal work. Already the work of the Society suggested the creation of an industrial school for boys, and when the Hebrew Technical Institute was founded, the contribution and the delegates of the Hebrew Free School Association were of signal service.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 321

The pupils now (1888) number 2,700. There are thirty-one teachers, of whom twelve were formerly pupils. The Society has $70,000 of assets, two good school buildings, Nos. 206 East Broadway, 195 Division Street and 624 Fifth Street, and its management is successful in all respects. The branches of instruction are the Bible, religion, Hebrew, reading, spelling and grammar, translation of the Pentateuch, Psalms and prayers. The kindergarten is directed by a Ladies' Committee, and is admirably conducted. The Industrial Schools for girls (opened by a committee of ladies) train nearly 400 in plain and fancy sewing, needlework and the beginnings of dress-making. A normal class for Hebrew and religious teachers has been recently established. Six Rabbis act as an Advisory Board. Serving as directors and on the committees are ladies and gentlemen well known in the community. Besides the East Broadway and Fifth Street schools, there are daily classes in School No. 3, located in East Fifty-second Street.

The Hebrew Mutual Benefit Society, of New York, was chartered in 1846. It has accumulated a capital of nearly $40,000 and gives to a member free burial and all funeral expenses for himself and family; weekly benefits in case of sickness and free medical attendance, and an annuity to the widows of its deceased members, as also support during the first week of mourning. It has about 300 members, and it numbers amongst them some of the best Hebrews in the city. The late Aaron Van Praag held the office of President for over twenty-five years. It has what is called an indigent fund, which was started many years ago, the first contribution to it being $5,000, bequeathed by Judah Touro.

322 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Since its organization the Society has paid out in benefits to its members over a quarter of a million dollars. Its members adhere strictly to the funeral rites of the orthodox Hebrews. It has its own burial ground at Washington Cemetery, in Kings County.

The Jewish Theological Seminary, of New York, was established in 1887. The officers are: Joseph Blumenthal, of New York, President ; Dr. A. Friedenwald, of Baltimore, Vice-President ; Newman Cowen, of New York, Treasurer ; Joseph E. Newburger, of New York, Secretary ; Trustee?, Dr. S. Solis Cohen and S. M. Hyneman, of Philadelphia, Tucker David, J. M. Emanuel, Isaac Fles, Sender Jermałowski, Nathan Levin, J. Edgar Philips, D. M. Piza, and Isidor Rosenthal, of New York. The Advisory Board of Ministers consists of Rev. S. Morals, of Philadelphia, President ; Rev. Drs. A. Kohut, H. S. Jacobs, F. de Sola Mendes, A. Wise, H. P. Mendes and B. Drachman, of New York, M. Jastrow, of Philadelphia, A. P. Mendes, of Newport, R. I., and H. W. Schneeberger, of Baltimore. Dr. S. Morals is President of the Faculty, and Dr. B. Drachman, Preceptor of the Preparatory Class. The object of the Association is declared to be the endowment and maintenance in the city of New York of an institution of Jewish learning, where youths desirous of becoming teachers in Israel may be fully and thoroughly educated under such auspices as will inspire a love for the language and literature of their race, and a spirit of fidelity and devotion to the laws of their religion : that the mission of the Jew as a teacher of highest morality, and an exemplar of brotherly love to all the children of the One Universal Father, may by their influence be furthered and perpetuated. There are at present twelve pupils in attendance in the preparatory class, and six in the junior class.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 323

Among other New York charitable institutions and associations are the following: United Hebrew Charities; Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes; Hebrew Benevolent Fuel Association ; Sanitary Aid Association ; Ladies' Deborah Nursery and Child's Protectory ; Ladies' Lying-in Relief Society ; Bikur Cholim Society ; Home for Aged and Infirm ; Young Ladies' Charitable Aid Society ; Louis Downtown School ; Young Men's Hebrew Association. The Purim Association was organized in 1861 by the following gentlemen : Myer S. Isaacs, Adolph L. Sanger, Moses H. Moses, Herman Stettheimer, Bernard Lemann, Lionel Davies, Louis G. Schiffer, A. Henry Schutz and Sol. Weil. The association, though one of the smallest in the city, is one of the most influential. Its annual Charity Balls, for the benefit of the Hebrew institutions, yields about $20,000.

The Jewish Widows and Orphans Home of New Orleans was organized in 1855 with M. M. Simpson as President. The membership of the Home Association is 600. The Hebrew Orphan Asylum, of Baltimore, cares for seventy inmates. The membership is about 600. The Home for Aged and Indigent Israelites, at Albany, N. Y., the Michael Reese Hospital, at Chicago, Montefiore Home and Aid Society, at Boston, and Orphan Asylum and Hospitals, at Atlanta, Ga. and Newark, N. J., and other cities, bear witness to the philanthropic work in progress in all directions.

The Hebrew Education Society of Philadelphia was chartered April 7, 1849, ^0^ th^ purpose of opening schools where might be taught the elementary branches of education.

324 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

together with the sciences and modern and ancient languages, always in combination with instruction in Hebrew language, literature and religion, also to establish a superior seminary of learning, the faculty to be empowered to furnish to graduates and others the usual degree of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Arts and Doctor of Law and Divinity as the same is exercised by other colleges established in Pennsylvania. The first meeting, looking to the organization, was held on March 7, 1847, ^^^ ^he organization was effected on July 16, 1848, Solomon Solis being elected President ; Simon Elfelt, Vice-President ; Abraham Hart, Treasurer ; Z. A. Davis, Secretary, and Simon M. Klasser, Assistant Secretary. Maimonides College was opened October, 1867, the faculty being composed of Rev. Isaac Leiser, Provost ; Rev. Dr. Sabato Morals, Rev. Dr. Jastrow and Rev. Dr. Bettelheim and remained in existence until about January i, 1874. The school of the Education Society, giving instruction in Hebrew and secular branches, was opened in the hall of the Phcenix Hose Company on Zane Street on Monday, April 7, 1851. The first teachers employed were Mr. Michael M. Allen and Miss Evaline Bomeisler. The Society removed to its present building October 3, 1854. The instruction in Hebrew and secular branches was continued until 1878, when instruction was confined to Hebrew alone. Schools were opened in various sections of the city. In September, 1883, an Industrial School was started in Lark Street, where cigar making and carpentering were taught, and in 1886 a second Industrial School was opened in the Society's hall on Seventh Street. The Society is the custodian of the Leaser Library, the greater portion of which was bequeathed to Maimonides College by the late Rev. Isaac Leaser. The officers of the Society are : Isaac Roskam, President ; Isidore Coons, Vice-President ; Levi Mayer, Treasurer ; David Sulzberger, Secretary. Board of Officers: Simon B. Fleisher, Louis E. Levy, Aaron Lichten, Philip Lewin, Joseph Pels, Louis Eschner, Jacob Muhr, George Wiener, E. L. Rothschild, Mark Schwartz, Isaac Sailer, Simon Fleisher.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 325

Solomon Solis, one of the founders and first President of the Education Society, was born at Wilmington, Del., on March 13, 1819. He passed the greater part of his life in the city of Philadelphia. Truly pious, without ostentation, he was distinguished for his philanthropy and greatly esteemed in all the relations of son, husband, father and brother. He was a valued and sincere friend, whom to know was to love and revere. His contributions to the religious press were always anticipated with pleasure by the public, and their well chosen and high literary character thoroughly appreciated. An essay on " Education " developed the efforts of a ripe scholar, and his selection as a friend and adviser by the Rev. Isaac Leaser not only reflected good judgment, but was fully appreciated on both sides. Mr. Solis was deservedly complimented as the best qualified of the large membership to occupy the important and most responsible position of President, which he occupied at the time of his death on June 22, 1854.

To Miss Rebecca Gratz, of Philadelphia, belongs the honor of founding the first Hebrew Sunday-school in the United States in 1838. It was at first conducted under the auspices of the Female Hebrew Benevolent Society. Miss Gratz served as Superintendent until 1864. Her successor was Miss Louisa B. Hart. The Sunday-school started with fifty pupils. In 1888 the number exceeded 1,000.

326 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Jewish Foster Home and Orphan Asylum of Philadelphia, was also projected by that noble daughter of Israel, Miss Rebecca Gratz, and was called into existence on Sunday, February 4, 1855, at a public meeting held at the synagogue of the Congregation Mickve-Israel, when the following Board of Managers were elected. Mrs. Anna Allen, Mrs. William Florance, Mrs. D. Samuels, Miss Louisa Gratz, Miss. E. Bomeisler, Miss Rebecca Gratz, Mrs. Abraham Hart, Mrs. I. L. Florance, Miss Emily Phillips, Mrs. E. J. Eytinge, Miss Rachel Pisoa, Mrs. I. L. Moss, Mrs. Leon Berg, Mrs. G. D. Rosengarten, Mrs. Henry Cohen, Mrs. A. Finzi, Mrs. B. Leiber, Mrs. Henry Newhouse, Mrs. L. Frankel, Mrs. Sol. Gans, Mrs. L. Binswanger, Mrs. S. M. Ash, Mrs. H. Simpson, Mrs. S. Morais, Mrs. B. Blum, Mrs. Joseph Rosenbaum, Mrs. L. J. Leberman and Mrs. Louisa B. Hart. Mrs. Anna Allen was elected President, Mrs. D. Samuel, Vice-President, Mrs. Louisa Gratz, Treasurer, and Mrs. E. Bomeisler, Secretary. The society was duly incorporated May 1, 1855. A home for the reception of children was opened the same month at No. 799 North Eleventh Street, and afterwards in North Seventh and North Fifteenth Streets. Mrs. Allen held the office as President, until her resignation in 1867. In June, 1881, the removal of the Home took place to Mill Street, Germantown, the dedication of the new building taking place the same month. The number of children in the Home at the present time is sixty-two. Rev. S. M. Fleishman and his wife are the Superintendent and Matron. After attaining their thirteenth year the children are either indentured or otherwise placed to learn a trade or follow other useful pursuits. The present officers of the Home are : Isidor Binswanger, President ; Mason Hirsch,

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 327

Vice-President; Philip Lewin, Treasurer and Benjamin F. Teller, Secretary. The institution is a credit to the Hebrews of Philadelphia, and nothing is spared which can add to the comfort and advancement of the inmates.

The history of the Jewish Hospital of Philadelphia presents a striking evidence of the alacrity with which the Hebrews of that city are prepared to alleviate the sufferings of their co-religionists. The late Abraham Sulzberger, at a meeting of Grand Lodge, District No. 3, of the order of E nai-Berith, held in August, 1864, suggested the necessity for founding a hospital in Philadelphia, and offered a resolution " to take immediate steps to procure the co-operation of all Jewish societies and individuals" to that end. The order proving not numerically strong enough to complete the work, a public meeting of the Hebrews of the city was held on February 19, 1865, at which the Jewish Hospital Association was organized, with Alfred T. Jones as first President. The Hospital was opened on Haverford Road and Fisher Avenue, the opening taking place August 6, 1866, and the dedication in May, 1867. The accommodations proving inadequate, the erection of a new hospital building was commenced on Olney Road, near Old York Road, where a commodious and handsome structure was erected, the dedication taking place September 14, 1873. Attached to the Hospital is the Mathilde Adler Loeb Dispensary, the building having been presented to the Hospital Association in 1878 by the late Abraham Adler and by Hannah Adler, parents of the lady to whose memory it is dedicated, in conjunction with August B. Loeb, her husband. Provision has been for its proper maintenance by the donors. The Hospital and Dispensary are open " for the relief of the sick and wounded, without regard to creed, color or nationality," a declaration that is literally fulfilled, it being a well-known fact that the Hospital has frequently opened its doors to non-Hebrews who were refused treatment by other institutions. Three hundred and eighty-three patients were treated in the Hospital during the year 1887, and over 1,100 in the dispensary. During the same year there were thirty inmates of the home. The expenses of the institution during the last fiscal year were $88,256.60 and the cost of maintenance over $15,000. The Hospital and Home are model institutions, carefully and ably managed, and with the projected additions will make this already admirable charity as complete and well equipped as any in Philadelphia. The officers of the Hospital Association are : Wm. B. Hackenburg, President ; Abraham Goldsmith, Vice-President ; August B. Loeb, Treasurer ; Simon A. Stern, Recording Secretary and Simon Pfaelzer, Corresponding Secretary, who with twelve Directors constitute the Board of Officers.

328 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association of Philadelphia, was called into existence to meet the recognized demands for a society which should, apart from congregational influence " promote a higher culture among the Jewish young men and unite them in a liberal organization which shall tend to their moral, intellectual and social improvement." The association was permanently organized. May 12, 1875. It has founded a well selected library of over 1,600 volumes, and has in its reading-rooms the best collection of Jewish journals to be found in any one place in America. The association maintains annually a lecture course for the benefit of its members, and the social feature of its declared purposes is carried out by the formal and informal entertainments given under its auspices. The associate organization is made up of those members of the association who are under twenty-one years of age, and at its meetings debates and literary exercises are carried on by the members. The association has now in all its branches about 600 members. Mayer Sulzberger is the present President of the association.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 329

The Sir Moses Montefiore Home for Aged and Infirm Israelites, at Cleveland, Ohio, had its inception about eighteen years ago when District Grand Lodge No. 2 of the Order Keshar Shel Barzel enacted a law taxing each of its members fifty cents per annum. In 1881 a building was purchased for $25,000, and in February, 1882, the Aged and Infirm Israelites' Home of District No. 4, as it was then called, was duly dedicated. In the year 1884, at a meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the Order Keshar Shel Barzel, it was resolved that the Home be endowed by the Order with a donation of $10,000, provided District Grand Lodge No. 4 assent to changing the name of the institution to that of "The Sir Moses Montefiore Home for Aged and Infirm Israelites," and provided further, that District Grand Lodges Nos. 1 and 3 have the right to admit a limited number of its members or widows of members under certain conditions. This proposition was accepted. The institution has been signally successful in the dispensation of charity as well as in financial management. The inmates consist of thirty-five persons, whose ages range from sixty-five to ninety years.

The Jewish Orphan Asylum at Cleveland, Ohio, was founded under the auspices of the Order Enai-Berith. In the year 1863 District Grand Lodge No. 2 of the Order resolved that a fund should be secured with which to initiate some project of usefulness outside the Order to be deter-

330 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

ined later on, for which purpose the members in the jurisdiction should pay an annual contribution of one dollar. This suggestion was approved by the subordinate lodges in the jurisdiction, and in 1867 the sum of $10,000 had been secured. At the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge held at Milwaukee in that year, the establishing of an Orphan Asylum was decided upon, and Cleveland was selected as the most desirable city. On July 14, 1868, the inauguration of the Asylum building took place by the Grand Lodge officers. The membership of the Lodges in the district at this time numbered 2,500. The Orphan Asylum is now managed by twelve Trustees from the Grand Lodge districts in connection with thirty Directors annually chosen from the various lodges, societies and yearly subscribers. The number of orphans at the Asylum on July 1, 1887, was 310.

The Jewish Orphan Asylum at Rochester, New York, owes its existence to the Rev. Dr. M. Landsberg, of Rochester, and the late Rev. Dr. S. Falk, of Buffalo, who were the leaders in the organization of the Jewish Orphan Asylum Association of Western New York, by whom the institution is maintained. In November, 1877, an Orphan Asylum Society was started at Rochester, and later on similar organizations were effected at Syracuse and Buffalo, the object being the accumulation of a fund for the erection of an Orphan Asylum. The movement in these cities received the hearty support and encouragement of the majority of co-religionists in that section, and on February 23, 1879, ^ convention was held at Rochester, of delegates from the three cities who organized the Asylum Association with Moses Hays as first President. In the month of November following it was resolved to accept orphans under the charge of the Association, and in February, 1880, the first three children were adopted and placed in the care of a private family. In the year 1884, a suitable building was purchased and twenty-one orphans are now cared for therein. The expenses are defrayed by the Association with a membership of 500. The sinking fund of the Association consists of about $60,000 derived from donations from the three cities.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 331

The Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum and Home Society of San Francisco, was founded in 1871, when a number of gentlemen held a preliminary meeting with a view of organizing a society to care for such orphan children as might become a charge on the public and private benevolent institutions. The Society was incorporated on July 25th, of that year with twenty-six members and the following Board of Trustees : A. Block, P. Berwin, I. F. Bloch, Joseph Brandenstein, E. Cohen, Alfred P. Elfelt, H. Greenberg, C. Meyer, M. Morgenthau, L. Sachs, WilHam Steinhardt, S. Sweet, E. Wertheimer, Isaac Wormser and S. W. Levy. S. W. Levy has been President of the Society since 1873. The Society has a capital of over $200,000 bearing interest, grounds and buildings thereon valued at $100,000, and cares for 100 children. It contributes $300 per month to the Eureka Benevolent Association for the benefit of the aged people who are incapable of earning a livelihood.

Of the numerous influential Hebrew orders special mention must be made of the B'nai-Berith, Keshet Shel Barzel, Sons of Benjamin and Free Sons of Israel.

The Order of B'nai-Berith, the foremost, and in fact the parent of the Jewish fraternal organizations in America, was founded in 1843, ^^^ Henry Jones is considered its chief founder. Its chief aim was and is the union of Israelites for the purpose of furthering education and elevating the morals and aspirations of the race. It combines therewith material benefits which are made possible by the union of great numbers, and it was the first society of its kind which introduced the payment of a fixed sum of money to the families of deceased members. From the parent lodge have sprung nearly 400 lodges, of which twenty are situated in Germany, to which the order was extended in the year 1880. It is governed by an Executive Committee composed of one member from each of its eight District Grand Lodges, and at its head are placed a President and Secretary, who wield the supreme executive power during the recesses between the regular sessions. Julius Bien has for the last eighteen years been placed, by the unanimous vote of the brotherhood, again and again in the distinguished position of Chief Executive officer, and he is ably seconded and supported by the Secretary, M. Thalmessinger. To their efforts is due the extension of the order to Europe and to Cairo, Egypt, where a lodge has been established as an entering wedge to the Orient. In the beginning the introduction to lodges was accompanied by an elaborate ceremonial, which has been abolished. The ritual in use is a simple statement, couched in lofty, poetic language, of the aims which the brotherhood pursues, and its proceedings are regulated by a well-digested constitution, which has ever since served to all kindred organizations. Its annual expenditures for endowments, sick benefits and assistance to the needy, reach nearly a million dollars, and it counts amongst its members some of the most representative Israelites of the country. The total membership of the order is about 25,000.

332 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Keshet Shel Barzelilron Band) was founded in 1868,

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 333

by J. S. Blackman, a teacher of Hebrew, who at present resides in California. Its field of operations was principally confined to the Polish element and among the lower working classes, and up to the year 1871, numbered about eight lodges in New York City, and four in California with a membership of not over 1,000. After the election of J. P. Solomon, of New York, as Grand President, the membership rose to 103 lodges and 5,800 members. As constituted at present the Keshet Shel Barzel consists of a Supreme Lodge, of which Hon. Simon Wolf, of Washington, is the Grand President and Alfred T. Jones, of Philadelphia, Grand Secretary, and five District Grand Lodges, with a membership of 12,000. During its existence the order has paid to widows and orphans, alone, $700,000.

The Order Sons of Benjamin was instituted May 1, 1878, the founder being William Heller, a New York merchant. The present membership, which extends throughout all sections of the country, is 10,000 males, and 4,000 females, with 123 lodges. The Order provides an endowment of $1,000 on the death of each male member, and $500 on the death of each female. The Order owns a burial plot and has paid out since its organization the sum of $450,000 to heirs of deceased members. Mr. Heller, the founder was for eight years Grand Master of the Order.

The Independent Order Free Sons of Israel with a membership of 13,000, is located in every State in the Union and was organized in the city of New York, in 1848. The United States Supreme Lodge is the highest authority of the order. Under the endowment system of the order, the sum of $1,000 is paid to the heirs of deceased members. During the forty years of its existence, the Order has paid out to such benefi-

334 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Claries the sum of $1,391,000 and has, in addition, contributed for charitable purposes, including sick benefits and relief to indigent members, the sum of $1,160,000. At this time (1888) the Order is composed of in lodges and boasts of a reserve fund of $173,000. Of the 13,000 members of the order, 9,000 are members of lodges located in District No. 1, whose headquarters are at New York City. Of the in lodges in the order eighty-three work in the English language and twenty-eight in German. There are besides eleven ladies' lodges.

ADDENDA.

HISTORICAL.

THE oldest Hebrew Congregation in Brooklyn is the Temple Beth-Elohim, in the " Eastern District," which was organized about 1854 with fifteen members, who worshipped in a small room in a building on the north side. The initiation fee was $3.00 and the monthly dues fifty cents. Mr. Barnard was the first Hazan. Having increased in membership, the congregation bought a building at the corner of Eighth and South First Streets, which was reconstructed and occupied as a synagogue until 1876, when it was sold. The present Temple on Keap Street, near Broadway, which is one of the finest religious edifices in the City of Churches, was dedicated in 1876, and is the largest synagogue in the city. The ministers in former years were : J. Eisemans, Revs. Gotthold and Rubin, Rev. Dr. Grossman, Rev. Dr. I. Schwab. Rev. Dr. L. Wintner is the present Rabbi.

NORWALK, CONN.

Toward the close of the Seventeenth Century Ralph Isaacs settled at Norwalk, Conn. In 1725 he married Mary Rumsey. At this time he was a Christian, but tradition says he was in early life a Hebrew. He is believed to have been connected with the Church of England, and was made the first Warden of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in 1736. His descendants, with scarcely an exception, have been active members of that Society. The sixth generation from Ralph Isaacs are still living upon the grounds he purchased for his son Benjamin at Norwalk.

336 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The following were among the first arrivals of Hebrews at San Francisco from 1849 to 1852 : Jacob Scholle, William Scholle, Michael Reese, Isaac Friedlander, Louis Schloss, Louis Gerstle, Isidor Wormser, Simon Wormser, Henry Newhouser, M. Bauerfreud, Siegmund T. Meyer, Louis Cohen, B. Jacobs, L. Jacobs, Simon W. Glazier, Isaac Glazier, A. Hollub, Michael Castle, Frederick Castle, Henry Neustadter, Louis Sachs, Martin Sachs, Martin Heller, Moses Heller, Henry Seligman, Jesse Seligman, Abraham Seligman, Rudolph Wyman, William Steinhardt, Augustus S. Tobias, Alfred I. Tobias, Henry Greenburger, Leopold, Greenburger, David Bachman, Leopold Bachman, Albert Priest, Nathan Bachman, Henry Cohn, Herman Greenebaum, Jacob Greenebaum, Philip Schloss, Frederick Schloss, Simon Lazar, Ely Lazar, Alex. Lazar, Ulrich Simon, Alex. Wiel, H. Tichner, Jacob Meyer, M. Morgenthau, David Stern, Levi Straus, William Meyer, J. Triest, M. Livingston, M. Hydenfelt, Benjamin Triest, L. Goldstein, Joseph Heller, Leopold Cohn, Moses Rosenbaum, Joseph Brandenstein, Samuel Marks, Charles Pohlman, C. Mayer, Louis Klein, L. Elkus, Jonas Adler, B. Dinkelspiel, E. Oppenheim, John Alexander, Charles Schmidt, Max Morgenthal, Louis Reinstein, Nathan Rhine, A. Fleishaker, Sigmund Herman, Samuel Meyer, Jonas Meyer, David Kohn, Marcus Kohn, Abraham Block, Simon Fuerth, Jacob Hecht, Samuel W. Rosenstock, Simon Hecht, Joseph Hoffman, Samuel Hoffman, Haas Brothers, Adelsdorfer Brothers, Moses Weil, David Weil, L. White, H. Selig, Joseph Godchaux, L. Rich, Joseph Aaron, J. Uhlfelder, L. Kronthal, Hellman Brothers, L. Lyon, B. Davidson, Julius May, L. Stein, Simons Brothers, N. Koshland, Nathan Asiel.

PHILADELPHIA.

Members of the Congregation Mickve-hrael, of Philadelphia, in 1782 : Isaiah Bush, Abraham Barrias, Abraham Von Etting, Mayer Solomon, Mayer M. Cohen, Solomon Cohen, Isaac Da Costa, Samuel Da Costa, Mayer Darkliam, Samuel De Lucena, Bernard Gratz, Michael Gratz, Moses Gomez, Daniel Gomez, Philip Moses, Samuel Hays, Jacob Hart, Manuel Josephson, Barnubel S. Judah, Isaac Judah, Israel Jacobs, Abraham Levy, Hagima Levy, Isaac H. Levy, Solomon Levy, Ezekiel Levy, Jacob Levy, Henry Marks, Isaac Moses, Solomon Marache, Moses H. Myers, Abraham Henriquez, Joseph Solomon, Haym Solomon, Isaac Da Costa, Jr., Isaac Madeira, Joseph Madeira, Solomon Marks, Eleazar Sey, Isaac Moses, Sr., Zodak Dornistad, Simon Nathan, Lyon Nathan, Moses Nathan, Moses Judah, Joseph Abandanon, Andrew Levy, Jonas Phillips, Coshman Pollock, Gershom M. Seixas, Benjamin Seixas, Mordecai Sheftal, Sheftal Sheftal, Benjamin Nones, Naphtali Phillips, Levy Solomons, Isaac Abrahams, Myer Hart and son, Judah Aaron, Solomon Aaron, Isaac Cardoza, Manuel Myers, David Bush, Reuben Etting, Solomon Etting, Moses Jacobs, Moses

338 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Nathan, Jacob Cohen, Solomon M. Myers, Ephraim Hart, Henry Noah, Levy Phillips, Abraham Seixas, Samuel Alexander, Barendt Spitzer, Moses B. Franks, Joseph Simons, Michael Marks, Jacob Mordecai, Mordecai M. Mordecai, Jacob Myers, Asher Myers, Moses A. Myers, Abraham Saspertes, Judah Myers, Joseph A. Myers, Mordecai Levy, Michael Hart, Naim Van Ishac, Naphtali Hart, Lazarus Barnet, 'Joseph Henry, Colonoms Van Shelemoh, Samuel Israel, Joseph Carpelies, Moses Homberg, Marcus Elkin, Samuel Lazarus, Philip Russell.

• NEW ORLEANS.

Officers and Members of the Congregation Shaaray-Chesed, of New Orleans in 1828: Morris Jacobs, President; Aaron

Daniels, Vice-President ; A. Plotz, Junior Warden ; A. Green, Junior Warden ; A. Philips, Junior Warden ; Isaac Philips, Treasurer ; A. Audler, Secretary ; Jacob S. Solis, Bernard Lejeune, Jacob Myers, L. S. Levy, David Lewis, Moses J. Hart, Ralph Jacobs, A. P. Levy, Myers J. Ellis, J. La Salle, Solomon Hunt, L. H. Jones, Joseph Solomon, E. Stern, Abs. Goldsmith, Nathan Hart, A. H. De Jong, A. S. Emmony, Samuel Jacobs, Marx Myers, Levy Prince, Solomon Ferth, Lewis Kokernot, Marton P. Levy, Charles Myers, Aaron Kirkham, Abr. Block, Doct. Z. Florance.

BALTIMORE.

In 1856 Mrs. S. N. Carvalho, then residing in the city of Baltimore, consulted with several of her personal friends, who consented to join her in an effort to establish a Sunday-school where all children of Hebrew parents should receive instruction in the principles of conservative Judaism. Mrs.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 339

Carvalho had been in former years a teacher in the Sunday-school of Miss Rebecca Gratz at Philadelphia. A meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. Carvalho, where an association was formed, a constitution and by-laws adopted and officers elected. Committees were appointed to provide the necessary funds for the purchase of books, and a large hall was leased as a school-room. The following were the officers for the first year : Mrs. S. N. Carvalho, President ; Mrs. Josephine Etting, First Vice-President ; Mrs. Gutman, Second Vice-President ; Directresses, Mrs. Israel I. Cohen, Mrs. Catharine Cohen, Mrs. Stern, Mrs. Margaret Cohen, Miss Julia Carvalho, Treasurer ; Miss Rachel Cohen, Secretary ; Edward Cohen, Corresponding Secretary. A large volunteer corps of capable teachers presented themselves on the day of opening. The pupils numbered about fifty girls and boys. Within three months the number had increased to several hundred.

IN THE ARMY AND NAVY.

Albert, the second son of Major Raphael Moses, of Georgia, changed his surname to Luria to preserve the family name, which had been transmitted from the time when his ancestors left Spain on account of the Inquisition, and when nineteen years old was appointed Lieutenant in a North Carolina regiment. He was killed at Seven Pines in June, 1862, while rallying his company, having seized the colors falling from the hands of the dying color-bearer. An incident of this officer's bravery is worth recording. At the engagement at Sewell's Point, near Norfolk, in May, 1861, an eight-inch shell, with fuse still burning, fell into the company's gun-pit, and young Albert, without a moment's hesitation, seized it in his arms and put it in a tub of water, quenched the fuse and saved his own and comrades' lives. The company, in recognition of his heroism, had the shell engraved with a history of the incident and sent it to his parents. It now stands upon a pillar over his grave at the "Esquiline," near Columbus, Ga., as a fitting monument.

340 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

The Confederate soldiers' plot in the Hebrew Cemetery at Richmond, Va., is surrounded by an iron fence representing stacks of muskets, swords, military caps and implements of war, the whole forming a design at once unique and substantial. Within the enclosure and close by rest the remains of the following soldiers, who fell in battle at Richmond and Petersburg and surrounding country: Captain M. Marcus, 15th Georgia; A. Robinson, 15th Georgia; S. Oury, 16th Mississippi; M. Bachrach, Lynchburg, Va.; Corporal G. Eisman, 12th Mississippi; E. B. Miller; H. Jacobs, South Carolina; S. Weiss, Georgia; Isaac Seldner, 6th Virginia Infantry; Lieutenant L. S. Lipman, 5th Louisiana; Lieutenant W. M. Wolf, Hagood's South Carolina Brigade; A. Heyman, Georgia; Julius Zark, 7th Louisiana; A. Lehman, South Carolina; M. Aaron, North Carolina; Jacob A. Cohen, 10th Louisiana; Henry Cohen, South Carolina; I. Frank, Georgia; S. Bachrach, Lynchburg, Va.; Jonathan Sheur, Louisiana; Samuel Bear, Georgia; I. Cohen, Hampton's South Carolina Legion; T. Foltz, 16th Mississippi; Henry Gersberg, Salem, Va.; M. Levy, Mississippi; I. Rosenberg, Georgia; Henry Adler, 46th Virginia; E. J. Sampson, 4th Texas; J. Wolf, North Carolina; J. Hessberg, Caroline

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 341

County, Va.; Isaac J. Levy, Richmond Light Infantry Blues. Marx Myers, Richmond Grays; Gustavus Kann, 16th Mississippi; Henry Smith, killed in battle near Fayette C. H., Va.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Felix Adler, one of the most eloquent orators in America, and the founder of the New York Society for Ethical Culture, is the son of Rabbi Samuel Adler, pastor emeritus of the Temple Emanu-El. He graduated from Columbia College in 1870, and was then sent to Europe with a view of preparing for the ministry. For this purpose he entered Berhn and Heidelberg Universities, where he obtained the degree of Ph. D. After his return to the United States he received the appointment of Professor of Hebrew and Oriental Literature at Cornell University, and upon his retirement from the position in 1876, he established the Society for Ethical Culture. In 1877 he published a series of discourses delivered before this Society under the name of " Creed and Deed." He has manifested interest in the welfare of the workingmen, tenement house reform and the kindergarten system. He is also an advocate of cremation and is an officer of some of the associations having in view the introduction of that method of disposing of the dead.

Leon Hyneman, a distinguished Free Mason, was the publisher of " Ancient York and London Grand Lodges," " Hyneman's Review," " The Masonic Library," " World's Masonic Register," and the weekly " Masonic Mirror and Keystone." He died at New York City in 1880, aged seventy-four years. His sister, Rebecca, was a well-known contributor to periodical literature.

342 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

Isaac Frank, of New York, was one of the founders of the railroad ticket-brokerage business, which has grown to very-large proportions throughout the United States. He is the son of Marcus Frank, who settled at Syracuse, N. Y., and in 1870 moved to Tififin, Ohio, where in 1874 the son inaugurated his present business. Mr. Frank has branch offices in all the large cities of the Union, and is assisted in his work by his brothers, Jacob and Moses, and other relatives.

ASSOCIATIONS AND INSTITUTIONS.

The Board of Delegates of American Israelites, organized in 1859, "^^^s for nineteen years an influential organization, and had for its object co-operation in directing government aid to the rescue of oppressed co-religionists from danger and persecution, and the elevation of the social condition of Hebrews in countries where the laws discriminated against them. The Board was organized soon after the abduction of Edgar Mortaro, by the Papal authorities. Co-operation with the Alliance Israelite Universelle, and correspondence with various Jewish organizations in Europe was maintained during the nineteen years existence of the Board, whereby the rights of Hebrews abroad were secured by means of liberal contributions at home, and suffering and destitution in various countries was alleviated. The persecution of Hebrews in the Danubian Principalities from 1866 to 1878, received the earnest attention of the Board. The State Department at Washington was asked in 1867 to institute inquiries regarding the cruel and inhuman laws and practices directed against the Hebrews of Servia, and in 1870 the Board suggested to the Department the appointment at Bucharest of a

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 343

"capable consul imbued with American sympathies, and willing to co-operate with the European Consuls in measures for the relief of the unhappy Israelites," in that country. In accordance with this suggestion Hon. Benjamin F. Peixotto, was designated by President Grant as Consul at Bucharest. His presence proved the means of checking the excesses in that country. The representation of Jewish organizations at Berlin for the purpose of submitting a statement of the Jewish question to the Congress of the Great Powers in 1878 was suggested by the Board of Delegates. The care of poor emigrants from Russia and Roumania, and the regulation of the movement whereby objectionable persons should be excluded was the subject of discussion by the Board, and resulted in the adoption of wholesome regulations. At home the usefulness of the Board has been attested on numerous occasions. In 1861, the Board of Delegates addressed a memorial to Congress, protesting against the act passed by that body providing that chaplains appointed in the Volunteer Service must be " a regular ordained minister of some Christian denomination," on the grounds of its unconstitutionality. The result was the passage of an amendatory act substituting the word " Religious " for " Christian." In 1862, the Board secured a revocation of General Grant's order expelling " Jews as a class " from within the Department of Tennessee. In 1864, the Board memorialized the United States Senate in protest of the action of the Presbyterian Conference at Pittsburg, Penn., praying for an amendment to the Constitution of the United States recognizing Christianity as the religion of the land. In North Carolina, in 1866, a proposition to embody in the new Constitution a provision denying the right to hold office to any person who should question the " divine authority of the Old and New Testament," called forth a vigorous protest from the Board which resulted in the rejection of the objectionable clause. A similar fate was shared by the bill offered in Congress the same year requiring citizens qualifying as members of the Constitutional Convention to be sworn on the " Holy Evangelists." The formation of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in 1878, was followed by the dissolution of the Board of Delegates whose functions have since been delegated to a standing committee of the Union designated as "The Board of Delegates on Civil and Religious Rights." The first officers of the Board were : Henry I. Hart, of New York, President ; Rev. Isaac Leiser, of Philadelphia, Vice-President ; Gerson N. Hermann, of New York, Treasurer; Myer S. Isaacs, of New York, Secretary.

344 THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA.

With the large arrival of Russian refugees commencing a few years since, there arose a demand for a new public place of amusement in the city of New York. Accordingly, in 1884, a Russian-Hebrew Opera Company, with Moses Silberman as manager and Joseph Lateiner as composer, opened an establishment in Turner Halle on East Fourth Street. In the course of a few months they removed to Nos. 113 and 113[^] Bowery, where they secured a ten years' lease. Here they have been presenting for the past three years a number of musical plays by exclusively Hebrew-Russian artists of repute from Odessa, St. Petersburg, Moscow and Roumania. The stars comprising a portion of the troupe are Messrs. Abraham Schengold, M. Spiva-Kovski, Mo Heine, Mrs. Moses Silberman and Mrs. S. Borodkin. The most successful plays thus far produced are " Orpheus," which constituted the initiatory performance on May 23, 1884, " David Ben Jesse," " Bar Cochba," and " Joseph and His Brothers." In this establishment the Hebrew-German dialect is employed. The entire cast, as well as various staffs of employees, artistic, business and mechanical, are of the Hebrew persuasion. The " Oriental," by which name this theatre is known, has accommodation for 1,000 patrons. The price of admission ranges from 25 cents to $1.00.

THE HEBREWS IN AMERICA. 345

Pagre

22d line,

ERRATA.

read

24, for Hyam,

Haym.

27,

24th "

" Ludwig,

Leo.

124, nth "

" Levy,

Levi.

171,

1 2th "

" $750,000,

$250,000

201,

1 2th "

" 1882,

1822.

255,

13th "

" 1822,

1882.

258,

26th "

" Jossefy,

Joseffy.

284, nth

Isaac,

Isaacs.

Any other typographical errors as to dates will be corrected in second edition if sent to author.

INDEX.

Abraham, Victor, 183.
Abraham, Joseph, 101-102.
Actors and Dramatists, 262-265.
Adler, Dankman, 258.
Adler, Felix, 341.
Adler, Max, 165
Adler, Samuel, 278.
Albany, N. Y., 116.
Allen, Mrs. Anna, 77.
Altman, Benj., 158.
Aronson, the Brothers, 262.
Arnold, Abraham B., 196.
Associations. 309.
Aub, Joseph, 197.
Augusta, Ga., 113.

B

Berkowitz, H., 291.
Bien, Julius, 199.
Binswanger, Isidore, 200.
Bloom, Adam E., 184.
Bloom, Nathan, 145.
Bloomingdale Bros., 158.
Blum, Leon & Hyman, 169, Blumenberg, Leopold, 131,
Blumenburg, M. A.. 268.
Blumenthal, Jos., 159.
Blumenthal, Mark, 201.
Blumenstiel, Alex., 227.
B'nai-Berith, Order of, 331.
Board of Delegates, 342.
Brentano, August, 262.
Brooklyn, First Synagogue, 335.
Buffalo, N. Y., 119.
Bush, Col. Solomon, 126.
Bush, Isidor, 201.

Baar, Herman, 197.
 Baer, Bernhard M., 184.
 Baltimore,

 " Early Settlers, 93.

 " First Sunday-school, 338.

 " Later Settlers, 100.

 " Merchants, 168.
 Bamberger, Bloom & Co., 145.
 Banco, Miriam, Del, 208.
 Bandman, Dan'l E., 263.
 Barnert, Nathan, 164.
 Barnett, Jonas, 135.
 Baruch, Simon, 197.
 Bauer, M., 183.
 Bendall, Dr. Herman, 182.
 Benjamin, Judah P., 177-178.
 Bettman, David, 161, Bettman, Jefferson, 198.
 Bettman, Bernhard, 170.

 Cahn, Mayer, 183.
 Cantor, Jacob A., 189.
 Cardoza, Michael H., 203.
 Carvalho, E. N., 266-279.
 Carvalho, David Nunes, 96.
 Carvalho, Solomon N., 203.
 Carvalho, Mrs. S. N., 338.
 Chicago, 105.
 Charleston, 53.

 " Ministers, 57.

 Cincinnati, 100.

 " Synagogue, 102.

 Cleveland, 104.

 " Institutions, 329,

 Cohen, David M., 133.
 Cohen, Edward, 149.
 Cohen, Emanuel, 204.

INDEX.

Cohen, Israel J., 94–

Cohen, Jacob Da S. S., 205.

Cohen, Jacob I., 85,

Cohn, Joseph, 267.

Cohen, Josiah, 205.

Cohen, Marx E., 60.

Cohen, Dr. Marx E., 137.

Cohen, Mendes, 258.

Cohen, Mordecai, 61.

Cohen, Nina Morais, 207.

Cohen, the family of, Balto., 94–96.

College Professors, 257.

Confederate Army, Officers in, 138.

Floersheim, O., 268.

Fox, Joseph, 149.

Frank, Isaac, 342.

Franks, Rebecca, 71.

Franks, David, 71–72.

Franks, family, 73.

Free Sons of Israel, Order of, 333.

Friedenwald, Aaron, 213,

Friedlander, Isaac, 146.

Frohman, Dan'l, 213.

Furth, Emanuel, 183.

D

De Cordova, Alfred, 207.

De Cordova, Rafael J., 261.

Davis, Joseph, 269.

De LaMotte, Capt. Jacob, 126.

De Leon, Capt. Jacob, 126.

Dessar, LeoC., 190.

Dessau, S. Henry, 209.

Detroit, Mich. 123.

Dittenhoefer, A. J., 209,

Dzialinsky, Morris, 184.

Galveston, Tex., 123.

" " merchants, 159-169.

Goldfogle, Henry M., 191.

Goldsmith, B., 183.

Goodhart, Morris, 214.

GotthieJ, Gustav, 282.

Gotthold, J. Newton. 265.

Gratz, Michael, and family, 75.

Gratz, Rebecca, 76-325.

Grau, Maurice, 264.

Greenebaum, Henry, 166.

Gutheim, James K., 307-308*

E

Easton, Pa., 82.

Ehrich, J. S., 159,

Ehrich, S. W., 159.

Ehrlich, Simon M., 191.

Eidlitz, Leopold, 258.

Einhorn, David, 280.

ElHnger, Moritz, 268.

Elsberg, Louis, 257.

Eisner, Henry L., 212.

Emanuel, Louis M., 129.

Etting, Reuben, 93.

Etting, Solomon, 93.

Eytinge, Rose, 264.

Ezekiel, David, 130.

Ezekiel, Moses J. 212.

Federal Army, Officers in, 130.
Feibleman, C. B., 182.
Feldman, Louis, 182.
Felsenthal, B., 281.
Fleischner, Col. Louis, 183.

H

Haberman, Frederick, 162.
Hackenburg, Wm. B., 215.
Hallgarten, Lazarus, and sons, 143
Harby, Isaac, 58.
Harby, Leah Cohen, 215.
Harby, Levi Myers, 136.
Harby, Samuel, 268.
Harby, Washington, 263.
Hart, Abraham, of Phil'da., 77.
Hart, Abraham, of Chicago, 167.
Hart, Bernard, 140.
Hart, Emanuel, B., 180.
Hart, Jacob, 93.
Hart, Miss Louisa B., 78.
Hart, Meyer, 82.
Hart Brothers, 167.
Hebrew Union College, 276.
Horwitz, Otto, 217.
Hayman, M. & B., 268.
Hays, Dan'l P., 216.
Hays, Jacob, 28-29.
Hays, the family, 29-33.
Heidelbach, Phillip, 143.
Heilprin, Angelo, 217.

INDEX.

349

Heilprin, Louis, 217.
Heilprin, Michael, 217.
Hendriclcs, Uriah and descendants, 16.
Henriques, Alexander, 141.
Herschel, Clemens, 258.

Hess, Jacob, 192.

Hirsch, Samuel, 302–303.

Hirsch, Edward, 184.

Hirsch, E. G. 281.

Hirsch, Solomon, 183,

Hirsh, Mason, 165.

Huebsch, Adolphus, 282,

Huff, Jacob A., 184.

Hunt, Emanuel, 88.

Hyams, Henry M., 177.

Hyneman, Herman, N., 218,

Hyneman, Leon, 341.

Kalisch, Leonard, 224.

KaHsch, Samuel, 225.

Kanter, Edward, 184.

Keller, David, 153.

Kempner, I., 169.

Kesher Shel Barzel, Order of, 332.

Keyser, Ephraim, 225.

Kleiner, Chas., 183.

Knefler, Frederick, 131.

Koch, Joseph, 192.

Kohler, Kaufman, 288.

Kohut, Alex., 289.

Krackowizer, Ernest, 264.

Krauskopf, Joseph, 291.

Krohn, Louis, 170.

Kursheedt, Asher, 161.

Kursheedt, Gershom, 92.

Kursheedt M'f'g Co., 161.

Indianapolis, no.

Institutions, 309.

Isaacs, Abram S., 219.

Isaacs, Myer S. 219.

Isaacs, Samson M., 174.

Isaacs, Samuel M., 284.

Isaacs, Ralph, 335.

Isaacks, Moses, 77.

Israels, Israel, 73.

Jacob, Ephraim A., 221.

Jacobi, Abraham, 221,

Jacobs, George, 284.

Jacobs, Henry S. , 285.

Jacobson, Sigisimund D., 222.

Jastrow, Marcus M., 286.

Jew Bill, the, 97.

Jewellers, 153.

Jewish Ministers' Association, 277.

Joachimsen, Caroline C, 222.

Joachimsen, Phillip J., 223.

Jonas, Benj. F., 188.

Jossefy,. Raphael, 258.

Journalists, 265–274.

Kalisch, Abner, 224.
Kalisch, Isidor, 286.

Lachman, Samson, 193.
Lagowitz, & Co., 162,
Lancaster, Pa., 78-82.

" Merchants last century, 80.

' ' Synagogue and Cemetery, 82

Lasker, M., 169.
Lauterbach, Edward, 225.
Lazarus, Emma, 260.
Lazarus, E. S., 25.
Lazard Freres, 145.
Lehman, Emanuel, 147.
Lehman, Mayer, 147.
Leon, Elias, 130.
Leeser, Isaac, 291.
Leipziger, Henry, M., 226.
Levin, Louis, C, 176-177.
Levy, Louis P., 137.
Levy, Jefferson M., 134.
Levy, Capt. J. P., 135.
Levy, Uriah P., 134.
Levi, Jos. C, 227.
Levy, Ferdinand, 193.
Levy, Hayman, 14-15.
Lilienthal, Jesse W., 227.
Lilienthal, Max., 294.
Lilienthal, Samuel, 228.
Loeb, Moritz, 266.
Loeb, Solomon, 148.
Lopez, Aaron, 35,
Lovenstein, Wm , 180.
Lowenstein, B. and brother, 170-171.
Luria (Moses), Albert, 339.
Lyons, Jacques J., 295.

350

INDEX.

M

Mack, M. J., 170.
Marshall, Louis, 229.
Marx, Henry C-, 25.

Mayer, Constant, 229.
 Mayer, Marcus R., 250.
 Mayer, S. I., 165.
 Mayer, Strouse & Co., 165.
 Memphis, Tenn., 122.
 Mendes, F. de Sola, 296.
 Mendes, Henry P., 298.
 Mendes, Isaac P., 296.
 Menken, N. D., 172.
 Menken & Co., 171.
 Messing, Mayer, 300.
 Michelson, Albert A., 132.
 Minis, the family of, 49.
 Mitchell, Abraham, 127.
 Mobile, III.
 Moise, Penima, 59.
 Moore, J. S., 232.
 Morals, Henry S., 231.
 Morais, Sabato, 230.
 Morange, Benj. and family, 26.
 Morange, Henry M., 26.
 Mordecai, Major A., 129-133.
 Morris, Nelson, 166.
 Morse, Godfrey, 233.
 Morse, Leopold, 188.
 Moses, Adolph, 233.
 Moses, Franklin J., 179-180.
 Moses, Joshua, 128.
 Moses, Israel, 128.
 Moses, Isaac, 70, 71-128.
 Moses, Joseph, 129.
 Moses, M. L., 182.
 Moses, Myer, 127.
 Moses, Raphael J., 180.
 Mosler, Henry, 234.
 Muck, Henry, 183.
 Muhr, H. and sons, 154.
 Musicians, 258-260.
 Myers, Mordecai, 127.
 Myers, Nathan, 234.
 Myers, S. F., 153.
 Myers, Theo. W., 194,

 Nones, Solomon B., 174.
 Nones, family of, 135.
 Newark, N. J., 122.

 " merchants, 163.
 New Haven, Conn., 121.
 Newman, Leopold C., 129.
 New Orleans, 89.

Institutions, 323.

Congrega'n, 1828, 338.
33-34-

Newport
New York,

Aguilar Free Library, 318.
Bankers, 139-140.
Butchers, 156-157.
Capital leading lines, 157.
Cemetery, 43.
Cigar manufacturers, 156.
Clothing Trade, 151.
Early Settlers, 3.
First Congregation, i8.
Hebrew Free School, 320.
Hebrew Theatre, 344.
Home for Aged, 316.
Institutions, 323.
Jewish Theol. Sem., 322.
Jewelry merchants, 153.
Maimonides Library ,319.
Merchants, last century, 17.
Montefiore Home, 313-314.
Mt. Sinai Hospital, 312.
Mutual Benefit Society, 321.
Orphan Asylum, 310-312.
Real Estate Holders, 157.
Sheltering G'rd'n Sc, 315.
Stock Ex., members, 140.
Technical Institute, 317.
Temple Emanu-El, 27.
Tobacco merchants, 154.
Various trades, 152.

0

Office holders, 184-185.
Oppenheimer, Seligman, 153.
Otterbourg, Marcus, 185.

N

Naar, David, 265.
Noah, Mordecai, M., 26-174.
Nones, Abraham B., 174.
Nones, Major Benj., 126.
Nones, Joseph B., 135.

Peixotto, Benj. F., 235-269.
Peixotto, Dr. D. L. M., 22.
Peixotto, Geo. D. M., 239.
Philadelphia.

■• Congrega'n in 1782, 337.

INDEX.

351

Philadelphia, Early Settlers, 62.

" Former Merchants, 75.

" Institutions, 323-329,

Phillips, Emanuel J., 135.
Phillips, Henry M., 175.
Phillips, Isaac, 180.
Phillips, Morris, 241.
Phillips, the family, 75.
Pike, Samuel N., 146.
Pittsburg, 109
Plant, L. S. &Co., 163.
Platzek, Warley, 242.
Portland, Oregon, 115, Press, the Hebrew, 269-274.
Proskauer, Adolph, 138.
Pulitzer, Joseph and Albert, 267.

R.

Ranger, Morris, 147.
Raphall, Morris J., 300-301.
Rayner, Isidore, 188.
Reinstine, Alex, 183.
Richmond, Va., 83-86.

Former citizens, 87-88.

'* Ministers at, 84.

" Theatre Fire, 86.

Rochester, N. Y., 117.

" " Institutions, 330.

Riviera, Jacob R., 36.

Rosendale, S. W., 243.

Rosenthal, Julius, 244.

Rosenthal, Lewis, 244.

Rosenthal, Toby, 245.

Rosnosky, Isaac, 183.

S.

Schloss, Philip, 182.

Scholle Bros., 145.

Schwab Chas., 167.

Schwabe, L. B., 247.

Schweitzer, Bernhard, 182.

Seasongood, Lewis, 143-145.

Seixas, Rev. G. M., 16-19,

Seligman Brothers, 141.

Seligman. DeWitt J., 247.

Seligman, Edwin R. A., 248.

Seligman, Joseph, 174.

Selz, Schwab & Co., 166.

Sheftall, the family, 49-50,

Shoninger, Bernard, 164.

Shroder, Jacob, 195.

Simon, Edward & Co., 162.

Simon, Joseph, 184.

Simon, Joseph and family, 78-82.

Soils, Jacob S., 309.

Soils, Solomon, 325.

Sons of Benjamin, Order of, 333.

Sonneschein, Solomon H., 301-302.

Soldiers' Cemetery, 340.

Solomons, A. S., 248.

Sommer, H. B., 264.

Steckler, Alfred, 195.

Sterne, Simon, 249.

Stern Brothers, 160.

Stern, Simon H., 249.

Stettheimer, Joseph, 161.

Strasburg, Sallie, 258.

Strasburger, Louis, 154.

Straus, L., & Sons, 160.

Straus, Oscar S., 186-187.

Strouse, Abr., 165.

Sulzberger, Mayer, 252.

Sutro, Adolph, 257.

Szold, Benjamin, 303.

St. Louis, 106, 108.

Salomon, Ezekiel, 92.

Salomon, Haym M., 24.

Salomon, Haym, 66-70.

Salomon. R. G., 162-3.

San Francisco, 114.

" " Early Settlers, 336.

*' " Merchants, 168,

" " Institutions, 331.

Sanger, Adolph L., 245.

Savannah, 45.

" Synagogue, 48, 50, 51-52.

" Merchants, 167.

Scheftel, Adolph, 148.

Schiff, Jacob H., 148.

Thalmessinger, M., 150.

Tim, Wallerstein & Co., 168.

Touro, Rev. Isaac, and family, 39.

Touro, Judah, 90-92.

W.

Waldstein, Charles, 257.

Waldstein, Martin E., 252.

Walter, Philip, 184.

Walter, Miss Josephine, 258.

352

INDEX.

Washington, D. C, 124.

Wasserman, Philip, 183.

Weil, Joseph, 146.

Weil, Max, 146.

Weil, Paul, 182.

Weil, Samuel, 182,

Weill, Solomon C, 252.

West Point graduates, 133.

Wilmington, N. C, 113.

Wintner, Leopold, 304.
Wolf, Simon, 253,
Wolff, Alfred R., 258.
Woolf, M. A. 262.
Wolffe, Frederick, 256.
Woolf, Benj. E., 262.

Wise, Aaron, 305.

Wise, Isaac M., 270, 306–307.

Wormser Brothers, 143.

Yulee, David L., 180.

Zeisler, Joseph, 256.
Zunder, Maier, 183.

^ °

^ °^

'^ e ts » ""^

G^ ^

<d' Q^

^ . -^ 0 . X ■* .^^ <^^ ^ 0 , V

: ""^0^

^^^°_

9p/–)

–s ,^^^ –^ .

$$\bullet \theta^{\wedge} \quad s^{\wedge}$$

$$Q^{\wedge} \quad =$$

$$0 \quad " <^{\wedge\wedge} " ,^{\wedge\wedge}$$

$$- <^{\wedge}$$

$$V \quad ^{\wedge}$$

$$'C' .$$

$$#$$

$$\wedge\wedge\wedge \quad ^{\wedge}$$

French

English

Full text of " Jewish America "

See other formats

Pierre-Antoine Cousteau

JEWISH AMERICA

Editions of

lepilon@gawab.coni

BEGIN PGP PUBLIC KEY BLOCK

Version: GnuPG v1, 4, 6 (MingW32)

```
mQGi BEWz4ckRBACp2dj vCj RTI p9zSuHCoEFNCEJ POGbtl xOZ+Cb6gmull na9GmZl 2rwcMp71si 05D5YwTRlrxUHYFu/wYv2DI t HAc02u2rcKeTXmCCzVDdj i o+AvrwXx
ZLqL cLMmUl Or RW2kUhm8DmvAwUuME0puQr KZwnR4+8f X/ Qc UGJ aKt 7ATFwCgx4Lv VHsVnZEPEQ07mtLI bFhvJ IsD/Ai 5F/kpGi Of p/SvrWryD05S0oAypUj xu+eML/8f o5t DgDI ByTmwTqUDqL I nj Lr sc 7VKWF7HnxSnUI c GEy pSc ZPgzeCC0 7m5gs XNKqi B abPVs0yR9CYc0Fk9Yt SWkj 7M8t4wgxsj f rSqCK4CI OhmBGzKpl nt +J ZFxBzHI f CZ rcrtiHBACUXSTFyvli Ga 2dN7ePWRWuL3+zty MPhAF EkJ N13ai 9YM/ UeU/ dQK9s hi ix 018ceAhUA2DFtAt9Xhnf gYVvJ m7sw0UzzcZCWA9gZVqG8dRnq0euUERj Q7RHS0EJ yE47qat ShkALetNULOAwCsxNVi QraxLSLrti 2vDNVEj Tl f hdZrQI RWRpdGI vbnMg ZHUgcGI sb24gPGxL cGI sb25AZ2F3YWI uY2 9t PohgBBMRAGAgBQJ Fs +HJ Ahs DBgsJ
CACDAgQVAggDBBYCAwECHgECF4AACgkQETGAI f di L3EHPwCf a/ bGc o59i qcTI q0A
J VWhri 6 0GKwAn3oyMI XZ8+mLY3C/ Ti F AbAI B5vu5uQMNBEWz 4eAQDADLQX+Rs z bM mnEM009z5PJ L9k4Wf 8uql wVdLT74F3pf 4E8AGfTLvai oj Q0J Xe+bj GpeQKl0MHAX
99r2i T7VWbgl+Sz7vYgCw0WoGG/t nLeuGQd2yf zmnq9ZpYg99j I YkqNNCLJ 5ZYVz
61KP9NUf obj j Oj pNpl RyRtYBSeBDej mFRQ0m+hnFI Al lZYDN59t Zf 8xGBd7VRvne
PLUCj i aj lwQSQ3wwFRYe3qkl p4QuA9oZr2sS9EXFV5j EDLqoeXdvaykr67ttdsRw
5nH15WpPnrydPrMt LuzByGplbmhaxf RuJ f DI poZZAkckKpLHUdRyANttYGxMXzA9 PSI TqMUL I h7cyBwkLggNxNv7roi Vj 2yZQotqwyU20W8zWsl EQYepewzU7bH4Wbf N
f sSdqpWhSFbpvhVm/orClvhSyYxJ Wl 45j bj Bsn70qJ Nj mWn2aHI C7mj sAAwUMAI LS 3/UyhFwl NFj If u88CWf U/gCbnVI quAaj h2FdwYz nWm+Rd8mTj uoLYVI m3aoz qXJ B x8RSFgYluEzglbJ h476X9/zZSvSlFS/ 5+ci
i I cHi f SOI i 30s5vHSWj NHPn/ I dxFVq/ +91 LFC0f AVECDI ri 6CJ FF6Q/uW7wzelar
FARd0Ucmv8NAz71Syl 72Bs0UUZbpV0mxNvh0pqB3bL+f 01 2Y4Bs 8q6r 0FPi rt HdL
Hlg+5 69mbTDCxDLZzl xkZJ j sql 13Pf y4SRKhRohmWh3rBh3aj wqFMw0BgVZi 81Po / 2WBZvOp45WAEpY0i 7 80J J Xj yCA0i RBgKG/l wj IxPSs0n0ymCLGqi LqOpFnzDPvp lbTwF8i R9I jf 4aRG/7ef AUhn+w7AYkUzxahpqabqLB/ 2DwmB53gDe7l I /Me/xUi 5
UYgNdI hYuzkUMHpegci GLaSeB/ Ve0CV + Lg6maHyCsFpwj I dNN + l OkF0s6ns8 8YhJ
BBgRAGAJ BOJ Fs +HgAhs MAaOJ EBExGJ X3Yi 9xPb8An0043r ql ZpeCWpr j uhi z I 7aj
8 8CRAJ 9 3qzzx4+Zt Pv9VME0DhSz2Gcqlg= =
```

=jgg3

END PGP PUBLISH C KEY BLOCK

Notice to the reader

This edition is subject to possible updates (typos, mistakes) spelling, text formatting, etc.);
Don't hesitate to download as you go.
corrections to the latest re-edition.

Cover freely inspired by a drawing by Mariali:
<http://w41k.org/?id=MARIALI&m=Home>

Pierre-Antoine Cousteau

JEWISH AMERICA

1

Xílon Editions

May 2007

Original edition: Les Éditions de France

PARIS

THE FRENCH EDITIONS

20, Avenue Rapp, VIP

1942

TO MY COMRADES IN COMBAT

OF

"I Am Everywhere"

CHAPTER ONE

THE AMERICAN MIRAGE

Jewish Americans are famously stupid,
Appallingly stupid, look at Roosevelt, Otto Khan, Morgenthau, Filène, Barush, Rosenthal... Look at these idiots...

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(The School for Corpses.)

There's an American mirage. It's a very old mirage, a phenomenon of visual aberration that dies hard. For two hundred years, for For different and often contradictory reasons, America fascinates people of the old world.

It was first and foremost the homeland of the "noble" savage philosophers who spread torrents of tears and practiced natural morality under the ecstatic gaze of Pangloss from the Encyclopedia.

Then came the "sacred ground of liberty." When, thanks to the soldiers of the king of
In France, the insurgents had forced the English to carry out their traditional
As they re-embarked, our "great ancestors" let out great cries of joy.
for the first time, men emancipated from monarchical superstitions they undertook to govern themselves, by the people, for the people...

At the same time, it justified the political daydreams of the through its institutions
For European eccentrics, America offered to all the unfortunate, to all the bankrupt, to the bad boys who have escaped the gallows and to the fanatics in search of virtue Biblical, wonderful prospects of revenge or escape. This was the land unlimited possibilities, cleared criminal records, a gold rush, and the uncle with the inheritance.

Then came the paradise of technology and machines, of perfection.
industrial, high wages, assembly line work and cars for all.

Even today, it is towards America that all those who European upheavals have plunged into disarray all those who have not understood the profound meaning of our revolution and who, lacking imagination, cling pathetically to worn-out myths, to old recipes, to the ludicrous hope of impossible miracles: America will give us back our bread, the Peace, freedom, and Pernod for Arthur. We believe in Roosevelt, the infallible one, the All-powerful, like children believe in Santa Claus. With the same faith, but without The same excuses.

10 JEWISH AMERICA

Because if America once symbolized the new order, if it was during For a long time a refuge and an example, if its institutions and its prosperity have Identified with the notion of progress, all of this has ceased to be true.

America today is nothing more than a reactionary nation where outdated values, the Taylorism of 1848 industrial prisons and the The empty rhetoric of the 1848 generation, reminiscent of democratic platforms. She is like prodigies who astonished their family before they even knew how to write, and whose Development abruptly stops at puberty. In the middle of the 20th century, with its giant houses, its aerodynamic locomotives and its millions of engines, America is as archaic as a Jeffersonian speech. It has allowed itself Overtaken by events. Like the old Austrian monarchy, like The Türkiye of the sultans, it ceased to march to the rhythm of the century, it is perpetually one idea or one army behind: a brilliant facade riddled with enormous cracks that no longer even conceal the outdated bric-a-brac of dead illusions.

Undoubtedly, the high standard of living enjoyed by a segment of the American population is prolonging the mirage. But what merit is there in reaching a certain level of prosperity when all you have to do is bend down to pick up oil, gold, iron, Coal? In a country where natural resources are abundant, it is It is inevitable that the least gifted individuals will reap at least a few crumbs.

American prosperity is not a consequence of political principles Americans, nor American genius. This prosperity was built, it must be said, Despite the Americans. The men were free to act as they pleased, without a plan. director, without social obligations, without state constraints, they exploited the the country's resources absolutely at random and the famous Yankee efficiency translated above all as a gigantic waste. The pioneers deforested wrongly and across; they have destroyed the forests most essential to the regulation of the flow of the major rivers which now overflow in the spring with a Catastrophic violence. The farmers are using methods that would have made the People of our Middle Ages. When a plot of land is exhausted, we will sow a little more far away, without considering crop rotation or restoring the soil's fertility. The country vast... As for the cattle, they raise themselves on the immense plains of the Far West.

The same anarchy exists in industry, where the plutocrats of the trusts practice a learned Malthusianism. It's not about manufacturing what the Americans have as needed, but what can be sold profitably. If necessary, production is reduced.

In the mining sector, oil wells are being put on hold.

No rational organization of the internal conquest, no effort to to distribute common wealth equitably. On land that could ensure normal resources for five hundred million human beings, one hundred and twenty-five Millions of men and women live in perpetual insecurity, and eleven or twelve million unemployed, plus their families, had nothing to live on from 1929 until the war, the meager allowances of a private government of imagination and audacity.

The extraordinary thing is not that many Yankee workers enjoy a Their relative comfort stems from the fact that their standard of living is only slightly workers in impoverished nations, it is because they do not know opulence five times larger, and than in the land of overproduction, of men, by the millions, be reduced to destitution.

JEWISH AMERICA 11

From a material and social point of view, the failure is complete. Nothing to correct, not tempers the abominable law of the jungle of economic liberalism. From the point of view politics, even nothingness: rigid, sclerotic institutions, totally unsuitable for to provide sound solutions to the problems of the modern world, which have run dry American idealism corrupted the people and drove the youth towards an exclusive cult. gangsterism and finance, which condemn America to impotence, which They condemn it to the worst catastrophes.

Now that America has entered the war, there is no longer any doubt possible. This war, however, was not a surprise to the people of Washington. They had wanted it with tenacious fanaticism. In two years, they had They had plenty of time to prepare. But the first cannon shots... plunged into complete disarray and revealing to the world the extent of their debility American. In a few weeks, the Yankees were swept from the Pacific. deprived of all their bases, dispossessed of the trading posts and fortresses of which they had marked out the Far East. Their allies were crushed without being able to even to make a gesture of assistance. Their terrible fleet, of combat, has vanished. Their ships were attacked and destroyed by German submarines at proximity to their territorial waters. The English and Russians implore in vain a material that Americans are unable to manufacture for themselves in Sufficient quantity. In the words of Mr. Abel Bonnard, Roosevelt is reduced to... promising himself the planes he had been promising to everyone else for the past two years antifascists of the earth.

And if that is the case, if this nation, which had the material possibility of becoming the most powerful in the world and to serve as an example to the universe, gives, in all the areas, the demonstration of a resounding failure, is because it is a Democracy. And to make matters worse, a Jewish democracy.

Thus everything is explained, everything becomes clear. One cannot understand anything at America, if one does not perpetually keep in mind this explanation which is the common thread of the American tragedy.

American failures are democratic failures.

The American abomination is the Jewish abomination.

Nothing else, nothing more, but nothing less.

Such a destiny, moreover, did not have the character of fate. Certainly, the United States was founded by rambling philosophers, but the country could have been to free itself, as it developed, from the burden of the "immortals" principles." He was prevented from doing so. In the history of the United States, the war of Secession has a decisive importance, far more important than the Declaration of Rights. It was at this time that the regime was confirmed. Democratic, it was the victory of the Northerners that condemned America to become mired and definitively stuck in the democratic rut, which prevented him from seeking other solutions or even being tempted to imagine them.

Then, when democracy was firmly established, the Jews only had to appear so that the country would surrender to them. And they accomplished this most easily in the world to plunder America, to defile it, to pervert it. Just as the presence of Blum at the head of the French government is the logical consequence of '89 and '48, likewise the easy conquest of America by the Jews. This cannot be explained without the Civil War. Lincoln did not only liberate the Negroes. He prepared the camps for the Jewish invader. He put his country in its weakened state, it was offered up, defenseless, to covetousness, to the unbridled passions of the chosen people.

12 JEWISH AMERICA

CHAPTER II

THE CRUSHING OF CIVILIZED MEN

Yet another truly prodigious flop, this famous barrier of American breeds... But, wait a minute! I'm going to tell you my turn. To tell a little about the future: one day, the Jews will throw the blacks, their brothers, their shock troops on the last white "executives," they will reduce them, all drunkards, to Slavery. Harlem will be the "white" neighborhood. The Black people They'll go and see, they'll make the white people dance for them, the "white ball".

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(Trifles for a massacre.)

Long before the Boston colonials revolted against the king from England (over a sordid matter of a tea tax that the lawyers (idealized after the fact), two perfectly distinct forms of civilization were drawing on the new continent.

The North was hardworking, democratic, egalitarian, puritanical, and preachy. It was directly inspired by those "Pilgrim Fathers" whom the Mayflower had brought. formerly from Holland, after their fanatical proselytism had made them Undesirable first in Scotland, then in the easygoing Netherlands. These pioneers They were rugged men: they had cleared the land by quoting the Bible. truly despised the goods of this world. Their sons, on the other hand, were not long in co They didn't develop a taste for wealth. They began frantically earning dollars, but without thereby abandoning the virtuous vocabulary of their ancestors, nor the outward signs of austerity. And the new immigrants, poor wretches. more or less outlaws in their countries of origin, found it convenient, to to regain a judicial virginity, to double down on the rigor of the first occupants.

The Yankees viewed them with extreme distrust, if not outright hostility towards everything that came from Europe; men and things, ideas and Customs. They considered everything that embellished life to be frivolous and contemptible everything that made her likeable or simply bearable: the most innocent as well as libertine entertainments, art in all its forms, theatre and literature on the same level as the joys of the table or of the alcove. And above all, they did not tolerate the slightest hierarchy – except that of money – the slightest superiority of talent or intellect. Their

14 JEWISH AMERICA

Grandfathers had emigrated out of resentment against "Babylonian" customs. From the old world, their fathers had fought with weapons in hand against the "despot" from London. They considered themselves, on their virgin land, a chosen people. receiving directly from the Almighty the revelation of wisdom and the material reward for their virtue. Under these conditions, why bother Traditions? Traditions were hateful. They could only be a A useless or harmful burden, Satan's legacy. Only personal merit mattered. And this merit could inevitably only be measured in dollars. It is in the It was in New England that this now widespread habit originated. the forty-eight states to judge an individual only on the basis of their success material and to give success a moral significance. If a man wins Money is because God is with him, and if God is with him, it's because He's fair.

Through their recruitment and their philosophical training, the Northerners were at both predisposed to carefully maintain democratic prejudices and to

to have only the worship of the dollar.

The South was very different. Life there was pleasant and easy, adorned with all the aristocratic graces of the 18th century. Certainly, money was not despised there, but This was not, south of the Dixie Line, the only title of nobility. Southerners were very proud to have as ancestors "respectable" emigrants who had not been neither unwelcome missionaries nor adventurers hunted by the courts of Europe.

Socially, a poor planter whose family had put down roots and whose son knew that he was behaving like a gentleman and was in a much more enviable position. than a happy speculator.

On the other hand, the people of the South maintained close contact with their homelands. of their origins. They preserved their customs and traditions. The girls copied their dresses on those of the ladies of the French court and the boys went off to Oxford or Paris to complete their studies and, above all, acquire that veneer of politeness which is the prerogative of refined civilizations.

In the South, owning a library was no laughing matter. Leisure activities were not considered a mortal sin. From plantation to plantation, one multiplied the opportunities to meet, friends or relatives were invited, would then keep them for entire days, sometimes weeks, going to great lengths to to imagine for them pleasant entertainments in the style of the Trianon of Marie Antoinette.

Furthermore, people in the South only half-heartedly accepted democracy. because it was fashionable, because at the time, especially in America, it would have been. It's inconceivable to attack the "immortal principles" head-on. But deep down... They were, of their own accord, won over to the ideas of authority. This was clearly seen in war. While Lincoln was getting lost in parliamentary intrigues in Washington, while he was wasting his time in subcommittee chatter and changing generals in chief as if in his shirt to satisfy influential voters, the Southerners accepted immediately, without discussion, the principle of dictatorship and allowed the President Davis was completely free to conduct the affairs of the Confederation.

JEWISH AMERICA 15

Finally, there were elements of a racist doctrine in the Southern states. Let's be clear: today, all Americans are racist as soon as they It's about yellow or black, but that's a defensive reflex, an attitude individual that philosophers and legislators disavow and that citizens They hardly dare admit it. Practically speaking, you don't marry a Black woman and you don't sit at the same table as a Black person. Officially, the most distressing pickled delicacies of our 18th century have become, thanks to the victory of Northerners, the spirit of American laws: all men are equal, all 'All men are equal'. We can see all the advantages that the Jews can derive from such a state of mind to infiltrate among people whose instinctive racism is limited to the skin color and which nevertheless remain, theoretically, doctrinaires of anti-racism^.

It was only in the Southern states, before the debacle of 1864, that people took a position marked by an absence of hypocrisy, of which no trace remains today. The South, racist in practice, was not ashamed to be so openly, frankly. As soon as Once the Confederation had been formed, the vice-president of the new state hastened to proclaim:

The dominant idea of Jefferson and most prominent statesmen at the moment in the drafting of the old constitution was that slavery Africans is a violation of the law by nature. Our new government is built on a completely opposite idea; its foundations are laid, its stone Angular rests on the great truth that the Negro is not equal to man white; that slavery, subordination to the superior race, is his condition natural and normal. Our new government is the first in history of the world that is based on this great physical, philosophical and Morality. The architecture of our society is made of the material deemed necessary. by nature; and from experience we know that it is better not only for the superior race, but also for the inferior race, so be it.

There is no doubt that if they had won the war, people who professed The great modern theory of racial inequality would have been able to boldly assert itself. to defend against a peril far more formidable than the Negro peril: the Jewish invasion.

They were given neither the time nor the means. One of the two Americas was to Too much. Since the beginning of the 19th century, the gap between North and South had wid The incompatibility of temperament was too obvious for the exchanges to break down sooner Bittersweet remarks don't escalate into open conflict. Things However, they could have remained as they were for a long time longer, because that was in of the two adversaries to continue to be part of the same economic unit, if, Towards the middle of the century, this dispute over trends had not been aggravated by a a dispute over money. From then on, the Yankees forgot that the constitution had been writ The founders of the Republic intended to preserve the independence of the States and leave them free, within the federal framework, to govern themselves as they see fit. Being stronger, they did not hesitate to interpret the constitution in their own way, to to impose by force both their economic dictatorship and their philosophy of existence. When we are told, at school, that slavery was the cause and the stake

1 In principle, of course. In practice, the laws governing immigration favour Nordics to the detriment of Mediterraneans and Slavs considered to belong to inferior races. But this is a form of discrimination that the anti-racist Roosevelt did not boast about.

16 JEWISH AMERICA

They're shamelessly mocking us for the Civil War. The war of Secession was a tariff war. Nothing more. The North was The South was protectionist, the South free-trade oriented. The North had rapidly industr He needed strong protection for his manufactured goods. The South, in the

On the contrary, since he lived off his cotton exports, he found it more advantageous to keep his machines and fabrics sold in the European countries where he marketed his harvest. Forced to submit to the law of numbers, the South repeatedly threatened to withdrawing from the Union. That would have been a catastrophe for Yankee businessmen: they would have lost both immense commercial opportunities and access to the sea by the Mississippi – the old man river – whose control is essential to the Prosperity of the Midwest. Each time a more or less satisfactory compromise allowed the conflict to be temporarily postponed. Year after year, however, the quarrel was becoming more acute, the secession more threatening. And it was quite obvious that the Northerners would never accept a divorce, that they would go as far as war, if necessary, to maintain the Union and retain their customers. Only, one A war over tariffs isn't something you can easily admit to. It's much more shining with the proclamation that one is fighting for human fraternity, for rights, the justice, liberty, democracy and the liberation of slaves. The emancipation of slaves was the Yankees' alibi.

In doing so, the plutocrats of the North were not lacking in audacity. For they themselves engaged in the slave trade; they had given to slavery, in the subtle and ferocious form it has retained to this day in the liberal countries.

In the North, indeed, just as in the South, there was an urgent need for labor force. But the descendants of the first settlers who had cleared the countries had turned away from the work, becoming industrialists or bankers. manuals, and, on the other hand, the use of black slaves had proven disappointing. Transplanted blacks were too expensive to maintain, their productivity was meager, They could not easily withstand the harsh climate, so they were freed. But, to fill this gap, they had started importing from Europe in large quantities. compact, "free" workers.

A new breed of recruiting sergeants were scouring the dunes of Ireland or from the Balkans, rounded up the poor wretches by the hundreds of thousands and the shipped to America, in the steerage of ocean liners, equipped with a meager provisions and extravagant promises. Upon their arrival, these outcasts, who, for the Most of them didn't speak English and were completely unable to defend themselves. they had to endure exactly all the conditions imposed by their employers: twelve or fourteen hours of work per day for a salary that barely allowed them to not to die of hunger. The fate of these unfortunate white people was worse than that of the official slaves, because in case of illness the master was in no way obliged to provide for their subsistence and there was naturally no question of paying them for their Old age, the smallest pension.

It is striking to note that none of the tribunes who thundered with such fervor Vehement opposition to the barbarity of slavery in the Southern states does not seem to have worried about the fate of the immigrants who were being unloaded every week, in droves boats, on the docks of New York or Boston. Better still, these same tribunes have were often the most zealous in proclaiming that the right to strike (after all it was the only recourse for these unfortunate people) would have been an abominable violation of sacred to the business world.

Comparatively, the actual slaves on the cotton plantations were much better treated. Over time, around the 1960s, slavery had Humanized, it had become patriarchal.

Southerners obviously did not treat their slaves as their equals – they were all too aware of their superiority – but with a a familiar condescension, not without sympathy. For the most part, Moreover, they had been raised by one of those buxom, ebony grannies and tyrannical, who assumed in each household the importance of the old man's wet nurses Spanish repertoire. They knew the Black people, they knew how to speak to them, their To inspire trust. Very few abused their power. Hatred Race hatred, in any case, was a completely unknown sentiment. This hatred did not take root birth that later, after emancipation, after, that the "idealists" of Washington had unleashed the civil war.

And then slavery gradually disappeared. No one imagined obviously to make the freedmen the political equals of white men, but profound reforms were underway which aimed to improve the lot of blacks without compromising social balance.

If the liberation of slaves had been the sole ambition of the Northerners, it is It's certain that the war of 1960 wouldn't have happened. Nevertheless, that's the pretext which the pious Pharisees of the North invoked.

The conflict lasted four long years. It was the fiercest, the most deadly during the wars of the 19th century. The Southerners resisted to the very end. fiercely fighting one against four, defending with magnificent heroism every a square inch of their territory. At President Davis's call, the entire country had erected. Whereas, in the North, conscription only reached a percentage relatively small part of the population, in the South, all men of age Families bearing arms enlisted in the ranks of the Confederate army. entire groups donned the uniform, as has been seen since in the Catholic Navarre, where old men and teenagers rushed headlong into battle for to save Spain from Bolshevism, leaving behind large deserted villages.

There was nothing sordid about this resistance. These were not their privileges. The "feudal" values that the Southerners were defending were their homes, their honor, the freedoms, their philosophy of life. Ah! The quarrel of Slavery, so forgotten that the Union congress did not recall the Negro question only after two years of war. Even then, he didn't vote for the law that made everyone a slave free men and citizens only for reasons of propaganda and strategy, in order to satisfy the "universal conscience" and to attempt to provoke insurrections in the Southern states. But this second The objective was not achieved. The Black soldiers who took part in this war were significantly more numerous in the southern ranks than in the ranks northerners.

Finally, overwhelmed by their numbers, reviled by the entire world that had allowed itself to take to heart the fable of generous northern idealism, deprived of weapons and ammuniti

Reduced to the most appalling famine by the blockade, the Confederates capitulated. And then the Northerners began to exploit their victory savagely. Not only the

18 JEWISH AMERICA

Southerners were deprived of their political rights, not only were they their property was confiscated (under the pretext that they could no longer pay taxes) and Yankee settlers were installed in their place, but even then, they were forced to do the bayonets, local and "freely" elected governments composed only illiterate blacks manipulated by rapacious adventurers, the carpet baggers. It is unprecedented for a defeated nation to have been physically annihilated with such method and refinement. Once upon a time, conquerors passed by their victims by the sword. One might find this method more humane than the methods of Yankee "reconstruction".

The Southern states never recovered from this debacle, and above all, never America has not regained its balance nor the means to justify expectations. which had given rise to its first stirrings. Civilized America traditionalist, humane, authoritarian, hierarchical, the one who held power over the The seeds of fascism were assassinated. The other America triumphed, that of the aggressive puritans, ironmasters, and democratic gibberish. Wonderful dung offered to the Jewish invasion. From all the ghettos of Europe and From the East, the raptors with hooked toes would rush to the feeding frenzy.

It was around 1890 that the Jews launched their expeditions to the New World. The first waves of assault. In less than half a century the conquest was complete. All of America was in their hands.

CHAPTER III

THE PROMISED LAND

Louis XIV was a very minor figure in terms of victories. next to Felix M. Warburg of New York.

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(Trifles for a massacre.)

While sorting through old papers after my return from captivity, I found a Damning document: the yearbook of the American high school DeWitt Clinton High School school, where I spent nine months of my childhood in 1921. I had forgotten this interlude. Or rather, I only retained a rather vague memory of it as a holiday transatlantic crossings, baseball games on the bare grass of the squares, wanderings with young thugs in knickerbockers who had the look of

"Angels of Hell," and also the haunting memory of those atrocious evenings when I tried to translating from Latin to English and from English to Latin, knowing almost nothing about one, and the other language.

The De Witt Clinton high school yearbook came back to life in me, twenty years later. the image of my little friends. Because they were photographed extensively, my little friends. There's the group of top students, the group of players of saxophone, the philatelists' group, the "good stories" club, the swimming champions, police officers, football players, nature lovers, Lawyers, amateur reporters, the radio club... All these photos are Excellent, ruthlessly clear. All except one, the preparation one. military, which features – naturally! – only Aryans, are photos of ghetto. They sum up America. They are America.

I confess, to my great embarrassment: in 1921, I absolutely did not have it Understood, I hadn't suspected the drama unfolding before my eyes, nor the lessons that I could have learned from it, far more valuable than the knowledge of some passages from Midsummer Night's Dream or Cicero's ovations. My classmates were called Samuel Asofsl, Alfred Baum, Nathan Beckenstein, Berkovitz, Bernstein, Jacob Cohen, Nathan Cohen, Morris Cohen, Eisenstein, Eliasberg, etc., etc. The orchestra was conducted by Rapaport, the troupe of theatre by Bercovici, the rugby team by Lévy, baseball by Samuels, the Football was handled by Boulotchnick, tennis by Neuberger. Rosenthal was in charge of the library and Rosenbaum of the Economics Club. Aaron Oesterreicher had the in charge of the refectory and Oppenheim of the internal police. I'm not making this up, I terminal for copying my old phone book...

20 JEWISH AMERICA

Professors named Salomon or Goldbloom told us seriously, that America is populated by Anglo-Saxons and that "our ancestors" had taught the world about freedom, after having rebelled against the king in 1776 from England and cleared an empire. It was no less outlandish than the classic History lesson for the little black children of Senegal: "Our ancestors, the Gauls..." But This humor escaped me. I didn't realize that my classmates were Jewish, that the school was Jewish, that New York was a Jewish metropolis, that the entire country was under Jewish control. Everything that instinctively shocked me everything against which my Aryan adolescent reflexes rebelled, I did not I didn't understand, I couldn't understand that it wasn't Americanism. but Judaism triumphant. My excuse is that I was fourteen years old and that No one had ever bothered to open my eyes to Jewish reality...

Who, for that matter, could have informed me? It was the time when dozens French migrant writers periodically discovered America with loud cries of ecstasy. They were discovering everything in America: elevators! dizzying, refrigerators, chewing gum, gangsters, sex appeal, bars automatic slaughterhouses, five and ten cents, the Taylor system and petting parts. Everything except the essentials, except the Jews. Some were pushing their consciences professional, even noting in passing that there was in New York a "A large Israelite community." But they said this in a slightly detached tone.

and discreet, as if it were a finding of secondary importance, with as much composure as when noting the charm of Californian young ladies and the allure of speakeasies.

However, they never forgot to talk at length about Black people, about The Negro invasion, the Negro peril! As if this peril existed! The Negroes even if they were two, three, four times more numerous than that, it would not present any danger to the Aryan community, since, on this point, all Americans are aware of the need to protect the white race. It matters little that Thirty out of forty-eight states prohibit mixed marriages by written law: It is in forty-eight out of forty-eight states that "prejudices" are opposed to these marriages with an intransigence, a vigor, an efficiency like never before No police regulation can reach them. Furthermore, Black people have no economic power, no political influence; they control no major bank, no trust, they don't publish any major newspapers, and if they They only break into the theater or radio as jazz singers. What? Whatever people say, the "Negro question" doesn't exist. It resolved itself without... laws through the subordination of blacks to whites, through the construction of a an invisible barrier that prevents black people from accessing areas in all areas of white influence.

The Jewish problem, so cleverly glossed over by French writers, is otherwise formidable. The most serious of the specialists on America, Mr. André Siegfried, devotes exactly three pages of his remarkable work on the Jews United States. He notes that, of all foreigners, Jews are the ones who give the impression of adapting most easily, of Americanizing with the most zeal, with too much zeal even, but that one should not trust it and that "ultimately these pseudo-assimilated individuals from the early days remain in a state of ferment heterogeneous; they are distinguishable, not mixed at the bottom of the crucible." This is problem. Mr. André Siegfried doesn't go any further, and neither do any of the discoverers. Contemporaries of the New World did not attempt to give a Jewish explanation of America. It was safer. If these literary Christopher Columbuses had revealed the true Jewish face of America, and assuming they had found a What a publisher daring enough to print their prose, what reprisals, what Boycott! Because, in democratic countries, the Jewish conspiracy enjoys this astonishing privilege: it can be displayed openly, shown off insolently without no one has the right to say a word about it. This was once called freedom of the press.

JEWISH AMERICA 2 1

And yet, the fact is glaringly obvious. I returned to the United States in 1929 and in 1935, with a little more maturity of mind than in 1921, and I then discovered without difficulty what they took so much care to hide from us.

Naturally, the conquest is only apparent in the big cities. There are 1,800,000 Jews in New York, 300,000 in Chicago, 247,000 in Philadelphia, more than 50,000 in Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, Los Angeles, and St. Louis.

In New York, one in three doctors and one in two lawyers are Jewish. (Jewish, the) Jewish theater, Jewish cinema, Jewish women in the press and the two major television networks broadcasting: Columbia Broadcasting System and National Broadcasting Corporation. Jewish banks and politics...

New York, we are told, is not America. How clever! Is it Paris, by any chance, could it be France? Just like an occupying army does not need to settle in every village, in every house to hold a country and that it is enough for him to control the major centers and points strategically, likewise the Jews are the masters of a nation when they have seized the capital, when they domesticated political power, when they hold the reins of major economic enterprises and that they have the Monopoly on the means of expression. Numbers don't change the fact. Out of 125 Millions of inhabitants, there are barely 4,500,000 Jews in the United States. But in Africa too, Black people far outnumber White people. However, they are the masters, and nothing is done without their permission. In America, Aryans of British, Scandinavian, German, or French descent are the Negroes from the Jewish community.

Less discreet than the modest French travelers of the interwar period, The American writer Werner Sombart agreed on this in a book full of tenderness for the Jews. We read on page 51 of Jews in economic life:

To some extent we can say that your United States owes to Jewish influence, what they are, what their Americanism is, because what we let us call it Americanism; it is simply the Jewish spirit that has found its expression. definitive... And because of the enormous influence that America has consistently exerted since his discovery of the economic life of Europe and general culture of Europe, the role played by Jews in the construction of an American world has become of paramount importance for the revolution taken as a whole of our history.

Thus, Werner Sombart does not simply note the conquest of America, he envisions world conquest with the United States as a springboard, he adds to the famous prophecy of Benjamin Franklin, which must be recalled here because we have never. He posed the problem with such foresight. Yet Benjamin Franklin was not

22 JEWISH AMERICA

Not an agent of Germany, nor a Hitler-Japanese fascist. Appointed Grand Master in 1749 Master of the Pennsylvania Lodge by Thomas Oxnard, Grand Master of the New In England, Franklin was the ornament of American Freemasonry, the child beloved by our encyclopedists, the idol of the great ancestors of '89. This did not prevent him from pronouncing, in 1787, during the discussion of the constitution of the United States, the following is the speech:

In all the countries where Jews have settled in large numbers, they have lowered His moral character was degraded, his integrity was degraded... They ridiculed religion Christian, they established a state within a state.

If you don't exclude them, in two hundred years, your descendants will be working to the fields to provide them with sustenance while they are in their banks are rubbing their hands together.

I'm warning you, gentlemen, that if you don't exclude the Jews, your children They will curse you in your graves.

The Jews, gentlemen, are Asians; they will never be otherwise. Their ideas do not conform to the American ideal, and they never will. even if they live among us for ten generations.

A leopard cannot change its spots. Jews are Asians. They are a threat to the country that admits them and they should be excluded by the Constitution.

Two hundred years have not passed, but everything happened very precisely as Benjamin Franklin said.

Oh! Of course, there aren't only Jews in the United States. Just to see some Aryans, you have to leave New York, go deep into the countryside, discover these small towns in the Midwest called Vincennes, Paris, London, Bismarck, La Grange or Des Moines, where the descendants of the pioneers of that era live heroic, the sons of these rugged men who rode off on horseback towards the West mysterious, taking women and children in covered carts, who have conquered the country with rifles, clearing it by the sweat of their brow.

These people are the true Americans. They have retained, despite the triumph of the mechanical civilization and the ravages of cinema and radio, a little bit of kindness brutal, a little indiscreet, the simplicity and courage of the nomads of the "Caravan to the West" and "The Fantastic Ride"

When I was touring the United States with three young Yankees in 1929, I We learned to know and love these Americans, these forgotten Americans. We find Among them, a wonderful hospitality, the hospitality of the prairie. Time is not not far away, where all you had to do was walk into a ranch and politely ask for a horse so that it would be given to you immediately, without explanation. But anyone who was surp Anyone caught stealing a horse was hanged on the spot.

In 1929, the foreigner, the real foreigner who arrived from Europe (in the Middle West (people from New York are also called outsiders) was immediately became the object of warm curiosity. He absolutely had to tell his story. story. And people listened, mouths agape, though somewhat incredulous. requesting outlandish details and marveling:

– No! Really, there are beans in France!... Really?... Just a little more of contraband whisl^...

JEWISH AMERICA 23

We forgot how ridiculous they were. We were won over. We thought: "How they are

"Brave!"

We camped every night and, one Monday in Kansas, the warrant that we received weekly mail from New York, but it didn't arrive. We had nothing left to... We needed something to eat, but we were too proud to ask for charity. One day, two days passed in this way. On the third day, a farmer appeared:

– Boys, I've been watching you since Sunday. I never see you eat. You stay there, lying at the edge of my field. What's going on?

We confessed the truth to him. He became angry:

– Couldn't you have told me that sooner? Come on, shoo! Come to the farm.

And he offered us a fantastic meal, which I still remember fondly. extraordinary precision. The farmer spoke simply of things of the land, a much like Péguy's artisans speak of their craft, with common sense, with love. He also told us how difficult his task was, how complicated it was by the fierce interference of the sprawling trusts that levied their tithes on the tractor, on fertilizers, on the harvest, and which had wonderfully perfected the technique of extortion by devising a credit system that was finishing stripping the farmer of his possessions. Franklin had foreseen it: "Your dream will work in the fields... and "they" will be in their banks, busy... rub your hands together.

In the fields and in the factories. There are no more Jewish workers in the large industrial enterprises that there are no Jews on the farms of the Midwest. Henry Ford said it in December 1938, during an interview that has somewhat outraged by the "universal conscience" of New York journalists:

He observed that it was pointless to send me Jewish refugees who had come from Detroit. from Germany. Experience proves they never stay. They accept from work for a few weeks, time to turn around a bit and get used to it. They have a few connections, and then they move on. The "jobs" we could offer them Finding things at home would only be stepping stones, a springboard to rise to management positions...

We kind of suspected it. Jews don't go to America to clear land or to build. They go there to take advantage of Aryan labor. Their invasion is Moreover, it is very recent, and this is a fact that cannot be overemphasized. 18th century and for almost the entire 19th century, a time when colonization involved real dangers and strenuous physical exertion; there was no There were practically no Jews in America. Yet nothing prevented them from coming. No laws restricted immigration. Anyone could disembark, rent his arms or sink in, rifle slung over his shoulder and axe in hand, through the solitudes inhabited only by wild beasts and Indians. At that time, the Jews were neither more nor less unhappy than in the 20th century, in the ghettos of Europe. But they preferred these ghettos to the risks of conquest.

It is only when the "age of the frontier" – as the historian calls it – American Adams – was over, that is to say from 1890 onwards, that they rushed to the A feeding frenzy, in deep masses, driven by a devouring frenzy. They arrived from Everywhere, from Germany, Poland, Russia, the Balkans. We hesitate, so much This comparison is commonplace, to write that they arrived "like a swarm of "Locusts." But how else to express it? The Jewish invasion of

24 JEWISH AMERICA

The United States is such a locust invasion! To the Aryan pioneers, the thankless and daunting efforts, and to the parasites the harvest, the beautiful harvest of A land of prodigious richness. To them, the gold and the oil; to them, the wheat and the the banks and the Capitol.

The Jewish conquest of the United States reached a kind of perfection.
In less than half a century, the Aryan conquistadors were repelled and dispossessed.
reduced almost everywhere to secondary jobs, to menial tasks. And the New gentlemen have taken up residence, occupying strategic points one by one.
successively dislodging the former occupants from the bastions they believed Having secured custody for eternity. A job well done, a beautiful cleaning.

Already, on the eve of the other war, that is to say barely twenty-five years after the
At the beginning of the conquest, Jews occupied such positions in America as important things, to the point that nothing could be undertaken without their consent.
Mr. André Tardieu, who was High Commissioner of France to the United States from April
The events of 1917 to November 1918 are recounted, not without some naiveté, in *The Munic how he received the revelation. His mission had been received correctly, but nothing more, and he was met with a kind of smiling indifference that complicated things.
particularly his work. To tell the truth, the "Americans" weren't making fun of him.
homesickness for France, for Lafayette, for the great memories of a historical brotherhood barely capable of enlivening the end of banquets, at the time of speeches.

However, the British mission, which was operating in parallel, obtained exactly everything she asked for, and Mr. André Tardieu suddenly realized that Its leader, Viscount Reading, was born Rufus Isaac. This Hebrew aristocrat did not
He didn't waste his time courting the Aryans. He went straight to the point, he laid siege Judge Brandeis, who was a confidant of the paralyzed Wilson, and his officers, who were Je
For the most part, they only prospected within Jewish circles. Mr. André Tardieu understo that this was the key to the problem, that if he wanted to avoid failure, he needed to abandon the old refrains about Lafayette and win over the true masters of the country.
He therefore added two rabbis to the chaplains of his information service.
photogenic, which he never missed an opportunity to showcase, and he He, too, surrounded himself with lavishly decorated Jewish officers who told who wanted to hear about their wartime "exploits" and galvanized them as best they could.
their brothers of the race from New York. Then Mr. Tardieu had Pichon, our Foreign Minister, a telegram which he himself had drafted and which contained France's adherence to the Balfour Declaration concerning the creation of a Israelite homeland in Palestine.

As soon as he received his telegram, Mr. Tardieu brought it to Judge Brandeis who, he said
"Wept with joy." From then on, the cause was won. And Mr. Tardieu concluded:

Our relations with the US government, US finance and the

The American press, which we desperately needed, was greatly appreciated. facilities.

It could not be explained more clearly that already in 1917, the Aryans did not counted for little more in the United States. But since then, the situation has only worse to worsen. The Jewish octopus has pushed its tentacles everywhere, extended its domination.

The ultimate irony is that this gigantic expropriation was carried out without... The real Americans realized what was happening to them. First, the

JEWISH AMERICA 25

The first Jewish immigrants were rather sympathetic to them. They were so humble, So smiling, so adept at inspiring compassion! They were, moreover, the people Biblical, the children of Jehovah and the Puritans of the North were far too steeped in the Old Testament, so as not to feel a communion of spirit with people who cited the same metaphysical inspiration, who were well-versed in the same philosophical disciplines, familiar with the same Palestinian narratives. To some extent, a Puritan is closer of a Jew rather than a Catholic. And how could the Americans have... Suspicious? Their vigilance was paralyzed by the political ideology of the founders of the Constitution they had bequeathed to them, and whose disastrous outcome of the war of Secession had definitively consolidated the puerile dogmatism: a man is worth Another, all men are brothers; it only takes one generation to make one Russian or Spanish, 100% American.

And that was true, indeed, for the Russians, for the Spanish, for all the others representatives of the great European family. After one or two generations, the immigrants had melted into the American melting pot, they had forgotten their Originally, they thought and reacted like Americans.

The old-school Yankees had seen so many newcomers to assimilate almost instantly, which is why they were unsuspecting when Crémieux, Frankfurter, Warshawski, and Ben Soussian disembarked in turn. Crémieux... said French, Frankfurter German, Warshawski Polish and Ben Soussian Syrian. Many other French, many other Germans, many other Poles, many others The Syrians had mingled effortlessly with the Americans. They were welcomed. But These newcomers were neither French, nor German, nor Polish, nor Syrian. They were Jewish. They were the most uncompromising racists in the world, the most aware of their racial and national solidarity, the only elements of the American community that were absolutely unassimilable. They came from from all corners of Europe, Africa, and Asia. But as soon as they disembarked, they formed a bloc, and whatever their geographical origin, they clustered together. point to the Americans, but to the other, older Jews in this promised land.

The Americans, who disapproved of the formation of national groups, like Irish or Germanic associations, because these groups, in prolonging loyalty to the motherland delayed the assimilation of the immigrant. found it perfectly legitimate that the "Frenchman" Crémieux, r "German"

Frankfurter, the "Polish" Warshawski and the "Syrian" Ben Soussian
They group together upon arrival and agree on a common course of action.
Completely ignorant of Jewish realities, oblivious to Franklin's cry of alarm,
The old Americans gazed with a good smile at the coalition of "French," "German," "Polish," and "Syrian," and they said proudly: "You see, it's the fusion of races..."

It is extraordinary that today, now that the colonization of The United States by the Jews is practically complete; the Americans have not They still understood that they had been conquered and subjugated by a foreign people. He
It is extraordinary that they are unaware, to an unimaginable degree, of the basic element Jewish question. Their candor surpasses, if that's possible, that of the French of the pas war. That's because they haven't, like us—although they have suffered as much as we, the debasement of immortal principles – a tradition of anti-Semitism

26 JEWISH AMERICA

which goes from Saint Louis to Drumont and Céline. It's also because, when Americans began to open their eyes, but it was too late. The Jews who had infiltrated the place, had already conquered the airwaves, of the Printed paper and advertising. Impossible to pronounce the word "Jew," of to denounce the Jewish peril without being immediately silenced, broken, annihilated.

Certainly, there is opposition. Clubs, salons, universities are closed to Jews. A small but determined group of Americans sensed the danger.
We will talk about these rebels later. Let's say right away that their action it arouses no echo, that it is limited to isolated manifestations without vigor or wingspan.

The people of America are unaware of their own servitude. They who are so sensitive, so uncompromising when the topic of race comes up, he who so dreads being overwhelmed by a black wave coming from the States of
In the south, he apathetically contemplates the infiltration of trusts and the government Jewish imperialists. He suffers, he accepts without reacting. And above all, he doesn't ur
He absolutely does not believe that the Jewish problem is a racial problem. He still imag that this is a religious matter and he is rightly indignant that anyone could revive medieval prejudices used to criticize free citizens for their beliefs metaphysics.

As the brilliant Céline wrote in Bagatelles pour un massacre: "The American women, the Yankees, whose cries and commotions we hear, universal howls (lynching, petitions, trials, etc.) erupt as soon as a Black person...
(Publicly) they caress, how they marry Jews! And at breakneck speed!
And as long as it can!

The tragedy lies there. If Americans could be informed of the racial aspect of The problem is, they would probably understand faster and more easily than we do, and would they react with unexpected vigor? Because a long cohabitation with The blacks familiarized them with blood problems and demonstrated to them the the need to defend the purity of the white race by all means.

However, when it comes to Jews, the question doesn't even arise. The most uncompromising Yankee, the one who would smash the windows if a mixed-race person entered the same restaurant that he placidly accepts that his daughter is defiled by a any Lévy and that some frizzy-haired, thick-lipped Orientals take his money, him impose their philosophy and decide on peace and war for him.

Before the Jew, the American is as disarmed as the island bird that fascinates the Snake. So the Jew takes advantage. He straightens his back. He's sprawled out in the armchair. The boss, cigar in mouth, feet on the table. He is the master, the only master.

CHAPTER IV

THE NEW YORK GHETTO

Oh New York! Kahall Souk!

The most clamorous, the most insulting Shylockerie, the more trivial, more obscenely materialistic, more You boor of the world! At your service! Irrevocably! swept away by the grandeur of the sacrifice! We are filled with all the joys at the thought that soon thanks to the profits on our battles, on our twenty million corpses you Go and rediscover your joy of living, your prosperity delirious, your most dazzling swoons of pride, Supreme bliss! The jubilant Kabbalistic Apotheosis!

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(The School for Corpses.)

The New York ghetto? There is no ghetto in New York. New York is a ghetto.

Every time I try to gather my memories, to resurrect the images During my stays in New York, it was Jews who appeared in aggressive close-ups. and haunting. I see again confused, blurred crowds, teeming in a classic setting of towering obelisks, the morning rush to work, the rush nocturnal pleasures, the clamor of narrow streets where a throng stagnates cars slower than pedestrians, fierce fights around subway doors on a bed of enormous newspapers, abandoned to the whims of the wind, the city lights screaming eroticism, the spared patches of chlorotic grass by reinforced concrete, crowded with unemployed, the rush of football gladiators in leather armor, the dirty pink bricks of 14th Street, and the gleaming marble of 42nd Street the perfumed strollers of Riverside and the sordid bad boys of the East River, the vice, the labor, and the love of this frenetic, disconcerting, and brutal metropolis where one feels more desperately alone in the midst of seven million termites than in the most solitary of the Thebaid.

And on top of all that, superimposed, are Jews and Jewish women.

They are not alone, of course. There are quite a few Irish people in New York, a million. Italians, many Spaniards, three hundred thousand blacks and even a few Anglo-Saxons. But if we are willing to admit that, in our old countries, as soon as Jews reach a percentage of one in twenty; one has the impression of being overwhelmed, in New York where there are 1.8 million of them, or one Jew for Four inhabitants, they are all we see anymore, they are not just present Everywhere, they are the city itself. The traveler, who is content to discover America in New York, and who sees nothing else, must return with the conviction that the handsome athletes of the Olympic Games and the long-legged girls from the movies Californians are a pretty crude propaganda thing, without equivalent in the daily reality.

28 JEWISH AMERICA

The standard New York "Yankee" is a small, thick-lipped man with ears His legs are detached, his muscles flabby, his shoulders drooping. He dresses like Clark Gable tries out the small, barely noticeable mustache of the Romeos. from Hollywood, but it only succeeds in becoming even more disturbing. It aims to acquiring the allurements of the West, he only manages to adopt the genre gangster. The men of New York seem to have been gathered there to be featured in a gigantic crime film. Seeing them, one misses their look-alikes. the chocolates from the synagogues of Krakow which, at least, are natural.

As for the women, they are dreadful. Neither Myrna Loy, nor even Mae West. fat, withered women at twenty-five, their flesh swollen from sweets, their skin oily and dressed in garishly colored fabrics with a gaudy bad taste.

Is it because of these people that New York, this "kind of failed fair" disgusting, and that we would stubbornly insist on making succeed anyway," as he wrote Céline, in Journey to the End of the Night, gives such a desolate impression of Dirt? There's no doubt about it. We went to a lot of trouble for ourselves. explain that New York cannot be clean, that its avenues are cut like slender cannons within the compact block of skyscrapers maintain perpetual drafts that relentlessly stir up dust and filth.

That's a far too convenient explanation. In Los Angeles, too, there are Skyscrapers and breezes, and the city is clean. If only it were just a matter of Dust carried by the vortices... No, the dirt of New York is It's congenital, it's racial. It displays itself shamelessly as soon as you move away a little – very few – marble caravanserais where the residences of the aristocracy, as soon as one moves away from the insolently opulent temples erected by In praise of cinema.

So, the filth surpasses in horror anything one could have seen on the old one The "zone" of the Paris fortifications. It's the squalor of the ghetto, a horrible jumble oriental with a backdrop of rusted beams and fire escapes (fire escape) flags of rags that are finishing drying under new sediments of dust.

I know of nothing as hideous as the communist restaurant on the street. In front of the door, ragged black men sell the Daily Worker and the New York Times. Masses; mismatched and orthodox books are also being sold off at bargain prices, the works by Lenin, Underfire by Henri Barbusse and collections of "revelations" on Nazi terror. All of this is printed in English: it is for external use. To Inside the restaurant, the long-haired intellectuals are devouring a goulash. proletarian in a nightmarish setting of unspeakable filth, under Those who are major anti-fascist activists only read Yiddish newspapers. Those people have There's no need to even feign assimilation. Communism is for them. the assertion of their nationalism.

JEWISH AMERICA 29

I don't know to what extent I dislike this ragged Judaism to sordid but more degrading manifestations of luxury Judaism.

It was Jews who invented the perverse technique of burlesque shows. the systematic exploitation of an eroticism that is exacerbated with diabolical refinements without ever allowing him to be satisfied.

They were the ones who invented taxi girls, this form of white slavery more degrading than prostitution.

They were the ones who multiplied these gigantic theaters across New York. A spectacle whose monstrosity is a disgrace to our times. In Paris, the Rex of Mr. Jacques Haïk, with his ceiling painted in ultramarine blue and speckled of stars, with its plaster nymphs, its minarets, its Gothic balconies and its Pergolas offers us a rather good example of what Israel can achieve when it has free rein. The Jews of New York are neither less nor more barbaric than Mr. Jacques Haïk, but as they are much more powerful than their fellow citizens of the Paris ghetto, their bad taste is on full display and imposes itself more insolence.

It's a profusion of Corinthian colonnades and gargoyles, of ornaments outrageously gilded structures and garishly colored paneling, the accumulation obsessed with everything that shouldn't be done, everything that should be avoided.

The traveler who has visited the Paramount in New York, or the Roxy, or the Hippodrome, hastens to conclude that the Americans only conceive of monstrosities. Which is very unfair. I certainly do not claim that the Americans, on the whole, have very good taste. (They have, however , created in New England and the Southern states have a "colonial style" that is not lacking (no charm). But the most visible, most distressing lapses in taste that This is noticeable in New York and elsewhere (I'm thinking of the medieval castles of the (of Hollywood) are first and foremost a manifestation of triumphant Jewish aesthetics. True Americans—in this as in many other things—endure the

The consequences of their ignorance of the Jewish question. They allowed themselves to be and they are held responsible for the attacks carried out by their conquerors.

We also say in our country, to condemn the vile Paris-Soir of the distinguished Beghin and Prouvost, industrialists, introduced their customs into our press. American. American women? Come on... There are no American newspapers in New York. There are only Jewish newspapers. And those that aren't completely Jewish. were indeed forced to follow the trend, to copy the formula that succeeds so wonderfully, to sacrifice everything to scandal, to sensationalism, to perfect the flashy presentations, to elevate contempt for the reader to the level of an art.

When we saw the tide of tabloids, we almost ended up finding that our Paris-Soir had some class... One of them—I've unfortunately forgotten his name—went out one evening with this Huge headline: Valentino is dead. We knew the famous actor was very sick. Everyone rushed to buy the special editions. And it was only after having bought the newspaper, which was printed in tiny letters, € the rumor announced "Public, thankfully denied." Rudolph Valentino was not dead at all. but the tabloid editor had found this excellent typographic method for to sell off his paper.

30 JEWISH AMERICA

The entire technique of Jewish journalism is contained in this anecdote, and it is not It's surprising that to obtain a good copy of the New York methods, the stakes Messrs. Beghin and Prouvost placed the horrible little ones at the head of their Paris-Soir The Jews Lazareff and Weiskopf (known as Gombault). These stateless people felt completely following their ease. The right men in the right place.

In the old days – I mean before 1933 – New York newspapers produced Sensational, featuring bedroom stories, photogenic divorces, and thighs. of stars. Since Hitler came to power, a new element has emerged the activity of the rewrite men in New York newsrooms. Because Hitler had become – we'll talk about it again – public enemy number one, the man to be taken down, the outcome The demands for heads were made all the more vehemently because American Jews were They were quite convinced that they personally risked nothing in the adventure. And one I think that the people who didn't hesitate to kill Valentino in anticipation, They weren't going to back down from further manipulations. I had in my hands a magazine showing a "torture room" in a concentration camp German. Well, the photo was taken in such a way that it was quite confusing. But terrifying. You had to be warned to know that the torture chamber was all simply a shower room... Unless hydrotherapy is considered by the sons of Israel – at least by those who disembark from Bukovina or Russia white – like actual torture.

At the same time, they are accumulating horrific details about the "barbarity" racist, the Jewish newspapers of New York adopted once and for all – as those of Paris before the war – that mocking, contemptuous little tone that we we know it well, having found it so many times in our articles

Léon Blum: Hitler is a big bad wolf, but that's not serious, that's not It's not solid, it can't support itself, it's on the verge of collapsing...

The great female star of the New York press, "Miss" Dorothy Thompson, wife of Sinclair Lewis, the American Geneviève Tabouis, was writing from the out 1931, after having approached Hitler:

This ridiculous little man, you'd only have to say "hoo!" in front of him to...
Deflate. He will never be a dictator!

And since then, all the New York newspapers have very punctually repeated Every day, with the same blissful ignorance, the same nonsense. Underestimation and systematic denigration of fascist revolutions, poisoning of the mind public by the vilest methods, constant incitement to war. Such is the Jewish press of New York.

The citadels of Jewish power stand at the very tip of Manhattan in a burst of cement, steel, and stucco. This is where Broadway takes its source. This is where the epileptics of Wall Street gesticulate. All the business of The country is crammed vertically onto the meager surface area of a tiny canton. Who has not worked in one of these buildings, does not know what can happen refinements of Taylorism. When I was, in 1929, an employee of a firm financial-Jewish, of course—Credit Alliance Corporation, I was leaving Every evening, my desk, brain blank, legs weak, nerves on edge, twenty times more exhausted than I had ever been during my captivity, unloading coal for ten long hours each day in a Thuringian commando unit.

JEWISH AMERICA 31

It's because a kind of religious frenzy reigns in these temples of business.
which infects even the most apathetic. Earning money is truly a calling.
a sacred thing to which one should give oneself body and soul. It is the only moral criterion, the only way to determine social precedence.

How many times have I been introduced to people I'd just spoken to?
"Just a few moments," they abruptly asked me, "How much do you..."
"How much do you earn?" They were quite excusable. They wanted me to situate. For in New York there are no foolish professions, or dishonest professions, no more than there are honorable or refined professions. There are only people who "make" a lot of money – and who are automatically entitled to consideration admiring of their compatriots – and of people who are stagnating. The latter are not not interesting. And if they vegetate, moreover, by being intellectuals or artists, then their case becomes frankly laughable.

However little sympathy I may have for the Anglo-Saxons, I refuse to consider that this way of judging men is of British origin. In London, a A penniless lord is better regarded than an upstart adventurer, and in the south of United States, the old planter families who have risen to a level of Superior civilizations refuse to compromise with Yankee businessmen.

I also don't believe that business obsession is an Anglo-Saxon vice. City merchants have a sense of leisure; they make it a rule to respect – if Ridiculous as it may sometimes seem – weekend rituals. They don't think, as is the rule in New York, to sacrifice everything, absolutely everything, to business. Not, certainly, to accumulate money, for nothing is more foreign to Americans have a concept of saving, but only for the pleasure of earning money. dollars, as many dollars as possible, very quickly and by any means.

And this, this falsification of human values under the banner of money, this This mad rush for the gold of others is so specifically Jewish that it is inconceivable. none of the discoverers of America whose accounts cluttered our press pre-war people didn't have the basic honesty to say so. They were gazing at one amused, the sarabands of the overly curly-haired gentlemen around Wall's golden calf Street and they noted: "How greedy these Americans are."

The Americans? No. The Jews.

Let's now look at other Jews. Less honorably known Jews, but who are still putting up a decent fight. Let's go to the Prefecture of Police.

I was admitted in 1935 to visit this institution—I was the special envoy of Je Suis Partout, which, incidentally, did not wait for Mr. Mandel's downfall to call a Jew a Jew—and it was quite an instructive walk. There was There, a mind-blowing display of the means of repression available to the police. New Yorker. But this modernism ultimately only served to better demonstrate the impotence of the law. And the police officers themselves did not hesitate to say so.

I was shown all sorts of sophisticated weapons, they were described to me the organization of the alert services, I was given a long walk through a vast room where radio operators, wearing headphones, remotely direct the armored car patrols crisscrossing the city. I then arrived in the anthropometry offices. It was simply wonderful: all the Criminals, petty and major, all public enemies were on display, facing forward.

32 JEWISH AMERICA

and in profile, lined up in impeccable binders, arranged by specialty. Here the picîq)ockets, there are the racketeers, a little further on the pimps, then the confidante Men, the vulgar assassins and the gunmen. And right in the middle, in a wardrobe isolated – because you mustn't mix apples and oranges – the "enemies" "Publics," the big stars of crime, labeled in order of malevolence Public enemy number 1, public enemy number 2, public enemy number 3, etc.

The policeman who was acting as my guide, a large, red-haired Irishman, completely filled the importance of his mission, did not want to exhaust the interest of this at once visit. He knew how to modulate his effects. He imposed upon me, before reaching the wardrobe celebrities, a review of the small fry, a gradual initiation, in a way. I saw all the specimens of the underworld paraded by, categorized by type: gangsters dressed in a smartly tailored style, they were sneaky little thugs, bestial-faced strangle women who weren't very pretty – much less pretty than the female bandits in the movies – who, unlike the men, all wore radiant smiles. Was it

It would be my fault if none of these outcasts were named Smith or Brown, if all the
The pimps had a Mediterranean origin, and all the swindlers had a Mediterranean origin.
Jewish?

But this magazine had no other purpose than to pique my curiosity, and when the
The policeman thought he understood that my initiation was sufficient; he trained me with grand theatrical gesture, with a sort of devotion, towards the stars.

"There you have it," he told me proudly, "New York City's public enemy number one!"
Fleggenheimer, aka Dutch Schultz, the king of slot machines.

I saw – always from the front and in profile – an ugly fellow with slanted eyes, at squashed nose, enormous lips.

"Yes, he's a Jew," the policeman told me, who was, like most of the Irish from New York, somewhat anti-Semitic. You wouldn't want to, would you?
Not that he didn't become Jewish... he's one of the wealthiest people in the city: you Don't imagine the money you can make with slot machines. Provided, of course, to have a monopoly on it, to impose its machines in all the public establishments and to drive out competitors, with revolver shots if The need is there. Dutch Schultz has millions and millions of dollars. He has a His house on Long Island is a veritable palace. He's someone...

– But he's not in prison? You have his file, his photo, his address...
The policeman burst into a hearty Irish laugh:

– There's no point in tiring ourselves out trying to stop Dutch Schultz. We've done it as We will bring him before a court, and he will be acquitted each time. The last time,
We had managed to get him charged with tax fraud... Note that this Gaillard has quite a few human lives on his conscience, but this is even more It's difficult to prove; nobody wants to testify against the leader of a well-run gang.
organized... Whereas, for tax fraud, there was no doubt possible, Dutch Schultz falsified his accounts and didn't pay his taxes. Whatever What average taxpayer would have been convicted? Not Dutch Schultz. After twenty-eight After hours of deliberation, the jury in Malone, New York, acquitted him and Public enemy number one left the courthouse in triumph, carried on the shoulders of his Friends. It's useful to have good relationships... As for us, there's nothing we can do at We can only wait for Dutch Schultz to get taken down by... killers from a rival gang.

JEWISH AMERICA 33

And, indeed, a few weeks later, the gangster's body was found riddled with bullets, in the back room of a cafe where he was counting his takings.

New York had lost its Jewish public enemy number one. It retained its other Jews, his Jewish bankers, his state governor, the Jew Lehman, his Jewish mayor, Mr. La Guardia.

It makes sense that New York has Mr. La Guardia at the head of its municipality. As shocking as it was to see Mr. Blum at the head of an "old Gallo-Roman country", like ours, it is just as normal for the Jews of New York to become administered by one of their own.

Mr. La Guardia, whom his friends poetically nicknamed "the little flower" "The Little Redflower" is a man of small stature, short-legged, with a large, plucked toad's head, reminiscent of Béla Kun's. This other Jew. I saw him in 1935 at City Hall. He was receiving Mrs. Lebrun, who had just to arrive in Normandy, for which it was the first voyage.

Dripping with sweat, gesticulating with elephantine grace, the "little flower" "Red" evoked the indissoluble fraternity of the great democracies. And behind it, a large cohort of Hebrews – the entire municipality – surrounded by Gigantic Irish policemen smiled at the cameras with hideous grins. carpet sellers. Poor Mrs. Lebrun, cornered against the microphone, overwhelmed by the clamor of big, sonorous words, he stammered, with the accent of a sixth-grade student, two sentences carefully learned by heart: i – Zis is very charming, Mr. Mayor. I zank y ou very much, sir. mayor.

A brass band attacked the Marseillaise and all the officials of the New York ghetto They corrected the position. Apotheosis of Franco-Jewish friendship.

At that time, the naive still imagined that France was loved for herself, for her magnificent past and ancestral virtues. We saw, in 1940, That was the reality. No more democracy, no more love. The France that the The New York tribe was Blum's France, the last continental bastion of the Jewish community, the "soldier of Right" who was incited by kind words to sacrifice himself for the Cause, the supreme hope of the émigrés eager to return to Berlin in our vans, eager to use our corpses as a stepping stone to recover their fiefs beyond the Rhine.

Could anyone have doubted it? Long before the first cannon shot was fired, New York had already been at war with fascism and Hitlerism for a long time. War limited to rhetorical exercises or demonstrations such as the attack on the ocean liner Bremen on July 27, 1935 by Jewish rioters scandalously acquitted afterwards by the Jewish judge Brodsk¹ and congratulated for having in the Hudson the ship's "pirate flag". No shots were fired. cannon, but it was already war. The Guardia, which the Jew Lecache called in The Right to Live –precisely in the same issue as Jean Cocteau adhered to the anti-racist crusade – "Anti-Nazi No. 1", sponsored all the meetings, all the demonstrations where the horror of the new order was expressed European.

"Bring me Hitler," he proclaimed to the crowds in Madison Square. garden", and I will hang him on the spot.

Obviously, there was no question of La Guardia going himself. to seize the Führer. To each their role: the Stuka bombs to the French and the Americans intoxicated by radio invective. In March 1937, before the delegates from the American Jewish Congress meeting in New York, La Guardia proposed that at the next international exhibition, a torture chamber should be built where an effigy of Hitler, "the fanatic in a brown shirt," would appear. And as the The Washington government offered a half-hearted, vague apology to the Reich. La Guardia returned before the American Jewish Congress to proclaim with a A graceful chin movement that nothing could silence. Then the The delegates enthusiastically adopted the following motion: We take the commitment to intensify the boycott of German products in order to protect (!!!) the German people from the destruction with which Hitlerism threatens them.

Just as the English "protect" the French by assassinating them, the good New York Jews were eager to "protect" the Germans by having them slaughtered. by French soldiers.

But, in 1938, the French seemed to have shirked their "mission". They had pushed their insubordination to the point of colluding with the Germans. Also Should we have listened to the chorus of imprecations from the braggarts of the ghetto? New York.

"France has disgraced herself!" exclaimed Mr. La Guardia, to the cheers of his supporters. belligerent (but cautious) administrators.

And Chief Rabbi Stephen Samuel Wise, that other half of Jehovah – at In the Middle Ages, the Pope and the Emperor were the two halves of God; today, in New York, the two-headed Holy Roman Empire of Israel, has its mayor and its rabbi – Wise so she veiled her face in horror.

I did not approach Stephen Samuel Wise, who is too powerful a lord. to waste his time with puny European journalists, but I know the importance of this character and the influence he exerts on the community New York-based and on the general politics of the United States.

It was to him, moreover, that the traitor de Gaulle recently turned to in order to to assure him that after the English "victory" (!!!), the Jews would be reinstated, in France, in their command posts. However, like de Gaulle, vile as he So, it's likely that such a compromising situation wasn't undertaken lightly. statement, as it seems certain he made it under the pressure of blackmail imperative – "Speak out publicly for the Jews or we'll cut off your..." "Provisions!" – this is how one can measure the power of the chief rabbi.

Oddly enough, Stephen Samuel Wise looks much less Jewish than some of his compatriots of more mixed blood (La Guardia, for example, has Italian ancestors). With her thin lips, her deep-set eyes, and His pallid complexion makes him look more like a Methodist pastor constipated by abuse of hypocrisy.

But appearances can be deceiving. Stephen Samuel Wise is wonderfully Jewish and not at all hypocritical. He is even admirably franchise. He was the one who wrote, on June 13, 1938, in the New York Herald Tribune, These lines explain the entirety of American policy:

I am not an American citizen of the Jewish faith. I am a Jew. I am a American. I was an American during the sixties.

JEWISH AMERICA 35

of my life, but I was a Jew for four thousand years. Hitler was right about One point: he calls the Jewish people a race. And we are a race.

A race that seized all the levers of power, that broke all resistances.

CHAPTER V

ROOSEVELT OR ROSENFELD?

Roosevelt, the fat ventriloquist preparing the next... is merely the showy tool of the great Jews.

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(Trifles for a massacre.)

Was Mr. Roosevelt Jewish? Ingenious biographers have claimed so. Their The argument is certainly not very convincing, but it should not be overlooked. No hypothesis.

A pastor, the Reverend G.-B. Winrod, published on October 15, 1936, in the The Revealer newspaper, from Wichita, a family tree established by the institute Carnegie, which tends to demonstrate the president's Hebrew origin. A Jewish writer, P. Slomovitz took up and developed this argument in the Detroit Jewish Chronicle. This author goes further than the Carnegie Institute, which does not situate Roosevelt only from 1582. P. Slomovitz, however, goes back to 1520, a date to which the Rossocampo (red field) would have been driven out of Spain and would they came to settle in Holland where they supposedly took the name Rosenvelt or Rosenfeld (pink field). Their descendants would later be called Rosefeld, Rosevelt, and finally Roosevelt.

In 1649, the first Roosevelt settled in America where he married a A young girl named Heyltje Kunst, who was said to be Jewish. Later, Although this family practiced the Reformed religion, almost all of its members They received biblical names. The men were called Abraham, Moses, Abel, Isaac, Enoch, Ephraim, Samuel, Ezekiel, Eliezer, Simon, Nathan. The women They were named Abigail, Hannah, Rebecca, Deborah, Rachel, Ruth.

Mr. Franklin Roosevelt raised no protest against the revelations of the Reverend G.-B. Winrod and MP Slomovitz. Interviewed by the New York Times, he simply replied:

It's possible that my ancestors were Jewish in the past. All I know, The Roosevelt family is descended from the Claes Martenszen van family. Roosevelt.

He also told the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna:

My ancestors came from Holland to America about 300 years ago. If they Whether they were Jewish, Catholic or Protestant, that's a question that doesn't worry me. It is enough for me that they were good citizens who feared God.

38 JEWISH AMERICA

The genealogical research we just discussed seems quite fragile. And, even if they demonstrated that Mr. Roosevelt descended from a distant Jewish ancestor, marriages contracted since 1649 with Aryans would have reduced to a tiny percentage of the president's Hebrew heritage. As for surnames Biblical details found on the family tree prove absolutely nothing. This is a consequence of the Reformation, which brought back into favor first names derived from the Old Testament, a custom that is still in use today in the Puritan families.

What is serious is that Mr. Roosevelt thinks and acts as if he were 100% Jewish. What is serious is that he serves the cause of Judaism with such passion and tenacity, as if he were a child of the twelve tribes. Better even. For if his name were Disraeli, Trotsky or Blum, his intentions would automatically be suspect, his action would likely be much less effective.

The Jews have no interest in personally governing the nations they have conquered and enslaved. Every time they show themselves a little too much, they provoke terrible reactions from which the entire people of Israel suffer. The ideal is to govern through an intermediary, to have a docile straw man firmly in hand tested, a synthetic Jew. Mr. Roosevelt is that man. He is the servant The model, the elusive president. If he didn't exist, he would have to be invented.

I saw Mr. Roosevelt for the first time in July 1935, in circumstances I'm not likely to forget. Washington was home to 25,000 Freemasons and the president had specifically interrupted his vacation to return and greet his little comrades from the Royal Secret.

A prodigious affair. On the train (which was taking me to the capital, at each At the station, men had boarded, and one wondered if they were... carpet merchants or businessmen on the loose who sprang from some nightclub at night, decked out in party favors by enterprising girls. All of them, in

In fact, they wore a fez, with great naturalness and gravity. The others
The travelers, clearly jaded, paid no attention to their attire.

In Washington, the platforms of Union Station were red with fezzes. And red too.
the wide avenues of the capital. Large banners welcomed the Congress attendees: Welcome, nobles! Welcome, nobles!

I was told that it was the "Ancient Arab Order of Nobles of the Altar"
"Mystique," which groups together the highest dignitaries of American Freemasonry, those who had reached the 32nd degree. All these venerable members had gathered to elect their "Imperial Potentate." It was quite a charade. Because many "Nobles" did not simply wear the fez. Some were dressed in Zouaves, from head to toe. They were nothing but scarlet jackets and salmon-colored breeches duly puffed-out and brightly colored belts.

And in the evening, it was even more comical. Formed into columns of twelve, grouped by "temples" (one temple per state), the Nobles of the Mystical Altar they marched down Pennsylvania Avenue to the strains of Sousa's march. At their head, the outgoing "Imperial Potentate," a tall, clean-shaven gentleman, draped in a wearing an immaculate burnous, he chewed on a cigar, as pleased with himself as had he saved the nation, as farcical as Laurel and Hardy in The Companions
The party was on. All along the procession, kids were throwing firecrackers and the crowd roared with enthusiasm. What was this crowd cheering?

JEWISH AMERICA 39

Tumultuous? The "Nobles" were not, after all, victorious soldiers.
They were ordinary citizens who had taken the trouble to disguise themselves and walk
In step. The mystery of popular emotions...

The parade's destination was the White House. There, on a platform strung with Stars and flags, Mr. Roosevelt, dressed in a cream suit and also wearing a hat Wearing a scarlet fez, he smiled broadly at the "Nobles of the Mystic Altar." Head Right. Sousa marches again. Another storm of cheers.

Then, this carnival parade truly took on its full meaning. Indeed, the Appearances were against the "Nobles." One could think that these serious Businessmen, who came from all forty-eight states of the Union, had mostly traveled to escape for a few days the vigilance of their strict wives – and,
In fact, they quite happily enjoyed their freedom as soon as night fell.
temporary. We wanted to smile at their disguises, at the childishness of their Oriental symbolism, not to take them seriously. And besides, aren't we always tempted, whenever Masonic events are involved, to focus only on the ridiculous and to neglect the profound action of the sect? The little leather aprons pigs, party favors, truncated columns, and skeletons so effectively deflect the suspicions of the uninitiated. Likewise, the Zouave jackets and fez des «Nobles ».

But, at the foot of the platform where Mr. Roosevelt was radiant, there was no way to

Don't be mistaken. It wasn't just clowns or revelers who were parading. They were the shock troops, the assault sections of American democracy. Because every country has the assault units it deserves.

The high-ranking Freemasons saluted their Führer, F. Roosevelt. From the top of this White House, thirty-two degrees are watching you...

Mr. Roosevelt was initiated, on November 28, 1911, into the "Holland Lodge No. 8" of the New York City. On February 28, 1929, he was conferred the 32nd degree of the Scottish Rite in Albany (capital of New York State). Mr. Roosevelt is a member of the societies secrets of the "Eagles", the "Eland", Phi-Beta-Kappa, the Royal Order of The Elk. He received the title of "Great Cedar of Lebanon". He is master of the Great Lodge of Georgia. His three sons are also initiated.

In short, one could hardly be more of a Freemason than Mr. Roosevelt. Now, if it is inaccurate to claim that Freemasonry is a matter specifically Jewish, there is no doubt that the interests of Jewry and of the Freemasonry has always coincided very closely, that these two great forces of the The modern world has constantly collaborated, striving towards the same goals, with the even ideal to the point of sometimes becoming indistinguishable, and that a Freemason is a priori the ideal instrument of Jewish imperialism.

Mr. Roosevelt's Masonic ranks may not be enough to explain They completely subjugated the president to Jewish wishes. These facts at least show that Mr. Roosevelt was more predisposed than most to comply. to these wishes, to consider as legitimate and worthy of sympathy the aspirations policies of the Jewish people, their philosophy of life, their ethics and their aesthetics

All of Mr. Roosevelt's biographers keep repeating that the president is above quite the aristocrat, an old-blooded American whose family had known opulence for several generations, and in this respect, he is distinguished from politician self-made men enriched by backroom deals and swimming in bribes.

40 JEWISH AMERICA

At first glance, Mr. Roosevelt does indeed offer more guarantees of honesty than most of his competitors or associates. This man, fulfilled from his the birth of all the world's goods, seems to have not embarked on politics that out of idealism, to impose on his compatriots a program of fraternity and of social justice. Wealthy, he denounces trusts and the evils of capitalism, the abominable tyranny of big business. It is on these promises that he is elected to New York State Legislature, and then he became governor of that state and that he was finally elected President of the Republic.

For the common people as well as for his eulogists, Roosevelt is a a kind of aristocrat of the night of August 4th, a feudal lord who renounces feudalism, the The champion is all the less suspected of a generous cause because it is repeatedly stated There was nothing to be gained by attacking the capitalist system from which his family had prosperity.

But, in retracing his career, one discreetly omits to mention the ten years that the enemy of big business has devoted to big business. It is said how Mr. Roosevelt became, in 1917, Under Secretary of the Navy President Wilson, and then how he abandoned politics in the aftermath of the war, following his attack of infantile paralysis, and then, in 1928, in signaling his accession to the government of the State of New York. From 1918 to 1928, Nothing, a void. What became of Mr. Roosevelt? What did he do?

He did business.

Far be it from us to hold it against Mr. Roosevelt. We can disregard the accusations that have been made against United European Investors Ltd, including Mr. Roosevelt was the director and is accused of making reckless loans to the Deutsche Bank and Norddeutsche Bank and the systematic plundering of its shareholders. Let's assume these accusations are made by adversaries. Politics: In business, you never really know where it begins and where it ends. Honesty. We know too little about the operations of the UEI to to pass judgment on Mr. Roosevelt's management.

But what is much more interesting is the composition of the council of the Company of which Mr. Roosevelt became a director after the bankruptcies of V United European Investors Ltd. This company, the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation is a purely Jewish business whose leaders are the Jews Steinam, S. Nowak, A.-J. Sack, J.-J. Schermack, A. Granat, S.-C. Steinhardt, F.-I. Lisman. At the council, the aristocrat, the "old American", Roosevelt is the only Aryan.

It doesn't seem that he suffered from this close proximity. It even seems that she was largely beneficial to him, that it was—so to speak—the springboard which enabled him to rise to the position of governor of the state of 1928. New York. Mr. Roosevelt may have thundered against the financiers and thus captured the votes of the anti-capitalists, the Hebrew bankers of Wall Street knew that they had nothing to fear from the administrator of the very Jewish Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation. They even knew they had everything at to gain from having such an "enemy" "against them".

JEWISH AMERICA 41

Roosevelt, Israel's protégé, largely justified all the hopes that had been placed in him. placed within him. From his accession to the White House, the date in the United States, of the Jewish era. Previously, the Jews had, no doubt, conquered quite a bit of citadels. But they did not yet exercise power in a "totalitarian" way. political. That is the power that Mr. Roosevelt granted them.

The president's great skill, as we saw earlier, had been to to portray as enemies of financiers. The people of Wall Street were hated too cordially and just as legitimately as the two hundred were in France families. And it is a fact that immediately after being installed in the White House on Ma (the election had taken place in November 1932), Mr. Roosevelt hastened to take a a number of spectacular measures that could create an illusion. At the same time at the time he promised numerous advantages to the proletariat – every time he These are promises; Mr. Roosevelt's generosity is becoming prodigality – he He suspended all banking operations and initiated legal proceedings. against a number of rather conspicuous sharks.

Against Morgan Bank, for example.

Why Morgan Bank?

It is not our intention, we believe, to defend this company which has elevated piracy to the level of an institution, which has made a specialty of to rob the average American with inimitable skill and who practices the Corruption in the halls of Congress with astonishing audacity. The investigation ordered by Mr. Roosevelt revealed some very instructive, albeit rather commonplace: in a democracy, venality is the common law. It has revealed, in particular the names of the ministers, senators, and members of parliament who had "received" the money. He kind of suspected it. In France, with Panama and Stavisky, we've seen plenty of that. others.

But Morgan's bank wasn't the only one. There was—and still is—other banks that used the same methods. And it is still quite troubling that the indignation of honest Americans was, so to speak channeled, directed in a single direction, as if one wanted to divert the popular fury for broader objectives. Americans, wounded by the terrible The 1929 debacle, did the financiers hate them? Mr. Roosevelt threw them in pastures the administrators of Morgan Bank, the only major bank with little near Aryan in the United States. Thanks to which the others were able to fade into obscurity to continue their lucrative operations safely.

In short, this is roughly the kind of operation that was carried out in our country by The Judeo-Marxists against the Wendel family. Down with these merchants of Those guns! On those wretches, on those mangy people from whom all our evil comes! What has allowed to pass completely unnoticed, in the reddest pages, the activities of the Rothschilds, Louis-Louis Dreyfus, Bader, and the Lazard bank, from the Worms bank. Did anyone ever see, in the heyday of the Popular Front, a A procession of demonstrators marched between the Bastille and the Nation demanding the seizure of the Rothschild? No. Just the de Wendel fortune...

42 JEWISH AMERICA

Because there is capitalism and capitalism. Mr. Roosevelt has temporarily pulverized the Morgan bank, but he installed the Jew in the finance department of his government. Henry Morgenthau Jr., of the Seligman bank, the Jew's trusted man Lewisohn, the copper king, and the Warburgs of the Kuhn, Loeb & Co. bank. The said Morgenthau, in turn, hastened to deliver the desirable positions to the tribe: he Casa, his son, to begin with, at the head of the Treasury and the fund of exchange rate stabilization, his friend Jacob Viner as an expert at the Treasury, David Stern (owner of the New York Post) and Goldenweiser at the Federal Reserve Board, etc., etc.

One type of finance was brought down. Another type of finance triumphed. The most Jewish of them all. This is what Mr. Roosevelt's anti-capitalism boils down to.

As in all other countries of the world, one of the first consequences of the Jewish takeover in the United States was a sudden and rapid development of communism. How could anyone be surprised? Communism isn't it a Jewish doctrine and the USSR a Jewish creation? And what's more, a creation of American Jews.

It has been recounted a hundred times how the Jew Trotsky and all his Jewish accomplices of the first Council of People's Commissars was lavishly subsidized by the Jewish bankers Jacob and Mortimer Schiff, Guggenheim, Max Breitung, Kuhn, Loeb and Co., Félix Warburg, Otto Kahn, S. W. H. Hanauer, etc. No need to let's revisit this old story. However, let's remember the admissions of the Jewish newspaper American Hebrew who wrote on September 1, 1920:

This success (that of Bolshevism in Russia) which will remain in history as the main consequence of the world war was largely the result of Jewish thought, Jewish discontent, the Jewish effort to rebuild.

What Jewish idealism and Jewish discontent have so powerfully contributed to accomplish in Russia, the same historical qualities of the Jewish soul and heart tend to do so in other countries.

Will America, like Tsarist Russia, crush the Jew under the unfounded accusation of being a destroyer and will thus place him in the position of an irreconcilable enemy?

Or will America favor Jewish genius as it favors other genius? particular to all other races?

This is the question that the American people will have to answer.

By electing Mr. Roosevelt, by keeping him in power, the American people have answered. And immediately we could see that the conquest of money by the Jewish plutocrats did not exist without the conquest of the masses by Jewish agitators. This same dualism persists, its most perfect expression being today the alliance between Wall Street and the Kremlin.

Until Mr. Roosevelt's election, communism was practically non-existent in the United States. The party founded on September 1, 1919, had been declared illegal in January 1920. By December 1921, he had disguised himself under the name of

Since then, Mr. Roosevelt has reconciled with Morgan Bank. It is thanks to them, in particular in 1940 he succeeded in having the warmonger Willkie (his accomplice) nominated as the Republican and to rig the elections like never before. Willkie, the man of the trusts and Roosevelt, the man of the Jews, pretended to fight each other. In reality, they had previously agreed on the essentials, namely the need to launch the country into war.

Workers party and it had thus languished until 1928, when it was authorized to to call itself again the "Communist Party of the United States". But in 1932, it did not had less than 10,000 members, a ridiculous figure in a country of 125 million of inhabitants.

As soon as Mr. Roosevelt entered the White House, his first concern was to recognize the Soviet government. The Jew Litvinov comes in person to Washington to re-establish relations with the Jewish brain trust diplomatic relations and concluding trade agreements. A family affair, in sort of.

From then on, communism took on a respectable appearance and the number of Party membership grew from 10,000 to 50,000 in 1936 and to 100,000 in 1939. The figure may still seem quite small, but we know that the communists have always reluctant to enlist large masses of supporters, they prefer to have in hand experienced militants who make up the shock troops and especially the leaders of the revolution. And moreover, they have become masters in the art to infiltrate affiliated associations. In the United States, they thus control 640 organizations known as "common front" organizations, the most important of which are The American Civil Liberties Union (led by the Jewish Frankfurter, of whom we (We'll talk about it again), the American League for Peace and Democracy (which is the second Yankee from the Amsterdam-Pleyel association founded by Romain-Rolland and Barbusse), the League for Industrial Democracy, American Student Union, etc.

According to a report by Mr. Steele presented in 1938 before a commission According to a congressional investigation, approximately 6,500,000 people are active in the organizations controlled by the Communist Party. We are far from that, as we can see, of the 100,000 officially registered members.

He's an Aryan, Earl Browder – like Thorez in France or Thaelmann in Germany – who is the nominal leader of the PC. This precaution is indispensable. But in the United States, as elsewhere, it is Jews who actually hold positions of power. The party leadership: Financial Secretary William Weiner (Chairman of the Committee) (Jewish against Fascism and Anti-Semitism), Gilbert Greenberg, head of the Youth Communists and delegates to the 7th Comintern Congress, Isaac Amter, Sol Nitzberg Lloyd Lehmann (agricultural technician), David Dubinski (who is watching John Lewis at the head of the C.I.O), etc.

Just as in 1936 the French communists suddenly began to extending a hand to Catholic brothers and glorifying military servitude, the American communists adopted, in the same year, the slogans most resolutely patriotic: Communism, they proclaim, is Americanism of the 20th century. Since that time, they have been frankly belligerent, fiercely supporters of the great anti-fascist crusade. Revenge of the Jews, defense of The USSR, it's all one thing, it's all the same.

Therefore, Mr. Roosevelt never missed an opportunity to demonstrate his sympathy towards communists, either by entrusting them with high administrative positions, either by giving personal support to their organizations. Just before the war, the president was addressing the American Youth Congress, an openly domesticated by the American Communist Party, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is a "protective member" whose main speakers were Earl Browder and La Guardia, the following message:

44 JEWISH AMERICA

The Congress proves that you are gathered to examine your mutual problems. and those of the country as a whole, to accept your responsibilities as citizens... I am happy to send you my best wishes for the success of your congress which studies these problems without fear and seeks to solve them With courage and determination. Very sincerely yours...

Naturally, since the beginning of hostilities, since the USA allied Their initials, like those of the USSR, further reinforced the influence of the communists increased. They have become fully official figures. They can prepare at their leisure, under the protection of the laws and the smiles of Mr. Roosevelt, the road which will ensure the definitive triumph of "Jewish idealism" in America.

People who deny Roosevelt's subservience to Judaism insist a lot on the fact that only one minister (Morgenthau) is Jewish and that Congress does not count no more than ten Jews, which can be considered a fairly small percentage reasonable."* But once again we must distinguish between appearances and The reality. Ministers are merely executors, and the real power is exercised by that famous "brain trust" which has generated so much ink and which is hardly ever mentioned anymore, although its power remains intact. However, this "brains" is a strictly Jewish affair. Now that the professor Raymond Moley and General Johnson were eliminated; only those who remain are the old Hebrew guard of intimate advisors. They, and they alone, who They dictate Roosevelt's speeches and decisions. They are the masters of America.

Let's take a closer look at these gentlemen.

The oldest one – a repeat offender of sorts, since he had already fattened himself up during the other war – is Bernard Baruch, as reported in the Jewish Examiner on October 20th 1933 affectionately calls him: "The unofficial president." No need to elaborate further. His past activities: Baruch is the very type of the unscrupulous plutocrat, of the adventurer to whom economic liberalism allows the most profitable raids.

Before 1914, he had already amassed a colossal fortune by speculating in Wall Street dealings in tobacco, copper, and rubber. As soon as the war broke out, he entered the "War Industries Committee"; he becomes a kind of economic dictator.

No arms dealer can obtain credit without his consent. That's He also decides on the quantities of equipment that the allies will receive and how will the distribution be done? The profits he makes in this way, with the blood of Others are beyond imagination. He even admitted as much before a commission. of a parliamentary inquiry that questioned him – very timidly, moreover, as always – regarding his actions:

"I probably had more power than any other man," he said.

during the last war.

When the peace conference opened, Bernard Baruch appeared in Paris in the in Wilson's wake. He brings with him 117 collaborators, all Jewish, who help him to to consolidate, in the corridors of the conference, its prodigious profits.

Corden Hull, the Foreign Secretary, is married to a Jewish woman. While not Jewish by birth There is no doubt that under the influence of his wife he acquired the habit of thinking more dangerous.

We, of course, find this percentage excessive.

JEWISH AMERICA 45

This war profiteer, this man who amassed his extravagant fortune on The mass graves of Europe is, moreover, a cynic. He is quoted as saying that... Chicago Tribune reproduced:

– Patriotism is a load of nonsense.

Patriotism may be "a load of nonsense," but when it comes to Jewish patriotism, men of Baruch's caliber no longer hesitate. They are, ready to sacrifice the entire world for the salvation of their race.

This is the "unofficial president," the man Roosevelt sees almost every day. days and without whose advice no important decision can be made. stated in Washington, during my last trip, that the recognition of Soviets by the USA which was, as we know, the first act of foreign policy of the President Roosevelt was Baruch's personal creation. And most naturally of the world, the man of the arms dealers of 1914–1918, the friend of the Bolsheviks, The critic of Aryan patriotism has become one of the most prominent figures ardent members of the hawkish faction in Washington.

Another star of the "brain trust" is Felix Frankfurter, the man who according to General Johnson (Saturday Evening Post, October 26, 1935) more of influence than any other person in the United States. Frankfurter, who was born in Vienna in 1882, and whose naturalization is recent, owes his notoriety to The Mooney affair. Mooney, a communist activist accused of throwing a bomb on an official procession, in 1916, and having killed ten people, had the ingenious idea to hire as his lawyer an obscure little Jew, Felix Frankfurter. This initiative He was spared the death penalty because, like all his coreligionists, Frankfurter was then had a perfect ear for stirring up the "universal conscience".

In Frankfurter's nimble hands, the Mooney affair became a kind of case American Dreyfus (is he guilty or not?) and the shrewd lawyer was immediately launched, thrust into the forefront of the news. This cat-and-mouse was of hardworking, a chair at Harvard. Then, when Mr. Roosevelt became president of In the United States, he was the one tasked with giving the New Deal a legal structure. He immediately took advantage of this to place a number of his brothers of the same race:

Feiss as Secretary of State, Benjamin Cohen and Nathan Margold as advisors financial officers of the Ministry of the Interior, David-T. Lilienthal to the VAT Director and Charles Wyzanski as technical advisor to the Ministry of Labour.

Felix Frankfurter never hid the fact that he was a Marxist. At the time when... Jewish international organizations attacked patriotism in each country and where Socialists and communists in our country refused to vote for defense funding Nationally, Frankfurter was campaigning in the United States against the American Legion, whose "chauvinism" he condemned. He demanded that we lose the custom of saluting the American flag, that the teaching of the anthem cease American in schools. Member of all major extremist associations He openly praised the revolution and encouraged more particularly the Black people of the Southern states to rise up against the whites. So much His zeal was finally rewarded in a spectacular fashion. In January 1939, Mr. Roosevelt appointed the Jewish immigrant Felix Frankfurter as a life judge on the court supreme of the United States. In the meantime, it is true, Frankfurter had ceased, as all his brothers of the race to tarnish the national defense. He had become ardently belligerent. The destruction of Hitlerism demanded this about-face. The most

46 JEWISH AMERICA

Wasn't it easy to enlist the Aryans in the great crusade of Jewish racism? No need to prick their patriotism? Long live patriotism, then! And so what if there is beyond the breakage...

When the New Deal was being drawn up, Felix Frankfurter's main objective was to... He collaborated with another Supreme Court justice: Louis Dembitz Brandeis. So that it is quite difficult to discern which of the two men can legitimately claiming paternity of President Roosevelt's "new order" The New York Times wrote (January 28, 1934): "The profound thought behind the New Deal is the A profound thought from Judge Brandeis. This little historical detail, moreover, has little of importance. It suffices for us to know that Judge Brandeis exercises influence over the Roosevelt's influence was constantly growing, and he was also a Jew. of the "conscious and organized" type.

In his book Zionism, he wrote (page 113): "Let us recognize that we We Jews constitute a distinct nationality, of which every Jew is a part. necessarily a party regardless of their country, position, or opinions.

Judge Brandeis is not content with this profession of faith. His solidarity is active. He has many protégés and counts among his "clients" prominent figures. He, it is said, orchestrated the election of the Jew Lehmann. to the position of Governor of the State of New York, replacing Roosevelt. This is he who allegedly appointed the Jew Samuel Rosenmann to the Supreme Court Roosevelt called him his "right-hand man." His concern also extended to the lawyer. Samuel Untermyer, Roosevelt's personal advisor, head of the organization of boycott of "racist" goods, including those with communist sympathies of public knowledge, and to the New York congressman, Samuel Dickstein, who reported by saying on the radio on March 18, 1934: "We Americans, we we must change our laws so that German Jews can come here all of following. "

We could go on and on listing names. Ever since Roosevelt came to power, the Jews have so firmly established themselves in all the administrations, in all the ministries that give the impression of a gigantic feeding frenzy. Even when the minister The person in charge is not Jewish, but his immediate subordinates are. This is the case at work where, behind the screen of the Aryan Frances Perkins, we see Leo stirring Wolman, chairman of the strike committee, Sidney Hillman, councillor, W.-M. Leiserson (born in Russia), secretary of the labor office, Isidor Lubin, delegate to The League of Nations, Frances Jurkowitz, Assistant Secretary for Labour. Rose Schenederma (born in Russia), advisor, etc., etc.

In Commerce, Foreign Affairs, and the Interior, it's the same thing, the same frenetic colonization. One only needs to refer to the year 1936, to to recall what, in our country, under Léon Blum, was like the rush of Jews onto the square (All seats, right now!) to imagine the atmosphere of Washington. The The only difference is that it is an Aryan who is nominally at the head of the government. But nobody is fooled, and Roosevelt never misses a an opportunity to flaunt, to shout out, one's militant philosemitism. Likewise, Mrs. Roosevelt readily appeared in public with Black people who would not be received under Using the humblest of old American families as a pretext, the president puts a point of honor to be photographed as often as possible in company of Jews and to show them spectacular tenderness.

JEWISH AMERICA 47

At the last Thanksgiving before the war, in particular, it was a little Jewish boy, Robert Rosenbaum, a horrible, curly-haired kid with a frog-like face, whom Roosevelt had to his left when he solemnly cut under the magnesium flashes The traditional turkey. We know the importance of this holiday which is celebrated at USA, the last Thursday of November to give thanks to God for blessings granted during the year. A religious festival, of Puritan inspiration, whose This custom dates back to the pioneer era and has retained a similar character. Family-oriented, like an English Christmas. At Thanksgiving Day dinner, the real Americans only admit their close relatives. Nevertheless, in 1938, Mr. Roosevelt did not hesitate to seat at his table, under the pretext of receiving a "Little sick man" at the White House, a foreigner whom it seems impossible to us that he was chosen by chance. Young Rosenbaum had been invited because he was Jewish, and only because he was Jewish. A symbolic gesture that was received in the Newspapers around the world gave it enormous publicity, and it was understood by everyone. antifascists as a challenge to the "evil" Hitlerians.

If one were tempted to forget that Roosevelt was the man of the Jews, the executioner servile to their will, the instrument of their vengeance, their supreme hope, the The Jews themselves would be sure to remind us of this.

As early as October 20, 1933, Rabbi Louis-D. Gross wrote in the Brooklyn Jewish Examine :

The Roosevelt administration gave Jews more opportunities more important than any other government in the history of the United States.

The following year, on March 12, 1934, another rabbi, S.-H. Goldenson, added to this in the Jewish Daily Bulletin:

Jews must support President Roosevelt because his ideals are the same than those of the ancient Hebrew prophets.

Then, in 1935, the Jewish professor H.-J. Laski declared:

If the experiment for which Mr. Roosevelt takes responsibility were to fail, as as a consequence of the support that a large number of prominent Jews gave to This experience would unleash a wave of anti-Semitism in the United States such as that Anglo-Saxon civilization had never known anything like it.

On March 6, 1939, Roosevelt received the Congressional Gold Medal "for services" exceptional contributions made to the cause of the Israelites in the United States.

And in May 1939, the congress of B'nai B'rith, the all-powerful association Jewish Masonic, unanimously adopts a motion demanding that, in defiance of all American traditions Roosevelt be re-elected president for the third times.

Things were going rather badly. The famous Roosevelt experiment, of which the Professor Laski had so accurately predicted that in case of failure it would trigger a an unprecedented wave of anti-Semitism; on the eve of the war, it was no longer possible to conceal its bankruptcy. The weak legal proceedings brought against Morgan Bank had allowed the absolute power of the trusts to persist. The New Deal had not reduced the unemployment was minimal. Eleven million unemployed continued to living off state subsidies without any benefit to the community. The conflicts social issues were multiplying daily and taking on an increasingly distinctive character. violent. All of America was familiar with the pre-revolutionary climate of Spain in 1935 and France in 1936.

48 JEWISH AMERICA

For having surrendered itself to the Jewish alchemists, America was paying a heavy price for an aberration. And if she understood—for despite everything, she could decide to to understand — his awakening would be terrible.

This is what the Jewish minds who think for Mr. Roosevelt wanted to avoid. They had one last chance, an old, rather worn-out trick, but one that was appealing. Plutocrats are always driven to bankruptcy: war.

The war that makes us forget at once all the failures of democracy.

The war that quenches the thirst for revenge of the Jewish warmongers.

The war that imposes a sacred union around the banners of Israel.

The Jewish war...

CHAPTER VI

THE UNBOWED

If you were to risk a few words against the great invasion you... all of you, newspapers, we would strangle you so completely that you would forget it in eight days
The very name you sported!... right down to the color of Your pages! Not a single ad! Not a single theater! In five In minutes it would be decided, passed on, washed away... Not a single credit left.
no more permits, no more paperwork, and soon no more...
News, not a single phone call, nothing...

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(Trifles for a massacre.)

America's great misfortune is that it has not given birth to High-quality anti-Semites. Nothing like Drumont or Céline, on the other hand. on the ocean side. No thinker, no polemicist who bothered to to clear the undergrowth of democracy and to provide his country with a true doctrine nationalist, of a reasoned anti-Semitism that can be endorsed by men of goodwill.

It is somewhat distressing to note that the "great ancestor" of anti-Semitism
Mr. Henry Ford is an American. Mr. Ford is a happy businessman who has earned a billion dollars by exploiting a simple idea: mass-produced cars and made affordable for all budgets, but it is doubtful that its name will leave His writings leave no trace in the history of contemporary philosophy.
are barely above the average for primary school students and Moreover, his anti-Semitism was only a passing crisis, a kind of outburst of rage that the Jews were quick to appease by employing drastic measures.

Before launching his assault on the Jewish strongholds, Henry Ford had already demonstrated, at least in one instance, that when he believed he was serving the cause of
As a public good, he did not hesitate to put himself on the line.

In 1916, he had chartered a steamship at his own expense to go to Europe at the head from a pacifist delegation, to beg the belligerents to cease fighting.
War seemed to him a monstrous folly. He, who was driven by passion to build, he could not conceive the reasons that drove men to to destroy each other with such savage ferocity. What a dreadful waste of lives and of riches!... So, naively, Ford had imagined that it would be enough for him to appear.

and to speak reasonably to the combatants: "Come now, you're crazy, "Go home..." so that the massacres would stop immediately.

Naturally, this expedition ended in a rather pitiful failure.

The belligerents refused to receive him, and in America itself, most of the Newspapers ridiculed the pilgrim. But Ford had given proof of his goodwill.

The crusade against the Jews was not to be any more successful. It was May 20th. In 1920, Ford's weekly newspaper, the Dearborn Independent, published an article entitled: "The International Jew, a Global Problem," which resonated throughout America like a thunderbolt.

Hey! What? They dared to touch the Jews! They dared to broach this taboo subject, to defy The all-powerful gods of Wall Street and the White House! People are They watched, petrified with horror. What was going to happen? Surely the sky was going to collapse...

This first article was, however, quite ordinary, or rather, it seemed so to us. who are familiar with the Jewish problem and who have seen point fulfilled point by point, the predictions (true or false, it doesn't matter) of the protocols of the of Zion. The anonymous author explained that there was a Jewish conspiracy to ensure world domination, which the Jews already controlled in Russia thanks to Bolsheviks and Western Europe thanks to international financiers, as well as to In the United States, the Jews had already conquered New York and made it the most depraved in the world, they were in the process of taking over the entire country entire.

The philippic in the Dearborn Independent was followed by this mention: Henry Ford takes responsibility for all articles published in 'Independent', this The newspaper being his personal property. The Jewish question, as everyone knows, is a ma The situation in the United States, particularly in the business world, has worsened. And because Jewish influence would have been powerful enough to annihilate it...

How could Henry Ford, this man so uncultured, so uncurious about matters of the mind, confined within its factories and voluntarily deprived of all contact with Could New York have so clearly grasped the power of the Jews? had had the revelation on the famous "peace ship" that was taking him to Europe, in 1916, and he recounted it in a page of memoirs that Gringoire has opportunely recalled on February 13, 1942:

On the ship were two prominent Jews. We hadn't made two miles out at sea they began to speak to me about the power of the Jewish race, to tell me how they controlled the world through gold and that the Jews alone and no one but the Jews could stop the war.

I resisted believing them and told them. Then they went into detail to Tell me by what means the Jews orchestrated the war... money... materials first... so much so that they persuaded me.

They claimed and believed that the Jews had started the war, that they would continue it for as long as they saw fit and as long as she did not it would not stop until the Jews decided to stop it.

So, having perceived the danger, Henry Ford decided to join the fight. with all his immense financial resources, and his intellectual resources which were, alas, much more limited. But he acted spontaneously, in a man of goodwill, solely for the purpose of opening the eyes of his compatriots, to do them a favor.

JEWISH AMERICA 51

The article in the Dearborn Independent was the first in a long series. At first, the Jews thought it wiser not to respond. They circled around the Ford's journal: a vast conspiracy of silence, people's favorite method of Israel whenever they are unable to carry out direct reprisals against their enemies. However, the sale of the Dearborn Independent continued to grow and the revelations of its editors became increasingly precise, of increasingly alarming.

Then some Jews lost patience, and one of them, Isaac Laudmann, editor The head of V American Hebrew challenged Ford to "prove" that a conspiracy existed. Jewish. VAmerican Hebrew offered to pay the detectives. It was a crude trap. because it is quite obvious that it is impossible to record the secret meetings of leaders of the Jewish community or to photograph them "conspiring." But Ford who, like all simple people, had a weakness for detective novels, fell cheerfully fell for it and sent his own detectives on the trail of the conspiracy. So, what was bound to happen, happened. The Dearborn Independent was flooded false documents fabricated by corrupt police officers in the pay of the Jews. And They took advantage of this to triumph loudly every time Ford... He was left to be mystified. The rough businessman from Detroit was no match for this a battle against the subtle and unscrupulous Talmudists of New York.

However, all this commotion alarmed the Jews. This was their primary interest. The reason we talk about them as little as possible is only under the cover of ignorance. that they can consolidate their power, and total silence is better than the most brilliant press campaign in favor of the chosen race. Because defending them, It is to draw their attention to them, and they can only truly act effectively if when it is admitted once and for all that there is no Jewish question.

Ford was overwhelmed with stamped papers. Hundreds of Jews were suing him. trials or demanded the insertion of clarifications or denials. He did so. He rejoiced: "We have provoked," wrote his diary, "a great uproar." of idle chatter about the Jewish question in this country.

It had to end: one fine day, on a mysterious order, all the Jews – which was not so serious – and all the Jewish Aryans, controlled, domesticated, enslaved by the Jews – which was far more worrying – began to Boycott Ford automobiles. Not a penny more for the enemy of the Jews.

Ford was a billion-dollar rich, but it was a fortune entirely invested in its factories, a fortune that supported hundreds of thousands of people, an extremely vulnerable fortune. That the sale stopped and the The debacle would be vertical.

So Ford capitulated. In January 1922, the Bearborn Independent published a note embarrassed, she explained that the newspaper had to abandon its attacks, but that it invited all Goyim not to lose sight of the Jewish question.

The Jews had silenced the richest businessman in the United States.

52 JEWISH AMERICA

Ford's failure is very similar to the Ku Klux Klan's collapse in the aftermath from the other war. We know that this secret society originated in Georgia during the so-called "reconstruction" period that followed the 1865 debacle of Southern armies. The KKK, whose ritual and carnivalesque aspect seem to us laughable, as laughable as the masquerades of our Freemasons, was, however, at the era, imperatively necessary. And necessary in its very form, with its hoods, shrouds, and flaming crosses. One could even say that it is the The KKK, which saved, along with the physical person of the whites, all of this which could still be saved from southern civilization. This is because, under the protection from the Union bayonets, the Blacks brutally emancipated by Lincolns had been given all the rights, they were encouraged to use them, to abuse them, to take all the revenge, to satisfy all their instincts. Troops of Black raiders burned the farms, massacred the planters, raped the white women. And if a Southern gentleman were to make a defensive gesture, he was automatically condemned by the Yankee courts-martial. As a matter of principle, the The white man was always wrong, the black man was always right.

Unable to obtain justice, yet determined not to let themselves exterminated by their former slaves, the defeated southerners then imagined the Ku Klux Klan. It wasn't a bad idea. The association had to be secret. To evade the northern police, she also needed to have a a terrifying aspect designed to stifle any inclination to resist among the Black population. Black people were so superstitious that the bed sheets worn by the Klan members' attempts to resemble ghosts had a greater effect on these beings. primitive than the most bloody punishment. At very little cost, by executing only the minimum number of blacks, by simply terrifying them, the people of the Ku Klux The Klan managed fairly quickly to restore some order to the anarchy of the "Reconstruction" and above all, putting everyone back in their place.

Then, when the Northern occupation troops withdrew and the States of The South began to govern itself again, and the KKK gradually lost its its reason for being, and it faded away gently. In the aftermath of the 1914-1918 war, it was to experience a brief revival. But this time it was no longer a question of to bring overly enterprising blacks to heel. The Klan's goals were broader. The new KKK, inspired by the South like the first, aimed to

To rid the United States of foreign influences, of everything that tarnished the American ideal. He professed a jealous nationalism, he claimed to put back in honor, amidst the disorder of all kinds resulting from the war, the taste work, family, austerity, patriotism. He denounced the evils of capitalism, he repudiated Marxism. The Klan, in short, contained the seeds of a true American national socialism. Unfortunately, the men who those who had taken the lead did not have the necessary stature to make it popular such a noble ideal and such sound principles. They stubbornly clung to preserving the a farcical and outdated ritual of "reconstruction". However, if the era of shirts of The color was beginning, the ghosts' was closed. In 1920, with their shrouds, the Klan members no longer frightened anyone, and people didn't hesitate to... to make fun of them.

Yet, despite the inadequacy of its leaders and the ridiculousness of its The Klan's methods were making quite surprising progress, especially in small towns.

JEWISH AMERICA 53

of the West, among the middle classes, because of the temptation of fascism – this evil of century, as Robert Brasillach so aptly and sympathetically put it – was large and only the Klan responded to this religious need for national renewal and purity. The number of people is estimated at around four million. members and sympathizers of the Klan, in 1920.

However, the new Klan was anti-Semitic. It couldn't help but be. The danger was no longer the same as in 1865 with the slave revolt. The hooded figures of "flaming cross" which, moreover, fueled rather naive prejudices against the Catholics, "subjects of a foreign sovereign" had understood very well that the true enemies of Americanism were the Jews. Unfortunately, They were no match for such adversaries. Their doctrine was confused, their methods outdated, and when the Jews had decided to put an end to The Klan's liquidation was accomplished in a few months. For this, the Jews who supported All Masonic-affiliated associations resorted to their weapon favorite: slander. Since the Jews controlled the main newspapers, it was their It was easy to dishonor the leaders of the new Klan. Attacked in their integrity, in Their honor, their morality, prevented them from making their defense heard. And Furthermore, the entire institution was ridiculed – which wasn't very difficult. entire, by emphasizing its childish ritual, by assimilating its practices to the most odiously "obscurantist" traditions of the Inquisition.

The post-war Klan had experienced rapid growth. It almost disappeared Just as quickly. Thus vanished the promises of an American fascism.

For a while, it was believed that Father Coughlin, the radio priest, was going to to unite all the opponents of Judaism. This likeable clergyman had carved out an exceptional place for himself in American political life. Every week he He harangued millions of listeners across all radio frequencies. And what he What he said was not unreasonable at all. He condemned capitalism and Marxism. With the fervor of a true fascist, he invoked the encyclical of Leo XIII to justify the building of a new state where social justice would reign and, without

By openly attacking democracy, he implied that he would find strong solace in it. well of his disappearance.

In the beginning, when Roosevelt could still only be judged on his promises, the Father Coughlin had eloquently supported the Democratic candidate. But, As early as 1934, the radio priest realized that the President was betraying the cause of that he was handing the country over to the Jews, that he was leading America into war. He White House and he took the helm of the "National League for Justice" "social." In 1935, Father Coughlin denounced it for the first time on air. the actions of the "international bankers," the Baruchs, the Loeb's, the Warburgs, the Rothschild. The word "Jew" was not uttered, but no one misunderstood, and the New York rabbis immediately rose up to accuse Coughlin of promoting "racial hatred." Classic tactic. As soon as you set foot on a Jewish criminal, whether it be Dreyfus, Stavisl, or Blum, all Jews they shout in unison that they are being unjustly attacked, they immediately stand in solid the least defensible of them.

Then, Father Coughlin became increasingly specific in his accusations; he He began to call things by their proper names more and more. He saw the war coming and With great foresight, he discerned the causes. With boundless energy with increasing urgency, he implored his compatriots not to let themselves slide towards t disaster.

54 JEWISH AMERICA

I fear an army of ten million unemployed people in our country more than an army "Ten million enemies beyond the waves," he proclaimed on January 8, 1939. fear no more the consequences of the misery of twenty million people living below the American standard of living than the combined forces of dictators from Europe... Like Wilson, Roosevelt is leading us to war, with the same methods, for the same reasons...

And on January 29, 1939, Father Coughlin gave full meaning to the frenzy of warmongers:

Let the Jews take a stand against communism! Let them dare to do so! It's the only way they have to prove their sincerity! But they don't attack it. than to the Nazis and fascists, under the pretext that these are "foreign" doctrines and that they themselves are too "American" to accept them. They are careful, by against, to touch upon Bolshevism which is still – if words still have a meaning—a foreign doctrine!... Better yet, they do everything to ensure that soldiers Americans may one day be called upon to die alongside the Bolsheviks in the Jewish crusade against totalitarian countries...

Why didn't Father Coughlin, who saw things so clearly, have a better Successful? First, his Catholicism alienated most Protestants who maintain in the United States the old anti-papist prejudice of the early Puritans. And then the man had his flaws. There were in this overflowing character the best intentions in the world, a certain something that prevented it from being taken t

Seriously: too much theatrical posturing, too many carnival-like antics, not enough consistency in his doctrine.

Moreover, the Jews did not give him time to fully develop the experiment. far away. As soon as he began to denounce the influence of Israel and to thunder that the wanted war, one after the other, as if by magic, the Broadcasting stations took away his microphones. Driven off the airwaves, the father Coughlin was unarmed. He was given the coup de grâce at the very start of hostilities. by charging him with high treason, accusing him of being in the pay of Germany. A An old Jewish trick that always works.

As for the other opponents of Judaism, they too were condemned to Silence. Certainly, many Americans deplored the Jewish dictatorship, clubs and even universities were surreptitiously establishing a kind of quota system clausus. But as long as these initiatives were isolated, they did not cause concern. hardly the tribe. What could not be tolerated was the public expression of the Aryan revolt. Mr. Léon de Poncins cites it in The Mysterious International Jewish, the text of a letter sent on December 13, 1933 by YAnti Defamation Chicago League to the editors of American newspapers:

Scribners and Sons have just published a book by Madison Grant entitled: The Conquest of a continent. He is extremely hostile to the interests of Judaism.

JEWISH AMERICA 55

We have an interest in suppressing the sale of this book. We believe we can obtain at We can improve this result by not letting ourselves be drawn into advertising it. Any public comment or criticism of a book of this kind draws attention to it. the attention of many people who, otherwise, would be unaware of its existence. It This results in increased sales. The less discussion there is about this book, the more sales will be reduced.

Consequently, we appeal to you to avoid any comments of this kind. This book will inevitably come to your attention sooner or later. We are convinced that general obedience to this course of action will serve as a warning to publishers and will prevent them from repeating such an adventure.

What can be done against such a marvelously organized conspiracy of silence? In a country where even the smallest newspaper is printed on fifty pages, the leader The anti-Semite James True, founder of V America First Incorporated, was reduced to this, before the war, to send his supporters a mimeographed weekly bulletin, which was sweating misery. In September 1934, James True had collected subscriptions from four hundred industrialists who had pledged to pay him two hundred thousand dollars to found a newspaper. Mr. Roosevelt, having heard of the story, threatened the subscribers to put them on the government's blacklists. The money was He was withdrawn and James True had to fend for himself, writing his reports in his room. and shoot them with conspiratorial equipment. Which, incidentally, did not prevent the Jewish plutocrats accusing James True of being in the pay of Germany!

Thus, no opposition was possible. A bellicose propaganda campaign, of which Roosevelt and The powerful Jews reserved for themselves a monopoly, which crushes all attempts at resistance, which silences all dissenting voices. Lindbergh returns from Germany in 1938, convinced of the Reich's air supremacy. He was chased out immediately after the Lindbergh Air Line disappeared, and when, in 1939, the hero national resolutely takes the lead in the anti-war crusade, he is covered with The most vile insults are hurled at him; his courage, his intelligence, his probity. The victor of the Atlantic is now nothing more than a "sellout," the leader of the "Fifth column." Jewish hack writers just as vile as the The gangsters who murdered his son are determined to dishonor him. We've seen, Moreover, Lindbergh's efforts had been in vain. Between a hero Aryan and Jewish clan, in the United States, the game is not equal.

Another character, less famous but just as likeable, broke his kidneys in the same enterprise, General George van Horn Moseley. This military officer. He had been imprudent enough to denounce the warmongering plot. He was immediately summoned before the parliamentary inquiry committee chaired by Congressman Dies whose aim was to "shed light" on the activities of fascists and Nazis in United States. There, on September 29, 1938, General Moseley was transformed from accused as accuser, and his indictment was deemed so convincing that the Commission refused to include it in his official report. Moseley was obliged to print it at his own expense and to send it to his few friends.

56 JEWISH AMERICA

The general began by recounting that at the beginning, when he refrained from speaking about Jews, they let him say whatever he wanted, but that on the very day when, in a In his speech, he alluded to the chosen race; he received an invitation from Louis-L. Strauss the Kuhn, Loeb and Co. bank, which requested a "friendly" meeting. Strauss assured him that they could easily "come to an understanding." Moseley refused even net. From then on, he could no longer publish a single article or deliver a single speech. was blacklisted by the all-powerful Jewish censorship.

And Moseley added:

It is a very big strategic error to insist on not agreeing with our distant neighbors, neither on the Atlantic nor the Pacific side... America is looking for a dangerous quarrel with Germany... I have three sons. I don't I don't want them to die to satisfy the ideological passions of Mr. Roosevelt.

Another general (some American military personnel are definitely good sympathetic), General Butler exclaimed on March 11, 1939:

If we have to fight for democracy every twenty years, why the hell?
Are we preserving democracy?

Naturally, these two opposing generals, who were quick to take risks, were immediately Expelled from the army.

On the eve of the war, the Jews had broken down all resistance; they had cleared the space in front of them. Admittedly, the Americans weren't very keen on going in combat, but while the warmongers were well-organized and in control of the country, the peace party was decapitated, without leader or doctrine, condemned to Utter impotence.

CHAPTER VII

FRESH AND JOYFUL

It is in the United States that we observe, most clearly, that one experiences all the Jew's panic, the mad anguish that strangles her, disguised as arrogance, at the slightest mention of the possibility of a general settlement of accounts, global. They talk about it, they're paralyzed by it, they tear each other apart over it. of terror, like on the execution chair. "The war "Against Hitler!" And immediately! Rally, rallying cry, hasty magic, evangelization of all Jewry American, fantastically democratic.

Louis-Ferdinand Céline
(The School for Corpses.)

Americans have very bad memories of the penultimate one war. Not that they suffered much: their losses amounted to seventy-five thousand men, which, proportionally to the mass of their population, is insignificant. Not that they had anything to complain about from the point material: the destruction was reserved for Europe and, despite the lack of For debtor states, the operation resulted in handsome profits, in development dizzying growth of the industry, through the conquest of new markets snatched from belligerents in South America and the Far East.

Yet the average American felt he had been duped. And, in fact, he He was well and truly duped. Duped by Wilson, who had promised peace to get elected, and v declared war as soon as he had rigged the votes of his compatriots. Deceived by the allies who refused to make peace "without annexations or indemnities" and who They then evaded payment of their debts. Deceived by all the nations Europeans whom the appalling experience failed to tame and who They began to argue again as soon as the Treaty of Versailles was signed.

No, definitely, those people (the Europeans) did not deserve to be... took care of them, sacrificed themselves to ensure their happiness and to make them reign Justice. Let them sort it out among themselves! Let them settle their sordid affairs them-minor disputes over precedence and boundary markers.

The war had served no purpose. It had only benefited the bankers and the arms dealers. The average American swore, as early as 1919, that one would not. He wouldn't do it again.

58 JEWISH AMERICA

In 1921, when I was admitted to a school in New York, one of my first impressions. The surprising thing was to see how unpopular the Allies were.

A few months later, the Americans had forgotten that they had just fought against Germany. No trace of resentment. On the contrary, people pitied the vanquished for suffering. The Treaty of Versailles condemned French "imperialism" and the American Jew. Otto Kahn was campaigning in the Forum for Austria and the provinces. The Sudetenland of Czechoslovakia were annexed to Germany.

In 1929, when I returned to the United States, this feeling had only just begun to fade. It was to develop. Sympathies lay with Germany, and this with all the more conviction that the Reich was then a Jewish stronghold. The spiritual directors of The United States loved the Weimar Republic of Jews as they should have loved a little later, Jewish France under Léon Blum. But it was understood that these sympathies could in no way be manifested in a tangible way. America was fiercely determined never to intervene again, whatever the cost. It arrived, in the affairs of Europe.

By 1935, American sympathies had shifted. Or rather, without realizing it. People would have begun to cherish France, they would have condemned Hitlerism, they would have fought against "racist barbarity." But American isolationism remained intact. While they were happy to encourage the fighters, there was absolutely no intention of going into the arena. The prevailing sentiment among those eligible for mobilization was that the triumph of democracy in Europe was not worth the bones of a national guardsman in Oklahoma. A sentiment so strong that even the most fervent Jewish polemicists dared not directly confront public opinion by advocating the participation of The United States in the great anti-Hitler crusade, and President Roosevelt. He himself was forced to repeat that he would keep the country out of all future conflicts.

However, President Roosevelt was already the spiritual leader of the anti-Nazi crusade, the secret but fanatical protagonist of the coming war, the pope of warmongers.

By a significant coincidence, Chancellor Hitler and Mr. Roosevelt took the oath to be able to happen at roughly the same time, a few weeks apart. On one hand, the liberator of the Aryans. On the other, the champion of Jewry. Between Men, between the values they symbolize, no compromise is possible. Because of the day Hitler became Chancellor of the Reich marks the beginning of the war that... Jews from all over the world declared to Germany. The physicist Einstein expressed with an instructive naiveté the sometimes hidden but profound feelings of people of his race. Before Hitler, he wrote: In case of war, I will refuse all direct or indirect military service, and I will strive to persuade my friends to do the same, without regard to rights and wrongs concerning the origin of the conflict.

As soon as Hitler seized power, Einstein himself crossed the border and declared He immediately told the people who had welcomed him: If I were celebrating a Belgian holiday military in the current circumstances, but I would accept it, on the contrary, in mindfulness.

Note that Einstein is no more eager "after" than "before" to go personally at the rifle range. But "before", he preached with his rifle butt in the air and

JEWISH AMERICA 59

"Afterwards," he sends the brave men to their deaths with a light heart, fully aware of the little Aryan lads from enslaved countries.

Suddenly, like Einstein, Jews all over the world... transformed, with varying degrees of success, into recruiting sergeants. And Mr. Roosevelt is too closely subservient to the Jews to have been able to consider, for a moment, thwart their aspirations. On the contrary, he served as moral support for these He disguised his aspirations as a humanitarian movement, he employed himself with a vigilant tenacity to put as many advantages as possible in Israel's game, to to raise as many opponents as possible against Hitlerism, and above all to undermine, to undermine American isolationism, to be gradually made acceptable to the people of The United States has the idea that war is possible, that it is necessary, that it is inevitable.

A long-term undertaking, which encountered much more resistance in America. obstacles than in Europe. Because you can always persuade a European, especially when it is launched into a war of aggression, when its existence is threatened, while it is still difficult to get a farmer from the Middle to admit West that it is urgent to go and die somewhere in Flanders.

I remember a film, "Monsieur Tout-le-Monde", which illustrated it quite well the mindset of Mr. Roosevelt's constituents. "Mr. Average Citizen" is an American, so wonderfully average in everything, that an advertising agency has hired to serve as his "best man." We're sure that, when he chose a tie, It's the tie that appeals to almost all Americans; we know that the cocktail that he prefers is the one that suits the majority of the altered Yankees, that a The torpedo-shaped car he noticed at the Salon will sell without difficulty. The tastes of "Mr. Average" is always endorsed by the clientele and it is enough to consult to safely undertake large-scale production.

"Mr. Average" is so infallible that one day we decide to to know his feelings on foreign policy. He is woken up in the middle of the night to tell him about a fascist attack. Leave me alone, he replies. "Mr. Average." And he falls back asleep. An hour later, he is informed that Democracy is dying in Europe. For God's sake, don't disturb my sleep. Finally, he is informed that enemy planes are in the skies over New York. "Well," said "Mr. Average," "in that case, I'll fight." And he stood up.

to go and enlist.

It's this "Mr. Average," these countless "Gentlemen" "Everyone" of the United States that President Roosevelt, the ideal embodiment of Jewish belligerence, launched into the war of democracies.

The first thing to do was to eliminate the far-sighted Americans who had uncovered the plot, who had understood the disasters the president and His Jewish gang was leading the country astray. We saw this in the previous chapter. how these people were silenced.

There was only one obstacle to Mr. Roosevelt's plans, an obstacle which was, admittedly, of Size: the apathy of the American people, their firm resolve not to go to war. This The people, intoxicated and stupefied by Jewish propaganda, had embraced the ideas of the He hated fascism. He adored democracy. But he didn't want to fight. Hence the need to sugarcoat it for him, to gradually accustom him, extremely gently, at the thought of war.

60 JEWISH AMERICA

Initially, the isolationist desire of the American people was so great that Mr. Roosevelt (just like Wilson) is obliged, in order to maintain his popularity, to to multiply pacifist professions of faith. This is what he declared on August 14th 1936, in Chautauqua, this speech which constitutes, as they say at the Palace of Justice, "Spontaneous confessions," which represent the most merciless indictment that has has never been spoken out against the president's own warmongering:

If war were to break out on another continent, let us not deceive ourselves that, driven by the lure of immediate profits, he would find himself in the country of Thousands of Americans who would try to force us out of neutrality. They they will tell you – and unfortunately their views will encounter a large advertising – that if they could produce and export all the items of which the The belligerents need it; all the unemployed in America would find work. They They will tell you that if they could open credit lines to nations at war, these credits would be used in the United States to build houses and factories and to pay off our debts. They'll tell you that once again, America would seize control of world trade.

It will be hard to resist this clamor. It will be hard, I fear, for many. Americans to look further, to realize the inevitable returns that follow false prosperity. To resist the cries of this pack, should war break out, We would need to mobilize the mass of peace-loving Americans. If we have Faced with a choice between profit and peace, the nation will have to respond and The answer will be: peace!

In 1937, the president gave his public the satisfaction of the famous law of neutrality which prohibits the export of war materiel destined for countries belligerents.

This attitude is not, moreover, in contradiction with the members' plans.

of the "brain trust". These men were not primarily interested in waging war. They were keen to wage war against Hitler, which wasn't quite the same thing. thing.

Of course, in official statements, in press articles, it is especially the dictatorship that we attack and pretend to act this way only to defend democracy. But rather curiously, the dictator Stalin, nor the dictators of South America, nor the Turkish dictator, nor Chiang Kai-shek. Hitler alone is responsible (and also, to a lesser degree, Mussolini). his ally). Because Hitler is anti-Semitic. And only because he is anti-Semitic, he must be shot.

Moreover, while Roosevelt maintained some caution in his invectives, some of his immediate collaborators are much less hypocritical, much more Franks. They do not hesitate to name the number one enemy of Jewry. This is how Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, nicknamed "the Jew" "Synthetic" by American anti-Semites, multiplies provocations and proclaims That's quite clear, as his boss Roosevelt is implying.

Presiding over a banquet held on April 26, 1938, in honor of the Jewish rabble Having taken refuge in the USA, he exclaimed:

The United States has been enriched by the influx of brilliant minds forced into exile by Nazi persecutions. Our country salutes these exiles!... Soon the shelves of the Freedom will pierce the dark clouds, for the most powerful tyrant cannot kill the soul of man.

JEWISH AMERICA 61

On December 18, 1938, speaking in Cleveland, Ohio, he was even more specific:

Comparing the Middle Ages to modern totalitarian countries is an insult... If If we want to make a comparison, we have to go back to the time when there was no Civilization, but simply bestiality. Certain regions of Europe currently allow anthropologists to study prehistoric man without resorting to a human jawbone or tooth dating back to that time prehistoric.

Never, in peacetime, in any country in the world, has a responsible minister had never before more insolently defied a foreign nation with which there is no no serious disagreement. But American Jews are so blinded by their They are consumed by racist fury and have lost all sense of decency. They are seething with They are burning for revenge; they need blood, corpses, as quickly as possible.

A faithful interpreter of the passions that drive the leaders of the United States, V American Hebrew wrote quite bluntly on June 3, 1938:

Hitler is riding a wave; he will sink into it. He has forgotten the example of the Pharaoh the fate of those who persecute the chosen people. This people always rises up for to bite the heels of those who want to trample on him.

The forces of reaction are being mobilized. A combination of England, of France and Russia will sooner or later stop the Führer's triumphant march. That success drives people mad. Whether by accident or by design (?) a Jew has risen to a position of predominant importance in each of these three nations; in the hands of these non-Aryans lies the fate of millions of human lives.

Blum is no longer Prime Minister of France, but President Lebrun is not that a figurehead and Daladier only took the reins for a moment. Léon Blum is the predominant Jew, the one who matters. He can therefore be the Moses who, at good time, will lead the French nation.

The great Jew who sits to Stalin's right, that tin soldier of the Communism, Litvinov, grew in stature to the point of surpassing any comrade of the International, with the sole exception of the yellow-skinned leader of the Kremlin.

Refined and cultured, the skillful Litvinov conceived and implemented the Franco-Russian pact. He was the one who convinced President Roosevelt. He reached the pinnacle of the game. diplomatically, keeping the conservative England led by the Etonians wearing a silk hat, in the friendliest terms with Red Russia.

And Hore Belisha! Suave, versatile, cunning, ambitious and competent, flamboyant, Authoritarian, his star still rises. He will follow Disraeli's path to the residence at 10 Downing Street, where the fate of all the king's subjects is decided. Bore Belisha's rise was sensational. He has become a master in the sage employment of propaganda, having acquired his experience under Lord Beaverbrook. He maneuvered to keep his name in the spotlight. This young man an aggressive man transformed the old, ragged, uncouth English army, routine and worn down into a mechanized war machine that is on a war footing in a world that threatens to become a mere dropping (?) for dictators.

These three prominent sons of Israel will conspire to send the devil to hell the audacious dictator who will be brought down – not too gently – into a hole dug into the earth. And then the Jews will sing Hallelujah. Europe will be crushed. in pieces.

62 JEWISH AMERICA

It is almost certain that these three nations will stand shoulder to shoulder, in a virtual alliance against Hitler. When the smoke of battle settles, when the bugles have fallen silent and the shells have finished exploding, then the trio of non-Aryans will intone a Requiem that will sound curiously like a mixture of the Marseillaise, God Save the King and the Internationale, culminating in a grand, aggressive, proud, and militant finale that will be the anthem Jew: Eili! Eili!

In light of this article, American politics in recent years becomes Clear as day: everything for war, nothing neglected to exacerbate the quarrels. European, to encourage the Russian-French-British to move forward, the The best encouragement is to let them believe that in the event of a conflict, America will rush to their aid. Hence Mr. Roosevelt's extremely subtle game which On the one hand, it is working to reassure its public opinion (rest assured, we will not (we won't budge!) and on the other hand, to incite the belligerent democrats of Europe (Go ahead, we're with you!)

It is no coincidence that the first ambassador appointed to Paris by Mr. Roosevelt is the Jew Jesse Strauss (owner of Macy's stores) New York) and that his successor is the half-Jewish William Buuitt, son of the Jewess Louisa Gross Horwitz and married to the widow of American communist leader John Reissue. BuUitt arrives straight from Moscow where he tumultuously befriended Stalin, and where he ceded his place to another Jew, Steinhardt. The mission of these The gaillards are precise. They must light the fuse.

The Czech crisis is causing jubilation among all the Jews of America. It is the long-awaited, much-hoped-for opportunity. Mr. Pittmann, Chairman of the Commission The Senate Foreign Affairs Committee preemptively rules out any attempt at compromise: The Czechoslovakia, he said, has the right to wait and to request the protection of governments responsible for its creation and who have committed to protecting it. Bernard Baruch, after spending the entire afternoon with President Roosevelt, Telephone Sir John Simon: Don't give in, we support you. But the English they find that war would be premature and it is the Munich Agreement which is The Jewish press, which greeted the American public with genuine consternation, Horribly disappointed, she vents her fury against France: So what? We Deflating? Are we balking? Do we no longer want to be the "Christ of the Nations"? So the French have nothing left in their stomachs?

Upon returning from a trip to the United States, Dr. Goldmann, one of the leaders of the "World Jewish Congress" sums up this disappointment quite well in an interview that V Order (January 15, 1939) piously collects:

American Jews have understood that the humanitarian era is forever that era is over, that the Jewish problem is no longer a matter of philanthropy, that, for To save the mutilated body of the Jewish people, we need not just plasters of charity, but a comprehensive, precise, energetic, radical action.

Allow me to add a few more words about the saddened astonishment what different groups (American warmongers) feel when they realize that France is absent from the decisive battle taking place in the world today. around individual rights.

JEWISH AMERICA 63

For his part, Roosevelt understands that one of the reasons that held the The uncertainty in which democracies find themselves regarding the nature of support American^ and that it becomes necessary, if we really want them to fight, to to offer them more spectacular encouragement without taking naturally, specific commitments. The assassination of Councilor von Rath by the wretched Grynspan provides him with the opportunity. It is the first shot of the World war, something quite similar to the "exploit" of the Jew Princip at Sarajevo. But the virtuous Mr. Roosevelt had not a word to pity the victim and As soon as the Reich decides on reprisals against the Jewish community, it He shows solidarity with the murderer: in a theatrical gesture, he recalls his ambassador in Berlin. Then, in a speech given in early January 1939, he launched in a violent diatribe against racism. Our warmongers were just waiting for this to straighten one's head.

Here comes a new hope, a new encouragement from the other side of the Atlantic, wrote Pierre Brossolette in Le Populaire (January 5) 1939) – Such words certainly deserve applause. But they make Furthermore, they impose duties on us.

President Roosevelt is neither a Munich supporter, nor a coward, nor an accomplice. Gabriel Péri added in L'Humanité, "He is a far-sighted statesman and..." brave.

And Albert Bayet, never one to miss an opportunity, writes in La Lumière: The president Roosevelt, once again, became the eloquent interpreter of conscience human.

Thus, Roosevelt became in our country the moral compass of the swallowers of sabers. And when French newspapers – as was the case with Je suis Partout – and Gringoire – timidly point out that if the fine harangues of The president is pushing us into war, yet they are not providing us with any military assistance. These voices are immediately drowned out by the furious shouts of the warmongers. Roosevelt is sacred, Roosevelt is taboo. It is forbidden to voice the slightest criticism. against the pope of the anti-fascist crusade. Forbidden to try to understand.

We're almost being told that we have to fight because peace would be unwelcome. He is too good a president and should not be hurt in any way, however slight.

"Well-informed" people spread the "certainty" that the United States is ready to march and Ambassador Bullitt supports these rumors with all his authority. In February 1939, it was announced that during a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt stated that the United States border was on the Rhine. A congressman – Jewish naturally – Congressman E.-V. Isaac, who represents California and who is A member of the Foreign Affairs Committee confirmed this rumor before Parliament and loudly declares that it approves of the president's remarks. However, Roosevelt was forced to deny it (because all referendums – that, we disregards this – giving 90% of the votes to the opponents of a participation in the crusade) but in Paris, the warmongers refused to accept the They deny it, they consider the joke attributed to the president to be a solemn commitment This frantic determination of our antifascists to be more Rooseveltian than Roosevelt. That's the other aspect, the Parisian aspect of the plot against peace.

5 The New York Times wrote in December 1938: Obviously, France and England are well They are forced to be cautious, but why should we hold back?

- We only bother to deny things that are true, writes Kérillis!
- Mr. Roosevelt denies a statement, notes Paris-Soir. This does not mean that he subscribed to the opposite idea.
- Mr. Roosevelt's clarification, claims the clairvoyant Geneviève Tabouis in V. Work, does not change anything in the substance of the very clear policy stated many times by the President of the United States.
- Yesterday's denial, added V Order, does not diminish the joy we have tested at the first moment. What matters is the spirit, not the letter.
- The clarification, says Gabriel Péri, in L'Humanité, does not change substantially the spirit of these remarks.

And Léon Blum, ever infallible, explains under the title "a setting up
"This confirms the point":

- President Roosevelt did not use the exact language attributed to him, but that no one should now presume to attribute to him a thought contrary to that which his language expressed.

So, in Paris, within the warmongering gang, there was a fierce determination to believe in American, to make vague promises, even manifestly false ones, even denied, for formal commitments. – "And if it pleases me to be
"Cuckolded?"—and to justify launching a strong France through "alliance"
American in the craziest adventures.

Léon Blum's brother, René Blum, in charge of artistic missions (sic) at The United States in 1939, along with so many others, became a champion of illusionism:

"We had lost ground after Munich," he told the press. "But the Recent events (Franco-German tension) have boosted our rating.
America is a country that France can count on!

The simpletons accept these Jewish flattery gestures without question. More and more the average person incorporates American power into our coalition antifascist. And the ministers of the "major democracies" are no less credulous, or they pretend to be. The task of Mr. Roosevelt's emissaries is singularly facilitated.

We know that in Paris, Bullitt is multiplying, that he is besieging our statesmen, that he goes from one to the other, dispensing advice on "firmness", hinting a miraculous help and getting very angry when he thinks he can guess, among the French warmongers, a certain softening of their stance.

Bullitt's excitements left no material trace in our home. Nothing to report.
Written promises! But if we still had some doubt about the role played by this singular diplomat, it would suffice to refer to a report sent to his government by Mr. Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to Washington.

Mr. Potocki recounts a long conversation he had with Bullitt, at during which Mr. Roosevelt's envoy specified:

The president's formal opinion is that France and England must put an end to any policy of compromise with totalitarian states. They do not must engage with them in any discussion aimed at territorial changes, whatever they may be.

Mr. Bullitt gives moral assurance (sic) that the United States renounces the policy of isolation and are prepared to intervene actively in the event of war (?) alongside England and France.

JEWISH AMERICA 65

The Polish diplomat added:

Bullitt emphasized quite clearly that France should not lend itself to any a kind of agreement with Mussolini.

In London, the same pressures were being applied. Roosevelt informed Chamberlain, after the occupation of Prague, unless England renounces the policy of In Munich, he will denounce the Anglo-American trade treaty. It's a real ultimatum.

We know the outcome of this diplomatic action: the September War 1939 – It is not my intention to find mitigating circumstances for wretches who plunged France into this dreadful adventure, but he It should be noted that they were largely driven to do so by the government. American. The Jews of New York and Washington had achieved their goal, they had launched the French army against Hitler

Things then didn't go quite as they had planned. expected. The French army is crushed (without America even deigning to (responding to the distress signals of the awful little Reynaud). And, instead of a Victory of Jewish democracy means triumph of Hitlerism.

A terrible disappointment. So, Roosevelt understands that he must go even further and to pay with his own person, or more precisely to pay with the corpses of soldiers and Yankee sailors offered as a sacrifice to Jewish vengeance. He decides that the The United States must enter the war itself. Article by article, he begins to nibbling away at its own neutrality law in order to be able to supply England, the last Jewish stronghold in Western Europe which has only been able to resist to this day thanks shipments of food and equipment from the Americans (shipped at a high price).

In September 1940, Roosevelt ceded fifty old destroyers to England. exchange of naval bases taken from the British Empire, then he obtains from Congress authorized the lending of money to the London government. At the same time, American sailors receive orders to communicate with the fleet English all the information they can gather on the movements of ships of the axis.

Roosevelt dispatched the infamous Colonel Donovan, known as "the savage," to the Balkans. Bill, who is tasked, in close collaboration with the Intelligence Service, with undermining the means by which German influence was used to subsidize terrorists and saboteurs, to provoke insurrections against governments that might be tempted to deal with the powers of the axis.

In March 1941, Roosevelt ordered the seizure of all German ships and Italian refugees in US ports

As soon as Colonel Simovitch's anti-fascist putsch broke out in Belgrade, Roosevelt who more or less financed this plot, is quick to grant its "guarantee" to new masters of Yugoslavia. These, bolstered by American "support", provoke the Reich and the matter is settled militarily, in ten days, to the great confusion among the "protectors".

On June 14, 1941, Roosevelt seized all German assets frozen at UNITED STATES.

On June 19, an American destroyer engaged a German submarine in a bombing battle.

On July 7, American troops occupied Iceland, a Danish possession.

66 JEWISH AMERICA

On July 10, the American fleet received orders to fire, on sight, at the ships of the axis, and on September 4th, a US destroyer carried out this order.

On September 11, Roosevelt publicly confirmed that he had indeed ordered that fire on German and Italian ships.

On October 17th, a new act of war by the American fleet.

On November 6, a German steamer was captured on the high seas by torpedo boats. Yankees. Furthermore, English convoys are now escorted by ships of American war.

Thus, although war has not been declared, although a state of peace persists Theoretically, between the Axis powers and the USA, the Americans never cease to increase acts of hostility. This, of course, without the American people to be consulted, solely at the will of Mr. Roosevelt and his Jewish advisors. In the United States, opposition to the war remains strong, despite the frenzied the excitements of the Hebrew pamphleteers and Colonel Lindbergh, symbol of the the desire for peace of the American masses and leader of the powerful league The anti-interventionist America First movement retains quite a bit of influence over the majority of his compatriots to prevent Roosevelt from legally cross the Rubicon.

Roosevelt gets everything he wants from Congress, all the funding, all the necessary equipment to support England, but it remains impossible for him to obtain a formal declaration of war... That's why, authorizing themselves powers conferred upon him by the constitution, which makes him the supreme commander of the army and the navy, he is looking for a "mishap," the incident that will precipitate the irreparable, which will allow him to crush his opposition, under the pretext of national unity, and to mobilize all the country's forces for the anti-fascist crusade.

However, Roosevelt fought the real war on terrain he didn't have chosen, against an opponent whose power he had underestimated. For at the same time while he encouraged the resistance of the enemies of the new Europe, Roosevelt pursues subtle intrigues in the Pacific and strives to intimidate Japan by organizing its economic strangulation. Always the same illusion of liberal plutocrats for whom all political problems are reduced to raw material statistics, industrial balance sheets, this illusion that the New York World Telegram expressed it in these terms:

The nation that controls trade and credit controls the world, and the one that maneuvers the cannons is of little importance.

On paper, Japan, a poor country, is doomed. Economists already distinguished men perform a furious scalp dance on his corpse. Already the admiral Stirling is confident he can settle the score with him in six weeks. Already the New York Herald Tribune wrote in its editorial of October 20, 1941:

Now is a particularly opportune time to correct this once and for all. the Japanese.

And then, suddenly, all at once, Japan breaks the Anglo-Saxon grip. Then the congenital inferiority of the American colossus is revealed. In a few hours the Pacific Fleet was put out of action within a few weeks, the Yankees are driven from their Far Eastern possessions. We realize—but we, we've known for a long time — that the United States is a rotten nation.

JEWISH AMERICA 67

horribly powerless, incapable of planning, organizing, or winning, they are, in a word, a democracy, a true democracy.

A country does not surrender itself to the Jews and play with them with impunity. "Immortal principles." The same microbes cause [problems] at all latitudes. the same organic disorders and what almost killed France could not to make America a healthy nation.

The Yankees will realize—too late, no doubt—the harm the Jews are doing to them have done. They will realize their enslavement and their degradation. They will understand that their masters coldly launched them into a mad war for no other reason than the desire to satisfy racial revenge, to ensure the global triumph of a foreign race, profoundly foreign, which does not bring With it, for two thousand years, wherever it has managed to dominate, only ruin, the Shame, corruption, and war.

Then on that day, when Americans truly understand, there will be a Quite a pretty pogrom in the shadow of the skyscrapers.

END

Table

I. THE AMERICAN MIRAGE 9

II. THE CRUSHING OF CIVILIZED PEOPLE 13

III. THE PROMISED LAND 19

IV. THE NEW YORK GHETTO 27

V. ROOSEVELT OR ROSENFELD? 37

VI. THE UNBOWED 49

VII. FRESH AND JOYFUL 57

Jewish being considered from the point of view of race and not of religious point of view.

EX

Generations, Brian Shapiro

From Yesterday to Today
What horror and misfortune we have committed, in joy and good spirits, to get to this point.

HE

ONE WORD

ON THE TITLE OF THIS WORK

Enemy of vengeance and supporter of justice, no less than clemency depending on the circumstances, We have written these pages in defense of the rights of all French people in general, and in the very interest of Jews. Thus, the words that form the first part the title of this book, have no other significance, with regard to our Jewish fellow citizens, than the one they had when they were addressed by the Messiah himself and by his saint A precursor to the Israelites of their time.

"Snakes, brood of vipers!" said Jesus Christ to the scribes and Pharisees (the nation's elite, doctors of the law, the ruling class whose morals and examples were models to which the people conformed):
How could you say good things, being Evil people?... How will you avoid the judgment of the Gehenna?

And Saint John the Baptist (to the Pharisees and the Saddu-(Céens): Brood of vipers! Who taught you to flee from anger future ?

Just as the Son of God and the Forerunner are not Let us not deny the exceptions, however rare or numerous they may be.

12 THE VIPER BREED

They – at least, there are probably many of them, Jews of good faith. – Nevertheless, it is not their praise that we were charged with giving, but the trial of instincts, aspirations, and dominant vices, habit – the natural and hereditary traits of their race, as well as the doctrine who perpetuates them.

We therefore had to adopt a title which replied to us: it has the value conferred upon it by arguments that we have the honor of submitting to the im – bias of our fellow citizens. Moreover, the second part of this title, and the means we propose for the so – the resolution of the Jewish question, sufficiently demonstrate the es – a sense of fairness that has consistently guided us in writing this work.

We firmly hope that, once the secret is revealed... Mudique, that is to say, of the race, unveiled, the enemy us will inspire less fear than contempt; its strategy will be struck by impotence, and unable to fight us that, on equal terms, he is half defeated. However, he tells us still holds surprises, but our caution... will focus on his cunning, our justice will prevail over his experiments Jews, and finally, France, including naturalized Jews, will triumph over the parasitic nation, whose homeland is the uni – towards all the states of the world for provinces. We Indeed, we believe that we do not have fellow citizens of Jewish race, with two or three homelands, France, or France and Germany, etc., first, and then the Jewish nation of the universal domination (1).

1. – It seems to us that one cannot grant the Jew any other right, in this respect, than that of being: French and coreli – legionnaire of the Jews regardless of the country where they are established, but never: both French and a member of the same Jewish nation

ONE WORD 13

May we be as ardent and persevering in the defense, that this enemy is stubborn and treacherous in the attack.

EX

established throughout the world. The Catholic or the Protestant both French, are the coreligionists of the Protestants or Catholics, Germans, for example, but the profession Sharing the same faith does not make them citizens of Catholics or German Protestants. Or one is simply French. or one is not. Would the Jew be an exception? Would he be and French and a compatriot of the German Jew, that is to say, se- would they respectively do so for the purposes of their cause? national, French, Germans and simultaneously members from another nation (exclusively Jewish) for the triumph universal, of which, and to our detriment, they work? We will elucidate this question later in this work.

oufrdsss your 2p siqueu ne re 19. 'esaune zu 4 sdel 'phjucoos a pub 13 siquou ne 24 poli) anus onnb = pabeof q{ amemep 42 ouaaucs ul of sded 'aug un & À oo' “mp 20p males 1008 pe 'Qg Squou ne ue *Q 13 9 WEÿ “noj z2f un mms sucufedoxe

06 op ummp ab srpues '2vod2 2 19 puaaves shd of oded “ai2pngg eu # £ [I po 8j s1qmou ne
004 o mor zdou »e mod 'g} s2quou ne oque 32 nusaucs 11 9 26ed 'quo moult L [1 Do g 8227

L'LSUESZ

NYNESE

ZA

ATATATATAUA

15

THE VIPER BREED

CHAPTER ONE

WHERE DOES JUICE COME FROM?

Four main names have been given to the Jews,

They are called Hebrews, Israelites, Jews, and Semites. Each of these names, chosen intentionally, can serve to express nuances between the same subjects to which we apply it; basically all designate or can designate—to refer to the same being, that is to say, the Jew.

The name Semite is used to indicate the different races originally descended from Shem, the first son of Noah. In ordinary language, circumstances indicate sufficiently, whether it concerns a Jew or a subject of another race Semitic; the error in the use of this word, when it comes to the Jew is not possible because an unequivocal correction is usually added to clarify its meaning.

Sem is the distant ancestor, the mother stock of all the Semitic peoples, despite the fact that, through a kind of appropriation—relatively, the word Semite is almost synonymous with Jew.

Here, in order of generation in the immediate direct line, are:
Trace the lineage of the Jews back to Judah, his eleven brothers, Jacob's sons and his two grandsons: Manasseh and Ephraim: Shem, Arphaxad, Salé, Eber, Peleg, Reu, Sarug, Nahor, Thare, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and his twelve sons: Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Zebulun, Issachar, Dan, Gad, Asher, Naphtali, Joseph, Benjamin, the two sons of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim.

16 THE VIPER BREED

From Heber came Hebrew: this name given to the Jews and to which no significance is ordinarily attributed disadvantageous though, is still in use. Abraham, despite possessing exceptional qualifications, he did not receive by his name the patronymic honors, like Heber his ancestor. It was indeed Abraham whom God called to be the father of this extraordinary Semitic people: the Jews. (1921 BC or 2296 of the world.) "Now the Lord said to Abraham: leave your land and your relatives and your house from your father and come to the land that I will show you. I will be—I will shine upon a great nation, I will bless you and glorify you your name." (Gen. XII, 1-2)

"The Lord made a covenant with Abraham, saying I I will give this land to your descendants from the river of Egypt
"as far as the great river Euphrates." (Gen. XV, 18.)

"Your name will no longer be Abram, but Abraham; for I have made you the father of a multitude of nations." (Gen. XVII, 5.)

"Sarah your wife will bear him a son, and you will call him Isaac and I will make a covenant with him eternal and with his posterity after him." (Gen. XVII. 19.)

Abraham is the source of this torrent, clear to first days; soon after, as long as he remained chained-born in the bed he had dug for himself and by the obstacles na-Turels that lined its banks, pure, only to very rare intervals and as if by miracle; finally, in the eyes of a few, infected, unique species of sewer collector discovered, carrying for nineteen centuries through the a world of nameless filth, flowing through rivers and the seas without ever mixing its mud into their waters

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 17

pestilential, whose lethal exhalations spread all the germs of death. This sewer is mentioned. in an article from La France, reprinted by La Libre Parole of February 16th, entitled: Drumont the Avenger, and due to The astute genius of Henri Favre: "The book, we read there, served as Drumont's club, which he brandished like Hercules, who wants to clear the slate in the Augean stables of our po-litigants impaled up to their ears. With the club of the book, he joined the newspaper's scouring broom; he had work to do daily tasks to perform; he did not give up for a single moment.
The Jew dominates, the checkbook gets paid, Drumont knocks out the shameless master and gives the servant a broom without modesty. "The large sewer collector valves" are levies. Drumont, vengeful, notices that the rising tide and flows ceaselessly, a glittering, fetid mixture and nauseating with "gold, mud, and blood." So he
The broom handle is in the club. The retail newspaper... the fact that it is delivered as a whole, etc.

Jews still cherish the title of children of Abraham, although the name Abrahamites never applied to them.
but was given.

It was to Jacob, Abraham's grandson, that they were returned. suitable for their preferred name: Israelites. According to the Genesis 31:28, these words are addressed to Jacob of the God's part: "Your name will no longer be Jacob, but Israel."

Nowadays, Israelite is a euphemism for Jew. is no longer the sordid and filthy Jew, still stinking of the ghetto, but the upstart Jew, the aristocrat à la Levallant de la first aristocracy in the world.

Near death, Jacob pronounced these words over his son Judah Prophetic words: "Judah, your brothers will praise you, the The scepter will not come from Judah, nor the prince from his offspring. until the coming of the One who is to be sent, the One who will be the expectation of the nations" (Gen. 49:8-10). It was therefore to the tribe of Judah to whom the scepter of the kingdom was promised Jews. From this passage, compared to other texts of the Writer- It is also concluded that the Messiah must be the descendant of Judah: hence the preponderance of this tribe and the name Jews attributed to the people who were to give us- to be the Desired One of the nations.

18 THE VIPER BREED

Adding to Judah and his eleven brothers, the two pe- Jacob's grandsons, Ephraim and Manasseh, all by the line male direct descendants of Shem, Heber, Abra- Ham and Jacob, "Israel," we have the fathers of the tribes. who occupied the holy land and established kingdoms there of Judah and Israel.

I will not dwell on historical digressions, chronological or geographical, of little importance to my goal, concerning the ancient people of God; that they may... It is enough not to lose sight of it and to fix it with a few key dates, its historical evolution and its differences welfare state annuities.

It is commonly divided into six main periods the years that have passed since its creation until Jesus Christ.

The formation of the Hebrew people begins from the third of our eras, or to the calling of Abraham.

According to the chronicle adopted by the University, this

The third epoch extends from the year of the world 2667 to 3318 or from 2296 to 1645 BC and includes since the vocation of Abraham until the Exodus from Egypt, 651 years. The fourth epoch spans from the year 3318 of the world to 4001 and from 1645 BC to 962 AD. It includes: the Exodus from Egypt to the schism of the ten tribes, 683 years.

The fifth of 4001 in the world at 4427, and before Jesus Christ from 962 to 536. From the schism of the ten tribes to the deliverance of the Jewish captives in Babylon under Cyrus, 426 years old.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 19

The sixth of the world from 4427 to 4963, and from 536 BC. at its birth; it therefore comprises 536 years: of freedom Jews to Jesus Christ.

According to the positive evidence in the Bible, it is entirely evidence that the Jews, through their first father Abraham, are originating from Chaldea, in northeastern Mesopotamia. To follow his father Terah, Abraham leaves Ur of the Chaldea, his native city, as well as Lot his nephew and his- Rest with them at Aran in Mesopotamia. From there, aged At 75, at God's command (the Calling of Abraham), he... he returned to the land of Canaan where he died at the age of 175.

The Hebrews formed their first group in the land of Canaan, by Isaac, Jacob and his sons, the eleven fathers Triarchs, chiefs of the tribes, and their children; for it is necessary here except for Joseph.

Around this same time, famine drove out Jacob and his children of Canaan in Egypt whose granaries contained how the reserves of the seven predicted years of abundance by Joseph (who had preceded his brothers in Egypt, we know) how) and signified by the seven fat cows and by the seven full ears of corn, from Pharaoh's dreams, and that should to be followed immediately by seven years of symbolic famine sealed by the seven empty ears of corn and the seven lean cows of the same dreams.

They therefore left Palestine, numbering 70, in the year 2287 of the world, 220 years after Abraham's calling, 2076 BC to return there in the year of the world 3358, or 1605 BC, numbering 601,730, just in men over twenty years of age. This number did not include

I didn't understand either: 23,000 men starting from one month and above, nor the women of the tribe of Lévy.

20 THE VIPER BREED

"This is the number of the children of Israel, including Moses" and the priest Eleazar took a census in the plain from Moab, near the Jordan, towards Jericho. Among whom none of those who had been comp- previously led by Moses and Aaron in the Sinai desert, first day of the second month, the second year after the Exodus from Egypt, and whose number amounted to 603,550 From the age of twenty and above, all combatants, not to mention the Levites (Leviticus, chapter 1) against whom they fought The Lord had foretold that they would all die in the desert, and none of them remained except Caleb, son of Jephone, and Joshua, son of Nun. (Numbers 26:63 etc.)

In Egypt, the Israelites devoted themselves to pastoral life. in the Gessen region, for more than four hundred years. They multiplied to the point of inspiring, towards the end of serious concerns arose in the mind of the Pharaoh of the time, who conceived the plan to exterminate them by killing all the inhabitants newborn male infants. The cry of the children of Israel mon- your all the way to heaven. God saw the affliction with which they were overcome by the Egyptians, and sent Moses to lead them into the land of their fathers where they arrived after forty years of ped- revolts across the desert and wars of extermination- tion against the peoples who opposed their passage and to the taking possession of the land that God had promised them.

Having left Egypt around 1655, they entered the land promised in 1615 BC.

ERP

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM?

SERVITUDES AND JUDGES OF THE HEBREW PEOPLE.

+ FIRST SERVITUDE, from 1562 to 1554 BC.

Othoniel, judge from 1554 to 1514,

+ SECOND SERVITUDE, from 1514 to 1496.
Aod, judge..... from 1514 to 1496
Samgar, judge... from 1496 to 1416
+ THIRD SERVITUDE, from 1416 to 1396.
Deborah and Barac... from 1396 to 1356
+ FOURTH SERVITUDE, from 1356 to 1349.
Gideon (Jerobaal), judge from 1349 to 1309
Abimelech, judge from 1309 to 1306
Thola, judge from 1306 to 1283
JE MB nus "de te ti0i

+ FIFTH SERVITUDE, from 1261 to 1243.

Jephthah, judge from 1243 to 1237
Abesan, judge... from 1237 to 1230
Ahialon, judge... from 1230 to 1220
Abdôt, I know from 218

+ SIXTH SERVITUDE, from 1012 to 1172.
SAMSON, HER 26820 fines desc CE 1172 TS D
Hey, I'm holding us.

+ SEVENTH SERVITUDE, from 1112 to 1092.
Samuel, judge... from 1092 to 1080

21

22 THE VIPER BREED

Governed initially by Judges, after 525 years of this regime, God, at their urging, gave them kings of whom The first, from 1080 to 1040 BC, was Saul.

To the second of these kings, David, God promised that he would be one of the ancestors of the Messiah. This promise was one of the main causes of the primacy of the tribe of Judah, the- which David belonged to; he died in 1001 BC.

His son Solomon succeeded him. After a long reign which He dishonored his later years with idolatry; he had in 963, Rehoboam his son as successor.

He

SCHISM.

After 118 years of the existence of this kingdom, that is to say from 1080 to 962 BC in 962 Rehoboam (963 to 946) quarter king of all God's people, being in the second- In the tenth year of his reign, ten tribes revolted against its dominion; only the tribes of Judah and Benjamin remained loyal to him. The other ten tribes rose up in an independent kingdom and formed under Jeroboam, their The first king was the kingdom of Israel. Nineteen kings succeeded one another. they sat on this throne and exercised their power during 244 years, from 962 to 713 BC, or, from the year 4001 of the world at 4245.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM?

III

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF KINGS OF JUDAH AND ISRAEL.

King of Judah | Kings of Israel

962 Rehoboam. 962 Jeroboam.

946 Abiam. 943 Nadab.

944 Asa. 942 Bassa.

904 Josaphat. 919 Ela.

919 Zambri.

919 Amri.

907 Ahab.

880 Joram. 888 Ochosias.

876 Ochosias. 887 Joram.

876 Athaliah. 876 Jehu.

870 Joas. 848 Joachas.

831 Amasias. 832 Joas.

803 Osias. 817 Jeroboam II.

752 Jonathan. 767 Zechariah.

737 Achaz. 766 Sallum.

723 Hezekiah. 766 Manahem.

754 Phaceia.

753 Phacea.

694 Menasses. 726 Hosea.

AE 718 Destruction of the Kingdom of Israel.

639 Josiah.

609 Jonchas.

608 Eliakim or Jaochim.

598 Jeconiah.

597 Zedekiahs.

587 Captivity.

24, THE BREEDING OF VIPERS

Around 732 BC, Tiglath-pileser (742–724 BC) was the first king of the second kingdom of Assyria, ravaged the kingdom of Israel and took all the tribes captive to Nineveh of Israel west of the Jordan. This event took place under the reign of Phacaeus.

IV

END OF THE KINGDOM OF ISRAEL.

We are nearing the end of the kingdom of Israel. Hosea, nineteenth and last king of Israel, refusing to pay the tribute that Shalmaneser (754 to 712), son and heir of Téglathpilaras had imposed on him during a first expedition, sees this king once again invading his states, to do the siege of Samaria, which he captured after three years (721 to 718) and the ten infidel tribes reduced to captivity at east of the Tigris, from where, scattered among the Gentiles, they settled there. They lose so much, says Bossuet, that in his time one does not find any trace could be found. He remained in Palestine some remnants of the kingdom of Israel that were mingled by— They included the Jews and became part of the kingdom of Judah.

Salmanazar first, and later in 672 BC, Asaraddon his grandson (707 to 667) repopulated Samaria and the other cities in Israel, almost deserted, with settlements of Cutha, of Babylon, of Ava and of Sepharvaim.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 25

V

SAMARITANS.

These colonies, mixed with a small number of Israelites, formed they gave birth to a new people who were designated by the name of Samaritans.

Samaria was again recaptured by Antiochus the Great in 203 BC, then destroyed in 129 by John Hircan. Surveyed by Gabinius, Roman procurator of Assyria and rendered to its former splendor by Herod the Ascalonian who gave the name Augusta (Sebaste) in honor of the emperor Augustus, his benefactor, is the only one who remains today some ruins of what was once the powerful capital of Kingdom of Israel.

VI

END OF THE KINGDOM OF JUDAH.

As for the kingdom of Judah, after alternatives of unprecedented prosperity and disasters, it ends like that of Israel. Its last kings, its princes, the elite of the nation and almost all the people suffered for seventy in captivity, dispersion and other punishments that Their impiety and atrocious crimes had earned them this. Its end came in 587 BC, having had, like the kingdom of Israel nineteen kings whose reigns are included in a period of 375 years, from 962 BC to 587 or, according to the age of the world from 4001 to 4376.

26 THE VIPER BREED

Manasses, 13th king, after the capture of Jerusalem by Asaraddon, king of Nineveh (from 667 to 647 BC) and successor Sennacherib's son was taken captive to Babylon.

The child's fate was reserved for Joakim or Eliakim, the 17th king. Nebuchadnezzar II the Great (562–560 BC), associated with the Assyrian empire, whose capital was then Babylon, by Nabopolassar (605 to 560) his father, made a first once the siege of Jerusalem, seized this city, riches of the temple and led captive to Babylon the king and the principal ones of his kingdom. Shortly afterwards, in the same year, on the condition of remaining a vassal of his victor and to pay him tribute, Joakim is handed over freedom. From the third year onwards, he refused to fulfill these conditions. Nebuchadnezzar returns again with a formidable army ravages Judea, makes Joakim prisoner condemns him to death and has his body thrown into the roadworks.

After Joakim, it was the turn of his son Joachim, more known as Jeconiah. With his family, his army, the princes of Judah and a large part of his people, he departs for this Babylon of misfortune, from where he will not will not return.

Finally, Zedekiah, the last king of Judah, having, after nine years of submission, refused to pay tribute to the king of Babylon, Nebuchadnezzar's troops under the command Nabuzardan's men came for the third time to inflict To the future decide, an exemplary punishment. Jerusalem Initially besieged, it saw the enemy withdraw. The following year The siege begins again and soon the Assyrian, in a capital-tale of Judea, a vast field of smoking ruins and-bloody. Nebuchadnezzar has the children massacred of Zedekiah in front of their father, whom he then had killed eyes to lead him immediately loaded with chains to Babylon, where all the Jewish people, with the exception of a few The farmer was deported. There, during his captivity, he died. Zedekiah, after having mourned his lost kingship and wept over the miserable end of the kingdom of Judah and the terrible misfortunes that had befallen him and the his.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 27

During their captivity until their return to Jerusalem, The Jews have always had leaders of their nation who...

governed under the authority of the Babylonian sovereigns niens. It was during this same captivity in 538 BC Jesus Christ, whom the third Assyrian empire having Babylon, with its capital, fell into the hands of the Persians under Cyrus's conduct.

VII

RETURN FROM THE CAPTIVITY OF BABYLON. THE SEVENTY WEEKS OF DANIEL.

From the very first year of his reign, this great conqueror—the writer who had succeeded his uncle Cyaxares II, whom the writer ture called upon Darius the Mede, and issued a decree which made freedom for the Jews and allowed them to rebuild the temple of Jerusalem. This undertaking was successfully completed. by Zerubbabel, named Sasabasar by Ezra, assisted by High priest Joshua or Jesus and the prophets Haggai and Zacharie.

28 THE VIPER BREED

Here, the lack of indisputable data on the dates of the different reigns of the Medo-Persian sovereigns of This period, among the authors of the discords, moreover, of no importance. The chronological research—
The logic behind this subject aims to specify under which king and in what year of his reign should the starting point be fixed of the seventy weeks of years predicted by the pro-Daniel and which were to elapse since the promulgationtion of the decree allowing the Jewish captives in Babylon to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, up to the birth and the death of Jesus Christ. The chronology of these times is uncertain. Three decrees were issued with the aim of indi-as above, the first by Cyrus and the other two by Artaxerxes II, called Longhand, one in the seventh year of his reign, the other in the twentieth.

This disagreement cannot shake the certainty of the arrival of Jesus Christ the true Messiah, realized for nearly two a thousand years, and Drumont rightly says on this subject:
During the period of waiting and anticipation that precedes
The coming of Christ was followed by a violent, turbulent period.
during which Israel persists in seeking the Messiah (the Abbots Léman count twenty-five false Messiahs), without wanting to admit to himself that he had crucified him. Soon even by giving messianic prophecies the inter-the most singular prepositions, by calculating a thousand ma-Daniel's prediction about the period of the sixties Ten weeks of years, and you start to despair. The

The rabbis then condemn to anathema the one who henceforth would speak of the appearance of the Messiah. "All the times that "The deadlines for the coming of the Messiah have passed," he said.
Rabbi Raya: "Cursed be those who calculate the times" of the Messiah," declares the Babylonian Talmud.

"May their bones break!" adds Rabbi Jochanan.
Jewish France, 1.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 29

Some authors, and not the least competent, they want the first decree, that of Cyrus, to have included the ability to rebuild also Jerusalem and its murals. Here, moreover, is the content of this decree: "The Sei-Lord, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the land in his hands, and he commanded me to build him a house in the city of Jerusalem, which is in Judea. Who Is one of you from his people? May his God be with you.
Let him speak promptly and restore the house of the Lord, the God of Israel. This God who is in Jerusalem is the true God.

Despite the explicit mention of reconstruction
The city and its walls do not appear in this decree.
the opinion of the said authors acquires an important probability by comparing it to the following texts: "I say to Cyrus: You are my shepherd, and he will accomplish my will; to Jerusalem: Rise up, you will be rebuilt, and to the temple: Come out of your ruins." (Isaiah 44:28)

"I have raised up Cyrus in my righteousness, and I will level"
He owed him all the roads; he will rebuild my city, he will deliver the captives without ransom and without gifts, says the Lord, the "God of armies." (Isaiah 45:13)

Jeremiah, in chapter 30, predicts the deliverance of the cap-activity and the reconstruction of the temple and the city of Jerusalem. Finally, Ezra (Book 1, Chapter 1) states that by the Cyrus' decree, this last prophecy receives its accomplicity. It is true that one can always object that it is only a partial accomplishment, concerning visiting the temple only.

Other authors refer to several years earlier late, that is to say in 453 BC under Artaxerxes Longus Main, the promulgation of the decree relating to the raising of walls of the holy city. This year of 453 BC must necessarily be accepted by all those who write about This topic is to reconcile the years of birth and the death of Jesus Christ with the prophecy of Daniel.

30 THE VIPER BREED

The prophet counts seventy weeks of years of the decree allowing the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem up to Jesus Christ, but nevertheless in this sense that Jesus Christ will be sacrificed around the middle of the last week. Now, seventy weeks of years give 490 years. By subtracting from this number the thirty-three years born (34th begun) from the life of the Savior, plus three years and a half, that is to say half a week of years (since Christ was to die around the middle of the sixty-tenth week), we descend between 454 and 453, to from the date of publication of the decree until the birth of Jesus Christ.

Those who support this latest decree adopt the Next chronology: Artaxerxes Longhand (from 471 (at 422) succeeds Artabanus, assassin of Xerxes I, son of Darius. Artaxerxes Longimanus grants two decrees for the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem, one per year seven and the other in the twentieth year of his reign, according as has been said. Subtracting from 470, the beginning of the reign of Artaxerxes, about twenty years, date of the publication of the decree, it is indeed 453 that we find in counting by a wide margin.

Those who opt for Cyrus's decree will pre- they feel the following calculation:

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM?

VIII

CHRONOLOGICAL DISTRIBUTION

WEEKS OF DANIEL

From Cyrus's first year, the date of the retour of the Jews from the Babylonian captivity, until the 20th year of Artaxerxes Long Hand... don't have its summer 8

From this 20th year, at the beginning of the reign of Alexander the Great, in Greece...

From that date until the death of Darius Codoman, the populous king of whom Isaiah Daniel, chapter 10, defeated by Alexander...

From the death of Darius, to the death of the the Great... The

It is said, in effect, to I. re pe Machabees Chapter 1, verse 8: Alexander Mourut after having reigned for 12 years; that is to say-to say, 6 years in Macedonia, according to 1.
Book of Maccabees, chapter 1, where it is said: after 6 years, Alexander left the country of Cethim (of Macedonia, se-(on Epiphanius, Heresy30) and he strikes-
"pa Darius" – and then 6 years in Asia.

From the death of Alexander, to the beginning of the Greek era, or of the Seleucids

From there, to the death of Simon Maccabeus at Doch
(1. Book of Maccabees, last chapter)

31

49 years old

68 –

6 –

6 –

12 –

178 years

32 THE VIPER BREED

Here ends sacred history

From the death of Simon Maccabeus to the birth of

The birth of Jesus Christ... 135 years

From the birth of Christ to his death, arri-born in her 34th year... 33 –
Total 487 years

Which brings us to the middle of the seventieth week.

Therefore, the year of Christ's death, according to This opinion would be the 808th Olympian year, that is to say, the 4th year of the 202nd Olympiad; and that of his birth 776th, that is to say, the 4th of the 194th Olympiad. This opinion is generally adopted.

Established as a theocratic republic since the re-Tower of Babylon, until 37 BC, the time when the
The scepter was taken from them, and they have not been able to recover it since.
to seize, the Jews successively had in the person of their High Priests (a true government of priests if ever there was one) was ever) up to 27 chiefs, even 28, including, Alexandra, widow of Alexandre Jannée, custodians of the supreme power.

IX

HIGH PRIESTS OF THE HEBREWS

Aaron (1644 to 1505 Azarias [®.
(BC) Joachas.
Eleazar I. Joiāda I*.

Joiarib. Zechariah.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 33

Josaphat.

Phineas.

Abisné.

Bocci.

Ozi.

Heli.

Achitob (1112).

Achias.

Abiathar.

Sadoc.

Achimaas.

Zedekiah.

Azarias II.

Jonathan.

Urias.

Nerias

Odeas.

Sellum.

Helcias.

Azarias III.

Josédech.

AFTER THE RETURN FROM BABYLON

Jesus I or Joshua (536
B.C.)

Joachim (462).

Eliasib (462-441).

Onias I* (324-300).

Simon I' (310-292).

Eleazar II (292-260).

Manasseh (260-233).

Onias II (233–219).

Joiada II (441–397).

Jonathan (397–350).

Jaddus (350, of the time) of Alexander the Great).

Simon II (219–195).

Onias III.

Jaons.

Menelans.

Lysimachus (195–170).

HIGH PRIESTS AND PRINCES OF MACHABEES

Mathathias (170 BC).

Judas Maccabeus, son of Mathathias (166 to 161).

Alcime (161 to 160).

Jonathan I' (160 to 144).

Simon III (144 to 136).

Jean Hircan I' (136 to 107).

Aristobulus I' (107 to 106).

Alexandre Jannée (106 to 79).

Alexandra (79 to 70).

Hircan II (66 to 40).

Antigone (40 to 35).

34 THE VIPER BREED

HIGH PRIESTS OF THE JEWS AFTER THE LOSS OF CIVIL POWER

Hanamel 35 to 34 BC Simon V.

Aristobulus III (34 to 30). Caiaphas.

Jesus II (30 to 23). Jonathan II.

Simon IV, son of Boeth Theophilus.
(23 to 6). Simon VI.
Mathias I' (6 to 1). Mathias II.
Zoagar, around the year 4 AD. Elioneas.
Eleazar II. Joseph I°:
Jesus III, son of Siah. Ananias.
Ananus. Ishmael II.
Ishmael I*. Joseph II.
Eleazar IV. Cabi.
Avranus. Capture of Jerusalem, Jesus IV. Destruction of the Mathias III. temple and dispersion
Phanaias, of the Jews (70 AD)

The most famous among these presidents of the Republic theocratic, true lieutenants of God, were the five first Hasmoneans or Maccabees from 171 to 107.

Judas, known as Aristobulus I', son of John Hircan I, was the first, who, since returning from captivity without changing the form of government, took the title of king.

Finally, with Antigone, the last of the Hasmoneans, the the scepter disappears forever from the House of Judah and the hand of the Jews.

After him, and since Herod the Ascalonite or the Idumaeen who dethroned him and was recognized as king by Octavian Augustus, and Antoine as well as by the Roman Senate, in the year 40 BC.
Judea no longer had Jewish rulers and was always under the yoke of the foreigner.

WHERE DOES THE JEW COME FROM? 35

During this long period of government of Pontiffs, the Jews were constantly dependent on foreign powers; except for some three-quarters of a century, following the victories and conquests of the four previous first Maccabees: Mathathias, Judas, Jonathan Simon, continued by Jean Hircan, immediate successor of Simon.

From the point of view of homogeneity and conservation-tion of this people, the one that interests us most in the A brief historical overview of recent times up to 137 AD, the time of their last revolt, of their final dispersion among all nations, it is to mainly noted in 351 under Ochus Artaxerxes III (362 to 338 BC) of the Medo-Persian dynasty, a great

A number of Jews were forced to go and fight against the Egyptians revolted; others were deported to Chaldea and even to the shores of the Caspian Sea, as punishment of the competition that three years earlier, around 354, they had lent to the Phoenician uprising.

Around 320 BC, the first of the Ptolemies, Ptolemy Soter, seizes Judea, imposes a tribute on it and sends 100,000 Jewish captives in Egypt.

In 170, the Seleucid Antiochus IV, Epiphanes (174 to 164) informed of the joy the Jews had experienced the false news of his death, march on Jerusalem, slaughter 40,000 Jews and reduced as many to slavery.

Two years later, this same monarch was forced to re-announce the conquest of Egypt by the famous circle of Popilius, Rome's ambassador, takes revenge for this failure on Judea. His lieutenant Apollonius exercises the most powerful commands there.
The ravens wreak havoc, several neighborhoods of the city are prey flames and one hundred thousand Jews taken into captivity.

36 THE VIPER BREED

In 70 AD, 300,000 Jews perished during the hostilities that preceded the siege of Jerusalem, 1,100,000 during the siege itself, after which 100,000 were sold as slaves.

Finally, the day of total ruin and defiant dispersalnitive has arrived. In 137 AD, still waiting of a warrior Messiah whose dominion will be universal; seeing on the other hand that the time predicted for this reign ima-
The ginary had largely expired, and convinced that they are of
Of a size capable of subjugating all the empires of the universe, the Jews... they are under the command of a certain Barcochébas who seems to meet the required conditions of the ideal liberator and They make one last effort. But the Roman legions are there and take it upon themselves to prove to them how insane this is.
project. 600,000 Jews are massacred and the rest of the nation is scattered. A new city, Aelia Capitolina, will rise. on the ruins of the deicide city: Jerusalem will lose up to its name. This new name given to the rebuilt Jerusalem of his disasters did not suffer the fate of a fleeting whim. This will be evident from the decree promulgated by the Caliph Omar, five centuries later during the capture of Jerusalem by the Muslims in 636: "By Omar, son of Hittab, Safety is granted to the people of the city of Aelia, both for their persons, as well as for their children and wives, their property, etc."

ERP

37

CHAPTER II

PRESERVATION OF THE ISRAELI RACE

In the midst of these unheard-of misfortunes and these so violent social upheavals, the Jews held on to preserve the purity of their breed with extreme care. This zeal was inspired by the formal promise of the part of God, that the Messiah would be from their descendants; by their sovereign contempt for other nations and by their law, primarily with regard to neighboring peoples concerning of which the peril of their misalliance and the loss of their faith was more imminent.

This is the law, which God, through Moses, gave to God. instructed them: "Observe carefully all that I order you to- Give me today, and I myself will hunt before you. the Canaanites, the Amorites, the Hittites, the The Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites. Beware! to never form an alliance with the inhabitants of the country in which you must enter, lest it be for you a trap, but destroy their altars, smash their statues and cut down their trees. You will not receive their daughters. for the wives of your sons, lest after they have given themselves They themselves worship their gods, they do not encourage your sons to do so. "to deliver themselves." (Exodus 34:11, etc.)

38 THE VIPER BREED

Regarding Solomon's abuses, this same law is recalled in the 3rd Book of Kings, XI. 1-2, in these terms:

"Solomon loved several foreign women. The daughter of Pharaoh and the women of Moab and Ammon, of Idumea and from Sidon and the land of the Hittites, nations whose God had He said to the children of Israel: You shall not go to them and they will not come to your sons; for they will corrupt you—will have the heart to make you worship their gods."

When there were no more male children in a family a thousand, it was prescribed that the girls would marry whom they would like it provided it was to men of their own tribe; so that the inheritance of the children of Israel would not be mixed not from one tribe to another. "For all men will take daughters from their tribe and their relatives, and All the women will marry from the same tribe, so that the heritage remains within families and tribes they do not mix together, but they remain as they were separated by the Lord.

During their captivity in Babylon, there were many—numerous transgressions against this law among the Jews. These abuses, however, were corrected and eliminated, and all re—tra in order among the Jews upon their return to Jerusalem and in the other cities of Judea.

Ezra, in chapter nine of the book that bears his name, exclaims:

"When I heard that the people of Israel and the priests and the Levites no longer live apart from the peoples of the earth, of the Canaanites etc. etc., and that they had mixed the race holy with the peoples of the earth I tore my man—my dress, and I tore the hair from my head and my beard; and I sat in sorrow. Then Zedekiah, son Jehiel, from the children of Elam, answered Ezra: We We have offended our God and we have taken wives foreigners from among the peoples of the earth, and now if Repentance for these sins is in Israel; let us make a covenant with the Lord our God, and let us forsake all these women and those who were born of them: this is the will of the Lord and of those who fear his commandments let it be done according to the law." (Ezra 10:3–3)

PRESERVATION OF THE ISRAELI RACE 39

"We know," said Bossuet — Disc. on Universal History — that Manasses, brother of Jaddus, sovereign pontiff, excited discord among the Jews. He had married the daughter of Sanaballat, a Samaritan, whom Darius had made satrap of this country. Rather than repudiating this foreigner, what about the The Jerusalem Council and his brother Jaddus wanted to force him to Ger, he embraced the Samaritan schism. Several Jews, to avoid such censures, joined "Him." Such was the severity of this law.

Abbot Fleury, in his work on the customs of Israelites etc. gives the following details on this subject: "When Cyrus had granted them their freedom with the permission to return to Judea and rebuild the temple, they did not They did not all return, nor all at once: there was always one a great number who remained in Babylon and in all the places where they were established.

Among those who returned, some joined them few of the ten tribes, and yet they made up a small number all together. The first ones that Zerubbabel led did not They didn't reach 50,000, including the slaves. What a mess! comparison of 50,000 souls with what it took of time from Jehoshaphat to make 1,200,000 warriors! He returned again with Ezra, about 1,500, and we can judge that it There were various other troops. They did what they could. to recognize their ancient heritage and preserve the family divisions. That is why Ezra collected— reads all the genealogies that are at the beginning of the Paralipomena, where it extends mainly over the three tribes of Judah, Levi, and Benjamin; and mark with They took care of their dwellings to populate Jerusalem. They received there all those who were willing to live there, which was disturbing especially the order of the divisions, besides the fact that it was only fair that the present occupied the lands of those who did not have wanted to return to places that were no longer there. Thus in In his later years, Saint Joseph resided in Nazareth. Galileo, although his family was originally from Bethlehem. Anne, the prophetess, although of the tribe of Asher, of— was dying in Jerusalem; but they still knew of what They were a tribe, and they had preserved their genealogy. as can be seen from that of Saint Joseph, who was only a poor craftsman. They carefully distinguished the real ones. Israelites, foreigners, whom they called Giores in their language, and in Greek, proselytes. Thus, one of their The first step after their establishment was to separate foreigners and to enforce the prohibitions of the law concerning marriages with infidels.

40 THE VIPER BREED

They even extended these defenses to nations that the law had not included them, the Azotians, who were a portion of the Philistines; to the Egyptians, to the Ammonites and to the Moabites. The experience of evil that the Israelites had received from these alliances since the bad example Solomon's law led the wise men to interpret the law in this way and to hear it beyond what the words conveyed, in order to better fulfill the intention.

The priests were the most diligent in observing these rules. They only married women from their own tribe, and Josephus has indicated to us the precautions they took there— They were still alive in his time. The apostates had all freedom to remain among the infidels; thus, it does not appear— "He knew of Jews only those who were actually Jews."

As we have just seen, the habit had been ingrained for a long time; the Jews of our day are, in this respect, the same

PRESERVATION OF THE ISRAELI RACE 41

than those of ancient times. The reasons are also Always the memos. Waiting for the Messiah's reign (what (whatever meaning the Jews attribute to this word) in favor of the Jews; the hatred they profess towards the other nations, no less than the horror that, in general, They inspire them, they are all causes that allow us to state that it is not found approximately that the purebred race in Israel. Moreover, prejudice or not, there is so little honor, so little to be proud of to call oneself Jewish, that one is sure not to be deceived by holding for a descendant of Jacob, one who recognizes himself as such.

How did these pure ones come down to us? We We will clarify this question later. For now, let it suffice. for the moment to note that by their greed and by their With an instinct for traffic, they entered early in the the most distant nations; but after Christ, as cha— victims of their decide, victims of their perversity and of their stubborn blindness (we will see how far they will go— (would be acting in good faith) they were dispersed to the four cardinal points, true sons of the widowed nation, wandering throughout the universe, without a homeland, without a king, without a temple, the the most hateful and most hated of men.

Such are the Jews of the present age; their resemblance—

The contrast with the ancients is striking. But as he does not
It is not enough to simply make a claim; we will provide concrete evidence.
naming the ancestors and then we will complete the portrait of the contemporary. That's what we're going to try to do in the following question.

EX

PU AA

has

Frankfurt 'Judensau'

Copper engraving by Johann Jacob Schudt
"Jüdische Merckwürdigkeiten", Frankfurt 1714

43

CHAPTER III

WHAT IS A JEW?

MORALITY OF THE JEW IN GENERAL

This question should rather be completed as follows:
He follows: What was the Jew? Because his secular background-areas which have never been denied on two points From the perspective of its theoretical and practical morality, they shed light on a revealing light, the soul, consciousness, constitution psychological and even physical of this irre- enemy compatible despite our constant efforts and benefits; whose incessant and destructive activity keeps us all-days awake; which we encounter every day He lays traps and obstacles on our path. They are the key to several centuries of history, the mysterious scandals and disasters, moreover inexplicable, which are unfolding before our eyes.

Our Jews of treason and usury, of monopolies and the hoarding of military supplies by our Jews, Soldier's meat, all kinds of corruption, all kinds of Thefts and all forms of tyranny could have been prophesied 1,800 years ago. What am I saying? For 4,000 years, by the one who would have known their ancestors. What these ancestors promised, Those people held on to it, and beyond all predictions by their fathers.

44 THE VIPER BREED

We could have guessed the offspring and, conversely, the ill countless descendants everywhere and always of misfortunes continue to perpetuate by aggravating them against the societies that are hospitable to them, reveal this to us that our ancestors had to endure from the Jews of their time.

What shall we say of this race and of the ancestors of Judah? Shall we affirm of her all that one can imagine of More monstrous from a moral point of view? That she was horrible, perverse, etc., etc.? Let's refer to the testimony written evidence and facts passed down through tradition.

Through his actions, his words, and the judgment that The Bible, on many occasions, speaks of him, as we do of him. We shall see, the Jew before Jesus Christ appears to us, with its horrible character, like an abominable being, in a propensity for revolt, driven by greedy and carnal instincts, of a rare selfish, proud and obstinate, heartless, hard and bloodthirsty towards anything that is not Jewish, and with that Cowardly and hypocritical.

His religious sentiment did not rise to the ideal of purity of heart and moral perfection, despite the admirable care that God had taken to form him himself. Love of the supreme good above all things, His usual, even exclusive, motive was unknown to him. one could say, in his most glorious actions, It was the fear of punishment, the fear of God, or the hope of material possessions, of domination made of the humiliation and contempt of other peoples and of advance-exclusive tages for him. The normal state, the moral foundation of the Jewish nation where groups emigrated to foreign countries Gers, has been pretty much always what we come from to indicate. I would infinitely prefer to have to rent than to to take up again among the Jews. I share with the one God the love he showed them in ancient times, and I invokes him so that his mercy towards them may be without delay also noted as this frightening justice of which they have borne the burden for so many centuries. The agreement will one day create a conflict between Israel and the peoples it alienates through his bad instincts. In those happy times, the object of our wishes, by transforming the proverb, we can say with happiness: conversio pessimi optima. The Israelite authors They themselves are the ones who show us in the guise the most expressive aspects of this psychology of the ancient Jew that we are trying to analyze.

"The only reward that the pious aspired to" was that Yahweh (God) caused them to die full of days, after years spent in abundance and jubilation.

"For them, the being ended with life; it fell asleep." Until the day of resurrection, he had nothing to hope for. than existence, and the punishments that threatened vice, like the satisfactions that accompanied virtue, were all of this world.

"The philosophy of the Jew, or rather his eude-Monism was simple; he said with Ecclesiastes: "I have recognized-naked that there is no happiness except in rejoicing and giving oneself well-being during life." (Eccles. 111. 12.) Realistically, he sought to develop to the best of his desires; not having that a limited number of years were devoted to him, he wanted in to enjoy, and these were not moral pleasures that he-manda, but material pleasures, suitable for embellishing, to to make his existence sweet.

"To the plagues that befell him, the Jew neither neither by the fatalism of the Muslim, nor by the resignation of the Christian: he responded with revolt.

"Initially, they did not share the hopes" of the later Pharisees; after Yahweh had closed their eyelids, they were only waiting for the horror of Sheol. Therefore, what mattered to them was life; they sought to

46 THE VIPER BREED

to embellish it with every happiness, and these fanatical idealists, who conceived the pure idea of the one God (God had it for them) revealed), were, by a striking and explainable contrast, the most uncompromising of sensualists.

The man whom the Jew praises is not the saint, he is not Not the resigned, but the righteous. The charitable man does not exist. not for those of Jude; there can be no question of charity. in Israel, but only of justice: almsgiving is only a "Restitution." This is how Mr. Bernard Lazare expressed himself on the account of his ancestors. (Antisemitism, etc., p. 306 ff.)

The Jews express themselves in this way, probably to justify themselves. to certify or at least do so to excuse their proceeded by those too uncharitable towards foreigners to their race; For, in what takes place between them, they practice the charity, and sometimes despite and against all odds, despite and against everything, even against this justice which, throughout history, they They claimed to be the faithful and the apostles. Mr. Bernard Lazarus himself is unfortunately proof of this too striking, in its defense of the wretched traitor Dreyfus, whom he has just taken on.

No charity from non-Jew to non-Jew, would that not be to displease them, so that we destroy ourselves ourselves; no charity from the Jew towards us, so that he may devour us at its leisure.

I agree, however, that many Jews have given among them the example of patriotism, devotion, etc. But that was the intermittent, extremely rare exception. I also admit that all peoples have gone through acute, deadly crises that exposed their vices and their virtues; but one cannot help but recognize at the same time, that all the Aryan nations have to-days preserved between them and towards other races, of feelings of justice and humanity, even of brotherhood, to which incomparably more than all others par- among the Semites, the Jews, especially since their dispersion and despite their status as guests of other nations, are always remained resistant by tradition, by principle and By instinct.

WHAT IS A JEW? 47

In this same respect, it is important to note that all these wandering Jews, without a homeland, without a territory-national (despite being part of two or three nations) simultaneously; for first they are inalienably members of the Jewish nation spread throughout the world, and then members still of the country or countries where they have (naturalization) of these Jews, I say, far from perfecting themselves at From a moral point of view, they have always worsened. In this respect their appearance is deceiving and their pronouncements do not They only serve to deceive the naive. As we will see later Far away, the Jews of pre-Christian times compared to those who came After that, there were only little Saint Johns and virtue prizes alongside Cartouche, but Cartouche decorated, ennobled, who sees at his feet both peoples and kings. Only at- Today the alarm clock has already rung everywhere and the day The reckoning is near.

To prove these claims, the testimony of the Bible is quite sufficient; for this book constitutes a historical monument-a toric that has proven itself. It is permissible to attribute to it-to have the same rights as historians whose science and the recognized veracity, impart to their stories the more legitimate authority and provide us with the evidence better established.

In many places in this incomparable Book, the Jews, In addition to what we have said above, we are shown like blind and incredulous beings before the pro-the most brilliant divine figures, and at the same time inclined to the most degrading, the most cruel idolatry, and does not run-only under the yoke of the law through punishment.

48 THE VIPER BREED

THE FLESH.

"Besides," Abraham replied to Abimelech, "my wife is truly my sister, daughter of the same father, although she "She is not my mother's daughter; and I took her as my wife." (Gen. XX. 12.)

First, then, the fact is that I am far away to incriminate: Abraham, the worst of believers, the founder of the Hebrew people, married firstly the daughter from his father, to Sarai, later Sarah, and he was polygamous. Since this was permitted at the time, it did not prevent Abraham to be a very great and very holy person, famous for-all through his unwavering faith and trust in God.

But... let's move on.

The first ten sons of Jacob, leaders of ten tribes of God's people, or at least Dan, Naphtali, Gad and Aser were engaging in acts classified as abominable crimes. nables: "Joseph was tending his father's flock with his brothers, the sons of Bala and Zelpha (the four named (above) and he accused his brothers to his father of a "An abominable crime." (Gen. 37, v. 2.) – By collating this text with another of the same (Book 13, v.13.) – which applying the same qualification to the inhabitants of Sodom, he It is permissible to deduce from this that the crime in question, was nothing less than sodomy, if not bestiality.

Soon after, the ten brothers deliberated on the means to get rid of Joseph: they wanted to kill him, but, on According to the opinion of one of them, they were content (in a very Jewish way) with sell it to foreigners who were going to Egypt. Then they sent their victim's bloodstained tunic to their father, and let him believe that some wild animal had had to devour their unfortunate brother. (Gen. 37, v. 2.)

WHAT IS A JEW? 49

Still in Genesis, chapter 24, it is stated that... tion of the abduction of Jacob's daughter Dinah by Shechem, son of Haemon of the Hevea, prince of this land. To redress the offense, Shechem immediately asked Dina for her hand in marriage, offering to Israelites all sorts of advantages with the rights of citizen. These, through deceitful and feigned promises to acquiesce to the proposals of the Heveans, their imposition of Circumcision was the condition. And so it was Done. But three days later, Dina's brothers, Simeon and Lévy, sword in hand, entered unexpectedly into the city and slaughtered all the men, and, after they were Having gone out, the other children of Jacob entered the city filled with dead people, and they plundered it. They carried off the sheep, the oxen and the donkeys, and they ravaged everything that was in the town and the fields. They took captive the children and women.

To get an idea of the purity of the morals of the foundation to date from the famous tribe of Judah, one only needs to examine his conduct towards Tamar, his stepdaughter.

She was found to be seriously guilty from the point of view of morals during her widowhood, Judah, before burning her living for this fact, is forced to recognize that the most culpable is none other than himself. It's true that he had taken her for another; which partly excuses it.

It was through Onan, son of that same Judah, that it came down The name of this infamous crime, so dear to Malthus, has come down to us. who can thus claim descent from a very ancient Eastern ancestor, even biblical.

Jacob, on the point of death, addresses his eldest son, Ruben, these testamentary words: "Ruben, may you never prosper; for you have sullied the honor of my

50 THE VIPER BREED

"house." This refers to the outrage committed by Bala, one of the women of Jacob.

I'll skip over the details, but for just one such illustrious family, that's enough.

Then on a single occasion, 24,000 Jews mass-arrested for indecent exposure.

It is Amnon again who is treacherously playing good married with honoring his sister Tamar and who is sacrificed by Absalom's dagger as expiation for this crime: all the three were sons of David.

Note that these are only matters of public knowledge. public.

Do we need to remind everyone of Absalom's shameful conduct in Regarding the wives of his father, King David? "He raises- They therefore pitched a tent for Absalom on the terrace of the palace; and he dishonored his father's wives before all Israel." (Book of Kings, chapter 16.) I would be blamed for to remain silent about the following fact, the authenticity of which is indisputable; it concerns the wife of a Levite, who died a victim time of the infamous outrages of the Gibeonites.

A Levite from the hill country of Ephraim traveling with His wife stopped at Gabaa, a city of the tribe of Benjamin. First, despite the fact that he was carrying provisions and that he did not asked for a place to spend the night, nobody, intentionally did not consent to give him hospitality. Finally, an old man was returning from working in the fields, foreign to the region, and who was from the same country as the le- He quickly took him in. After they had returned, the A large number of men from the town surrounded the house. they banged repeatedly on the door and asked shouting loudly at the master of the house, he had to get him out. this man who had entered his home. The old man went out to tell them to refrain from doing such great harm, for he had given hospitality to this man, and that they cease to They could not even contemplate such madness and they refused to consent. to his words. Then the Levite himself brought his wife. In the morning, the Levite got up to continue his journey. He saw his wife lying in front of the door with her hands outstretched on the threshold. Believing she was asleep, he said to her: Get up And let's go. But she didn't answer. He recognized that she was dead. He took her onto his donkey and returned to his house. Once home, he took a knife and divided the his wife's body with its bones in twelve parts and he- He saw a portion for each of the tribes of Israel. The Israelites other tribes gathered, numbering 400,000 men- Tassins, all men of war. All the leaders of the people were present and they unanimously decided that justice would be done against the guilty parties. They first sent ambassadors throughout Benjamin's tribe for ask them to hand over the men of Gabaa who were guilty of this abominable crime, in order to execute them cuter. But the Benjamites responded with a firm refusal. Mel: the whole tribe rallied together and they gathered until 25,000 armed men, not counting the 700 combatants so many from Gabaa. They initiated legal action against the 400,000 of the other tribes, and these first lost in two various encounters of 40,000 men; but at the third Hostilities resumed; they triumphed, losing only thirty men and kill 25,100 of the enemy, including 600 alone- manage to escape. The children of Israel, of returning from the battle, they struck with the edge of their swords those who remained in the city, then they killed men everywhere and women, from small children to the elderly larders and even animals, and they consigned them to the flames all the towns and villages of the tribe of Benjamin.

WHAT IS A JEW? 51

However, the twelve tribes had pledged themselves with vow not to give any of their daughters in marriage to the 600 who remained of the destroyed tribe. For their sake procuring, having noticed that only the inhabitants of Jabez-Gillaad had not taken part in the extermination, they sent 10,000 very valiant men with orders to to put to the sword all the men, women and Jubés' little children.

Gilead: "Kill," they told them, "all the ma-"Laughter, but reserve the girls." He found himself in the city 400 girls whom they took to their camp. There were missing
So, another 200 women. That's why the tribes said To the Benjamites: "This is the feast of the Lord which is to be celebrated every year in Silo. Go on, hide, and when you see-
The girls of Silo came dancing according to custom.
Go out all at once, and let each of you take some one for a woman and return to the land of Benjamin.
And so it was done.

Hasn't he reached the limits of the unbelievable, the cy-
The lewd nism of the inhabitants of Gabaa! Is she enough
The emotion that reigns in the city as soon as the new
The rumor spread that there was something new, that a man
A stranger is within their walls. In what way are these ancestors of the Do they, the world's foremost aristocracy, yield to Sodom and to Gomorrah? Although, to tell the truth, in these scenes which... their imaginations run wild; it's impossible to know which of the two groups
The most astonishing thing about Jews is that Benjamites taking action and cause for the brutes of Gabaa, or of the other tribes who ronnant their savage extermination of Benjamin by the barbaric massacre of Jabès-gilead.

Finally, to conclude, let's recall the famous scandals.
of the two greatest monarchs of this nation of David,
despite his harem, with his adulterous mix of homicide; and of Solomon with his idolatry and his seraglio of three hundred queens and seven hundred concubines. The glory of David, however, despite this weakness and this cruelty-

WHAT IS A JEW? 53

These fleeting moments appear purer and more radiant to us.
in the conversion of the holy king-prophet, which she had not
It was tarnished and defiled by its fall. From its contrite heart and Humiliated, the tears of true repentance flowed endlessly.

Tir and its seven penitential psalms are the monument imperishable from his perfect return to God.

It is not out of place to cite here the account ren-from a very interesting work which proves the flaws ata-viques and congenitals of Israel, better than can the to do against the anti-Semites, the foolish calumnies of the pseudo-
The learned and plagiarizing Jew, Lombroso: Caesar Lombroso in a recently published booklet, solemnly affirms-ment, as one of our collaborators said recently-those who believed that all anti-Semites were afflicted with the disease sy-Philique. We don't need to revisit the false proof. and ridiculous given by Lombroso, but since it is a A Semite who opens fire on this issue, we will... to respond with documents that he cannot deny. And He will find these documents in the book so perfectly Designed by our friend and collaborator D'Dupouy: The pros-institution in antiquity, in its relations with the sickvenereal diseases.

In the chapter devoted to prostitution among the Hebrews, with the worship of Bhahal we see adultery and pimping among patriarchs as well as among the peoples, the corruption of morals and degeneration of the race everywhere. Then, as a fatal corollary, the af-venereal infections. And it is in "Genesis" that the
The author drew the facts he mentions from "the Leviticus" which he found the description of these diseases;
It is in "Numbers" that we read the relation of the exter-order issued by Moses of twenty-three thousand indi-contaminated vidus; it is in the "Book of Kings" that one rediscovers the prostitution of Jewish women and the history of

54 THE VIPER BREED

Solomon's concubines, priestesses of Astarte. In "the "Proverbs of Solomon" one still reads these words of the fa-best polygamous king: "the lips of the prostitute distill Honey, its mouth is sweeter than oil, but it leaves behind traces that are more bitter and sharper than absinthe.
than the double-edged sword.

Ezekiel's prophecies only show us that "bad public places, like tents of debauchery pitched" on all roads, which houses of scandal and impudicity; one only sees courtesans dressed in silk and embroideries, sparkling with jewels, laden with perfumes, and we only see scenes of lust." In "the Ec-"Clesiastes" of Solomon we see: "He who has relations with these prostitutes will become unclean, gangrene and The worms will seize him, and he will serve as a terrible example.

trusting in others.

Finally, it is Moses in "Numbers" who speaks of this-Yes: "Are these not the women who seduced the sons of Israel, at Balaam's instigation, to make us sacrifice to Bahaal-Pehhor, from whence came the plague that struck your people ?"

However, in the opinion of all specialists and historians of the French and foreign medicine, the scourge of Bahaal-Pehhor,
It was syphilis.

These are the main facts highlighted by the D' Dupouy's book – a work of painstaking research – written with a high degree of impartiality, one of the conclusions of which is as follows very rational. "As we can see," he said, "the people he-Breu was one of the agents in the spread of syphilis and prostitution in antiquity.

Libre Parole, December 12, 1895. JP

WHAT IS A JEW? 55

He

BLOODY CHARACTER OF JUICE.

After the flesh, the blood. Here too, as with the others chapters that we have indicated, the authentic evidence-Ticks are abundant.

Moses, the liberator and the great lawgiver of the people
Hebrew, Moses, the gentlest of men, had to in his youth Nesse emigrated from her country of birth, Egypt, to cause of intentional homicide.

The war against the Benjamites has already provided us with a sample of the cruelty of the children of Israel and the abduction of Dina showed in a brilliant light what one could-would wait for their perfidy.

Their stubborn depravity attracted such great and such multiple punishments from God who, by this average, wanted to keep further misfortunes away from their minds more terrible than the most terrifying spectacles, because-swimming had become familiar to them.

Kore, Dathan, and Abiron rebel against their chiefs: they are exterminated with their families and two hundred fifty of their supporters.

This example proved completely ineffective the next day.
The multitude of the children of Israel revolted again:
14,700 were struck dead.

Sometimes it is the idolatrous worship of the Golden Calf that costs life for 23,000 of them; sometimes these are desires immoderate intake of certain foods is humanly possible impossible to obtain, which condemns them to sudden death, countless victims.

56 THE VIPER BREED

Here, the gallows takes away all the princes of the people; there, a vengeful fire devours all those who occupy the extremities of the camp; finally, thousands are eliminated by the sword and others no less numerous perish from the bite of snakes.

In these massacres, it was not God who was cruel.
It was the Jews who, being too perverse and obstinate, made him re-inflicted these necessary punishments to draw them out of their blindness, bring them back to their duty and prevent them from further great evils.

III

JEWISH INQUISITION.

Moreover, their innate ferocity was developed by orders of this nature: "You will destroy all the peoples that the Lord your God may deliver you. When your brother, son of your mother, or your son, or your daughter, or your beloved wife Mye, or your friend whom you cherish like your own soul, will want you seduce by secretly saying to you: let's go and serve others gods whom you have not known, neither you nor your fathers: do not be He felt no compassion for him and made no secret of it. but you will not fail to kill him; your hand will be the first to kill him and then the hand of all the people; and you shall bludgeon him with stones and He will die.

Some naughty kids came out into the middle of you who wanted to seduce the inhabitants of their city di-

WHAT IS A JEW? 57

Let us go and serve other gods than those you have not known. Then you'll do a thorough search and you'll-querras (inquisition) carefully, and if you find that What they say is true, you will not fail to do put the inhabitants of this city to the sword, and you You will destroy it in the manner of the forbidden, along with everything that is in it putting even beasts to the sword. You ass- You will bleas in the middle of the square all the loot and you will burn this entire city and all its spoils, before the Lord your God, so that it may always be a heap of ruins and that it should never be rebuilt. (Genesis.)

With such a history and such legislation-tion, the Jews are very unwelcome, to reproach everything regarding both the Church and the civil authorities, the tribunal of the Inquisition, instituted with the aim of preserving purity of faith, and consequently of morals, as well as order and Peace among the citizens. Never has a death sentence been formulated by the church against heretics and apostates; Christian states have never committed anything like this in excesses that were seen in Judea. These means of repression radical and extermination of the Jewish people are wrong-in spite of everything, above all criticism, and even deserve it the approval and praise of every sensible man, since they emanated from God himself and he rigorously prescribed them. fortunately the execution.

The rights of Christian nations in this respect do not are no inferior to those of the ancient Jews. Therefore, to each-

To each his own: to Caesar what is Caesar's, to God what is God's who belongs to God and silence to the Jews and the Tartuffes. rights to freedom of conscience.

58 THE VIPER BREED

IV

EXTERMINATION, POLITICAL ASSASSINATIONS.

Here is an example of their modus operandi. "Let the Men among you arm themselves for battle, so that they may accomplish the Lord's vengeance against the Midianites. Now they chose a thousand men from each tribe—bu, that is to say twelve thousand men ready to fight, and when they had fought against the Midianites and rem— Having achieved victory, they killed all the males. They took the women and children, all livestock and wealth. They ravaged everything the Midianites owned. flames destroyed the towns, villages and forts res. Upon their return, Moses, angered, said to them:

"Why did you reserve the women? Just kill them."
all males and even all children and women married women, but reserve all the young girls for yourselves and virgin women. Now, young girls and women virgins numbered thirty-two thousand.
(Numbers, chapter 31)

Let us judge by this collection of thirty-two thousand virgins, among the other women taken away and slaughtered merciless attacks in the Israeli camp. In this encounter, The Israelites had not followed the program to the letter: They soon rectified their oversight.

At the capture of Jericho they killed everyone who was in The city, men, women, children, and old people. The sword It even struck the oxen, the sheep, and the donkeys. They burned the city and everything in it, except for gold, silver and vases of bronze or iron.

Such was also the fate of the countries with about thirty kings Lets: all the inhabitants were exterminated and the villages became prey to the flames. With such training-With ancestors like Neurs, nothing should surprise us anymore.

Consider this: Abimelech wants to seize power and, to get rid of any competitor, he opens the selaughed at the massacre of his seventy brothers, all of them he, son of Gideon, of whom we are told that he had several women.

Regarding the fratricidal wars that almost without truce, bloodied the kingdoms of Judah and Israel, I I will only mention two or three. They will suffice for judging with what ferocity they were even destroying each other these brothers in Abraham: fratres enim et caro nostra sunt.

One of these wars cost Jeroboam, the first king from Israel, more than 500,000 of its most valiant men troops. In another, Phacaeus, king of Israel, killed in one only one day to Ahaz, king of Judah, 120,000 soldiers and took, between women and children, 200,000 captives.

The Ephraimites rebelled against Jephthah because he Jephthah did not call them to fight alongside him.
kills 42,000 of their men.

What about political assassinations?
Joram, the fifth king of Judah, renews the killings of Abimelech; on his orders his six brothers were murdered.

After the death of her son Ochosias, Athalie seizes the the scepter of Judah, and lest it be taken from him, with his
With the cruelty of an ambitious and impious woman, she has his throat cut all the princes of the house of Jehoshaphat.

Only one, Joash, is spared from his fury. In the sep-
In the twentieth year of her reign, she herself was put to death by order of the High Priest Joiada.

60 THE VIPER BREED

Including this queen, five rulers of Judah
They perished, assassinated. Ahaziah by Jehu, king of Israel; Joash by the officers of his household; Amasias by his own subjects; Amon by his servants in his palace.

On the side of the kings of Israel: Joram was killed by King Jehu of Israel: Nadab, by one of his officers named Baasa who reigned after him. Zambri, the cavalry commander, mounted the throne by the assassination of Ela, but soon to escape to the dagger of Amri, who manages to succeed him, he sets ablaze—die his palace and with the entire royal family perish in the flames. Zacharias dies at the hand of Sellum who He reigns in turn and is himself massacred by Manahem his successor. Phaceias is sacrificed by Phacaeus son of Romélie, one of his generals, and finally, he himself, having become king succumbs, struck down by Hosea, the last king of Israel.

In addition to this, besides the massacres committed by Athaliah against the race of Jehoshaphat, Baasha exterminated at his around the whole house of Jeroboam to seize the throne, and Jehu, king of Israel, first killed the seventy sons of King Ahab, by virtue of this letter addressed to the notables of the city of Samaria where these princes were fed
Ris: "If you belong to me and if you will obey me, tomorrow At this same hour, bring me the heads of all the sons of the king."

Secondly, all those who were from the house of Ahab in Jezrebel; all the nobles of the court, his friends and his priests; all those who were attached to him or to his house; finally forty-two princes of the royal house of Judah who were going to Samaria to visit Ahab's children.

Therefore, to say that ancient Israel was cruel And bloodthirsty, that's not exactly what you'd call slanderous.

This is a truth that man does not know, chained by vice; vicious habits are not of his nature.

WHAT IS A JEW? 61

meaning and are not an integral part of its nature. We We only contract them through the repetition of the same acts or exceptionally by a single act of violence intensity. The Hebrews, therefore, did not arrive differently from this cruelty that distinguishes them and from this the frenzy of extermination that we have just witnessed, primarily with regard to everything that is not Jewish.

Their inhumanity was originally in the state of instinct and very pronounced predisposition. Through constant effort

They could have corrected them. But the necessity where they find themselves—were going to eliminate the peoples they were supposed to possess the lands, and the Molochist idolatry towards which they had such a strong inclination, of which they saw an example in the neighboring peoples and to which they devoted themselves fanatically, developing these instincts, made them experience and love the voluptuousness of blood, and ended up creating these tenacious, audacious—heavens and almost unconscious neurotic of destruction and the oppression of foreign races.

V

JEWISH MOLOCHISM.

Heredity still played its part, and especially here; it perpetua viva, inflexible and fierce, though hypocritical out of necessity, for very long centuries.

The ritual murders perpetrated by some Jews, even in the course of our century of progress and civilization are merely a remnant of this savage idolatry.

62 THE VIPER BREED

Never was there a people, with the exception of Christians, better shared than the Jews to acquire or preserve the knowledge and worship of the true God, never a people
He was like them, rebellious against the light, ungrateful, superstitious, idolater and apostate.

So, it wasn't just in front of the Golden Calf that they prostrated themselves; they were also devout worshippers of Moloch whom they only repudiated when God compelled them to do so by unleashing upon them the most terrible ribbles scourges.

This abomination of Molochism was contemporaneous the first wonders that God performed to reveal himself to them.

Here are the terms in which Saint Stephen reminds him of this.
All-too-worthy descendants of this idolatrous race: Our fathers did not want to obey God, but they rejected him in turn turning their hearts toward Egypt, saying to Aaron, "Do for us..."

gods who walk before us, for this Moses who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what happened to him. In those days they made a calf and they offered a sacrifice to the idol, and they rejoiced in works of their hands. God turned away, and let them serve see the heavenly host (the stars), as it is written in the Book Prophets: "House of Israel, have you offered me..." sacrifices and presented victims for forty years at desert? You carried the tabernacle of Moloch and the star of your god Rempham, idols that you confess made for "To worship them." Book of Acts.

David also speaks of it in these terms: "They have They mingled among the nations and learned their works. they worshipped their idols, they sacrificed their sons and their daughters of the devil; they shed innocent blood, blood of their sons and daughters, and the earth was infected by the abundance of blood they shed. It has been defiled. through their criminal acts.

WHAT IS A JEW? 63

They kill their own children without compassion, he said. The author of Wisdom, they eat, and it is the entrails men; they drink, and it is the blood of the victims human.

"Go (Jeremiah, 49) to the valley of the son of Ennon and you You will say, listen to the words of the Lord, kings of Judah and you inhabitants of Jerusalem: this is what the Lord says armies, the God of Israel: I will pour out my vengeance; plagues such as those who will hear of it They will be terrified to speak of it; because they have abandoned me—born to serve foreign gods, which they have filled this place of innocent blood, and built high places to burn there— They will give up their children and offer them as a sacrifice to these gods. things that I did not order, things that I did not speak of and which never rose in my heart. The days come where the Ennon valley will be called the valley of Carnage.

These are not the warnings, the defenses, and the threats from God that they had missed. "Be firm, do not bend, resist the inclination of man— blood; no, you mustn't eat it, I want that You pour it on the ground like water. You will not give not of your children to be devoted to the idol of Moloch and you shall not defile the name of your God. If a man from among the children of Israel or from among the foreigners who remain in Israel, give some of their children to the idol of Moloch, let him be punished with death and let the people of the land "stone." (Leviticus.)

When the Lord your God has exterminated the nations whose country you are going to possess and that you inhabit on their lands, take care not to imitate these nations and to inform you of their ceremonies in distant: I myself want to follow the worship of which these nations They worshipped their gods. You will not render like them worship to the Lord your God; for they have done for him to worship their gods, all the abominations that the Lord abhorred them, offering their sons and their girls and burning them in the fire.

64, THE BREED OF VIPERS

The fury of this people for this religious crime, he said Gougenot des Mousseaux was extreme, since all the pages of writing repeat, one after another, the terrible God's threats against this habitual crime, that is to say against the acts of idolatry which is summarized in its ritual all the monstrosities of the magic sabbaths, the vice of Cursed cities of the Dead Sea and beyond: homicide and Cannibalism.

The existence of the people of Israel, Drumont asserts, is not that a constant struggle against the instinct of the race, the ins-Semitic tinct that draws the Hebrews towards Moloch, the child-eating god, towards the monstrous idols Phoenician women, "towards Astarte, goddess of the Sidonians, towards Chamos the scandal of Moab. »

In the Libre Parole of March 25, 1896, the father of the anti-French Semitism provides us with the following on this question: The following valuable details: We agree with The Jewish Archives, he said, to document the efforts energetic actions performed by Moses, by the prophets, by the representatives of the Jewish priesthood to rescue the Hebrews to the abominable practices of neighboring peoples, for their to inspire horror of blood. In reality, the existence of the ancient Israel was nothing more than a perpetual struggle between the Molochism and Jehovah's Witnesses.

We are dealing with a Semitic people; they have the instincts of his race, a taste for the bloody pleasures of Tyre, of Sidon, of Carthage; he is constantly drawn towards the hideous Moloch; the Golden Calf is but a form of the tau-sacred relic that is worshipped in Phoenicia.

WHAT IS A JEW? 65

On this point there can be no ambiguity. The work of German exegetes or free-thinking French writers—çais, as Gustave Tridon and Regnard agree with the stories from the Bible.

Moloch, whose symbol is the brazen bull of Carthage, which on certain days is made to glow red in the fire, and which stuffed with human flesh, is the Semitic deity par excellence—excellence. It is towards him and towards Baal, whose symbol is a donkey, that the Jews are constantly drawn by the attraction of the race. It is he whom Manasseh and the other wrongdoers they install themselves in the desecrated temple; it is to him that they offer horrible sacrifices on high places.

It is against Moloch and Baal that the prophets rise up. tirelessly, with fervent indignation, a incendiary language that still resonate throughout the centuries. They braved death to fight idolatry, they announce the coming punishments, they go into their fearless zeal, overthrowing false gods, impure religious and barbaric. There is not a page of the Bible that does not testifies to these efforts to defend the idea of the true God against the corrupting superstitions of the surrounding nations.

The Pentateuch strives at every moment to repress these racial instincts; he warns the Jews against the habit—the practice of drinking warm blood, either in the hunt or at the altar.

7. The regulations concerning kosher meat, ob—still served by modern Israelites, seem a reminiscence of these precautions against the voluptuousness of blood, specific to the Semitic family, and which the Aryans do not did not experience it to the same degree, because human sacrifice It ceased among them from the very beginning of the first civilizations.

To prove, in general, how much despite the innumerable incredible wonders that God had performed before their eyes, the Israelites were stubbornly hardened in the end, it would suffice to recall that God had resolved to them exterminate every last one, before any of them even... had not set foot on the soil of the Promised Land, promising Moses, to replace them, to make him the father of a new people. "They are a stiff-necked people," God said to Moses; "let them be" I will destroy them and erase their names from under the heavens; but I will make you into a more powerful nation and greater than this one." (Deuteronomy 1:10) Moses refused, interceded for them and obtained forgiveness for them. But those—here instead of amending themselves after their establishment in the Promised land, they indulged more shamelessly in their unbridled depravity.

It would be far too long to list and prove—verified by indisputable testimonies, all the vices, the crimes and abuses of which, at all times and in all places, they were accustomed, not by accident, but by an ingrained and hereditary habit. Idolatry, concubinage, treachery, homicide, theft, avarice, the worst of Vices of the flesh were endemic among them.

To be brief, I will cite only one piece of evidence. Moreover as they all resemble each other, it is such that, at the reception of a few very rare and ephemeral returns to Good, in all ages, Scripture condemns these same vices of the Jews with the same expressions as those that we will read.

"The Lord spoke, I have nourished children, I have
They were overwhelmed by my gifts and they revolted against me!

"The bull knows his master and the donkey his stable; Israel, I have forgotten. Woe to the perverse nation, to a people burdened with crimes, a race of iniquity, these children

WHAT IS A JEW? 67

corrupters; they have forsaken the Lord, they have blasphemed
The holy name of Israel. If the God of hosts had not preserved some remnants of Israel, Israel would have been semblable in Gomorrah and Sodom. Princes of Sodom, People of Gomorrah, listen to the voice of our God, what fruit do I have from the multitude of your vic-Times? I've had my fill. Your incense is tainted by my eyes. Your assemblies are unjust. I abhor your so-I'm tired of suffering these long years. Your hands are full. of blood. How she was transformed into a vile courtesan, the Faithful city. It is now nothing more than a den of murderers. Your Princes are the companions of brigands; they love presents (bribes); they do not do justice to the gold phelin and the widow's cause have no access with them.

They worshipped idols. Lord, you have rejected your people.

"Like the Philistines, he gives himself over to soothsayers, his
The earth is now nothing more than an idol temple. He worships statues.
of gold and silver, the moles, the bats that he had made to adore them.

"The shamelessness of their faces casts a shadow against them, they They did not hide their crimes, like Sodom they have published. O elders and princes of my people: the de-
The poor man's litter is in your palaces. Why have you crushed my people and trampled the heads of the poor as if under a wine press.

"The Lord said: because the daughters of Zion are exalted with pride; because they walk with their heads held high com-as they took their steps and provoked with their gaze; God their
It will remove their magnificent ornaments. Instead of perfume,
They will give off a foul odor.

"I expected fairness from Israel and I got only violence;
justice, and I only heard the voice of its crimes.

68 THE VIPER BREED

"Woe to you who always attach to your houses
a new house and you extend your fields without me-Sure! Do you want to live alone in the middle of the earth?

"Woe to you who drag iniquity along like long-Chains and sin are like the arrows of a chariot!

"Woe to you who call good evil, and good,

evil; who change darkness into light and light in darkness; bitterness in sweetness and sweetness in Bitterness!

"Woe to you who pride yourselves on filling (and to empty) cups of intoxicating liqueurs, which justify the wicked man because of his gifts and who rob to the wicked
They are abolishing justice!

"The heart of this people has become blinded, its ears are heavy, her eyes closed; he/ feared to see the luto hear the truth, to convert, and to be healed of his suffering. And I said: Lord, how long? – And he said: until the cities are desolate, the houses deserted and abandoned land." (Isaiah.)

We will agree with these sybaritic customs gangrenous and from this policy of assassins, the former Venetian and late Roman methods were merely games of children; the check system, the Panama Canal system, blackmail, etc., etc. had already been taking place for centuries among these iron-winds of Baal and Moloch. Good purebred hunting dog; as if they were virtuosos and heroes in art to do harm, to ruin, to dishonor and to oppress their similar when the latter is a non-Jew.

Let us conclude this brief review of atrocious customs.
of Israel during the centuries preceding the Christian era through these remarkable words of Mr. Henri Desportes:
"What will become of these idolaters when the God's right hand will no longer be upon them, when the help

WHAT IS A JEW? 69

The Almighty Most High will have abandoned them, when
The Deicide will weigh down their arms and blind their eyes.
He presumes it without difficulty. All the bad instincts are un-will thrive in lush vegetation reuse; the spirit of superstition will stifle the spirit of religion and the most hideous rites will become the prerogative of the sy-Nagogue. The infamous executioners of Golgotha, abandoned of God, cursed from heaven, will roll from abyss to abyss, of Darkness upon darkness, culminating in a nameless mire:
They will no longer have prophets to rescue them from it, but rabbis to push them further into this vortex of infamy. They despised the Messiah—the Light—they will no longer see the truth. This fall is logical, it is "also historical." Mysteries of blood, etc.

Cursed themselves, they drag their trails behind them for the unleashing fury in every country, like a true nomadic nation and Parasite that they are, all the curses: the destruction- of all beliefs, of all noble traditions, of all patriotism, devoid of all morality, of all legitimate wealth- acquired, true freedom, equality, fraternity nity and replacing these invaluable goods with misery, the privilege and exclusivism in their favor, cowardice, arrogance weaving and disguised slavery, on all points and under all reports.

EX

Die: und IDEchfel- Jude

Jewish cattle dealer and moneylender

71

CHAPTER IV

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST

THEIR DISPERSION. – IN SEARCH OF LOST TRIBES.

We have just seen where the Jew came from and what he Not before this great dispersion so many times centuries-old tradition that signals it to us everywhere except in his own home. We noticed the meticulous care he took- was involved in verifying and preserving his genealogy logies and in the preservation of any mixing of its race. His ancestral horror of foreigners has never weakened; it is even more prevalent among our contemporaries rains than in ancient times. So it is indeed the Jew The authentic one we have before us, the Jew Pharisee Secular, a descendant of Pharisees, shaped by these masters the most odious of men.

As for the tribes scattered among the nations, rent periods, mainly at the fall of the kingdom from Israel, we have enough work with our Jews from Europe. rope, to leave it to Israel itself to find them- ver. He acquits himself admirably well, moreover. His re- Our searches were not in vain.

These investigations into the minds of the Jews were pa- parallel to this was part of the objective of the Flatters mission – the The issue of the Jews of the Sahara is very important to Israel. – ; of the war in Afghanistan, which Disraeli (another A Jew, following in the footsteps of the tribe of Gad, undertook to England, under the eternal pretext of an alleged of- defense that had never existed – these same investigations were the object of long journeys through Egypt, Assy- rie, Diarbekir, Kurdistan, Mosul, Baghdad, Persia, of the Jew Benjamin born in Moldavia in Folscherry and died in London, May 4, 1864 – Excursions in America from the south of the Jewish Vieller, professor at the Bonaparte high school – of the expedition of the deputies sent to India in 1886 oriental, or they noted according to the Jewish Chronicle of the time, the presence of four million Jews at twenty Sangala days.

In the Dahomey War, the Jews had in mind the same goal, because there are Black Jews in the kingdom of Dahomey.

The same could be said of the Abyssinian War in- taken over by the Italians.

This same subject was clarified by Asahel Grant in his work, The Nestorians or the Lost Tribes as well as by Israel Worsley in his Tableau des Indiens américains, of their general character, their customs, etc. the mon- such as the descendants of the ten tribes of Israel, etc. etc.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 73

Thanks to these wars, these journeys, and a thousand other things With these means, the Jews managed to compile an almost complete list. complete of their race in different parts of the globe. Tribes, as Drumont said, sniff each other out, sense each other, and...

bring them closer together. Even in those who have abandoned-given Judaism for two or three generations, the A Jew knows how to find his own people; he unravels by certain signs. if a drop of Jewish blood flows in their veins; by-even at this time – which is very good – he spares an enemy because he recognized that it was a brother who had lost his route. – Notice to all those who are called to war-Royer against Germany. The French Jew sees in the Jew from across the Rhine a brother whose life is sacred to him, because the Even the religious question plays only a secondary role in aside from the issue of race, which takes precedence over all others. with the exception of a few insignificant fractions, the verification Registration of the civil status of Jews of all kinds and tribes is already done.

To clearly establish that race is the same everywhere, Let us conclude with these details provided by the Jüdische Presse, April 1885: "A significant Jewish population is reported" in Merv, in Turkestan, and in Saraks, which is one of the Russian army strongpoints. Most are ori-ginaires of Persia and Afghanistan. The Shocker of Merv is a native of Merched in Khorasan. It is known that The Israelites of this region were forced by the weapons, 45 years ago, to embrace Islamism. Five hundred families thus donned the turban, but this conversion, like that of the Marranos of Spain, was not than apparent. Officially they practice the Muslim religion. Sultana, but their feelings remained Israelite, and Inwardly, in their homes, they observe scrupulously They pumilitarily practice the cult of their ancestors. Each family has his shocker that clandestinely bleeds the animals butchery. These Israelites marry exclusively between them; young girls get married between the ages of nine and ten. Far from receiving a dowry, they compensate their pa-rents through a contribution paid by the spouse. The head of the household... The religious leader of these Israelites is a certain Rabbi Mordecai. which is also one of the largest manufacturers (that would they say of a bishop who was a silk manufacturer, of the country; one would said to be worth millions.

74, THE BREED OF VIPERS

It is worth noting the following regarding the Jews of Germany that "the Jews of this origin have always been so little a-more than during the first revolution, a curious fact occurred product. On January 20, 1790, the law concerning Jews was passed from the South (Portuguese, Spanish and Avignon Jews) who re-

they enjoyed all the rights of French citizens, but the Assembly-blée left the restriction of December 14, 1789 entirely in place regarding German Jews, although the ideas of equality and brotherhood were in everyone's minds. The Jews al-Lemands could not enjoy the rights granted to others Jews only from September 3, 1891, that is to say when "Anarchy and the upheaval of ideas began."

This is how MJ de Ligneau expresses himself in Jews and Anti-Semites in Europe. Events have justified our premonitions fathers on the misfortunes they feared as conse-frequency of contact and naturalization of German Jews mends. All Jews were agents of France.

Unfortunately, those in Germany have filled the gap.

As early as 1791, Napoleon noted the fact of the invasion of the France through the German Jews, through these significant ex-pressures: "veritable flocks of crows come descending upon our country... caterpillars, grasshoppers that are ravaging France.

Long before Jesus Christ, the Jew had penetrated a little everywhere, however, this bird of prey was rare in the remote regions, and documents about this are also rare.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 75

subject, except for Egypt and the countries of the East. On can affirm with Drumont that they came to Gaul following the Romans and even before in Brittany to a Undetermined but very distant era.

He

SOME COMPLAINTS AGAINST THE JEWS FROM THE EARLY THE EARLY CENTURIES OF CHRISTIANITY.

It was especially during the first centuries of our era that their presence in numerous colonies in Europe, we is mentioned in the official acts of the Church, because soon She was forced to take serious measures against them. of defense. The authors subservient to the Jews, are not lacking not, by referring to these prescriptions, to shout, against Clearly, to religious intolerance and persecution grievous. In this grievance, there is no truth except their perfidious insinuation. Nuation. The popes, the provincial and national councils were concerned with both good order and prosperity temporal rarity from a social point of view, than from the defense of the Catholic faith among peoples subject to their jurisdiction. What if they denounced Jewish usury in the sixties and plus a percent, the handling of stolen goods and thieves, the superstitions and other crimes of the Jews, they defended at the same time as mistreating them, they rose up violently against their arbitrary persecutors and granted them the free exercise of their worship in their synagogues, and they they forbade with the last of their energy to push them to convert to Catholicism by force.

76 THE VIPER BREED

The misdeeds of the Jews are revealed to us primarily:

+ In Spain from 313 to 1388:

By the councils of Elvira, Toledo, Coyaca, and Tarragona, Valladolid, Palencia.

+ In France, from 465 to 1365:

By the councils of Yeune (Savoy), Orléans, Vannes, Agde, Mâcon, Paris, Reims, Metz, Avignon, Melun, Narbonne, Rouen, Béziers, Albi, Montpellier, Pont-Audemer, Ans (near Lyon), Apt, etc.

+ In Italy from 743 to 1859:

By the councils of Rome, Regiaticina (Pavia), of Lateran, Bologna, Milan, Venice, etc.

+ In Hungary, from 1092 to 1860:

By the councils of Szabole, Gran, Offen, Pressburg, Strigonia.

+ In Bohemia, from 1349 to 1860:

By the Councils of Prague.

+ In Bavaria:

By the Council of Bamberg in 1451.

+ In Austria from 1267 to 1418:

By the councils of Vienna and Salzburg.

+ In Holland:

By the Council of Utrecht in 1865.

In the Grand Duchy of Hesse-Darmstadt, from 1259
at 1292:

By the councils of Fritzlar and Aschaffenburg (near Mainz.)

+ In Prussia:

By the Council of Trier, in 1310, etc. etc.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 77

They also aimed at social preservation against the Jews.
the so-called apostolic laws or canons, mostly from the ITI° and the 4th century and the councils of:

Laodicea in 370,
Constantinople in 692.

Chalcedon in 451.
Nicaea on 787.

Among the Popes, among others, from 590 to 1878:

Saint Gregory the Great.
Innocent III.

Nicholas III.

Alexander II.

Gregory IX.

Gregory XIII.

Clément V.

Clement VI.

John XXII.
Clement VIII.
Benedict XIV.
Paul IV.

Pius IV.

Pius V.

Pius IX.

Among the Holy Fathers and Doctors of the Church, the more distinguished, from the middle of the 4th century to the present day, are the saints:

Augustin

Hilary of Poitiers
Ambrose

Diodorus of Tarsus
Theodore of Cyr
Athanasius the Sinaite
Paul Orose
Gennadius

Saint Isidore of Seville Bernardin de Feltre
Saint Thomas Aquinas

Jerome

Chrysostom

Epiphane

Theodore of Mopsuestia
Synesius

Prudentius

Sulpicius Severus
Venantius Fortunatus
Saint John of Capistrano Agobard, architect of Lyon then Peter the Venerable, Abbot of Cluny, our lords Meurin and Kohn, grandson of a converted Jew, archbishop d'Olmutz, etc.

78 THE VIPER BREED

III

CRIMES REPRIC'THÉE AUX JUIES.

Why were the Jews so universally and always...
Hated days? What crimes were they accused of, after all?

We cannot simply stop at transcribing the immense file where the evidence against Jewish infamy is amassed. I I will only give a general idea, referring the parties-without this kind of erudition, to the acts of the councils and to works of the characters mentioned above.

First, everyone recognizes that the Jew perpetrates
All crimes committed with rare impudence. Saint Agobard, Archbishop of Lyon, from 814 to 840, wrote a short treatise which he sent to Louis the Debunaire, entitled: On Insolence Jews.

They were criticized for not taking care of any professional work.
fitable, to commit the most atrocious crimes, to be vo-their children and even murderers, to reduce Christians in slavery, to be bribers of witnesses, corrupters of officials, monopolists, fraudsters, falsifiers of food, corrupters of Christian women, receivers of stolen goods of wrongdoers, thieves and their loot, usurers, blas-phemers, etc.

They should be punished to a degree proportionate to their perfidy, wrote Peter the Venerable, abbot, around 1146 of Cluny, addressing Louis VII, King of France. And what a more suitable kind of punishment than the one that is at the at times, a condemnation of iniquity and a satisfaction given to charity. What could be more just than to strip them of them?
first of what they accumulated through fraud: they stole and stolen like thieves, and what's more, like thieves

Their assurances of impunity to this day. What I am saying is It is well known that if they fill their granaries with wheat, their wine cellars, their bags of coins, their silver chest and gold, it is neither by working the land, nor by serving in war, nor by practicing any other useful work and honorable; it is by deceiving the Christians, it is by... so secretly, at rock-bottom prices, of high value objects which were stolen. They buy the loot from the robbery and if there They find sacred vessels, and they furiously desecrate them.
A Christian convicted of sacrilegious theft is hanged, while If sacred vessels are found in the possession of a Jew, he is not bound by law, neither to return them, nor to discover the thieves.

They extort money by any means necessary, he said.
Saint Agobard, do not tolerate the existence of markets
On Saturday, despite universal practice, they abducted children Christians whom they will sell to the Muslims of Spain.
The evidence of this latest crime is abundant.

Mr. Bernard Lazare, a true genius of rabbinic Judaism derne, explains, in his own way, in Anti-Semitism, his history and its causes, the grievances of the Christian centuries against his race. Speaking of the monks, he said "that they thundered against the infamous nation that lives by plunder; let them present themselves like avengers, come to punish insolence, the av-rice, the harshness of the Jews.

In Italy, he adds, John of Capistrano, the Scourge of Hebrews, raised up the poor against the usury of the Jews and their hardening, he continued his work in Germany and Poland, leading in its wake bands of wretched and desperate wretches who made their suffering to Jewish communities; Bernardin de Feltre followed his example, but he was haunted by more practical ideas.
ticks, including the practice of organizing pawnshops to counter the rapacity of the lenders. He travelled throughout Italy and Tyrol, demanding the expulsion of the Hebrews, provo-

80 THE VIPER BREED

as for uprisings and riots, causing the mas-
"The consecration of the Jews of Trent."

Since, following Bernardin de Feltre, we led to Trento, to make us witness the massacres Jews from this city, innocent no doubt, Mr. Bernard Lazarus could have told us how on Holy Thursday, the March 23, 1475, his ancestors assassinated the Blessed child Simon, aged twenty-nine months.

The evidence of this assassination, committed in order to procure There is evidence that Christian blood was shed for the Jewish Passover. terrible, undeniable, authentic, than all Jewish gold will never be able to make it disappear or disprove it.

No doubt, in the opinion of Mr. Bernard Lazare, these Israelites of Trent, were victims of an infamous calumny, no more no less than Dreyfus.

To avoid leaving everything out of the spotlight, Mr. Bernard Lazare since he lives in Paris, he could have added the story of the impos- ritual slaughter of Saint Richard of Paris, which the Jews of Pontoise were martyred on March 25, 1179. The relationship Brother Robert left us an account of this ritual crime. Gaguinus, Superior General of the Order of the Trinity.

The ritual murder is also worthy of remembrance. committed in 1181 against a Christian from Braisne. After having Having personally led the investigation, Philip Augustus had him executed the perpetrators of this crime.

Another assassination of this kind, no less indisputable- table, was perpetrated in 1225 by the Jews of Lincoln, on the B. Hughes, of Lincoln, aged eight years.

Many centuries before, there had already been examples of these monstrous cruelties. For example, around 418 The Israelites of Syria crucified a Christian child at Immistar, near Antioch. The proof of this murder having Once the truth was established, Theodosius II ordered the punishment of the guilty part

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 81

Closer to home, the ritual assassination of Father Thomas, in 1840, is no less proven, etc., because my intention is not intended to present a complete picture of crime Jewish on this point, which is, moreover, impossible; but We make history, and this one, just as it does not must not lie, nor can he remain absolutely mute.

In 1593, Pope Clement VIII denounced the invalidity of the results obtained among the Jews through the favors which Sixtus V had fulfilled their wishes. "The Hebrews," he wrote, "by their blind and obstinate perfidy renders Christian piety yours, the insult for the benefits received, indulge in such despicable misdeeds and commit such enormous crimes to the detriment of Christ's followers, etc. All Christians of our states suffer from their wear and tear, from their monopolies, from their frauds; they reduced to begging a large number of unfortunate people, mainly the peasants "Without it, the simple and the poor."

Saint Pius V, in his constitution of 1569 concerning The Jews, in this way, express themselves: "The impiety of the Jews is armed with all the pieces. Everyone knows they're the receivers of stolen goods. and the accomplices of the brigands and the values. They hide, transport elsewhere or transport the spoils of plunder that they entrust to them. Several of them, under pretext to deal with the affairs of their profession penetrate among honest women, and make them fall into the most infamous depravities and obscenities.

Finally, to make a long story short, Innocent III (1198–1216) reports in a letter to Philip Augustus some of the misdeeds committed by Jews in France: robbery, usury, blasphemy, religious persecution, and even assassinations They did, in fact, go as far as murder, but in secret, because these moralists, like Robert Macaire, were keen to to enjoy a good reputation. But a good reputation is the only thing that, despite their hoarding and their billions, which has always eluded them.

82 THE VIPER BREED

The permanent state of mind of this parasitic race has was revealed by /a Letter that the Great Leaders of the Jewry universal – the Satraps, as they called themselves themselves – residing in Constantinople – sent to their nationals of Arles, on November 21, 1489. These Having exasperated the people of Arles by their misdeeds, are obliged to led by Charles VII, or to embrace with faith, the most Christian rule especially in practice, or to leave the countries, they therefore consult their Satraps, whose names are as follows admirable advice. "Beloved brothers in Moses, we we received your letter in which you tell us to understand the anxieties and misfortunes you endure. We were filled with as much sorrow as yourselves. The opinion of the Grand Satraps and Rabbis is the following :

"From what you say, the King of France obliges you to Become Christians, do it, since you cannot to do otherwise, but that the law of Moses be preserved in your heart.

"From what you say, that they're starting to strip you of your clothes— From your possessions, make your children merchants, so that, little Little by little, they are stripping the Christians of their possessions.

"According to what you say, let them destroy your synagogues, Make your children into canons and clerks, so that they may destroy their churches.

"From what you say, that your lives are being threatened, do your children doctors and apothecaries so that they may take from the Christians hold their lives.

"From what you say, that you are subjected to many other vexations— tions, make sure your children become lawyers and not— to keep quiet, and that they always meddle in the affairs of states, in order to

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 83

that, by placing Christians under your yoke, you dominate the world and you can take revenge on them

"Do not deviate from this order that we give you—" No, because you will see from experience that, from lowered "As you are, you will reach the pinnacle of power."

However, with the exception of a few rare acts of reprisal popular, all these crimes remained more or less imputed— nis. The honest Christian, victim of unjust maneuvers The Jew was unable to obtain justice before the courts that did not admit his testimony then that the Jew's was received without difficulty. What was the because of this difference in treatment between the French And the Jew from the judges' perspective? — Not only the officers— royal officials and magistrates allowed themselves to be corrupted by Jewish gold, but the great lords themselves, like vulgar checkers were selling their consciences to Cornelius Herz, to the Von Reynachs, etc. etc. of their time.

Both preventive and repressive measures were implemented. all adopted against the inhumane and antisocial action of Israelites: they always remained insufficient and ineffective as long as we didn't get to the expulsions, of which the following are main ones.

IV

MAIN BANISHMENTS OF JEWS.

They were forced to expel the Jews from their states:
In 53 AD, Emperor Claudius, because of according to Rabbi Astruc, of a diversion com-

84. THE VIPER BREED

This prescription, however, was put in place by four Jews.
did not extend beyond the city of Rome.

+ In 633, Dagobert [*'.

+ In 638, Sizebut, king of Spain of the dynasty of Goths. We will judge the size of the population Jewish people of that era, in the Iberian Peninsula, if we note that under the emperor Hadrian, fifty thousand families from the tribes of Judah and Benjamin had been transported there and had prodigiously multiplied. One hundred thousand by one false conversions got them to stay.

+ In 718, Omar II drove out most of the Tallows of his states.

In 878, Louis II decreed that the Jews of Italy must have evacuate the country within one month, under penalty to lose all their possessions.

+ In 1287, Edward I expelled them from England.

+ In 1492, Ferdinand the Catholic and Isabella of Castile also banished them.

The history of the Jews from Russia who arrived in this country from the 3rd century BC, it was that of the Jews of throughout Europe. In the 12th century they were banished, and, adds Mr. Bernard Lazare: they were never called back, as if History had never shown us a country that had them called, either to colonize and cultivate the land, which they are incapable of either exercising usury, stripping and corrupting the natives is something we want to avoid at any price. However, if they were never called back, they knew, despite the formal ban by the Russian government, to return of their own accord, which, aided by the iniquitous actions of the Jews, motivated in 1742 a new wave of expulsion.

- + In 1840, Matthias Corvinus expelled them from Vienna.
- + In 1492, Sicily rejected them.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 85

- + In 860, they were forced to evacuate the bishopric of Sens.
- + In 1466, the archbishopric of Magdeburg, and around this

At the same time, the towns of Tynman and Offen, in Hungary exiled them from their territory for assassination. Christian children born.

These just hardships were also experienced by the Jews in France.

- + In 1096 under Philip I.*.

READ

READ

READ

READ

In 1182 under Philip Augustus.

In 1306 under Philip the Fair.

On September 17, 1394, under Charles VI.

In 1744 (December 22), Maria Theresa of Austria,

Empress of Germany and Queen of Hungary and of Bohemia, published in Prague and throughout the kingdom from Bohemia, a decree of expulsion against the Jews, in four articles, the last of which was worded as follows: "This evacuation of Jews from the entire country of Bohemia will take place before the last day of the month of June 1745. However, thanks to the recommendations self-serving donations from the Dutch ambassador, Baron Van Barménie, of the plenipotentiary an-Glas, the knight Thomas Robinson, the evacuation of Prague, which according to the terms of the edict could not to be delayed beyond January 31, 1745, was ren-sent until March 31 of the same year, date at which twenty-eight thousand Jews had to leave this capital.

Finally, a new edict of May 26, 1745, due to the instances of Poland, Denmark and the Sweden again allowed the Israelites until new order to stay in Bohemia. For pro-to turn her subjects against the Jews, Maria Theresa would only have had to draw inspiration from the high examples of his illustrious predecessors who, more than ten times, the had banished from the hereditary lands of the house of Austria.

86 THE VIPER BREED

It was Ferdinand I, brother of Charles V and emperor German leader from 1556 to 1564 who definitively reinstated them vement as serfs of the Holy Roman Empire.

Finally, no one is unaware of the evictions that have been taking place since a few years take place periodically in the empire of the tsars.

While we find few similar edicts in the majority of the part of other countries, reprisals against Jewish iniquity secularism nonetheless possesses a universal character and of a sustainability that is neither surprising nor abnormal, from the outset that Judah is known and unmasked. Thus, to name but one

Some examples: in the year 40 AD, they were very badly-treated in Persia, Mesopotamia, and Babylon, where, in massacred more than fifty thousand.

In 65-66, the inhabitants of Caesarea killed more of twenty thousand. To avenge them, their brothers from other provinces took up arms and ravaged and plundered Syria. The Syrians responded to this a storm of protest by slaughtering in all their cities and the Jews who were there.

A large number of provinces followed this example: They killed about fifty thousand of them in Alexandria.

In 613, it was the Jews who took their revenge. against poor, harmless, and innocent Christians. After After the capture of Jerusalem, the victorious Persians sold the most of their prisoners were very numerous Christians. The Israelites bought them to obtain bar- The sheer pleasure of murdering them in cold blood. It is estimated that ninety thousand is the number of these unfortunate people who perished by their hand.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 87

+ In 1010 the prince of Babylon having had demolished the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem has the instigation- The news of the Jewish affair spread everywhere in not long. Public hatred erupted with violence- anger against the Jews among all Christian peoples hold on to those who drove them from their lands and made them many perished by sword and fire.

Violence was again perpetrated against them in several cities in England and Germany because of their usual depredations, and for having desecrated consecrated hosts.

In Lisbon, during a riot in 1506, two thousand between men, women and children were put to dead. We would never finish if we had to recount the calamities that befell them because of the murders rituals that in the course of centuries they had committed in various locations within Christian states.

Let us conclude this brief overview of the Jewish expulsions. with these few sentences marked by common sense, borrowed from the highly erudite discourse of MH Boivin, La The Jewish question in history: "We have just seen the peoples of Europe driven fifty-eight times from their territory the Israelites, yet we still had to exclude number of evictions of which we could not sufficiently Check the extent and the cause. What is the general reason? of this banishment, so to speak, in a continuous stream?

Listen to what Schwob says about this: "If the Jews do not were able to unite with those who had received them, that is "It is these nations that must be targeted."

If the alleged persecution of the Jews had been limited at a certain time, in a certain country, despite appearances, a theory based on mass fanaticism or tyranny

88 THE VIPER BREED

a private individual's could be skillfully exploited; but these strict edicts encompassing universal history, of-then the Christian era (or the dispersion of the Jews) until In our time, we see successively a Saint Louis, a Muhammad, a Luther, a Gregory IX, a Frederick of Prussia, a Louis XI, a Duke of Orléans to take some measure examples against the Jews; and these men so diverse of opinions, doctrines, states of mind, than their names they alone constitute true antitheses, do not meet disagree on one point: the need to condemn the action of the Jews.

On this point, everyone agrees; they differ only in the method of execution. How then to assume that all These geniuses, in various capacities, made a common mistake on one same point, that the populations of the old Roman empire-hand, like those of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, that Muslims, Protestants, Catholics and the Could Voltaireans have perpetrated such an injustice? That is Unacceptable...

It is not with impunity and without serious reason that... universal history shows, above the ruins of empires and the most established constitutions, hatred persistent Jewish identity throughout the ages.

With the sometimes blind and exaggerated generosity that we characterized, we have received the Jew into our home as the an outcast of humanity; we opened our country to him, he he betrayed us; he violated our homes; he robbed our purses Drained. Isn't it right that, enlightened and indignant, we Finally, we shouted: "Enough!"

eZ

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 89

V

RETURN OF THE JEWS.

Through their usual means, primarily through the pimping, treason and corruption of office Jews, including high-ranking officials, were quick to to re-enter the countries that had rejected them.

"Pursued, trampled underfoot," says the Giornale di Roma, treated as infamous for his monstrosities and villainy-tesserae, scattered a thousand times over all points of the earth He (the Jew) rose up humble, crawling, servile, abject in degradation; selfish, ambitious, usurper in Prosperity, ever greedy and monopolizing. Driven from a country, he returns there, jostled, whipped, slapped, beaten; he gets used to everything in order to stay there and to strengthen his The situation. The most terrible accusations are piling up. on him, from the most horrible and most contrary vices nature, even to the point of human sacrifice; this people denies all of this. that he is accused of, and he cites his texts in his defense. sacred, but he does not speak of the cults of Moloch and of Belphegor; he does not speak of the obscene rites that have at-drew down heavenly wrath upon his ancestors and who made of his race

The universal abomination. He doesn't work, he doesn't produce
No, but he amasses; he amasses the fruits of the sweat of others.
They are a parasitic people. They are, par excellence, vermin.
of humanity. One can admire his tenacity, but one must not "Not that we allow him to gain the upper hand."

Juvenal tells us what they were again under Nero, in this Rome that Claudius, as we have as mentioned above, had attempted to clean up by sweeping them away.

90 THE VIPER BREED

Nunc sacri fontes, nemus el delubra locantur
Judoesis, quorum cophinus foenumque stepellax
Omnis, enim populo mercedem pendere jusa est Arbor, et ejectis mendical sylva Camoenis. (3rd satire.)

"Now our sacred groves and temples are being rented out."
to those Jews who arrived in our country with a satchel and an arm-Haystack. From these places that the Muses have deserted to their "They approach it, they turn it into an object of exploitation."

Three centuries later, the prefect Rutilius Numatianus
He exhales these patriotic complaints about them:
Atque utinam, numquam Judae subactae Fuisset Pompei armis, impii que Titi!
Latius excisa pestis contagia serpunt Vicoresque suos, natio vicat premit.

"Would to God that Judea had never been subjected nor neither by the arms of Pompey nor by the power of Titus!
Now the poison of this would not spread plague of the circumcised; the vanquished race would not oppress its winners.

The same maneuvers were repeated in Spain from 638 to 1492. From that time onwards, the experience... dant, the pride and piety of the hidalgos of the Cid's homeland ne could never again tolerate the proximity of the race treacherous. It was only after the fall of Isabella II in 1869, that some Spanish Freemasons, traitors to their great national traditions and deceived by the inspired Jews
The Lodge failures allowed them to start again.
in Spain their work of destruction.

The secret schemes, the attempts to corrupt the part of the Jews, in order to enter Russia, broke all-days against the will of the tsars in past centuries. They were happier in Poland. In The Jewish Spirit, page 80.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 91

We read: "One day some venerable, bearded Jews white women presented themselves to King Casimir III (1310 to 1370) said the Great or the Wise, accompanied by ten beautiful young women girls each holding a large silver tray loaded of newly minted ducats. They offered him this magnificent present fact. Farewell to the king's wisdom; the eyes of the Jewish women fascinated the old sovereign who accepted the ducats for to have the beautiful girls and granted the Jews permission to live in Poland. The story of Ahasuerus was renewed. One of the ten, called Estherka or the little one in Polish Esther so completely took hold of the old monarch's mind that she became the true queen of Poland. She gave to the king three sons who became Polish nobles; from his wife he had no children They only had daughters. The Jews, both men and women, therefore became... "Fashion." We know the rest. We can sum it all up in these two words: Finis Poloniae.

During the reign of William of Orange, in In 1672, they invaded Holland in large numbers, where copious amounts of profiles were destined for their usual rapacity.

For Israel, oppressed everywhere, said Joukowsky, in His Judaism unexpectedly found itself a safe haven. William of Orange proclaimed freedom in the Netherlands religious and civil law for Jews.

Several hundred Jewish families, expelled from the East From Africa and Portugal, they settled in Amsterdam... In for a short period of time they became owners of three hundred palaces in the city, seized all the trade and banking operations. They brought in Türkiye of fanatical rabbis and organized clandestine finitely a Jewish alliance – Ghabaza – against the native Christians. Amsterdam became the center of gold-Jewish methodology, from which Jewish propaganda spread throughout Europe.

During the reign of Philip I*, who inaugurated in France the energetic measures that we have mentioned: "All The other princes did the same, each in their own states. to such an extent that these rapacious men had become intolerant- rables". Delamare, Treatise on police.

Soon they took steps: they would have everything in- It took time for them to be tolerated. A few years later, they were... granted the right to live as serfs on the condition of to pay a heavy tax. They enthusiastically agreed: They knew what they were doing. That was enough, the The same author, to enrich the Jews once again. excessive wear and tear they inflicted (under Louis X) (they amounted to 150% per year) had put in their de- hanging, from the first half of the following century, the the property and wealth of most Christians.

Under Philip Augustus they remained outside of France 1182 to 1198. But to claim their amendment is to claim the impossible and, likewise their new admission always had the same causes, that is to say, the excessive humanity of our kings and the precarious state of their finances, likewise it always leads to the same results: depravity, enslavement, and misery of people. Which, after preventive measures always ineffective, forced Charles VI to adopt the right approach, that is- that is to say, banishment for life under penalty of death.

The experiment has been conducted. Between the Jew and the non-Jew, what Whatever it may be, there can be no other relationship than those which are possible between the corrupter and the corrupted, the du- Fear and the duped, the tyrant and the slave. It is not necessary to point out that the duped and the slave will always The non-Jew. The Jew will always be a tyrant to us. in fact, whenever possible, or at least always a tyrant by right, according to him. Nevertheless, he is not not to despair that with fair legislation, but who would apply the axe to the root, one cannot, without resorting to eviction, modifying and even completely changing- this unfortunate and perilous state of affairs.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 93

We will propose these methods later.

After the discovery of their disastrous actions in Russia, the tsar would be the most impolitic and cruel of sub-verains towards his people, if he were to abolish the wise laws promulgated have been used against Jews lately.

But for them, all means are justified. To the insure the success of corruption in gaining entry into a country, they supplement by cunning and fraud. As soon as they are insured, they cling to power, maintaining it through the most odious lies. Especially when, through crimes familiar to them, they are calling for repressive measures against them. Indeed Rosenthal, that Jew, half a dozen times French – Jewish style – in charge of foreign policy in the Figaro wrote in this newspaper on August 25, 1890: "An article from the Collection of Laws of the Russian Empire, proclaims that access to the territory of the Russian Empire remained forbidden to all Jews foreigner, under penalty of immediate expulsion, unless... special and prior authorization. The Jews transgress it. almost daily through fraud, by murdering a national passport, where their religion is described as – reformed. They settle as they please, establish their small industry which is generally that of lender on pawnshops, they marry and prosper. From time to time, the Police, by consulting the Synagogue register, discover the fraud and formally demands that the so-called reformed leave the country at short notice. Thereupon, complaints and recriminations... minations. The diplomatic representative intercedes, all Israel cries foul, alleging a violation of human rights, according to reporters. Jews hasten to telegraph that the government Russians act with the utmost barbarity, which honest industry-

94 THE VIPER BREED

Triel is ruined by the police, whether his wife is pregnant or about to give birth. Convicted of all the crimes, The Jew always misrepresents the cause of minor inconveniences. What is his honest trade worth to him? Then he shouts, but no more stronger than ever, against religious persecution.

The newspaper Le Nord, whose competence is unparalleled on this matter, responded to these squabbles with this declaration: a statement that no fact has ever refuted: "There is no religious persecution directed against the Semites Russia: the best proof is that the government there tolerates their theocratic organization, their Kahal, which with the "Universal Israelite Alliance" is essentially not the only one power to which Semitism truly submits. There is no

"Nor is there oppression of any kind." August 23, 1890.
The same is true in other countries.

Often punished but never corrected, in decline of the previous century, after a four-century-long siege against France, their New Promised Land, the Jews launched the formidable assault which delivered all the poles to them positions, all the places. As for honors, without participation the immense wealth acquired, we know how, the
The main ones fall back on them.

In this social upheaval, our fathers were,
As they say, giants, but giants, suggestion-born. The true giant, the one who subjugated all others to his influence, who conceived the attack plan and directed the action, the one who, ultimately, according to his initial plan, absorbed-Well, the work has its own profile, as we can clearly see.
Today, this giant of evil, the giant enemy, is the Jew.
We can defeat him, but he will never change his
He will never surrender his feelings towards us.

His irreconcilable hostility does not die: his race perpetuates. How many ruins and dreadful disasters it causes.

THE JEWS AFTER JESUS CHRIST 95

is the author against French Catholics! Our fathers However, by the decree of the Constituent Assembly of September 17th
In September 1791, they were the first to free him after so many years.
long centuries of dishonorable but deserved slavery.

But let the Jews not have an insolent triumph, that they cease pursuing the disintegration of our so-Catholic society, to enslave it after having plundered it and perverted! The sons could abolish what the fathers agreed. Besides, it is only through an excess of our generosity, which is the distinctive trait of our nation, and ill-despite the antipathy that the Jews inspired in them, which our fathers granted them the rights of French citizens.

The union was certainly not a marriage of inclination. The question-tion of Jewish emancipation, says MA de Boisandré, Free Words from December 2, 1896, remained on the carpet for two years, she was brought before the assembly fourteen times, which rejected it or adjourned it fourteen times. She even inflicted on the Jews the shame at refusing them the rehabilitation she granted to executioner, despite Robespierre's flattering opinion who intervened to argue that Jews and executioners should to be placed on the same level. One can guess if the sons of Israel

They stirred and intrigued all this time. They fi-
They managed to win and snatch the fourth vote, a surprise victory.
and to weariness, on the eve of the dissolution of the assembly.

This, in truth, is what this "generous decree of the Constituent Assembly" according to the newspaper's own words Juif Weyl: The Journal of Debates.

Europe was in no hurry to imitate this human movement.
France's agent for this enemy of humankind.
Finally, reluctantly, she resigned herself to it: England in 1849 and 1858; Denmark in 1849; Austria-Hungary in 1867; Italy in 1860 and 1870; Germany in 1869 and 1870; the Switzerland in 1866 and 1874; Bulgaria and Serbia in 1878 and 1879, then Romania. Neither Spain, nor Portugal, nor the

96 THE VIPER BREED

Russia refused to follow our example, judging that it was not
It's not good to warm the snake in your bosom.

After this brief account of the various vicissitudes to tra-towards which the cosmopolitan movement took place Jewish, primarily in Europe, since Jesus Christ, we we will examine how this exclusive and malevolent being is reaches its current power and the services it has provided us rendered so that in effect we would be his vassals and that
The fate of our dear and beautiful France is in her hands.
We will gain a thorough understanding of these issues by analyzing this what has been the Jew since his dispersion among the nations, after Jesus Christ, and above all, what he is now.

ERA

97

CHAPTER V

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST

ETHNOGRAPHY. PHYSIOGNOMONY.
FREE WILL ALWAYS EXCEPT.

the presence of Jews in Europe and in our

France in particular was, even before the pre-
The first centuries of our era, a fait accompli. The antagonism and the hostilities they provoked, apart from a few lulls-Ephemeral and deceptive illusions have never ceased to exist.
to be between all other races and their own. The reprisals that the Aryans had inflicted upon them, did they correct them?
Have they become more subdued? No; their audacity has only become more presumptuous.
their more cynical impudence and their art of doing evil more universal, more subtle and deeper.

98 THE VIPER BREED

Speakers outside, the experienced psychologist could to penetrate the recesses of their soul and read in this book long closed, the mysteries of iniquity it conceals.

However, what can the physiognomic traits mean?
moniques and even specific physiological conditions of the Jew? That the Jew, by this disproportionate appendage which... hangs almost in the mouth, seems to be attached to Proboscideans, that's right. And then what? Let's not dwell on it.
Wouldn't that be falling into the famous: displicuit nasus Tuus, a real German quarrel?

Anyone who speaks in this way would seem to forget that, only infinite Intelligence, only He who is not one to be contingent, but to be so in essence, possesses its own and, exclusively, the attribute of contemplating himself and other beings, laid bare, intuitively in their essence.
This allows him to see all the effects in their causes.
whereas we judge causes by effects.
For us, being in itself always remains hidden; the intuitive knowledge of essence is above our faculties. We arrive at the core through the envelope, at The essence through the image.

Let's take an example; just one will suffice for us.
To convince. Just by looking at it, Rothschild is not for us what we might call an undecipherable enigma-fragile. Thanks to the significant shell that is part of the King of the Jews, the mystery disappears, In the absence of the original, Behold this face, sketched by a master's hand.
"The guy at Rothschild's," said Drumont, Last Battle, page 30, belongs to the order of rodents; to see it the effect of a white rat and it is a white rat indeed, a rat colossal, hamster-like, very particular rat that has cheek pouches to store provisions. This rodent... Viathanesque plays with his teeth, his shears, as well night as well as day. It digs galleries at the same time course and guard in the armor plating of ships as in the floorboards of houses. To knock it out, one would need to bring the house down on his head or sink the ship; That's its strength, because it's a big undertaking to attempt and we're looking into it twice. Examine the top of the figure; it is not vulgar; even the eyes, though blinking and shabby have a certain expression; what animalizes the being is the lower part of the face which is horrible; the mouth without lips, advancing as if to seize and bite is quite of a rat." – Although you may never have seen Constans, you could, by his features, guess the states of the probable soul of the Mentor of Puig y Puig. However. I realize that Constans, although sharing the scrup- People of Israel, is not Jewish. Let us therefore not disturb the surplacid face of these waves agitated in their depths by violently opposing currents.

WHAT IS THE JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 99

Among Jews in general, their prominent nose and... enormous times, their lower lip protruding and fleshy, their swollen eyes full of lust, veiled in hypocrisy, sick with hatred, weary of greed, they form a unique physiognomy, a type like no other, on which, according to its various games, it pierces and fixes the grimace of the steps- bestial ions, ruthless contempt and ferocity of the prey being rebellious against all taming.

These ethnic characteristics, tenacious and ingrained, are the presumptions of the general state of mind of individuals race, clues to their tendencies, signs of their predispositions and instincts; they are a burden enormous, which compels action, circumvents free will and almost unconsciously leads him down a path that His conscience disapproves. They end up creating as a second nature, if the subject abdicates even slightly his di- human dignity. Despite everything, man is always free; He never commits evil out of necessity; on the contrary,

100 THE VIPER BREED

Evil would no longer be evil. Thus, the conformation physical, physiological functioning are, according their nature, a predisposition, a material contribution to actions, good or bad, but freedom, and consequently The responsibility remains.

If sometimes the impetuosity, the sudden violence of a movement of the soul, of a passion, leads to acts of which the subject, at least initially, is not responsible, one is confronted with the material act of man, but The human act itself, strictly speaking, does not exist at all. It is this that professes the genius physiognomist, our compatriot Mr. Eugène Ledos, whose judgment we are transcribing very accurate on this subject, as recorded in the scholar work by A. Julien Leclercq, La physionomie, etc. In this Regarding morale, Mr. Ledos said: "I don't believe in the the inevitability of evil; undoubtedly, free will has its limits, But most often, it is we who, lacking courage, to straighten ourselves in the face of our passions, let us compromise. clement with them, or even solicit them, and by this means we inevitably open the door to the excesses of our bad inclinations. I therefore believe that with a firm With the will to do good, one can resist one's passions, however harmful. that they may be, and even triumph over them.

Jewish ethnography, despite its many scattered features It has not yet appeared in a special treatise, though it is available in many places. Methodical and comprehensive. "The definitive book that is still to come." to do on this subject, says Drumont, in his preface to The Mystery blood, etc., from Desportes, should come out of the collaboration- the perspective of a historian and a doctor; alongside the narrative of historically, the physiologist would have to write a study of mer- vigilant on the fatalisms of race, the terrible laws of the he- edited. Symptomatic neuroses have been studied, sym- pathological and idiopathic. Ethnic neurosis would be the subject of a very intriguing thesis for a young man, For example, he would need to be wealthy and not He wasn't looking for customers; it wasn't Germain Sée who did it. would recommend.

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 101

Always examining the material side, it is constant the main signs by which one can recognize The Jew remains, according to Drumont: "That famous upturned nose-

beard, blinking eyes, clenched teeth, protruding ears Lantes, square nails instead of being almond-shaped, the overly long torso, the flat feet, the rounded knees, the chean extraordinarily unusual city, the soft hand and "The melting point of the hypocrite and the traitor."

Lavater observes that Jews in general have the face pale, with a hooked nose, sunken eyes, a protruding nose minor, the constrictor muscles of the mouth strongly pronounced, curly, red or brown hair, beard rare, usually a mark of effeminate temperament.
Then he recorded in these terms what we had been saying.
at the moment, regarding the influence of morale on physical health and conversely: "Physical degradation always follows-days of moral decline; it becomes more noticeable strongly among the Hebrews: this is the result of a com-Complete depravity.

-

=

102 THE VIPER BREED

He

THE JEW OF MIDDLE 1, THE JEW OF GERMANY, LITERARY, SCHOLAR, DOCTOR ETC., Mr. Kir-Kir.

The Jew from the South is of a fairly decent type; before However, he, like any other Jew, had the presence of
We sense the enemy. Her kind of beauty does not inspire Sympathy doesn't attract. The good impression that his Fine, regular lines should produce, but is paralyzed through a kind of unsuspected selfishness, through a kind of forced friendship or hidden hostility that emerge from it and produce the effect of a disagreement, a false note in a harmonious concert. He feels the fervor of the steps-Southern unions, he also knows their weariness, but without ever giving up against the natives who surround him, foreigners of his race.

Filth is the dominant note of the Northern Jew, primarily of the German Jew: he is dirty in every aspect of his personality. sounds, dirty in those clothes, dirty in the color of his His beard and hair, his complexion dirty, dirty even in the nuance of her rheumy, vacant eyes. "It's the slimy, gooey louse living in inertia at human body expenses.

The following portrait that Mr. Cerfbeer of Medelsheim has The trajectory of his German brothers is not flattering:

"The German Jew is, morally, vain and ignorant," greedy, ungrateful, base, groveling, insolent: physically, he is Dirty, mangy, and ragged. The women, he adds, are imperious, credulous, slanderous, cantankerous and very su- cast doubt on matters of marital faith.

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST? 103

"He is," said Drumont, "the type of the old-fashioned merchant." of men, of the low-level usurer, of the one-eyed tavern keeper. Fortune cannot change him by touching him with its wand. When we see certain Parisian characters passing by that thoroughbreds are carried to the woods in a decorated pram- re of a baron's twist, we have reminiscences of figures interviews already with dealers in old braid, with peddlers thread and needle makers." In the past, he was the harpy Kabbalistic brooding beneath its mud-stained wings and of blood, new centuries of infamy.

Now it has a new look – in appearance; –because He is condemned to always remain the same. He wanted to to place at the head of the scientific and literary movement, like those sacred things for which he has no aptitude– higher studies were a matter of bric-a-brac, an object of junk and sophistication. From his efforts he re- consulted a collection of fragments from old authors, centos, of commonplaces, compilations, groupings, of heaps... which we have decorated with the name of al- science German. In literature, poetry, or history, one finds– always strives to create their masterpiece.

In philosophy especially, their systems, their theories are of Charenton-esque importation and have nothing atheist about them. nothing. Never will a philosopher worthy of the name be able to to take a look at these wild ramblings, without to be alternately torn between these two movements; either hysterical laughter or contemptuous pity. And, if beauty is, according to Plato, the splendor of truth, never, O Israel of the mists of the North, never its radiant dawn, its ravishing day, will not illuminate this smoky ember, this dark hearth of hypocrisis and lies that is your soul.

Let us conclude this general overview of the German Jew, by these judicious observations of Mr. Jules Séverin, the scholar author of Anti-Jewish and French Medicine, in his letter to

104, THE BREED OF VIPERS

Dr. d'Aslonnes, on the science of therapists Germans, imported into our country by Jews following our disasters.

Jewish education, he said, has given us the flaws of the race, communicated the virus. He sat there with a premeditated a desire to destroy us, or rather a lack of understanding.
elementary, German science being much less
"More advanced than ours and Jewish science," said a German.
Full of brilliance and without substance. ... Today, philoso-German philosophy, English economics, Jewish medicine, pa-fanciful leontology where even Darwin has been surpassed History contradicts the sources, Roman law, mythological fine arts, pagan renaissance, have in-Vahi, school at all levels. What! Nothing of the chivalric order?
laughter, from the civilization of the Christian ideal, that the charming the allegory of the Antwerp museum opposes this renaissance A party girl and a skeptic! Fortunes vanish, politics is covered in mud, and the old honor disappears, the stars fall from the sky, before the arrival of the intruders and the boors who set civilization back forty centuries, and They revived barbarity in the 19th century... They pontificate, they They soar like eagles, and have the rapacity of vultures.
They have apostatized from the ideal, and the scientific day has not dawned.
For them, they trampled the researchers underfoot, stripped them of their possessions.
He devoured the humble, devoured the nation's hope. Vampires Unfulfilled, they have weakened the France of their dreams, they are gorged with his billions, and have devoured his children.
Who will deliver us from their clutches? There is no place so sacred that they have not invaded, of science that they have not altered, of sanctuary that they have not defiled."

So, to the German Jew with your old-tal- soul Mudiste, you feign seductive behavior. You have made people suffer.
to your filthy cloak flapping at your heels, the op-ration of circumcision, and now on the occasions

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST? 105

solemn ceremonies, it's the tailcoat, always filthy that you You put it on and it fits you like a cat's saddle. There you are.
therefore modernized under this tailcoat adorned with Christian decorations yours and displaying academic titles as a substitute for pavilion to popularize and sell your merchandise. You There you go, a gentleman! Mr. Kit-Kif, as the Arab would say: it's Rabbi Alphasi, Rabbi Moses, son of Maimon, Qaro, Moses Isserles, Cagliostro, Nostradamus. In short, it's the necrohideous priest, the rapacious and corrupting alchemist who, at the end of the century, it feeds the bottom of its crucibles with fragments of conscience, remnants of all the honneurs for the exploitation of its theoretical formula and pra-tick of its universal domination. That is what you are; nor Neither the tailcoat nor the scientific veneer changes anything.

III

Galician and Polish Jews.

Regarding the Jews of this importation, Mr. Amédée Pigeon provides us with the following notes: the Jew coming from Poland or from Galicia is a man rather short than tall and of such pronounced thinness that it can only result from long periods of hardship. He wears a filthy frock coat and worn out, to the point where its fabric is no longer recognizable, but whose sides extend down to the enclosed feet in worn-out and, above all, very shapeless boots. As for
As for the clothes, vest, trousers, it's impossible to give an idea.
A dirty, soft cap with a huge visor is

106 THE VIPER BREED

sunk into a forest of long hair that doesn't seem never having been acquainted with a comb. The figure gaunt and thin, covered in freckles and black the filth is swept away with two long strands of "Peisen" hair falling down onto the cheeks, where they They mingle with an unkempt beard pulled in all directions. The eyes bleary-eyed, red-rimmed, and constantly oozing

They are not lacking in animation, despite the shifty look that distinguishes them. Our man walks with an unsteady step, always bent forward, dragging his poorly built legs, tightening his shoulders, which creates an artificial hump. He lets his arms hang loose, mechanically, almost at the mercy of the wind, which makes them appear much longer than they actually are. Such is the Jew from the bottom of Poland, that is how he will remain. Until the end of his days he will strictly and fervently adhere to the regulations from the Talmud.

IV

JEWS OPERATING IN FRANCE.

The Jew of France, or rather, the one who operates in France, He's a burglar in broad daylight, burglarizing in the open noon. Nothing bothers him: his most improbable tall tales—blatable, its most deceitful and most funambulesques, relying on no guarantee, its con artists—The most obvious industrial and commercial issues are The ones he does best. He's the trickster

WHAT IS THE JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 107

Exposed: you can see the strings, the hidden agendas: gullible is Always there, credulous and trusting. He is the most followed, his client—The scale is enormous; from the small saver to the nobleman duke and prince, or even pretender to The throne of Saint Louis and Bonaparte, all are at his feet. In his presence, all feelings of dignity are repressed, all Just protest is silent. He took from us not only the purse, but also honor, and it seems he's not waiting. more, for the needs of his cause, than he has the power to dispose of of our lives. We only need to mention, as proof, the role anti-French sentiments among the main Jewish communities during these last years. Besides, why would these Schowbs hold back? as soon as they meet their Levaillant? Why is the Jew-croc, was his scam more effective than this cari—A figure of grandeur, which stands on the Champ de Mars, surprised to find herself elevated to the honors of something, Why, I ask, would this crook shrink from such infamy? and injustice, while the Benichausen or Bonickhausen (Eiffel) author of the said carcass of “we don't know what”, and which Mr. Waldeck-Rousseau patriotically titled name of alms, a little glory bestowed upon France, door always (stronger than his tower)! his Legion rosette honor despite its thirty million subscribers of Panama?

eZ

108 THE VIPER BREED

V

JEWISH NOSOLOGY.

Providentially preserved to lead an er- life rant at all points of the globe, as proof of the ac-fulfillment of the prophecies concerning the advent of the Messiah, the descendant of the Deicides is endowed with the qualities requirements of its mission, namely, the ease of accessing to own (in his own way, however) all languages, and its remarkable resilience, which allows it to thrive in all environments.
the heavens, and to remain almost unharmed upon contact with the more deadly contagions. Cholera, plague, etc., etc.
as if they sensed in him a valuable ally or a powerful competitors dare not attack it. This immunity-However, this is neither universal nor without exception: the Jew is not invulnerable, especially from behind, like us We'll see soon.

What could be called his nosological record is punctuated by terrible observations that introduce us to the Jewish physiology with multiple flaws, with degrading flaws, resulting from "outside and "unnatural" of his cerebral, apprehensive faculties and emotional.

I said unnatural and unnatural functioning, because the Hegel's words: the Jew was cast out of nature, is
This is true from both a social and individual point of view. This phenomenon
It was first realized in the individual; then it invaded the race whole in terms of ideas, feelings and passions, opposed to the innate light of reason and to natural, inalienable and inherent rights to all individual, as well as any society.

VI

Scabies, ulcers, anemia, scrofula PLIQUE, FLOW, ETC.

First of all, everyone knows that the Jew is mangy.
God covered the Jews with scabies, ulcers, and other diseases.
characteristics, for which they are convinced that Anointing oneself with the blood of a Christian is an effective remedy.
It is customary, therefore, that on the evening of an Israelite wedding lit, after the strict fast of the future spouses, the rabbi presents each of them with a cooked egg. In this egg, instead of salt, he added ash from a burnt cloth, and this cloth was soaked in the blood of a Christian who fell under the knife. While the newlyweds eat the blood egg, the
The rabbi recites a few verses, the effectiveness of which lies in their to give the "virtue of deceiving Christians, by fattening oneself-
"The health of their substance." The one who gives us these details on the blood egg and these special diseases of the Jews, is a Israelite; moreover, as a rabbi, he himself had pra-
I was struck by the wedding ceremony I just read about; it's a Moldovan Jew, former rabbi, converted and became religious under the name of Théophile, in the last century.

Race, moreover, according to Drumont, although organized under special conditions, it is nonetheless aged...
Examine the specimen that dominates Paris, matchmakers Politicians, stockbrokers, journalists, you'll find them, All consumed by anemia. Their eyes, rolling feverish, with toast-colored pupils, denote liver diseases; the Jew, in fact, has on the liver the secretion produced by an eighteen hundred years of hatred.
Squeeze between your fingers, these little fingers ending in

110 THE VIPER BREED

spindle, they still denote certain inclinations of the race, But they no longer have the strong, hooked claw of the worst. No a drop of blood, the waxen complexion took on the color of the fine Sèvres porcelain, imperceptibly blue;
They tremble beneath our sky, they flee in the cold.

towards Nice, while poor devils work to do their newspapers. The day when the Catholics, tired of defending this society, which has become exclusively Jewish, will leave the Starving people marched on the bank buildings, as one might have We will trample on the convents, crushing these beggars of yesterday who became the tyrants of today, without their blood being shed a stain redder than the kosher meat they eat.

"The subject has all the diseases indicated by corruption" blood disorders: scrofula, scurvy, scabies, mumps. Almost all Polish Jews have the pique and say so. Many elegant and well-dressed French Jews to whom We shake hands, they do too, but we don't say it. No. They all carefully avoid resorting to doctors. who are not of their religion, for example, Christians They should imitate well.

Among these insolent bankers, how many Authémans were there? like Daudet's character "by the foul evil, the spider with the long, gripping legs, still alive, "Hard at its prey." It's the gold rush, one would think, and to cure hereditary leprosy, they will immerse themselves in spending entire days in the mud of Saint-Amand. Jewish gold thus returns to its source. Jewish France, vol. 1.

This already considerable number is unfortunately further increased by diseases. and conditions resulting from overwork, stress and of the disruption of the nervous system. Indeed, the exercise unnatural to which the Jew constrains his intellectual faculties legal and moral principles by forcing them to accept principles and feelings contrary to fundamental tendencies of the human compound, results, for the nervous system, in a state of violent tension which is the primary cause of The relentless disease of the Jews: neurosis.

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 111

It is the Jew's incessant violation of the good relationships that must exist between peoples and the Indians vidus; his fever for acute speculation, his betrayals sounds consumed or in preparation, which hold it in a state of overexcitement and fear of persecution and the terrible punishments that he always ends up unleashing against him. His nervous system constantly shaken by violent passions and feelings, he argues long-time the assault. Finally, our man yielding to a attack too vehement, let go of the rudder and descends into madness. This explains why the de-brainwashing and the display of cynical malevolence is so general and so persistent in the Jewish race. This madness has even something contagious for those who ap-get too close to the Jew, "under his influence the history- The story of recent years is the world led by madmen, reasoning, rationalizing, having, as happens to on the eve of the ultimate crisis, an apparent logic that de-concert at first glance. Neurosis deprives the Jew of everything any feeling of modesty, any reflection, any notion even "of the enormity of what he dares." Jewish France, vol. 1, page 109.

In Prussia, out of ten thousand Israelites, 38.9 are affected of mental alienation, while on the same number the Protestants accuse only 24.1 and Catholics 23.7.

In Italy, there is proportionally more of twice as many mentally ill people among Jews as among Catholics that is, 1 in 778 Catholics, compared to 1 in 384 Jews.

In other countries, except for Russia, where these cases are Being more numerous, this surplus on the Jewish side is maintained It's almost the same everywhere. According to the

112 THE VIPER BREED

the most recent and best-controlled statistics, Mr. Dr. d'Aslonnes gives us the following figures in a masterful work on Jewish pathology published in the Free speech from September to November 18, 1890.

"For idiocy and mental alienation," he writes, according to Hubertz, in Denmark, we find 1 idiot or lunatic out of 170 Jews and only 1 out of 300 Catholics. According to Boudin, in Silesia, there is 1 idiot for every 4,113 Catholics and 1 in 3,003 Jews, in Württemberg, 1 idiot in 580 Catholics and 1 in 425 Jews. According to the same author, one count in Bavaria 1 alienated out of 908 Catholics and 1 out of 514 Jews; in Hanover, 4 mentally ill out of 641 Protestants and 1 out of 337 Jews, in Silesia 1 out of 1,355 Catholics and 1 out of 644 Jews in Württemberg; the mentally ill out of 2,006 Catholics liques and on 1,544 Jews. Very recent statistics, provided to Mr. Kéréhhooff, corroborate these indications. Here are the conclusive results.

Out of 100,000 Catholics and Protestants. Out of 100,000 Jews.

In Prussia ... 86.5 mentally ill 169.7 mentally ill.

In Bavaria... 94.4 – 286.2 –

Twice as many mentally ill people in the first case, three times as many in the second, such are the figures which irrefutably demonstrate that mental alienation, whatever its Moreover, the causes are one of the characteristics of the pa-Jewish theology.

Finally, after having established through indisputable evidence The specific nature of Jewish diseases, Mr. Dr. d'Aslonnes presents the synthesis of his scholarly study in these terms:
"In summary, diabetes of nervous origin, arthritis" cutaneous and visceral form, neurasthenia due to excitation and predominantly phobias, feigning hysteria and som-Nambulistic, manic perversions, frequency of the alien-

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 113

mental nation, these are the main terms – toto be complete, astigmatism should also be included horizontal, glaucoma, leprosy, thoracic insufficiency which leads to a predisposition to respiratory illnesses and to phthisis, etc. – of this specific pathology, of which I have tried to outline as briefly and clearly as possible...
"As much as possible, the overall picture is grim."

Finally, this scholar, passing through pathological specificities to the other dissimilarities and dissolving oppositions that present the Israelites compared to the French under the multiple intellectual and moral, economic, artistic and national, concludes with the adoption of energy measures measures to contain the already widespread devastation, and even to expulsion.

Finally, in light of these facts and their causes, we we could, with Saint Epiphanius – born to Jewish parents – to exclaim to us: "Ah! the Jews! Their nature has become that of a rabid dog.

JEWISH LANGUAGE. JEWISH COLORS. FLAG OF THE UNIVERSAL DOMINATION OF ISRAEL.

It should also be noted that among the Jew, as a partisan physiological peculiarity of this very sensitive condition of the appa-vocal cord, and this modification of the organs of pronunciation which, combined with the sui generis odor emanating from

114, THE BREED OF VIPERS

For him, that's enough to spot him among a thousand. "However skilled he may be..." either the Jew, in order to appropriate the language of the country everywhere, Richard André said in his Interesting Observations on the Jewish people, and although they look at it in the long run, like their native language, they only rarely arrive-lies in speaking it well enough that one cannot not to distinguish them from the natives. Most of our Jews Educated people have a particular accent that makes them recognizable without looking at them. It's a breed mark that can be found among all Jews of all nations, Rohep, First A stay in Morocco was marked by the same phenomenon: "The Jews, he wrote, cannot learn the language anywhere. of the country they inhabit. One immediately recognizes the Jew al-Lemand has a strange pronunciation; the same applies Jews from North Africa. The Jew is recognizable. among a hundred Arabs, by his accent, although it does not differ by his appearance and his costume. Nothing could be more ridiculous. than to hear a Jew speak Arabic and the language of the States Barbary pirates.

Listening to them, one sometimes doesn't dare to dream of the rau- These are the chants of the summoners of Bahal. Often, it is written Drumont, the Englishman who senses something is amiss, begins to shout der-behind the Jew, and to utter guttural "Oh! Oh!" sounds, which make the cacophony dreadful.

Jean de Ligneau recounts in Jews and anti-Semites, etc. that an old Jew from Berlin, sorry to hear the jargon of his son, removed him from an Israelite institution to put him in a state college. He thought his son would lose and its jargon. But, interestingly enough, at the end of the year At school, the little Jewish boy spoke worse than ever and all the students from his class with him. This disastrous influence is not unique to little Youdi from Berlin; it becomes general everywhere where the number and energetic reaction of Non-Jews are lacking. On the Jewish side, there is still,

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST? 115

Regarding pronunciation and accent, a modification—a hereditary organic cation that is very difficult to bend and a kind of resistant intellectual and moral impotence to the principles and traditions of all countries.

Not thinking, not loving, and not hating like the French, he obviously cannot either, par—to speak like the French. In our country, his language is just one French jargon spoken by a Jewish mouth, animated by a Jewish spirit; or if you prefer, it's Hebrew jargon translated materially in French.

Given their language and pronunciation, nothing prevents It would be sinful for the Jews to add to their colors, that is to say, to the yellow of the Golden Calf and the famous wheel, and to the red of Moloch and ritual murder: the green of this poly-volatile glottis that Darwin would not hesitate to designate as ancestor. On the other hand, as they also inherit from Jaco by their noses, Darwin's opinion would not seem implausible blabable. So, yellow, red, and green will be the guilty ones. their tricolor flag of universal domination of Israel.

VIII

THE JEW STINKS.

Each flower has its fragrance, each wine its bouquet; The Jew was once again privileged in this respect, and if we easily distinguished by its Hebrew gibberish, the famous foetor judaicus would be enough, with a little flair, to follow him to the track.

116 THE VIPER BREED

Indeed, every Jew stinks, said Victor Hugo. Many centuries before him, the Talmud had hastened to transmit to posterity this pleasant news. In Treatise 19, Sota 36, a, tells us that "when the Israelites arrived- They live in Palestine. God our Lord gave them "One way to scare off enemies: they stank." That It's still going on.

In Deuteronomy chapter 28, verse 27, among the punishments with which God threatens the transgressing Jews, He denounces this man to them: "I will strike you with the ulcer of Egypt and scabies, prurigo and deman- "incurable jays in the right place." I refer the reader to biblical text, but I warn him that it's not there at all The question of the roses of Jericho.

I appeal to experience, but these details are too much. repugnant, however, as an excuse I ask not to Don't forget that these are Jews.

These festering wounds that grip Israel, where they are struck The cowards, they say a lot about this smell, "this stench, Zola would say, indicating race and helping the upper classes to "To recognize each other." Drumont. They are reserved. indiscriminately to all Jews who rebel against God's law.

However, in another place – Isaiah – the Jewish women are particularly targeted. God warns them that, at Because of their shamelessness, a foul odor will be their perfume.

In Literature and Philosophy Intertwined, Victor Hugo recounts that, in 1266, a memorable conference took place before the King and Queen of Aragon, between the learned Rabbi Zekhiel and Brother Paul Cyriacus. When the discussion was Exhausted, the queen finally asked the Jewish doctor to- What, the Jews stank?

WHAT IS THE JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 117

IX

THE JEWISH WOMAN'S CLEANSING BATHS
FROM RUSSIA ACCORDING TO KALIXT BY WOLSKI.

It was especially in Russia that poor Jewish women
They must not smell good. Judge for yourself by the Mikvah or The Mikva is a purification to which she is subjected. The Mikva is a large round basin that is filled with water and in which the Jewish women must purify their bodies.

In ancient times, when the Jews regulated their conduct according to the laws of Moses and not according to those of the Talmud, the
A Jewish woman brought an offering to the high priest, and That same evening, she purified herself with a few ablutions, without needing to immerse oneself in running water from a stream. But ever since the Jews allowed themselves to be led-der by the laws of the Talmud, the interpreters of these laws have surrounds the ceremony of the woman's purification, with a a large number of meticulous inventions.

"The Mikva has a capacity of approximately one cubic meter-Ron. It's still underground in a cellar. The
The ceremony took place in semi-darkness, in the cellar being lit by only one or two tallow candles.
Jewish woman who arrives there, descends the steps of the Mikvah and after saying a short prayer, she immerses herself in ma-so that not a single hair of hers appeared in the surface; she must wait in this position until the moment when the Tukeke (supervisor) who remains on the edge of the pool, pronounces the word Kochère.

"One, two, three similar dives, and the ceremony" is three-quarters complete. But there is still one more to go.
Fourth, and this one is the most painful of all. The woman who has made these dives three times, still needs to rinse off mouth with the water from the Mikvah and only then will she can rise in rank and give way to another. It is necessary that each woman perform the ceremony separately.

118 THE VIPER BREED

"In a single evening, around a hundred women im-emerge in this way in the Mikva, and, according to the re-Kahal's regulations, inspired by a sordid economy, water
The basin water is only changed once a month and some even more rarely. Thus, in this putrid water and filled with miasma, hundreds of women must to perform the purification ceremony, and each One of them is forced to rinse her mouth with this nectar.
This ceremony is a cause of all kinds of illnesses.

which thus perpetuate themselves among this people condemned to filth.
Jewish Russia.

It would not be rash, however, to add that, sort-tie of this prophylactic pond, like Cypris of old waves of the sea, the Semitic Venus can wait on foot shut down all pests: the test is done.

X

JEWISH LITERATURE AND SCENT.

Whenever it concerns the Jew, the writer, the poet, the philosopher-Sophie, etc., is driven by a kind of fate to associate her heroes in the mud, in the sewer, etc.

"Martial compares the breath of the fasting observers sabbatical, to the miasmas that emanate from the sulfurous vapors

WHAT IS THE JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST 119

Albula women, in the helmet of an old soldier, in the fu-the corruption of the extinguished flame of Leda's lamp, to the corruption
"The viper's bed is 'the smell' given off by the fox."
Jewish France, vol. 1.

This incriminating scent that Martial speaks of follows the Jew unrepentant, even in the other world, and goes, according to the the Dantesque genius of Swendenborg, to weigh down the thick fog-lard of hell where the avarice of the sordid Semite is tortured.
"Most of this hell," he said, "is made up of Jews who were sordidly avaricious, and whose presence,
When they approach other spirits, it manifests by a stench of rats. Like the fantasy they have conceived in the life of the body and in which they have confirmed, does not allow them to know that, through the new-Old Jerusalem, we hear of the kingdom of the Lord in the heavens and on earth, it follows that when they come In the afterlife, it appears to them to the left of Gehenna, a a little ahead, a city into which they flock and present; but this city is muddy and foul, so it is called the defiled Jerusalem. There, they run by the streets in mud and mire up to above the ta-
"long, complaining and lamenting." Celestial arcana.

Faced with this scene so typical of Jewish life in Holland, in Shakespeare's Journey by Léon A. Daudet, we understands that (and this is important to remember) the metaphysics that the Jew releases being analogous to those of the manure, it is its own best antiseptic against all the plagues and all the choleras. In the filth and the Dirt, it's in its element, like fish in the water.

With reference to this fine page of the said work, Mr. Mathias Lubans writes in the illustrated Libre Parole of February 1, 1896: if "anti-Semitism has archaeologists – Semitism has many antiquarians – this will be a

120 THE VIPER BREED

This vivid picture of the ghetto is an interesting document. from Amsterdam in the 16th century: On a warm afternoon di, Schorel, Fischar and Shakespeare, engaged in the Jewish quarter to hunt for prints. It was a long, sloping street, without a sidewalk, littered with peelings filthy mounds, where thick brown streams flowed, where a verminous rabble, pe-skinny parrot-like profiles, scrawny legs etc. Yellow and red rags hung from the windows, rags of grayish linen. The walls were oozing. the garbage. In the doorways stood groups of sordid hags, with tanned complexions, hooked noses, eyes as black as grapes, adorned of flashy and filthy rags. The thin ones seemed Pharaohs, the fat ones, Carthaginian Suffetes, beautiful-blows were being dealt to a child, already semitically defined and They hurled insults at each other with sunny words and gestures. of an epileptic. The air was foul.

"What a race!" growled Fischar, pinching his nose. the descendants of the goat exhale the smell of their ancêtre ... Hence this indelible coating, this putrefaction of soul and skin; their fingers knead the gold and the pelts-asses. In their eyes dance the twin flames of Lust and wear and tear. Their feet are made for mud and the blood. He burst out laughing.

"The marvelous bastard!" exclaimed Shorel with admiration. ration, look at this goat-faced girl whose flesh brown appears through the tears in the worn canvas, what Fetid suppleness! She dances on a dung heap.

– Besides, these beings have the same feelings than us; they are our somewhat fallen brothers, added Shakespeare, who didn't mind contradiction. But Fischer became inflamed: "You're mistaken, my friend. The Jew"

WHAT IS A JEW SINCE JESUS CHRIST? 121

is separate. Love, hate, joy, and pain are all within distorted, displaced, unrecognizable. To make you To understand him, one would need a moral lexicon. The Jew has no pride, no delicacy, no honor, none Pity, no anger. He pits Christians against each other and... he weaves his way between them. He considers them like meat. pig, and every contract with the Jew thus turns into water of blood sausage.

The Jew is cowardly through ignorance of bravery. He is He is treacherous, drawn by the pleasure of foul odors. He is cruel because the excess of a logic that pushes him to clear the way to his nation. These people, driven from everywhere, took refuge in Amsterdam. In a hundred years they will flow again about Europe. They are the vermin of humankind... All of them These Jews are sick. Look around you at these hunchbacks, These pot-bellied, lame, one-eyed, festering people. They bear ignoble and peculiar defects, exacerbated by special debaucheries.

In summary, if from a moral point of view, the Jew is not held in high esteem; from a physical point of view, one does not do not run after him in odorem unguentorum ejus (the smell (of its fragrance) attracted by the essences that volatilize her clothes, her skin, her pores, her whole body, all his person.

EX

Tvila at the Mikva (1978)
Zvi Malnovitzer.

CHAPTER VI

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT

DIFFICULTY IN DECODING THE JEWISH MIND.
THE JEWISH SECRET.

specific properties of the Jewish race, transmitted from father to son for so many centuries, are indeed the indicators of the Jew's state of mind, the signs and the consequences of its depravity, on which they in turn influence.

By examining them, we came into close contact with Judah's inner circle. However, the reason, the special essence of the Jewish spirit remains veiled. It belongs to philosophy and morality to explore it, analyze it, and define it. Philosophy determines its nature and its active properties or principles. and morality specifies the laws that regulate its activity.

124, THE BREED OF VIPERS

Nothing is as difficult as a definition, so the challenge—
The exact definition of the Jewish spirit is the core, the key point of antisemitism. We will try to give it. We
From this we will deduce all the flaws and vices of the Jew, the the reason that distorts his abilities and talents, the causes of It is quite apparent that he does us and the real harm he inflicts upon us. Overwhelmed, she will give us the key to the strength of Israel, to its mysterious influences, his audacity, his terrors, of its past triumphs and its future disasters. Finally She will show us the most direct route, she will dictate the the most effective and practical ways to achieve the annihilation of Jewish power in France, considered—always exposing the Jewish danger, from the point of view of race and No, from a religious point of view.

To express what the Jewish spirit is, through a formula precise, philosophical, and therefore derived from nature intimate knowledge of things and confirmed by the facts, has not all—Summer days, as I said above, a convenient thing.

Heinrich Heine, the true Jew that he was, enlightened by the lu-owner of the third apartment and who possesses the secrets from Israel, he suspected as much. This false convert who, like so many other circumcised hypocrites, according to the Jewish historian Graetz, professor at the rabbinical seminary of Breslau "had outwardly separated itself from Judaism, like the fighters who take up the armor and the flag of the ento strike him more surely and for the best "annihilate," seems to warn us with a mocking and as-Sure, no matter how much we try to twist the Jewish enigma in
In all senses, it will nonetheless remain for us a mystery, sealed as it is in the Jewish soul by cement unassailable, the inviolable secret.

The actions and words of the Jews, he said, as well as their Customs are an unknown thing. We think we know them because

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 125

that we saw their beards, but that's all we saw, and, as In the Middle Ages they were always a walking mystery.

Wanderers, vagrants, yes, and we will help them, but Mystery! That's no longer the case. We will prove it.
that this claim of the nightingale of the banks of the Jordan
"who had made his nest in Voltaire's wig" did his time. And the unmasked Jew is half defeated.

On this point, Drumont himself would modify... today the judgment that, through an excess of modesty, he
He stated the following in his preface to Jewish France:
"By bringing together reasons and causes in this study, all the effort of our work and our goodwill, we will deserve that those who come after us will say of They couldn't prevent anything from us, no doubt, but they have "You clearly discerned the causes of the evil, etc." You could do nothing Prevent it! France gives you a historic rebuttal.
All to your glory. You have stemmed the devastating torrentteur, you have diverted its disastrous course for the soil of the homeland, you will end up, with the help of the French of France, by drying it up.

Thanks to you, the French people, in a surge of patriolism and self-defense, glimpsing the abyss where the cosmopolitans and their accomplices lead him there to specifypiter will elect representatives with a truly French heart, who, without needing to sweep Judah out of our borders these lands will cleanse this beautiful country of our fathers and make it...

will be with justice, peace and happiness.

We grant you that the latent work of the Jew is very difficult to analyze, that there is a whole underlying action at play here—raïne whose thread is almost impossible to grasp, but Nothing will help the Jew to deny it now: his secret is exposed. The arsenal where the pa— are suspended has been invaded noplies of the brave men of Israel. Their war machines were

126 THE VIPER BREED

Disassembled piece by piece. These are just fake keys. counterfeit hallmarks, counterfeit checks, counterfeit bills of exchange, everything th is false; the complete equipment, the entire apparatus of the magician—financial thief, high-flying burglar, drainer "money by any means necessary."

He

THE TALMUD.

Then, in an old wardrobe, the library. Just one. book in several chapters, each forming a small manual. Traitor's manual in double play, manual of corrupter, bribe-taker, perfect robber, of social destroyer, the mystifying despot of Goyim, of the prison guard for employees and workers, of the... but The list would be too long, especially since only one The title would suffice and encompass all the others. This title... Here is: The Manual of the Perfect Israelite.

This book, which offers such a beautiful lesson, is the Talmud. It is the greatest feat of perversity. the masterpiece of selfishness, the final word of hatred towards his fellow human being, when that person is not a Jew. He is the highest creation of evil genius. Without the inspiration—Satan's ration and the Jew's collaboration, the work was impossible, it could not even have been conceived.

After Jesus Christ, the Talmud, originating in Israel, was re—conversely, the generating and conservative principle of this parasitic nation, and it is still and always, the inspiration—the author of his private, domestic, social, political, and commercial life commercial, literary even, etc. In short, the Talmud is the Jew. like the customs, the actions and gestures of the Jew are the perpetual and living commentary.

If we believe we know the Jews, it is because we we didn't see their beards or their noses; it's that in re- We know them, they are bedridden, and they are no longer for us. A walking mystery. The key to Judaism, we assert. With Gougenot des Mousseaux, it's the Talmud, and who doesn't knows what it is that the Talmud is radically incapable of, or to decipher history, or to penetrate the mysteries of Judah.

But what faith should we have in authenticity and The translation of the Talmud?

Drumont, in his preface to the French edition, by A. Pontigny of the Jew according to Rolling's Talmud, tells us: "This time, no doubt can remain about the authenticity- the texts cited by the author, and the Jews themselves have I think we've given up on dwelling on this subject. So we have before us a priceless document which we allows one to penetrate, in a way, into the very soul. or rather in the Jew's brain, to know exactly the feelings he has towards us, to know the his conception of all things from a social point of view, as from a moral point of view. For any mind capable of Upon reflection, this study brilliantly illuminates the the obscurities of the present era, she explains what seems Uncertain and confusing, it reveals the hidden logic of events. which we had difficulty understanding. The Jew, no doubt. is not defeated, but he is discovered, he can no longer che- mining as in the past through underground channels; we can see it to function, we watch it act; we call upon it by its name, we question him directly, we know where he lives and at what place, if any, could be found for him

128 THE VIPER BREED

"To ask a few questions before the final move."

The same can be said of the Talmudic texts cited here-listed in Goré O'Thouma's book, The Jewish Spirit, etc. Here is how the author guarantees their authenticity, page 28. "All the maxims of which we give a The following sections in both parts of this book are extracted from Schulchan Aruch or directly from the source, I want to say from the Talmud. They were chosen from two books of the D'Justus. One is the famous work entitled The Mirror of Jews (Judenspiegel), which led to a trial in 1883 resounding. The other is a brochure entitled: Talmudic wisdom. Semi-language professors Jews were chosen as judges in this case. and Christians were represented there. Among the latter were found D' Jacob Ecker, privat-docent for philology-Semitic gy, at the Royal Academy of Münster. He published his same maxims in 1884, with a scholarly critique where He proves that there was nothing exaggerated in the translation "From D' Justus."

The Jews are so aware that for them, being known and to be lost, are synonymous, according to them, the Talmud in Israel, it would be nothing more than a dead letter. However Nothing could be further from the truth, we will prove it. One could all- However, it must be acknowledged that for some the fact is material- That's exactly right, but it doesn't change the question.

"The Talmud? But we don't know what that is,"
"We haven't read ten pages of it," the Jews reply.
The stock exchange, the boulevard, and the races. They're telling the truth. for once in their lives. What need do the Jews have for...
Would they have to study the Talmud today? It is imriinstilled in their brains by the law of heredity, it is the inheritance mentality bequeathed by countless generations that have faded

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 129

on his precepts, which have assimilated his doctrines. The Jews are steeped in it, saturated with this Talmud: they owe it to it not only this idea of a superiority over us which makes them so strong, but also this admirable subtlety, this complete absence of any moral sense, of any no-
The division of Good and Evil is almost disarming, so much so that it is native and spontaneous among the Hebrew." Drumont, ibid.

What some Jews claim regarding their Reading the Talmud, we can affirm this of the Christians-Well, especially Catholics regarding the reading of the Gospel. If there is one certain fact, it is that one would not find

Not ten out of a hundred Catholics, chosen at random, have read the Gospel, despite the reduction in its volume, which this— This does not prevent them from being excellent Christians. with this difference that it is not originally the Talmud that made the Jew, but the Jew that made the Talmud; whereas for the Christian, it was not he who did the Gospel, but it is the Gospel that has formed Christians. Here is the proof. What the Talmud, tractate XII, Taanith, said of the rabbis, that if they are so furious, it stems from what they have the Talmud in their gut, must be understood of all Jews indiscriminately, with this amplification— tion, that they are born with the Talmud not only in their gut, but also in their brain, in their heart in their blood and that it has passed into their substance.

To the law of heredity and family education, which among some Jews, this compensates for purely material ignorance. The Talmudic tradition, one must add the zeal with which, according to Hartw Radowsky, those who know him spread his pernicious principles, such as divine prescriptions, by— their coreligionists who adopt them and do not put them which is all too often the case in practice.

130 THE VIPER BREED

III

LEGITIMACY OF LIES AND PERJURY.

The Talmud is still law and is still in force: This point is indisputable. The Jews deny it, but they They lie, as we will prove. But first to remove all authority from their denials and demas— To expose their impostures, let's read them one of their articles of faith which rendered them eminent services in the pas— yes, but whoever is born here will be of no use to them and will turn to their Confusion: this is the legitimacy and necessity of lying and perjury towards non-Jews.

He who studies the Talmud, says the tractate Sotah 110, becomes misleading.

In the Aboda Jara, the lie is twice re— ordered; then it is Baba Batra who teaches that "It is a good deed to lie for the love of peace," that not only Joseph's brothers and the prophet Samuel, but also that God himself lied." That is categorical.

If not before a Jewish authority, then before the Kahal for example, and among Jews, they do not believe themselves to be any-mentally subject to the law of the oath, and recognize the right to lie and perjure oneself. They go even further, since it's a good deed for them to lie even between Jews, as we have just seen from the example of the brothers of Joseph and of the high priest Samuel.

No non-Jewish authority could demand the same. In the case of an Israelite, the latter, before this authority, can to perjure oneself, for one's oath is void. – Schulch. Aruch, A. Jore, d.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 131

Of hypocrisy, of ignoble action, of defilement and of degradation. They have no moral degradation of the perjurer and the liar. A cure? Out of the question, it doesn't even exist. We will see later the reasons they give for justifying to correct these monstrosities.

However, they add, let's avoid being taken in. for fear that Israel might suffer any harm. What they are also expressed by this other formula; provided that the name of the Lord not be profaned, provided that the Jewish religion (!) that is to say, the Jews do not lose any of their renown. Such is the necessary condition to which they must adhere. This is taken into account to legitimize this course of action. (Baba Treatise.)

This is the teaching of Akiba as recorded in the Words from Rabbi Ishmael. It's always the same prescription. which recurs in a hundred places: "If a non-Jew does a The Jew counts and is mistaken to his own detriment; he must say: I I don't know. However, one must not deceive the non-Jew. in the event that he might be deceived into putting the Jew put to the test. (Seph. Miz.)

It is permissible to break one's oath if the non-Jew cannot to realize that one is lying when swearing, provided that one so that it is not discovered by the non-Jew, in short: Do this whatever you want, but on the condition that you don't get caught not. (bid.)

Unfortunately for Christians who have af-dealing with the Jews, says Wolsky, Jewish Russia, page 142.
– and this case arises frequently – the oath that Jews are called upon to testify before Christian courts
Well, they consider it a mere formality.
which has nothing in common with their conscience, and provided that the general good of Israel results from it, every Jew can commit before the Christian or Muslim authorities manes, as many false oaths as he pleases.

132 THE VIPER BREED

Here is conclusive proof of the Jew's shamelessness in Regarding the sanctity of the oath, it is the prayer that he pro-announces on the day of the Great Pardon and makes of all his ser-so many anticipated perjuries: "May all the vows and all the obligations, all the penalties and all the oaths that will have been made, given and sworn by us from the day of Atonement until the same day of the year next, be released, surrendered, annihilated and rendered null and void and worthless, that our wishes are not wishes and that "Our oaths are not oaths." Oh! The beautiful Gospel!

How, one might ask, can the Jews...
Playing with the most sacred things like that? We'll give them...
We will soon see the reason.

We must first be convinced that they are not there practices of the old ghettos, nor of the customs of the imaginaires. "Nowadays," wrote the famous Rabbi in 1827 converted Drach, in his second letter from a Rabbi, of Even today, three ordinary Jews are like any other Jew
They have been made to sit down and have full authority to release him from his oaths.
and to cancel his promises, his commitments, both for the past as well as future. This ceremony, called the annu-
The making of vows and promises – Hapharat Nedarim –
This is done for every Jew, at least once a year. The custom is to choose for its accomplishment the days of penitence tence since the eve of New Year's Day, towards the month of September From September until the eve of the Feast of Atonement. Before so that the cantor had intoned in the synagogue the
The first prayer of this feast: "three men gathered in court and placed at the head of the audience, cancel their full authority all vows, commitments and ser-comments from each member of the assembly, both those of the year which

The number of days that have just passed is the same as those of the year in which we are. This is called Kol-Nidra.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 133

Some rabbis wanted to argue that this last-cancellation is only valid for the future, but the effect would be exactly the same, since this ceremony renews every year. They have also been refuted by other doctors, who prove that we also benefit from it good for the past as well as for the future.

This is, in fact, the doctrine of the Talmud: "Three men that which is established as a tribunal over Israel has the same authority as the tribunal of Moses" which is false, Moses never having-but was vested with such great authority.

In The Jew, Gougenot des Mousseaux tells us- It also provides valuable details about this procedure. Masses, vows and Jewish oaths: "The Christian who is unaware of these details, believes in the oath, while-say that the Jew swore an unscrupulous oath to the contrary In truth. The positive thing is that Maimonides, the first of all Jewish authorities, and the Rabbi Cozzen, offer a large number of detours and subtleties to free their coreligionists from the obligation-to keep their oaths. When, for example, those those who wish to break free from their sworn faith, enter into the synagogue, the night before Yom Kippur, they have simply to hold the Book of the Law in their hands, then to pronounce these words: "I, Isaac, or David, etc., declare before God and before you, that all the oaths that I will do it for someone during the next year, and that I will-I promised to observe, while my will did not consent I didn't bother observing them, I want them to be useless, completely useless value and not attributable to sin, if I do not fulfill them "No." Yes, but by what right do you impose this on your superiors, by involving testimony and authority of God, avenger of lies and injustice, of which you Are you mocking me shamelessly? That's why, he continued des Mousseaux, the learned neophyte Pfefferkorn examining the doctrine of the Synagogue into which he was born, was not afraid to write: "it sometimes happens that a de-

134 THE BREED OF VIPERS

A dispute arises between a Christian and a Jew over a pledge. of a loan or something else important, so that, in the absence of evidence, the Jew is obliged to lend oath. You then hear him swear, and without difficulty, saying that he swears to something false, but that he must not re- Doubt no God who avenges perjury; for the Talmud...

"He cleared his conscience."

"Lying and perjury are especially permitted and obligatory" gatoires, when non-Jews ask us if our books sacred things contain something against them: it is then necessary swear, no, lest they become angry with us, if they ve- "They were born to know the truth." This is how the rabbis expressed themselves. in the Talmud, cited by Rohling, Polem, page 14.

IV

LEGITIMACY OF THE REAL LIE OR BY THE FACTS, THAT IS TO SAY BY THE FALSE RELIGIOUS CONVERSIONS.

This Israelite deceit takes all forms, it is reflected and affirmed equally by the facts of the falsehoods religious conversions through nothing but lies and false oaths. This is one of the most infamous im- the pieties of Israel. "It is said that many of our brothers in Israel, convert and accept Christian baptism. What does it matter?... The baptized can serve us perfectly.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 135

ment; they can become auxiliaries for us, for walking towards new horizons, which are still currently unknown. Because novices hold tou- days to us, and, despite the baptism of their bodies, their es- They took them, and their souls remain ever faithful to Israel.

Thus speaks a chief rabbi in a published speech by John Readcliffe in his work: Account of political and historical events that occurred in the ten last years, 1884, and to which we will refer in our quotations attributed to this author.

To demolish this new stronghold of treachery
If she is Jewish, it is enough to prove that she exists and that she is from there.
that the Hebrews, both those who claim to be converted and those who are not, they fire on us, for if the known truth triumphs, the men-
The unmasked dream is confounded.

Let us first recall this undeniable truth that, the apostasie, or even recognition and profession, do not se-would it be materially, of a cult that, in conscience, it would be considered false and therefore illicit.
are a crime before God, the main object and term, at less indirectly, of all worship. The Jew will not back down faced with this betrayal of God's cause.

Let us recall the response of the Jewish satraps of Constantinople to their coreligionists in Aix: "In this that you say the King of France is forcing you to Be Christian, do it, but remain faithful to your former "cult." This advice has been and continues to be put into practice.

We know of the famous conversions of the Portuguese Jews gays, Marranos from Spain, Jews from Bordeaux, etc.

A few years ago, the Jews inaugurated a synagogue gogue in Lisbon. Mr. Théodore Reinach teaches us to On this occasion, we were surprised (and with good reason) to seeing families arriving from far away in the interior of the country,

136 THE VIPER BREED

to take part in the Grand Pardon festival. They were Marranos, imposters of the Catholic religion, so-called converts, who had preserved intact For three hundred years, the faith and traditions of their fathers.

To marry the daughter of a nobleman, Pierre Léon or Lebon, an immensely wealthy Jew, becomes a Christian. Around In 1130 his son usurped the papacy and became Antipope under the name of Anacletus II. Soon dispossessed, he hastened to renounce the faith of his baptism and returned to the Synagogue.

During the Crusades, the Jewish community of Trier embraced Catholicism, but she renounced it as soon as The Crusaders had left French soil.

"As for France, Portuguese Jews had never— but were admitted as Jews, but as new Christians Look. It was only as Christians that they had received in August 1550 letters patent which were verified in the Court of Parliament and the House of Accounts from Paris on September 22 of the same year, and recorded only in 1574. The Memoir of the mar— Parisian merchants, who opposed the entry of the Jews in the trades, he insists on this circum— consistency. The Portuguese protested energetically, all The times they were called Jews. Worried for a moment In 1614, they reminded the king that they "lived long ago in the city of Bordeaux, and that jealousy The possessions they had made them appear Jewish. which they were not, but very good Christians and Catholics— "They scrupulously complied with all" the external practices of the Catholic religion, etc. After living in this way for nearly one hundred and fifty years, the Jews had remained as faithful to their beliefs as on the day of their arrival. As soon as the opportunity arose, in 1686, sui— In front of Benjamin Francia, they openly returned to

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 137

Judaism and ceased to present their children to baptism and to have their marriage blessed by ca— priests Catholics. Jews, even those whose families have been there for two hundreds of years ago they officially practiced Catholicism in Spain, crossed the border and came to be circumcised wax and remarry according to the Israelite rite in Bordeaux, as soon as "The rabbis were installed there." Jewish France, 1.

The race, moreover, is the same everywhere. Let us remember— comes from what we reported about the conver— sion of the five hundred Jewish families of Merv and Saracks who, fifty—five years ago, embraced Isla— mism and whose conversion was only apparent, since officially practicing the Muslim religion, their feelings remained Israelite, and inwardly in In their homes they simultaneously observe Judaism.

But the most famous feat of this kind was ac— Compliant by Monsignor Bäuer, Jew, confessor to the Empress French people, Eugénie.

"Penetrate," said Drumont, page 373 of Jewish France, 1, enter the sacred retreat which no one, not even The Emperor did not cross the threshold; you would see a woman there.

kneeling before a priest and confiding her anxieties to him of sovereign and mother, regarding the war that is prepared.

This priest is the German Jew, Jean Marie Bäuer. Never, since Cagliostro, has Jewish interlopism, which produces However, such curious figures have not produced a type equally complete, equally worthy of interest to the writer who, more Later, he will strive to paint a picture of our strange century. A beautiful In the morning, this suspicious convert arrived in France, he put himself in aiming to supplant the venerable Abbot Deguerry, chaplain of the empress for many years... Does he manage to his goal through sheer hypocrisy, by displaying apparent ver-

138 THE BREED OF VIPERS

Tus? Not at all, his motto, like that of all Jews, is that you can get away with anything with the French. When "It's all over," he bursts out laughing in the faces of those he has duped; he throws his Monsignor's robes into the wings of a small theatre, it inspires pornographic publications on the courtesans of the Second Empire, he parades at the opera, where he The greatest lords admit this unworthy priest into their lodges; in the afternoon, you meet him on horseback at Bois de Boulogne, where he gives a military salute to Gallifet who, with a gesture of his hand sends him an epis- blessing Copal. Finally, slightly demonetized, it ended up going to "Get married in Brussels."

These outrages against truth and religion, which, for all a man enjoying the use of his reason, are actions intrinsically immoral, and that God himself cannot in no way authorized, are not, it seems, an iniqui- for the Jew. Indeed, any Jew can convert, for- since its conversion is only simulated, or, in other words terms, provided he does not convert. If a Jew, says The Talmud can deceive non-Jews and make them believe that he himself is a non-Jew, this is permitted to him.

These beautiful teachings are imparted by these mys- modern-day Jewish purveyors who, under the label of phi- Humanitarian philosophy spreads seeds of social discord.

To justify this simulation, they allege that, these types of conversions were obtained through violence. Nothing could be further from the truth. The truth is that, on these occasions They were always given the choice between a conversion sincere, preceded by a solid education, or the evacuation-country's construction. This measure may, depending on the circumstances, be adopted by any civil authority with respect to any what category of foreigners who, after having drained all the country's wealth through unjust means, sow in-core the division among the subjects and foment the revolutions. But that was the case with the Jews.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 139

Instead of apostasy and sacrilege, they had in their worship – if they held it to be true and legitimate, that to imitate – to these same Christians whose beliefs they profaned, in their faithfulness to Jesus Christ unto death, faithfulness heroic figure who gave to Catholicism millions of martyrs. However, that was not the alternative in the – Where were the Jews? Their lives were not in danger; they did not have to choose between abjuring their religion or dead; but simply between this abjuration, free, Enlightened, convinced, or expelled. What if they were from good faith and felt obliged to remain steadfast in their religious beliefs, they did not have the right to feign a conversion that was not in their souls, but the civil power had the power to purge its states, of this malevolent and unassimilable nation. Social authority He had absolutely no ill will towards the religious beliefs of the Jews, but to their unjust means of dispossessing the natives; to their impiety and the war they were waging against Catholicism. She wanted to safeguard the rights of her subjects and, to that end Indeed, she saw no other way than to instill to the Jews feelings of justice and humanity in opposition with the principles of the Talmud, but in accordance with Christian teaching, or failing that, expulsion, by virtue of the basic principle of self-defense.

The following example is a good sample of these sima – and of this Tartuffe – policy that the Israelite ma – He was a delight on every occasion. In 1866, he died in Brussels. Juive Bérend, one of the leading figures of Freethought, but who was no more a freethinker in his religion than the The great Sanhedrin. Throughout his life he had preached irreligion. to the Gentiles; as for him, he faithfully kept deep within his soul religious worship with aspirations and tra – national editions of his fathers. The explanation of his apostolat is provided to us in the funeral oration that the great Rabbi of Belgium, Mr. Astruc, made this doctor of the free thinking of others at their own expense, but the advantage of Israel: "Oh! He was a good one, that one," he said, "1/ 4 pu de- To come a free thinker while remaining an Israelite. That is why the Freemasonry and also freethinking may have intervened. to nir, without any obstacle, alongside Judaism, on the tomb- beautiful from a brother, a friend, a fellow believer, that all, Israelites, Freemasons and Freethinkers regret also. "

Therefore, the Jew is happy for the man of his race become Freemason, materialist, atheist, Christian even if a Muslim is foolish while remaining an Israelite and coreligion- the rabbi's son, but he will oppose it with all his might so that a Catholic, a Muslim, etc., may become free thinker or Freemason, while remaining Catholic or in retaining the right to become so again. Even after his death, They will dispute, for a civil burial, the use of his body, at ancestor worship.

There is perfect agreement throughout Israel on this matter; the great Sir Readcliff's rabbi speaks like the Belgian rabbi. "The idea of progress," he said, "results in equality of all religions – so that equality, that is to say the confusion between day and night, good and evil, truth and Falsehood is progress. – This equality, in turn, leads to the removal from the curricula of the lessons in Christian religion (it's the opposite according to this (principle which should take place). The Israelites, by address and science, will easily obtain the professorships and the teaching positions in Christian schools. Therefore, Religious education will remain relegated to the family, and as in most families, time is lacking for monitor this branch of education, the religious spirit will diminish gradually, and little by little will disappear completely "It is therefore religious persecution that these alleged persecuted people direct their attacks against beliefs and The worship of the vast majority of French people. So, if we Let us attack the absurd and oppressive aspirations of Israel, that would be persecution against him; but, on the contrary, de- Let us destroy, at his instigation, our morals and our faith, and We have progress.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 141

Honor, therefore, Freemasons and Freethinkers, the Deceitful Jew who, to impose his yoke upon you, deshonors you, makes you demolish everything with your own hands. which makes you great and strong. Without teaching Christian who enlightened your fathers on the path of honor And duty, you would throb in the darkness. Your rights proclaimed by the Gospel, this sublime and incomparable these are the practical ideal of progress and human perfection. rights, you attack them yourselves and you replace them— by the exclusivism and tyranny of the Jew, the instigator treacherous. The free thought he preached, against the doctrine—the trine of liberty, taught to our fathers by Jesus Christ, can only produce depraved individuals and slaves, of whom Israel is the exploiter and the tyrant. Look at history and realize what is happening on a daily basis right before your eyes. Here is how Drumont explains this backward progress, in which we are engaged and driven by Israel: "The whole set of ideas, doctrines, the conditions under which existence is organized, this which, in short, constitutes what is pompously called modern progress, nineteenth-century civilization, This has resulted in a weakening of the French both moral and material aspects that are impossible to dispute. Progress, in reality, is a regression; this civilization is a gradual decomposition of the entire organism.

142

THE VIPER BREED

V

THE JEW LIE IN THE TRANSLATION OF THE TALMUD.

To better deceive us, the Jews lie when translating their Talmud; here is one proof among many:

Talmud.

Translation by Mr. Weill.

It is our duty to supporting the poor
Kind, like ours,

Translation conforms to the original.

It is forbidden to do, without hope of return, a gift to a stranger who is not to heal and to support | not Jewish. (Joreh De'ah, 151:11.) their patients like the ours, to bury their dead like ours.

(Gittin Treaty, 6.)

However :

It is permissible to give alms to the poor Gentlemen or akums, to visit their sick, to bury their deaths and to console them their afflicted by love of peace (from the Talmud, treatise) Gittin Schulchan-Aruch – Joré dé, a, 151, 12.)

The word akum is replaced by the words beast of burden, animal, in the Vilna edition of the Talmud, published in 1879.

In the edition of Schulchan-Aruch, Vilna, 1879 – we Note that in the last 93 laws alone, there are falsifications cations at numbers 165–6–7–8; 179; 193; 215–17–39–46; 252, etc. D'Ecker explains these deliberate alterations, in his book entitled /#denspiegel.

This is also true of the Jew who is a false freethinker, a false Muslim-man, false Protestant, etc., like the Jew, false Catholic-lique: it remains what it was.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 143

VI

PURPOSE IN WHICH THE JEW ARROGATES HIMSELF

THE RIGHT TO LIE.

It is typical of Judah to cover itself with all the masks, playing all the roles, being the soul, the driving force and the coach of all anarchies, and the cause of all the disasters of non-Jews, as far as it depends on him. He constantly prioritizes the interests of his nation. I'm talking about the Jewish nation spread throughout the world; for this which concerns his second nationality, German, French or English, etc., etc. he subordinates his advantages to those of his cosmopolitan and parasitic nationality. Yes, true Proteus, It is constantly transforming and changing, deep down however It remains what it was; its transformations do not are only apparent and for the purposes of his cause. He is not He is never more Jewish than when he tries not to appear so. nor ever better in his role than when he seems to be out.

He hides his hostility by borrowing the language of friendship. If he shouts, "Long live freedom!", he wants to rob us. of some right and confiscate it for his own benefit. Hatred that he has dedicated to us, puts on his lips the blessed name of the Brotherhood: it is Cain who demands feelings from Abel fraternal. Does he not claim for himself the right of life and death over us? of death?

Finally, to the advantage of his cosmopolitan nation whose Its borders are none other than those of the universe; it demands equality, the rights of citizens in all non- nations Jewish, in order to extend to all foreigners in Israel, its domination.

144, THE BREED OF VIPERS

"Give me back your equal, O Frenchman," he said to himself; "you will be" soon under my yoke.

First destroy your domestic, national traditions. national and religious (for me, I keep mine guided) through my teachings and the press in my pay, err without principles, like a ship without a compass and Rudderless. That is my apotheosis, founded on your Downfall, that's progress, my progress, my freedom, my emancipation, my domination, but not yours; because To be great and prosperous, you should walk in the ways of justice, while for me all means are good.

When I have sufficiently led you astray, sufficiently corrupted, when, through my actions, you will have lost all sense of good and evil, and personal dignity; when God, the religion, family, homeland (things you don't have no rights) will be nothing but empty words to you: then I, the abhorred Jew, will triumph in my dignity. to be superior, in my love for my home domes- tick and my family, in my religious beliefs and in my right of universal domination.

In the meantime, follow these milestones placed along your path: Liberty, Equality, Fraternity.

But there can be no freedom for a being of a nature inferior to that of the Jew, and created to be his slave.

Mere animals will never be my equals, and Israel will never give a brotherly embrace to the one who it is nothing but cattle semen.

I was neither free, nor your equal, nor your brother, (because (of my inhuman instincts, you said).

I claimed these rights, and I obtained them from you. O Frenchmen, but with the aim of stripping you of it yourself, because in reality they belong only to me alone.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 145

My plan is largely complete: it will be com- pletely in the not-too-distant future.

This is how we will always be deceived and victims of our blind trust and our proverbial gene- roquery, since, upon receiving the watchword and the impulse of the Jewish community, we are, as eloquently put it Drumont, "outside of our race, we act in In the opposite direction to our type, we are doing a bad be- a sign that is not ours; God who had destined us- born to the great missions of humanity, abandons us for having denied our destiny and renounced our role,

And the Devil looks at us like fools." So Therefore, there is no longer any doubt: the legislation, the customs, the practices and Jewish customs regarding their respect for rights of the truth, are manifest.

Before these rights, they are free; they are masters.
according to their principles, and if the fact can remain secret, of to violate them in their dealings with non-Jews, who are Consequently, inevitably doomed to disappointment.

Therefore, the law of the Talmud is explicit; when The witness who takes the oath, or the informant, are Jews, we have lost all right to know the truth.

eZ

146 THE VIPER BREED

VII

WHY THE TALMUD MUST ALWAYS REMAIN
A MYSTERY FOR NON-JEWISHES.

Hypocrisy, lies, deceit, and perjury of the Jew, aim to conceal from the eyes of the impious (us), the secret of his doctrines, convinced that, if the infa-
The half of the end he intended was revealed, the infamy of The means by which he uses to achieve this would be known to same move.

Also, the traitor is no more concerned with hiding from this-he who trusts him, the traps he sets for him, that the authors of the Talmud were not intended to bury in an im- secret impenetrable to non-Jews, their inhumane and antisocial lucubrations.

The Goy who studies in the Talmud says the Tr. Sanhed. f.
59.1., deserves death.

The Talmud cannot be communicated to the Gentile under au-

No excuse, no price. Anyone who transgresses this
The law must be put to death. (1)

1. – We, Lenculus, thrice cursed by the brood of he-Braic, afflicted in our guts by the great colic, let us offer to the animals with human faces (Akum) the means to to understand the meaning of Jewish hatred towards us. We in We thank all the authors who, through their profound desire to veto help humanity, by serving divine justice and sacrifice of their lives; have allowed us to have the honor of to be able to read and distribute them without censorship.

Without the help of Divine Providence and the archangel Saint Michael, this priesthood could not have been.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 147

One should never increase the knowledge of a One must, therefore, swear falsely, when Non-Jews ask us if our Holy Books
If they contain something against them, then one must swear.
No. Otherwise, we might as well exterminate all the Jews;
for, if the Gentiles knew what we teach about
They would have soon put us to death.

What can they possibly teach us about the Jews?
so that they would be convinced that we would soon have would they put them to death if we knew about it?
Their sacred books will teach us about it in a moment.
But let's continue.

Anticipating the potential drawbacks by entrusting the secrets of the Talmud to women, the
The Talmud itself, through this preventative measure, the Jew who would feel weak enough to do such things confidences to a woman, even to his wife or to his daughter: He who teaches his daughter the holy law from the Talmud, is as guilty as if he were teaching him obscenities. (Sota. fol. 20.)

And don't think we're talking about those old people centuries of the Middle Ages, so odious to the Jews. No. This ri-
The law of secrecy has never been mitigated; the zeal from Israel to hide the mysteries of rabbinism from us is as ardent today as in its finest days.

That sometimes, due to the force of circumstances, the brutal reality of facts, projecting onto the face and soul of the Jews, the rays Radiant with the truth that confounds them, they do not lose heart.

no, they hope in the future to make it disappear or at lest forget the evidence, and bury it again in darkness, the secret of their strength.

They are doing everything they can to achieve this goal.

Here are some conclusive facts, among other evidence.

148 THE VIPER BREED

Johannes Andreas Eisenmenger publishes his Judaism Unveiled; the Jewry Confiscates the Edition and Pro-puts ten thousand thalers to the author, if he agrees to abandon it-to publish.

He is about to publish his translation of the Mishnah, Raabe, the eminent orientalist, sees a Jew arrive at his home from Mannheim: "Give up publishing your translation, him said the Jew, here are three thousand thalers as compensation.
Now, follow me to a notary who will issue you-ra a deed of ownership on a superb villa, located on the banks of the Rhine. We would add something else if he
It was necessary. Raabe refused.

Brafmann dies mysteriously. His death is attributed-mist, not without serious suspicions of revenge rabbinical. He too had lifted a corner of the veil which reused to cover, but no longer covers, current rabbinism.

Dr. Pinner has just finished translating the the first treatise of the Talmud without apparent cause, he dies suddenly.

The first edition of the work entitled The Jew, this luminous and masterful revelation of the pernicious mysthe edition of Israel, I say, was no sooner published than it is removed in one piece and destroyed. The author, Gougenot des Mousseaux receives notification of his conviction to death and the imminent execution of this sentence:
He died suddenly, the day after the homicide.
warning.

The affairs of Syria, a crushing indictment against Israel,
Mr. Achille Laurent, suddenly disappeared.

Also missing is the Refutation of the Religion of Jews and their rites by a former rabbi from Moldova who, at last century, embraced the monastic state and took the name of Théophile.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 149

We know the promises, the threats, etc. of which Messrs. Rohling, Drumont, Briman, etc., etc., have been the subject of the part of the Jews. There is no need to multiply the proofs.

Authentic Israelites, initiated into all the practices the secrets and practices of Judaism have revealed to us this instinctive hatred of the light, which animates the Jew, for everything related to the disclosure of his doctrine.

Drach, the former rabbi who converted, writes: "It is of our duty to see to publicize the intolerant, inhuman maxims Maines, which the rabbis (he himself had been one), profess with regard to converted Jews, Christians, and pagans and Jews who betray the secrets of the Synagogue." Why? If these secrets are fair and honest, then—What about the Jews who always have the words of philosophy, Humanity, human rights, and even fraternity! Why, since they proclaim themselves the apostles of progress, Don't they divulge these secrets to benefit others? and the French, their great benefactors, and humanity all of it? And what if these same secrets contain inhumane, degrading and petty things for all men, without exception, foreign to the Jewish race, for—Why does Israel keep them as its most precious treasure?

We Catholics preach our doctrine, our mysteries, omni creaturæ; they are the object of our singing in our churches and in public spaces. Why? The Jews, torchbearers of civilization, love so much the darkness! And did this start yesterday? "For several centuries, Drumont said at the Congress of Lyon, sheltered from Mysterious societies that were the first form of the Freemasonry, the Jews have worked in the shadows.

"They undermined the Christian Society and prepared the Israel triumphed through perseverance and cunning. They have appropriated for their own benefit the Revolution of 1789 which, in its principle corresponded to a generous ideal of justice and equality.

"They gradually seized control of all the resources of social life.

"They have settled into every situation" influential.

"They have seized the formidable power of money, etc."

It is therefore not surprising that Drach, chosen between a hundred others, he tells us with his high competence Rabbi: "that the Talmud and other works of the rabbis" contain a host of horrors and recommendations hateful towards Christians and Christianity.

But, since knowledge of the language has been limited, Jewish printing spread throughout Europe. took the precaution of removing all these passages, in leaving gaps in their place.

They substitute random names for those of Minim, Goyim Norrhim (Christians), Meschoum, Medim, Numrim (baptized Jews), and, to remedy these shortcomings, The rabbis teach verbally what they indicate. and correct the words that were intentionally changed. Sometimes also- yes, they manually restore, in their copies, the political deletions and corrections by the authors Jews. This last case, the former rabbi adds, happened in the copy of the Talmud that I own.

Helvicus recounts in his treatise on Paraphrases Chaldean Bibles, which he had, a Talmud, of which a Jew had used it before him, and in which, all the corrections were done with a quill pen. Drach is not a prehistoric Jew- Risk: it's a contemporary issue: No one has been able to disprove it his anti-Semitic allegations.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 151

In 1631, a Jewish synod held in Poland issued the The following requirements:

"We enjoin, under pain of excommunication major, to print nothing, in future editions of the Mishnah, or the Gemara, which relates, for good or for evil, to the actions of Jesus, the Nazarene.

"We therefore urge you to leave in white, the places that relate to Jesus of Nazareth. One circle like this one: O, placed in its position, will warn the rabbins and schoolmasters, to teach the youth these passages, spoken only.

"By means of this precaution, the scholars among the Nazarenes, that is to say Christians, will no longer have pretexts to attack us on this subject."

In the Refutation of the Religion of the Jews, etc., by the rab-
In the Moldovan bin we mentioned, we read:

"The mystery of the blood (ritual murder) is not known" of all the Jews. Only the rabbis, the scholars, and the Pharisees- His family are initiated into it.

Following these devastating revelations for rabbinism, (because let's not forget that this is a former rabbi speaking) he adds:

"I have demonstrated, with ample evidence, the errors of the Jews, and I reveal the mysteries which are not found in the Jews. one of their books. The fathers and rabbis in commun- They defy the prescription, verbally, and by tradition, to their children, whom they conjure up with the threat of the most great curses, to keep the secret, even towards their wives, at the risk of the most terrible consequences punishments and the greatest dangers.

"At the age of thirteen, Jews place on the head of Their sons, a horn, a symbol of strength. My father, in Placing it on my head, he revealed to me the mystery of blood.

152 THE VIPER BREED

and said to me: no matter how many children you have, you will not will reveal this mystery only to one person, the wisest, the most unwavering in his religion. Beware of ever re- to give birth to a woman, and that on earth you will not find asylum, my son, if you divulge this mystery, even though

You would convert to Christianity. Woe to you if you do.
Reveal them!

"Now, having adopted Our Lord as Father, and as Mother, Holy Church, I make known the truth; in all the places where his domain extends."

Finally, Eliphas Lévi, the great doctor of science oc-cults, of our enlightened age, teaches, in: the History of magic, page 28, firstly, that the Kabbalah doctrine-listic, which is the dogma of high magic, is contained among other works, in the Talmud.

Then, in Dogma and Ritual, vol. 11, p. 220, that the Jews, Keepers of the secrets of the Kabbalah, have almost always been Days in magic, the great masters of the Middle Ages.

No one is unaware of the reason for this secrecy, but there has a particular appeal, according to one Jewish.

Let's listen to Pfefferkorn: "We would be wasting our time to look for a more dishonest, more dangerous sect and more disastrous to the Christian people than the vile sect Jews; night and day these men occupy themselves only with, me-to state the means of destroying and overthrowing the power Christians. They use all possible genres. of fraud and insinuate themselves everywhere with all the signs of ap-parents of kindness, friendship, or business
"Full of charm." (Chapter x.)

The one who made this judgment before the entire universe, was someone who had seen and heard: he was a Jew who had practiced this Judaism, which he describes so harshly,

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 153

because he possessed it completely. Never the anti-Semite, the pathe most ardent triote, always on guard against the parasite unassimilable and exclusive, he never used such damning language for Israel. We are not asking for death, nor banishment.
the sinner's oath, but let him convert, let him live and that he may be happy with us, in justice and charity
We admit it, we, into the universal human family.
Maine, from which he excludes us.

THE TALMUD IS STILL THE BOOK OF THE LAW OF THE JEWISH NATION.

We have just stated that the Jew excludes us, non-Jews, of humanity. However improbable that this may seem to those who are not initiated into the dogmas of Israel, it is not, however, (as we will prove it abundantly and irrefutably) that the expression of the exact truth. Convinced or not of This so-called dogma, therein lies its whole secret, therein is hidden its strength, its horn, horned, according to the symbolic language of Scripture. Needless to say, it is also there that the Jew, in accordance with his racial instincts, believes he discovers to reveal the reason for our human downfall, and for the loss, or rather, the futility of all our rights in the face of him.

And the Jew remains adamant.
Indeed, how can we understand his attachment to such a vile and inhumane teaching, if the Talmud

154 THE VIPER BREED

was not for him what the Gospel is for Christians, and what would be the rationale for such violent means and are they so criminal that he takes action to prevent their disclosure?

Wouldn't that suffice for them, as a full justification of tell us: our ancestors, authors and faithful practitioners of the Talmud, they were monsters. So be it! But we have re-denied their beliefs, practices and traditions in-human beings. That's no longer our concern. The children are not not responsible for the sins of their fathers. Publish all of this as you please. Our words and our conduct will be the most eloquent refutation.

No, not today, as in the centuries to come.
after their dispersal, it is still true to say with their oracles:

Without the Talmud, a Jew cannot live.

"The Jews are like fish: fish do not

"They cannot live without water, nor can Jews live without the Talmud."
(Treatise x, Aboda Zora 3. b.)

"Young students must continually study the Talmud, and learn it by heart so that from their earliest
In their tender youth, they are fluent in practical laws and that they will not forget them in their old age.

"Let's not teach children anything, let's Talmud; for if one of them learns a trade, he will lack of what is necessary in old age and illness, but,

"He who learns the Talmud will never fall into the need ;

"Whoever studies the Talmud will become a deceiver."
(Treatise xV, Kidduchim, 82, a. xix Sota, 216.)

In the eyes of the Jew, the Bible is nothing or very little:
The Talmud is everything.

"Studying the Bible is, or is not, an act of ver-
You; the study of the Mishnah is a virtuous, worthy action

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 155

of reward, but, studying in the Gemara is the pre-
"First of virtues." (Treatise Baba, f. 33.)

"There is no more happiness for the one who abandons the Talmud for the Bible. » (Talm, Jerosol Mass. Ber., c. 1.)

"We should not deal with someone who only studies the Bible and the Mishnah, but not the Talmud." (Kaddusc.
Hakk, f, 77.)

"A house in which the Talmud is not taught," will certainly be destroyed." (xx11. Sanhed, 92, a)

"Studying the Talmud is more than saving a man of death, than to build a temple, than to honor his father and mother." (Tr. Megilla, 16, a.)

"If the Jews follow the Talmud, the Christian peoples,
They must work and they must eat; if they are without religion,
That is to say, without the Talmud, they must do it themselves, work-
"1st." (Treatise Bérachot, 35, 6)

"Finally, woe to the Christians, because they cannot
They have no Talmud. They are lost without hope of salvation.
(Tr. vu, Rosh Hashanah, 23, to.)

"Woe to him who mocks the Talmud!" (Erubin, 21,6.)

"At the Last Judgment, we will be punished for not having learned the Talmud." (XxIV, Sanhed, 7, a.)

The enthusiasm for the Talmud is the ineradicable instinct-dwarf of the race.

By adding the Kahal to the Talmud, we will have the code and the doctrinal sum of the teaching bodies and the pousees, judicial, executive, etc. of the people of Israel.

eZ

156 THE VIPER BREED

IX

COMPOSITION OF THE TALMUD.

The Talmud is by no means a sacred book, inspired like the Bible, unless, however, one recognizes the Demon as the author of this inspiration.

After the capture and destruction of Jerusalem, the leaders Jews, and especially the rabbis and Pharisees, having per-Having lost all hope of regaining civil power, they focused on their traditions.

These so-called divine traditions, combined with self-without faithful interpretations or commentaries on the law, by the rabbis and the Pharisees (we know how Our Lord Jesus Christ proved to the Scribes and to Pharisees, the importance he placed on their traditions and inter-(prestations) were successively grouped into several volumes and formed the Talmud, which comprises two parts; The Mishnah and the Gemara.

Mishna means repetition: it is, in particular, the alleged repetition of the law of Moses.

Gemara means completion, and applies specifically-ment to Mosaic law.

The combination of the Mishnah and the Gemara forms as we have just indicated, the Talmud. This word signifies, teaching, doctrine; the Talmud is therefore According to the rabbis, this is the teaching of the doctrine.

The Mishnah was declared finished and closed, or shut down.
from 175 AD.

Around this same time, a Jewish synod, held in Palestine, launched excommunication against those who would not learn and would not accept this compilation

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 157

tion, or else, which would add to it, or which would subtract from it something.

For nearly a century and a half, Jewish scholars have been... they conceived of supplementing, they said, the law of Moses with fables and absurd, impious, and obscene tales, the-which together formed the second part of the Talmud or Gemara.

One of its main articles is the hatred against The Christians.

Around the year 300 AD; a Council of rabbis decided-da que, "anyone who does not believe in a law of the Talmud, either in the Mishnah, or in the Gemara, or whoever doubts-of a story or a tale, in short, of whatever whatever is contained in the Talmud, it had to be excluded from Judaism and that he was to be put to death."

In 1169, Moses, son of Maimon, published the Mishnah Torah in four volumes. Initially little known, this ou-
This practice was adopted by all rabbis a century later.
and recommended to all of Israel as a masterpiece of Jewish legislation.

In 1321, Jacob ben Ascher, rabbi of Toledo, composed a collection of laws, under the title of Thur, or Arba to Turim, which was inserted as a supplement to the previous one Maimonides, that is to say, to the Mishnah Torah.

The Schulchan Aruch, or Open Table, is the work of the Rabbi Joseph Qaro (Rabbi Yosef Karo), of Sephet, in Judea (1488–1575). Its first edition was published in Venice. from 1565.

He never ceased to enjoy the greatest authority among the Jews, without exception.

158 THE VIPER BREED

X

THE TALMUD: CURRENT CIVIL CODE OF THE JEWISH NATION.

Mosès Isserlès, rabbi of Krakow (1549–1573) edited First, a commentary on the "Arba at Turim", then some additions and corrections to the Schulchan Aruch. This ouvrage is highly valued in Israel.

Enriched by the work of Isserles, the Schulchan Aruch is the most revered, followed, and practiced Code of Jews.

However, Henri Ellenberger, one of the Jewish scholars who know their Judaism best, recognizes in its Geschichteliche Handbruche, that there are only Schulchan Aruch Jews.

This categorical and compromising statement for the Jews, from one of the most competent parmi their nationals, only dates back about ten years. Since then, nothing has changed.

Father Léman, a converted Jew, reminds us that the Israelites, upon entering our society in the last century steeped in Christianity, they kept the pernicious Talmud hidden under their clothes.

Lawyer Haliez argues in "Jews in France," Paris 1845 that for fourteen centuries, the Jews have preserved their superstitious practices and their national customs, and that these practices and customs, daughters of Eastern civilization, are completely incompatible with the conditions of modern society.

This is certainly not the observation of the eminent lawyer who will change these customs incompatible with our principles of Christian civilization; for the fathers of these daughters of Eastern civilization (but civilization sui generis), if they like change in others, are always remained the same; neither the centuries nor the climates, nor the means, from the most persuasive to the most Violent men were unable to alter either their brains or their hearts. neither their ideas nor their feelings.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 159

Here's something more recent.

In 1866, a general Jewish synod (its acts were published) (in Lemberg in 1873) decreed that:

"In the eyes of Christians, this would be a rejection of the Shulchan Aruch Aruch, but in reality, every Jew must observe his laws
"Everywhere and always."

This decree was signed by 11,993 Jews, among whom 182 lawyers, 94 rabbis, 45 doctors.

It is neither the chief rabbi Trenel, nor the rabbi Lazard, who will protest against the decision of the Fathers of this council.

"For two thousand years," gloriously said the First published in 1867, the Talmud was, and still is, an object a throw of veneration for the Israelites, of whom it is the code religious. "

Isn't that really something rare and ineffable, that of venerating religious laws that put the the property and life of the non-Jew at the mercy of the first Jew who comes along provided he can operate unseen?

All Jews are fond of and prefer to display this title of Religious Code for their Talmud, in order to... to see them cry out about religious persecution when they are attacked accused of having conformed to some Talmudic law which It certainly has nothing to do with religion.

In that same year of 1867, Rabbi Lazard deigned to inform us that "the immense compilation of the

160 THE VIPER BREED

The Talmud spread rapidly among the Jews.
almost miraculous; it was accepted from the moment it appeared as the true and sincere expression of traditional law.
Many schools, where the Talmud was the subject of study the most respectful, suddenly arose in the East and in the West; his casuistic decisions were accepted imposed by all communities, and this triple barrier raised by the rabbis of Palestine and Babylonia around the Torah (written law) did not encounter a single
"A reckless person who tried to cross it."

Only Mr. Lazard fails to notice that the temeraire is he who, without any other reason than the declaration and the authorization of the Talmud, arrogates to itself the rights to steal, to To betray and to kill. The Talmud's triple barrier! Triple barrier behind the law, which is the violation and the very negation of the law!

However, let's be clear and not exaggerate.

According to some accounts, the Jews would be partially excusable, it does not follow that the harm they cause us, the disasters they provoke they evoke, the corruption they spread, the division they sow among citizens the misery into which they fall and the regions given over to their exploits languish, be less real.

Yes, I agree; there are reasons in favor of Jews, the system they apply to us and the regime inwhich they submit to us.

These reasons, however, these excuses, have no other value.
theirs than that of atavism and prejudice; they re-ultimately resulted from simple circumstances mitigating circumstances.

Native tendencies, innate instincts, education family through words and especially through example, pre-

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 161

stretched straight attached, even now, their condition
The outdated notion of God's chosen people is a false one. of their natural and essential superiority over us; rights absolutes which they claim to possess over our persons and over our possessions, from the point of view of the individual, the family, of property, religion, and homeland, and even of life, such are the causes that explain, in excu-partially mitigating them, or at least mitigating them: the audacity, the cynicism and perfect peace of mind with the-
What are the most blatant crimes Israel is committing against us?
injustices.

Is it necessary to add now that their claim-
The notion of superiority is merely a fable and translates into a real intellectual and especially moral inferiority, and that the rights they claim over our persons and over our goods are simply the product of imaginations of their brains, neuroticized by greed, by the love of gold and a tyrannical domination, in a state of acute mania?

It is in this sense that the expression "true" should be understood.
and sincere adherence to traditional law, of which Rabbi Lazard
It is the equivalent of the Talmud.

Indeed, the two Talmuds of the rabbis of Palestine and of Babylonia, "stifle, as has been very aptly said, the
"The Law and the Prophets." That's the code of modern Jews, if different from that of the ancient Jews. "That's it," said Achilles Laurent, that all their beliefs are contained within, and when one has the courage to peruse this immense collection, there one finds the still active causes of hatred of nations against the scattered remnant of Israel."

According to these Commentaries, the text of the Bible is not plus a historical account, a collection of precepts and laws sublime; it is now nothing more than an allegory, the Gemara explains in the strangest and most ridiculous way.

The Gemara is, according to modern Jews, the fulfillment-seam, perfection, and that is even what its name means in Hebrew; but in reality "this Commentary destroys the law through its ridiculous or absurd interpretations and by the principles of hatred it contains for all men who are not part of what they call the people of God.

The Jewish Archives themselves (1864, p. 153) poorly-Despite their Talmudic skill, they let these too many slips out meaningful lyrics:

"As for the Talmud, we confess its uncontested-
"This table is superior to the Book of the Law of Moses." That's it.
less is clear.

XI

THE PIOUS TALMUDIST ROTHSCHILD AND HIS NATION.

The Talmud is the new pillar of fire, or the new cloud which, in turn, day and night, guide the march Jews in their quest for universal domination.

Faced with such lofty destinies, humble and powerful ri-
They were filled with courage and zeal.

For the aristocracy, it is enough to appoint just one of these no-tables that give the order to the others, a Rothschild, for example, or rather, the Rothschild family, in which, according to general opinion, are the new Moses, Caleb, and Joshua called upon to hold the scepter of the universe.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 163

The Jews like to show us at the head of their gigantic rides across nations, these new calves kings of the Jews.

Weill, on the occasion of the death of Baron Meyer-Charles Rothschild provides us with valuable information in Le Figaro, October 12, 1866: "The Frankfurt house, he writes, was, for many years, managed by the old Baron Amschel de Rothschild, the eldest son of the family who was a distinguished Talmudist, a pious Israelite, and who, He died childless, leaving an immense fortune to his two children. nephews: Meyer and Guillaume, the latter known as popular name of Willi, both sons of Baron Charles.

Willi followed and still follows religiously, fuck them rabbinic prescriptions from the Talmud and the Bible, even while traveling.

Let us simply note in passing – what we will demonstrate incessantly – the incredible dose of good faith, which Jews must possess, in order to follow all the rabbinic prescriptions of the Talmud, while traveling, or not. This being said in the justification of the Jews, as much as that this justification is possible, and so as not to be accused of gratuitous hostility, without any basis indestructible.

eZ

164. THE BREEDING OF VIPERS

XII

APPARENT DISSENT, OR Talmudic and Reformed.

The apparent differences between Talmudic Jews and Modern or Reform Jews are two manifestations of the same spirit, two forms of the same aspirations Modern and Reformed Jews of Israel start from the same principle They are both intended and tend towards the same goal.

The material, religious and moral ruin of all the nations in order to better enslave them, by all possible means Possible: that is their common goal.

The implementation of the teachings of the Talmud:

1° the old way, the Talmudists tell us;

2° new way, that is to say adapted to the spirit

Modern thought, stemming from the Talmud, gave us the Reformed movement.
or Modern, and we discover their means.

This conclusion is based on the doctrine professed by the Jews, in their ecumenical council held in Leipzig on June 29, 1869, where they sat with the Orthodox, (former (in a way) the most authoritative representatives of the Reformation (new way), the rabbis of France, of Russia, from Germany, England, Turkey, Belgium, and the Netherlands, etc.

Both sides acknowledged a shared fate, and approved the same means to achieve it. We the Jews, they say, in essence, being the only representatives As many as humankind, foreign nations must to recognize us and allow us complete freedom of action: Freedom.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 165

Although we can only form one nation at part in other nations; these must grant us to have rights at least equal to those of other citizens: Equality.

Finally, to better establish universal domination, to which, alone, we have a right, we must propa-to promote the ideas of fraternity and a Universal Republic: Fraternity.

We alone are free, because we alone
We are men. We have groaned in slavery; Now freedom has delivered us from all our obstacles,

Equality equips us with all rights; but, alone,
The man, the Jew, has rights;

Fraternity fosters trust in us, opens us up the arms and delivers to us the hearts of the stranger; but we we cannot forget that man, the Israelite, does not recognize no other brother than a member of his own race, another Israelite.

O Israel! Our freedom is made from the slavery of the Goy; (it is only complete, full and whole under this condition) our equality, from its downfall;

And our brotherhood, from his repudiation.

This triple link, which will unite into a single bundle of indescribable
Tructible, the titles of our supremacy, will serve at the same time
Time to strangle our enemies.

Such must have been the exchange of views between the Fathers of the said Council; for after this summary of modern ideas to the point from a Jewish point of view, in perfect accordance moreover with those Talmudists, they fell fraternally into the They put their arms around each other and voted by acclamation.
this proposal:

"The synod recognizes that development and re-realization of modern ideas, constitute the surest guarantee

166 THE VIPER BREED

pledged for the present and future of Judaism and "His children." (Verbatim)

From all of the above, we have the right to conclude that :

1. The Jewish spirit today is what it was in the past.
early centuries of Christianity and the Middle Ages;

2° The Jew is not what he is by virtue of the law-Mosaic law; he repudiated this legislation in his spirit, in his heart and in his conduct;

3. The Jew is what he is, by virtue of the instincts of his race to which he gave himself over desperately, hypocritically, stubbornly;

4. Unlike the Gospel, which shaped the Christian,
The Talmud, originally, did not shape the Jew.

The Christian did not create the Gospel; the Jew created it.
Talmud, which is still the rule of his conduct today.
We have proven it.

The Jew is the rare, discolored person of whom Jeremiah speaks.
Chapter 12 of his prophecy: he produced the Talmud.

The Talmud, in turn, is the egg from which this bird emerges.
Rare, this bird of prey is unparalleled. Bred by the Jew, it does more reciprocally than preserving it. It is his ma-
It faithfully reproduces the trice and its generating principle.

Let us try to understand, to divine this formidable being,
Let's analyze his psychology and give the formula, the definition-tion of its essence.

At the forefront of this necessarily brief study as for the details, but complete in the definition that it
We will give you some Jewish material, we place as a preamble,
The Masonic Review's assessment of the Jews August-September 1895. This Review is written by

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 167

Freemasons who, although exploited and deceived by Israel,
They are, so far, still his devoted friends.

"We must not forget, with regard to public morality, a specific and real cause of depression. One cannot deny the lamentable progress of what must be called puffism political, electoral, financial, industrial and commercial. It was, in part, the work of the Israelite spirit.

"The Israelite was not born a flâneur. He runs like a gawker without He is. Moreover, he has faith, an unwavering faith in success.

"At the same time, he readily freed himself from the scruples-Delicate pupils. Flattering when cold, full of promises.
Lost, it ensnares and attracts, having only one goal and one Morality, success, success, subordinate to all dens considerations.

"This spirit reigns and endures, because Israel-Lite refuses to cross and instinctively remains in the middle of peoples, in a state of watch for biblical purposes.

"However, the Tsraélite has gained influence in France.

"Politics, banking, commerce, the Legion of Honour-the press, the civil service, the newspapers especially, all of that has become his domain to an extraordinary degree.

"He inevitably leaves his mark there and spreads there" his psychology, so opposed to the natural disposition, filled with franchise, of the French character.

"We owe our progress in these skilled masters."
the art of comparing our thoughts and our merchandise, of reminding about ceaseless victories over credulity and to sink the voter.

"Unfortunately, Israelite genius is short-sighted,"
It does not generalize over time; it is unsuitable for, the
In short, the present triumph is enough for him and he does not see at the end of the road the open abyss, into which, moreover, he has always fallen, as its history testifies.

168 THE VIPER BREED

All of this is correct, but what is the reason for this spirit?
And what about this tactic of the Jew? We will elaborate on it soon.
This point is completely closed. We will therefore only need to proceed from here:

If Jewish psychology is so fundamentally opposed to nature, full of frankness, of the French character, is that:

1° According to the Talmud, "if we knew what Israel teaches us, we would soon have done (in which he is wrong) to put to death all the Jews";

2. This is because our vices are his virtues, and our virtues, its flaws;

3° That is that what for us is a defense, is a right for him; unless, however, injustice that which is forbidden to him, does not turn to the detriment of either one Jew, or of the Jewish nation if he disregarded it.

Finally, if the Israelite genius is so carefree, so unpre-seeing the future, if the present triumph is enough for him and if he does not see at the end of the road the abyss opened in which he always fell for, is that:

1° By working on our corruption, it eliminates an obstacle: the feeling of honor, duty and justice;

2. By stripping us of our possessions, he takes what is his own, he says; and Finally ;

3° is that every day he believes he is on the eve of this great universal and definitive triumph – the dominant universal nation – which must be the term, the end glorious and ever-imminent developments, the vicissitudes and destinies of his race.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 169

XIII

THE JEW FROM A RELIGIOUS POINT OF VIEW.

Despite some necessary incursions, for the understanding of the subject, in the religious sphere, we let us point out that we do not consider the Jewish danger, from the point of view of race and not at all from the point of view religious. If we examine current rabbinism, it is solely because it helps us to become known race.

Judaism is purely and simply in the sense the technique of the word, the expression of instincts, of tendencies dances, aspirations and the spirit of a race apart, contrary to both natural law and divine law.

In 1320, Pope John XXII renewed it in these terms the complaints of past centuries, the causes of which existed always :

"We could not learn without grieving that the Jews setting aside the old law that God had given by his servant Moses, have adopted another law which they claim to have received from the Lord, which is a falsehood, and which they call the Talmud.

"A fabric of countless indignities, this enormous work" contains a multitude of abominations and curses and horrible imprecations, which the perfidious and in-insults towards Christians, uttered daily against them in their prayers and devotional exercises.

These complaints, as well as the conclusions drawn from them—wagers, it is extremely easy to justify them. What We will now state that this is very serious. We de—we ask the reader, to demonstrate our good faith, our impartiality and our responsibility to weigh the evidence that we produce as a solid basis and indisputable proof deniable from what we are saying.

170 THE VIPER BREED

Rabbinism, we argue, may at a stretch, followed and practiced in good faith by its faithful; but we Let's disregard the intimate thoughts and secrets of morals; we do not judge the man, the rabbinist, but the work, rabbinism.

Now, rabbinism or Judaism is, as a whole, a collection of impiety, blasphemy and more practices each one more outrageous than the last against the divinity. It is a complete treatise on self-worship, or, in other words, He is the substitution, unconscious I grant you, of the Jew in General and especially the rabbi, to God.

XIV

EVIDENCE.

The rabbi's excellence. — His authority. — His wisdom. — God in school. — The rabbi's curse and power. — Poor Moses. — The fear of the Jew.

The rabbi created a God in his own image, or rather, God is the rabbi himself, and not the true God.

The rabbi belongs in competition with God, the supreme authority, infallible wisdom, and omnipotence.

With this, obviously God is dethroned; he is the do—

The humble disciple, the humble servant. The Master is the rabbi.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 171

That is to say, to speak in French, the rabbi and his rabbinisms are nothing, because whoever proves too much, proves nothing.

In treatise v, Moedkatan, 16, a., we read this in all letters: "The rabbis have sovereignty over God; this "Whatever they want, God must do."

Here is the equivalent:
Rabbi Chanina was greater than God (7r. Chullin) XXXI, 7, h.)

Other: "Everything that the rabbis decide on earth is a law for God." (Tr. Rosh Hashanah, 8, b.)

So much for authority and grandeur.

When it comes to wisdom, the rabbi still takes the prize.

"God," it is said in Tr. Magilla, 21, a., "in the sky" He studies the Talmud while standing; that is his respect. "For the book!"

But this Book, the fruit of rabbinic wisdom, transcends, his abilities. That's what we still need to prove by the Talmud itself.

"God in heaven once had a quarrel with the Rabbis, citing a passage from the Talmud, state that God made the earth to ascend to heaven the rabbi, son of Bachmenis who, like God claimed it, understood the Talmud better than himself. He sided with the rabbis, and God acknowledged his mistake." We can see that he wasn't too stubborn. (Tr. XXI, Baba Mezia, 86, a.)

The proof that rabbis enjoy super-prerogatives superior to those of the Divinity, and that consequently their God is not God, it is that, when he commits the blunder of binding oneself by an imprudent oath, only the rab-Bin can pick it up.

172 THE VIPER BREED

"I came one day to Mount Sinai! (it's a (rabbi speaking) and I heard the voice of God saying, Woe is me! Woe is me! For having sworn to destroy my children; if only I had a rabbi who would extricate me of my oath!

"When I came home and told this to My colleagues jumped in the air and said to me: you are a Ass! If only, as a rabbi, you had untied him from his "Oath!" (7r. Baba Bathra, 74, a.)

Now, taste this without flinching, if you can- vez: "A rabbi's curse, even if it is not "Founded, it is always fulfilled." (Tr. xXVI, Makkoth, 11, a.) Brrr! Thundering Jupiter is but a frail toddler compared to these terrible beings.

For the rabbi, to make it rain at will, for example, this is just a bit of fun.

To make it rain, Rabbi Chamma only had to to say: "You insolent sky! Cover your face with shame!" And the downpour fell immediately (Tr. x11. Taanith, 25, a.)

If Rabbi Jehuda wanted rain, he had no that he throw his shoe in the air, as a sign of discontent- attitude towards God.

"One day he had thrown his shoe and even he was about to throw away the second one, when there was a knock at his door; then, The prophet Elijah entered and earnestly begged him not to "Do this, otherwise the whole earth would be flooded." (Tr. xt1. Taaioth, 24, b.) This is what we are exposed to.

"Siri bought a donkey, and when he arrived at the water's edge, the donkey turned into a bridge;

"Rabbi Janai gave something to drink to a Woman: she was transformed into a donkey and he rode her. (Tr. xx11. Sanhedr. 67, b.)

Let us conclude this all-too-brief outline of the incredible excellence of the rabbis by this memorable saying of Rabbi Jochanan:

"The rabbis will all be gods and will call themselves Jehovah." (Tr. xx11, Baba Bathra, 75, a.)

Since we're at it, we'll ask for permission—to add this variant: the rabbis are all gods and if, out of modesty, they do not yet take the name of Jehovah or Yahweh, the truth is that, in fact, Jehovah, he There are no others besides them.

In Mosaic law or ancient Judaism, God was God, and Moses, Isaiah, Ezekiel, etc., were his prophets. Things have changed a bit in rabbinism.

The proof that contemporary Judaism (because we have (proven that the Talmud is still law) has nothing to do with it with the true law of God, given to the Israelites on Sinai through Moses, it is that neither Moses nor God They don't even understand anything about it.

Indeed, Tractate Menachoth 29, b., informs us that:

"When Moses arrived in heaven, he heard the reading of the Talmud, but he understood nothing of it. Overcome with grief, he fell into weakness, so that God had to come to his aid.

As for God, we have just seen that, in terms of science Talmudic, he wasn't exactly very strong.

Many rabbis, moreover, affirm with rabbi Menachem (Commentaries on the Pentateuch) that: "frequently— In fact, God consulted the rabbis who were still alive before... to decide on the most contentious issues.

After all, Moses, with his law, is only a slave, so— Say that the free man is the follower of the Talmud.

The Sohar 1, 438, a., indeed proclaims that: "All those Those who study the laws of the rabbis are free from everything in this world, free from all the prescriptions with which they are burdened all the other peoples, the Akum."

Therefore, these points remain valid:

"Talmudists are free from all prescriptions" which legitimately oblige us, in conscience, before God and before men;

"The rabbis are superior to God, they command..." God ;

"Moses is a slave. Moreover, Moses re-known with favor in heaven in the presence of God whom he didn't even dare to greet, because of his status as a slave.
(11. Tr. Sabbath, 89, a.)

Here, we believe it is our duty to warn with the Talmud, our dear fellow citizens, on a point of which they do not they hardly suspect that he would be neither charitable nor reassuring It's tempting to let them remain ignorant any longer, and that's because:

"We must fear the rabbis as we fear God;

"To slap an Israelite is like..."
gave one to God himself;

"A non-Jew who strikes an Israelite is worthy of death;

"Anyone who despises the words of the rabbis deserves the dead. » (Tr. IV, Pesachim, 22; Erubin, 21; Sanhed, f. 58.)

Let's leave it at that on this issue. Once again we conduct an unbiased, impartial study of the Israelite from the point of view of race, even when studying His religion; we have proven it. Will he meet?
Anyone dare cry slander? And what about the evidence?

We call religion the worship given to this being that the Rabbis show us themselves learning at their school, submissive at their command, released by them from contractual obligations They were foolish, so be it! Since he is... tense that it really is about God. But let us not do not present this religion as being of divine right, or even simply conforming to natural light the reason.

There is no need to have Sorbonne degrees, nor even to have praised a treatise by Theodicy for com- to take that, He who in such a way is the cause, that he is not no effect; and whose essence is absolute Being, in short, that He who is, who is, necessarily possesses not the relatively perfect being, but the necessary Being and absolute with its infinite perfection;

This one, we assert, does not need to go to school. rabbis, since he is truth itself and knows nothing ignore ;

It does not depend on anyone, since as a pre- An indispensable first ingredient, everything depends on him; and we add that the Jewish cult, whose notions about God are dia- fundamentally contrary to the data of reason, reflection The light of God cannot be by divine right. that is to say, teachings, precepts, given to men (at least to the Jews) by God.

XV

DISTINCTION BETWEEN SUBJECT AND OBJECT.

Let no one say that this language is hostile to Jews and contrary to the natural brotherhood that should unite all men. For, if no one is the judge of consciences and He knows the secrets of hearts; if all of us must respecting people and their intimate and sin- ceres; on the other hand, it is perfectly dishonest to res- to respect the object of these same convictions, when this object is a turpitude or a mistake.

176 THE VIPER BREED

Please report these alleged errors and these tur- I will be asked about the pious aspects of Judaism. I ask to wait a moment; as they say, We won't lose anything by waiting.

No, we must never stop loving humanity, be it our enemy; but we must always hate error: Aminus

Plato, sed magis amica veritas.

This is said to express our feelings rather benevolent towards Israel.

We would have nothing to fear from him, we let him-
We would laugh perfectly peacefully, if everything were reduced to the Jewish question, to the worship by which he intends to honor God. it was, however, necessary to demonstrate, to the worst of circumstances, followers of Catholicism, that the God of their worship is not, According to Talmudic teaching, neither the God of reason, nor that of revelation (which is the same, by the way) but the product of senseless claims and conceptions of this depraved race. But that is not it, let us repeat, that is where the difficulty lies.

XVI

JEWISH DOGMA ON HUMANITY, OR: THE JEWISH TO VIEWPOINT OF ITS BREED AND OTHER BREEDS.
– BASIS OF ANTISEMITISM.

The difficulty, the impossibility so to speak, of the agreement between Jews and non-Jews, consists in the exclusive dogma to the Jews regarding humanity.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 177

Similarly, through his intellectual and moral atavism, the Jew, as we have just proven by his law, has ren-poured out to God to usurp sovereignty and place himself above human consciousness: thus, by this same
With his ancestral instinct, he confounded the rest of humankind. a stranger to his race, among the simple animals, to re-server without sharing, nature, dignity and rights of the man.

This is the crucial point, the principle and the foundation of the Jewish question, the granite foundation upon which is built and organized the unassimilable and exclusive Jewish nationality. This is what radically separates the Jew from the non-Jew; the star of Israel that guides him in his walk and in his evocations Resolutions through time and space; the secret and the source of his science in his tactics and in all his reports with foreigners.

The most extravagant thing about it is that, this principle, monstrous product of aberration and or-pride of Israel, and source of its alleged rights over all the beings of visible creation, including ourselves: this principle is not enough for him; he establishes his rights and privileges, in Furthermore, on divine right.

He applies to himself these words from Psalm 2, which: concern only the spiritual and universal empire of N.-$. Jesus Christ, on souls: "Ask me and I will give you the nations as your inheritance and the earth as your empire."

This conception, specific to the Jewish race, this sure dogma-mined, from which all the practical consequences flow, all applications of law and justice (of the Jew, (of course), is simple and sums up everything about the Jew. We we find formulated in different ways.

178 THE VIPER BREED

"By the infallible rabbis, the infallible Talmud" and the no less infallible rabbinic tradition: the Jews only they are men; the other nations are merely varieties of animals. » (Baba, m. fol. 114. 2.)

"Descendants of Abraham: the Lord has designated you-spoken by Ezekiel: You are my flock, That is to say, you are men, while the others The peoples of the world are not men; they are beasts." (Tr. Baba Metzigna, fol. 114.)

"The Jews are of God's substance, like a child" is of the substance of his father." (Schelfa Talm. fol. 4, etc.)

"The seed of the non-Jew is like the seed of cattle." (Talm. Ketuboth, 3, b.)

We have finally revealed Israel's famous secret, the dogma of his rapacious greed and his contemptuous and tyrannical-Damn pride, this dogma whose abjuration could not be obtained from the Jews, even on the condition that Fichte demanded to grant them the rights of citizens.

"To grant them these rights," he said, "it would be necessary to..."
one night cut off all their heads, and put one back on each of them another on the shoulders, in which there would not be a
"only Jewish idea." (Berichte, etc. p. 191.)

– No, that wouldn't be enough; we would need to use our heads.
For do we not know, according to the Talmud, not only the rabbis, but all Jews without exception, "are born with the Talmud" in their bellies? (Tr. x11. Taanith, 4, a.)

In order to avoid any misinterpretation, the Talmud takes care to translate this inferiority in a thousand ways.
The sentiment of non-Jews towards Jews. The expressions are not delicate matters, however we are obliged to reproduce them if we don't want to be called fake-unreliable or unfaithful translators.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 179

So here, to convince us even more, is...
How does the Talmud go about praising us?

"The flesh of the peoples of the earth (the Goyim) is of the "Donkey flesh, and their seed, the seed of beasts." (City (by Rohling, Polem, p. 19.)

"The children of a non-Jew and a slave (a non-(Jewish) have no family relationship with their parents, because they are equal to donkeys." (/bdp 72.)

"The chosen people are worthy of eternal life, the others
"People are like donkeys." (Tr. Berach, 4, f. 230,4.)

"It's horse semen that the semen of a foreigner. (Tr Jebam. f. 94.)

"It is not permitted to give meat to a non-Jew," It's better to throw it to the dogs; for the dog is better than him.

"The non-Jew is no better than the filthy pig."

"A woman who gets out of the bath must wash herself again," if the first thing she sees is an impure object, such as a dog, a donkey, a madman, a non-Jew, a camel, a co-pig, a horse, or a leper." (Radenhausen, Esther, Etc., X. p.13.)

How can we be surprised, then, if the Talmud declares that, "the non-Jew who strikes an Israelite is worthy of death, while the latter has the right and the duty (as much as the (thing is impunity convenient) to strangle the best Christians? » (Raschi, Comment. on exod. 7.1.)

"The Lord has given us the ability to pour forth, on a dry stone (zechiach selah) the blood of non-Jews, before God, that is to say, before the tablets of the law which are in the synagogues." (Hachajim p. 33.)

180 THE VIPER BREED

XVII

THE JEW CONSIDERED INDIVIDUALLY AND IN HIS RELATIONSHIP WITH GOD AND TOWARDS FOREIGNERS OF HIS RACE.

In summary, Semitism, the Jewish spirit, or the Jew, is the maintenance of the Divinity, by making it dependent on the rabbin, inferior even to the rabbi, therefore the latter is his own God. We can say of this as much as the entire Jewish people, given that, being of the sub-God's power, no more and no less, just as the child is of the of his father's substance, he possesses the divine nature and is equal to God.

We only mention this religious aspect because memory, because this is not a religious controversy that We have committed. The Jews are really going too far. in this way by proclaiming according to their religious code that Our Lord Jesus Christ and the Christians are destined to burn, "to be boiled eternally" in a huge boiler filled with odorous materials referring to, and that the Immaculate Virgin, Mother of the Savior And the most sublime of creatures is nothing but dung. (Tr. XV1. Gittin, 57, a.) Proof:

In the Book of Numbers, XVII, 8, we read:

"Moses having placed in the tabernacle of the witness—
He collected the staffs of all the princes of the tribes, and returned
The following day, he found that Aaron's staff had sprouted.
in Lévy's house, and pimples had appeared, and Flowers had come out, and the leaves had opened, almonds had formed. Referring to this text, the Nizzachon vetus, page 47, writes:

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 181

"The heretics (Christians) say that this concerns this Charja (stercus, dung), Marie, who would be res—
May the virgin give birth to Jesus, may their spirit
"Die!"

We've had enough of these outrages and persecutions.
incessant actions to which we are subjected, but we do not
We will not respond to insult with insult, nor to persecution. through persecution; far from it, granting the Jews full and complete freedom in the exercise of their religion, we do absolutely abstracting from their religion, in our claims instructions. But let's move on.

From a social and human point of view, the Jewish spirit is the ex—exclusion of all peoples, of the human family, reduced—suffocating this one to the Jewish race alone!

Up above, God is dethroned, the rabbi is Master, it is Move it out of the way so I can get in.

Master in heaven, alone, man, and tyrant on earth where everything is his possession, except for his fellow creatures, such is the Jewish.

Placed by nature at the top of the hierarchy of beings,
Lord of all creation, he is the universal Ruler—salt. Hence, the downfall of all peoples, and the loss of their rights and their dignity. For, in the case of men, there is only The Jews: only Jewry is Humanity. Outside of it
There are only animals.

The definition of a Jew rests on two assertions and based on two negations. The first negation and the first

The two statements concern God; the two caves relate to each other. to man.

In relation to God, the Jew is the negation of the true God. to replace him and recognize no other law than his own will.

182 THE VIPER BREED

In relation to man, the Jew is the negation of na-human nature compared to other races different from its own, to remain alone, man, to have alone the fruits and pou-to see foreigners treated as if they were ordinary people animals.

Therefore, in the eyes of God, the Jew claims to be free. He will Whatever he wants.

But the other men, that is, the non-Jews, did not-will not have the right to do what they want: they will do this that the Jew will allow them. Thus Israel will not do the will-God's law, but the non-Jews will conform to his.

XVIII

DEFINITION OF A JEW.

In relation to God, the Jew is the individual of this unique race, parasite of humanity (therefore cosmopolitan, exclusive and unassimilable) which, by instinct established as a principle, no less than by heredity and especially practically, it substitutes its authority and judgment, to the judgment and authority of God in matters of the justice and morality, to evade obligations and to the pangs of conscience.

Compared to other men of a different race, the A Jew is:

The individual of this same unique race, a parasite of the human manitas (therefore cosmopolitan, exclusive and inassimilable) which, by instinct erected into a principle, no less than by heredity and especially practically, appropriates to the exclusive the union of individuals of other races, nature and rights of man, with the aim of exploiting, dominating despotically how and to make his own of societies and individuals non-Jews, by all skillfully organized means, by cunning above all, and rarely violence.

Therefore, only the Jew is a man. If you object that... beings considered by Jews to be of a nature essentially inferior to theirs, they resemble fu- laughingly, and that they are even twice as superior to them from an intellectual and moral point of view; that, since there is no There is no effect without a cause; these beings are making discoveries. and inventions, creating masterpieces of art, writing learned treatises, etc. (which animals do not do) do not are more like cattle seed, but men in flesh and blood, composed of a body and a spiritual soul In this situation, the Jew's answer is all ready.

He explains to you, with rabbinical wisdom, that:

"Non-Jews were created only to serve the Jews"
Day and night, without them being able to leave their service. God He created them in the form of men in honor of the Jews; for It would not be suitable for a prince – and all Jews are princes, as all rabbis are kings – to be ser- vi by an animal having the form of an animal, but well by an animal having a human form. (Sepher Midrash) Talpioth. Warsaw edition 1815, page 255).

This, someone might say, is nothing but pure theo- laughter, but where are the facts that confirm it? –Ah! pleased to God, may the reality of the actions not justify this sincere psychological analysis and this exact definition, philosophical- phique, which we have given of the Jew. The deeds and actions of the Jewish nation and its subjects are all marked at corner of the Jewish mind as we have explained it.

184 THE VIPER BREED

The Jew makes it a crime for us to claim our rights, while he believes he can do anything against us. To be convinced of this, we only need to see him in action and to

to hear him speak.

Let's take a recent example, a reproduction of the past and A model for the future. Let's listen to Mr. Strauss tomorrow. of his dubious election as a municipal councillor for the Rochechouart district. It is Mr. Drumont who wears his words, to our knowledge.

"Having barely escaped the danger," said Drumont, "the good Jew Strauss lets out a cry of triumph against Loyola Tartuffe, and the Sisters of Charity who, it seems, are responsible for all the misdeeds, all the scandals and all the tra- stories of Dreyfus, Reinach, Arton, Cornelius Herz, Hugo Oberndærhoffer, Eugène Mayer and other famous Israelites.

Vienna, in a magnificent burst of patriotism, from the band of swindlers, from the Hebrew buccaneers and organizers of financial piracy who oppress it- had been leading for so many years "gave herself over to the ghosts of the "The Middle Ages and the Inquisition." As for self-assurance, that's not Not bad. It's better, as they say, to hear that, than To be deaf. That's the usual chatter of those people. He It's always amusing, by the way, to see people claiming... rights to freedom of conscience, by these intruders, who have makes French Catholics into pariahs. In a country, where some municipalities refuse aid from charity office to parents guilty of having He had his children raised by the Brothers; it's quite simple- It's enormous to hear Strauss complaining "that we want to outlaw an entire class of French citizens People subjected to ostracism or prohibition because of their origin "gin or their religion." Libre Parole, May 8, 1896.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 185

But Mr. Strauss, even if he has rights in our country, is no more French citizen than the French from France. He has everything sim- This is in addition to what we consider to be inalienable. citizen and member of the Jewish nation and at the same time French citizen. For us, we are simply French. and being members of a single nation, France, that is enough for us. It is difficult, moreover, to be both an excellent citizen of two enemy nations or nations with conflicting interests. Person "You cannot serve two masters," says the Gospel.

On the other hand, what is the role of the Catholic religion?

whether it be the Jewish religion in our social demands anti-Jewish commercial, national, and economic policies? Mr. Strauss will not fool us. If we are forced to defend ourselves against the influence and power of the Jewishness, it's because of its instincts, its principles, of his practices and aspirations.

It is neither race nor religion that displeases us.
in Hebrew, but its civil code, its spirit and what it
It has become customary to call the system Jewish. That's what we we hate what we fight against and what we want to rid ourselves of it for the sake of our honor and prosperity
This is simply the exercise of the right to self-defense.

This anti-Semitism is no different from that of Drumont.
"Antisemitism," he writes, "as we understand it, is not not a party, a union of greedy politicians, it's a a great national movement that must return France to herself, who must regenerate and transform this country, the ar-to wrest from the yoke of the cosmopolitans who have made it their prey.
In the current phase, antisemitism is primarily a general preaching, individual propaganda and collective at the same time. Above all, the idea must prevail.
Gradually, it imposes itself through the obviousness of facts, as observed by each individual, of the thefts or injustices he suffered at the hands of the Jewish system.

186 THE VIPER BREED

"Small landowners, the peasants-without, the employees, the traveling salesmen, the officers
The workers gradually come to us, just as they come to us.
by simply telling us: "You definitely have reason. "

"All French people will eventually become part of it in some way."
a kind of conspiracy, an unseen conspiracy sizable, because it is public and will soon be universal, whose watchword will be hatred of morals, the practices of the Jew and all those inspired by him.

"When the time is right, the surge will occur-Nevertheless, the movement will succeed through the force of things."

Nevertheless, the conflict could probably be avoided.
te, if the Jew acted only by instinct; the principles of a sound philosophy and the example of Christian virtues pra-tickled every day before his eyes would have sooner or later due to his instinctive propensities. But the Jew has principles, a dogma and a doctrine.

These dogmas, stemming from Jewish instincts, such as the consequence that the sequence logically follows from the true premises or falsehoods constitute the secret of Israel (a secret that we have uncovered) and are the elements of its definition.

We have given this definition. It is not arbitrary. It was drawn from the facts (and on this point we have (still to be confirmed), from the Talmud and the instincts of the Jewish race.

To know the Jew, to understand his conduct, to uncover the secret of events, of the corruption, the rupture and humiliation of the non-Jew, as well as the Jew's control over all our rights, over our persons and regarding our possessions, we must constantly appeal to this defining. It is the key to major social issues, po-political, commercial, financial, etc. etc., which stirs up the different different parties. As long as we judge Judaism solely by its exterior, through the phenomena it determines and by regarding the actions she performs, we remain in the realm of description.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 187

To formulate its essential definition, it is necessary to give the principle and dogma from which these phenomena proceed, the phenomena, these actions and these outside.

A good definition must result from the union of the element-generic difference and specific difference.

Compared to us:

The generic element, or genre, among the Jew, is the enemy. A greedy and tyrannical enemy, a parasite of humanity who wants to protect our property and our independence, that is to say, to our rights and our human dignity.

The specific difference which, added to the general element, determines the species and completes the definition, is, in this case: enemy essentially superior to non-Jews, whom he considers to be nothing more than simple animals. Hence the definition we gave.

In relation to God (in order to embrace being in its entirety, because the two reports complement each other mutually):

The generic element is: enemy of God, or rebel against God to abolish the rights of conscience and stifle his remorse;

The specific element is: equal to God, to justify his revolt. Which fits with our definition.

This is the Jew's philosophical formula, the definition of his mind, the expression of his being as well as his dogma and the mysterious (formerly) secret of strength.

Many eminent authors have defined the Jew, but the Most only provide descriptive definitions.

188 THE VIPER BREED

The one given in the issue of August 20, 1896, by the very Competent Mr. Kimon, she is so beautiful that I cannot resist I look forward to reproducing it here.

"Israelism," he tells us, "is a Semitism, that is to say—to say a perfected parasite, composed of a single race or rather of a single species, widespread throughout the universe—third, adapting to all regions, speaking all languages, mingling with all peoples without fear to merge and be absorbed, disguising themselves with the cos—a union of all nations, but together forming a vast army, admirably organized by nature, the hereditary power and through the Hebrew religion, with his princes, his generals, his officers, his emissaries, its spies, its soldiers: with its institutions of vice and of immorality, corruption, and lies, and not pursuing only one goal: the disintegration of societies civilized and hardworking, in order to dominate them, exploit them and destroy them.

As a description, it couldn't be better.

Parasite! It's one of the essential character traits Jewish, which most struck all those who dealt with Semitic psychology.

"The Jews," Herder wrote in his famous work Ideen zur geschichte der Menscheit, 3. 91 and 4, 38. the Jews prefer to live among other nations, a particular trait of their national character against which Moses fought already with all his strength."

For centuries, and almost since his birth, the people of God (people of God before Christ), is a parasitic plant on the stock of other nations.

They are the parasitic plant that has attached itself to all the European nations and which drew more or less from its substance.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 189

The famous philosopher Schopenhauer in his articles on law and politics, it cannot be expressed otherwise:

"Even today, this landless John lives as a parasite." at the expense of other peoples and on their soil, but it is not no less animated by the most fervent patriotism for his own nation, as the perfect ensemble clearly shows with which all hold for each, and each for all. "

The hostile character that it displays towards others peoples, this nation of parasites, did not escape the observations of thinkers.

One testimony is enough for us, that of Fichte, this that point being obvious.

"Across almost all European countries, there is a state powerful and hostile, who lives in perpetual war with all the others and weighs terribly on the citizens, it is the Judaism.

"I don't believe it's so terrible simply because he forms an isolated, separatist and tightly bound state, but precisely because this state is founded and built on hatred of the entire human race." Berichte zur Berichtigung der Urtheiler, etc. p.186.

The side of the supposed essential superiority of the Jews with regard to us is no less highlighted by the same writers; all establish through peremptory texts

the existence of this belief in Israel. Here are the words of Klüber, Uebersicht der diplomatic Verhandlungen, etc., 3, 375: "The Jews imagine that they are the people God's chosen one, raised by him above those who are not the Jews, to whom they are physically and morally different and which must be completely exterminated. Innocent expressions that do not convey the true meaning of the opinion they express, as much as one inter-ready in accordance with the texts we have cited and to those that we read in The Jew According to the Talmud, etc., of Rohling, and in particular p. 91, 2:

190 THE VIPER BREED

"A Jewish soul is dearer and more pleasing to God" than all the souls of the other peoples of the earth, for the their souls are souls similar to those of animals evils and brutes, nothing more, nothing less, while those of Jews have the privilege of being a part of God himself; they are, as we have shown above, subs-the substance of God, in the same way that a son is of the substance tance of his father. » (Schefa tal. fol. 4; Schene luch. hab. fol. 262. etc. Schefa, t. fol. 4, 2; Menachem p. 53. fol. 221.4.)

That they want to deprive us of all our rights is indebatable. No anti-Semitic work where this particular-the nature of the Semitic spirit is not victoriously proven. As an example, we will only cite this page... morally ambiguous, where Fichte shows us the Israelites in the act of to exploit this plunder for their own benefit:

"One should expect something different from such a people than what happens and what we see every day: that is to say that, in a state where even the most absolute king cannot...
to take up residence in my father's cottage, where I maintain my right against the most powerful minister, the first Jew Venus can, whenever he pleases, rob me with impunity.

"They want to have human rights still very much that they refuse them to us." Report, etc.

This dispossession, we have stated, they want the me-to achieve success by all means.

As information, we have the honor to inform you to present, dear reader, the Jew according to the description of Mr. Bernard Lazare. He is quite different, he said, (which (no one ever doubted) the Israelite, indignant at seeing himself confused with that infamous being, in mind and morals Jews, the object of his contempt.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 191

"The Jew is the one who is dominated by the sole preoccupation—the temptation to make a quick fortune that he will obtain more easily through theft, lies, and cunning. He despises the virtues, poverty, selflessness. The beast that—
They once managed the infidel tribes in the desert, and it remained his one and only adoration.

When a Jew is a journalist, the newspaper is for him a means of profit, and he exploits it in every way. He has the particular talent that consists of discovering the most obscure passions and he knows how to flatter them, satisfy them, encourage them, and of He is the source of his glory: the debauchery of all. He knows how to be obscene. and he knows how to be chauvinistic, by turns; he exploits the popular a tendency to withdraw from the lofty spirits that frighten, and he makes language accessible to the lowest classes; it replaces the mind through inept puns, eloquence, and phraseology, enthusiasm due to epilepsy. The journalist then lies, panics, disrupts, and when the daily columns don't...
The more he settles in the theatre, the more he dumbs down.

When the Jew is a banker, he possesses a [missing word] for evil. A powerful organization, a dark genius. He is proud—
They are greedy and deceitful. He piles up deceptions that will From skillful and even commonplace trickery to audacious theft: He perpetually thinks of subtle machinations, of daring maneuvers. It's found everywhere, because everywhere He will draw gold from the rulers who borrow, near the naive inventors who could only create, at the head countless companies that he supports with lies his captivating eloquence. If disasters occur, he will be safe; what good would skill do in conquering fortune, What if she couldn't prevent unfortunate consequences? For that apparent justice can always be attested to, there are the

the weak and the simple, those who are fed crumbs, who are fattens, that we abandon, and that save.

When a Jew is a politician, he arrives through charlatanism, fanfare, and flattery. He is scheming, fertile in deceptions, and in politics he will see the most su- wind that the possibility of paying off one's debts, of getting rich by the agio and speculation.

According to Mr. Bernard Lazare, in these features, he is im- It is possible to discover the very shadow of a resemblance with the true Israelite. It's possible. But let's be clear. once and for all.

The Jews are claiming the rights we have mentioned. born from principles which have the force of law with respect to them.

These rights are beyond doubt and are sacred, inad- missible for the Jews; and, possessing them, they are, in the exercising, above all disqualification.

Similarly, on our part, if we acknowledge the aforementioned rights to the Jews, we consecrate them Israelites; if we We deny them (and we can do no less), we deny them Let's just leave the Jews alone.

That's the whole difference.

Once again, we do not judge consciences; We are putting a doctrine on trial.

If the Jews are acting in good faith, and we must... to believe until proven otherwise, they are, subjective- completely free from all defilement, from all moral failings: They are true Israelites. But if they acknowledge that these The rights in question are either a little exaggerated, and if despite They claim this either in principle or in practice. In that case, they are true Jews.

Mr. Edmond Picard, in his Synthesis of Antisemitic- tisme, p. 89, does not seem so lenient to me; to Mr. Bernard Lazare to justify his thesis to him.

"Would you want a Jewish army?" said the learned lawyer.
Belgian, a Jewish Senate, a Jewish judiciary?

No. You feel what such forces are in these hands.
Foreigners would lead to misunderstandings, even excesses Unwanted, deviations, dangers. And you don't do not be moved when they have forces at their disposal otherwise powerful: Money, the Stock Market, the press And the poisons they contain! How could one not not to be frightened by this opulent, skillful, and ambitious nation domination:

"Israel! Two hundred thousand Englishmen are exploiting in the Inof, two hundred million people of brown race. We must not that we were becoming an India exploited by a minority Israelite.

"Methodical looting, we were saying. Yes, by means of our common law diverted from its purpose and used to disastrous works. And it is here that suddenly arises the legal question, this inevitable part of all problems social. The predatory instinct of the race thus occurs under a new form. It is the activity employed in strippingto the other, the only manifestation of Semitic activity in History. It's no longer about raids, piracy, or conquest.
armed robbery. It's usury, speculation, and hoarding.
holding, more surely and hypocritically, the same result-tat. They extort money through interest-bearing loans and commissions, through the skillful and hypocritical use of contracts in the civil code, like in the old days when ransoms were extorted by putting a knife on throat. Fortunes are seized by boarding, by means of Stock market crashes. An industry is invaded by the single-pole, as in the old days the Saracen invaded and ravaged a province or a coastline.

"For the Aryan world, the question arises of its-see if the Persian Wars and the Punic Wars, the

194 THE VIPER BREED

Crusades and the five-century struggle against the Turks in the will have been useful, and if after having, in so many vain battles-Having repelled the Semites, we will leave them, rendering
All that glorious, painful, and bloody past, useless, to subjugate by surprise.

"Throughout contemporary Europe, the Aryan soul replied: No! By raising the neo-movement anti-Semitic.

Finally, and we conclude with this, the justification for In our definition, we said that the Jew was the individual of this unique, exceptionally violent breed, but cunningly organizing its means of destruction.

Indeed, Semitism, in general, is a parasite. It manifests itself in two essentially distinct forms: Islamism and Israelism.

Israelism, for the reasons we have previously discussed, sentées, a unique, unassimilable and exclusive race, or to use Mr. Kimon's language: "a Semitism, that is to say, a perfected parasite, composed of a single race, or rather of a single species," cunning, etc., organizing in secrecy and mystery his army and his resources combat; while "Islamism—we quote Kimon, — is a Semitic or bastard parasite. 1/ consists of of several very different races or species from one another: Arab, Turkish, Mughal, Tatar, Kurdish, Persian, Hindu, Malay, Black, etc., occupying the area the richest and most fertile on earth, absorbing, by violent practices, all the peoples he encounters on his journey, speaking only one language, the dialect Koranic, and enjoying, without labor, the good and the work from the neighbor.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 195

"It's a society of wild beasts, like royal tigers." of India, each claiming a portion of territory land in the forests or around the farms, living off livestock or game from their range."

Based on all the above, we can boldly to conclude that:

Israel is this unique race, a parasite of humanity, by instinct and by the false dogma of its essential superiority on non-Jews, destroying for its own benefit the rights of other tricks, by all means combined by trickery and very rarely through violence.

By juxtaposing the fundamental principles of Israelism, the actions of the Jews who are its per-
In this particular assertion, we acknowledge the truth of this
The Talmudic saying is:

"All the plagues of this world come from the Jews." (Isbamothe, 63, a.) and that according to Saint Paul (1st Epistle (To the Thessalonians, 2:15) they are enemies of all Men: "O Thessalonians, you have suffered the same persecutions that the churches of Judea had to endure to bear on behalf of the Jews, who put the Lord to death Jesus, and the prophets, who persecuted us, who did not displease God and are enemies of all men."

eZ

196 THE VIPER BREED

XIX

JEWISH IMPUDENCE. JOSEPH REYNACH.

Before outlining the consequences of the rights that the Jews, by virtue of their status, consider themselves superior to us.

Note the brazenness with which they exercise them.

Schopenhauer points out that all those who They studied the national character of the Jews and were struck of this prodigious absence of everything we calllons "verecundia", (modesty, restraint) which is the vice the most salient of all and which serves them most in the world than the finest qualities.

For my part, however, I see nothing surprising about it.
While acknowledging the Jewish cynicism, I find it very natural and the
The opposite would be surprising, even inexplicable.

What! Are you embarrassed in front of your dog?
Well, the Jew no longer has to hold back in front of us.

Aren't we dogs, mere animals to him?
eyes ?

Moreover, they are not seeking this impudence at all.
On the contrary, they pride themselves on denying it. What a No well-bred person would dare say, the Talmud is-press to announce it to us, without ambiguity, as being the the simplest thing in the world.

"All Jewish priests," he asserts, "are shameless."
(XV. Tr. Kidduschim, 70, b.)

Then, no doubt thinking he was flattering them, he addressed them, not without Emphasis, to all Jews as a whole, the same praise. It's very Delicate: let us judge for ourselves.

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 197

"Three creatures are cheeky," he teaches, "dogs among the quadrupeds, the rooster among the birds, and Israel among the peoples." Or again:

"The three most shameless species of creatures and The most impertinent are: among the quadrupeds dogs; among domestic animals, goats and "Among the peoples, the Jews." (Tr V. Betza, 6, b.)

Mr. Weill, this panegyrist of the Rothschilds, of whom we We've already met, can give us a the idea of this tact, this good taste, and this high education which, according to the Talmud, distinguishes the Jew.

As for compliments, here are the ones he gives us.
in his Catholic and atheist France: "Human brutes (the (Christians, our ancestors). – Bunch of fools. – Stupid people.
– Catholic idiots, – Highway robbers. – Rotten wood. – Scoundrels. – Aryan beggars. – Dung.
– Whore. – Silly barbarians. – Scoundrels of the worst kind.
– Regimented brigands. – Cretin. – There is no ve-
"True and righteous among the Christians."

That's yet another kind gesture from him, that little word.
which he devotes to us, page 16: "Usually," he says, "modes-speaking of himself, he did not brandish his whip of a fiery prophet only to snap the fuse without knocking: then, referring to us, he adds; but for the Christian brigands and assassins he will use the sleeve. "

There are few Israelites who do not realize in Their people, this type of Jewish inverecundia. He is one of them. However, the reader will allow me to present it to him if he has not yet had the opportunity to admire it in the portrait according to what the eminent director of La Libre Parole had to say. This is Mr. Joseph Reinach.

198 THE VIPER BREED

This prudish Israelite (for he is not Jewish) had been able to— He published a pamphlet entitled "History of an Ideal." status of nephew, son-in-law and heir of the infamous baron Von Reinach advised him to seek oblivion in the re— Treats and silence. But no. Probably unconscious. of his situation, or perhaps considering it as pec— Cadilles the immense wrongs of Von Reinach towards our country, he mentions, through a publication bearing his name, the memory of the great corrupter, he feels the need to maintain the public's understanding of his republican ideal, of his senses tender and delicate poetic moments. But Drumont the reminds us of the sense of reality and incongruity that, Without realizing it, he makes the following mistake: "the uncle's existence is a of the most curious lives of a cosmopolitan bandit who that one could imagine.

"Born in Hamburg, created an Italian baron, then a baron Prussian, the wretch did more moral harm to the France, which the Germans who invaded us with weapons by hand.

"He has debased everything, corrupted everything, defiled everything in our country. Or A Frenchman who would be the nephew and son-in-law of such a scoundrel, who would have been mixed with all the filth that made up the Von Reinach's life would have only one thought: to make himself or—to forget, to go hide in some discreet retreat, a name burdened with the anathemas and contempt of all.

"Joseph Reinach has none of these scruples, he will ra— He calmly recounts that he has heartaches, that he has been wounded in his delicate sense of the ideal, and which he regrets that the Republic has not fulfilled his poetic dream.

As if we could doubt it, Reinach insists on to persuade us that he possesses an ideal, a poetry, a dream
Of all that is great, the poetry of all that is beautiful.
Drumont suspected as much, so he adds:

EXPLANATION OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT 199

"The poetry of the Republic is signed: Joseph" Reinach, Member of Parliament. Is it beautiful? Is it complete? Is it Monumental? Is it disarming, I would readily say, by a kind of almost unconscious indecency like that Monkeys! Does that give you any idea what it's like?
that the true Jew, not only a stranger to all Verecundia, to all modesty, to all notion of honor, but closed even to any apprehension of ridicule, not
"not even suspecting the enormity of what he dares!"

Conclusion :

Considered from the point of view, I'm not saying Christian, but Simply human, natural, the Jew is cynical; to the point From a Jewish point of view, it is not; the animal, whatever its per-affection is not susceptible, is radically incapable to have moral relations with man: respect Strictly speaking, it cannot, under any circumstances, be owed to him; one has not
No need to hold back with him. But the non-Jew is merely an animal.
God willing... Israel.

For Israel, our human dignity to which we we mistakenly believe, is canceled, at least practically, by an inherent flaw. Isn't it revolting for us to have to reproduce, so as not to be accused of slander, some insults such as these: "Non-Jews are the product of mating between animals.

Marriage between Christians is a union similar to that of horses that live together; it is not obliga-Christian parents and children, having no human kinship between them, the son can marry his mother, etc., etc." (Talm. Ishbamot, p. 22.)

EX

Gomment voui bite ki chapell?

Lenculus!

What! You insult me!

Voye nan, ché chon nom cha!

We're going to fuck him conètre akoi cha cher un brou di kul!

Voy, voy voy! Mi fries abissan le voile noir, soufflon li candle, casting the anataime!

May a terrible colic strike her belly!

201

CHAPTER VII

LOGICAL AND PRACTICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT AGAINST OTHER RACES WITHOUT DISTINCTION.

FIRST CONSEQUENCE OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT.

the first consequence of this state of affairs whose existence the Jew revealed to us, is that we ! : . 1st
we do not have the right to start a family or to have children part. If this fictitious right exists in fact, the Jew has the power and the duty to repeal it, or to substitute another for it which,
In reality, it won't be one.

202 THE VIPER BREED

1
General principles.

To avoid giving a lecture on natural law here, social, commercial, etc., etc., we will not be for that superficial.

Undoubtedly, the in-depth study of the law, according to its different divisions, serves admirably for com- to take into account even the smallest details, and to judge them with Certainly, the most dis- applications and consequences aunts of the principles; but we do not have the pretension to become lawyers.

We will simply reiterate the essential principles of natural, common, and universal law. Their light... will suffice to confound the absurdities of the consequences practices of Talmudic law in Israel.

Our reason is forced to recognize that the Author of the universe, by drawing the world from nothingness through its own action of his omnipotence, creation, necessarily owed to because of his infinite wisdom which governs all his works, to propose an ending.

However, it is more accurate to say that this end, he did not He did not, strictly speaking, propose it of his own accord. but to the beings of creation, each according to its nature.

God, in fact, is perfection itself, infinite, person-nified; the fullness of all good positively excluding all limits; everything depends on him, he depends on nothing; he can spread the treasures of his goodness, communicate his proper vis to intelligent and loving beings and make them participants in its nature and its happiness, but neither its happiness, neither his nature, nor his life, nor his goodness, nor any of his persons affections cannot receive an increase: it is up to him- even his own end, his own happiness.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 203

It is therefore impossible for God to strive towards an end, of which obtaining it could modify it under any rap- port, adding to its perfection, happiness, or glory.

But God necessarily loves order and goodness, and does not It's impossible not to love it. He absolutely hates disorder. evil, and cannot help but hate it.

Now, creatures, according to the different degrees of their per-essential or accidental infection, are necessarily also subordinate to one another and conspire all towards the same universal end, the inferiors by the averages, averages by higher values, and these by God: it is in this order that they tend towards the end universal creation.

So what is the ultimate goal, the final end to which Did God coordinate the visible world? For it is from this un- towards which we contemplate and of which we are a part that it is.

It is, and could have been, nothing other than the glorification of God, the outward glory of God, through man, the head- of work and the king of visible creation.

"Like the Creator," says Taparelli d'Azeglio in his Elementary Course in Natural Law, page 18, as the The Creator could only act for his own glory, which is evident of the manifestation he makes of himself, and that this ma- Invention is in itself of a moral order, since it cannot to become aware that intelligent and loving beings are the result that the entire universe is directed towards moral order and is subordinate.

Knowledge and love of brutes not exceeding not reaching the sensible order and not attaining the spiritual order, the man who admires in them goodness, wisdom, and all God's power compensates for their incapacity and their im- power and glorify God for them.

204, THE VIPER BREED

Strive for pleasure, that would be the first principle of mo- the moral philosophy of simple animals, if one could compose one for their use; their knowledge not going beyond sensitivity, the ideal of which is pleasure Sir, their tendency must be proportionate to it.

On the contrary, the first moral principle applied to life The human condition is usually formulated as follows: fen- dice in order; now order is good, and since good is perfection, striving for order, is reduced to: striving for perfection.

Our perfection therefore consists in order, known and freely accepted in our actions; or in other In terms, it consists of morality.

What then is morality?

This is the freely chosen proportion that exists between the human act and the ultimate end of man.

And moral order is nothing other than physical order freely ordered and directed by the intelligent being towards its own end.

This proportion that must exist between our actions and our ultimate end is not something indifferent or facultative.
It is an inflexible law; not even God can to repeal it since it is based on the immutable essence things.

Considered in God, this law is called the Eternal Law.
It is God's will, constant and necessary, guided by his supreme wisdom, to order all things to their end.

The reason for this law, eternal in God, is the essence even of the divine being (and the essence of things in relation to-(carrying with her), the goodness of God, his infinite wisdom, his a necessary love of order and justice. "I observe, said Cicero, that the teaching of the greatest scholars

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 205

has always been that the law (the law par excellence, the foundation) of any other law) is not a discovery of human genius hand, nor any knowledge common to all the peoples, but something eternal that directs and governs the entire universe, with the supreme wisdom of order-to fight and to defend.

Hanc video sapientissimorum fuisse sententiam, the-gem neque hominum ingeniis exogitatam, neque scitum aliquod esse populorum, sed æternum quiddam, quod universum mundum regeret, prohibendū imperandi sapientia (L. 11, from Legibus).

This law, God could only abolish by re-denying himself, which is impossible, since God is Being necessary.

All beings, whether endowed with freedom or not, are subject to him. put; it is from her that all other laws derive, and to whom They borrow their fairness and their binding power.

It is promulgated to man by his reason, and it It then takes the name of natural law. Constituted from eternity by the author of nature, it is not only directive, but coercive.

God imposes it on us; he cannot not impose it on us. ser. Necessarily he approves, likes and rewards it faithful observation; necessarily, he also disapproves of it. It hates and punishes transgression. It cannot be otherwise. Therefore, he will never be indifferent to this matter.

For our part, we must always take into account this supreme goodness, wisdom and justice; that is to say, with God; for none of our actions can— before being practically indifferent, they will always or conform to or disagree with this law, and, by the fact even if they are pleasing or disagreeable to the eternal Lawgiver, and inevitably worthy of reward or punishment.

206 THE VIPER BREED

Natural law is something no one can ignore.

The great doctor of nations teaches us that the Gentiles who have not received from God, like the Jews First, and then the Christians, of positive (or written) law, do naturally, the things that natural law commands.

"Not having this positive law, they are to themselves the law, and they show that what natural law ordains, is written in their hearts, by the testimony that they give their own conscience." (Romans 11:14–15)

"This law, which is engraved in hearts by the author of Nature, adds Saint Jerome, Letter to Algas, question 8, contains in embryo all the notions of morality, and it "There is no one who can ignore it." And Saint Ambrose, Letter 71, "this law," he said, "is not written, it is innate." in man; it was not reading that bound the man— celebrated, but it is expressed in each of us by the "The intellectual power of our reason."

Let us conclude with these two definitions, one of the law of eternal as a rule of human actions, borrowed from saint Augustine; the other on natural law according to Saint Thomas of Aquinas.

The eternal law is divine reason or the will of God, by which he commands us to observe the order natural of creation, and forbids us to transgress it: Lex aeterna est ratio divina vel voluntas Dei, ordinem naturalem conservari iubens, perturbari vetans.

Natural law is participation in eternal law in man, a creature endowed with reason. Lex naturalis is participatio legis aeternae in rationali creatura.

By walking along this path we arrive at the One who laid it out for us; we build our perfection; we Let us hoard the highest merits that have been given to us. to acquire.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 207

By following this order, we reach the One who gave it to us. prescribed, we achieve our goal, we obtain our happiness, God, who alone is its object.

Apart from God, nothing can fully satisfy us. to do; no object can equal and fulfill our power-cognitive and affective capacity; we know and we We like better, we aspire to better, and we have a right to better. we are forced to look for something better, we need to be Absolutely better.

Our perfection and our happiness in this life which is the consistent path:

Perfection, in the alignment of our actions with their rule, natural law, reflection of eternal law, and with the other laws derived from it, promulgated either by God, either by its legitimate representatives;

And happiness, in the possession of God, is perfect. Legally, imperfect in fact, because here below we know

God, but imperfectly, this knowledge being purely abstractive and non-intuitive.

Despite this, happiness derived from knowledge perfect abstraction, would be our perfect happiness, in the natural order. Our natural capacity, in fact, is limited There; we have no superior rights.

However, although there is nothing positive in our nature for a supernatural happiness, clean only and exclusively from God, infinitely superior to him who is owed to us, nothing opposes the purely gratifying the nature of humankind in relation to this uncreated, infinite, supernatural. What was possible, God did. That is God, seen Intuitively, who will emerge victorious after the ordeal? endured, our reward and the object of our happiness, in future life. Happiness and life which are the participation of the life and the happiness of God himself.

208 THE VIPER BREED

But for the needs of material life and especially for the perfection of his intelligence and will, Man needs the help of his fellow men. Alone, he would achieve neither the perfection to which he should aspire, nor its ultimate end, (morally speaking).

He is also naturally sociable, that is to say that he (all men) are obliged by natural law to want for his fellow men, the good he desires for himself and therefore, to procure it for them according to their means, positively, by promoting their rights; negatively, by not not harming them. This obligation that he cannot decline, neither in In principle, nor practically, does it lead him in fact to the Society. within which, and to be a part of it, he is by his nature, destined to live.

"We will call sociability," said Taparelli, "this imreasonable impulse by which man is obliged to to want what is best for other men, and to cooperate in this with them." Sociability (doing good to others) is the application of the first moral principle (strive for order, tend- (to perfection). It is the first principle of all the social duties.

Since order is the greatest of goods to which

Man aspires to sociability on earth, primarily with the aim of communicating the benefits of order to others; and She subordinates all other love to it.

These immutable principles may at first glance appear to be foreign to our subject. On the contrary, we will see that they are very necessary to understand and refute the theologies of Israel.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 209

2 Carpentras I'

The first of the companies, united in its founders by a naturally indissoluble link, foundation and nursery of all other societies, it is the conjugal society, the fatherland, or domestic society.

This is because the natural institution of the family is for us a strength and a protection, at the same time that a school where we receive physical training and morality for the struggles of life, that it becomes an obstacle for the development and free exercise of Jewish law.

The man, therefore (the Jew), will attack the animal. (us) in its simulacrum of a human family.

He will invent and have imposed by law, divorce (a divorce (Jewish type), which breaks the marital bond, simultaneously builds stability, prosperity and love of the domestic home and of the marital union.

In many cases, the child will not even be able to know the obedience and respect due to the authors of his days, and, after having been a stranger to his family, he will be still treated as a foreigner in The Land of His Fathers, by these same cosmopolitan Jews, naturalized yesterday, of whom he will be became a slave.

The promoter of this type of divorce is Carpentras I', this poorly finished draft.

Here's how this gold leaf for regeneration-tion of race, formulated the finest argument he drew of his hump; "Marriage is the cause of degeneration" of the race."

Isn't this oddly shaped Jew, half proboscidean, comical? Half camel, talking about regeneration through divorce!

210 THE VIPER BREED

One shouldn't speak of rope in the house of a pendu. Do you really think you're Apollo's rival? For the realization of this beautiful dream you should have waited until the sixth divorce (what a regeneration then!) of dad to make your entry into this world. So, infection of the stables of the Republic, we could expect nothing less from you.

Here he is, the Israelite (for he is one), professor of divinity, a prayer for the use of Christians, of our mothers, of our daughters, of our sisters.

It is not in our institutions, nor in our temperament of being like those nomads of the homeland, the no-wedding gifts.

For them, they have nothing to lose, not considering in the marriage, custom, and proliferation. As soon as the object no longer pleases them, they exchange it for another: "Oh my goddamn it!" Repecga, my dear Rajel! Fulez-fus gue nous nus aimions Bour Guelgues years, Bour Guelgues months, Bour Guelgues "Churs beut-être! – Fui, mon tous Apraham!"

On what grounds can one divorce, the treaty asks.
XVI, Gittin, 90, a. ? And he replies:

"If your wife has let the vegetables burn; if you..."
Have you found a prettier one; or if she's not honest?

The unreserved gift of oneself to the beloved
And without turning back, eternal love, sacrifice, are for them something unknown.

Let him traffic in smokeless powder, this pagan unparalleled triote, capable of remaining hidden in a trunk in case of danger, or else he'll tell us what's going on.

his spiel about his marvelous Macassar, regenerahair type:

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 211

CHANGE OF ADDRESS MACASSAR NAQUET

Vegetable oil, the only one recognized as infallible
To beautify and regenerate hair.

L Place de l'Opéra, formerly Palais-Royal, 132.

but let him stop profaning our Christian families and our legitimate loves.

His patriotism did not degenerate over time; he did not
It has lost none of its purity.

Here are two letters published by La Libre Parole of December 13, 1896. It is Mr. Naquet who writes to Mr.
Louis Martin, a Freemason publicist, and in which the apostle of Boulangism openly displays his feelings Anglophile comments.

First letter:

Paris, October 8, 1896

"I've read Joan of Arc. It's perfect. Your ideas are conforming to my own. What a great nation we would make!
England and us, united as one nation if Joan d'Arc had not existed.

He doesn't say France and England, England comes first. Naquet has already forgotten Floquet and his; Long live the Poland, sir! Really, we don't understand.

The same day.

Naquet to Louis Martin:

"I concluded by sending you all my comments Compliments on Joan of Arc. I completely agree with you.
way of seeing things and I cannot think without sadness of What a great nation we would be if England and France

212 THE VIPER BREED

constituted a single nation which, consequently, during For six centuries, the efforts would have merged instead of neutralize. But please do not print any of these.
Compliments; we live in an era where everything is distorted and where I would undoubtedly be accused of lacking patriotism because of these emi- sentiments patriotic sentiments that would be incomprehensible.
my status as a politician targeted, since the bakergism, by all the ill will, I must guard myself-
"A fight against slander."

No Frenchman is thinking of attacking Mr. Naquet by the Slander. Isn't the real slanderer here Mr. Naquet? who is slandering himself? Because on one hand he is animated, he said, of eminently patriotic sentiments (which (we have no doubt) and on the other hand by reading his letters without altering them – there would be no advantage to that – doesn't it seem that he resents the independence of the France? Wouldn't you say he even regrets that the noble Did a heroine who freed her from English rule actually exist? I He repeats, the need to distort his letters is not to feel, but if they are not commented on by N. Naquet Can we, ourselves, understand what these senses mean?
eminently patriotic sentiments? And in our turn,
Should we not regret that he was not a contemporary?
from Joan of Arc to advise him not to drive out the English outside of France? Mr. Naquet probably refers to absolutely during the time of Charles VII, because nowadays, it does not would not want the English yoke. But in 1430 the ancestors
The de Naquets were not French citizens. By what right?
So could these citizens of the ghetto have said: we:
What a great nation we would be if, etc... Naquet, moreover
If he had existed then, he would not have dared to speak the way he did.
seeks to keep it secret even today; not only-

We wouldn't have understood it; but we would have taken it in bad part and the first Frenchman who came along would have sent Naquet and his hump and his eminently patriotic sentiments—ticks rolling in the stream.

There are people who argue that enslavement
The goal pursued is the union of France with England.
by cosmopolitan Jewry. For the Jews, they say, the Catholicism with its doctrine of charity, heroism and Catholicism, the enemy, is a symbol of sacrifice. Veiled for—What do they conclude is that the Jews want a Protestant France?
aunt under John Bull's heel. But that's enough of Mr. Naquet, about his divorce and his feelings.

As for the relentless war against the family and the ma-
Christian marriage and which must continue without truce or mer-Here, all Israelites agree. The Jews themselves will provide their testimony to prove this point.
That's a serious assertion.

Sir John Readcliffe, in his work entitled: (Account rendering of the political and historical events that occurred in the last ten years) brings to our attention, the A speech by a chief rabbi, in which the following are revealed tactics, the attack plan, and advice addressed to all the Israelites of the universe in extreme circumstances—solemnly.

This speech begins as follows:

“Our fathers bequeathed to the chosen people of Israel the duty to to gather, at least once every century, around the tomb from the great master Caleb, holy rabbi Symeon-ben-Jhuda, whose science, delivered to the chosen of each generation, the power over the whole earth (no small feat) and authority on all the descendants of Israel. For eighteen centuries (it (This meeting took place only about ten years ago.)
The war of the people of Israel has lasted for eighteen centuries.

214, THE BREED OF VIPERS

against this power that had been promised to Abraham, but which had been taken from her by the Cross.

Regarding the hatred that animates Israel against the family of the non-Jew in general, and especially centered on the family As a Catholic, he expressed himself in these terms:

"It would be desirable for the Israelites to abstain" to have as mistresses women of our holy religion gion, and that they choose them for this role from among the Virgins Christians.

"Replacing the sacrament of marriage in the Church with a simple contract before any civil authority, se- would be of great importance to us, because then the Christian women would flock to our camp.

First, Rabbi, preserve the feminine world of the Jewish community, from which the first aristocracy was recruited prostitution.

"Once we have absolute control of the press, we will be able to to change our ideas about honor and virtue as we please, on uprightness of character, and to make the first attack and the first blow to this sacrosanct institution until "present, the family, and consummate its dissolution." Legal cohabitation and prostitution, such is the ideal fate for non-Jewish women, by Israel.

3

Cases in which marriage is legitimate contracted, can be cancelled.

Therefore, we say, in accordance with the doctrine of the Church, that marriage is indissoluble, by natural law and that no purely human authority can, in all-

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 215

In any case, to prevent the subsequent marriage union The one she would claim to have annulled, is not adultery.

However, as the natural law on which it is based The indissolubility of the marital bond is a so-called se- right

Secondly, God, who is the author of marriage, can for some for just and serious reasons, to declare this indissolubility, not existing.

Primary natural law never admits of exception. tion; for example, marriage between parents and their children, no one by virtue of primary natural law, can to be legitimized in no case; while second- daire can be repealed, as we have indicated higher.

In the past, marriage could be annulled by the the libel of repudiation that Moses granted to the Jews, according the power that God had given him.

This privilege no longer exists since God abolished the Mosaic law through evangelical law.

With regard to the infidels, that is to say, any person for a married woman who converts to the Christian faith, there exists for the annulment of their marriage contracted before their baptism tême, what is called, The privilege of the Christian faith.

Here are the conditions for cancelling the Marriage of infidels who became Christians:

Any married person, unbaptized, Jewish, Muslims, etc., etc., can marry:

1. If the other party remains unfaithful and does not want not cohabit;
- 2° Or if she does not want to cohabit without offense to the Creator;
- 3° After his baptism;
- 4° With a Christian person (January 16, 1863, (sacred congress of the Propagation of the Faith)

216 THE VIPER BREED

Under these conditions, the converted part can be re-laughter; by this new marriage the old place is broken and therefore even the unfaithful spouse can remarry second marriage.

For Christians:

Every consummated marriage is always indissoluble.
As for an unconsummated marriage, it can be dissolved:

1° By the solemn religious profession of one of both parties; if the vows are not solemn—the dispensation granted by the Pope is necessary—saare. In these cases as well, the other partner can to remarry;

2. The reasons why the Sovereign Pontiff can still dissolve an unconsummated marriage must always be essentially serious, by example :

The danger of incontinence, which gives rise to:

The refusal by one of the parties to fulfill their obligations intimates of the marriage;

Life imprisonment, or long-term imprisonment one of the spouses;

A physical impediment, etc.

These causes alone are not sufficient; the dis-Papal thought is still necessary.

—

=

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 217

He

SECOND CONSEQUENCE OF THE JEWISH SPIRIT.

Non-Jews do not have the right to own property.

1

The Rabbinic Code and the property of non-Jews.

Of more or less noble origin, beings endowed with reason or not, the fact remains that we must live and we must provide the means of subsistence.

But that would still be to underestimate the King of the creation, "Israel, to whom God has given all power over the possessions and the blood of all peoples." (Talm. Seph. 1. xF 25.)

Therefore, he proclaims, the Goy is my property, my possession, he does not live only by my good pleasure.

"The property of non-Jews is like the things abandoned in the desert, like the sand of the sea, like a desert; the first occupant will be the true owner." (Baba Baria, in Pfefferkorn. Dissert. phil. p. 11.)

All the more reason, then, to appropriate everything that the non-Jew loses; "to restore to him what he has lost, this would be to render oneself unworthy of God's forgiveness. (Talm. Baba Koummah. f. 29.)

Because "to give back to the Goy what he has lost is to commit a sin; the miscalculation he makes to his own detriment, "It falls into the same category as what it loses." (Maimonides, (of Rape, etc. chap. x1.)

218 THE VIPER BREED

Mr. Bernard Lazare expounding the doctrine of the Talmud On this point, he writes: "The other men are placed below the Hebrews; they only have a right to it by pity. divine munificence, since only the souls of the Jews descend from the first man.

"The goods that are delegated to the nations, appear in reality they are related to Israel, and we see Jesus, himself even, to answer the Greek woman:

"It is not good to take the children's bread for the
"To throw to the dogs." (Antisemitism, etc., p. 9.)

So many words, so many colossal errors.

What philosophy did the authors of the Talmud adopt?
found that the human soul, a spiritual substance, is communicated to man through generation?

And the small dogs, whose property belongs to reality in Israel? And we see Jesus himself doing to The apostles gave this commandment: Preach the Gospel to all the nations. Now, it is to be believed that for Jesus himself, Those who embrace his faith are not dogs.
but rather those who do not believe in him: Foris canes, to the
"The dogs carry the dogs," said Saint John the Apostle, referring to them.
Let's continue.

Therefore, the question is clearly settled:
So many properties owned by the French, so many poorly managed assets.
who, illegitimate, defrauded in Israel, and on the contrary as much of thefts committed by Jews against the French, so many goods returned to the possession of their sole owners and true owners.

"The riches that Israel has not yet seized,
The Talmud says that they delay the fulfillment of its inenar-
"We have made difficult choices, strengthening the hands of slaves."
Here are the slaves now.

"All means are lawful to plunder the in-

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 219

just holders of earthly goods, on the sole condition not to compromise the good reputation of the people elected.

Hence these crimes, of such consummate perversity, which The Tsraelite Cerfbeer lists them: "The swindle, the falsehoods, usury, embezzlement, fraudulent bankruptcy, the smuggling, counterfeit money, fraud in matters recruitment, staffing (1), extortion, fraud, fraud, finally, in all its forms and with all its aggravating factors
"vations." This justice must be done to the Israelite Cerfbeer that, in order to be a good panegyrist of Israel, he is a good panegyrist of Israel.

There's no need to add any more facts here; each day brings its own. contingent. We only need to read mainly the works de Drumont, La libre Parole, La Gazette des tribunaux, The Judicial Chronicles. The secret of... will be found there. immense Jewish fortunes and the roundup, as well as the thousands lions of the capitalist than of the modest savings of the small scattered French GN player.

To the other unflattering titles which, alas!, are fitting! to the period of these last twenty-five years and which- should excite in us regret and shame for our great- our lost prosperity and freedoms, (not (If it were only the wicked law) we could add this one:

The story of the fabulous financial raids and the shearing down to the bone, carried out with impunity by Israel on the State and on French citizens.

1. – Lenculus's Note – Legal concept covering under its terms the alienation of another's property or the constitution- protection of a mortgage on the property of another, or, during a sale, the act of concealing from the buyer the existence of a mortgage A mortgage encumbering the building. Embezzlement is a civil offense. sanctioned by the nullity of the operation.

220 THE VIPER BREED

2

The Kahal or expropriation tribunal of property of non-Jews and exploitation of their persons.

The description of Kahal (Kalixt de Wolsky, Russia) Jewish) introduces us more intimately to the secrets of Islamic law. Raelite and shows us what they are everywhere, for Israel, not only property, but even people foreign to his nationality.

These details are taken from the Book on Kahal published in the language Russian, in Vilna, in 1870, by Brafmann, a converted Israelite.

This book on the Kahal, says the author of Jewish Russia, has thrown such a disturbance among the Jews who live in the Russia, through the revelation of their most intimate secrets, that, in a very short time, all copies of the first editions were bought by the Jews themselves, and by them destroyed, or burned, or hidden.

However, Wolsky was able to preserve one of these volumes, from the auto-da-fé to which it was destined.

"It's a collection of translated extracts from different languages" (so the Kahal works in all countries, from (at least one could not believe it?) and of different "These are the eras that give it its merit and guarantee its sincerity."

"A lot has been written," de Wolsky told us, "about a very large, very powerful corporation, by the capital-rates at its disposal, and which, by virtue of the right of asylum and civil rights which it enjoys everywhere has constituted itself as a separate state, within each state. Fragmented within each locality, as an autonomous population, it obeys a kind of a shadowy government, both administrative and judicial. represented, one by the Kahal, or administrative commission-one, and the other, by the Bet-dine or judicial court.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 221

This corporation is all of Israel, scattered across bodies, but united in spirit, purpose and means.

The Kahal is invested everywhere with a double right unknown-tested, rights over persons, rights over property and prayers of non-Jews.

"In the acts and documents cited from the Book on the Kahal we will see that the Kahal, in each district it governs despotically, he sold to the Jews, Hazaka and Meropiüé. that is to say, the right to exploit not only the property movable property, belonging to individuals who are not "Jews, but also the people themselves." Brafmann.

The Kahal, therefore, grants itself the right to sell and actually sells to Jews properties belonging to Foreigners. But in what sense?

The Israelite would answer you, if he could betray the secrets from the Talmud, that for reasons known only to him, these properties are likened to a free desert, belonging to Israel, or to a large open lake in which, that Only he who has purchased the right to cast his nets from Kahal can do so.

"To those not initiated into the dark secrets, into the ma-Chiavellianism of the Kahal, this sale, says Wolsky, can to seem an inexplicable enigma.

"Indeed," he continued, "let us suppose that the Kahal, according to the attributions he gave himself, sells to the Jew Z, the pro-property of a non-Jewish individual B, property which, according to the laws of the country, belongs inviolably to the latter.

"This sale was made, needless to say, without our knowledge, and without the consent of the true owner.

"Herein lies the question: what benefit can the Jewish, by right to the property sold to him by the Kahal, right for which he paid?

"Non-Jew B will not cede his property to Jew 4" for this sole reason, that the Kahal invested the latter of an alleged property right, and the Kahal, for its part, does not have the power to expropriate the non-Jew B...

222 THE VIPER BREED

"What did the Jew buy, and why did he pay into the Kahal's treasury, the amount of the acquisition of the pro-Priesthood belonging to non-Jew B? It is the Hazaka, that Jew 4 bought from Kahal, that is to say, the exclusive right to exploit the property of individual B, to be able to do so alone renting the house and conducting any kind of business there, of subletting the parts of the pro-property which he could not use; to have the right exclusive of lending at usury to the owner as well as to others tenants of the house; finally (as specified in the deed of sale carried out by the Kahal for the benefit of the Jew), to employ every possible and imaginable means to make it rather than he can, the true master of the property, whose exploitation rights he purchased. When the Kahal sells the right of Meriiope (non-Jewish individual), that is to say the exploitation of the individuality of a non-Jewish person who does not own property, it is stated in the deed of sale that:

"The buyer alone has the right to lend at usury to the individual-of the non-Jew, whose farm was sold to him;

"Other Jews are forbidden to enter, in any way-" whatever it may be, in business with this individual;

"The buyer alone can and must invent all the means to confuse this individual's situation in order to to drive more surely and as quickly as possible to ruin, even to dishonor; for the properties of the Gentiles, as well as the Goyim themselves, are, according to Jewish law, Hefker (free exploitation) until ruin.

The numerous acts and documents that Brafmann cites
In support of these statements, they raise the curtain which, since
For so many centuries, it hid from the eyes of the world the im-

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 223

penetrable of the kingdom of Israel; they illuminate this obscurdeep ritual with which Jewishness is veiled, and, for the first Once, Heder Kahal (the Kahal chamber) emerges from the darkness underground and reveals the actions of this secret tribunal to-what, in all times and in all countries, the popula-
"Jewish tradition has been and remains blindly submissive." – Wolsky

On these matters, let's not rely on consultations and to the opinions of political economy professionals.
We know all too well that these false pontiffs of a illusory science, do little more than wrap things up under specious words, the immoral and cynical theory of this academy of moral and political sciences, which has for Gods, Mammon, and Malthus.

"The Jew pays them to maximize the harmful practices-ticks of Israel; they obey and are decorated.

"This immense system of scams and lies" and fraud, it's just a continuation of banditry from the earliest ages, Bedouin raids, abductions of herds, kidnappings of free men that one transformed into slaves.

"Presiding over this, we see the old Israel which, with an implacable perseverance, with the inexorable universallism, which the Archives israélites discuss, continues the pro-mass of universal domination which was performed for him by his prophets, forgetting that the crime of Golgotha has everything erased, to imprint on the foreheads of the Damned, the sign of "Reprobation." Drumont, Libre Parole, February 28, 1896.

eZ

224, THE BREED OF VIPERS

III

THIRD CONSEQUENCE THAT FOLLOWS FROM THE JEWISH SPIRIT OR THE DEFINITION OF JEW.

Exclusion of the Goy from an eternal destiny.

1

Truth and virtue, enemies of the Jew.

No more than for the family and for the right to property-
The non-Jew is not constituted for an immortal end.
The soul does not survive its earthly existence

Perfected biped; superior to the ape in form Externally, it is permissible to say of him, as of everything Another subject from the purely animal kingdom: the beast is dead.
The poison is dead. So decreed the children of Jacob.

Knowing the Jew's instincts, his insatiable greed-his cowardly arrogance at being supposedly superior and his rage of tyrannical and universal domination, this dogma Includes. Born from the very bowels of the race (nothing from reason), It's a patch on an old garment, sewn with white thread.

"Here is the obstacle," said Judah: "If we allow the Goyim, striving for eternal happiness, makes of the aggregation of all goods, and meeting the requirements of a spiritual soul, as well as justice and goodness God; if they conform their actions to the prescriptions of eternal Wisdom and Justice, whose natural law is the promulgation; if, distinguishing between light and the darkness, between good and evil, they love virtue and re-

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 225

prove the crime, they will be tempted to believe that it has arrived seen; that they are truly men; that they must to enjoy, at least in their own country, the same rights and privileges Israel! It would be just as well to burn the Shulchan Aruch.

"No, that won't happen. Back to your kennel, dog! The bone I..."
I would gladly throw you, O Goy, I, Israel, your master: behold your happiness, and when you have ceased to live, everything that which is of you, with your madness of immortality, of eternity and of celestial magnitudes, will be buried under a few feet of "Earth. Death to the best of the Gentiles!"

They would like to make us all slaves to their Thank you, or even, exterminate us to the last man, for to comply with the requirements of their legislators, but, postponing, and for good reason, the fulfillment of this desire, to the coming of the Messiah, which, if we are to believe them, is imminent.
In the meantime, they are forced to exercise restraint, to cunning and hypocritical maneuvers, in countries where they do not are only a few hundred thousand, as in France.
in a population of which 95% are Christian.

Their situation is therefore as follows:

Despite the fact that their formal law is: "that they must externalize to undermine the best of the non-Jews; that it is not right (to their (from their point of view) to show mercy to us, it is to them allowed to be hypocritical towards us, when man (the (Jew) the necessary judge, or else, if he is afraid. (Tr. Sota, f. 41.)

Mr. Bernard Lazare himself, in his Anti-Semitism, p-291, arguing for and against, tells us. "Among the Jews, it is said, these precepts of unheard-of ferocity, from the Talmud, these represent only personal opinions, we find-would see alongside them moral formulas, equally humane, also fraternal (yes sir, but exclusively in favor of men, of Jews, once again) also pi-more acceptable than Christian formulas. That's right, and in the spirit of the Fathers who wrote these collected sayings in Pirkei Ahot, these humanitarian sentences had a general sense, but the medieval Jew, who found them in his book, he attributed a restricted meaning to them; he applied them—"as to those of his nation." Mr. Bernard Lazare does not want Note that these are not the Jews of the Middle Ages, but the Talmud itself, which for centuries had made this restriction, in favor of "the chosen people, the divine nation." Mr. Bernard Lazare himself provides proof of this. "Why," he continued, "why this restriction?" Because this book, the Talmud, also contained selfish, ferocious and national precepts directed against foreigners. Preserved in this book, whose authority was (is) immense, in this Talmud which was (is) for the Jews a code, an expression of their nationality, a code that was their soul and the creator of their race, (despite it being the race that created the Talmud) these statements, cruel or narrow, acquire a force, if not legal, at least morale. The Talmudic Jew who met them attributed to them a permanent value, he did not apply them alone—against the Greek, Roman, and Minaean enemies, he applied them As for all his enemies, he made it a general rule towards them strangers to his religion, his law, and his beliefs. One The day came when the Jew in Europe had only one enemy: the Christian. yours, who persecuted him, pursued him, massacred him, (for his crimes) burned him, tortured him (as a form of re-sailles). He could therefore not feel for the Christian a a very tender feeling, especially since all the efforts this Christian tended to destroy Judaism, to abolish this religion (ritual murders, usury, etc., etc.) which was now the Jewish homeland. The goy of the Maccabees, the undermined by the doctors, the Christian became, and to the Christian one applied (applies) all the words of hatred, of anger, of furious despair that were (are) in the book. For the Christian, the Jew was the abject being, (his principles) cipes and his conduct) but for the Jew, the Christian was the Goy, the abominable foreigner (in his own home), the one who does not fear not filth, (he fears and flees from theft, usury, monoples, stock market crashes, etc.) the one who mistreats the Chosen nation, the one by whom Judah suffers. (And Judas?) This word Goi contains all the anger, all the contempt, all the hatreds of persecuted Israel, (traitor and thief) against the foreigner ger (in our country), and this cruelty of the Jew towards the non-Being Jewish is one of the things that best shows how much the idea nationality was alive among the children of Jacob (living among nations that were not their own). They believed, They always believed they were a people. Do they still believe it? Today ?"

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 227

Indeed, Mr. Bernard, that's the crux of the matter. How will you go about proving the contrary, despite The evidence of the facts? How will you do it for us? to prove, if only by a few exceptions, that The French, at any time, and nowadays more than ever, have done, or are doing, something other than using the right of legitimate defense against Jews, or Israelites, As you wish?

It goes without saying that the words between parentheses These theses are not by Mr. Bernard Lazare. We have demonstrated the truth in the paragraph entitled: The Talmud is still the law for the Jewish nation.

As for Israel, it first obtained with the rights of the citizen, the confirmation of the freedom of his cult. But afterwards, Tartuffe of liberty, and under the pretext on freedom of conscience, by the most odious of contradictions, aided by his Freemasonry, he proscribed all the public manifestations of the cult of almost all French people, unlike the coutume, very praiseworthy, very beloved, and rightly so, confirmed by fourteen centuries of practice.

228 THE VIPER BREED

You who are taking exceptional measures against the Catholics, we should say to the Jews, inspirers and Perpetrators of these persecutions, do not profane liberty, by enacting them in his name. These acts, in a Catholic country- can they be called: a development The development of the principle of liberty? Don't they resemble each other? rather than an abuse of power? If, according to your own paroles, it's really about freedom, walk your ox bold, unfurl your banners, sing your professions of faith, in the streets and in public squares, but let- Set us free. Since it is proven that there is in our worship or in its free and public manifestation, among

In our France, there is neither conspiracy against the State, nor insulting to the beliefs of other French citizens, our brothers whom we respect and love, we pretend to be free, like you, in the exercise of our right, without in any way encroaching on that of our neighbors. You hold fast to your free thought and its public manifestations. Statement: On this ground, we are at least your equals.

Alas! It seems that our worship is nothing but idolatry. based on ignorance.

Its flaw lies in being based on achievement, to the letter, messianic prophecies, that is to say, about certain predictions (since they came true) that do not they can only have God himself as their author.

Indeed, their purpose was to discuss future events. pendants of free agents (and by no means, facts, of which the cause is a necessary agent, such as, for example, the (prediction of an eclipse, etc.) dependent, I say, on agents free, and which were only supposed to exist for several centuries after the prediction.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 229

Our worship has run its course, since its truth is confirmed by miracles performed on his behalf. Now the mid-Only God can produce it; there can be no God. for author, since it is indeed superior to the causes, to their way of acting, and to the order of all creation.

Finally, the Catholic faith is dying, even dead. Perhaps, at this hour. And the causes of his death? These The causes are, in addition to those listed above;

1° the truth of his doctrine recognized by the elite of scholars, artists, great men;

2° the theoretical and practical justice and sanctity of his laws and his advice, followed by the great saints, the honor of humankind.

Nothing works. They want the same dump truck

Remove our crucifixes along with the garbage and mud from the streets and our images of the Virgin Mary and the saints. Our schools communal, they say, our barracks, our prisons, our hospitals will no longer be dishonored by the presence of priests and nuns. To them, despite their ministry of With mercy, peace, and forgiveness, they laid their weapons at their feet. arm, bag on their back. From these they take their hands The bread of the poor. Our Lacordaire, our Bourdaloue, our new Vincent de Pauls, they expelled them from their houses, in their country.

To facilitate their work of progress and civilization, that is to say, the domination of the Jew, they would want, if they could, give us as spiritual leaders, this es- a kind of mute dogs, of which Scripture speaks, which, far from to awaken us at their approach, would lick the hand of those who would keep them on a leash. In short, to the mitre, They would also like to add the muzzle, like A gift for a happy occasion. Is it Mr. Dumay who... Will he deny it?

230 THE VIPER BREED

2

Results of religious persecution in at the instigation of the Jew.

This has earned us, over the last fifteen years, more than two hundred decrees, laws, and administrative acts principal ones, by which the government of the third Third Republic, a veritable machine in the hands of the Jews (Herz, Arton, Reynach, etc.) secularized, or destroyed, the religious institutions, customs and rights, the most respected tables and the best-founded. It so happens that, in fact In France, only Jews are subjected to religious persecution. and their lackeys, the Freemasons who practice it, tan- say that we leave them alone during the exercise of their worship, for which we pay the ministers, rabbis, etc., without them having any right to it, not having were wronged in their property, like the Catholic clergy.

Power, public education, the army, the family, Public assistance, the workshop, etc., were secularized, which equivalent to: official atheism, suppression of the sanctifica-

Sunday observance, of all prayers, of all signs, of all public act of religion, teaching of the catechism, religious teachers, chaplaincy; introduction of divorce, expulsion of the sisters from the hospitals, and more than ten a thousand French religious, from their houses; confiscation of hundreds of chapels, three-year military service imposed on religious figures, even priests, while the right to enter their lordship is taken from them, and an unjust tax is imposed to ruin them and destroy them; abolish several episcopal rights, suppression of treatment, and often, legal proceedings clerics against the most faithful priests and bishops; Military service sacrilegely imposed on the clergy, promised-cemeteries, reduction, and, in many respects, elimination of the Catholic Church's budget while those of the Protestant and Jewish faiths are either maintained or increased; prohibition of processions, encroachment of the State over divine worship itself, etc., etc.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 231

Such are the consequences of the most atrocious and the most the Jew's implacable hatred for the Christian name.

Snakes, you brood of vipers! The father from whom you were born is the devil, Jesus Christ told them, and you want to accomplish the desires of your father, father of lies and homicide from the very beginning. Why do you want to me? kill ?

Saint John the Baptist also called them a brood of vipers, and, Saint Stephen, the first Christian they killed, the addressed in these terms: "stiff-necked men, with the Stubborn, uncircumcised in heart and ears! You resist always to God. It is with you as with your fathers, who carried the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of their God Rempham, idols that they had made for the to worship. What prophet did your fathers not persecute? Cut? They killed those who foretold the coming of the Righteous One. "To whom you have been traitors and murderers!"

The union that can exist between this breed of vipers, between these children of the devil and the children of Jesus Christ, is the same as that which exists between Jesus Christ and the devil.

What infuriates the Jew against other peoples, sur-Everything against Christians is that, since the beginning of the

In Christianity, the roles are reversed: he, Israel, the chosen one of the law of Sinai and the old promise, is now only the Deicide, the Fallen One, the Accursed One, without ever wanting either the neither will recognize it, nor understand it.

He saw the Gentiles, converted to the law of Jesus Christ, to become the true Israel, the Israel of the new covenant, of which he, a Jew, was merely the figure. He sees the benedictions heavenly tions, forgetting the synagogue, fall in rain fruitful on the Catholic Church, this people of the law of grace, heir to the eternal Testament, the old one being the image, and, since that time, rejected Israel, has on its heart, this bitterness, reheated by the fires of jealousy and hatred, of which Drumont speaks, and where he vomits a drop of this bile, it is devastation.

232 THE VIPER BREED

3

Freemasonry
or the army of mercenaries duped by Israel.

Lor and the occult, but very real, power are for Israel; the crumbs, the parade, and the responsibilities are For the Mason, for our misfortunes, the Jew does not consume them Not immediately by himself. He operates in secret. and in the night, for he who does evil hates the light. He recruits followers, called Freemasons, because they demonstrate smooth to the advantage of the Jew, everything that would make their prosperity and their glory. First, he makes them suffer several resumed a kind of clownish, absurd spell and idiotic; he molds their brains in his own way, and then, he imposes its programs, the main articles of which are atheism, hatred and the destruction of Christianity, in beginning with Catholicism.

Provided that he works towards the implementation of his plan (universal domination) which he promises to reveal to them, but that he always keeps it secret, and that they will obey blindly-lying at his command, including, it is said, political assassination, They will have wealth and honors, the senatorial dignity, the a parliamentary mandate, a portfolio in the future ministry a high-ranking position in the Judiciary, in the Administration-tion, etc. etc.

With this system, there is no need to be an eagle, to perch at the top of the social ladder: failing of capacity, a vain eloquence, the stupid frenzy of sectarianism, etc., are a sufficient guarantee; the realization methodically progressive aspirations of Israel, It will nonetheless surely advance.

Mr. Bernard Lazare (Antisemitism, etc., page 232) and following) summarizes, concerning the origin of Freemasonry, the opinion (which is the true one), of the great authors Catholics who have addressed this very important issue.

"It is understandable," he writes, "that after the upheavals products of the French Revolution, the conservatives were called upon to hold the Jews responsible for the destruction of the old regime. When, the storm having passed, They glanced around them, one of the things that The situation of the situation must have surprised them the most, undoubtedly, was that Jew. Yesterday the Jew was nothing, he had no rights, no power, and today he shone in the front row; no not only was he rich, but also, as he paid the He was entitled to a certain income; he could vote and govern the country. That was he whom social change had most favored. In the eyes of those representing the past, of tradition, he appeared that a throne had been overthrown and European wars unleashed, solely so that the Jew could acquire the status of citizen, and the Declaration of the Rights of Man, "It seemed to have been nothing more than a declaration of the rights of the Jew."

All of this is very well said; it is the observation of a material fact. But what is the reason for this fact, of which the consequences all favorable to the Jews were taken against The French of such terrible proportions!

Mr. Lazare will answer us with his examination of the doctrine of the authors already mentioned.

234, THE BREED OF VIPERS

"However, it was necessary to explain how this Jew, me-prized and hated, considered a thing, had had the power to perform such actions, how he had possessing such formidable power. This is where it comes in. a theory, or rather a philosophy of history, familiar linked to Catholic polemicists. According to these historians, the French Revolution, whose repercussions were universal salt, and which transformed all the institutions of Europe Western, was merely the result and culmination of a centuries-old conspiracy. Those who attribute it to the movement-philosophical ment of the eighteenth century, to the excesses monarchical governments, to a transformation fatal economic downturn, leading to the decline of a class, to the weakening the formation of a form of capital, with its inevitable evolution concepts of state authority, to the expansion of the the concept of the individual, all of them, according to historians Those I'm talking about are seriously mistaken.

Indeed, since all these transformations, All these developments were prepared by the Jew, made to emerge, and brought to their current state by the actions of companies secret, founded, inspired and directed by him. Let's follow.

"They are blind people who cannot see the truth: the The Revolution was the work of one or more sects, including the foundation dates back to the most ancient times, sects driven by the same desire and the same principle: the de- their desire to dominate and the principle of destruction. These sects proceeded according to a clearly defined plan, implemented cable followed, to the destruction of the Monarchy and of the Church; through their countless branches, they have covered Europe with a tightly woven net and, with the help the darkest, most abominable means, they have managed to undermine the throne, which is the sole defender of social and religious order." (Note that the

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 235

A throne or royalty is not necessary for a reign of social or religious order; all forms There are good governments, there are only bad ones laws.)

"The genesis of this historical conception can be seen easily found. It originated during the Reign of Terror. same. The share that the Masonic lodges, the Illuminati, The Rosicrucians, the Martinists, etc., had taken to the Revolution, had deeply affected certain minds, which were led to amplify the influence and role of these societies. One of the things that most surprised these observers superficial (!) had been the international character of the The French Revolution of 1789, and the simultaneity of the movements that she had brought forth. They opposed her general action to the local action of previous revolutions, which had not agitated – as in England – than the countries in which They were born and, to explain this difference, they attributed the work to the centuries (of the Jews during the sixteen previous centuries) to a European association, having representatives in the midst of all nations, rather than to admit: "that the same stage of civilization, and of similar intellectual, social, moral and ecological causes software could have produced the same simultaneously effects.

The character of the Revolution was not international– Finally, it did not produce the same effects outside of France. This is evidenced by the coalition of all the major states of Europe against the French revolutionaries. Moreover, this The same stage of civilization was located in our country, and Yes, gradually it spread a little everywhere during the In the century that followed, it was solely thanks to the Jewish system. supported by the actions of Masonic lodges. There is no no other creator of the current state of affairs than the one who is the director and almost absolute master. Now this master It's Israel.

236 THE VIPER BREED

"The members of these lodges, these societies, themselves contributed to spreading this belief. They exaggerated They too considered their importance and they affirmed that not only– how they had, in the eighteenth century, worked on the change movement that was being prepared, which was the truth, but still They claimed to be its distant originators. The simultaneity of the revolutionary movement on dif– Different points in Europe prove that Judaism is cosmopolitan and universal parasite, simultaneously gave everywhere, the si– general of the assault on the troops (or rather, the dupes) that he had regimented and imbued with its principles of extermination against everything that resists its omnipotent domination. But if Judah, shrouded in the mystery of the lodges, directed He had also devised a way to attack (without exposing himself to blows). The plan was prepared and the execution was underway.

"The first writers who expounded these ideas, were limited themselves to noting the existence of a particular nation (the Jewish nation) which originated and grew in darkness, in the midst of all civilized nations, with the aim of subjecting them all to his domination, thus What does the Chevalier de Malet want to demonstrate? Men like Father Barruel, like Eckert, like Dom Deschamps, like Claudio Janet, like Crétineau Joly developed and systematized this theory, They even tried to demonstrate its reality. And they demonstrate victoriously, for the truth is but one, just as there is only one Father, one Director, and one The Jew, supreme master of Freemasonry.

Continue MB Lazarus "In all their works, they were led to examine what the situation had been Jews in these groups and sects, and struck by the analogies presented by the mystagogical rites (that is—that is to say, mystifiers) of Freemasonry with certain tra-Jewish and Kabbalistic editions, deluded! by all this Hebrew decor which characterizes initiations in the lodges, they concluded that the Jews had always been the inspirers, guides and masters of Freemasonry, (it is still so) even more so than they had were the founders, and that, with his help, they were continuing tenaciously the destruction of the Church since its founding tion. » This destruction, the Jews still pursue. "We went further down this path; we wanted to prove that the Jews had kept their national constitution, which they were still governed by princes, the Nassi, who led them to conquer the world, and that these enemies of humankind were in possession of an organization and a formidable tactic." All we have said so far proves the indisputable truth of what Mr. Bernard Lazarus dares to speak of prejudice. But his words, based on purely arbitrary assertions, they are swept away by the wind. because they do not withstand scrutiny, while the ve—the integrity of our texts and arguments is fully confirmed Disappointed by the facts, remains.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 237

Gougenot des Mousseaux, Rupert, of Saint-André, Abbot Chabauty supported these assertions, and we... We will prove it in more detail in our turn.

Let us conclude, therefore, with this same author, that the Jew is anti-Christian by definition and because he is Jewish, and adding-tons, that he directs all the efforts of secret societies against education, principles, institutions and the very existence of the Church, in order to bring about its ruin as much as is within his power, without ever letting up in the fulfillment of this antisocial and inhumane role.
Among thousands of pieces of evidence that we could proto duc, we will only mention one.

238 THE VIPER BREED

On June 11, 1879, the General Assembly of the Lodges decreed-
He said the following:

"Things to do in France and the North: dechristianizationsation by all means, but above all, by strangling Catholicism, little by little, each year, through laws news against the clergy." After having developed the es-Leo XIII took note of the acts and actions of the Freemasons.
he was not exaggerating when he proclaimed to the world that the Freemasonry is the foul cesspool where amassed banished all impurities, all sacrilegious practices and all the blasphemous formulas of the pre- cults the most infamous. (Encycl. Misari vos.) Here is how-are qualified by the most holy and most learned Pontiff, the sectarians that Israel has trained and leads.

Without the Jew as the inspirer and director of the war against the most divine and the most humane of institutions, the Church, which is able to explain that a Catholic athe attacks his fellow believer, solely because he is Catholic! How can one understand that a Christian, of-Having become a Freemason, he renounces his faith under the magisterium and by the demand of a Jew, inviolably attached to his own?
How could he, a Catholic and a Frenchman, vote for ex- laws?
ception against the followers of his cult, at the instigation of a
A foreign Jew, while this same Jew never ceases to beg privileges, from a religious point of view, (witness the long leave of Jewish soldiers on the occasion of their religious holidays religious) for its rabbis, for the civil servants, in a a word for all followers of Judaism, or simply belonging to the cosmopolitan Jewish nation?

Catholicism fights error and crime in all its forms.
their forms and in all their degrees: it is the highest school of justice and virtue.

On the contrary, the Jew, as we have seen, claims that everything
He is permitted to act against us, whom he calls a stranger, from where,

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 239

his war cry, uttered by the Semite Gambetta: "The key-nationalism, that is to say the Church, that is to say the French citizen-"Sacrificing Catholic, that's the enemy!" What a vile joker!
Can a union exist between an honest citizen of race
French and a Jew like you, a tyrant of his beliefs?

The Jewish-led policy believed it could achieve annihilationthe religion of the true Messiah, crucified by Israel, in inventing the Italian Union with the annexation of the Pontic states tificals and Rome as capital. It is by an effect of this the same policy, which Austria was initially weakened by Italy allied with France, then Prussia, and finally, she was Judaized to the core so that Her Majesty Apostolic is, by some people called irres-Pectuously, Emperor of the Jews.

The triple alliance and the Anglomania of some of Our short-sighted diplomats are still part of the Jewish plan against Catholicism. For through this union directed against we, between Italy, Protestant Germany and Austria Led by Judah, Rome is not about to be restored.
to the sovereign Pontiff, his rightful Lord.

Finally, through the intrigues and power of the Talmudists, the highest state functions in France, have for titulars, Jews, Freemasons and Protestants, and our colonies, Algeria and Madagascar for example, are delivered to the preachers of the country and of John's religion Bull. And that's how it all fits together, because, as the af-
Mr. Bernard Lazare's firm: it was the Jewish spirit that triumphed with Protestantism.

So we have no religion; according to the Jew, we we are religious animals, in the manner and with the same rights as that small beetle commonly called the ladybug, which can be crushed at will - punctured under his heel.

IV

FOURTH CONSEQUENCE OF THE DEFINITION OF A JEW.

The Goy is essentially incapable of possessing the Citizenship rights and the right to have a homeland.

1

A simple animal, therefore without a homeland.

Stripped of our immortality, without God, without a homeland celestial, will we at least have the right to possess a homeland on this planet we inhabit? No. We don't we are not beings constituted as a society: for the de-defense and prosperity of present life, living on soil conquered by our fathers or by ourselves, and of which we Let us preserve and defend our autonomy together.
and independence. And this for two good reasons:

1. In our capacity as essentially inferior beings We do not have rights as men. We are the a thing of man, the property of the Jew.

2° Would we, hypothetically, truly be men, that we would be no less dispossessed of the the right to have, properly speaking, a homeland of our own, or at least the rights of citizens, and to govern ourselves, indein accordance with our laws, the Jew having received all nations as an inheritance from God.

It is therefore absolutely necessary to admit, that there are no nations on earth, but only one nation, the Jewish nation. The Jews of Germany, of England, from France, from the five parts of the world in a word, not are neither French, nor English, nor German, etc. they are citizens of a single homeland, the universe, or, if you prefer, they are simultaneously citizens of two homelands, one of which, France, for example, is restricted, the other is universal. It's the universe.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 241

The idea of Israel's right and authority over all peoples, inspires the entire discourse of the chief rabbi, in the meeting of the great chiefs and notables of the Judaism, around the tomb of Grand Master Caleb Symeon-ben-Jhuda, "whose science delivers to the chosen ones of each generation power over all the earth (per-
Let us be sure that he said this without laughing, and that there is no that he had been expressing himself in this way for ten years) and the authority over all descendants of Israel." Speak then, Lord, Israel, you Listen. "The war of the people of Israel, against this power which had been placed in Abraham, but which had been taken from him by the Cross. If our people have scattered over the whole surface of the land, that is, the whole land must belong to him. Eighteen centuries belonged to our enemies, but the current century and future centuries must belong to us, the people of Israel and will surely belong to us. The times of persecutions and humiliations – those dark times and painful – (whose fault is it?) that the people of Israel have endured with such heroic patience, are very happy-have passed for us, thanks to the progress of civilization. tion among Christians (you hear that chief rabbi whose authority, according to its own declaration, extends over all the descendants of Israel: the progress of civilization For Christians, it consists of having our head under the tail (the Jew's legacy) and this progress (consisting of our enslavement) (according to Israelite ideas) and this progress, therefore, is the best-

242 THE VIPER BREED

their shield behind which we could take shelter and to act, in order to cross with a swift and firm step the space which still separates us from our ultimate goal. Our only the goal is this: to reign over the earth, as has been promised to our father Abraham.

Therefore, there is no longer any doubt: the habit-so many from different nations of the globe, have no rights of citizens, in their country, these countries and the whole earth being, otherwise, in fact, at least by an imprescriptible right, the property of the Jew.

I have no doubt that Israel will admit the existence of God and his justice, the immortality of the soul and the double sanction:

1° of eternal happiness as a reward for good deeds of a pure conscience;

2° that of a no less eternal punishment against the crime.

But listening to the Jews, one would be inclined to believe that Their entire belief boils down to this dogma of their superiority. essential rity in relation to us, and to the rights of property priegy and universal domination which are its inevitable consequence consequence.

The Jew will never relinquish the rights conferred upon him by his nationality, and much more, as we will soon prove, He cannot even relinquish these rights; he will do well. market everything else, but give up this, never.

May every Jew live a thousand years, but we will exterminate them. would all, that all would carry this faith into the other world with the hope of seeing it realized one day. Oh the brave children of Abraham! Contra spem, in spem! That the Good faith saves them!

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 243

2

The entire universe is the Jewish homeland; domination universal of the Jew.

Excluding the Gentiles, only the Jews remain, according to the true meaning of the word, they form a people, a people apart by Consequently, a state within other states and a nation within the other nations and who will work with all their zeal and by all means to conquer domination universal.

Here, primarily, the testimonies of the Jews are pre-heavens to gather.

Father Leman, of Jewish descent, informs us:

"That we almost generally don't know what ma-
The Israelites, having entered modern society, to become members and soon masters. Two Gigantic phenomena are before everyone's eyes: the growing preponderance of the Jewish race, and the crisis saddening of the Christian states. The Israelites form a nation tion apart, impenetrable, resistant to all fusions, which for eighteen centuries, had traversed peoples without to get involved.

"Was it prudent to introduce this armed nation and hostile, in a disarmed and trusting nation? By en-thus entering a society entirely imbued with Christianity nism, the Jew kept the pernicious Talmud, hidden under "His clothes." A nation apart, impenetrable, resistant hostile to any fusion, that's what the Jews are, according to the testimony of a Jew; moreover, this nation is armed against us, and his weapons, of rabbinical manufacture, because Neither God nor Moses ever permitted its use; it is the Talmud.

244 THE VIPER BREED

Let us note in passing that the deicide race makes ring the epithet of enemy that she bestows upon us is quite blatant, and that of victimhood that she grants herself. However, if he There is racial hatred between Christians and Jews; it has not born out of a feeling of gratuitous hostility
From the Christian's perspective,

Ah! It's been a long time since one of these Jews who They plunder and betray France, would no longer defile our countries, if we had treated them according to their merits in their giving them a taste of their own medicine.

"What people have been more bloodthirsty in their vend-
"Geances," we read in Toussenel, "more persevering" in his hatred and contempt for the rest of humanity
What humanity is there that the Jewish people have? Wherever this race lives, we Let's challenge them to show her engaged in a function. useful and productive, occupied with something other than cheating and to plunder the nation that received it into its bosom." "This are the Jews, adds Jean de Ligneau (Jews and Anti-Semites) who harbor this racial hatred against Christians, and it is provided to them by their Talmud. That is why, the Jewish race, as a nation, lives scattered among the other peoples, without ever mingling with them." They have not no political, public or at least apparent and admitted, we partly acknowledge it, but This organization, although clandestine, nonetheless exists. The Kahal gave us an idea. I said in part, because Who can deny that it is the Jews who govern? In reality, when they impose us as rulers, men of their choosing, to legislate according to the spirit of the The Talmud and the aspirations of Israel?

A Jew may have preferences for Jerusalem and for Judea, as one has for its capital, or for a province of his country, because, for him, the homeland is the worldwide.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 245

Father Olivier argues that the Jew never mattered among the elements of social life. This must be... tender, of the very life of Christian society, or of any other foreign to the Jew; for, as far as the so-Jewish community, wherever it may be, naturalized English, German, French or Turkish, he always works for his nation, for Israel, a universal parasite, spread across the entire surface of globe, everywhere one, and destined in its scattered unity by-everything, to possess and to rule all nations.

All the authors who have addressed this issue arrive to the same conclusion, and express it more or less in the same terms.

"This John without a Land of the peoples," said Schopenhauer, It is found everywhere on our globe: nowhere is it At home, nowhere is he a stranger, and with a stubbornness "Without precedent, he knows how to retain his nationality." Before him, Schiller had already noted that the Jews had constituted themselves killed in the States, and Mr. Claudio Janet exclaimed, in the last session of the Congress of Angers in 1890, that if it were necessary to exclude Jews from our French society, this would be primarily because they retain, despite everything, a a special, indelible nationality, incapable of merging with no other nationality, to such an extent that, according to the in-Das Volk's ingenious remark: if you step on someone's foot, of a Jew in Russia, he is a Jew from North America who shouts.

MB Lazare in Antisemitism, etc., a work where reigns the breath of the Talmud, the most sub-rabbinic spirit, writes in this regard that, "in the midst of all nations In Europe, Jews exist as a community confessional (there is no question of worship, Mr. Lazarus, The whole question lies in what you add) community believing in his nationality, having retained a type particular, special abilities and a unique mind."

246 THE VIPER BREED

One would search in vain in this description for the shadow even something that would remind you of, if only vaguely, France or the French.

After this deposition by a French Jew, let's listen that of a German Jew, to which we could add those of the Jews from all parts of the world, because everywhere They agree on this point: "You see that God has given us has brought forth new brothers who sometimes understand better than ourselves, this unique miracle in the life of world, of an entire people, scattered for eighteen hundreds of years, in all parts of the universe, without to neither confuse nor mingle anywhere with the populations in the middle "place where he lives." Lévy Bing at the Archives Israélites, March 1864.

However, neither this Lévy, nor his colleagues from the five par-The world's divisions don't even suspect that this dispersion Zion is the literal fulfillment of the curse divine, so often foretold in Scripture, and of which God has struck the Jews because of their deicide, and one of the proofs the most striking aspects of the divinity of Christianity, From so that, from this curse, they make a blessing-tion which, if we do not put it in proper order, would be nothing other something that grants the right to seize all wealth of the world and the seizure of uni-domination Verselle, and all this by divine right. Israel, after having killed The Messiah believes he has the right to kill humanity, that is to say to seize all the rights, everywhere it is not represented by this nation, to which this same Messiah that they sacrificed, gave it the name: race of vipers.

In 1860, Jews were expelled from several German cities Magne invaded Romania, which they soon put to

bag. To ward off the Jewish peril, 31 members of the Assembly
The legislative body of the Romanian states drafted a manifesto.

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 247

in which, among other things of capital importance In the tale, we read: "The Jews, forced by need, suexternally place non-Jewish states under the authority of the state.
but they can never agree to become one integral part. They are above all the expression of certain-certain indelible racial characteristics, and of certain invincible beliefs of nationality. That is why the Jew from Spain, from England; from France, from Poland, He is neither Polish, nor French, etc. He remains Jewish.
like his ancestors from biblical times. For the fusion between peoples does not simply occur through the simple relations of residence and trade: it operates through the mixing of blood and the coming together of senses moments: something impossible with the Jews. They feel that they cannot make common cause with the people Christians (nor with any other people, and we know (perfectly why), because they are diametrically opposed opposites.

Mr. de Portalis expresses himself in the same way, for France. He is right in stating that Israel does not He does not confuse it with other nations, but he distances himself from them.
entirely through ignorance of Jewish doctrine where he pretends that in our country, the Jew "believes he lives only on a "Foreign land." The foreigner here is Portalis, and we all of them, his compatriots. Isn't the universe a vast Judea? If the Jew does not merge with us, it is unique-He lies because he doesn't want to, can't, should we?
to say, to involve those who are not of his race, to rights over the universe that he alone possesses.

eZ

248 THE VIPER BREED

3
The final word on Israel's superiority.

The explanation for this exclusive and irreformable separatism of the Jew, consists, as we have often developed, in Loppé, with supporting evidence, in his understanding of humanity.

According to this notion, the Jew possesses certain constituents essential, different and specifically superior to those non-Jews.

This superiority makes no mention of religion, neither a homeland nor foreign privileges: it's even more. It's not a question of race: it's about nature, about essence, of the species.

Just as the plant world prevails over the mineral world, so too does the animal-Evil is superior to the vegetable, just as the Jew prevails over we, who are essentially inferior beings to man, and consequently alien by nature, to the human Manita, represented solely by the Jew.

I am not making this up: this is the doctrine of the sages of Israel, doctors and leaders of all the Jewish communities, according to which through their own words, through their testimonies and their lessons we have proven, in the chapter of the doctrine of the Talmud, and its authority among the Jews of from all times and all countries, especially from the era Christian.

To put an end to these false philanthropists, to fer- Let's remind these hypocritical hypocrites of their existence. that this doctrine is publicly and solemnly professed by the most authoritative organ of science Talmudic.

All religious and political questions aside, The Jewish archives from 1864 tell us that the Jew is not

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 249

Jew, that is to say, a man to the exclusion of all others beings with a human face only because of their constituent parts essential and of its nature, by which it differs from non-Jews, as man differs from animal: "Israel is a nationality" We were born Jewish "natu" because We were born Jewish. That is the affirmation of superiority. essential, from a natural point of view "natu".

"A child born to Israelite parents is an Israelite. The birth-

His sance places upon him all the duties of an Israelite.

Now, here's how any superiority is excluded—purely accidental, coming from outside and unfounded on the very essence of being.

"It is not through circumcision that we receive the quality of Israelites." (1) So, nothing of religion.

Here's how they confirm this alleged truth:

"No, circumcision has no analogy with bap-Christian. We are not Israelites because We are circumcised, but we have others circumcised.
our children because we are Israelites. We acquired—we will have the character of Israelites by our birth, and we we can never lose this character, nor can we ever de—

1. — Lenculus's note. To this assertion, we do not
We can only guide our informed reader on the cruel ritual of circumcision and its effects on the endocrine glands.
We invite you to read two authors who have masterfully demonstrated the true nature of this ritual, undergone on the eighth day of birth. We will quote: Gautier Jean, The Child This unknown glandular and the works of Dommergue Polacco de Ménasce Roger, Secret Files of the 20th Century and Following.
These documents are easily found on the Internet and are Free because it's been reviewed by Lenculus. Boycott those who resell these books at high prices, unless, in the case of of their beneficiaries.

250 THE VIPER BREED

to put; even the Israelite who renounces his religion, even this—He who is baptized does not cease to be an Israelite (risum teneatis). All the duties of an Israelite continue to apply to him
"It's incumbent!" What would one say to this reasoning: We do not we are not Christians because we are baptized;
but we have our children baptized because we
We are Christians. We acquire the character of Christians. held by our birth, etc. etc. So many absurdities monumental.

However, if we remember that the word
Israelite is the synonym and the only synonym for man,

All ambiguity disappears: the key to the enigma is there!
The duties of a Catholic and a Frenchman no longer continue to be borne by the French Catholic, who has renounced his homeland and his religious faith, that is to say, to the French Catholic ofcame (in good faith) Protestant, Muslim, etc. and citizen German, Turkish, etc. These rights will be much less of a burden.
still to his descendants of the third or fourth generation. Why then do the duties of the Jew oblige Always the Jew who became Catholic or Muslim? Because that Jew is the only synonym for man, and that man cannot shirk its essential duties, nor the to abdicate, with regard to himself, to God and to his pro-chain. But this concept does not exist, and cannot exist.
than in the neurotic brain of Israel. Let's make a ra-
A quick and concise but conclusive analysis.

"An Israelite is an Israelite exclusively by birth-
"sance": if by that we mean that the Jew actually has by His birth: the rights he claims for himself are absurd.
and a vile outrage against non-Jews, without exception.
However, if by these words we mean that, by ins-hereditary tinct of his race, without any other reason, the The Jew arrogates to himself these rights (universal sovereignty, etc., etc.), based on its alleged superiority, in the sense

LOGICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE JEWISH MINDSET 251

as we have explained, in this case, and by entering thus In the character's shoes, the absurdity disappears, but the Race appears in all its splendor: yes, the Jew comes to the world with these pretensions, and, as in the end, they what constitutes the Jew, it is eminently true to say, that he is Jewish by nature, by birth, natu.

And now, O intelligent Frenchmen, trust in the de-proclamations about progress, fraternity, and philanthropy the people of Israel. You see the rights it monopolizes, and to What a low rank he relegates us to.

According to him, his superiority over us is not a given.
likewise, our downfall is not the
The consequence of our actions. It is by nature, by its very nature, that the
The Jew is the king of creation, and alas, it is by nature also-Yes, Hatu, we are his prey, his possession. In this state As for things, there's nothing to change! The attempt, moreover, would be crazy and pointless. You can't make an animal out of a ve-gétal, a dog for example, with an oak tree; we don't do a reasonable animal, with a simple brute, a man For example, with a dog. So don't be ungrateful. towards me, Israel tells us; towards me who, by my high philosophy, while making myself known, I have revealed to you—beware of yourselves, that's who I am, that's who you are Let us each remain what we are: it is Israel that I invite you to do so: outside of this path, there is no more progress.

REX

it fn

Gi

$ e

IE Bin laid LR

;

HEY HAT

RHREUE
id

an juni

PELLENIN Factory, printer-bookseller in EPINAL hf Hi HE dE ë FILE LAUGHTER

laughed laughed c1
MAHQUTE HE

=
=

an i

253

CHAPTER VIII

MEANS USED BY THE JUIES TO REALIZE THE CONSEQUENCES ANALYZED FURTHER HIGH AND TO ACHIEVE DOMINION UNIVERSAL.

True here, I don't understand how it still find French people to raise the cry of Rally: France for the French, we who hold usurped lands, soil that does not belong to us, a homeland which, no more than any other, could never-but be ours. Alas! My dear fellow citizens, we We are in Jewish territory. The Jew will continue its conquest by all means.

He will incite wars between nations, which will allow him to-
In the meantime, it will take steps to drain the gold through borrowing: it
He will foment revolutions, he will be a spy, he will be a traitor.
assassin, arsonist, leader of conspirators; he will overthrow all the barriers of our laws; he will legislate, with a view to his tyranny, in the name of progress and the freedom of peoples (that is, of his freedom and to bury ours). He does not will only stop when, on the ruins of disorganized peoples Stupid and stupefied, abolished constitutions, legitimate Overthrown public authorities:

254, THE BREED OF VIPERS

"A Jerusalem of a new order, capital of the dominion-universal Jewish nation, holy and seated between the East and the West will replace the dual city of the Caesars and Popes.

Thus spoke, in 1861, the pseudo-Frenchman, the pseudo-do-patriote Crémieux.

In 1860, another citizen of the Jewish nation, named Stamm, born in Germany, published in Amsterdam an ou-a project in which, so that no one would be unaware, he an-proclaimed to the world the good news that:

"The kingdom of universal freedom on earth, se-
"It was founded by the Jews."

This deceitful Pharisee forgets only this one word: for,
But this oversight seriously undermines his libertarian gospel.
To be accurate, it should have been expressed as follows:
said kingdom will be founded by and for the Jews alone.

As early as 1858, the Frankfurt Jew Staub had already initiated us... tied to this great secret:

"Rome," he said, "which, eighteen hundred years ago, trod
The Jewish people must fall at their feet, by the combined forces.
of this same people who, by this means, will spread the light on the whole world, and will render a service to humanity prominent. "

Who could possibly doubt it? Thanks to this lu-
First, we will be told that the humanity to which this An eminent service will be rendered, it can only be to the Jewish community.
since there is no Jew, and no man, and outside of Judah, outside of Humanity.

Now we understand why all the feelings-the things that the Jew shows us, the hatred and the contempt Except for those that are false and always look like a grimace, the sincerity is necessarily excluded.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 255

- When will the inauguration of uni- domination finally take place?
The verse of Israel?
- At the coming of the Messiah.
- And what is this Messiah?

The Jews will teach us.

After so many long centuries, since the arrival of Our Lord Jesus Christ, the Jews despairing of seeing another personal Messiah, in flesh and blood, substitute to the true Messiah whom they betrayed, denied, and crucified, the people Jewish.

So the Jewish people: this is the Messiah.

– But the coming of the Messiah?

– The fact of universal domination by the Jews,
This is the coming of the Messiah.

This is how the pseudo-prophet Crémieux understands it when he announces this:

"Messianism of the new days that must blossom and developing » emergence and development which are nothing other something that universal domination, that freely, Without proof, he makes promises to his race.

The Jews also believe with the same certainty that before this era of endless prosperity, corruption among other peoples will be general; consequently, to hasten the arrival of these desired centuries, they make themselves a duty to engage in the depravity and corruption of doctrine and morals, by all means.

Let us also not forget that, from wars of extermination-tion, to clear the stage of the world, must precede, between Gentiles and Christians, before this golden age; hence the obligation-Judah's mission to foment discord and conflict wars among all peoples.

256 THE VIPER BREED

Means: The Republic,
the hoarding of wealth.

In governing peoples, they are fond preferably, the republican form, as a very good means effective in fulfilling their hopes. This form of government that opens access to all citizens their access to power and high state offices, their offer easier and more numerous means of corruption with regard to the discontented and the ambitious.

The conversation between Mr. Edm. de Goncourt and Mr. Gaston Mery, Libre Parole, March 7, 96%, gives us a idea of these means. "I don't hate individuals," he said Mr. de Goncourt, but I'm afraid of the race, of this race who undoubtedly possesses far superior abilities to the Aryan races, to earn money (earning is a (a nice euphemism from Mr. de Goncourt), to conquer the capital and money, in this 19th century, in this time when it There is no longer any faith in spiritual things; money is, isn't it? this step, the factor of the government, of the social mode, of the peace, war, everything; he is the all-powerful power. However, if the Jews have gained this influence over the past century, it is because th within the government, were able to take possession of all the large manorial estates acquired the most a large part of the movable capital, what will they be At the end of the 20th century? They will be the Marquises of Money of France, above a population of Catholics "Wretched people, whom they will keep in servitude."

It was not Sir John Readcliffe's chief rabbi who will speak out against the dreaded power of money by Goncourt as an effective means of enslavement France's fall into the hands of the Jews.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 257

"For several centuries, our scholars (authors and professors of the Talmud, no doubt) bravely struggle—"Lying," he said, and with a perseverance that nothing could to strike down against the Cross. Our people are rising gradually—It lies, and every day its power grows.

This God of the day belongs to us, whom Aaron gave us raised in the desert, this Golden Calf, this universal deity of the era.

"When we have made ourselves the only ones possessors of all the gold on earth, the true power will pass into our hands, and then the pro—masses which were done to Abraham.

"Gold, the greatest power on earth, Gold which is the strength, the reward, the instrument of all enjoyment sance, all that man fears and covets. (By what What means will you use to seize this gold, greedy and tyrannical Jew? (nic, without entrails!) That's the great mystery, the pro- The foundation of the science of the mind that governs the world! That is the future! Each time, the new Sanhedrin proclaimed and preached the merciless struggle with his enemies, but, in none of the In previous centuries, our ancestors had not managed to to concentrate so much gold in their hands, consequently of power, than what the 19th century deprived us of. We can therefore flatter ourselves, without rash illusion, to soon reach our goal, and to look with certainty on our future.

It is not necessary to make a great effort to to understand that, through this ill-gotten gold and for such a Finally, the votes of the legislative assemblies, the elections, etc. will most often be the result of corruption. The Jew's financial maneuvers, and the power of his gold will play the leading role, and his arguments will hard-to-reach arguments. Judah, as a man for whom scruples had no reason to exist, imitate this a sower who scatters a grain of wheat to reap an ear of wheat: he, He throws away, if necessary, a million which gives him back a hundred, and does, representatives of the country, its slaves. Let us remember- come from the Jews of Panama and other roundups and raids similar.

258 THE VIPER BREED

What are the social consequences of these fraudulent operations by the Jews, to seize the finances of all foreigners, as they call us? These results are evident to everyone, but it is in- It will be interesting to hear the leaders elaborate on the results. of Judaism. "Let us only glance at the material state- the riel of Europe, said this same chief rabbi, and let us analyze the resources that the Israelites have acquired since the beginning of the current century, by the sole fact of the concentration of immense capital in their hands which they have at their disposal. At the moment... Thus in Paris, in London, Vienna, Berlin, Amsterdam, Hamburg, to Rome, Naples, etc... and in all the Rothschild homes, everywhere,

The Israelites are cunning in their financial situation, through the possession of several billion; not to mention that in each second and third-order locality, these are them Furthermore, who are the holders of the funds in circulation, and that everywhere, without the sons of Israel, without their influence immediate, no financial transaction, no immediate work However, they cannot be executed.

Today, all Emperors, Kings and Princes regnants are burdened with debts incurred for maintenance large, standing armies, in order to support their tottering thrones.

The Stock Exchange lists and settles these debts, and we are in for the most part, masters of the Stock Exchange on almost all The spaces. So it needs to be made even easier, more and more the loans, which we must study, in order to make ourselves sole regulators of all values, and as much as possible it will be possible to take as collateral capital that we we provide countries with the operation of their railway lines, from their mines, their forests, their large forges and factories, as well as other buildings and even the ad-tax administration.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 259

Bankruptcy law.

Let's not forget, amidst these billions, one of the the most fruitful ruses in spoliation, or rather, the course- The water used by Jews to cut, without risk, the the purse strings of non-Jews and seize them.

"What is important to obtain," continued the said Grand Rabbi- Well, what should be the focus of our ceaseless efforts is a less severe bankruptcy law. We will make it happen. a gold mine, much richer (oh! the good intentions!) that the California mines never did.

Thus, states live off capital borrowed from Jews; the subjects pay the Jews the interest on these assets. prunts, and in this way they become vassals of Judah.

Isn't it a stroke of rare skill to devali- to be someone, and to make them pay interest on what one

He took it away so skillfully?

When it is the government of the people, the Republic
Whoever creates such a state of affairs, the people have no right to complain. against no one, since through his agents, it is he-even, it seems, who is in charge. But when the increase-The taxation of taxes is the result of an imperial or royal whim.
as the Jews insinuate to mask their operation, then the stability of sovereigns on their thrones ofbecomes problematic. We can see from this that Judah prefers the Republics and that he is quietly undermining thrones. That if he consenting to the existence of monarchs means that the country

260 THE VIPER BREED

is not ready for the Republic and that it compromisestrait his work.

Thus, after the fall of Rome in 1870, we have preserved the monarchy in Italy, entirely devoted to it, moreover and chained to secret societies run by Jews.
The Republic at that time did not offer the guarantees deemed necessary to keep the capital under his control usurped from Catholicism.

Moreover, if we exclude Russia, the forms of governments in Europe differ little from name, and we are working to eliminate even this difference nominal.

All it would take is a small revolutionary hurricane to overthrow the thrones of Spain and Italy, for the benefit of the Republic.

The Spanish revolution of 1869 which dethroned Isabelle IT, had no other goal than to open Spain to Youddim, through freedom of worship; then the simulacrum of the Republic that followed was to take the pulse of Spaniards and to check where they stood with their sendynastic moments. Progress, that is to say, regression and the ruin of the Catholic spirit, nonetheless makes its path.

It cannot be said that, in Austria, the house of Habsburg is not sure of tomorrow, nor that she is the a ridiculed victim of Israel, which would lead her to the abyss, and to who obeys blindly, but who could appreciate the harms caused him by the Jews?

Germany is on the verge of a revolution that will... monarchical institutions a heap of ruins, on the-
Which socialists, of the Jewish type, are under the orders of Judas who
He will lead them, consolidate his power.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 261

England with its naval power and its empire colonial is Israel's transporter across the oceans and the seas; he throws him some scraps of his plunder and with his However, it facilitates his conquests. May His Gracious Majesty Victoria, that the Prince of Wales or any other of the same temperament reigns for 44 multos annos! It's always Abraham, Isaac and Co. Ultimately, it is the Jew who governs. in the United Kingdom and its dependencies. John Bull is designed to get along with all Jews, present and future.
Sir Isaac, Lord Beaconsfield, Disraeli, Lord Rosebery, the major landowners and financiers, Jewish or Jewish-
The earth provides indisputable proof: the agreement is perfect.
in total.

The Grand Turk, through his fanaticism and his san-Guineans, the most formidable and feared enemy of the Jews, is now nothing more than the legendary sick man: they reduced him to powerlessness and misery. The rabbit that the Baron Hirsch posed for him; he was of good height. The subscribers-French journalists paid to learn something about it.
European powers are preparing to divide the spoils among themselves.
lice of this cowardly sacrificer of our Catholic brothers from Armenia.

If resistance occurs, the Jew has for the to conquer, I do not mean the dagger and poison nor the assassin-Sinai politics, but the clericalism of societies is a sin-Crete. He has the Revolutions, and the last word must remain with his unwavering obstinacy.

All forms of government are good by themselves, and the best for a country is the one that best suits his abilities and needs; but, a republic with Jews enjoying the rights of citizen, is open to the most illegitimate ambitions and to all the corruption. Let us remember everything simply from the example of Cornelius Herz who, by his infamous corruptions, through his betrayals, still do not hold many people under his threat; and through his little papers that he might have delivered to Albion, which would have of many influences, in our unfortunate country.

262 THE VIPER BREED

Ultimately, we must rely solely on governments honest and fair, regardless of their label, but, In general at least, it is true to say that kings have not to make a fortune, that the check was not invented for them, and that they have no other recourse left than justice and the honor to pass on, a glorious legacy, the throne to their descendants. Now, justice, law, and honesty, as the French understand it, are the enemy of the Jew; and, the absence of the check, the elimination of fraud and the Corruption is his downfall.

Judah needs a system where his instincts can to give themselves free rein and bear fruit.

These fruits are, for the Jew, gold and manifest power. festive or occult, and for the non-Jew, ruin and dishonor. The goal: this is the task that Israel has set for itself. In short, He is convinced that this system will thrive in the Republics. Experience, at least in France, has always... days given reason.

Revolutions

Therefore, for Israel, kings are the enemy. To this great the evil of the Monarchy, an evil all the greater because of its laws are more rigorous in their approach to fraudulent bankruptcy, hoarding and monopolies, theft, immorality and betrayal, to this evil, we say, Israel will apply the Major remedies, such as revolution, for example, according to some they even list political assassinations carried out by the Freemason at his command, etc.

Why? In order to hand over the reins of government lies to men after his own heart, to sellouts, to his slaves, whom he will shatter like glass whenever they want to deviate from its program or goals.

"Every war, every revolution, every upheaval-political or religious ment, having arrived in the Christian world Here, they bring us closer to the moment when we will reach the goal. the supreme goal towards which we strive... It is necessary, as much as if possible, maintain the proletariat, subject it to those who have the handling of money (to the Jews). By this means we will raise the masses, when we want to; we will push them towards upheaval, towards revolutions, and each of these catastrophes advances by a great not our private interests, and brings us closer quickly of our sole purpose: to rule the earth." Thus one of these prominent Israelites, whose authority extends to all the descendants of Israel, Readcliff.

In these matters, as soon as we heard the Jews themselves-themselves to attribute and assume such formidable responsibilities skills; as soon as one is informed by their social code, of the the principle from which they start, and the goal toward which they tend; from that we see, everywhere and always, their doctrine confirmed by the facts; certainly, the case is closed, and he does not All that remains for us is to take the conclusions against them. that our dignity and our rights dictate. Despite In such serious matters, it seems appropriate to me not to present an isolated judgment, but to corroborate it bored by the testimony of men eminent by their selflessness, their genius and their patriotism to the fullest test. I am happy to find myself in perfect agreement with these great Frenchmen, who are, at the same time, of great thinkers.

Israel, therefore, is conspiratorial and revolutionary, in The aim of sweeping away, could it be the law itself personified?

264, THE BREED OF VIPERS

if this right is legitimately hostile to him, and, to enthrone this which serves the interests of his race, whose supreme goal is... was revealed by himself. Jacques de Biez, in his chief-The work, The Jewish Question, highlights this trait very well. of the Jewish character. "The Jew," he said, "knows only one trade." world, but he knows it well. He knows the business of conspirator. He does nothing openly. When he

He comes to you displaying sincerity, hold on to that.
that he had never felt more secure under the mask which He covers his face. This mask is that of a sincerity-
The blatant sincerity of the agent provocateur. The Jew is Moreover-all statesmen agree on this-sus - the most skillful and most employed of the provo- agents singers. Whatever he does, let him sing in the choir of socialists, at public meetings, or that he concentrates public attention directed at others besides himself, by raising the question of the princes, at a time when no one thought As for the Jews, do not doubt that he is fully engaged in his function. tion. He takes shelter, makes himself a blanket. He is always the mole that ravages the field under the small pile of a breeding ground that hides it from view. In short, the Jew seeks constantly having to pass something between himself and his interlocutor, a screen that will cause a diversion in the dialogue, or to If necessary, it will become the target of all the salvo fire, that it will be able to provoke. When the Jew comes to the enemy face to face, it's as a friend, feet swaddled in cotton wool, the grimace of Judas on his lips, headdress in hand, the good-natured air of the niharmless gaud. Also, always be wary of advances from the Jewish strategy, especially when they have the air of speaking-comments and pacification. This is at the time when the Jew
He speaks most about the public good, and the interest he has in it.
that he wants to hurt her and does her the most harm. If he takes a walk
From the side, this march will escape us and turn us around;
It will be a covered walk, behind a curtain of collars.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 265

lines or in a clearing. On all sides, the Jew envelops, because that's all he knows. What he's proposing, what he's offering us He asks, and what he obtains, is always through processes whose perfidy confounds us. The Jew's attack is always-days the poacher's gunshot, fired from behind a hedge. The shot lands, the projectile hits, but the shooter remains invisible. To glimpse him, this fighter whom we cannot never sees, one must be able to uncover the eternal com-
The Jew's plot. For this reason, it is good to know and to say that The Jew is a conspirator, subject to a contrary morality to ours, that he is a shameless hypocrite, without our Shame, a corrupter without our scruples, a traitor whom we cannot reach in principle its special corruption ciale, than by unmasking its offensive formula. It suffices to examine the ballistics of the Jew a little more closely to convince themselves that today all the accomplices of Jew (accomplices or victims, in this case it's all the same), republicans or monarchists, Catholics or Protestants,

They are playing a game of deception. The Jew has nine cards in his hand, they only have eight. The ninth is betrayal, which the Jew carries a burden on him. To take sides with him is to lose by a mile. Sure, it's handing France over to a player who knows Card tricks and cuts, in short, to mistake the illusory projection for a tangible reality "with a magic lantern."

With its inexorable universality, the Jew spares no one No country. Germany and Russia are no better shared as France, they are undermined by the re- action Revolutionary among the future world leaders. Indeed, if there is a man who, regarding Germany, can to express one's opinion with full knowledge of the facts, This is the English Jew, Lord Beaconsfield. On page 183 of Coningsby, he tells us that the powerful revolution which preparations in Germany will develop under the influence Jews. This is what Rougeyron was also pointing out as early as 1841. in these terms: "there are revolutionary elements in Germany- frightening revolutionaries, and, the most powerful of all, is Jewry, which, with its publicists, philosophers, and poets, His orators, his bankers, he is revolutionary in every way to everything and will give rise to a terrible day for Germany, which will probably be succeeded, one day which will be terrible for her." (p. 48, The Antichrist.)

266 THE BREEDING OF VIPERS

As for the revolutionary element stirring in Russia, A letter from Saint Petersburg, July 26, 1899, provides us with these details: Upon arriving at Peterhof, re- tour of Finland, the first thing the emperor did Alexander was to summon the minister of the interior to him. interior and Count Fabien, former Minister of Justice under the reign of the previous tsar, and today President from the famous Jewish Commission. The emperor was struck Therefore, among the revolutionaries at least 90% belong to the Jewish religion.

They are found in all conspiracies, says J. de Ligneau. in his work already cited. In secret meetings... naked in small restaurants in Saint Petersburg, the Godenberg, a Jew, offered to kill Emperor Alexander II in 1879. It was a Jew who, on March 4, 1880, attempted to... life of Louis Mélikof, Minister of Police, his name

UlodeSky. In one of the last plots against the Tsar
We find German Jews: Rappafort, Mendelsohn, Lavionus, Bomberg, Rheinsten. In 1880, Hessa Helfman was condemned as an accomplice in the death of the emperor from Russia. Hessa Helfman was of Jewish origin, etc.

Nihilism is a sect or secret society that has been founded by Jews. They are numerous there, but they do little by themselves, being of a cowardly nature,

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 267

although very good at pushing others into dangerous adventures.

Secret societies.

We have already shown the Jewish origin of the Freemasonry, whose most influential members are bound to the Jew's obedience by terrible oaths.
It is in the Lodges that ideas are developed under the inspiration and the control of the Jew, the plans for revolutions, for persecutions against Catholicism, against its works, its ministers, his religious, etc.

Gougenot des Mousseaux, the Jew, passed this down to us judgment of a Prussian statesman on the role of the Jews In conspiracies: "For the present time, I believe the Jews are very active in undermining the foundations of our society "and to prepare for revolutions." He justified his opinion particularly because of the fact that since the resurgence revolutionary of 1848, having found himself in contact with a Jew, this one out of vanity betrayed the secret of the societies-the groups he had joined, and he warned him eight to ten days ahead of all the revolutions that were about to break out on any point in Europe. "I owe him the in-shaky conviction, he continued, that all these great movements of oppressed peoples, etc., etc. are com-sorted by half a dozen individuals who give their orders to secret societies throughout Europe. The ground is completely undermined beneath our feet, and the Jews provide a a large contingent of these minors.

The Freemason Blaetter himself acknowledges with in-designation this power that the knights of the triangle give to the Jews. In his Political History, page 430, we read: "The power that Judah acquired in the means of Freemasonry is now at its apoaged. She is currently also a formidable contender for the throne. than for the altar. Although excluded from certain lodges, the Jews They sit in all the lodges of the world.

268 THE VIPER BREED

"There are Jewish lodges in London that meet in their hands, the threads of all revolutionary elements existing in Christian lodges: it is Judah who constitutes kills the head of all the lodges, and the Christian lodges do not are just blind puppets who are put in movement by Judah and which, most of the time, have not Not the slightest suspicion.

"A ruling lodge, composed entirely of Jews, exists in Rome; it is also one of the courts of the-presiding over the revolution and governing the other lodges at average of unknown heads.

"In Leipzig, the secret Jewish lodge operates in permanent-nence at the time of the fair: not a single Christian has access to it.

"In Hamburg and Frankfurt, the secret emissaries are the only ones admitted.

"May the powerful finally understand that the lodges..." they only work to sow revolution in the interest of Judaism! May they understand Burke's words! He A time will come when princes will be forced to be tyrans, because their subjects will be rebellious on principle.

This Blaetter, perhaps without knowing the first batch of the The Talmud had an intuition of its principles and purpose followed by Judah, by simply examining what was happening right before his eyes, despite the mysterious veil and the reticence, the lies and secrets behind which this same Judah concealed them.

—

The Press.
Betrayal. Electoral fraud.

The press has always been involved in various forms of trafficking. shameful, the devoted auxiliary of revolutionary movements tionaries, and the antisocial action of the Jew. The Grand Rabbi- bin and the Princes of the Jews whose authority extends over all Israel recognizes in him a power so effective, so united Verselle, that it yields only to that of gold.

"If gold, they say, is the first power of this
In the world, the second is undoubtedly the Press. But what Can the second exist without the first? – As Israel does not can reign permanently over the entire universe without se-In the course of the Press, it is necessary that our presidents at the di-direction of all daily newspapers in each country.
Possession of gold, skill in choosing employment means of relaxing the capacity for sale, will make us the arbiters of public opinion, and we will give them dominion over the masses. By marching in this way, step by step, along this path, and with the perseverance that is Our great virtue is that we will repel the Christians, and We will nullify their influence. We will dictate to the world, what he must believe in, what he must honor, and what he must curse. Perhaps some individuals rise up-Will they turn against us, and hurl insults at us?
the anathema; but the docile and ignorant masses
They will listen and take our side.

Then, these gentlemen, with a nobility quite proper to their aristocratic race, deign to descend into the details and draw attention to a point, oh! to a single-ment, against which the attacks of the Press. It is a chief rabbi speaking on behalf of the Aristocracy and the ruling class of Israel. They never cease to cry out and to make others cry out against religious persecution, from that the honest press denounces the frauds, the roundups, financial, fraudulent and hoarding practices of Judah.

270 THE VIPER BREED

However, never, in any country, have Jews been They were worried because of their worship. The spiritual rulers and temporal authorities have always tolerated it. Listen now, com-These gentlemen intend to show their gratitude. and well-mannered.

"We must graft, as much as possible, into the intellectuals-agencies of those who profess the Christian religion ideas of free thought, skepticism, schism, and pro-to evoke religious disputes, so naturally fruitful divisions and sects within Christianity.

"Logically, we must begin by devaluing the ministers of this religion (oh, the honest Jew!) ; decla-Let's wage open war on them, let's sow suspicion. on their devotion, on their private conduct, and, by the ridicule and mockery, we will overcome the consideration-tion attached to status and clothing.

Picture in your mind a Pope, a bishop, a simple priest, recommending similar measures with regard to the Jewish religion and its rabbis: they would be disavowed by all Christians without exception. But the Press ven-due to the Jews, not realizing the odious role they imposed it on him, he vomited streams of garbage against everything who is Christian, creates against the Catholic clergy the most vile pornographic publications, invents the in-the most slanderous insinuations, etc. We leave to Jews have a monopoly on and exploit insults, especially if she had to address herself, (as they usually do towards us) to the religious beliefs of those who do not think Not like us. They revealed the goal to us themselves. which they aim for through these press campaigns; they are yet another war tactic to divert attention from the

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 271

This is a real question between Israel and the French. is something entirely different from a religious question. Nobody nor does he concern himself with their Yom Kippur, their Purim, etc. what they burn in their censers, nor the number of genuflections, etc., which they perform in their synagogue. We let us not ask the Jew to account for his relations with God, but he has no right to blaspheme against our religious beliefs. We made it our equal, but we do not want to be stripped by him of our rights the man and citizen that we have recognized in him. He does not However, never disarm, and, by means that are deployed in broad daylight he adds those who only succeed by the fa-He is a harbinger of darkness. He spreads lies and corruption. According to the press, he is a revolutionary and a traitor.

For the triumph of his party, the Frenchman, in the dis-percussion, through speech or the press, may go beyond or remain short of the truth, he will be revolutionary, he will openly fight the legitimately established power but he will never be a traitor to his country, and, if he finds himself-
If someone had such a monster, it would be almost unbelievable.
exception; he would be the object of the curse of all his fellow citizens.

The Jew alone is an exception; it is characteristic of his temperament.
the rament of a conspirator and revolutionary, to be doubly Wheat from a spy. In that, he is playing his part, the opposite would be an abnormal state. Having the universe as one's homeland and for legacy, and the enslavement of all peoples to his power, for its purpose, espionage and treason, return in its means of progressive weakening, and of des-destruction of existing powers, not to mention the big bastards the benefits he derives from such a noble profession. "Once again," he said Drumont, Jewish France 1, p. 66, Jews should not be judged according to our ideas. It is undeniable that every Jew betrays the one who employs him. Cavour said of his secretary, "the Jew"

272 THE VIPER BREED

Artom: this man is invaluable to me for raising awareness
What I have to say. I don't know how he does it.
But no sooner had I uttered a word than he betrayed me.
before even leaving my office." "Why God "Would he have created the Jew," Bismarck asked in turn, "if it weren't for..."
"To serve as a spy?"

Zedekiah poisons Charles the Bald;

The Jew Meïre poisons Henry III of Castile;

The Council of Ten, on July 9, 1477, discussed the prothe position of the Jew Salomoncini and his brothers who offer to poison Muhammad, by the Jewish doctor Valcho;

The Jew Lopez, Elizabeth's physician, is hanged for having sold himself to Philip II;

The Jew Lewis Goldsmith serves as a spy for Talleyrand in England during the First Empire;

The Jew Michel is guillotined for having betrayed the Russian military documents;

Another Goldsmith steals, three years ago (1886)
the plans of the Prussian general staff;

Or we know the role that La Païva played before the war. Who nese remembers the attempts made by the Jewish woman Kaulla to disrupt our mobilization plans?

Who could forget Esther Guimont and her famous salon? policy ?

The Jew Gustave Klootz, whose parents or ho-mononymes, I believe, had experienced some dis-judicial setbacks in Paris around 1869, betrayal
General Hicks, who was slaughtered along with his troops Klootz receives a strong urgent sum and he is appointed general;

Krajewski confides in the Jew Adler who sells him to the Prussia and the old Polish poet, is thrown into a fortress.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 273

Given these facts, which could easily be multiplied ad infinitum,
It is clear that this is not an isolated case, which does not prove-would have nothing against a community, but one with a specific vocationcial to a race, the vocation of Dreyfus, of Von Reinach, by Cornelius Herz....

It has always been this way; history shows them to us.
as having been the agents and accomplices of all the invasions: in Babylon, in favor of the Persians; in Europe, in Africa, Asia, for Muslims; in France, especially during the Hundred Years' War, in the service of England, and in 1870 in the pay of Germany; Spain owes them also largely due to having suffered under the yoke of the Moors and Arabs for nearly seven hundred years.

Electoral fraud is also one of Israel's... major warhorses, or if you prefer, they are for
He was like a ladder to climb to seize power.
On this field he achieves astonishing victories: all the
He uses all available means: promises, threats, imposing orders.
seized by the sheep of Panurge of secret societies, argued-hard cash, etc., etc.

No one has forgotten Kohn's involvement in the Toulouse elections. of fraudulent memory, nor the Rothschild employee for to strangle, if not Mr. Drumont, at least his election as a member of parliament for Amiens. Let everyone remember their memories. coming... but so far, the classic land of intrusion and For the Jew, the electoral manipulation was Algeria. I yields the floor on this chapter to Mr. Millevoye, the ardent ci-Toyen, the eloquent orator, fearless and beyond reproach. "The violent scenes that took place in the city of Bône, clearly mark the degree of decadence and weakness where descended this French administration which was ja-dis the inexorable instrument of strong powers. Strangers-Gers, the dregs of emigration from Morocco and Tunisia, improperly registered on the electoral lists, fraudulent-invested with this right to vote, which is the attribute of popular sovereignty, they protest furiously against the still very timid measures, which tend to slow them down They are rebelling against the observance of common rules. against the law. All these cosmopolitan rabble, no naturalized citizens, bankrupts, usurers and looters, make way for his two men already convinced of having treacherously sold to agents of a rival power, the riches of national soil. And this group, thus formed, thwarts France, the Republic, the representatives of the State. They do not are neither right, nor number, nor force; they are the im-modesty, long tolerated by complicity that has not they have not yet received the punishment they deserve; they are the usurpation that refuses to yield to reparations legitimate; they are the betrayal that was too long delayed in striking, and which, long insinuating, is now becoming factious. For a large number of these disreputable pseudo-citizens, the usurpation of electoral rights was pa-attempts, however, as the matter has been brought before the courts, to the sale referred to above, pronounced a dismissal in favor of the defendant.

274 THE VIPER BREED

As soon as, by more or less correct means, the Jews and their lackeys are in power; they are carrying out this part-tie of the program recommended to all of Israel by the great Rabbi of Readcliffe: "All public jobs must be accessible to Israelites, and once they became holders, we will know, through obsequiousness and perspicacity of our factors, penetrating to the very source of the True influence and true power. It is understood that this only concerns those jobs to which are attached honors, power, and privileges; for to court which require knowledge, work, and effort, they can and must be left to the Christians, the magistracy is an institution of paramount importance to us. A career in law develops the most the ability to civilize tion and initiates us further into the affairs of our natural enemies, the Christians, and it is through this that we will be able to reduce them at our mercy.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 275

Why shouldn't the Israelites become half-ministers of public education, when they have so often Did they have the finance portfolio? The Israelites must also aspire to the rank of legislator in order to work on the repeal of the laws made by the Gentiles.

Then this holy man advocates taking control of all associations, whatever their nature; the monopoly and the hoarding of essential goods, for ruin the people, as well as high influences and honors, to replace nobility and class leader; he even proposes the creation and consecration false great Jewish men, with the same ease as if he The aim was to circulate counterfeit money. "The production of a piece of music, for example, he said, even if it is only very mediocre, will provide ours with a plausible reason to raise on a pedestal and surround with a halo, the Is-a Raelite who will be the author.

That covers the arts. As for the sciences, medicine and philosophy, they must also be part of their do-Maine intellectual. A doctor is initiated into the most intimate aspects of life. Family secrets, and as such, what a man of God? – "He holds in his hands the health and life of our "Deadly enemies (?) the Christians."

eZ

Corruption. Buying consciences.
Pimping. Prostitution.

In the tractate x1x, Talm. Sota, 49, b. it is written: "Before the arrival of the Messiah, corruption and depravity of the Christians "Here." And the Jews said to themselves: "Since, by our Holy Talmudic Letters, the Forerunner of the Messiah was not John the Baptist, that austere penitent of the desert, preacher of penance, and minister of a baptism of penance, but the true precursor will be corruption of all the Gentiles; in the supremacy of our dignity, and in the fullness of our unique and incommunicable right cable, We decree The duty of the Jew is to hasten the Advent- The birth of the Messiah through the corruption of the non-Jews. That This imperative word flies on the wings of the four winds. from heaven and finds a faithful echo in the chosen race, for the extermination of the Goy.

When it comes to the Jew as a corrupter, the word cor-
The rupture must be taken in all its universality, because the
The Jew spares no one, from the destitute to the potentate and monarch; nor means, since pleasures the most degrading, up to the thrones, and everything in between.
the degrees of fortune.

They have always been famous as buyers of consciences. This market is, moreover, only an annex of betrayal, including, as with everything else, (honesty except, if we are to stick to the Talmud) they have the monopoly. Nowadays, we are familiar with these contracts;
We can name both the buyers and the sellers; they are not not, as they say, the bigwigs who are rare among the latter.

The Jew is also a specialist in shamelessness. He
He is its practitioner, preacher, and provider. He has not
They didn't have to force themselves to inoculate foreigners with...

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 277

practices and lustful feelings. From her earliest years In his childhood, at school, he was entrusted with it for his education.
morality, a collection of torpid and obscene things, decorated with The title is "Commentary on Genesis." This is the genesis of the Jewish sadism. After this initiation, the modesty of the Women and the respect due to them are treated as prejudices.

"A man can use his wife as he pleases."

It's like he's buying a piece of meat at the butcher's.

darling; as he pleases, he eats it roasted, or boiled

"Li, or cooked over embers." (Talm. Treatise Calla.) That a non-Jewish, unmarried woman living under the same roof in qua-

the life of a concubine alongside the legitimate wife, the latter finds this perfectly natural; Ramban too, this column of

The Synagogue finds that "this is certainly a lawful thing,

And he cannot conceive how anyone could doubt it.

That is not enough for the Jew; sodomy is his right. He does not

I cannot conceive how anyone could doubt it.

Indeed, a Jewish woman, subjugated by her husband, to the morals sodomites, received this response from his rabbi to whom

She complained: "My daughter, I can do nothing for you, because the law (famous law), the Talmud, has delivered you into the hands of the Lord.

"ture." Is this yet another slander? (See the Talmud,

Amsterdam edition, 1644; Sulzbach edition, 1765; finally of Warsaw, 1864.)

So little respect for himself and for real women

(that of his race) the Jew could not recognize any obstacles to its unnatural excesses, when it comes to the non-Jewish woman whom he places on the same level as Lady Aliboron:

"There is no sin in transgressing the sixth commandment" mad with a non-Jew, he who would allow himself this "Fantasy would simply be forgotten with a donkey," says the Talmud. So, according to this gospel of Judaism, Bestiality isn't a sin either, so what happens?

that J. Cross Hoffinger observed in Vienna among the elite

278 THE VIPER BREED

of Israel, doesn't it take place a little everywhere, especially in the major capitals delivered into the hands of Jewish exploitation? "Their

Their own wives seem too good to be sa-

"Criticized for pleasure," this author says, "they keep them safe and..."

They are careful not to seduce or dishonor them. They seek among the races they regard as destined for their to be enslaved, the purest and most intact. And when the entire Jewish moneyed aristocracy...

Sated with the innocence of these victims, she returns them to Christendom and throws them into the abyss of the lowest prostitution.

With such principles and practices in the families of those who, by virtue of their high position, are ap-

With so many people eager to set an example, it should come as no surprise if the Jewish female world leaves so much to be desired from the point of view of morals. The Jewish Archives are forced to admit it. to add: "For a quarter of a century," they said in 1867, and we cannot choose a later date. (Why?) Moralists rightly ask, where does this come from? It so happens that in all the major cities of Europe, we re-a brand among women of ill repute, a greater The number of Jewish women compared to Christian women, this question is unfortunately motivated; because, in Paris, in London, in Berlin, Hamburg, Vienna, Warsaw, Krakow, in what has come to be known as the demimonde, on public squares and even in brothels tution, one encounters more Jewish women than Christian women, in taking into account the proportion that exists between the two populations. It is very unfortunate to note a seemingly blabber; but, however painful it may be, it is true, and if we We did not hesitate to point it out, it is because we want- while we try to remedy it, as we have already "Successfully done for other wounds of this nature." Which ones? – The example in the Jewish quarters, as par-

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 279

Everything is contagious; the Jew starts it, and the Jewess returns the favor. The same. Then, shouldn't we plunder, ruin, corrupt? The Goy? So the Jewish woman is the powerful auxiliary of the Jew: those whom this one could only wound, that one will finish off. will be defined by debauchery and reckless extravagance.

If the Jews are the aristocrats of lust, they are also the suppliers. Pimping, trafficking white farms are farms, and the Tellier houses are... fiefs which they do not disdain, provided that they do not seize them parent. The facts supporting these claims are innum- brables; I ask the reader to forgive me for this, because, I Without a doubt, he is as eager as the one writing these lines. to get out of this foul environment. – But the Jew who lives in this element, you might say? – The Jew? Remember him- it was given the names of plague and vermin of humankind. However, vermin have nothing to fear from the Corruption: it thrives on it, and the plague does not kill its microbe.

It would be very easy for us to increase the List of means of destruction adopted by Israel against us. That's not necessary at all. It's enough for us to knowing that he, who constantly calls us enemies, without us being so, being himself our most per-faithful and most deadly enemy, without, in reality, us we treated it as such, since, deep down, and after all, we we are only defending ourselves: Israel, we say, in his relations with us, will always employ means attacks against our persons and against our rights more sacred, and, consequently, all relations with him will inevitably be disastrous.

After everything we've said so far, it's time to realize the immense progress of the Jewry throughout the world, by the means that we we have just listed them. We could summarize everything, in af-

280 THE VIPER BREED

affirming that Israel is advancing at forced marches to take definitively in possession of the throne of uni- domination the verse he promised himself and from which he believes himself to be far removed than by an insignificant distance.

In France, and we could say the same for everyone other countries, the main sources of income, such as banks, industry, commerce, mines, railways, navigation, etc., are in their hands. They occupy the the most influential, best-paid, and most honorary positions in the Judiciary, the Police, the Council State bodies, the Prefectures, etc. As for the Government, it is dependent on them as soon as the portfolios are entrusted to Freemasons. Here, in fact, is the preponderdegency that the widow's sons (the humble servants) of the nation of Israel, the great widow, widow of her God, Jesus Christ, the true Messiah, widow of his temple and of his kings) recognize, to the Jews in the direction of affairs of the country, despite the fact that they attribute it to themselves.

On the solemnity of the winter solstice festival, from the lodge
"Justice", Sunday, March 1, 1896, presided over by Mr. Rocher, Venerable, Brother Nicolas, Deputy Head of the ca-Binet from the Ministry of Finance opened his heart to us.
F..M. .. "Mr. Doumer," he said, "is being held up at the Ministry of the interior by profane works, I am mistaken, for this "They're almost like masonry work..." Mr. Gadaud said one day when the Republic was the Freemasonry discovery, and Freemasonry, the Republic under cover. I believe that this
The formula has never been truer than it is now. It suffices To be convinced of this, one need only read the list of ministers, and to remember that we have a view displayed on all the walls from France, a ministerial declaration, which contained the First articles in our masonry program...

Then, Mr. Vinière, going even further than the previous one The speaker informed us that "the situation is exceptional-new for the M: and that one could found an L: at the Elisha; the number of masters would be sufficient; the Venerable would be ideal.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 281

We'd better watch out, Venerable Severus stigmatizes "the forces of reaction allied to don- to launch a final assault on the Republic and our Order, that they are lumped together in the same hatred, and it is urgent to establish a Masonic Parliament... sitting alongside the other Parliament, and ready to face all dangers."

"And to think that Bishop Gouthé-Soulard was dragged into mud from all the leaves, more or less devoted to the Grand Orient for having said that France was, no in the Republic, but in Freemasonry. The men who thus proclaimed the triumph of their coterie, representing approximately 20,000 individuals are feeling the effects, among whom are a few hundreds of ambitious people, some more skilled than others, and thousands of to gather fools and imbeciles, as one would seek in vain elsewhere; and it is through this that millions of French Catholics allow themselves to be treated like planters "They would not have dared to call their blacks." de Boisandré, Libre Parole, March 3, 1896. I also believe it's Drumont who wrote that with the help of the Lodges, of which the Jews have high direction, the fake democrats who govern us, the false freethinkers and the real revelers of the Palais-Royal, gave renewed impetus to the persecution of everything that elevates the soul, to the abasement of everything that is great, to the glorification of the basest instincts, and a prefectural order steeped in corruption, ignominy and debauchery.

Lord Beaconsfield, this Jew who, in order to rise to power, had donned the Anglican habit, generalizes the power of Israel: "The world," he said, "is governed by entirely different people who don't see behind "Behind the scenes." Russian diplomacy, full of mysteries and before which Europe trembles, who is it that Who organizes and leads it? The Jews. In Spain, in Paris and Elsewhere, the situation is exactly the same.

Finally, Mr. Michelet bitterly points out, the path traveled by the Jew since he was permitted to give free rein to its methods. "In the Middle Ages, he writes, the one who knows where the gold is, the true alchemist, the
The real sorcerer is the Jew, or the half-Jew, the Lombard; the Jew, the filthy man, the man who cannot touch food nor woman, that they should not be burned; the man of outrages upon the-Whoever everyone is spitting on, he's the one you should be talking to!
Dirty and prolific nation! But they solved the problem to make wealth disappear. Freed by the bill of exchange, They are now free, they are masters! Of bellows "With bellows, there they are, on the throne of the world." On the throne of world! No, they're not there, and even if they were, what's the point?
to know if this royalty will bring them complete happiness that they promise each other. They were able to seize our gold, they will never abolish either our freedom or our rights.

We too take seriously the titles that... at least make their equals, from a human point of view
So, it's a race war that has begun. Lord Beaconsfield this eminent doctor in Schulchan-Aruch
She formally declares to us: "No criminal law, in the-"A physical torment," he tells us, "will never be able to do." that a superior race (the Jewish race) be swallowed up by an inferior race (our own). The bastard and Persian race-
The female author disappears, but the one who is of pure blood, the per-
The sect (!) reigns and endures. It is in vain that they strike at we Jews, by defiling ourselves (!) and humiliating ourselves under their ruins for centuries and decades of centuries, the soul of the Jew rises again, goes forward, and in our time, has already exerted an influence on Europe whose prodigious scale is mer-
"We know this superiority: the no-

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 283

wounds, charity and the heroism of true virtue are to him foreigners. But superiority nonetheless, through employment of their usual means. It is evident that, all other things being equal, between a Frenchman and a Jewish scoundrel, it will always be the
A loyal Frenchman who will be the victim.

And let no one tell us: Do as they do, because the that is morally impossible. The good man will prefer his honesty to success, and his honor to honors. Suppose, however, that, impossible, the French people have carte blanche regarding the use of resources; it is the opinion that the most cunning one might not be the one we think in Israel. Why, prevailing over everything else, should we be inferior? those who are like the Jew in cunning and roguery, if these su- For the French, the noble virtues were on the agenda. against Jews in general and against the French Jewish citizen. But these methods will always repulse us: there will exist always a fundamental difference that we do not cross We will not be divided between truth and lies, good and evil, crime and virtue; we will always distinguish between a a scoundrel and a righteous man.

We will respect men of sincere convictions. but we will repudiate the object of these convictions, if this ob- "Jewish" is a turpitude or a lie. It is a matter of morality. the nature of actions in relations between French citizens, of Jewish race or not. "This is about the resumption of our na- tion by itself, says Drumont, of the efforts of the earth of All of France, to reject far from itself, everything that has "He was able to assimilate with the genius of our race." I understand. These are principles, but there is no need to speak of ex- impulse, towards the French Jewish citizen. France to all the French.

284, THE BREED OF VIPERS

Refutations of Jewish errors and of their consequences

Is it necessary to prove that the characters that we will cite and whose names are synonymous with ge- of moral grandeur and denial, were what one might call truly men, despite not being of Jewish race? Demosthenes, Bossuet and Cicero; Dante and Homer; Shakespeare and Corneille; Saint Thomas Aquinas and Aristotle; Saint Louis, Saint Genevieve, Joan d'Arc; Saint Francis of Assisi, Saint Benedict, Saint Ignatius of Loyola, Saint Vincent de Paul, etc., possessed a prince- spiritual container created for infinite good. This immortal principle- such (since his actions, his ideas, are neither limited by the (not bound by time, nor circumscribed by space) it is the human soul, associated like those of the Jews to a body to form substantially with him, the mixed nature of the animal rai-sensible, or in other words, human nature.

We know infinite goodness, personified in this primary cause that Mr. Jules Delahaye speaks of (Libre Parole, March 12, 1896) where he says: "My reason cannot understand that only one lawgiver of all these worlds: He who, being for being, Eternal Cause of finite causes, so-infinite eye, whose shadow is the sun, friend, do not struggle for "Life." This infinite good, we must love it freely, and It will not necessarily fix our will until it... will be presented intuitively, and not by an act of the intellect. purely abstract ligance. As long as we are on the the path, the march towards our final destination requiring sacrifices- These facts, we can deviate by abusing our freedom in yielding to the fascination and disorder of passions. For to be responsible for moral evil, for true disorder, freedom is necessary; but it is not essential that the subject, To be free, one must be able to transgress the moral order, because of

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 285

On the contrary, the one who creates free beings would be himself deprived of liberty. It is enough that this relates to objects imperfect or indifferent, though in order. Here is the ex-implication of free acts of will here below, nothing of this which is subject to a commandment or prohibition, does not offer us the desired good to fulfill all our tendance and all our capacity for happiness. In these imperfect objects, or imperfectly perfectly of-ferts (as God himself was known abstractly), he There is good in it, and we can freely choose it; there is flaws, and we are free to reject them. Nothing. by not necessarily involving us, we can Accepting or rejecting them is our choice; that's what Freedom consists of this. - Moreover, ultimate happiness cannot we are only granted it as a reward, it cannot be To be different. But without freedom, merit does not exist.

Human rights in its final stages, no one has the right neither to hinder nor to suppress them. To arrest them-river, that's where it should be removed;

1° the absolute authority of the Creator which necessarily-maintains them;

2° the very nature of man, whose rights to this The subject matter is essential, inalienable, and imprescriptible.

tibles, and

3° change the nature of any authority created which was only established to favor these same rights.

Now, whoever has a right to the end has a right to the means. Our end last place above any right that would want the to contest. The sufficient means of achieving this end is, in the rigor, the free exercise of our will. The external means—laughters can, through abuse of power or violence, We may be shielded or forbidden, but, the love of good could never be devilish; on the contrary, freedom does not It would be more freedom. Judah can do nothing about that.

286 THE VIPER BREED

Of our rights and our duties towards our end immortal, our rights to the means derive from this, the right to our own preservation and consequently, ownership rights over this which is necessary for the preservation of life; right over the fruit of our labor exercised, without infringing upon the rights of our similar.

Born sociable, first out of necessity, and then, through this property and by this duty inherent in our nature which leads us to love and help our brother, possessing a nature similar to our own, an object of providence and of the love of the same God, and destined to enjoy eternal— with us, with the same happiness, we naturally have— the right to domestic society and civil society, governed by laws, in accordance with their nature and the principles principles of immutable justice. — No civil power has the the right to interfere in the private affairs of families, as long as they do not deviate from the rules of fairness; nor to prescribe them such a direction, such an education, etc. for the members who compose them, provided that they do not do not contravene the sound laws of natural morality, nor to those that were enacted for prosperity temporal of the homeland.

Man is not even obliged to obey the laws of the State, if these laws infringe upon its natural rights over its family.

As for civil society, it is prescribed to us by our natural inclination, due to our poverty, our security, our temporal prosperity, etc. etc. We possess a homeland invested with sacred power and rights, which are our common good and the guarantee of our public rights and private. Neither isolated individuals, nor civil factions, nor powerful foreign powers cannot infringe upon our rights to citizens, those of the homeland, and promise each other, at the same time time, impunity.

UNIVERSAL DOMINATION BY THE JEWS 287

For the future universal ruler, these rights will not They don't count. It's in his instincts, it was instilled in him. Properly nourished with milk, by the breast that fed her, he learned it by the examples of his family, were infused into his being through his through his eyes, his ears, all his senses, and became amalgamated in his brain and in his heart. All our efforts to Our attempts to assimilate it have always had negative results: Jew He was, he is, Jewish; will he return? Certainly. Indeed. on this point we are not in agreement with some of our compatriots who, following the example of Russia and according to what has which took place in France in the past, they would like to banish the Jew. to relegate it to some corner of the universe, where it is not- would tend to talk more about him, and, where, like the scorpion which, surrounded by a circle of fire, it turns its poisonous dart- Born against himself, he would spread his ease and his corruption hereditary and would practice moral aberrations on the his.

EX

"8 'd 'MIY9DSIZ, PAMIPI,
- HJOHdvs0y, np nI
"07 'SS $ ul{vy)
Y9D4Q 'YINAD UDYIINYIS

'um Y un no JUOUPIPX9 UN
ajdusxs Jed suwuos 'oredos say amdur osogy> ounnb sues ajquiosus juolos S[Enb [-neJ 10009 39 'ojquosus
quos sym{ xp onbsioy onb 9Jp 2179 nod or psIpe"

191d 3p WOU 2[JU9IA MI nop '«0IIIOUES 79 9A9[T» 0IP-8-3S99 “«HISDPDYYJ0A
12P05y1] » : SJ0uI S0I
ed ooooumoo oxatid 2790) wSipey omud eT

UQEU NP S29IAIDS S0] IOLIEUI9P 9P 2NS0UI u9 9179 nod ourtuoy QT 2[Uepu2ye UT waves uerig { onbie1qou aU99S – SN]NIU9T JUDPU971D UT

289

CHAPTER IX

PRACTICAL MEANS AGAINST FALSE PRINCIPLES AND AGAINST THE EVIL ACTION OF ISRAEL

we know that, by proposing these means of legitimate self-defense and public safety, the rabbis and

The most ardent among the Talmudists will denounce urbi and the world that we persecute their religious beliefs, that France must remain the land of liberty and justice, etc., etc., as if our work were not absolutely foreign to the question of worship, and as if it were not solely for reasons of justice and freedom that we Let us raise the battle cry: Justice and freedom for all!
French people! France for all French people!

We attack thieves in the name of justice, which
So, the accusation of intolerance should be considered in light of this.
against us? We are committing all our compatriots, Jews or non-Jews, to be faithful to their faith and their convictions religious beliefs if they are acting in good faith; (what we are dealing with-(we always assume) the one who in this case is missing
This loyalty is not that of an honest man.

For reasons far less serious than those which are contained in this small volume, Mr. Zadoch Khan, great
The rabbi of France published in a newspaper the letter that...
Go read it.

Paris, January 20, 1890.

Mr. Director,

"I consider it my duty to protest with the last-ditch effort, against what was said last Saturday, at the Neuilly election meeting. Without taking part in a political struggle that is beyond my understanding, it seems impossible to me not to reject, in the name of my cult (what on earth is worship doing here?) of attacks as violent as they are poorly justified, which are a direct appeal to all the bad passions (the bad passions we fight them; we only ask for justice. As a Jew (and therefore you are one), I grieve over it, as Frenchmen, I blush at the thought. France would no longer be France. that is to say, the country of liberal traditions, of ideas of justice and fairness, if words like those that have been words spoken the other day could awaken the slightest echo.

It is already too much that, one hundred years after the Revolution of 1789, it can happen in public meetings of such excitements, against an entire category of citizens, who are Frenchmen as good as anyone else, who, since a century, served France with passionate devotion and shed their blood in its defense on all the fields of battle, notably during the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 (You Don't answer, you're going off-topic, that's not the point. (That's what we talked about). I appeal to bring justice to these hateful sermons, to honest people (to Cornelius Herz and Reinach, for example) and in good faith, of all the religions and all parties. It's a conviction of mine. absolute, that not one of the members of the Catholic clergy (and the Chief Rabbi of Sir Readcliffe?) and of the Protestant clergy, whose virtues, nobility of heart and mind, I admire, enlightened patriotism, would not want to subscribe to a language who are neither French, nor Christian, nor human. These French whose language you dislike so much, condemned actions Jewish ments, while remaining just, fair and even They are lenient towards people. They hate neither Dreyfus, nor the other scoundrels of your race, they have no hatred but against their conduct and against the means they employ to rob and enslave us.

AGAINST THE EVIL ACTION OF ISRAEL 291

Did you protest, as they did in the past the Popes and Bishops, each time your an- These trees were attacked by illegal means, did you protested during the expulsions of religious figures and the ex- laws ception, a work of Freemasonry, directed by the Yours?

These measures, you will say, are legal, that much is clear. The world knows it, but are they any less so, despite this legal- exceptional measures. The Jews, you might add, will not They do not control Freemasonry. Take this into account. The accusation then falls on the authors who support it.

What do you say, Mr. Chief Rabbi, to this letter? of the Jewish swindler Eugène Mayer, published by La Lanterne, the December 4, 1883: "And you conclude that we were wrong to To shoot the poor priests in 1871! We are of one On the contrary, we even believe that too much has been used of consideration towards them. They hadn't stolen it (since you didn't steal the cash register): that couldn't do martyrs, and indeed, he made none." He did not That's not the point; it's about whether or not they are martyrs. but if they had committed crimes punishable by law of death.

What do you say to this, sir? Rabbi. "How to cleanse ourselves of this infection (the clergy) Catholic and French), get rid of this vermin? Ask the terrorist convention members for their recipe!

292 THE VIPER BREED

It's the only effective one (the guillotine, Mr. Great (rabbi.) We say that the place of the priest (and that (from the rabbi, please?) is nowhere to be found, not even at the pulpit of the church, which has the public meeting platform. Let him "Take off your robes and live as a loyal citizen, or be expelled!" (We do not ask the same of the gentlemen rabbis). "In a republic of free discussion and of intellectual development (does he even know what he said this unfortunate fellow!) there is no room for him, nor for the "plague." It is La Petite République française which, there is no that a few months and a hundred years after the Revolution of '89, published these incitements against an entire category of citizens who are as good French as anyone else, etc...

On page 82, we briefly recalled the complaints which, from the first centuries of our era, arose were attacking the Jews from all sides. The plaintiffs, to name just a few of the main ones, fifty councils from across the Christian world, more than twenty popes and a large number of sovereigns from the most powerful nations Europe, grappling with ever-increasing crime the health of the Jews, were forced to warn and re- to prevail through just laws, the most important of which are:

Marriage. – Christians are forbidden to contract marriage with persons of Jewish race. Nullity of these unions.

Frequentation. – Christians are forbidden to live, to to eat, to play, to go swimming with Jews and to sell or rent houses to them.

Distinctive mark. – The obligation for Jews, to to distinguish themselves from other nations by a sign or This visible mark had existed since Moses. This obligation- tion in Europe was imposed on them by the fourth

AGAINST THE EVIL ACTION OF ISRAEL 293

Lateran Council, 1215. The Persians had taken This precaution was taken several centuries ago.

Public employments. – Jews are prohibited from holding public office. civil or military functions, especially those which would have authorized them to hand down sentences against the Christians. He who entrusted such responsibilities to Jews were severely punished and their status was revoked. and forced to distribute to the poor all the money he had received something during this employment.

Religion. – Freedom of worship granted to Jews. Prohibition against proselytizing, against giving their unleavened bread to the Christians, these should not nor sell them, nor buy from them chalices or other things objects of worship, they will not attend their ceremonies-religious denials, etc.

Service. – Prohibition against Jews owning slaves, servants, Christian wet nurses. The Christians must reject "the fetid services of Jews"; he will have no recourse to midwives, nor to Jewish doctors; he will accept neither gifts nor festive gifts; he will not buy meat from Jewish butchers, etc.

Financial matters. – Prohibition to Christians of certain Countries borrowing money from Jews: Defense to demand excessive interest, under penalty of being deprived of any connection with Christians; to continue the recovery of usufructuary interest through legal means rary, and obligation to return what he had extorted through wear and tear, etc.

In short, we can, with Saint Thomas Aquinas, summarize all the means of social defense, in force against the Jewish community in the Middle Ages. These means were com- taken from the following four points:

294, THE BREED OF VIPERS

The Jews were:

1. Serfs in perpetuity; therefore,
- 2° taxable at will, in the common interest;
- 3° obliged to honest work, as a means of existence;

- 4 forced to conspicuously wear a sign distinctive.

For us, that is to say for the vast majority of French people, what remains for us to do to annihilate the nefarious Jewish power, in this 19th century, where the kings of High finance and the Jews have reduced the countless army proletarians (not counting the other victims), in the middle-serfdom and slavery, through merciless exploitation?

The steps to take to obtain such a happy re-
The results are as follows:

1° Assimilation.

2° Expulsion.

3° Preventive and repressive laws according to all the rights of justice, against all injustice in general, and especially against all propaganda contrary to the true principles of morality, and against any offense or crime that infringes upon the interests of others. We opt for the latter.

L – The supporters of Assimilation propose these two means;

1° Fusion through conversion to the Catholic faith and, to prepare for this;

2. Mixing of races through marriage. The first through these means, conversion to the Christian faith, does not depend on us, but on the Jew alone. It will one day be a fait accompli, being certain as foretold in the Holy Scriptures. By this conversion, the Jews no longer being Jews, they would no longer be harmful; they would become new men, men of the new and eternal alliance. Through the practice of commandments—God's guidance and evangelical counsel, we would see in them models of all virtues, They should hurry, however, for if their entry into the bosom of the Church, must remain for a long time difficult. For us, it is merely an illusory means.

AGAINST THE EVIL ACTION OF ISRAEL 295

The mixing of races through marriage unions, would contribute, to a large extent, to abolishing the pretentious prejudices of the sui generis Jewish nationality that make all the members of this nation, the parasites with abuses, which we have seen.

IT – Those in favor of expulsion reason roughly

Thus :

Conversion? But it's not within our power.

The Jew does not admit any means that depend solely on him. not, and would he admit it, that he authorized us not to include it there— It's like a new kiss from Judas. The story has shown us that the Jews of Spain, Portugal, from Bordeaux etc., freely converted to Christianity, were no more Christian than the Talmud is the Gospel.

On the other hand, how can we address separatism and The exclusivism of the Jewish nation? Will it be through a law? prohibiting marriages between Jews? — First, this law would be unjust, and then the Jews would unite without resorting to the matrimonial formalities of the State.

What now? No contract, no pact, no rap— Carrying it with them, but not buying from them? A complete ban on everything. Trafficking, of any kind, for their own account? Abolition of the decree of 1791 which gave them the rights of citizens French ?

296 THE VIPER BREED

— None of these means, they reply, has the power to make the Jew no longer a Jew. Without banishment The history of the Jews of France, from yesterday, would nevertheless be, the history of tomorrow and the actions and words of Israel in the In future centuries, reproduction would be, in our country, the— authentic account of his actions and deeds in past centuries. Woe, then, to the nations that keep Israel in their breast, whatever means they take against Him! So expulsion is salvation.

However, they would like this expulsion to be legal. that is to say, voted on by both Houses, and promulgated by the head of state.

IL — Just preventive and repressive measures, but extremely rigorous or, in other words; as much as he is humanly possible, through wise and strong laws. to prevent harm from occurring, and where it does occur, the repress immediately, rigorously and generally ral, ruthlessly. It is understood that, at the same time In time, we would put into effect, by favoring them, the laws the most suitable for the true material and moral progress of the people

French.

But first, since we have uncovered the secret
Let us also fix our attention on the strength of Judah.
the universal means, which allows it to exploit this same secreted everywhere and in every respect, in fact confers upon it, the universal domination (Judas being everywhere), made of All the nations of the globe, as many protectorate countries
Jewish, and makes us his miserable and dishonored slaves.

This effective and universal means which, at the service of the true brotherhood and a true democratic republic, would be one of the most powerful factors in happiness and public and private prosperity, but which, in the hands Israel is the most active agent of misfortune and dishonor

AGAINST THE EVIL ACTION OF ISRAEL 297

this means, from the nations and non-Jewish individuals, It's gold.

The fact is obvious; it is the justification for these words.
collected by Sir Readcliffe, and that a great prince of Israel addressed to his parasitic nation: "Our people are rising up gradually, and every day its power grows.

"To us belongs this god of the day that Aaron gave us raised in the desert, this Golden Calf, this universal deity.
Therefore, when we have become the only ones who Masters of all the gold on earth, true power will pass away in our hands, and then the promises that will be fulfilled were made to Abraham. Gold, the greatest power on earth, – gold, which is strength, reward, the ins-instrument of all pleasure, everything that man fears and covets—that is the great mystery, the profound science
The spirit that governs the world! That is the future. The century
The present and future centuries must belong to us, to us.
people of Israel, and will surely belong to us... We we are on the verge of achieving our sole objective: that to rule the earth, as was promised to our Father Abraham.

This right to universal domination, by all means, and conditions for other peoples than what we have exposed is a folly of the Jewish race, but She nonetheless believes that it happened.

Formerly, supreme authority was the law of sovereigns. It was shared by the aristocracy of the science and virtue and by the Nobility, acquired by the unwavering dedication to the public cause and by the sacrifice of blood shed for the fatherland, on the fields of battle. Since the great Revolution, power has been, from In fact, it was the prerogative of the moneyed aristocrats, the barons of finance, whose fortunes have most often been built, through methods described as legal theft and fraud, by Mr. Demachy, Les Rothschild, very competent in these materials. In the last century, as always, power relied on fortune, but fortune drew its strength from in land ownership, and his favorites, (who were by consequently also those in power) were the nobles, sei-owners of these historic castles and their immense areas, including Jews, and mostly Jews, have become the masters.

298 THE VIPER BREED

Today, the power of wealth lies in the capital, of which the Jews of all countries are the great and practically the only owners. The Rothschild clan According to Mr. Demachy, she alone would be afflicted with some twenty billion, including at least five billion for the Rothschild of Paris. To the Jews, therefore, belongs power: as in Toussenel's time, they are still-days the kings of the time.

The power of gold, and, by an equally lo-that inevitable, the authority, whether hidden or overt, in fact or by right, but the real authority in any case, being in the hand of the Jews, whose instincts, purpose and means to achieve this, are perfectly demonstrated to us; by what means, apart from assimilation and banishment, Will France ever be able to free itself from their yoke?

Political Means. – The principal leaders of the Power, and the legislators, to be elected by universal suffrage salt, voting is compulsory, under penalty of a heavy fine to be determined.

Elections of the Head of State, Members of Parliament and of Senators, by universal suffrage; the first by all the nation's electors, the latter by their circumstances respective descriptions.

AGAINST THE EVIL ACTION OF ISRAEL 299

Election of Deputies representing the various corporations, by the members of said corporations.

Referendum on all matters of general interest superior ral.

Statute of limitations for ministerial responsibility after ten years.

Financial resources. – Absolute elimination of all intermediary in all matters relating to the expenses of Municipalities and the State. In this way, the benefits that would realize, ten, twenty, one hundred intermediaries, etc., the rest would be to the State and the Commune. Now, the State and the Commune, In these cases, it applies to all French citizens. So, at so many resources, that neither the State nor the Communes have– They wouldn't ask us.

State appropriation of everything of primary importance necessity, in order to establish a fair balance between the producer's profit and the consumer's expenditure eur. The highest possible price to pay the producer, in report with the best possible market, for the consumer amateur: such is the ideal to be achieved by a true Republic– democratic process. Benefit for all, privilege for person. By these means, the intermediary being eliminated– Me, the Jewish scoundrel, is the same.

Agreement with other countries for the adoption of the same Gold and silver standards against speculation. Lifetime bond (through deductions from wages or profits) of res– to determine the amount of the theft, or the value of the damage caused to others.

A sharp decrease in the interest rate on money, and A more equitable proportion to be established, between the benefit of the boss and the worker's workforce.

All the houses are insured by the state. The pro–
Landlords will only be able to receive a very low income.

For example, 40% of the value of their properties. Penalties the most rigorous measures against arsonists.

Careers, roles, jobs. – General education

Tuition is mandatory up to and including age 14 only; free and optional for higher education up to age 16 accomplished. A second failure on the same exam, sup-

The right to free services and the right to represent oneself are paramount.

a third time. Jobs, positions, in the competition all careers. For senior positions, only

Those with advanced degrees will be eligible to compete; for the second-

For the higher ranks, the associate professors; for the lower ranks, the doctors, and,

Failing that, the licensees. And other similar means, such as associations, conferences, etc., and above all, return to the practice of Christian principles.

Moreover, here is the anti-Semitic agenda, voted on by ac-proclamation, at the Lyon Congress of November 25-30, 1896, by 6,000 people, and that I only accept insofar as it-would have been ratified by a plebiscite.

"1° The decree of 1791, which granted the rights of ci-French taxes on Jews must be abolished, as well as the Crémieux Decree on Algeria;

2. In the meantime, Jews must be excluded from the en-public education, the judiciary, jobs administrative and rank positions in the army;

3. As regards public opinion, the Congress thank-
Mr. Drumont's company of his incomparable campaign and expresses the desire that Catholic newspapers or simply patriotic lead vigorously the anti-Semitic campaign and that this campaign either aided by brochures and supported by a information and advertising agency;

4. Regarding business, Congress calls for reform laws on public limited companies, companies under which conceals Jewish action.

He demands the full application of criminal laws against monopolies and monopolization, and demands that the fight against the monopolization of Jewish commerce, i.e. gold organized by the Fraternal Union, by the local leagues, by the publication of lists of Jewish merchants.

In the interest of national security, the Congress of—demands the expulsion of the Jews from the army commissariat, tenders for supplies, which are for them a means of spying on and betraying France.

Therefore, the Jewish spirit, by virtue of which the Israelites who in are animated, form by instinct and principle, a nation and a parasitic state, in all nations of the globe, to disintegrate, corrupt, and destroy them, in order to to establish, by depriving them of all rights, their domination universal, using all means in the service of deceit: That's the breed of vipers.

The laws we have proposed and other measures analogous: such is the olive branch.

Let Israel not trample it underfoot, for in that case it All that would be left for us, for our legitimate defense, would be... the sword of the law, and perhaps, if this remained ineffective Effective, the expulsion. The Appeal to the people that we demand by virtue of the principles of fairness and the right to vote universal rules that govern us would soon have fixed us on this question.

But we want to repeat it one last time: this is not would be that after having exhausted in vain all means of conciliation, that we would appeal to the people in pushing—with Mr. Demachy, this cry of distress and alarm: "Woe to the country which, under the vain pretext of obeying..." foolish principles, will sacrifice his children for the benefit of a foreign race by warming /a Jewish viper in her breast.

"What we learn in the cradle"

"It lasts until the grave."
(French proverb.)

"Teaching is suitable for children..."
"That's what to do when they grow up."
(Gabriel MEURIER, Treasury of Sentences, 16th century.)

AUTHORS CITED IN THIS WORK

DAUDET LÉON. Shakespeare's Journey;
Charpentier, publisher, Paris.
DE LIGNEAU, JEAN. Jews and anti-Semites in Europe;
Tolra, bookseller and publisher, Paris.
DE Wołski, KALIKST. Jewish Russia;
A. Savine, publisher, Paris.
DEMACHY, EDOUARD. The Rothschilds; published by the author.
DESPORTES, HENRI. The Mystery of Blood. etc.;
A. Savine, publisher, Paris.

DRUMONT, EDOUARD. Jewish France, 2 vols.; Marpon & Flammarion publishers.
– . The Last Battle;
Dentu, publisher, Paris.

GAYRAUD, H. ABBÉ. The Anti-Semitism of Saint Thomas d'Aquin; E. Dentu, Paris.

KIMON, DANIEL. Israelite Politics;
To Savine, Paris.

303

LAZARE, BERNARD. Anti-Semitism, its history and its causes;

L. Chailley, publisher, Paris.
LECLERCQ JULIEN. The Physiognomy, after Eugène Ledos; Larousse Paris.
MARTINEZ, DOCTOR. The Jew, that is the enemy;
A. Savine, publisher, Paris.
O'THOUMA, GORÉ. The Jewish Spirit, 1888; printing works of J. Mazeyrie, Tulle.
PICARD, EDMOND. Synthesis of Anti-Semitism; A. Savine, Publisher, Paris, & Widow Ferd. Larcier, Brussels.
ROHLING, AUGUSTE (ABBÉ). The Jew according to the Talmud;
A. Savine, publisher, Paris.
SÉVERIN JULES. Anti-Jewish and French medicine;
A. Savine, publisher, Paris.
SWEDENBORG. The Celestial Arcana, vol. 1. p. 130.
TAPARELLI D'AZEGLIO. Elementary Course in Natural Law International Catholic Bookstore, Paris.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PTÉFACE mu nue ee ae vue ve ve ann un vue ee ane au vue ee vue Ÿ

A word about the title of this work 11

CHAPTER ONE

Dot comes Ie Er use nemunussinses D

The Bonds and Judges of the Hebrew People. – Schism. – Chronological table of the kings of Judah and Israel.
– End of the kingdom of Israel. – Samaritans. – End of the kingdom of Judah. – Return from captivity Babylon – The Seventy Weeks of Daniel.
Chronological distribution of Daniel's weeks.
– High Priests of the Hebrews. – After the return of Babylon. – High priests and Maccabean princes. – High priests of the Jews after the loss of civil power.

CHAPTER II

Preservation of the race of Israel 37

CHAPTER III

What is a Jew? The morality of the Jew in general... 43

The flesh. – The bloodthirsty nature of the Jew. – The Inquisition Jewish. – Extermination, political assassinations. – Jewish Molochism.

CHAPTER IV

The Jews after Jesus Christ.

Their dispersal. – In search of the lost tribes.

– Some plaintiffs against the Jews from the very beginning centuries of Christianity. – Crimes attributed to Jews. – Principal banishments of the Jews. –

Return of the Jews.

CHAPTER V

What is a Jew since Jesus Christ?

Ethnography. Physiognomy. Free will always safe. – The Jew of the South, the Jew of Germany, Writer, scholar, doctor, etc., Mr. Kif-Kif. – Jews Galicians and Poles. – Jews operating in France. – Jewish Nosology. – Scabies, ulcers, anemia, scrofula, plique, flux, etc. – Language. Jewish colors. Flag of the universal domination of Israel. – The Jew stinks.
– The cleansing baths of the Jewish woman of Russia
According to Kalixt de Wolski. – Literature and the Jewish aroma.

CHAPTER VI

Explanation of the spirit if 54 ussssumssentune

The difficulty of deciphering the Jewish mind. – The Jewish secret.

The Talmud. – Legitimacy of lying and perjury.

– Legitimacy of a lie, whether real or based on facts, is– that is to say, through false religious conversions. – The Jew

ment in the translation of the Talmud. – Purpose in which

The Jew arrogates to himself the right to lie. – Why

The Talmud must always remain a mystery to the Non-Jews. – The Talmud is still the book of the law of the Jewish nation. – Composition of the Talmud. – The

The Talmud, the current civil code of the Jewish nation. – The pious Talmudic Rothschild and his nation. – dissent

71

97

123

THE VIPER BREED 307

apparent, or Talmudic and Reformed. – The Jew at religious point of view. – Evidence. – Excellency of Rabbi. – His authority. – His wisdom. – God in school.
– The rabbi's curse and power. – Poor Moses. – The fear of the Jew. – Distinction between The subject and the object. – Jewish dogma on humanity, or:
the Jew from the point of view of his race and other races.
– Basis of Antisemitism. – The Jew Considered Individually and in his relationship with God and towards those outside his race. – Definition of a Jew. – Jewish Impudence. Joseph Reynach.

CHAPTER VII

Logical and practical consequences of the Jewish spirit against other races without distinction 201

First consequence of the Jewish spirit. – Second

A consequence of the Jewish spirit. – Third consequence which stems from the Jewish spirit or the definition of a Jew.

– Fourth consequence of the definition of the Jew.

CHAPTER VIII

Means used by Jews to achieve the consequences analyzed above and for to achieve universal domination 253

CHAPTER IX

Practical means against false principles and against the evil actions of Israel 289

Authors cited in this work 303

Table of contents ue a 305

"Tomorrow in Jerusalem!"

FIND ALL PUBLICATIONS

reviews of rare or banned books in digital format

THE SAVOISIAN & THE CULUS

Rare or hard-to-find books and documents

+ Wawa Coxspi – BLOG + Hisroire E-Book
the-savoisien.com/blog/ histoireebook.com

+ Wawa Coxspi – FORUM + Bazper Ex-LiBris
the-savoisien.com/wawa-conspi/ balderexlibris.com

+ FREE PDF + ARYANA LiBRis
freepdf.info/ aryanalibris.com

+ ALDEBARAN VIDEO + PDF ARCHIVE aldebaranvideo.tv/ pdfarchive.info

All reviews or digital reissues de Lencuius are free, and cannot be used for any profit.
All of his publications can be found on the website.
<http://the-savoisien.com>

JEWISH AUSTRIA

F. TROCASE

JEWISH AUSTRIA

CONTEMPORARY AUSTRIA

As it is: Political, Economic, Military and Social

PARIS

PAUL DUPONT A. PIERRET

Printer and Publisher

4, rue du Bouloi 4 37, rue Étienne Marcel 37

PREFACE

In 1899 an astonishing book was published, which nevertheless remained hitherto unknown: Jewish Austria, by F. Trocase, Octavo format book, published by A. Pierret, 37, rue Étienne Marcel, Paris.

This book, whose interest grows with the passage of time, is marked by such a prophetic character that one would attempted to link its author to the great visionaries of history, if the term were not fundamentally inaccurate.

When we talk about a visionary, we imagine a being plunged into ecstasy and foreseeing the future by force alone of a supernatural intuition. That is certainly not the case. Trocase, quite the contrary: he is a lucid observer and Cold, but insightful, terribly insightful.

In 1899 he examined the internal situation in Austria and its repercussions on international politics as well as on the future of Europe. In calm, measured terms, but With relentless rigor, he depicts its decomposition. internally through the slow infiltration of Judaism.

Like a clinician might, he diagnoses the disease and shows the infection gradually gaining ground all the inner workings of the country. Through its clarity, its precision and lack of passion, this description is Debate: We see the Jewish virus proliferating under our eyes, infiltrate everywhere, corrupt and ultimately destroy an empire with a history of grandeur spanning seven centuries. A solemn warning issued to the West against the old Jewish corruption, three thousand years old, but everywhere identical, present everywhere, formidable everywhere.

IT JEWISH AUSTRIA

This is indeed a warning to the France, which Trocase had conceived his work... Let's move on!

This, then, is the first part of the work of Trocase: he observes, he notes, he describes. But it is not Everything, that's not even the main point; starting from Based on the observations he presents, Trocase foresees what will happen not only in Austria, but in Europe and beyond particularly in France. As a result, we are rising to the historical drama; better than any soldier, Whether a career diplomat or politician, this obscure Frenchman has He saw everything, planned everything, announced everything, nothing escaped his notice He never made a mistake once. At forty years of From a distance, his work appears as one of the most astonishing prophecies that any old grimoire has ever contained from times long ago.

Trocase announces the imminent demise as inevitable. of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, he predicts that François-Joseph will be the last of the Habsburgs; he foreshadows failure. of the Jewish rush on Germany and, as a consequence, the wave The anti-Semite of the Third Reich; he describes in advance the Hitlerian nationalist racism, he talks to us about the Anschluss as a witness might do in 1938, he predicted the Judeo-Russian Bolshevism and its sinister Red Terror; is worried about France and poses this distressing question question :

After Austria, will France be the next to appear?
as the designated victim of rabbinic maxims? Is-
This is the history of our beautiful France, which has been inscribed in letters of fire in the annals of the monarchy of Habsburg?

PREFACE JET

But we could go on forever listing everything that Trocas foresaw. Rarely, indeed, has a writer in the world
Austria, whose predictions have all come true.
Jewish therefore deserves a notoriety equivalent to that mysterious Protocols over which he has the advantage of authenticity that brooks no argument. All those those who are rightly concerned about the Jewish peril should be aware of this work, learn it by heart, absorb it line by line because the "Great Western Democracies" follow a trait to trace the path that led Austria to its grave and France at the disaster of 1940.

Its author has remained completely obscure, just like that This usually happens to those whom Israel does not look upon with an eye favorable, and, despite our research, we know nothing about him that what these few lines tell us about it
Preface: |

Our readers will wonder how a publicist
The Frenchman was thus able to get to the heart of the matter...

The printer Paul Dupont, at whose place we have Further investigations revealed that it still exists in the same form.
address, 4, rue du Bouloi, in Paris, but having composed this
The book was for a now-defunct publisher; he was unable to...
to give no information about F.'s personality.
Trocas.

It doesn't matter, after all, because the text speaks for itself.
We will reproduce the essential pages, we simply highlighting the passages in bold the most striking and to add some comparative notes the past of then to the present day.

1. Readers of this edition will find further on, in full, the foreword by Trocase, of which the fragment quoted by Léon de Poncins, p. 12 (editor's note) °

2? Léon de Poncins wrote these lines as a preface to his book Zsraël Destroyer of Empires, a prophetic document from 1899, which, in

IV JEWISH AUSTRIA

Let us remember that this book was written forty years ago years, and, in the light of predicted historical catastrophes Let us now listen to Trocas speak through this prophet.

LÉON DE PONCINS –[1943]

1943, reproduced roughly one third of Jewish Austria [1899], while rat adding a number of notes and considerations as for the disturbing prophetic aspect of the book of Trocas and the similarities with the dying years of the Third Republic, under the leadership of a certain Chairman of the Board known as by Léon Blum. More than a hundred years after the first edition of Jewish Austria, we deemed it useful, on the one hand, to restore it fully to the current generation of French people, while preserving, from The other, most of Léon de Poncins' remarks. (note by (the publisher)

FOREWORD

The hour is approaching when it will resound mournfully, in the middle from the anxious attention of peoples and governments, the funeral knell that will toll the agony of the Austro- Empire Hungarian. Who doesn't understand that it will then happen, at center of our continent, a fierce struggle between the powers that believe themselves called upon to gather the spoils of this old empire to increase their own Domination? If, at the decisive moment, France, instead of concentrate his forces as appropriate, turn distractedly, his gaze shifted to the other side, this minute This oversight could cost him dearly. His future, his role in Europe, its destiny in a word, may depend on the attitude she will adopt on the day the evolution ends currently being completed, Austro- populations

Hungarian. A question of European balance, a question of political influence, a matter of material interests: everything competes to demonstrate to her the importance that they have for her the divisive posers who are currently struggling on the banks of the Danube.

Those who might be tempted to believe that we are exaggerating they only have to look at the meticulous care with which Germany, Italy and Russia are observing the political upheavals of Austria-Hungary, and inquire about the smallest details and gestures likely to dictate their conduct.

VI JEWISH AUSTRIA

To clearly define the depth and true scope of vital questions are swirling around the Empire from Austria, we trace our research back to the essential causes of popular movements which demonstrate with unprecedented force. We unite to the best of our ability, synthesize the solutions that present themselves to us, in order to identify the origin and the current state of affairs and the nature of events that the logic of facts allows us to plan.

Thus conceived, the task we have undertaken is, at strictly speaking, this one: to make the truth known. Entirely on Austria, to show it as it is, and to enable French public opinion to appreciate the gravity of the situation for Europe in general, for France in particular.

Deeply convinced that by acting in this way we are fulfilling an imperative duty; we have had no other choice. The concern is to tell the whole truth, without asking for advice to no one, without worrying about what we might be doing. One might think.

Some of our readers may be wondering how could a French publicist have penetrated so deeply into the matter? Things and to make a rigorously accurate account of what happens in a foreign country. The explanation is good. simple. The author of this book was born to French parents in the capital of Austria. He served there for twenty-two years in the journalism profession, energetically defending the interests of his country in the press, after having held a professorship at a college in Vienna. He was thus naturally introduced to all the details of the political, economic and social existence of the empire of Habsburg. He saw the men and things up close, and has was able, in his capacity as a Frenchman, to judge them with complete impartiality.

F. TROCAGE – [1899]

JEWISH AUSTRIA

CONTEMPORARY AUSTRIA AS IT IS POLITICAL, ECONOMIC, MILITARY AND SOCIAL

I
THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE

GENERAL OVERVIEW, THE DYNASTY,
THE AGONY

There is nothing, in this end of the century, however full of events, which are more profoundly sad, but in at the same time more worthy of attention than the slow the agony of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, which is dying from impu- the ability to live after having, for several centuries, filled the world with the noise of his greatness and his renown- How to defend oneself against a sharp and deep emotion, when one refers in thought to the role dominant role played in Europe by the monarchy founded in 1283 by Rudolf of Habsburg, and which is considered a state of utter disarray in the midst of which she is reduced to Debate today? What has become of the splendors? of yesteryear? What a contrast with the glorious era when... were gathered together, on the head of a single man, the crowns of Austria-Germany, of the Netherlands, from Spain and Naples!

7 JEWISH AUSTRIA

What the Italian wars had already begun, the
The Battle of Sadowa finished it off. Austria, excluded from the

The German Confederation is now nothing more than a vast agglomeration of peoples who also show themselves all equally sorry to be paired, and whose incessant struggles shake the system a little more each day. bases of the polynomial state. The ardor with which it manifested itself The major popular movements celebrate and assert themselves. to further highlight the Government's impotence in to dominate them. Only one race, the Jewish nation, benefits from these irreconcilable divisions to achieve a true The work of a mole will eventually, if one is not careful, lead to throwing Down with the entire social order.

In this monarchy that is succumbing under the weight of centuries, what strikes the imagination most of all, within Outside, there is parliamentary turmoil. hears the warning sounds of the most serious events. if not immediately, then at least in the near future. It is It is clear that all this fuss is nothing more than a sign outside of a tormented existence, the echo of dissent—intimate details, clear proof that the current state of things are condemned by the Austrian people as An institution of the past. The logic of aspirations modern technology makes recovery increasingly difficult of the agreement between the nationalities grouped under the same scepter. Political struggles would not have this bitterness, the The parties involved would not put this passion to tear each other apart if the politicians of Europe whole had not proclaimed in turn, like a An indisputable dogma: the principle of nationalities. History contemporary is here, with its recent teachings. to shed light on the immediate causes of passion with which Slavs and Germans fight each other others. What animates them, what touches them to the core of their being, it is the desire to constitute themselves in turn as states independent, or to unite with their mother country.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 3

Nationalist unrest finds ample fuel natural in its hatred of existing institutions; and this hatred is based on complaints that are more or less justified. caused by the way business is run internal, by the economic and social state, by the administration tration, and other things besides. It is, in truth, difficult that it be otherwise. How can one govern, by the parliamentary system, and groups of people as well diverse, races so distinct, so little in harmony with each other, without any tensions arising of this nature? What is done for a nationality, in a simple spirit of justice and loyalty, the others Nationalities, jealous, find it bad. The same method The administration cannot please them all; that's inevitable. Then, most Austrian politicians, even among those considered the most eminent, hesitate to to take the initiative, decisively, in matters of administrative reforms. They are content to conform to routine. They lack courage in the fear of compromising themselves with regard to their party, and to get themselves out of trouble, they practice the dangerous maxim laissez-faire.

Montesquieu already said it in his time. A state must be based on firm and well-followed principles, which ensure each citizen individually, at the same time that the necessary protection be provided to all populations, satisfaction as complete as possible. To achieve this. To achieve this, heads of state must be driven by a firm, rational and attentive will to discover in all things in the general interest. However, unfortunately, in In Austria, nothing similar should be expected. Public opinion, on the contrary, is most bewildered often by the strange attitude of those who should to govern. The people do not feel governed; things go somewhat adrift. The result, in the long run, that no one takes the mission of the Austrian state seriously, that no one should consider what might usefully serve the nation common. It is only secondarily, and in a way incidentally, that the ministers attach themselves to such or such an opinion outside of nationalist programs. They thus manage, more or less successfully, to make each other counterweight.

4 JEWISH AUSTRIA

At the beginning of the constitutional era, when the patent October 1861 would have put an end to the period of reaction which followed the revolution of 1848, the party to which was given the a usurped name of a liberal party, which in reality did not pursue other than the goal of centralizing German hegemony to the detriment of the Slavs and the Hungarians, it seemed all initially willing to embark on the path of reforms and to to seek progress. But it wasn't long before it became apparent that his actions were in no way in accordance with his program, and that its popularity was based on a mistake. His liberalism consisted mainly of pulling off some kind of stunts Stock exchange with the support of the Jews; and among its principal Representatives included some of these speculators shamelessly, which have brought about, through their flawed foundations designed, the financial crash that Austria has so long suffered. The disgust that gripped the country, at this The discovery was such that most of these false liberals, more authoritarian and more exclusive than the worst despots, have disappeared from the political scene forever. The current parliament has very few of them on its benches.

Since the fall of the Liberal Party, the House Austrian has taken on a completely new appearance. Issue of an electoral reform that responds better than the old one method of election in the general interests of the country, it contains within its ranks men deeply imbued with the the mission they have to fulfill. The nationalist element there predominates, which is perfectly natural in the current state of things. The Poles, on whom the government can to count in all circumstances, sit alongside the great owners and other conservative groups. On the right And to the left of this minority are the Christian socialists, conservative-populist Catholics, and the so-called party of progress. On the mountain benches crowd the radical pan-Germanists and about fifteen socialists, elected by various nationalities.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 5

Many speakers stand out because of the violence and the harsh frankness of their impetuous language. Obstruction is the order of the day; vehemence, and one one could say the vulgarity of the expressions seems to be a sign of superiority, or at least of popularity. In the conservative circles and among ministers he was absolutely terrified.

Nothing, in fact, could be more contrary to old traditions of the Habsburg Empire; nothing could be further from it, from customs of olden times that taught diplomats to to include in their reports only what we wanted to know, to the deputies to only say what was pleasant to hear.

However, regardless of the violence perpetrated by the parties radicals, whatever attacks they may launch directed against the existing state of affairs, it is not by their fact that the parliamentary system has suffered the most. This dishonored him, weakened him, and took everything away from him. prestige is the venal attitude of certain parties towards of power. It is unfortunately known to everyone world that on the eve of each decisive vote, the major parties, holding a parliamentary majority, competed between them of eagerness and baseness in the presence of government, with a view to manipulating votes which they could dispose of them. As a result, the voting on laws... the most important was the product of scandalous mercandages. This is how to operate within the Chambers, Austria's affairs.

In these struggles of conflicting interests, the most often incompatible, what becomes of the destinies of The Empire? Who seriously considers that? And how? not to anxiously wonder if things can How long can this continue?

6 JEWISH AUSTRIA

A solution was thought to be found in modifying the electoral system; but this was only following violent debates and even popular demonstrations on public squares, where we decided to broaden the bases of the right to vote, after the retirement of Count Taaffe. knows that this statesman, who had managed to maintain long in power, finally had to resign Sion, in 1893, feeling powerless between the coalition of Conservative parties and the rise of the people. That's when that, in order to give a beginning of satisfaction to In response to the wishes of the population, certain modifications were introduced. clauses in the electoral law. It was only a partial reform which increased, to a small extent the number of voters. It was a concession granted by ill will to save old privileges which continue to exist. After, as before, the law The electorate is based on property qualifications and is exercised by categories or rather by classes of citizens. The only difference is that there is now a new class of voters, the fifth curia, including certain categories of workers who do not pay direct taxes. The figures will better understand the exact situation in this respect.

During the general elections held in 1891, the large landowners, numbering 5402, elected 85 deputies, or 1 out of 63 voters. The Chambers of Commerce trade and industry, comprising a total of 583 members, They elected 21, or 1 representative for every 27 voters. The 338,500 city voters elected 118, or 1 deputy out of 2,868 voters. Finally, the 1,387,572 voters in the campaigns took part, indirectly, in the nomination of 129 members of parliament, or 1 out of 10,756 voters. Therefore, in the balance of votes, a large landowner is equivalent to him alone, with 45 urban voters, or with 170 rural voters. However, if we calculate that there were five in Austria at that date one and a half million men over the age of twenty-five, We see that out of 100 citizens, only 31 were admitted to

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 7

to vote and only 6 who took part directly in the appointment of the people's representatives.

Towards the end of the Taaffe ministry, an election campaign one of the most vivid scenes was staged, with a view to obtaining the reform of this system; and it was the so-called liberals, that is to say, the Germans who had rallied to the large landowners, who most vigorously resisted popular pressure. They fiercely defended what they believed in. shamelessly, their "political assets". But finally, thanks to the instances of government officials who understood the necessity to give up something, the representatives of the first The Curia decided to accept the principle of the Re and They led the other curiae by their example. It was done to be worth in their eyes that, in the State budget for 1892, the amount of direct taxes is only shown in the proportion of 30.28%, while the contributions indirect taxes, including entry fees, are included in the budget composition for 64.62%. This is therefore the question-tax treatment, these are tax-related considerations which settled the matter in favor of those who, until then, were deprived of their political rights, under the pretext that they were not paying contributions.

The reform having been accomplished, as we have just said, left the privileges of the categories intact previously existing. But she created a new one class of voters, including workers and others workers, who are now allowed to vote, in certain conditions, such as for example being part of a corporation, forced to pay insurance premiums mandatory against accidents or illnesses.

The current Chamber, elected in 1896, has quite naturally a completely different appearance from those that preceded it. The new voters made extensive use of their rights by sending members of parliament to sit Anti-Semites and socialists, in fairly large numbers.

8 JEWISH AUSTRIA

there were new parliamentary customs, excesses of languages that were previously unknown.

Calm has therefore not been restored in people's minds. as had been hoped in 1896; quite the contrary, the national disputes, anti-Semitism and demands Socialists have taken over everything.

On the other hand, the disputes with Hungary put constantly questioning the union between the two halves of the monarchy; they threaten to destroy the vital conditions of its existence. And meanwhile, the Cisleithan part The Empire collapses under the weight of its divisions. internal issues. Things have reached the point where the regime The parliamentarian appeared at certain times to want to commit suicide. with brilliance, and people wondered if the emperor Franz Joseph would not be reduced to doing, in his Old Days, a veritable coup d'état to put an end to scandals that keep recurring.

Gradually, all the governmental mechanisms wear out and weaken in unfortunate Austria. The principle of authority, the essential basis of any well-organized state, appears to be destroyed. High treason is on full display. with a kind of pride; the calls for domination of Foreigners' voices resound publicly without being repressed. Disintegration is everywhere; the most diverse elements, undoubtedly tired of being juxtaposed, they tend to separate from one another. We've reached the point where we no longer know, in Austria, what constitutes patriotism. That of The Germans are pushing them towards the German Empire; that of the The Czechs are pushing them towards national autonomy; and the Others are stirring towards the unknown. The profound feeling of homeland, which makes people brave everything to serve it, no longer exists except like a memory from long ago.

It has often been said, from certain quarters, that things They would change their tune the day we decided to break up. definitively with the past, and to endow Austria with universal suffrage. In governmental spheres we

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 9

On the contrary, he believes that such a radical modification of the The current electoral system would exacerbate the conflicts which exist between the various nationalities, and would imprint on them a pace more vibrant than ever. Universal suffrage, in In effect, this would give the Slavs of Austria a nn of growing larger, due to the number of voters belonging to non-German races. However, against this increased power, the Germans, who do not want not bowing to numbers, would protest with a violence whose effects are feared.

The main objection that can be raised to the introduction of universal suffrage in the monarchy of Habsburg represents the current state of civilization and of the intellectual culture in certain provinces. It is necessary raise the moral level of the population before their give them rights they probably wouldn't capable of performing their duties properly. In the absence of a an electorate endowed with a sufficiently high character, the universal suffrage would not constitute a remedy for the a situation that the property qualification required of voters has not achieved until r And besides, none of the nationalities existing in the Empire does not have an absolute majority in the country, apart from the So, just like today, it would be the turmoil in the House due to the forced absence of a stable majority.

Minorities, regardless of which park they belong to, would continue to see their demands stifled by the silence and brute force, as they already have been since for too long. The staunch opponents of these minorities had hitherto possessed all the rights; they stood facing the country like an insurmountable barrier. The Time alone has partially overcome this oppression. German hegemony, which had succeeded in re-centuries to subjugate other nationalities under its yoke, has Austria was unable to resist the resurgence of nationalist ideas. In short, Austria current, as it is, with its remnants of organization feudal and centralist in contrast to the people who aspire to living their own lives no longer represents, in the midst of Modern Europe, a caricature of a state. All that governments have a duty to protect others people, the safety of persons and property, freedom, Oh, intellectual culture, is being questioned and fought fiercely. Nationality in the past The dominant class only recognizes rights and progress for itself, at to the detriment of others.

10 JEWISH AUSTRIA

It is in these circumstances that parliament The Austrian invited us to shows that we hadn't Ministers and members of parliament, including that the arguments were powerless to convince the Islands their opponents resorted to physical force, to boxing. And when, in order to restore a semblance of order, we did to bring the overly excitable fighters to the station, the people came to deliver them. This was something that had not yet happened. Nowhere. Cromwell had dissolved the English Parliament; the Convention, in France, had handed the Girondins over to executioner. In Stuttgart, the Chambers had to withdraw faced with the force of bayonets. But, in all these countries, the call for violence was at least accompanied by some sort of of tragic grandeur. In Vienna, for the first time, one has seen a parliament mutilate itself in conditions that bordered on the grotesque.

Let us judge the attitude observed at the Reichsrath in lately, by the way it has been answered to questions, when anyone bothered to answer them. During the In fact, at the last session, it was placed on the desk of the Chamber one hundred and ninety-five requests for interpellation and in that number only one was found thirty-three who received a response. While being the official representatives of a party, of a group Ministers carefully avoid prouttering words that could irrevocably entangle them blement with the other parliamentarians.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 11

Article 14 of the Constitution does, in fact, authorize them to to govern without the assistance of legislative powers.
However, upon closer examination, this Article 14 does not
It doesn't allow them to do much that's useful, or even to very seriously, once committed to this path, which is that In a coup d'état, one can only sustain oneself through excesses.
abuse of authority, abuse of power. And, as logic dictates...
One excess leads to another; one ends up losing the a sense of practical reality. However, absolutism, in our
In Austria, it can only impose itself through terror.
Therefore, the opposing parties do not seem to be... to become frightened when one speaks to them of governing by virtue of this famous article 14.

On the other hand, while it is perfectly natural for parties to place
First and foremost, the development of a nationalist spirit, We shouldn't expect the government to draw inspiration from of the same ideas and makes similar efforts. To avoid In the face of crises, he tries to define common ground on which the most opposed parties, the most nationalities enemies can meet at certain times in the thought of general well-being. However, if this agreement is already at almost impossible to obtain when it comes to questions of an administrative nature, all the more so one can hardly to hope for it as soon as one places oneself on the terrain of the nationals nationalities. We are dealing, in fact, with ten nationalities, hostile to the one to the others, who have to sort things out among themselves and settle their differences as best they can. Also the task of various cabinets that successively governed Is Austria PP year after year, more difficult-cile. After the experiments we conducted with the parliamentary or even semi-parliamentary offices, It was deemed necessary to attempt the test of selected ministries in outside of parliament.

What used to be called administrative policy has now
His time. The people of Austria no longer want him.
They now want not to be heard. They no longer want to be simply administered, but governed each according to its national needs. In short, and to sum it all up, the absolute impossibility of governing Cisleithan Austria with a central parliament, organized as it is in this at this moment, it asserts itself day by day with an irresistible force. If we want to find an effective remedy for the confusion which reigns in all economic and political relations and national, there is only one way; that is to revise frankly, the Constitution in a nationalist sense, that is to say, federalist. In this way, one would give perhaps a more solid and more in line with practical realities. Instead of using their forces, as they do today, in battles Without a truce and without a solution, the various nationalities could finally use them in their own interest, and derive some benefit from them Serious advantages. Make no mistake. To do something truly useful, one must resign oneself to a fundamental reform, and a complete overhaul. the foundations of the current organization. The autonomy of nationalities should be the objective.

12 JEWISH AUSTRIA

It would, admittedly, be to run towards danger Undeniable. Federalism would ultimately be, that this is a further step towards the deterioration of the Empire cisleithan. This would be the beginning of the effective concentration in their respective territories, according to language affinities and nationality, of peoples now grouped around of the Habsburg throne. However, such a transformation would undoubtedly give, to external issues, vis- especially from Germany, an increasingly characteristic acute. This is the danger of a federal constitution which However, whatever one may think of it, it is essential to understand that... the only palliative to an urgent problem.

Based on what currently exists, Austria is in a state chaotic, torn between national Germans or The Czechs, who were rather Prussian-friendly, showed themselves to be more more ardent than ever in their demands, the others nationalities, feudal parties, socialists and anti-Semites. The great misfortune (it cannot be repeated too often)

The problem is that, as things stand, citizens do not have not the feeling of a possible agreement on the ground common and that no central government, whatever it either, is unable to present this ideal to them as Easily achievable. It's not up to the personalities policies are the ones that need to be addressed; it is the system of government adopted, which compels ministers to resorting to the use of force and providing satisfaction, in to the extent possible, to local interests. As for the national will, divided as it is in its complexity, the The central government is powerless to prevent it. to occupy. The parliamentarians are afraid of the central government. And the government is afraid of parliamentarians. That's the denial. absolute of everything that is the indispensable mark of a A well-organized state.

Under the weight of these fatal circumstances, the people blames the various governments that have all succeeded one another the ailments from which he suffers. Lacking confidence in the future of such an unbalanced social state, it makes the rulers responsible for everything of which it is, or believes itself to be, what it is, afflicted. In his real and palpable suffering, the poor- rism plays an important role, as a result of the monopolization of all the vital forces of the country for the benefit of the Jews. Also the overwhelming influence of the Semitic population, and the hatreds the fiery passions it generates in the deep layers of The Austrian society, are they among the great causes that gave rise to the revolutionary movement onnaire. Let us add that the fear of the Jews, because of this what they have already done and what they are likely to do again, penetrated even into the highest spheres and the inclined to submit, without resistance, to the yoke of Israel.

Moreover, it is not only in this respect economic and social factors are influenced by the harmful power of passions. policies wreak havoc. After spreading the Corruption in the administration has diminished respect laws and provoked a repression whose excesses demonstrate, through their results, that the men of Violence never achieves anything useful.

14 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Protestantism has sometimes been blamed, and him to attribute, in everything that happens, a share of responsibility stability. Indeed, among the old causes of unrest is recently joined by propaganda relentless campaign in his favor by the Austro-Pan- Germanists dogs, for the purpose of political separatism. attacking the country's religious beliefs, they thought that it would be easier for them to then undermine the entire structure whole. But their propaganda has so far only met with one weak resonance among the general public. The number of The number of renegades is between 10,000 and 12,000. It must therefore be acknowledged the movement does not have, by any means, the importance that Von seemed willing to grant it to him. The Protestants are few in number in Austria, and do little to favor the socialist unrest. In this respect, we must return to the A quote from Karl Marx: "From an economic point of view, the The Lutheran reform is above all the adaptation of doctrines as needed by the capitalist bourgeoisie.

It is rather the major political events that our generation has seen unfold before it those who have grip on the minds of the Austrian Germans. The successes German military and the power they gave to The German Empire contributed, as was necessary. wait, to prepare the soil on which the seeds have germinated since... popular unrest and separatist tendencies.

The consoling note in this sad spectacle is the attitude a patriotic and truly edifying study of the Austrian clergy. Not the slightest slackening in its ranks. Everywhere the example of wisdom, obedience to laws, respect for everything that must be respected. In many struggles, the The clergy sided with the oppressed, either with the to guide, either to maintain civic virtues in them. However, amidst the turmoil of unleashed passions, his influence was not powerful enough to eradicate the rodent worm that has attached itself indestructibly to the state body. Despite its noble efforts, this deep attachment to their country, as once professed by Austrians, disappeared in the cities; and, even within the In rural areas, it leaves only faint traces.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 15

THE DYNASTY

In the midst of the raging waves that carry him adrift on a stormy sea, the ship that carries the fortune of Does Austria at least possess this supreme resource? to spot a lighthouse whose light might indicate to him From afar, the direction of the port? Does he still have the strength to maneuver, with the necessary skill, towards a point of the A shore where he might find salvation? At first glance One would be tempted to believe it, upon seeing, standing on the strike, the august personality of the emperor, who, making nobly abstracting himself from his inner pain and his repeated bereavements, watch with tireless devotion over the destinies of the Empire. That, indeed, is the hope last of many saddened minds who, seeing the ship about to sink, clinging desperately to this a glow still bright in the night. To what extent this Is hope well-founded? What can be done in this situation? present, the head of the House of Habsburg, already so cruelly struck himself, and placed by events in one of the most terrible ordeals imaginable imagine ?

If he was the first of his race instead of being probably the last one, Emperor Franz Joseph, surrounded, as he so rightfully is, by sympathies universal, could rally around him the elements that tend to disintegrate today. It would return to the monarch-shit the necessary unit and would give him the strength to go back up the current. But who would dare claim that the past of the dynasty and the sad incidents that occurred at the beginning of its reign, have not reached, to a sufficiently strong extent, the authority he would need to accomplish the work of Hi? This is the difficult problem that arises before us. the historian, and that it might be too audacious to to claim to make an absolute decision.

16 JEWISH AUSTRIA

+

Too often it happens, during the storms, revolution-nations, that the peoples who fight for their independence dance feel unjustified hatred towards those in which they see, rightly or wrongly, the authors of ailments they suffered. The fever of combat blind. It prevents them from clearly discerning the islands. lessons from history, and to remember that education The cation of peoples can only be achieved at the cost of pain-fruitful experiences. In this multilingual Empire that we calls Austria-Hungary, among this Auill of popu-various lations grouped under the same scepter, he had a people emerged, more aware than others of their future and goal to be achieved, more ambitious and more determined, which has long dominated the others and still exerts influence, in to a certain extent, a real domination. Up to our days, the Germans, relying on seniority, let's say even frankly on the superiority of their civilization, They arrogated to themselves the right to govern the Empire. They have displayed the claim that they alone were capable of doing so, and to have the means to safeguard the general interest on their own.

The princes of the House of Habsburg, inspired themselves, by virtue of their status as German princes, remembering that Vienna had been for centuries, the capital of the Holy Roman Empire, did not think of to halt the progress of this Teutonic avant-garde which However, her incessant marching annoyed the others nationalities. They had neither the power to do so, nor the thought that by opposing the exclusive supremacy of a As the only people, they would have worked to satisfy the most few. At the foot of their throne, still radiant of the splendor of a glorious past, they saw only... populations still too poorly organized, too little enlightened, too undisciplined to shake off a yoke that made Moreover, in a way, it legitimizes the constitution history of the monarchy. It was only following the defeats suffered in 1866, when Austria was excluded from the German Confederation, which the house of Habsburg had to renounce the support it derived from the former state of affairs. The German nation had seemed to him until then not only more vibrant and stronger than the others, but somehow predestined to initiate them into The benefits of civilization. She saw in it the source fruitful for the prosperity of the Empire.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 17

For several centuries, the Austrian monarchs, relying on this nationality which seemed to them to have a privileged role within their states, have striven to constitute, with the disparate elements they had under the hand, a unitary state, a centralized power. It was thus during the reign of Maria Theresa [1740] and her successors, Joseph II [1780], Leopold II [1790], Francis I [1792] and Ferdinand I [1835]. All these sovereigns, faithful to their family's traditions, feeling German princes sought above all to oust the Prussia to relegate it to second place. These struggles, of which the incidents have filled the history of Central Europe, were expected to culminate, as we know, in the Battle of Sadowa in 1866. and to the reorganization of the German Confederation on entirely new foundations.

Then it happened in Austria, as a consequence. Inevitably, a nationalist movement manifested itself firstly, through a protest against the supremacy of the Germanic element. All the peoples of the monarchy yielded to the formidable force that was driving them towards Emancipation. The Austrian Empire became a monarchy. Austro-Hungarian dualist; and the heir of the Habsburgs, the august sovereign to whom Providence had imposed the task of carrying out this transformation, François-Joseph I appeared from then on, as he still appears today. today, the supreme arbiter between parties and nationals-nationalities, the link between groups ready to come to it in hand, the common and respected leader who alone could to ease conflicts through his benevolent intervention. Let us pay a resounding tribute to the recognized truth. Moreover, by all men of good faith. Francis-Joseph fulfilled with the utmost conscience, with the most complete goodwill, with the most infatuated zeal- This role is crucial, both for the individual and for mediators. Far from being an obstacle to the efforts of non-German nationalities, it was constantly preoccupied with one thing, to knowing how to make things triumph everywhere, and in every circumstance Advocacy, law and justice. Protector of all subjects without distinction, he demonstrated against all odds the a desire to enforce strict legality.

18 JEWISH AUSTRIA

This noble conduct was understood and appreciated.

as she deserved to be. The emperor thus conquered a popularity that no setback could diminish, that no The incident, however painful it may have been, could not diminish. It has On the contrary, it seemed that the hand of misfortune, in striking down on the monarch with incredible persistence, he added to its popularity a brighter reflection, a more ineffaçable. Never, however, has fate been so relentless on an empire, over a sovereign family, over the representative of a dynasty, with a kind of fury that is also continuous, equally mysterious in its source and its results. the most terrifying dramas of ancient Nemesis have not nothing comparable to this uninterrupted succession It's not just a matter of mourning and disasters. as head of state, it is also as a father, as husband, as brother, as man in short, no less than as sovereign, than Emperor Francis-Joseph was struck by indescribable pain.

No one has forgotten the events that followed. Emperor Ferdinand resolved to abdicate in favor of his nephew, Archduke Franz Joseph, then aged eighteen years old. The Habsburg monarchy, shaken, like most European states, by the turmoil of 1848, needed a younger and more vigorous hand reuse both to guide it through the obstacles that always encounters a state that is already aged when it transform and change under the influence of time. The young sou-Verain resolutely set to work with this awareness, this chivalrous loyalty, this absolute good faith which have always characterized his attitude, and have won him over Justifiably entitled to respectful sympathies. But the events- These events were not long in coming to bring him face to face inevitable difficulties. In 1859, Napoleon III brought, in the plains of Lombardy, a French army at Victor Emmanuel's rescue. The defeat at Novara was avenged by the victories of the Franco-Italian troops. The Villafranca's aix took the provinces from Austria bee, one of his most beautiful possessions.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 19

Seven years later, in 1866, the terrible catastrophe that forever excludes the house of Habsburg of the German Confederation, that is to say of Germany in the process of nine under the scepter of Hohenzollern, its long-dominated rival. This was the the harshest blow that the imperial dynasty, which was losing its most solid foundations of his six-hundred-year-old throne. And, as a consequence, the battle Sadowa's actions led to the immediate consequence The independence of Hungary, which constituted itself as a state autonomous, with its own special number and ministers responsible, its liberal constitution, and not retaining with Austria than relations determined by a A compromise was negotiated at length. The disastrous campaign of 1866 thus became the starting point of the struggles which have since then tore the monarchy apart and inflicted upon the sovereign so cruel, such constant worries.

It was still too little, it seems. To this extent painful feelings he took about the ills of the homeland must have To combine personal misfortunes with grandeur tragic, the Pope vividly captured the popular imagination. The invisible hand of destiny had traced on the pediment of the imperial town, these fateful words that were passed down to us Ancient tradition: "Mane, Tecel, Peres." The sword, suspended above the head of the chivalrous emperor, fell successively around him, striking his close with an inconceivable persistence and do not rising for a moment only to fall again. Archduke Maximilian, brother of the emperor, the real one founder of the Austrian navy, briefly held the crown of Mexico. After a short reign, he is shot in Querétaro; and his widow, the Empress Charlotte, driven mad by the excess of misfortune, drags herself along 'painfully, like a new Ophelia, her painful existence in a castle belonging to the King of the Belgians (his brother), in the vicinity of Brussels.

20 JEWISH AUSTRIA

°

That was the beginning. Then came the terrifying tragedy of Meyerling, where Archduke Rudolf, heir to the throne, surrounded by popular affection like his august father, lost his life following a dark tragedy which caused, in a Throughout the Empire, a true impression of Terror. That other catastrophes were bound to follow.

around that one, and to inflate this list immeasurably. funereal, which one dares not examine without a profound Heartbreaking! Archduchess Mathilde, burned at the stake living in his father's palace; Archduke Johann lost in sea, and whose true destiny has always remained uncertain; the Queen of Naples, sister of the Empress Elizabeth, dethroned after a heroic defense under the walls of Gaeta; the Duchess of Alençon dying a victim of his devotion to the poor in the Bazaar fire of the Charity, in Paris; Archduke William succumbing, at Baden, following a fall from a horse. Is that all? And Are we finally at the end?

No. The noblest, the gentlest, the most unfortunate of all these illustrious victims, Empress Elizabeth, He fell in Geneva, the victim of a cowardly assassin. an anarchist's dagger slices through already darkened days through a veil of mourning. This noble sovereign, who does not remembered his supreme rank only to do good on on a larger scale, this inconsolable mother who a in travel and in the practice of charity distractions from her pain, this woman since long struck at the heart, which could not find Rest seemed sacred to all people who know this that it was grief pushed to the extreme, as it was at home. She should have escaped all hatred, all criminal temptation on the part of anyone, expected that she had constantly remained a stranger to the political, and had only signaled his passage through the world through benefits.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 21

More vividly impressed than ever by the ending tragic fate of the one who had been the ornament of his throne and the his life partner, Emperor Franz Joseph, seeing Everything is collapsing around him, yet he remains standing. sustained as he is by a profound sense of mission that Providence has imposed upon him. He finds, fortunately moral support in legitimate sympathies which surround several members of the imperial family. Stéphanie, widow of Prince Pen, is being stingy. Rodolphe, for example, is literally the idol of the the Viennese population, as well as his daughter, the princess Elisabeth, born in 1883. As soon as they appear in public,

They are greeted with the most sincere acclamations and the most eager. Archduke Joseph, son of the former The Palatine of Hungary, for his part, is adored by the Hungarians who They see him as a devoted friend of their country. The Archduke Finally, Régnier acquired a high reputation in the scientific world as a result of its axe in the domain of charters and registrations.

Since the death of Prince Rudolf, it no longer exists. as we know, of presumptive heir to the crown in the direct line. They are the nephews of the emperor, son of his brother Charles-Louis, who became his heirs, since he has no male offspring capable of mounting on the throne after him. The elder of these two nephews, the archduke

22 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Ferdinand, aged thirty-eight, would rightfully assume, in the event of the emperor's death, the double crown of Austria and of Hungary. However, his state of health raises concerns. serious concerns, and one sometimes wonders if he will survive to the sovereign. His brother Otto, born in 1865, was not raised for the throne. It is against him that the champions of Pan-Germanism, not daring to attack the emperor himself—even direct their attacks to destroy the links which bind the people of Austria to the dynasty.

In any case, the respected personality of Franz Joseph gives alone today to the people Austro-Hungarianism gave an appearance of cohesion. That the the monarch should disappear, and the particularist spirit of various nationalities will undoubtedly emerge with a violence such that it will be extremely difficult to control them to hold them grouped together under the imperial scepter. To ask these nationalities, which the pounding hammer of absolutism itself failed to crush even to agglomerate into a compact whole, to sacrifice oneself For the salvation of the Empire, that is hoping for the impossible. To expect everything from imperial initiative, and to want it To believe that salvation comes only from God is to risk remaining trapped in a real dead end. Indeed, François-Joseph manages still to keep these disparate elements united, consequently of the great current of respectful affection that surrounds him. But, with him gone, the disintegration of the Empire would take place at big strides. The nationalist surge will engulf everything, leaving behind the den, the anti- goal can be clearly seen. dynastic that the party leaders are pursuing hardline nationalists.

The emperor himself expressed, without ambiguity, the concerns caused to him by nationalist movements. Nationalists who, exploited with dangerous skill, pushes towards the dismemberment of the Empire. Bitterness with whom he has spoken about it on several occasions is all the more significant than anyone can ignore the strength of spirit with which he usually keeps his the most vivid impressions. It is, truly, a spectacle.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 23

It was most moving to see this sovereign, who, after Such a turbulent existence prevents one from enjoying peace and quiet. and tranquility in the twilight of his life. Franz Joseph, to All things considered, he didn't have a youth. At the age when... other men indulge themselves without the slightest concern in the only He enjoyed life, but he had to accept the heavy burden of the Empire . and carry it on his youthful shoulders. And for fifty years, relentless work, fatigue, worries All kinds of nature, have been his uniform lot. Half a century devoted unsuccessfully to this arduous government task of the Empire. What a destiny for such an animated sovereign. Excellent intentions!

Currently, the Habsburg diadem is gradually transforms into a crown of thorns. Its the jewels move apart from each other like so many branches that the wind scatters in all directions, and that the breath of modern aspirations tends day by day in day to separate from their trunk. The sap still holds them together; But already their color is fading. The march of ideas tends to to replace the monarch's rights with vows and aspirations of the people.

THE AGONY

The inevitable antagonism between the interests of the dynasty and the wills of different peoples created for the Empire a kind of impossibility of living in normal conditions. Who would even think of resist these great popular currents that we have just To report it? That would be wanting to break oneself, without redemption.

without hope of return. Currents of this nature do not They don't appear easily. To determine them, one needs a unanimity of feelings and aspirations which cannot result from the very nature of things, and to which No sincere mind can escape it. One does not create not like similar training. But

24 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Nothing can destroy them; they only calm down when when they received full satisfaction.

Austrian nationalities no longer want to admit of solidarity among them; they only think of breaking the The links that unite them. The most ardent agitators are increasingly calling for a break decisive, hoping to find in the midst of a war foreign or internal struggles lead to faster implementation of their desires.

The old Austrian patriots contemplate these ten-
They dance with sadness. They all arrive at this conviction. that they can do nothing to prevent this disintegration wanted, sought after, absolutely desired by certain leaders of parties and their voters. For a moment, we could have believed... that the Austrian high aristocracy, still so powerful today, in possession, as she always is, of rich domains and a great influence on everything that surrounding him, would have the strength to defend the throne and to proto defend the state against the onslaught of the popular masses. We had thought that this vicious nobility was accustomed to pen-having spent so long watching the government of the state as his personal matter and exclusive privilege, would remember that his most immediate interests demanded a vigorous course of action. Unfortunately, those Those who reasoned in this way forgot that the nobility had to defend herself. It is against her, in fact, against its feudal organization, against its situation in the State that are the attacks of the innovators. Instead of

To be able to protect the throne, the Austrian aristocracy would have ae to be protected herself.

On the other hand, it had been hoped that the development of Pactivité would be one of the essential titles that the State would have won the recognition of the people. It was, Here again, unfortunately, is a generous illusion. When the people, in fact, saw the Jews appropriating their he has exclusive profit from the product of his labor and efforts.

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 25

he felt the seeds of revolt rumbling within him; and his Overexcited appetites have become threatening to all the propertied classes. Attempts to To appease him by appealing to religious sentiments. even though the Russian Empire took Orthodoxy as its basis its policy, just as Germany relies on the Protestant doctrines, it was thought that Austria Catholics might find in Catholicism a factor powerful for its domestic policy, even for its foreign policy. It might have been quite reasonable if Fon had started earlier; but when it was finally considered, he was It was already too late. The Freemason spirit had undermined the ground on which moral strength could have been reborn. king now under the deleterious influences of Judaism and Freemasonry acting in concert, the unfortunate Austria is doomed to wither away, unless there is a real miracle. :

Other unfortunate circumstances arose, Moreover, to corroborate those. The Austrians are dissatisfied with the current state of finances, which puts a strain on They face ever-increasing burdens. The abuse of the favorite-ism and corruption, which manifest themselves to certain degrees at the administrative level, have weakened all the mechanisms of social life. The people feel that they no longer have in the officials, friends, and protectors; he no longer sees in them only foreigners who oppress him; and in his His logic was too rigorous; he then shifted the responsibility to... bility up to the principle of a multilingual monarchy. It encompasses the entire political organization within the same sentence, setting aside without a doubt certain personalities whom he surrounds with affection legitimate, but telling himself that sooner or later it will be necessary that the building collapses to be rebuilt on new foundations. How to combat this discontent Universal? It's not a matter of a day; it's not a a temporary movement that the police can suppress; It is a slow, continuous, incessant movement, which translates through the explosion of public thought far more than through material damage.

A most welcome contrast amidst this distressing situation. painting, is found in this fact that intellectual life, at Vienna, as in the major provincial centers, is extremely developed. The cult of the arts and sciences Austria has lost none of its former splendor; contemporary, in a word, holds its magpie worthily in the world of intelligence. This fact is all the more striking, all the more noteworthy given social relations are necessarily altered, we could say poisoned-born as a result of racial hatreds and caste jealousies. Apart from this comforting activity of intellectual life and Artistically, it is sad to only have to point out the progress of the disintegration within the Habsburg Empire. We we were happy, some time ago, to note in a brochure entitled The Reign of Emperor Franz Joseph the efforts made by the sovereign himself, as well as by a number of his advisors, patriots dedicated, to stop the progress of evil. We conserve—Let us then hope that so much goodwill would not Testimony given in vain. Unfortunately, it doesn't stop.

like the waves of a torrent. Everything that has happened since Los has completely robbed us of all hope. At the very moment he is, Providence alone, through one of these mysterious interventions that border on the miraculous, could save The Danubian Empire. Humanly speaking, it is dying. and the work of death is making frightening progress.

Serious events are brewing; and it is still It is some consolation to think that this formidable crisis has been brought about, less by the errors and mistakes of men, than by a series of irresistible events.

In vain do superficial minds turn away their eyes of anything that might disturb them in their optimism, and, eager to dispel any overly serious concerns immediate, persist in not wanting to attribute to the currents popular than of limited importance. It is suitable for

On the contrary, to consider all eventualities from the outset probable, such as can easily be discerned thoughtful men. They would not know how to march before them.
eyes deliberately closed to the light, without any concern of something that touches on so many interests.

The banal phrase of "party struggles" is no longer, in this which concerns Austria-Hungary, that's an understatement deceptive, let's even say a sophism capable of misleading public opinion. These are neither in Cisleithania nor in Hungary, professional leaders who are the sole opposition to current system; it is the people themselves who suffer the law of political developments that favors a set economic and social circumstances. It is outside the scope of economic and social circles.
There is no doubt that their efforts will be to get out of the building worm-eaten where they are assembled, either to modify the construction methods, they demand, from the government ment, energetic means of action, polite manners ticks quite different from the gaits of the Metternich and the
They used to print them for the State. They throw them to the people Austrians made promises of administrative reforms. And We still preserve the traditions, the processes, the tendencies of the unitary monarchy, without realizing that the new course of action of these peoples, tending to refuse to pay taxes and vote on laws on the army recruitment necessitates the application of new principles.

As we rightly said, there is in our old Europe has two categories of states: those that are alive, full of strength and energy, confidently turning their eyes towards the future; and dying states. The former constitute groups of citizens brought together under a con-mutual understanding, aware of the identity of views and interests that form the essential basis of their existence.
Among them is national unity, including popular aspirations have indissolubly welded the elements together, manifests itself in all its splendor, in all its truth. The community

23 JEWISH AUSTRIA

absolute lack of ideas, the complete absence of discussions with regard to the ideal to which all citizens aspire, gives them an irresistible force of attraction towards their brothers separated from them by a border line at-above which they extend their hands to each other. On the other hand, the understanding with which they are moving towards the realization of Their shared desires make them capable of understanding the laws economic factors on which the prosperity of nations. To their material forces, which are growing and develop every day, and forces join in ethics that the feeling of solidarity provides them national. Ultimately, these states, which are called the Living states appear to the world as they truly are.

ment, that is to say, endowed with both creative forces and the interior, and destructive forces towards the outside.

Alongside them languish dying states, which perpetually debate against the uncertainties of a a transition period from which they cannot escape, if This is not to fall into complete disorganization:
Unlike the former, they do not know the feeling of national unity, nor the driving force that results from the perfect agreement between members of the same family

These are heterogeneous and rendered fractions enemies due to divergences of interest which come into play a struggle to settle their internal disputes. Grouped at | under the same banner by the fortunes of battle or through the consequences of skillfully arranged marriages between the ruling families, these groups so distinct from one another
The others have essentially nothing in common, except for the
The contract that binds them to the same sovereign. The respectful affection for the person of this sovereign manages to to maintain cohesion between the Disparate pieces of an artificial grouping. But this
These are factors that time eventually overcomes.
Therefore, at a critical moment, the slightest a creaking in the way the gears work government agencies so that the mechanism malfunctions

THE DESTINIES OF AN EMPIRE 29

Irreversibly. Increasingly severe convulsions.
frequent declarations; and the more moribund the states clinging to what remains of their lives, the more the crises They multiply and worsen. It's agony in all of this.
that it was beautiful and painful. Thus he died Tiberius, eaten away by worms.

However, nothing is annihilated, in the absolute sense of the word, at within the vast Universe. Everything transforms according to a law natural order that the Creator established at the origin of the world. When one state disintegrates, other states, other Formations collect his remains. The nationalities that suffered from being united, they will join, each of their On the other hand, the younger, more vigorous, more vibrant states, towards which the law of the attraction; or they will establish communities news. On the ruins of the past rises, brilliant and radiant, the halo of the future.

He
THE ADMINISTRATION

CIVIL SERVICE – THINGS AND OTHER THINGS – JUSTICE – STATE POLICE – THE BASTILLES
– THE JOURNALISTS

In a country like Austria, where so many contradictory movements, some nationalist, the other revolutionaries, socialists or anti-Semites, the The role of the administration is inevitably very difficult. Whatever she does, whichever way she goes turns, she finds herself subjected to incessant attacks, to exaggerated criticisms which often have no other purpose than to incite public opinion against his work. That's as well as emerging, with the most serious accusations extravagant, with calumnies that one seeks the reason for being, the maneuvers formerly held secret statements from party leaders, primarily concerned with raising alarm the public, to keep their attention alert, and well convinced that in this way they are satisfying the grudges of the crowd.

Determined nonetheless to keep them intact, as much as to navigate the administrative processes, and to make them work 'social body, the public authorities themselves become– the same, by the mere fact that they exist, one of the causes more tangible signs of the turmoil that has gripped everyone minds. Whether they resolutely do their duty or they act sluggishly, under the influence of training In general, they are nonetheless the focus of all the attacks and living proof of the slow agony of at the he

32 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Where, moreover, can one find, in this composite state, fairly firm characters, rather resilient natures against the seductions of power, against the suggestions vanity, against partisan passion, against the training in hatred or self-interest, for to remain incorruptible, and never act except in the name of the justice, law, and fairness? To achieve such an ideal, it It would be necessary for a Slavic official, by for example, to forget, with regard to one of his constituents, German nationality, all the feelings that animate him since his childhood, and to put aside all thought other than that of the strictest, most impartial law fairness. We would have to assume that a tax official, imbued with of anti-Semitic doctrines, finding themselves called upon to tax the income of a Jewish taxpayer will have sufficient moral force.
keen to renounce, in this circumstance, her convictions the most intimate, most deeply rooted beliefs. Now, without a doubt Without a doubt, such events can occur. It can happen to meet men who are quite energetic, quite conscientious heavens to set aside all partisan considerations, all personal passion; but, in the midst of the chaos where lives Austria, it must be acknowledged, are exceptional tions. Given human nature, given the Delea blend of influences stemming from the clash of so many nationalities various constraints to obey uniform laws, nothing It's surprising that abuses occur, that... denials of justice occur, so that, in short, man... found beneath the civil servant with all his weaknesses and his miseries. In such a social state, everyone believes having to complain about everyone; and as the

ADMINISTRATION 33

Personal interests are not abstractions of quintets-Sense, layers appear from time to time dusty things that obscure everything in this old organization. It reveals corruptions that ultimately destroy it.
gnaw to the marrow.

It cannot be denied, without a doubt, that there exists male examples of unwavering civic virtue.

In many branches of an administration such complicated, the evil has not yet penetrated. There, the The Austrian official retained intact the feeling of honor. This is particularly true for employees of Ministries in Vienna. The staff of these administrations central authorities show themselves to be deeply aware of the serious responsibilities his responsibilities and demonstrate a genuine attachment to his homework. Unfortunately, it's not always the same for junior officials, and many of those who are in immediate contact with the public. In the ranks of this executive staff, the actions are too often inspired, not by the thought of safeguarding and defending the general interests of the country, but by the desire to satisfy grudges, personal needs, or simply whims. The great principles of authority are found thus sacrificed to vulgar personal matters; and the With the help of political struggles, respect for authority, however indispensable— sand in any well-seated state, was delivered prey to appetites of turbulent elements. Criticism of the abuses of Power has thus become the issue at stake for the parties in seizures, until the day when the peoples, to escape a Such a dissolving regime, they have become accustomed to seeking their Greetings from outside the borders of Austria.

Of all that is happening in this regard, the Emperor,
We don't need to say it, we never knew.
Stern when necessary, but above all a friend of justice, deeply loyal and animated by the most one Franz Joseph, if he were informed of what we as we just said, would quickly put an end to the abuse. Unfortunately, the sovereign's will

34 JEWISH AUSTRIA

encounter, as the first obstacle, very difficult to overcome, ingrained habits, traditions of a sort immutable elements of the imperial chancellery, whose head, Mr. Baron de Braun seems a little too accessible to certain influences that tend to distance one from august head of the dynasty, everything that could... to provide useful information. This desire, which one should Believing herself all-powerful, she also faces terror.
police, which leads such high-ranking officials to suffer the worst forms of solidarity.

Some facts around which he built a great reputation Bree's noise gave a fair idea of the state of affairs.
as it emerged from the general shock, that is to say, as cause of the disintegration of the state, either as conseimmediate consequence of this disintegration. By placing them In the eyes of our readers, we do not intend to... to say that there are no more serious things to do without. Ab uno disce omnes.

THINGS AND OTHER THINGS

Among the many absolutely heinous acts, among the unspeakable things, including those brought to light by MP Daszynski irrefutable evidence presented before parliament, Fou
The public has notably focused on the actions of a prosecutor imperial, attached to the court of one of the major cities of the Empire. This magistrate had a performance staged on the stage of the city, a comedy of which I was the author, and in which the working classes were severely mistreatedborn. It happened, as was natural to expect, strong protests. The workers did not want accept the labels that were thrown at them. Noise, Scandal, arrests made by the police, such was the result of this theatrical festival. One of the workers, only guilty of not being satisfied with a piece directed against
He and his comrades were sentenced to four and a half months of prison. Now, on the same day, Jews, who were ostensibly the business of selling young girls, and who had shipped a large cargo of this merchandise human beings in the East, were not condemned by the same

ADMINISTRATION 35

The court sentenced him to two months in prison. The fact that he protested against the dramatic work of a prosecutor who therefore was found more guilty than that of trafficking the prostitution and immorality.

By reporting this audacious breach of all the rules Regarding fairness, MP Daszynski did not hesitate to make We also know many others: searches conducted at home by the police, with no other option than petty squabbles, the arrest of a thirteen-year-old girl
For socialist unrest, deliveries to the army were made secretly, through a sub-prefect, the strange methods of a high-ranking political official practicing usury on a large scale, at rates worthy of the sons of Israel. These revelations, and others related to them, concerning facts gathered in a single province, produced They naturally made a profound impression. They have served as a theme for reformers to demand a modification-fiction to the existing state of affairs.

All the Viennese newspapers reported the story of this sub-prefect (Bezirks-Hauptmann) who had his head shaved for several years without ever giving any payment to the unfortunate barber of his town. The day when He, not daring to demand his money back, declared everything simply that he refused to continue his duties, the The official told him he would ruin him. And, indeed, he kept his word. The unfortunate hairdresser was so overwhelmed of taxes, that his furniture was sold by the tax authorities, y probably included the razor that had caused so much services to the representative of the authority.

Another member of parliament reported numerous cases where people who had committed no wrongdoing, but who simply-those who had had difficulty establishing their identity, were held in prison for a long time without any trial. He has showed Roma people held behind bars during fourteen and fifteen months, until a jailer came-pleasant, it was said, that someone had come to open the doors for them. In reality, th to reside in the country and the right to move freely, Although they are enshrined in the Constitution, they do not exist not for all citizens. For a large part of the population, they are absolutely illusory. The lot relating to the Forced change of residence (Schubwesen) received a such a large expansion that every year, in Vienna, nearly 9,000 people are affected. Approximately 5,000 are expelled from the capital and 4,000 forced to leave their home to come and live there. In just one year, among the population of Lower Austria, 36,000 people were struck under this law and were ordered to change location. It is true that this order has not received its execution, in line with the average of recent years, that for 15,000 people.

36 JEWISH AUSTRIA

We could multiply stories of this kind ad infinitum; and, to the shame of humanity, their veracity cannot to be called into question. The perpetrators of these acts of violence do everything to avoid giving publicity to their misdeeds; 1. strive to prevent them from being revealed at the parliamentary podium. But despite everything, the truth is emerging through the press and through the accounts of unwitting spectators of such horrors. The reign of Arbitrary rule has spread desolation everywhere.

Moreover, it is not displeasing to the party leaders. separatists, so be it. The indignation that this inspires in all honest consciences would condemn such conduct. seems likely to increase the success of their efforts, to hasten the triumph of their aspirations. The great Political revolutions, in fact, are not accomplished by the simple interplay of active forces, however powerful they may be. It still requires a revolt of consciences. We were able to see in more than one circumstance, we even saw too often bad servants are protected and supported, protected until the very last minute, while those who do not asked that doing their duty be treated as spoilsports, kept at a distance, and even, incredibly As much as it may seem, they are persecuted. And nothing seems more It's strange to hear these officials so unscrupulous They could expound their theories with perfect composure. with a kind of satisfaction. Le' ble. during this time, open your ears, perhaps thinking that it would be It's quite naive to have consideration for people who... so few bear witness.

ADMINISTRATION 37

However, it is necessary to show that order reigns in Vienna and elsewhere. Then, the most stringent police regulations are enacted. severe. Anyone who throws garbage on the public highway, or lets his dog roam the streets, leaves his car without holding the horse's reins, or playing the guitar while Anyone found in the public without authorization is arrested without mercy.

JUSTICE

The greatest misfortune that can befall a state is without question to see the country's justice system interfering with the politics and, in a way, to fall in line with it. Until recently, the Austrian judiciary had a reputation for integrity that placed her very high in public esteem. We were even sometimes inclined to... find too lenient in the repression of crimes and offenses. The first attack was itself carried out his reputation was damaged by the sentence handed down to Mr. Schœnerer, the leader of the nationalist party German. For having committed acts of brutality towards his opponents who had insulted him daily For many years, he was sentenced to six months of prison, to the loss of his civil rights and his titles of nobility. He had, in fact, been declared guilty of ways of acts committed in public.

38 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Everyone immediately understood that it was much less, in this instance, than the application of a law penal than the proscription pronounced against him the justice. The main thing was to remove him from his mandate. deputy and to declare him ineligible to be a candidate in the elections tions for a period of five years. The bad example the ruling given by the judges in this case was not long in coming. bear fruit. Under the banal pretext that all movement- Oppositional behavior must be repressed, for the sole reason that it By disturbing the security of the Empire, it became easy to justify all abuses of power, all usurpations and all the violence of a demoralized administration. One can, in the name of order, which is so readily invoked as if it were a cloak, extending the encroachments to infinity force against all rights and justice.

...

However, he did encounter courageous men. who did not hesitate to protest loudly against this A new direction for Austrian justice. anti-Semites in particular have raised their voices against the actions regrettable actions of the numerous Israelite magistrates in Austria, especially in the criminal courts of provincial towns. Public opinion was stirred by their accusations. sations; and the confidence that was once placed in the The magistrates have given way to doubt. But doubt is already the first step towards the complete absence of beliefs and of respect; and nothing reveals an evil state of affairs, contrary to nature and logic, like the shadow itself of a doubt about how the judges carry out their mission in a civilized state. Unfortunately, things That's where things stand in Austria. The constitutional law has endowed the judges of all the conditions that can ensure their independence, both from the central power and vis-à-vis the public. She placed them in a sphere where no foreign influence can find access, and wanted that their decisions were dictated solely by respect laws and by the voice of their conscience.

ADMINISTRATION 39

In reality, in practice, this is not the case. Two On the other hand, there are influences that contradict this. absolutely the premises we have just laid out. Often, one can read accounts of public meetings in which the judgments of the judiciary, insofar as they do not They do not respond to the interests of certain parties and are blamed. in rather blunt terms, where the judges themselves are condemned to public scorn. On the other hand, too much is being addressed 'Often the magistrates face the opposite criticism; they are accused to serve party interests too faithfully and to to let their decisions be guided by concerns to which they should remain carefully detached. On one hand, there are complaints that the judgments do not hold up. taking into account prevailing opinions and trends popular. On the other hand, the magistrates are blamed for their criticizing, on the contrary, for being too influenced by the current of opinion. That's how justice is treated. which should, theoretically speaking, stand at a height inaccessible, above all parties and all influences.

How far can a member of parliament go, speaking from the podium, in the judicial magistracy and those who exercise it? That's what

The following words demonstrate this, which we reproduce-literally:

"If His Excellency wanted to speak of independent judges" dants,' I formally declare to him that he must not You need to know these judges to believe in their independence. But anyone who knows how justice is served in Austria does not believe and cannot believe in independence

"The judges' dance."

(Dr. Lueger, February 27, 1895)

In a session of the Diet of Lower Austria, in dated January 23, 1891, this same Dr. Lueger had already stated in even more detail:

40 JEWISH AUSTRIA

"There are laws in Austria, but as for the law, there is none."
"Doesn't exist."

It seems, moreover, that the rulers themselves were keen to justify such a harsh opinion.
The Minister of Justice addressed, on September 30, 1898, to presidents of the courts a long circular in which he begins by admitting himself that the magistrats too often take part in political unrest.
and concludes by inviting the heads of the judiciary to to subject the judges, placed under their orders, to a constant surveillance, so that he could be accounted to of each case that they deemed worthy of being reported. Here is the Summary of this circular:

"The higher administration has had to note since a
For some time now, with the deepest regret, that...
Members of the judiciary were involved in the unrest.
political maneuvering and party intrigues, under conditions too likely to damage the prestige of their positions and to shake the confidence that we should have in their impartiality. What impression must not the reasonable and intelligent part of the population, when she sees the men whose careers must hold distanced from political parties, they take part, on the contrary, in the struggles and to the agitations of these parties! And what new force is not not given to the judgments of the ignorant masses, incacapable of judging for herself, and most often directed through declamations and grand, meaningless phrases, when she sees the efforts of the factions, even sometimes the more radical, openly supported by the functions-naires whose essential task, whose mission exclusive, to adhere strictly to the requirements of the right, to ensure obedience to the laws.

"It should be enough," the minister continued, "to give briefly these indications, to show the presidents-teeth of the high courts of justice the danger that such ways of acting can contribute to the prestige of the magistrate

ADMINISTRATION 41

translation, even to the concept of law. The more judges get involved The greater the danger they face, the more unrest among the parties. run the risk of having their impartiality questioned, some precautions they can take to demonstrate it, no matter how careful they are to decide according to their awareness. I would even say, the greater the danger they do not allow themselves to be guided, without realizing it, by the political issues, if not in form, at least in "spirit. "

As we have said, the circular in question concludes with the invitation addressed to the presidents of the courts and courts to actively monitor the magistrates placed under their orders, and to send a detailed report to minister on each case that they deemed worthy of being reported. So this is indeed the judiciary being called into question by its highest-ranking officer, and placed literally under the supervision-the most active launch, for fear that it might be overrun by politics.

THE STATE POLICE

In Austria, a careful distinction must be made between the general police, which is a service organized in the interest public, and the so-called secret political police, which is known under the special name of Staats-Polizei (State Police).

The responsibilities of the first are in all countries The same. The enforcement of laws, the protection of citizens, property protection, surveillance and Pursuit of the perpetrators, with material penalties imposed In court rulings, these are the tasks she has to fill.

As for the political police, the state police, they have all other responsibilities. Its role is to safeguard the State, to ensure the security of its existence, to provide care for his future. One cannot deny that such a task gives him unparalleled means of action, and confers upon him a power which, in the capital of the Empire, is certainly more considerable than that of the ministers themselves. The state police act in an absolutely independent. Never being graded, she follows her own path. its own path and has neither boundaries nor control.

42 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Sometimes it happens that the action of this police force takes place feel involved in decisions that are very likely to have serious consequences, even without the ministers' knowledge. To this Speaking of which, one often recalls a particularly serious incident. typical of what occurred following the Congress of Vienna, in 1815. This diplomatic assembly had concluded its work, and its members were preparing to leave the capital of Austria. However, the attitude of one of the princes who was having come to Vienna on this occasion, had, we do not know why what motive inspired certain suspicions in the Austrian police female dog. What did she do? Fearing, no doubt, that once from Upon returning to his country, he did not conspire against Austria, she wanted to oppose his departure. It took a will supreme authority formally ordered him to divest himself of a such an attitude.

The revolutionary movement that is taking place currently in Austria and disintegrating, one after the other others, all parts of the old building, could not fail to attract the attention of the state police. As this movement grew and as separatist tendencies intensified, the entire arsenal Preventive measures first, then repressive measures Then, contributions were made. Eventually, recourse was made to processes absolutely unprecedented in the annals of history police officers.

Will this deployment of activity produce the effects Expected? We don't think so, given that... has never succeeded in stopping a torrent. It can be contained by its source; but once it has taken its course, nothing could to oppose its passage. However, we will not go, as is done on some sides, even to the point of contesting completely its usefulness. Did we only delay the exploitation? a virtually inevitable situation, that would already be a huge service rendered to the Empire. It is quite natural, moreover, in a country where annexation abroad, that is to say ultimately High treason is the avowed goal of many and noisy unrest, which conservative influences make their case to support what can be saved. Austria has reached one of those turning points in history which mark a turning point in the life of a state. It is the duty of the police to get in the way of the unrest in an attempt to to oppose the collapse of institutions and to prevent the Social disorder. In such circumstances, the police the state plays a crucial role in preserving the the whole society, it's the peace of the country, it's the future of the dynasty and its institutions, that is the very existence of Austria, which she defends.

THE ADMINISTRATION. 43

Quite different, however, is the question of knowing how to whose hands is entrusted with the mission of ensuring such serious interests. Without a doubt, the state police in Vienna, includes within its ranks men of high worth intellectual, unwaveringly loyal, morally bed above suspicion. In all its In her actions, she clearly only has the interests of the dynasty, and allows itself to be guided by no other consideration- ration. But, unfortunately, certain events that occurred indicate the existence of some police officers whose conduct forms a regrettable contrast with that of the majority of their colleagues and superiors. Alongside them, Machiavelli and Cesare Borgia were of Little saints. It was only through the regime of terror. that they intend to prevent things from following their course; and when their colleagues testify to something They were astonished by such methods. They look at each other with a sort of pity. To ensure the security of the State, when they consider it as a threat at issue, where, for reasons of private interest, all their seems permissible; all scruples vanish; the atrocious the most incredible cities appear to them as necessities that would not frighten a police officer in their eyes. A truly Austrian worthy of the name. The sudden disappearances—rituals of men, who had the imprudence to live alone, are not rare, and allow us to conclude that there are serious harm.

The clandestine activities of these men are often more deadly even with just a knife wound. She has such a power that, in many cases, we refuse to believe. The complaints made against her are true and justified. We prefer to believe that someone who would dare to formulate such complaints indicate madness. It is precisely on this tendency of mind, on this prediction, that these holders of authority; and thus is explained, in a way that is too easily explained. Natural, the continuity of their actions, over a long impunity.

For these overly zealous or overly corrupt servants, everything what interlopia, delirium, cowardice, betrayal can producing seems to amalgamate to form something like a infernal mixture. Their actions deserve all condemnation; and the Austrian government, which has so often outraged the Civilized nations, through his cruel despotism, could not to wash away the heavy shame that falls upon him in these cowards and bloody exploits. It might depend on him, indeed, to... to end it by an act of energetic will. By a sort of tacit consent, of fatalistic indolence, perhaps also simply due to a lack of information. Quite seriously, he lets it happen and also takes on serious responsibilities. responsibilities before the conscience of humankind. Not only everything that the Memoirs of Time, and certain justifiably famous works have transmitted to us regarding the suffering of the Italians of Lombardy before 1859, it is happening again today in Bohemia, Moravia, even Vienna and the countries Germans from Austria. But one can say, without anything to exaggerate, that the horrors committed in Lombardy there thirty and forty years, under the protection of bayonets Austrian ones are outdated today. And this is not exclusively accurate with regard to Austria Cisleithan; things don't happen in a more gentler and more civilized in Hungary and in the occupied countries under a European mandate. The Romanians in Hungary, they too know something about it. Let's be recalls the persecutions of the Holy Alliance after 1815; which is still being discussed before our very eyes today.

ADMINISTRATION 45

If at least this way of acting had the excuse of
If successful, the State, considered as a beneficiary party, could At a pinch, rejoice in it and bear the evil with patience. But That's not the case at all. The excessive repression, and especially the zeal
The so-called preventative measures deployed inappropriately have exasperated many.
the spirit of resistance, which ultimately prevailed. From beginning to end the other part of the country, from the depths of the Carpathians to the Julian Alps, the revolutionary movement (or at least reformer) has intensified. And, in the scaffolding-
The state police, unwilling to admit their involvement in the struggle, were at the head Defeated, she too redoubled her underground efforts. Some of his followers, absolutely convinced of the goodness of their Because of this, they come to believe and tell anyone who will listen.
that their power does not stop at the country's borders.
They claim to reach even foreign countries all Austrians, and even all the censors belonging-nant to other nationalities, which are likely to hinder their actions.

THE BASTILLES

One of the most commonly used traditional methods in Austria to get rid of the troublemakers, that is to say the
The men we fear is being portrayed as crazy and to do everything possible to deprive them of their freedom, by having them interned in mental asylums.
Attempts made in this direction by the police are met with resistance.

46 JEWISH AUSTRIA

fortunately to the high honor of the doctors observation service attendants for people interned at the Vienna General Hospital. That's the note Comforting amidst the chaos. Regardless of the power of the police, she did not manage to cross the restricted area of science. It is a most fortunate fact that deserves to be highlighted.

It is true, however, that there is in Austria a number of health centers, run for the most by Jews, and whose doors open with the greater complacency towards all those whom one there brings, provided they have financial resources sufficient. Either that police actions find complicity within the families of the internees, or that these They have no one to defend them, the health centers those in question admit them and keep them safe from everyone The looks. These are, in every sense of the word, the Modern Bastilles.

It is especially for single men, widowers or bachelors. that they are being attacked in this way when they are dealing with public affairs, as journalists or as politicians. Therefore, we take the liberty of addressing them to offer them wise advice by saying, "Get married, this will be your safeguard." He is unhappy, without any no doubt, that at the end of a century which deserved the name of century Enlightenment, after all the liberal promises made in the Constitutions and after all the revolutions made In the name of human rights, it is possible to imprison, and sometimes for their entire lives, intelligent men, honorable, perfectly sound of mind and body, and of whom The conduct did not give rise to the slightest criticism. However, the cases of internment carried out in these These conditions are not uncommon in Austria. The citizen Austrian who has the misfortune of being arrested arbitrary, either due to excessive police zeal, or as a result of a private revenge of which she makes herself the instrument, has Nothing to claim, nothing to hope for from anyone. He leaves the Bastille (if he is lucky enough to get out) the redness on his forehead and too often ruin in his house, without having had the 'consolation of serving his cause, without preserving even the hope of getting revenge one day or another.

ADMINISTRATION 47

The legislation in force in the Habsburg Empire, relative to health centers, would need to be radically reformed. It dates from the first half of the nineteenth century; and it is deeply regrettable that, in the current state of affairs, no one seems to consider that it is dangerous "for public safety and private. The prescriptions are of a somewhat recent date, intended to supplement this legislation on certain points old, have not been the subject of public discussion.

They originate from the Ministry of the Interior, and are based on the regulations of public institutions for the mentally ill. However, According to these instructions, it is possible, in Austria, to depriving the first person who comes along of their freedom, under using a pretext of public danger, and to have her driven into a health center. Nowhere is it stated what the timeframe will be. The medical examination must take place to decide if the arrest-tion may or may not be maintained; and consequently, when the A person thus deprived of their liberty is once imprisoned in the establishment, there is no longer any need to hurry to have the official doctor called.

These kinds of kidnappings are, let us repeat, the fact from a small handful of civil servants, aged in the atmosphere of crime and thinking only of satisfying their brutal passions or their personal interests. The goal they they often continue by carrying out these arbitrary acts It's very simple. They want to absolve themselves of responsibility by making out to be crazy those who could to demand an accounting of the procedures implemented against them. It may be very convenient; but it is profoundly Unjust and immoral. Wasn't it Cardinal de Retz who said somewhere that the audacity of impostures must veil the The perfidy of intrigues?

48 JEWISH AUSTRIA

THE JOURNALISTS

Any publicist concerned with his dignity, when he resides in Austria, is inevitably affected by a feeling of sadness. On the one hand, he is forced to remember that this

Ays was not the cradle of freedoms, it did not fé accepted, on the contrary, that to his defender, and when they were imposed on him by events.

On the other hand, he notes that he is treated more severely than are not his counterparts in other countries. Unless he Although he is an unofficial writer, he feels like the victim of harassment that is as malicious as it is ingenious and repeated in a thousand different ways. It would take too long to list them all. in all its details the surveillance to which he is subjected and the the troubles he has to endure. These details are varied, moreover.

infinitely, depending on the lifestyle, depending on whether it is either to simply intimidate, or to lose completely. According to the In this case, journalists are attacked in their wealth, in their health or in their honor.

Among the many examples that we could To cite, we will simply choose two which we seem absolutely typical. One of the two men whose painful ordeal we are outlining is a Austrian nationalist journalist; the other has nationality French; he lived in Vienna for many years, in quality of correspondent for French newspapers.

The first one was not one of those that can be considered as dangerous to a state. The police were exaggerating without doubt the scope of his articles and the extent of his influence. Based on reports from few indicators She was sincere; apparently, she saw in him the Danton of the future. although he in no way possesses the makings of a revolution-naire. In any case, to calm the ardor he was putting to defend the cause of nationalities, it was spread everywhere He was going, the rumor was that he was a high-class burglar. And, a peculiar thing, which could give a certain verisimilitude To such rumors, he was indeed committing himself, in all the circles he frequented, pickpocketing whose members of his entourage were victims. To his To his great astonishment, he discovered more than once in his pockets, on returning home, of objects belonging to several people, who had been robbed on the same day. Initially frightened by such audacity, he conceived during For a while he had dark thoughts and thought of nothing less than to throw his pen to the nettles. But, on the advice of his. friends, he wisely chose to laugh at what was happening to him, and continued straight on his way, without worrying about police maneuvers.

ADMINISTRATION 49

As for the French journalist, the existence that was his created in Vienna was more eventful, more fruitful in gripping episodes. In the early days of his se- During his time in Austria, he felt the weight of heavy surveillance upon him. spear, initially hidden, and which eventually resorts to ostensi- exposure to processes that are dangerous to his or her safety or his personal freedom. For the sake of clarity, we leave him the speaking to himself:

"Certainly," he said in his own words, "I never considered to claim under no circumstances the right to abuse hospitality Austrian, in blaming, in excessive terms, what might have seemed reprehensible to me. In a foreign country, one is held to greater consideration, to greater moderation; I have never I'd forgotten. But it seemed legitimate to me, from the moment I... in accordance with Austrian law, to be able to freely to walk the streets without being insulted by strangers, without running into traps that I constantly had to to thwart, as if by a fatal hand, and unfortunately elusive, would have directed against me a whole a series of machinations. But I had reached the point where I no longer to have the ability to go about my business without being the object of intrusive surveillance and even attacks dangerous.

"However, I am aware that I have never forgotten the rules of moderation and necessary caution were imposed.

50 JEWISH AUSTRIA

through propriety and self-respect journalists based in foreign countries. I have always I remembered that the freedom to write was for them in some way this is the result of tolerance on the part of the authorities of country where they reside, and that they were required to recognize it by the dignity of their language, by carefully refraining from exceeding certain limits. My only fault, admitting that that would be one of them, would be to have sometimes responded, although from in a fairly moderate way, to the incredible violence of language that certain Austrian press outlets have taken the regrettable habit of heaping blame on the French nation and those who preside over its destiny. I have tried, on many occasions circumstances, and always with the appropriate moderation given my situation, to demonstrate to Austria that no serious cause of disagreement did not exist between her and the France. I paid a very high price for the independence of these statements. Let the following facts be the judge. I make,
No commentary, a pure and simple statement of the truth.

"For some time I had been, on behalf of agents recruited God knows where, the object of covert surveillance. I hadn't worried about it. But from 1890 onwards, This surveillance began to be exercised in a very overt manner. impossible and under absolutely intolerable conditions. I was then attached, as a teacher, to a municipal college from Vienna. Every day the agents followed me step by step, from my home to the door of this establishment school, where they eventually even managed to get in under various pretexts. Understanding that the feeling of my dignity personal matters could not be tolerated in such a state of things, I resigned from my teaching position, after eight and a half years of service.

"From 1891 to the end of 1896, the system used at my His attitude did not change. Summer and winter, I was followed Morning and evening, everywhere I went. Many people They became aware of it. I had barely settled in, Pete, when holiday resort, that my presence was reported to the public and that All eyes were on me. My wife-

ADMINISTRATION 51

even, already suffering at that time from heart disease to which she succumbed, was also being monitored. probably wanted to know to whom the letters were addressed that she mailed. She suffered greatly from this brutal obsession which certainly contributed to worsen his illness.

"On March 26, 1897, an incident occurred which almost killed her. That day-as had already happened to me Several times, I had been grossly insulted in the street. by individuals I didn't know and who were saving themselves They ran off at full speed after provoking me. Loser With patience, I went to file a complaint at the Police Prefecture and request protection in the most polite terms. For Having received no answer, I was taken to the mental clinic. as if suffering from delusions of persecution. I had never had Not enough time to warn anyone. But fortunately the medical examination to which I was subjected did not take long to to demonstrate to the official police how much she had deceived. Thanks to the doctors' high level of experience, to their a genuinely humanitarian spirit, and above all perhaps grace to the composure that had never left me for a single moment,

I was released after thirty-six hours. But

One can only imagine the anguish he felt during this
The delay, my wife already had a heart condition and was bedridden.

"This incident, which should, it seems, have led to a Relaxing the situation, on the contrary, became the point of The start of new troubles. We hadn't managed to to remove me permanently; it was decided to take action in another way. To try and put my poor woman and to enjoy a little rest myself, I had gone spend the summer of 1897 in Upper Styria. The rumor was
It was immediately spread that a French madman was staying in the hotel.
from the small town where I had settled and I saw all the
The inhabitants fled at my approach. I left the village and I rented a small castle located nearby. But the same
When the effects recurred, I withdrew to a small

52 JEWISH AUSTRIA

property that I own on the banks of the Danube and I I ended the beautiful season without leaving my garden.

"Upon returning to Vienna, I was immediately subjected to attempts by an agent provocateur, who held in my presence of compromising remarks against the Emperor of Austria and the government, so that I could... assign. I formally forbid him from entering my house; and it was then that, in desperation, they had resorting to the most dangerous and most amazing.

"One October afternoon, I was quietly reading the newspapers from a café on the boulevard. A gentleman seated at something on my side drew my attention to a note that was published a Viennese newspaper. It mentioned a robbery committed in a tobacconist's shop. "That's very interesting," he told me.
my interlocutor. However, as I was leaving, I saw two sergeants from town, standing in front of a tobacconist's shop, staring at the eyes on me with sustained attention. To get back
At home, I had to pass by several tobacconists.
In front of each of them were stationed police sergeants who stared at me as I passed with an inquisitive look. The same ai renewed itself for several weeks. It was followed of this one:

"An old friend of my wife, who was in the Inconvenience, and which I had helped more than once, came one day telling me, crying, that she had lost her wallet money. We came to his aid again. But the The next day, when I went out, several individuals were scattered about. at intervals, perhaps fifteen in number to be, they each showed me a wallet that they they waved mockingly. This strange exercise, intended no doubt to provoke in me a new attack of anger, it was renewed daily for several month.

"This is more serious, and could lead to prosecution"
A reckless man faces embezzlement charges of a minor. While walking in October in the In the city park, I saw a courtesan who was... He smiled, signaling. His attire and demeanor could, at At first glance, to make her seem like a young woman from eighteen to twenty years old. But, as I approached, I recognized quickly, from her voice and facial features, that she was a a minor child, dressed like that to make me fall into a trap.

ADMINISTRATION 53

"Since none of this succeeded, they resorted to plotting..." a most audacious, and most bizarre, scheme.
For several days in a row, I met in a street that I used to cross to get to the city center, six or seven officers were looking at me looking displeased. Completely surprised, I searched to realize what was happening; and I saw that a man, who was walking almost beside me, spat noisily on the ground every time an officer passed by, so that he could attribute this cowardly act to me rudeness. To put an end to this intrigue, I remained confined to my home, only going out once a week to go to the printing works, where my presence was indispensable—sand. Moreover, I always had myself accompanied by my secretary, a young man who had just finished his studies. I was saying, moreover, that, having never insulted no one could attribute intentions to me this nature. I also knew that Austro- officers Hungarians, deeply penetrated, as they are not all, out of a sense of responsibility, would commit themselves not lightly involved in a plot against a journalist French.

"However rare my outings were, I had to
I noticed that at each of them the officers, passing by Those around me were all looking at me with anger visible. It was a friend who revealed the answer to the riddle to me. In visiting me one day when I hadn't left my house
He told me he thought he'd seen me before noon, at the entrance to the M... café, frequented mainly by officers.

54 JEWISH AUSTRIA

A few days later, a child, my daughter
The maid told me that he had just entered my house one a man who looked so much like me that she had mistaken him For me. That's indeed what we had imagined. Don't which could lead me to personally commit the
The slightest carelessness, and an individual had been unearthed from the same size as me, having the French type, wearing the same beard style, and dressed the same way, to such an extent pointed out that we could easily be mistaken for one another My doppelganger's mission was to commit on the Vienna's cobblestones of acts of impoliteness and rudeness which were assigned to me, while I remained quiet-he was working at my place. He even came in so that one could not be mistaken, in the house that Hhabias and where about twenty tenants also lived.

"This is what allows us to understand how the Austrian officers were taken in by such a... intrigue and may have been misled for several months. Every precaution had been taken to ensure that he They had no doubt whatsoever; and the plot had was executed by Commissioners Karl Jerabek and Polt. chiefs of the secret agents' bureau, with little skill common. If, moreover, the officers have not discovered the In truth, it seems that they did not believe having to go to the trouble of looking for it, not being able to assuming that they were considered as having been affected by acts similar to those of my double. Moreover, they have eventually realized the deception; and as a result of this

The discovery, at the end of November 1897, was made by the Prefect of Police. Mr. de Steyskal resigned. Unfortunate—
The plot's promoters had remained in the place; and a few days later, things started again—
They were as before. The officers seemed, this time, to have been convinced, God knows by what arguments.

"I won't continue much longer," he said.
concluding the French journalist we are talking about—to list the traps that were set for me, nor the unpleasantness—

ADMINISTRATION 55

the things I endured. Not everything was tragic in these adventures. For what purpose, for example, was I photographed? _written ten or twelve times, while I was sitting at my window or in a public garden? Of all these...
The facts clearly emerge, as clearly as possible.
that by these methods worthy of the Middle Ages, they sought to lose myself, and that one has become persistently attached to it.

This is the story we felt compelled to reproduce.
verbatim, despite its length. It is, as one might say sees, among the most tragic. The writer, who was a victim of these as the process wondered where it had come from the instigator of such acts of hostility. He sought to discover the watchword to which the authors of this series were subjected of infamies. At first glance, one might have thought it was a Personal revenge, to which a few bigwigs are contributing police officers reportedly lent their assistance. But as the
The journalist in question was aware that he had never
He did nothing that could create enemies for him in Vienna; force has
It was time to look elsewhere. The prevailing spirit, like us As mentioned above, in certain police circles of the the capital of Austria, appeared to him as the only A plausible explanation. He was a victim, like so many others.
others.

There is only one possible conclusion to be drawn from the dangerous situation created in Austria by the excess of repression. Through its sterile violence, the state police that of throwing the population into the streets itself revolutionaries. A split occurs, the consequences of which are...
These consequences can easily become very formidable; on the one hand
On one side, the whole of political Austria; on the other, the police.

Isn't this the surest sign of degeneration?

It is shocking for a country to see such enormities become possible in an empire that cannot survive, in the midst of envious and hostile neighbors, by carefully guarding the sacred flame of patriotism, which by nurturing it in hearts of the population the fervor of civic virtues.

56 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Anyone who dares to oppose, if

Moderate as she may be, in power, her hands are tied by the terror when it comes to defending oneself against attackers who have their own perfectly free and well-armed.

Their actions have a diabolical antisocial character.

They are all the more accused because they know they are assured of impunity.

It would be necessary, in order to guide them down a path worthy of the goal, to direct that they are tasked with achieving, an energetic will, a higher consciousness capable of dominating this agitation anarchic. The strict and honest fulfillment of Duty is still the best of all skills.

III

THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL STATE

THE LARGE ESTATE – THE INFLUENCE

LARGE LANDLORDS' POLICY – THE PROPERTY DEBT – THE SOCIAL STATE –

AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY – THE PUBLIC FINANCES – THE SYSTEM

MONETARY – FOREIGN TRADE

Amid the gigantic events that have Austria has renewed the map of Europe in this century; inevitably suffered, like all the states on our continent.

profound and radical transformations. It has been severely shaken both economically and social issues as well as constitutional ones. But we must not to be mistaken. Despite appearances, despite its parliamentary freedoms and its flourishing industries, the

The Habsburg monarchy did not become a state modern in the democratic sense that we give to this word

Western countries. That would be voluntarily exposing oneself to

It is a serious mistake to want to judge her according to the same assessment criteria as France or Belgium,

For example.

In Austria, the transformations carried out do not carry only on the surface; they have not yet penetrated, all the way to the less so with regard to certain provinces, down to the lower social classes. The real- benefits seized by national labor have not spread ease in the working classes, for this very simple reason that they remained exclusively piled up in the islands' hands of a small number of people. Present-day Austria is a true anachronism in nineteenth-century Europe century. Its social order is still based, in part, on a feudal organization that nothing could undermine. And other On the other hand, there exists throughout the monarchy an infinite diversity of popular aspirations, often contradictory, which do not find in them the concentrated elements of a sufficiently energetic action, in the absence of common views, in relation to the country's economic needs.

Indeed, while some Austrian nationalities have more or less reached the end of their evolution political and no longer have anything to fear from the future, others are still struggling against fate for to assert their national existence, stifled by ambitions and the incessant attacks from their neighbors as well as from their rivals. Hence, the inevitable scattering, without a doubt. doubtful, but deeply regrettable from the point of view humanitarian, social forces; and from this dispersal it One must take great account of this if one wants to judge the matter soundly. Progress has been made. There is no possible merger, by for example, between the Germans and the Czechs; the event- has sufficiently demonstrated this. There are no more between the Poles and Ruthenians. Each nationality follows its own path own and thinks of his own interests. There is no effort anywhere common, a collective action.

The social organization is, even today, under considerable strain. reports, what it was like several centuries ago, and there sees the major cause that opposes the development of material and moral well-being in the country. There is an evil there. inherent in the nature of things, and against which have thwarted so far all the efforts of the most socialist ardent, as well as those of men eager to see Progress is achieved smoothly. That is the constitution social inequality itself is what makes it so unequal, so disproportionate.

the distribution of wealth. It is this that tends to perpetuate pauperism despite the development of so-called despite the daily spread of pos-furniture. Intellectual culture may be spreading; the
The impoverished classes continue to be bent under the yoke of a small number. The great territorial fortunes are maintain, perpetuate themselves under the protection of legislation that is based on the customs and traditions of yesteryear. The progress of the civilizations have not yet succeeded, to this day, in modifying to lay the foundations of this ethical edifice. Despite efforts repeated with a persistence that did not lead to a better outcome, nothing Nothing has changed. We are told, with emphasis, that the future belongs to science, progress, and civilization triumphant; it seems that these predictions should not to be carried out in Austria. Which is the law everywhere else.
an inescapable aspect of humanity remains even today.
A dead letter for the multilingual monarchy. All the Existing institutions do indeed agree to stop short of the development of ease and well-being.

THE LARGE ESTATE

The organization of wealth is such that the population can only find in the development of his assets completely inadequate means of subsistence. Approximately one a third of the land ownership is in the hands of The feudal nobility and Jews. A strange alliance! His Existence is the sign of new times. In vain, islands representatives of the people protested vigorously within the Parliament opposes the creation of new trusts intended, as we know, to render inalienable and the indivisible property of any given aristocratic family.

60 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The government is always confident of finding a way to... a majority in the chamber for the vote on such projects of laws. Thus the old state of affairs not only maintains itself, but renews itself incessantly.

Many trust properties have an extent such that thousands of families could find there to live decently from the produce of their labor; and evil is brought to its peak by successive absorption, at the pro-made great lords out of what remained of small peasants. In some regions, many valleys, entire mountain ranges have become absolutely inaccessible, being reserved for hunting.

Although it's virtually impossible to get an idea completely accurate total value of these trusts transformed, in a way, into assets of mortmain, however, they can be evaluated in a way approximate. Official statistics, even when... supplementing with the help of certain conscientiously done works fortunately by individuals, do not provide in this regard that incomplete data, scattered throughout the publications relating to the various provinces. But, what as said, based on these means of information, certainly gives the impression of a colossal fortune and which tends to increase every year. Large properties gradually seize the neighboring lands and expand constantly. The Cisleithan half of the Empire is divided into 791 cantons, each with its own tax administration. However, of this number, only 82 (10.37%) have the large property is not registered. Even in the cantons where they do not own estates taxed at more than 1,000 florins of taxes (which is the minimum of the great property), however, large landowners have taken foot. In 382 cantons (nearly half), it is found two or three large landowners who necessarily exercise an enormous influence from a political, social and economic; and some of them (about 40%) possess significant areas of expertise in several aspects of countries. In Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia and Lower-Austria, there is not a single canton that does not have its grand owners. The development of the industry could only contribute to pushing them back a little, like that begins to occur on the borders of Bohemia, in north, and Moravia.

SOCIALISM 61

The electoral lists drawn up for the renewal legislative assemblies set the figure at 5,402 in 1891.

number of large landowners, who were only 4,931 in 1873: in the meantime, their number had therefore increased by 9.5%.

Large estates are, moreover, distributed in a very uneven across the provinces. Silesia, for example, has a total area of 514,685 hectares. Of this figure, Thirty-six large landowners own 134,226 hectares, that is 26.07%; one Fe alone pays 60,000 florins property tax. If we add to that the episcopal properties, the large landowners together own more than 35% of the Silesian soil.

Bohemia has an area of 5196700 hectares.
In her country, 362 large property owners pay more than 1,000 florins of land tax and together own 1,448,638 hectares (37.88%). The cadastral income is set at 12 million florins, for a land value of 244 millions of florins approximately. On average, each large The owner possesses 4,000 hectares of land with an income net of 33,000 florins.

The painting features much more pronounced colors.
even if we take a look at the domains owned in Bohemia by certain magnates. Thirty-three of them pay more than 20,000 florins in property tax annually.
Together they own 846,181 hectares, that is to say 17.28% of the area of Bohemia. The market value of Their combined estates are worth 138 million florins in round figures. The richest of these magnates owns at he alone possesses a territorial fortune that exceeds three-quarters

62 JEWISH AUSTRIA

that of the entire Bohemian clergy, who own only 2% of the territory of this kingdom.

Galicia (Austrian Poland) has an area of 13,640,000 jochs. The characteristic feature of this province is that the average property doesn't hold up. I place minimal. Everything is absorbed by the large and [very small] ownership: 32.64% with regard to the first, and 61% for the second. Large properties are found especially in northern and northeastern Galicia. The small property has so little value that most of those who own it ossèdent do not derive an annual income of more than 5 As for average property, it does not represent no more than 6.31% of the country's total area. Also the Is Galicia the province that provides the most each year? strong contingent M ean According to the revelations which numerous [remarks] were made in the Austrian Parliament People are dying of hunger there.

The large property has grown enormously also in Upper and Lower Austria, in Styria and in Moravia. The other provinces of the Empire. are poor; but rural property is distributed there in a less unequal way. Lower Austria has an area of 3,454,593 jochs of which 52,826 constitute the domain of the State, 64,115 belong to industrial companies, 34,841 to the imperial family, 24,549 to the municipalities, 94,882 to the clergy (including what is attached to the parishes), and the surplus to private owners. Overall, the Fo property holds slightly more than 16% of the total, The clergy 2.74%, and the municipalities 0.71%. If we enter In detail, the figures take on a more eloquent tone. striking once again. Four families each own 5 to 10,000 jochs; three others own between 10,000 and 20,000. He There are two of them, one with 36,000 jochs, the other 54,000.

The area of green Styria is 3,906,300 jochs.
A very small number of people own them.

SOCIALISM | 63

They alone account for about a fifth. In Moravia, the large property represents, on average, a capital of 137 million florins, together producing an income of 6,840,000 florins.

In this state of affairs, it is easy to understand that The living conditions must be deplorable. small estates gradually end up being entirely absorbed; they will join the large estates. That is It's just a matter of time. Small farmers are transforming. little by little, into servants. The Alpine meadows become the owned by magnates, who demand a rental price for it so high that we cannot pay them, and consequently the herds are disappearing. In just one year, nearly twenty small properties were bought by a large owner; the land was used to make parks wild boars. In many places the day laborers do not earn only 35 to 40 kreuzers (70 to 80 cents) per Day (without food). Those who do not consent to Those working at this price are not entitled to either dead wood or leaves dry goods that others are allowed to take away.

These interesting data, which we borrow from scholarly works of Mr. Prochazka and those of the However, the statistical commission only provides one an incomplete idea of the state of affairs. As we have As mentioned above, a significant portion of the large property is absolutely inalienable. In the year 1883, there were, in Austria, 292 trusts comprising a total of 880 properties with a total area of 1,140,000 hectares, that is 4.07% of the country's surface area, excluding the province of Salzburg and Bukovina, where there is no still of inalienable properties. In Bohemia and in Moravia, calculated at 15% and 8% respectively of large properties that are the subject of trusts.

For a century, the population of Austria has been... nearly doubled. In some regions of Lower Austria, from Bohemia, Moravia, and Silesia, it even more than doubled. The majority of this population is occupied with agricultural work. However, the small peasants do not have, like large landowners, the resources needed to expand their domains. Also, the portion of land they occupy, in relation to Has the extent of the Empire decreased rather than increased? lied. It follows quite naturally that if the number of The agricultural proletariat has increased, given that the small properties have always been decreasing until the at the point where, as a result of divisions and sales, we are having reached the extreme limit where the land allocation is granted to a Her family was no longer able to feed her. To avoid debts that he could not repay, the peasant sold, voluntarily silently or unintentionally, his plot of land; he is having come to the city with his family, inevitably increasing the number of proletarians:

64 JEWISH AUSTRIA

It would, moreover, be a big mistake to see in the possession of large estates, the sole source of wealth of the magnates. One could say, in all sincerity-ritual, that large property is only the outward sign, the an ostensible sign of their economic power. A large The owner is, at the same time, an industrialist who engages in even across several branches of industry. He is a brewer, manufacturer of ice cream and glassware, refiner, manufacturer of spirits; f owns mills, mechanical sawmills niques, forges, sugar factories, coal-swimming, slate quarries, lime kilns; he manufactures paper, staves and wooden crates as well as steam engines. Above all, he's good at business Bank. Industrial operations of various Nature thus provides a natural food source for large animals capital available to large landowners. At the head the establishments they operate are constantly placed special, educated, intelligent men who are aware of all scientific discoveries and They use them to contribute to the prosperity of their master.

SOCIALISM 65

In Moravia, for example, so as not to look elsewhere, a group of large landowners who occupy Together, 11.78% of the land in this province is cultivated. in addition to forty-two rice factories fifteen others factories, twenty-eight distilleries, thirty-one mills including several steam-powered, forty-one mechanical sawmills, forty-eight slate quarries, coal mines, kilns lime, which does not prevent it from also possessing, seventy-two castles.

Across all large properties, 62.05% belong to the aristocracy, 20.72% to the Jews and to the bourgeoisie, 9.25% to the clergy or religious orders nuns. As for the rest, the large estates belong-ment, at 4.49% to municipalities, at 1.83% to foundations pious, and at 1.66% to industrial companies. The fidei-clerks are all property of the nobility.

POLITICAL INFLUENCE LARGE LANDLORDS

The economic and territorial power of the major owners, aristocratic or otherwise, is notoriously the source of their political influence, which reaches such a degree that all the legislation, one could also say all the administration is imbued with their spirit. Statistics official information provides us with some curious details in this regard. The Chamber of Lords in Vienna consists of 202 members, including 19 princes of the imperial family and 68 hereditary members. Among the lords appointed to Life includes 60 princes, counts or barons, 32 knights or bourgeois, and 24 clergymen. There are (not counting the islands) 72 nobles out of the hundred members of the Chamber of Lords. The Chamber of Deputies counts on its side within its ranks were 66 princes, counts and barons, that is about one-fifth of its members. The privileges and Electoral preferences attached to large property ownership are such that, in

66 JEWISH AUSTRIA

In 1891, 63 large landowners were seen appointing one of them deputy. In certain parts of Austria, the proportion is even more striking. In Lower Austria, some 25 Members of Parliament were elected by 25 large landowners, in Bohemia and Moravia by 19, Silesia by 18.

The central and provincial administration of the Empire also counts in its ranks many representatives of the nobility. The aristocracy still considers today, the possession of the highest offices as a right reserved for him.

LAND DEBT

Despite the trust system, so conservative in reality, the mortgage debts that weigh on the property are enormous and truly alarming proportions. Property taxes increase every year. They already reach enormous and truly alarming proportions. According to recent work by the Central Commission of statistics, the amount of mortgage debt, abstraction made of Dalmatia, exceeded 4 billion florins (8 half billion francs) at the end of 1891. It was exactly 4,090,387,626 florins, and since that date he has increased again. In twelve years, from 1882 to 1893,

The increase was 1 billion 942 million florins.
From 1885 to 1888, it was calculated that the mortgage debt has increased, on average, by 270 million per year. Since Then, the proportion became even greater. In 1894 However, the increase was 331,159,331 florins. Is- It is necessary to add that the interests of this enormous debts are largely owed to Jews and come each year they increase the contents of their purse.

It is remarkable, moreover, that the most A large portion of mortgage debt is that of small debts of less than 500 florins. This category constitutes She alone accounts for 70% of the total, and unfortunately she is

SOCIALISM 67

In general, an island resulting from an absolute necessity; it represents loans taken out by small owners who sooner or later end up being expropriated through the judicial system. It is therefore important. considerable from an economic and social point of view, in this in the sense that it paints a truly heartbreaking picture of the little and of average property ownership in Austria.

THE SOCIAL STATE

In impoverished rural areas, the land is changing Often and quickly, people sell their hands. They sell voluntarily. his property to escape expropriation, lon seeks to avoid the troubles experienced by heirs when they come into possession of ER, which is heavily overloaded with debts beyond all possibility. Finally, and perhaps this is the the greatest cause of evil, it often happens that, despite In any case, expropriation cannot be avoided, even if only due to the excessive burdens placed on the land taxes and inheritance taxes. Of all this As a result of all these causes, each year 140,000 people emigrate from the monarchy, and that on those who remain, 35% of the Cisleithan population, see themselves. forced to go and live somewhere other than their place of birth. Let us add that, as a result of the continuous changes- landowners, too often possessed by people who don't even know the first ones elements of agricultural culture.

To the partial absorption, by large estates, of means of subsistence that work provides, as well as the occupation of high public offices by the aristocracy, is compounded by the fact that industrial activity and commercial is, in a way, the exclusive domain of 1,200,000 Jews in Cisleithan Austria. And if we Furthermore, it reflects the financial situation of the classes laborious is among the most miserable, one manages to make a living a fairly accurate idea of the economic and social state in his LL Note, moreover, that the Jews, in the operation of their industrial and commercial affairs ciales, always reserve the most important positions for their coreligionists and leave to others only the completely subordinate positions.

68 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The high interest rate on money and the little importance of The reduction in wages inevitably ends up concentrating all capital in the hands of a small number of persons, as large properties already are ae A complete list of principal shareholders pale industrial and financial companies in Austria would be most instructive in this regard. We would clearly see, by whereas, in most societies, it is always the same people who own the shares and take They participate in the general meetings. It's always the same people. who are interested in the various businesses, and one would be surprised to see how small the number of those who collect dividends. In this way, one one could explain why the population is subdivided into three castes that have nothing in common: all in high, one which is very few in number, but very powerful; At the very bottom, there's another one that's very deep and very extensive. but reduced to a state of utter impotence; and between the second, the Jewish bourgeoisie oppressing the proletariat and the peasants, and esteeming and appreciating men only based on the contents of their bag.

The proverbial saying of Dr. Kronawetter, saying that men fight against each other like carnivorous animals, like beasts ferocious, is unfortunately no more justified than any other.

part that it is not in Vienna. The fight for existence it reaches the proportions of a cannibal war here. Each one strives, in the fullest sense of the word, to wrest the bread from his neighbor's mouth, and no one seems to remembering that life is not bearable for everyone population as much as everyone contributes to the effort common. The consequence of this state of affairs is that at Vienna's social situation defies description and appears to observers as absolutely impossible in the long run. The most formidable boredom weighs upon the capital of Austria. Apart from the upper classes, some aristocratic families and Jewish committees, no life, no of air, nothing to beautify existence. What we called The good humor of the Viennese once disappeared without back; the desire to joke is gone. Vienna is dissatisfied.

SOCIALISM 69

Due to the natural effect of ever-increasing pauperism, more or less revolutionary doctrines find easily resonated with the lower classes of society. Hence the intensity of the nationalist movement, of the anti-Mitism and socialist unrest. We're considering it. In Austria, more than half of the male population Having passed the age of twenty-four, she is so poor that she doesn't even pay 5 florins in taxes. That's enough already to describe the situation. The rental tax records Furthermore, they allow us to see that more than 11 million of inhabitants, that is to say roughly half of the population tion, occupy only one or two room dwellings at most; and that's without even mentioning the proletarians who often They live in places where and how they live. Given these conditions, one can understand the vehement hatred that ignites in the soul of many men embittered by the misfortune. What must the merchant, for example, think? ruined as a result of overly restrictive economic legislation harsh, the worker without bread, the peasant expelled from his farm, the small industrialist without work, we are not saying only with regard to the authors of their misfortunes, but to With regard to society as a whole? Increasingly, the small The bourgeoisie falls to the proletariat; and the uncertainty that hangs over on the conditions of existence, the insecurity of tomorrow provokes feelings of despair in people's minds.

It is due to no other causes than to absolutism.
social miseries that must ultimately be attributed to a large number of suicides and other tragedies that afflict society daily. The annual suicide figure is assembled in Austria, from 1677 in 1872 to 2648 in 1877. The following year, in 1878, the economic crisis being At least, it fell to 2,578. But the circumstances that had brought this crisis to a chronic state, the number of intentional deaths has increased again in five years, from 1879 to 1883, by 18%. Since then it has remained more or less stationary. The gradual weakening of The religious spirit certainly contributed to developing this deadly epidemic. We would be tempted to The causes can be reduced to two main factors, namely: The physical suffering and irreligion. The absence of belief stems from the disappearance of these feelings of fraternity that Christianity had spread to In the midst of the masses, in all civilized countries. Poverty leads to anarchy of the mind, and then to voluntary death to silence all those whom a sound religious education has not prepared to withstand life's challenges.

70 JEWISH AUSTRIA

We must also trace these causes back to them.
the development of prostitution. The harmful influence of misery is all the more powerful here because it is in something doubled by the spectacle of the great Jewish women flaunting their luxury. Everywhere the Fortune and misery thus exist side by side, prostitution increases. Wealth generates leisure time that is then spent willingly do wrong. Poverty, on the other hand, breeds temptations. But it is important not to forget that In Vienna, poverty is too often the inevitable consequence. of the social state as created by the absorption of forces productive by the Jews.

What is no less significant in this respect is the considerable number of illegitimate couples. In Carinthia, in particular, although it is a mountainous country nine, the number of these fake households exceeds 50%. crime statistics also cast a grim shadow of sheds light on the moral conditions in which the population of Austria; and these figures are all the more more conclusive than the criminal laws currently in strengths rest on the same unchanging foundations since the beginning of the century. From 1874 to 1889, the number convictions handed down by the courts have increased of 86.7%, while the population growth was only 13.5%. From 1881 to 1889, the majority of convictions (63%) were handed down for embezzlement fraud, theft, or breach of trust. Across all con- of the damned, 90.5% were poor; 9.1% had some ease, and only 0.4% possessed wealth.

In Austria, much less than in France and in In Germany, wealth fulfills no economic function. sufficiently determined mic and even less a moral function. One feels obliged to give instruction- education for children so that they can build a career; But no one seems to think that they should be given... Moral education; no one is concerned with training by the example and reasoning of better generations. It is clearly recognized, theoretically, that it is of the essence the wealth of having a special function, of exercising specific effects on social development, in short to play this role in the relationships between men both economic and moral aspects that belong to it. But of the There's a huge gap between theory and practice. Employment What do holders of large capital do with their wealth? tainted by a character very little related to the basic principles of human dignity; and funds a remain entirely exempt from activity social.

Recent incidents have revealed in this respect a a wound that remains open and causes real devastation. The anti-Semites have put the big word into circulation "of hoarders". The leagues of oil producers and sugar manufacturers, the agreement of speculators on the wheat and other processes necessary for food have unleashed violent anger from the small farmers, consumers and taxpayers. When we saw,

As a result of their actions, prices will rise to the point of becoming absolutely ruinous, Island of Discontent is He became a general and was unfortunately vindicated. From his
On the other hand, the government was alarmed; it prepared a draft of law containing severe penalties against exploiters.
But he arrived at this project like so many others that They never saw the light of day. It remained in the planning stages.
ministerial appointments and, by all appearances, he will not get out of them. The
The game of cartels and agreements between manufacturers continues.
It would take an iron fist to make everything fit into
To order. Where to find it, when the governments that Those succeeding in Austria must above all maintain the political existence of the Empire?

It is fair to say that in Austria, there is no
No financial democracy. Savings, as they are established in France and other Western countries, there is virtually unknown. What rises above it all, It is a plutocratic feudal system, in possession of all goods, from all monopolies. Nothing surprising then.
to what the nationalist leaders find in such social organization of ready-made elements for sowing the unrest. The creation of industrial societies could not not produce the same effects in the monarchy as in other countries. It took place on poorly prepared ground, and could only lead to the creation, as she did, of a silver aristocracy alongside the aristocracy of birth.
While great fortunes were being made, the struggle for Existence continued, more painful than ever; the classes.
hardworking people remain dissatisfied, paying more than the objects necessary for life in the past. Things in have reached the point where everyone, bourgeois and workers, peasants and civil servants, extend their hands towards the government to ask for help and protection.

People are accused of being pessimistic, and who have perhaps 'another flaw than seeing things more clearly than the f

Others claim that Austria is on the verge of a a true economic catastrophe that can be postponed.

but which will not be avoided, no matter what we do to to prevent it. They say on the other hand (and in this we (We share their opinion), that the government, to which we
It addresses itself from all sides, but can do nothing, by its own alone initiative, to change a similar situation. What it
It would indeed be necessary; it would mean changing customs and reworking the old feudal building is being demolished from top to bottom. But nothing indicates that the times of reform are near, well as Let minds be prepared for this work of renovation.

The more the scope of economic struggle expands in leaving limited means of action, plus the struggle itself inevitably becomes bitter and violent. The relationships of Fellow citizens now breathe nothing but hatred among themselves.
hateful sentiments have passed from the political theater into the life of the world, where they exert their harmful effects.

AGRICULTURE AND INDUSTRY

Having not found complete prosperity in industry that she believed she had a right to hope for, Austria-Hungary has so far only resulted in a decrease in its former im-importance as an agricultural country. There is also a distinction-tion to be established in this respect between Cisleithania and the Kingdom of Saint Stephen. Hungary begins alone-it was able to transform itself into an industrial country; it remained until now more focused on agricultural work. In Austria,
The transformation process was faster.
However, out of a population of approximately 24 million, There are still 13 million, or 54%, who engage in to field work; only 6 million, or 25%, devote themselves to industry, 2 million to commerce; and the surplus is occupied either in military service or in the functions of public functions, or in the free professions.

74 JEWISH AUSTRIA

With regard to Hungary specifically, the sale Wheat was, twenty years ago, still the main resource of country. A good harvest was enough to spread joy. in all classes of society. It is true that if the
The harvest was poor, and everyone felt the effects. regrettable effects. For some time now, things have been are much changed in this respect. The foreigner does not address itself more regularly, as it did in the past, to the Hungary needs the wheat it lacks. Competition wheat from America, Russia, Romania, carried a severe blow to this sort of export monopoly cereals, and forced the government to seek other resources.

Is it to this state of affairs that we must attribute the development of agrarian socialism which was grafted, in certain Hungarian counties, on agricultural organization, at to the point of becoming a real social danger? The ten-Socialist dances are gradually gaining ground, moreover, in the class agricultural workers in Cisleithania; and this is com-makes, moreover, the situation of workers attached to living in Austria is more miserable than one can imagine. to imagine it. That is the great reproach that the Jews, the defenders of movable wealth, address the great owners of rural properties.

Unfortunately, this criticism, even if valid, is not It is special to those to whom it is addressed. It is deserved by the great industrialists as well as landowners. The Industrial workers are hardly paid any better. relatively, than agricultural workers. In some branches of industrial work, which require more great skill on the part of the workers, or which provide greater profits for entrepreneurs, work is a slightly better paid.

In general, there is great poverty among them. To be able to compete abroad and in the country itself, Austrian industry, giving up on winning from the field through the good quality of its products, strives to to maintain themselves through low prices. These are the Workers' wages suffer as a result. Bent under the burdened by misery, the poor workers no longer have this self-esteem that one encounters in working-class circles ers in France, England, and Belgium. They do not have the desire to excel in their profession and become absolute- apathetic.

SOCIALISM 75

PUBLIC FINANCES

To make a sound assessment of the situation of Austrian finances female dogs, we must not limit ourselves to considering the amount budgets drawn up each year by the ministers of Finances. What needs to be examined most are the means used to deal with challenges thoughts that are constantly increasing. The difficulties increase—They lie year after year, because we've never had an island. courage to face the situation head-on and that we have always limited to seeking palliatives. We have never The main objective was to reduce military spending, which weigh so heavily in the balance and threaten to exhaust, if we are not careful, all the vital forces of the country. In short, where a radical remedy was needed, we have content with makeshift solutions. Currently, taxes are having reached a figure that would be supremely imprudent to exceed. The population could not support it. any further.

Without a doubt, considered as a whole, the direct and indirect contributions do not reach the The same figure as in France, for example. But all Comparison of this kind is fundamentally flawed and cannot be sustained. Not even the exam. The difference between the amount of private wealth in both countries and the the way they are distributed. Austria, we have As mentioned above, it is a relatively poor country. The goods

76 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Movable and immovable property are not included there, as elsewhere. scattered across millions of hands. They are concentrated in the possession of a small number of families. Also Is it no secret that the increase The incessant taxation has become a source of discontent. general lament. The agitators have a powerful tool at their fingertips. leverage: they are entitled to highlight the contrast between the tax system and the true economic situation.

On this point of view, Slavs and Teutons agree. Faced with the bad mood caused by the exaggeration of taxes, all distinctions of race and nationality disappear. In less than twenty-five years, Austria has indeed found a way to almost double taxes, to have a debt as considerable as large states in possession of a true wealth, and she also sees herself as having an obligation to constantly resort to new expedients. From 479 millions of florins in 1881, the expenditure budget passed to 640 million in 1894; the service of interest and debts consolidated, from 125 million florins in 1880, amounted to 173 million in 1896. For the 1899 fiscal year, the revenues are estimated at 760 million guilders, the expenses at 760 millions, an increase of 37 million in a year to the other. Far from clearing, the horizon, as we can see, is only to darken in a worrying way. With budgets in Despite their seemingly balanced appearance, the debt continues to increase; This is a major problem that is causing concern. far-sighted. The EU, whose budgets are drawn up in makes the exam very difficult, if not impossible. for the uninitiated. The only thing that the population What is very clear is that the debt is increasing, and that the burdens placed on taxpayers become increasingly heavy. Which does not prevent the Finance ministers to assert that the balance of The budget is achieved. "The figures," said a famous orator-author – do not rule the world, but they show how it is governed." Now, in Austria, one only has to Open your eyes. The figures for spending and debt grow every year.

SOCIALISM 77

Under a law of December 24, 1867, the State is self-aimed at issuing annuity securities, the amount of which is designed to cover the amortization of debts, in particular lottery bonds and government bonds. These issues These events take place every year outside the budget. amortizable loans are thus, in reality, con-invested in perpetual loans, the total of which increases without ceases. Austria may well follow the example of the Western states dental and reduce the interest rate paid on its creditors cers, 11 nonetheless results in the annuity, as a consequence of the loans issued for the purpose of amortization require heavier interests today than when it was created.

One could note, in the Austrian budgets, other practices which, in Dee's end by turning state finances into an inextricable mess. These include, in particular, so-called investment expenditures (for public works or other similar jobs). It is another sum of 20 to 30 million florins which are issued annually as annuities, outside the computer budget naire. Why maintain a dual source of Debts? Obviously, to deceive the naive, so as not to not to show that the so-called budget balance is in In reality, a significant and substantial deficit, growing every year. These are childish methods, accounting fictions. which do not deceive a trained eye. And from time to time facts emerge that demonstrate the lack of sincerity of the budget. The Minister of War, as we recall, at declared, in 1898, before the delegations, that the credits the amounts allocated for 1897 had been exceeded by 30 million florins, as a result of unforeseen expenses. These 30 million had been taken from the cash reserves of other ministerial departments. What would people say in France? of a Minister of War who would borrow from the ministry from the Interior or Foreign Affairs the means to To engage in expenditures not authorized by the Chambers?

By closely examining this single year, 1897, on which attention thus found itself called, lon easily discovers the truth as we have just to indicate it. The so-called balance of which the Minister of Finances, which appeared so proud, was in reality a deficit of 60 millions of florins, which increased the debt of Cisleithan Austria. What value is appropriate then? to attribute in such an occasion to the brilliant exhibits whose official representatives of the Public Treasury have Do they specialize in something? They give eloquent speeches; But at the heart of this eloquence, what lies? A accumulation of errors, inaccurate assertions, of untruths that make those on a mission smile to issue annuities for amortization and expenses extraordinary men. Sincere men, enemies of adventures, are rightly concerned about such a state of things. They all know that the presentation of the situation financial is merely an illusion, that depreciation apparent actually translates into the incessant increase debts, that the admitted extraordinary expenses on average amount to 20 or 30 million per year, and that the The budget deficit has thus been in a permanent state, since number of years.

78 JEWISH AUSTRIA

In such a situation, there is no fear to assert, from certain perspectives, that this demonstrates a lack of patriotism to seek the truth. It is a lack of patriotism to seek the truth. It forgets that it is impossible to conceal for long a situation of this kind, and that by revealing it publicly one would have a chance of finding a remedy.

As everywhere in Europe, the exaggeration of spending in Austria, it comes mainly from the War budget. Unfortunately, while some countries are wealthy and prosperous I would at least support them, Austria-Hungary is far from being in the same situation. Whatever the patriotic motives invoked to continue and the To increase their size, duty dictates that they be reduced to more narrow proportions. No matter how much one presents these augmentations—small sums of money (let's say by small packages (to use the common expression);

SOCIALISM 79

they eventually coalesce and constitute a total intolerable.

In ten years, the war budget has increased by 35 million florins, or about 30%. However, in these figures does not include the 72 million spent in 1887 and 1888 for armaments, nor the excess expenditures which constantly renew in relation to the evaluations primitives. Every year, within parliament, votes are rising up to point out the dangers of this state of affairs. Without ignoring the imperative need to maintain the monarchy capable of resisting external attacks If necessary, truly patriotic members of parliament express the a well-founded fear that it might not be possible for Austria to withstand such heavy loads over time.

This is well known in ministerial circles; but at Instead of admitting they were on the wrong track, they stubbornly persisted until now in resorting to a policy of borrowing from Continuous jets. At times it seemed as if he had been recognized there were other things to do than live from day to day in accumulating debts; but never did they have the courage to go all the way. The taxpayers protest. There is a risk that they will run out of bread;

We console ourselves by thinking that we have ammunition.

The report published periodically by the Commission monitoring of public debt provides us with de-precise details on the financial situation, as created by the circumstances the remarks we have just indicated.

The total Austrian public debt exceeded at the end of 1897 a total of 4.5 billion florins, of which 2 766 million billion of so-called general debt, and the surplus in various debts. From 605 million in 1881, these currently amount to over 1.5 billion.

Given the enormity of this debt, considering the Given the limited resources of Cisleithan Austria, one cannot to refrain from recalling this fundamental rule that, if

80 JEWISH AUSTRIA

States have a duty to convert their debts when they do so. They may have, but they also have a duty to amortize them. When they Podbtienne they burden the future with an overwhelming weight and are heading towards inevitable bankruptcy. The deficits stem mainly from this lack of tax elasticity which is the most regrettable characteristic of the situation.

In the past, people relied on capital gains tax, at the following the tax reform that the doctor had envisioned Steinbach, Minister of Finance. One of his predecessors—Mr. de Dunajewski had managed to obtain budgetary balance by not requesting resources news other than taxes on consumer goods. But soon this became insufficient. That's when the Dr. Steinbach, called to the post to which he was given possessing undeniable abilities, he undertook to put a put an end to the embarrassing financial situation. Its sudden The height made him dizzy. Vanity fueled him, and he believed himself predestined to perform miracles, to achieve true feats of strength. His plan to reform direct taxes included progressive income tax, which he presented to the naive as being progressively decreasing for the little ones ratings. But in reality, the wealth tax was collected without that small taxpayers be relieved; and consequently The receipts were increasing. There was certainly something in this...

reform is a just and fruitful idea, that of distributing the public charges in a more equitable way. But fed administrators soon realized that in practice this reform became intolerable and odious because of the way in which it was implemented to which it was applied. The fiscal inquisition to which they seeing themselves subjected to it soon provoked protests unanimous conclusions. The abstract mathematician had established his premises with rigorous precision; but in its As an enlightened socialist, he had forgotten to take into account the spirit of rebellion inevitably stirred by the increase exaggerated charges.

Today, it seems well established that the yield of Taxes tend to decrease, as does patriotism.

SOCIALISM 81

Austrian; and one cannot deny that there is between these two orders of ideas, so distinct in appearance, a correlation undeniable, like cause and effect. At the end of The reality is reflected in the persistence of the deficits. stemming from the immoderate increase in spending public. Not only in practice is it considered Expenses are presented as unavoidable, but they are inflated. increasingly without the slightest reflection; we become accustomed to this sort of growth phenomenon that one displays the strange pretension of assimilating it to a natural law. This fact is not taken into account, that if the increase the expenditure is bearable in nations whose The population is rich and prosperous, it becomes the opposite absolutely intolerable in those whose population is poor man. There is a very real danger here. Although it exceeds the at the level of ordinary concerns of financiers, perhaps- They would do well to be concerned about it. The government- The movement went all the way in every direction. tax revenue. He has exhausted all resources. Loans contracted for special purposes, such as those that have were carried out to undertake monetary reform, have they themselves contributed to increasing the burden on taxpayers bubbling, without any real benefit to the public good.

With the series of fiscal expedients exhausted, the idea of to continue increasing spending indefinitely and The use of tax increases as a basis for funding needs to be defined. abandoned, in the face of fierce resistance born from the populations, which will eventually degenerate into Genuine disobedience. Mistrust, all too justified.

motivated by the revolutionary spirit that characterizes the
The situation internally has replaced the confidence of savings.
Salvation can only come from a sincere return to the one true a system that manages sound finances and budgets sincere; namely, the pursuit of a normal income and the reduction of all expenses that are not absolutely indispensable.

82 JEWISH AUSTRIA

THE MONETARY SYSTEM

One of the main criticisms that can be made to Austria-Hungary relates to the monetary system which She can't get rid of it. To get out of the paper-currency with legal tender status and restoring the circulation of metal lique, in 1891, the work known as monetary reform. But can we, in good conscience-ence, to assert that the capital borrowed by the two States, under the pretext of carrying out this reform, may in factly attributed to this special purpose, and that the reform be likely to be able to be carried out under conditions sustainable?

Rarely has an operation of this kind been glorified with Such an overabundance of pompous words. The exaggerations.
and lies of all kinds were implemented one after the other, to gather clouds before the eyes of the public and render it incapable of discerning the true situation. During the inquiry that took place in Vienna in 1891, Only one of the experts had the courage to say frankly that the borrowed funds would actually be intended for to build up a war chest. Since then, other voices have been heard are raised in the press; but they have limited themselves to to show great skepticism regarding the recovery of the metallic circulation. The stated purpose cannot be reached, in fact, as long as the overall balance of payments would not be actively settled. However, Austrian and Hungarian papers, annuities and securities, which find placements abroad require each year, for the payment of the coupons, a sum of 180 million of gold florins. On the other hand, the trade balance does not

It has become clear in recent years that there is an insignificant surplus exports outweighed imports; in 1898 there was had the same deficit; so that, on this side, there is no hope of winning enough to pay for the coupons at outside. Therefore, how to establish the balance of the digital-raire? In reality, the borrowed gold has so far been kept out of its destination; it piles up in the cellars of the Bank and the Treasury, unemployed, while it was necessary to engage in enormous expenses to bring it together at a rate of 4%. Without a doubt paper florins were withdrawn from circulation; but one replaced them with silver coins worth crowns, and large quantities of nickel coins, as well as by banknotes. Now, it is necessary to recognize, replace paper money with coins silver or nickel fractional coins, that has no importance from the point of view of metal circulation. As long as the gold remains buried in the cellars of the Banking, the entire work remains to be done.

SOCIALISM 83

The government's lack of urgency in putting gold into circulation is, moreover, very understandable. possible. In the presence of this mass of Austrian securities and Hungarians who are in foreign hands, for a sum of 9 billion francs, we would be at any moment threatened with seeing the collected gold emigrate out of the monarchy with so much difficulty. What would happen, indeed, if, for a for whatever reason, political or otherwise, the tenth part only securities placed outside were suddenly Presented for reimbursement? The metallic treasure of Face gives, it would pass entirely through it; it would not suffice Not even enough to meet the demands. Other possibilities present themselves. Let the cosmopolitan speculators try one of those stock market maneuvers they excel at, the metal circulation, assuming it were restored, would suffer necessarily a rudg affected. The financial institution, such that it exists today, is too weak to oppose a of the gold drain. The discount rate in Vienna is determined by that of the Bank of Germany; and one it is easy to see that there can no longer be any question of a serious downward trend in rates: interest in Austria. Number of Austro-Hungarian stocks ranked at The foreigner would thus, in the event of an alert, resume their journey to their place of origin, to the detriment of exchange rates.

In this respect, it is not without interest to borrow to the officially published statistical tables some figures concerning price fluctuations on the foreign currencies and metallic currencies. These variations (as we know) were quite important from 1893 to 1895. Shortly after the promulgation of the monetary law, The additional lagio has exceeded 6%. There is, in fact, a multitude of very diverse factors influence the prices of changes, particularly those arising from contributions and withdrawals of foreign capital. These contributions and these Withdrawals often leave a balance, which the country must pay. who owes it. But how to pay it? Depending on whether This question is easy or difficult to answer, the rate of Change varies. Too often the question is asked incorrectly. regarding these variations; one is willing to concern oneself only with than trade relations between states, and we are concerned about that returns only to the balance resulting from the exchange of fus goods. This is a serious mistake. The com- Foreign trade was once a predominant element when financial reports were less important. Today the question of a country's debts abroad and all of its financial relationships to a whole trade is another influence on exchange rates. external itself. The currency of countries that do not have effective metallic circulation can therefore vary in value at every moment, and sometimes on an enormous scale. It is even impossible to predict with any certainty the future that awaits him, which is true today in Exchange rates will no longer be relevant tomorrow. The [monetary law] The 1892 law did try to put an end to the fluctuations of the exchange rate, by decreeing that the paper florin was worth 2 crowns, or 2.10 francs. To establish this ratio, the The legislator based his calculations on the average of the prices of the Exchange rates on foreign exchange markets, from 1879 to 1891. By venturing into this territory, he had no other choice.

to ask past experience for probabilities of the future. Nevertheless, given the multiple factors which influence the value of fiat currency by

SOCIALISM 85

Compared to that of gold, it is easy to understand that it is It is very difficult to establish, through legislation, the direction that will take into account the events, political and otherwise, that determine—undermine this value. There's more. Many people experts in the field contest the legislator's right to take care of it. Experience has shown, in fact, that the gold premium, as soon as it exists, has in itself a strength which drives it to grow. The causes become multiple,

The effect is exacerbated by their complexity. The legislator cannot predict them.

The explanatory memorandum attached to the law on bond calculation in crowns raised various questions that did not trans-no legislative provision was found. Most of the articles of this law merely reproduce the text of the patent of April 27, 1858, also relating to the trial of a reform monetary. The main question raised is that of knowing how the commitments should be executed ments which are expressly specified to be carried out in hard cash. The Austrian government has wanted to have the opinion of Professors Grunhut and Pfaff on this matter and Schey, whose opinion is authoritative at the University of Vienna. Dr. Pfaff was of the opinion that the commitments which in question may be executed, at the debtor's option in gold or silver, indifferently, as long as the Silver currency circulates in unlimited quantities.

According to him, payment in gold can only be demanded on the
the day when the silver florins would be completely withdrawn of traffic. Again, the legislator, even in such cases, would he be entitled to distinguish whether the legitimate interests of The debtor may or may not suffer from the obligation to pay.
in gold. These are, admittedly, distinctions worthy of of medieval casuistry. However, it is in based on this opinion that the government claims to be permitted, in all cases where the formal text of the titles specifies payment in hard cash, to fill in its commitments at his convenience, in gold or silver.
payments stipulated in gold coins, florins, francs, marks

86 JEWISH AUSTRIA

or pounds sterling, must be carried out in the manner indicated; they have in no way to suffer from the exchange rate.
But the expression "cash" does not indicate, in Austria-Hungary, the obligation to pay in gold. When one will want payments to be made in gold, it will be necessary specify explicitly.

We can judge how financial honesty increases through this ingenious method. Of these provisions and others that it would be too long to list them here, it follows that the government seeks to keep the promises he made by taking out a loan; he is determined to carry out monetary reform, the resumption of cash payments, but on the condition that the treasury metallic materials should not be put into circulation. The beauties of These gold standards are therefore imaginary. As we As we said, the majority of testimonies do not think that a circulation of gold, even in the restricted sense of word, either possible. We pass over in silence the particulars—details of the reports of the Bank of Austria—Hungary; it's not easy to untangle them. Its The policy is inevitably that of the government which is of the opinion that the gold standard can exist without a gold circulation effective.

The supply of yellow metal was provided almost in entirely funded by French savings, through the intermediary of Jewish bankers. Now, given the political constellation European at the time the event occurred, this competition French capital was at least an act of carelessness.

FOREIGN TRADE

In countries whose political unity is complete and which have entered the economic phase, it has been recognized that the main opportunities for the future no longer lie in Europe, but in distant lands with which one can conduct traffic on a more or less large. So, everywhere, people began to practice with zeal for colonial policy. Austria was unable to enter into this path. The weakness of its fleet and the disadvantages inherent in the dualistic system did not allow it. the constitution of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy makes everything at least doubtful the success of the attempts that could to be done in this way. The defects of the organism Dualists placed the Cisleithan part of the Empire in a a true dependence on the kingdom of Saint-Etienne, from the point of view of foreign trade, to this point that Hungary is able to make more or less. The precautions taken and the measures adopted are less illusory. made in the interest of Austrian export trade.

SOCIALISM 87

Unfortunately for the dualist monarchy, the efforts attempted by its peoples in such matters, are inevitably imbued with the character they borrow from the political circumstances. Absorbed as they are by their struggles and rivalries on the national stage, the Austro-Hungarian populations do not find in their current constitution the elements of an energetic expansion. Purely political interests prevail over the economic interests and maintain social activity within a necessarily limited field of action where it revolves on itself without taking a step forward. On the other hand, by following the State's incessant intervention in all acts of public life, the economic education of the country is not, by any means, as developed as it should be. The being. The Austrian population has become too accustomed to hold the government responsible, which itself has enough to do defending one's own existence and to safeguard its future. In a recent speech, the Foreign Minister Count Goluchowski, has he himself frankly declared that it was time to break up with these bad habits. "The story of each day – the minister said, among other things – demonstrating to us that Private initiative and entrepreneurship are the elements essential in the international struggle for the conquest of

88 JEWISH AUSTRIA

"opportunities abroad." It was good that such truths were loudly proclaimed by such a mouth authorized. It was important that Austrian merchants were once and for all well and duly warned that it depends it is up to them alone to extend the circle of their action far and wide.

In Vienna, the example of Germany is being invoked. at least we can understand it and meditate on its lessons it contains. Austria, in fact, sees today in Germany, its most formidable rival. To make a sound judgment about the situation, one only needs to remember of the investigation that recently took place in Vienna, by the care of the Industrial Club, in order to report on the state of Austrian exports. The results of this The investigation, as we know all too well, was not very flattering for Austria. The consuls are still using the old methods. method and consider it as inferior to them to take care of business. Austrian merchants at Foreigners, as the investigation revealed, are often forced, to obtain anything, to put oneself under the protection of the German Embassy.

As for trade relations between Germany and Austria-Hungary, they naturally play a very important role in the economic life of the monarchy; and even from a political point of view, they do not are not without interest, The following table, which represents roughly the average of recent years. indicates, in millions of florins, the figures for the traffic of Austria-Hungary with the various countries. (the + sign indicates the export surplus, the sign - that of the imports)

SOCIALISM 89

Import/Export

Germany	257,350	...	+93
Italy	47 62	+	15
Russia	46 26	-	20
Switzerland	21 34	+	13
Türkiye	15 19	+	4
Romania	13 24	+	11
Serbia	17 9	-	8
Great Britain	75 63	-	12
France	25 30	+	5
British India	40. 6	-	34
United States	37 16	-	21
Brazil	34 2	-	32

In the presence of such figures and overwhelming superiority that they ensure traffic with Germany, we will agree that Austria-Hungary was dependent on its neighbor. trade treaties concluded between the two Empires have not nothing has changed in this state of affairs; they have in no way lived up to the expectations they had raised in Vienna.

In this whole affair, there have, moreover, been certain skills on the part of Germany. Germany was seeking to to obtain favorable rates for the sale of its products on the markets of Austria-Hungary, while that the Austro-Hungarian delegates were primarily concerned hard on the products of their agriculture chances of sale. After long and arduous negotiations, we They eventually reached an agreement, and the deal was finalized with the help of reciprocal concessions. However, the Austrian delegates— dogs had agreed to preferential rates to Germany based on a somewhat confidential pact, in which is why they might have believed that German tariffs favoring Hungarian wheat would only be granted to

90 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Austria-Hungary alone. They were all the more justified in to believe that the advantages became illusory if they were granted in the same proportion to another exporting country wheat thresher. But what happened to it? Shortly after the conclusion of the treaties in 1891, it was learned in Vienna, with a real shock, that the treaty concluded between Germany and Russia contained exactly the same favors for Russian wheat.

This is how some German articles sell. with real ease, and will continue until 1903 in the same conditions, on the Austro-Hungarian markets, while Hungarian products must bear a competition from Russian wheat. This incident must have fixed the Austrians on the value of foresight in matters political and economic. It is fair to acknowledge, moreover, that the exclusive favor in question was not enshrined in the treaty. It was a hope that had been misled. The Austrians. Ultimately, they would have bad thanks to complaining about it, since, all things considered, they sell more to Germany than they buy from it: 350 millions of florins in sales versus 257 million in purchases.

The existing trade relations between the major islands All states , moreover, exhibit genuine anomalies. Half of Austria-Hungary's foreign trade (approximately 600 million florins) is done on the borders from Germany, such that a trade disruption between the two countries would be the signal for the weaker party a real catastrophe. With regard to Russia, the things are even more peculiar. Germany sells annually to the Tsarist empire for more than 500 million francs worth of goods. France only sells it some for 25 million and he buys them for 200 or 250 million. In short, Franco-Russian trade represents barely a quarter of Russian-German transactions. On the other hand, the trade volume between France and Austria-Hungary is of very minor importance, 50 to 60 millions of francs on both sides. Since many for years it has remained stationary.

SOCIALISM 91

The most striking anomaly that emerges from these data is still that of trade relations between Russia and France. At the banquet that Russia economically mique offers the business world its ally and friend, the France, occupies only a small corner at the end of the table, well after Austria-Hungary. How are things at the moment? The keys arrived at this point? Should we blame the negligence of French or to admire the tireless activity of Germany? Nevertheless, according to the very wise words of a According to the French economist, things should just continue as they are. for a few more years to render them useless all the armies of the continent. Germany, whose foreign trade already exceeds 10 billion, will have defeated France and Russia without a fight.

The extraordinary development of trade German is the subject of much commentary in Vienna. Comparing it to that of Austria-Hungary, one is forced to acknowledge the inequality of the results, although the two states entered the tracks at the same time protectionists.

Yet another consideration deserves attention- tion. Austria remained a poor country to the point of From a social activity perspective, while Germany has quickly enriched. Now, this prosperity exerts a powerful attraction on the German population of Austria. Every Austrian German involuntarily compares relatively with a feeling of sadness about his situation material with that of his brothers outside the Empire; and the reflections he engages in constitute, in their Together, a real danger that falls within the purview of the policy.

Rightly or wrongly, Viennese anti-Semites claim Austro-Hungarian trade allowed itself to be dislodged from outlets it once had, especially in Eastern Europe, and they believe they must attribute this fact to the poor quality products. It should be hastened to add that Austria, Unfortunately for her, she only has one port of sea somewhat important from a commercial point of view, that of Trieste. The ports of Dalmatia are of no importance. This explains the intense covetousness with which the The monarchy is eyeing Salonika, whose possession would open up new perspectives for him.

92 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The French community in Vienna, carefully apart from the movement that is stirring up Austrian society. With perfect tact and impeccable correction, she respects the duties imposed upon him by the hospitality of a country foreign. This colony is also quite small. Among the most prominent figures, it is worth mentioning to name the members of the committee of the "Assistance Society" for impoverished French people." The French ambassador to is the president, and the honorable Mr. Albert Laurans treasurer.

The stable part of the colony consists of three figures from the financial world, some former railway entrepreneurs, about ten of employees from various private administrations, of two or three journalists and a small number of professors language. The surplus includes cooks, people service workers, gardeners. Women work for the most, the functions of governesses in the wealthy; some are milliners. We don't assess, Moreover, the number of French people established there is over 400. in Vienna, or throughout the entirety of Austria.

SOCIALISM

SOCIALIST AGITATIONS – SOCIALISM STATE – WORKERS' WAGES – THE WOMEN'S WORK – CIVIL SERVANTS
PUBLICS AND THE PETTY BOURGEOISIE – THE SOCIALISM AND THE JEWS

Despite all the causes that could have provoked them
Whereas earlier, the socialist unrest in Austria was not They don't have a very old date. They were much more not to occur there except in other countries where the New doctrines have long had their apostles and their theorists. It was only under the Taaffe ministry, a little after the year 1880, that they made their appearance. It is true that they took, from the beginning, the violent nature of social demands fighting against centuries of oppression. Austrian socialism, breaking at once all the dikes and setting aside all consideration likely to moderate it, immediately degenerated into anarchy and engaged in acts of extreme violence. The immediate consequence was this that it was supposed to be: the proclamation of a state of siege in

94 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Vienna, where it had to be kept for several years.
Severe punishments were inflicted on the perpetrators of the criminal acts that had frightened the population, and the Anarchist attacks have ceased; but socialism has not.
no less continued to smolder under the ashes.

Leaving aside cosmopolitan trends and other that the Jewish leaders had imprinted on him, the movement socialism is the natural, inevitable result of the economic state the social and social aspects that we described in the previous chapter. Those who march under his banner agree to say that anti-Semitism is only a response to socialism purely theoretical, while the real problem consists to seek effective ways to put an end to abuses by exploiters, whoever they may be. Moreover, the leaders are finding it difficult to rally the party elements. Unity is lacking. We find in the socialist ranks, all sorts of discontented men, and even anti-Semites anxious to broaden the bases of their program. .

It is unfortunate, in any case, that the socialist masses have given in to reckless training by abandoning the conduct of their interests to the ambition of the Jews. With the best intentions in the world, they have no idea of the harm they do to the cause of humanity while believing the defend. It is also important not to confuse the Jewish agitators with the true Austrian socialists. Those—These are by no means blinded destroyers. hatred; they are, for the most part, men steeped in Humanitarian principles. They may not know exactly how they would organize the new society the day they would have the power. Therefore, most are rallying to the centralist and authoritarian doctrines of Karl Marx. readily confuse freedom with the tutelage of power central, which they deem necessary, and the reasoning with the force. The abdication of the individual, whom they would force to absorb by the State, is the final word of their theories.

SOCIALISM 95

They entered into a struggle against feudalism, which still exists. as in the Middle Ages, and against the capitalist organization to which all governments, for almost forty years, have given free rein to their careers, they seek to eliminate the misery and believe in the supreme action of the welfare state. On the other hand, it must be said, the men who have so far held power, most of them very honest in their privacy, had been wrong to tolerate too often a a system of corruption and immorality that should inevitably provoke a reaction from the classes hardworking, who always work and never speculate. There is nothing there that is special to Austria, except that the Social misery is more intense there than elsewhere, and ignorance, In economic matters, greater, among the masses popular, as in France and Germany.

Austrian socialism is of Germanic origin. It first appeared in Vienna, a German city, and in the German provinces of the Empire; the workers of Slavic nationality did not follow suit, but many later. It was natural that it should be so, because of solidarity The national sentiment of the Germans was not unrelated to the causes which led to the transplantation of socialism

"Germany in Austria. There are two in particular who have contributed to spreading these trends among workers Austro-German, and these two causes occurred in outside the world of workers. On the one hand, science German, in the field of law and political economy-tic, with a few exceptions, has been dedicated for twenty years years of erudition' in Hnooue: that there is no permanent economic laws. She strives to spread negations and to prove that the social order rests simply on categories of transient phases, which will give way to others. Then, by a singular contra-saying, after having questioned everything that exists, everything that which is respectable, she places at the top of this building the State, which she makes into a God, and to which she grants all the attributes of Providence. Now, the Austrian workers,

96 JEWISH AUSTRIA

thanks to their initial education, they first welcomed with enthusiasm for these German theories that had been spread due in abundance in their popular libraries; and Many of them believed they saw in it the instrument of the public wealth. The second cause that favored the development-Development of socialism among the Germans of Austria is perhaps even stranger. A few men of the Austrian state, notably Count Belcredi and the Dr. Steinbach, former Minister of Finance, are in A carefully orchestrated flirtation with German socialism. They have adopted, in learned dissertations, a part of his doctrines. We have seen Doctor Steinbach, whose reform The tax system did not meet the expectations of the socialists. theoretically accept a certain number of the demands cations proclaimed by them. At the same time, we leave to teach, in public lectures, the heger-Lees that thus remain on the surface, in Germany as in Austria. Under such conditions, there is reason to be surprised that socialism does not do even more ravages.

STATE SOCIALISM

Eager to remedy, as far as possible, the sad fate of the working classes, and probably also of to show the German populations of the Empire that he was following in Germany's footsteps, the government

The Austrian government passed and implemented it about ten years ago. years, a whole series of labor laws. In the opinion of some Viennese politicians, the impetus, in this respect, would have been given by the Speech from the Throne which was delivered, in November 1881, by the German emperor. In this speech it was said in full: "in accordance with the intentions of the deceased sovereign who bequeathed his generous ideas as an imperishable memory to the nation German, it is necessary to seek the remedy to the suffering of the people in the improvement of the lot of workers. It is also necessary that those who have become, through age where the disabled, unable to work, have a right undisputed to the care and assistance of the State. It is a the main tasks of the government to put in practices the doctrines of Christianity and bases his action using the fairest and most appropriate means to good.

SOCIALISM 97

It was following these solemn declarations, in Berlin, from the top of the throne, that the government Austrian, following the example set by Germany and even imitating, in some cases, German laws, began by organizing compulsory insurance against the illness and accidents. Then, he established by law eleven hours a day the working hours in the manufactures, decreed Sunday rest, and published regulations relating to hygiene in establishments industrials, child labor, rental contracts, etc. To ensure the strict and full implementation of these new measures, state officials were specially appointed. An entire category of inspectors was tasked with resolving, as amicably as possible, the disputes between employers and workers, and to draft periodically reports to the ministers for their to allow people to understand the effects of the legislation worker.

The stated aim of the laws designed to stage the State socialism is about protecting the weak against the strong. and to put an obstacle to the ever-present possibilities, which constitute a violation of the most basic rights of Phomme libre. In this respect, one cannot obviously than to approve the intentions of the legislator and beat the hands at his initiative. He demonstrated to the false liberals the insanity of their favorite thesis according to which the measures of foresight in favor of humble workers should be left to private initiative. could, indeed, at a stretch, place itself on this land in a democratic country, such as France by for example, where trust in humanitarian intentions rich and ruling classes would be founded, in a To a certain extent, based on an appearance of reason. But in a country like Austria, where feudal customs are still in force, where the masses are stupefied by the Poverty counts for no more than herds of animals. of sum in the eyes of masters accustomed to demanding it passive obedience, how could one even consider seeing Things from the same point of view? We might as well postpone the socialist idea when it seeks to subordinate all social activity at the whim of the State, or whatever it wants to pave the way for the reign of Israel, as much as one considers as dangerous and inhumane the system that would deliver the defenseless worker to the Jews and their adherents. Being given the circumstances we have described, the State must not allow the revolutionary tide to swell without trying to impose barriers on it. Next Bastiat's very apt expression: the State is the common force organized, not to promote oppression and plunder, but, on the contrary, "to guarantee each person their own and to make "Justice and security should reign everywhere." He therefore had everything to do. less the duty to control, in their broad outlines and taken as a whole, the actions of those who hold between Their hands are the springs of public prosperity. When he It was high time he decided to act in Austria. discouragement caused by prolonged suffering, the stupefaction that results from slavery among the classes lower, would have eventually led to the degeneration of Austrian breeds. The ministers understood this, and it is necessary To give them the benefit of the doubt, they did not cross the line. reasonable. The commotion is such that they could have been tempted to go too far; but they stopped in time useful on the slippery slope that could have swept them away. They have felt, for example, the extreme difficulty of approaching, as Count Belcredi had desired it, the question, perhaps insoluble, from justum pretium laboris.

98 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The central government, moreover, encountered serious miscalculations in the application of its humanitarian laws. Health insurance, organized on the basis of mutual contributions from employers and workers, has done a lot of good and rendered undeniable services. But accident insurance has caused very sharp disappointments. By copying its legislation too closely on that of Germany, the Austrian government has committed serious errors. Every year, the expenses are progressing at an alarming rate; and the industrialists are wondering where the sum of sacrifices that are asked of them. For their part, the administrators Those in charge of the workers' funds had to admit that the disappointment had been complete, the actual expenditures exceeding notably the amount of contributions collected. In short, these compulsory insurance establishments are in bad shape situation; and the problem, which has already lasted for several years, does not appear to be abating anytime soon. Between the increase continuous increase in the number of accidents that require to remedy the notorious inadequacy of contributions, he constantly digs a chasm that is difficult to fill. We have had The major mistake is to calculate, at the beginning, without a solid foundation. The importance of the bonuses to be paid. Statistical tables had failed. The need to reform the law, to to calculate bonuses and allowances more accurately, appears more and more clearly in each account-annual report.

Socialist laws, moreover, have the disadvantage of not apply only to factory workers, and not to those who work for small business owners, and even fewer at agricultural workers. The activity of the inspectors responsible for Ensuring the enforcement of these laws is the subject of serious concerns. Critics, too often it has been acknowledged that, for some For educational or other reasons, their sympathies were less committed to the workers than to those who exploit them. In most cases, the social and political utility of their.

The role is being diverted from its purpose. To know, too exactly as possible, which is the case in this regard, there is no than to cite this significant passage from a speech delivered at the Parliamentary address by MP Kaunic: "In a provinces of the monarchy – said the speaker – it is It has come to my knowledge that an inspector, in charge of monitor law enforcement in major centers industrialists wanted to impose certain indispensable measures sands to a great lord, owner of factories. He addressed the minister and obtained such concessions that the poor, sick inspector He was terrified and unable to work for over a year. His successor was advised to pay a visit, upon entering in functions, to the character. who had caused all this "emotion."

100 JEWISH AUSTRIA

As for other labor laws, it is necessary to establish a An important distinction. The one that regulates the maximum of working hours (eleven hours) is not strictly applied; the text of its articles gives rise to inter-overly varied benefits. Those, on the contrary, that regulate the child labor, hygiene in factories and rest Sunday's work produced a lot of good. It's not west permit to employ children under fourteen years, due to the law on public education.

WORKERS' WAGES

The pronouncements of the international socialists against Capital has so thoroughly disturbed everyone's minds that violence their demands inspired, at a certain point, serious fears for the social order they were striving to to upset. In Austria, however, it must be acknowledged that Apart from a few exaggerations, the reality is too often agree with the picture presented by the speakers socialists of the unfortunate condition of the workers. When you enter the workers' centers, you see literally Shakespeare's Shylock demanding his debtor a pound of human flesh. It is only by the hunger that the majority of Austrian workers remain attached to the workshop. To fully understand the true scope of the information that we are going to place under the For the benefit of our readers, it is important, first of all, to know that the price of food (bread, meat and other foodstuffs) food intake) is generally quite high. In the pro-Vinces cisleithanes, this price is only 10 to 12% more than what is paid in France. In Vienna, in comparison—due to the difference with Paris, the difference can be assessed at about 20%. But this better market, as we let's see, is sadly compensated by the minimality of the salary. Ordinary wine is more expensive than in France; the price the lowest is 48 kreuzers (one franc two centimes) the liter. Clothing and housing come back roughly at the same price in Vienna as in Paris.

SOCIALISM 101

The monetary unit is the silver or paper florin. It is worth a maximum of 2.10 francs and is divided into 100 kreuzers. The franc is therefore worth, at the normal exchange rate, 47.5 kreuzers. comparison between prices in France and those in Austria It therefore becomes easy. We will realize exactly what this what must the Austrian worker pay to cope with the most essential conditions of daily existence.

In connection with the application of insurance laws mandatory, it was necessary to draw up, throughout the monarchy, the table of wages paid to workers of various categories. Here are the main figures, as we find them aligned in Mr. Teifen's book: /a Social misery in Austria. Furthermore, the government—the nement itself considers an annual income of 600 florins as being the absolute minimum necessary to existence, since below this sum one is exempt from all income tax.

Here are the average salaries that... good workers:

102 JEWISH AUSTRIA

PER DAY PER YEAR

In 64 districts, at most 60 kr. at most 180f.

13.9% of the Empire

In 229 districts from 60kr. to 1fl from 180 to 300 fl.

49.7% of the Empire

In 152 districts from 1 fl. to 1 F1. 50. from 300 to 450/fl.

32.9% of the Empire

In 16 districts of 1 fl. 50 to 2 fl. of 450 to 600 fl.

3.5% of the Empire

That is to say, the most capable workers do not occur only in an infinitesimally small fraction of lénbie to receive annually what the State considers as the bare minimum necessary for existence. But in 293 districts (63.6% of the total) their annual salary falls half, or even barely a third, of this minimum, in calculating the working year at three hundred days. It is still necessary—that they have neither unemployment nor illness, and work without the minimal interruption.

Ordinary workers, when they have passed the age of The majority receive on average:

PER DAY PER YEAR

In 192 districts, 50k and 150 fl

34.2% of the Empire Lt. FARAL |

In 362 districts, from 50kr. to 1fl., from 150 to 300 fI

64.4% of the ES Empire | . |

In at least 8 districts, 1 fl. more than 300 fl.

1.4% of the Empire

Thus, in 99% of Austria's cantonal districts,
The ordinary worker earns no more than 300 florins a year; and in a third of the country, its annual figure reaches at most 150 florins (315 francs).

As for the workers who have not yet reached the age of
For the majority, the salaries are as follows:

SOCIALISM 103

PER DAY PER YEAR

In 200 districts at most 30 kr. at most 90 fi.

51.9% of the Empire

In 176 districts of 30 to 40 kr. of 90 to 120f1.

29.5% of the Empire

In 87 districts, from 40 to 50 kr., from 120 to 150 f1.

14.6% of the Empire

In at least 24 districts, 50 kr. more than 150 fI.

4% of the Empire

In some cantons, the salary for this category of young workers earn only 10 to 12 kreuzers (from 20 to 25 cents) per day.

Female workers are paid even less. However, They constitute a very important factor, since in In some countries there are industries where women are more numerous than men, some even where they are used exclusively. Now, here is, in As far as they are concerned, the official statistics, drawn from the same source as the previous one. The female workers who are adults receive:

PER DAY PER YEAR

In 116 districts

lus 30 kr. lus 90 fl.
21.6% of the Empire Re ' NS of

In 420 districts, from 30 to 50 kr., from 90 to 150fl.
78.4% of the Empire

And those that are still minors, namely:

PER DAY PER YEAR
In 173 districts
30.9% of the Empire

In 387 districts, from 20 to 30 kr. to 60 to 90 fl.
69.1% of the Empire

at most 20 kr. at most 60 f.

104 JEWISH AUSTRIA

In summary, as we can see, the average salaries is completely lower than the figure for needs, even reduced to the most extreme limit. That, we must agree, is where the sign of a very underdeveloped civilization. The workers Austrians would literally be reduced to starving to death the day when they would want nothing more than their wives and their children contribute, through their work, to increasing the recipes from the house. As for achieving it by themselves the the bare minimum necessary for existence, that's what it's there for They have an ideal that is almost impossible to achieve. In this respect, the Comparison between the various provinces is one of the most informative.

In Bohemia, Moravia, Silesia, and Galicia, the Workers' wages are, in the truest sense of the word, Starvation wages. In 147 cantonal districts of In Bohemia, the wages of the best workers reached approximately half of what is needed; in 30 of them, it does not exceed not 60 kreuzers a day; and in some even it It falls to 30 kreuzers and below. As for earning more No one should expect one and a half florins. There is no that 26 cantons where perfectly capable workers arrive at that price. Among ordinary workers, none earns more than one florin per day, and this maximum is only reached when in 204 cantons. The minimum daily payment is of 20 kreuzers. The conditions are the same in Moravia.

In Silesia they are even worse. These are the best workers, the most capable, who alone earn a at most a florin a day. Ordinary workers do not They receive only 65 kreuzers. In Galicia, the average. lowers himself again. An excellent worker touches a computer- Regularly 90 kreuzers per day, rarely a florin. One An ordinary worker only earns 50 kreuzers and sometimes even 30. Children win, in some parts of In this province, 10 or 12 kreuzers; in Sanok, they have none. earn only 5 (11 cents).

SOCIALISM 105

It is still in the Alpine countries that the minimum of Salaries are the highest. However, they do not exceed 300 florins per year; and this is only for a small number, workers are given this wage.

The accuracy of the figures above, taken from the official statistics verified by the competent authorities, has sometimes been contested. It has been contested in particular by the Reichenberg Chamber of Commerce, one Austria's most important industrial centers, as regards fabrics, sheets and textiles. But, by accepting as strictly accurate the corrections emanating from this source, we arrive at nothing less to this final result than, according to the salary figures the highest, 94 out of 100 workers, with uninterrupted work broken, cannot reach 500 florins annually (1050 francs). The average weekly wage, in the canton of the Reichenberg Trade Union Chamber, is, according to figures provided by the Chamber itself, of 4.96 florins per week, or 82 and a half kreuzers per day work. As for it throughout the year, including the On Sundays and holidays, the average is 70 to 71 kreuzers (about one franc fifty per day).

The mine workers are no happier.

According to the report of Dr. Verkauf, who was able to to study things on site, the miners did not touch before the conflict that occurred over the fixing of wages, that one florin twenty a day; the fitters and the coal carriers, from 90 kreuzers to one florin; the born from 50 to 60 kreuzers. The annual average varying from 150 to 360 florins. Their efforts to be increased did not succeed. On the contrary, the conflict ended with A decrease in wages. The miners themselves the vast majority only receive 90 kreuzers per a descent, the climbers and porters, at most 80 kreuzers; and the day laborers, 70. As for the women, their The salary doesn't exceed 45 or 50 kreuzers. Even then... Do employers find ways to reduce costs under various circumstances?

106 JEWISH AUSTRIA

These meager salaries are used as pretexts, either through fines or other means. exaggerated, either through deductions made for various causes. From 4 to 5 kreuzers, for example, for the cash register of journeyman, 8 to 10 kreuzers for the oil and the powder. Oil, above all, is the pretext for exploitation Incredible, considering the mining administration islands sell the oil to the workers at a higher price than a merchant. The miners must pay per kilogram 43 kreuzers of oil to their administration, while they could get it for 34 kreuzers at the merchant. These are really small farms. incredible and practiced in all mines.

However, if we believed that it was the companies private companies that most abuse workers, we are mistaken— It's strange. The Treasury's agency is still far more ruthless. The state is the largest enterprise Austria's conqueror. He has forests, arsenals, and factories, plants of all kinds. He exploits the posts and telegraphs, administers ten thousand kilometers of railways. It has a tobacco monopoly. However, at From all points of view, he is certainly the entrepreneur the harshest and most inhumane thing imaginable. MP Kaunic presented a petition to Parliament from which it follows that nowhere is the condition of the workers is no less deplorable than in the silver and mines Pribram lead. Despite the low wages fixed by the tariff, the administration of these state mines pays to the workers, using the most reprehensible methods, approximately 20% less than the price of the tariffs. The salary average, for a layer that requires eight hours of work, is 68 kreuzers. For ten hours of work, he does not does not exceed 81 kreuzers. A chief machinist receives a florin and 8 kreuzers. Anyone who has visited Pribram and seen the minors at work, retains the impression for a long time painful to him, these faces pale with fatigue and museum. The most thoughtful people, the most removed from any socialist idea, they cannot help but say very high up.

SOCIALISM 107

The state pays tobacco factory workers Even more ridiculously low prices. They really are, like We have just mentioned above, starvation wages. In 1891, there were 3,310 male workers and 29,290 female workers. in the twenty-eight Austrian tobacco factories. Cigar manufacturing alone employed 20,445. However, the salary was 40 kreuzers to one florin twenty per day For men, from 35 kreuzers to one florin twenty-four per day for women, and 20 to 50 kreuzers for men beginners.

In private industry, irregularities occur in every moment with regard to the payment of wages, and are the subject of numerous complaints. Under Using all sorts of pretexts, they're already cutting back on wages. the workers' minimum wage. Sometimes they are deprived of the first week as a deposit, sometimes we reduce the daily wage without prior warning; or one withholds workers' money to pay creditors. It also frequently happens that entrepreneurs provide their workers with clothing and scraps of fabric or other essential items, at prices exorbitant, and they pay themselves from the wages. If he If one worker is absent from work, the others do not They are not receiving everything that was promised to them. So, they are being deducted, under the pretext of compensating for the portion of profits that the worker harms the company absent. All of this seems incredible at first glance. But the chief inspector of the industry notes—even on the days when the workers attend the funerals from one of their leaders or comrades, they are deprived of the salary for the time they spent at the funeral.

However, according to the same inspector, a single worker needs, in order to live, an amount varying between 300 and 520 florins. A working family, consisting of eight people cannot live on less than an income ranging from 624 to 870 florins. Compare that to the figures of salaries that we have just indicated. This will give us an idea of the appalling misery, further exacerbated by the feeling of uncertainty that constantly hangs over the future.

108 JEWISH AUSTRIA

In Vienna, the capital of Austria, the workers are paid a little better. But, on the other hand, the The price of necessities for life is also higher, their The situation ultimately turned out to be the same. The workers Auxiliaries of small industry in Vienna are roughly In material terms, the equals of the workers of the large one in the provinces. In the five-year report addressed to the Vienna Chamber of Commerce by those of its members whom it has entrusted with this mission, are found a detailed table of the wages of 97,000 Viennese workers.

Of the total, 71243 earned between 6 and 15 per week florins, or 1 to 2.5 florins per working day, or per year, 300 to 750 florins.

By classifying them into categories, we arrive at the results following:

- The good workers (29,200) received per week, from 9 to 15 florins or from 450 to 750 per year.
- The means (28,699), per week, from 7 to 12 florins or 350 to 600 per year.
- The bad ones (43,341), per week, from 6 to 9 florins or 300 to 450 per year.

However, the off-season must be taken into account, when activity industrial activity is significantly diminished, if not reduced to nothing. It can be calculated that in 10 of the 64 corporations In Vienna, 11,029 workers are without work during two or three months; and that in 48 of them, 86,457 The workers are out of work for three months. What happens then? One of two things will happen: either the bosses fire those that they can no longer occupy; or the time of the daily work. Sometimes the two are combined.

SOCIALISM 109

methods. Let's take an average, and fix the off-season twelve weeks (seventy-two working days). We We find that good workers then earn from 342 to 570 florins per year, those of the second category from 270 to 456, and the bad ones from 190 to 340.

WOMEN'S WORK

According to the statistics we just reviewed... review, 1] appears that women's work is extremely poorly paid in the Austrian provinces. A report official, relating to one of the most industrialized regions of Austria notes that the wage rate, with regard to

Regarding women, it varies from 33 to 83 kreuzers per day. that is to say between 2 and 5 florins per week, or between 104 and 260 florins per year. Let's apply the rate to a working-class household average of the aforementioned wages; it is found that to them secondly, the husband and wife can manage to win Together, 450 florins (945 francs) per year. Nobody dares to argue that such an income could be sufficient to support a family. On the contrary, one must agree that everything seems to be to bring people together in a way that makes family life virtually impossible, in the working classes.

A thorough investigation was conducted in Vienna, with a view to to know exactly the conditions under which the work of women. The Commission of Inquiry, convened for this purpose, She surrounded herself with all the information she could want. endeavored to conscientiously search for all the elements that might shed light on it. She insisted, in a word, on to shed full light on the conditions of existence The moral and material well-being of the female workers. This investigation had not Moreover, it had no official character. It emanated exclusively- the private initiative, and had been organized by a few individuals imbued with humanitarian ideas.

110 JEWISH AUSTRIA

To be able to be accurately informed about what they wanted to know, the members of the Commission brought two female workers before them intelligent, chosen from each branch where practice is exercised Vienna, industrial activity. They asked them, as well as the bosses or industry leaders, such multiple questions that are skillfully combined, so as to be completely enlightened on the whole of this delicate problem. The data they collected was received in the press daily the widest advertising. It should also be noted that the organizers of this investigation were by no means imbued with socialist tendencies. They were, we have just To tell the truth, generous men, who pursued honesty- with a civilizing and humanitarian goal.

For each industry sector, the Commission believed the need to interview, first and foremost, a male worker, to learn everything about the technique of this special industry. Most of the time, in fact, it happens that women are not in a position to give an idea sufficiently clear of the whole, not having to accomplish that a partial and detailed work. The filing of these workers has therefore always been complemented by that of the workers who were called upon to provide information to the Commission in relation to their daily occupations and conditions of their existence. These are the conclusions drawn from their statements by the members of the Commission who have served as the basis for questions later addressed to the bosses and entrepreneurs. An attempt had even been planned.

to bring them together in a contradictory interview, The bosses and their female workers. But that idea was abandoned; and, in In effect, as a result of the existing dependency relationships inevitably, such a thing exists between the female workers and their boss. The test would most often have been inconclusive.

The testimonies of the female workers generally presented, a great deal of sincerity. They seemed worthy of faith, and have been, moreover, with very rare exceptions, confirmed by the bosses themselves. We can therefore be certain of this.

SOCIALISM 111

absolutely refer to the data they have allowed to collect.

The most important points among all those that have The issues addressed in the survey were those related to unemployment. forced to certain dates and times. No one, at Unless one is initiated into these details, a fair judgment cannot be made. idea of the irregular way in which work operates, with periods of completely involuntary rest. There are particularly very important industries where the work only reach their peak for three or four months of the year. In Pannes parties, there are long periods months, several days a week where we don't work However, these forced work interruptions correspond to Naturally, this will result in considerable wage losses. This situation things create relationships between bosses and female workers special ones that play a major role in Austria, and which However, by a strange peculiarity, they are not enshrined in law. For example, there are contracts for work that retains its strength even as the work is suspended and temporarily gives way to unemployment. From the boss's perspective, it follows that the female workers (as well as sex workers)

(male) continue to be required to notify the boss
They need to give fifteen days' notice if they want to leave, then even during this two-week period he does not give them Neither work nor wages. In many Viennese factories
The young girls have to wait for many days, without to receive any compensation whatsoever until there is work to give them.

Therefore, it is not based on the daily salary rate.
or weekly, which can be judged from the actual situation female workers. To get a completely accurate idea of this, he We need to calculate what they earn annually. That's the amount that must be taken into account.

As for the length of the working day, the law of Austria-
The female dog fixed it at eleven o'clock in the factories. But the legal provisions are not being implemented at this time.

112 JEWISH AUSTRIA

in this regard; various maneuvers are used for the turn. Instead of working, for example, in the workshop
It must be closed at noon, at lunchtime, we work In the corridor. It's child's play; and other means of the same kind are also being put in place work to evade the law.

Regarding the salary, we can consider it certain that the ordinary average does not exceed 4 or 5 florins (8 francs fifty or 10 francs fifty) per week, at most; 5 to 6 florins (10.50 to 12 francs) fifty) for certain branches absolutely privileged laws. And this salary is not even paid, of course.
as much as he has work to give to the female workers. That's too few, we cannot repeat it too often, for them can live in Vienna, where the price of food silences and that of housing are proportionally Far too high. In fact, more often than not, we pay piecework, as deliveries are made manufactured objects. It would be easy to follow somehow This method of proceeding is explained step by step. Its purpose is to...

our inevitable result of placing the burden on the worker
The loss of time caused by the need to go looking for work and postponing it, not to mention the one who results from the poor quality of the raw materials.

The female workers who work from home and are paid at the room also receives less than it would receive for the same work if they performed it in the factory, although they have many more expenses to bear. But it seems agreed that he did it at home. more the character of a secondary job, done at leisure and sort of in my spare time.

Moreover, the tendency to replace the work of men, considered too expensive, by the work women, is becoming increasingly widespread in Austria—due. Many things that, fifteen or twenty years ago, were made by men, are now made by women either as a consequence of the use of machines which in make the process easier, or even more frequent without any such technical reason existing. It is especially in the employment of cashiers, shopkeepers books, stenographers and other things of the same kind as the unmarried women are gradually taking the place of men. The transformation in this respect is taking place in Vienna and even in provincial towns, with a speed of Renante. Many reasons, moreover, come together for the vories and make it general. It is not only the lower wage prices play a determining role in In this regard, greater docility is also taken into account. female workers, from the little Dion they grant, in In general, to the organization of impulsive forces, and well other causes as well. What, moreover, can the Christian entrepreneurs and industry leaders or Traders, considered in isolation, individually? Too few in number to oppose this movement. They attend without being able to prevent it, under penalty of being defeated by their Jewish competitors, who would easily manage to work more cheaply and at to sell, therefore, under more advantageous conditions geuses, by reducing the cost of labor using the women's work.

SOCIALISM 113

Regarding learning, the survey has only too much confirmed the complaints often made in this regard. Rare-Indeed, we make it our duty to learn completely teaching apprentices the trade they need to know.

As a result of the division of labor, even in the small industry, young girls, put into apprenticeships, most often only learn part of what they would have an interest in knowing, even assuming that we don't not only used for shopping, carrying Packing and tidying the house. As a result, the time apprenticeship (two to four years on average) is

14 JEWISH AUSTRIA

the entire thing happens without the apprentices being able to manufacture any item on their own.

The living conditions of the female workers gave This led, in the investigation, to very serious reflections. It was revealed, among other things, that in certain factories, They are forced, under penalty of fairly heavy fines, to keep the silence rigorous. Every word pronouncing this sentence results in a fine. In other places, They are punished if they eat a piece of bread during the five hours of their afternoon shift, without the slightest interruption. At noon, they generated-
They usually have an hour for their meal. But very few of them
They can take advantage of this to go home. To the
For small manufacturers, this lunch break is usually spent, in the room dedicated to work. In many large factories, they must leave the workshop during this time; and as there is no special place prepared to shelter them, they are obliged, for some time whatever he does, whether he stays in the courtyards or even in the street.
Ultimately, it sometimes happens that the factory closure during an hour, which was ordered to allow them to eating and resting becomes for They are a real torment in most homes where They work. This midday meal usually consists of a little soup and vegetables (without meat) or in a bowl of coffee with milk. They bring it in the morning when they come or They send to look for him in the neighborhood. Before coming to the
At work, in the morning, they have coffee. Dinner in the evening (when they eat supper) consists of bread, butter (margarine) or sausages. But many of these Unhappy people cannot afford to live like that.
With the 60 or 70 kreuzers they earn per day,
When they have work, they don't take it, for all

The food consisted of nothing but coffee with milk and white bread.

The wealthiest, those who are married and whose husband brings his salary home, they eat in the evening and at A little meat at midday. Otherwise, it's the same old story.

SOCIALISM 115

with coffee and milk, buttered bread, or sausages. For Married female workers, Sunday does not bring, Moreover, the desired rest. Instead of resting, they must sew, wash, mend clothes, and take care of things. their household.

.

From a moral standpoint, with regard to the relations between bosses and female workers, the investigation revealed absolutely deplorable ways of being. We discovered some manufacturers who group together in their workshops Young apprentices, averaging fourteen to sixteen years old years, as numerous as the famous Amazons of the former king of Dahomey. When his apprenticeship was over, They only gave the workers' booklets to those who... had delivered what a woman should keep for herself future husband. Following the shameful revelations of the investigation in this regard, the healthy part of public opinion has loudly demanded the immediate intervention of legislator. Then silence fell, and things continued. as in the past.

PUBLIC SERVANTS AND THE PETTY BOURGEOISIE

In France, we have often spoken of poverty in clothing. black, a thousand times more painful than the one that concealed under the blouse or smock. It is in Austria, and even more so, which we have before our eyes The scenes in this regard are appalling. The state does not pay. better than its workers + ue tures. And yet he knows that educated people, when they Once they reach a certain degree of poverty, they are more dangerous poor for society than the uneducated Heroines.

The vast majority of young people who attend schools works to earn a piece of bread and doesn't It only succeeds with great difficulty. Everywhere there is abundance of candidates to do intellectual or manual work,

116 JEWISH AUSTRIA

He doesn't care; the State takes advantage of this to reduce the remuneration for this work.

The official information provided to us by a statistic drawn up regarding the reform of personal tax-nel, sufficiently enlighten us about his generosity. Although the employees, very numerous, who earn no more than 600 florins per year are not included in the table However, in the report drawn up for this occasion, we learn that more than a quarter of state employees (26.08%) do not He doesn't touch 700 florins annually. A little more than that half (55%), have already reached what are called positions For each advancement, they receive approximately 1,000 florins (2,100 francs). per year; and for the surplus (nearly 6%), the Fes reach 9000 florins (4200 francs). And from the very beginning However, when one is only admitted as an auxiliary and that one receives only a tiny sum, one must accomplish the work later required of already trained employees.

The State Railways Administration is not much more generous. Out of 5,242 employees, there are at least 3,000 who receive only 800 florins per year, all by having an enormous responsibility, an overwhelming job.

Employees in private companies, banks and large trading houses are not, Moreover, they are better treated. Their treatment is generally measured according to the rigorous calculation of what is strict-necessary to avoid starving to death. However, if one takes into account the obligations to which they are subject, of the clean and appropriate attire required of them, of the housing that they have to pay for, it must be recognized that they are much more unhappy than the workers, always at work, and not being required to have clothes presentable. The high mortality rate of children in the The spheres we are discussing demonstrate this sufficiently. parents cannot raise them.

Everything concerning the Austrian petty bourgeoisie
It also relates to the same line of thought. A whole

SOCIALISM?

A series of overly familiar motifs makes the existence of the little ones
The industrial sector is very precarious, and this means that their workers suffer as a It's inevitable. The ever-increasing number of bankruptcies provides some grim indications in this regard. The perception of Taxes also enlighten us in the saddest way.
In 1881, 14,017 judicial seizures had to be carried out to to recover a sum of 493,796 florins in taxes; and Since then, the number of these forced recoveries has even increased. The number of taxpayers against whom it legal action was required and the amount rose to 30,698 (aug-(a 119% increase) and the total taxes thus collected, to 1,094,838 florins (an increase of 122%). Among the 118,704 taxpayers who were late with their taxes, in 1890, accounted for more than half (67,013) which had been unable to pay the business license tax on time.

There is no doubt that the ruin of the petty bourgeoisie Austrian is the result of the monopolization of the com-trade and industry by the Jews, whose processes make any fair competition from the weaker. This explains the rapid progress of One in Austria. He walked much further faster than socialism.

SOCIALISM AND THE JEWS

Austrian socialism had to fight, at the beginning, against the declared resistance and opposition of the press entire, which was then exclusively in the hands of Jewish publicists. At the slightest appearance of unrest In the street, the Israelites rose up as one man and demanded the intervention of the armed forces to machine-gun the discontented. Anti-Semitism then emerged. grafting onto the socialist unrest. Then the Jews gave an accurate account of the state of mind.
They treated socialists with leniency; and Some of their fellow believers even came to to side with the new doctrines. Despite these efforts, and also despite the energetic repression by the police In public spaces, anti-Semitism continued to gain ground. The government had to give in to overwhelming pressure powerful popular current that nothing could resist.

It was then, after the election of Dr. Lueger as mayor of Vienna, that socialism became popular among The Jews were terrified. All of them, in the sphere they occupied, financiers or doctors, publicists or entrepreneurs, believed they would find there a way to mislead, by sowing The division within its ranks, the starving people. One saw to appear at the forefront of the socialist leaders of the Jews whose talents, as writers or orators, gave the party's theories renewed strength. The attempt was successful to some extent.

Today, the secondary agents of the leaders Most Austrian socialists have gone into the pay of Jews, whose mercenaries they became. What the Jews do not dare to do or say it themselves, they have it said and to be done by their allies, their feudal lords; they do not hesitate to increasingly revolutionize the country which does not to escape their domination. Social democracy is not more so today, with regard to its staff leading, that a group of Jewish entrepreneurs, spec- authors who, through senseless promises and lies and acts of bad faith, manage to blind a part of the people. The misled masses are no longer in a state of to discern what is odious in this undignified attitude of free men. She works, unknowingly, for the triumph of the oppressors.

Despite their seemingly conciliatory demeanor, and tending to level everything, Jewish socialists have at heart ideas that breed disagreements of all kinds, and distort in the most comprehensive way the views and aspirations of all other classes of society. Also, a cry of Amazement burst from the hearts of all his sincere followers.

followers, seeing socialism thus thrown to the wolves cosmopolitan Jewish community.

Duty, for every man of heart, consists in to show the people the realities, as they are, without try to hide them or embellish them. Talk to him about reform systems that we know perfectly well to be Impossible, to tell him that Jews are philanthropists eager to ensure the happiness of others, exaggerating his rights without simultaneously maintaining its obligations inevitable, to hide from him in a word that in the exercise well understood by freedom, each citizen is himself the arbiter of his destiny and that the State owes him no other something that security and justice are simply the to deceive in the most odious way.

In Austria, we did not hide it, the situation is very special. Socialism there is the result of a great number 4 causes related to the economic state of the country.
However, there is not such intense development, and especially so fast, because it pleased the Jewish community, for a purpose essentially selfish, to push the population to agitation-revolutionary actions, by all means at its disposal
See. The current situation in the Habsburg monarchy-Bourg, in this matter, truly resembles a blood-Glañte irony. It was the Jews who built, stone by stone.
stone, a good part of the social edifice; and it is they who are now beginning to demolish what they have built. The the mere existence of such a contradiction, of such a the refutation given to a still very recent past, constitutes She alone was responsible for the subversion of the socialist movement. Also as perilous in politics as it is monstrous in morality, the inter-Jewish vention can only become a cause of division.
continuous improvements and P any serious improvement.
Also, in the opinion of many thoughtful people, the Jews
They are playing a most dangerous game, for themselves as well although for society as a whole.

120 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The columns of figures that we passed before the eyes of our readers, regarding the salaries of Austrian workers and their living conditions, sufficiently demonstrate the degree of misery arrival of the working-class population employed by the manufacturers

Jews. Couldn't the French socialists, themselves?
Also, to profit from it? Perhaps they don't read with Pay enough attention to foreign statistics. These are, However, the figures that serve as material for the solution to the complex problems that arise, in our century, social relations.

The data we borrowed from the works
Mr. Teifen's statements also indicate that the conditions
The working conditions in Austria are similar in many respects. points, compared to those of other industrialized countries. With a little With goodwill, one could discover the causes there.
main factors contributing to the decline in foreign trade France. The competition is so fierce in this bitter struggle, that victory inevitably remains with those who can to provide the best products at the best price. However, from Now, the cost of labor is too high.

prevents French industry from meeting these conditions and to take a useful part in the activity which is carried out on all the lands accessible to civilization.

Will intellectual progress gradually satisfy...
Austria's popular demands? What would be needed?
For this to happen, it is the modification of public opinion that prevails in this country. Laws are powerless to change, at They disrupt the social order if customs are not conducive to it.
a true remedy, and perhaps the only one, as has been said so-wind, it is the awareness that one must have of dignity human, every civilized being, both for itself and for the others. The national struggles in Austria, the selfishness of Jews, feudal passions, and other influences of order

Unfortunately, various factors are delaying our understanding of this.

V
JEWISH AUSTRIA

OVERVIEW – THE CONQUEST OF AUSTRIA BY THE JEWS – EXPLOITERS AND EXPLOITES – THE SEDUCTIONS – THE ANTISEMITIC MOVEMENT – THE PLEADINGS FOR THE JEWS – WILL THE JEWS BE THE MASTERS OF EUROPE?

Jews were nothing in Austria before 1848. Currently they play in the Habsburg Empire. dominant role. One can say, without any exaggeration, that they conquered it. They are the only ones to whom took advantage of the revolution that caused so much bloodshed in the streets of Vienna; it seems that this is for them alone that noble victims were sacrificed and that were proclaimed human rights.

With that patience and that wonderful skill which seem to be the exclusive prerogative of their race, they have organized the exploitation of Austria, and succeeded in putting completely control over the Christian population, including

122 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Their innate carelessness made their task considerably easier. This the complete invasion of an empire in fifty years is without a doubt one of the most characteristic facts of Contemporary history. In this aristocratic society—the tic and feudal system whose picture we have outlined, the Jews infiltrated with the most astonishing ease; Austria is today, undeniably, the country where their dominion nation is most keenly felt in all the branches of economic, social and political activity.

It should not be assumed, moreover, that this invasion—the Empire's control over the population Christian, could have been accomplished without raising vehement—protests. As early as March 1848, a chronicle time-waster exclaimed that "the capital of Austria had wallowed in the mud by letting herself be governed by a a dozen Jewish rascals obeyed by the famous academic legion." But even eloquent aces, do not constitute, for such an enterprising race, a Sufficient obstacle. Found in Vienna and in the provinces Austrian women, they had prepared the land well and cultivated it. their profit. The revolution, as we have just said, has not benefited only them. It really seemed that the Viennese, by building barricades and braving the the imperial soldiers' machine gun fire, had only one thing in mind: destroy the dikes erected by the foresight of the past against the encroaching waves of the Semitic plague. Workers and students massed together for the struggle have simply built the bridge over which Israel crossed, marching with heads held high to the domination of the Empire. For The Jewish people thanked them for giving him freedom.

led to serfdom.

The ideal that Austria had proclaimed so loudly during the Sad days of civil war were swallowed up in a a heap of ruins and misery. We are not at The end, moreover. The regime of false liberalism, after having so long dominated under the aegis of the so-called constitutional laws tionnelles, has just gone completely bankrupt. Succumbing

JEWISH AUSTRIA 123

under the weight of accumulated mistakes, shames and infamies of all kinds, he is about to give way to dictatorship, to the re-establishment of personal power.
It would really seem as if Jewish Austria were filing for bankruptcy, that The indignation of the masses shakes the edifice erected by the a lie, exactly half a century after the revolution accomplished to acquire parliamentary freedoms. The Austrians are forced to acknowledge that the blood
The tears shed were fruitless, only torrents of tears were shed paid for the benefit of the Jews, but to the great detriment of the country entire.

Such is the inexorable lesson of history. Such is the avenging cry of human conscience.

On March 4, 1849, the government granted to the people of Austria, by an imperial proclamation, a Constitution which included, among other things, freedom of conscience, the absolute independence of all the religious denominations, freedom of the press, the right to meeting. This constitution was not long in vigor. The patent of December 31, 1851, deprived it of all legal force, while still allowing certain aspects to remain.
liberal concessions that she had proclaimed. The Empire was thus governed for more than eight years.

The Jews took an active part in the political struggles which ultimately led to the restoration of the regime constitutional, reinstated by the diploma of the 20 October 1860. This diploma itself soon appeared to them insufficient. Following a vigorous campaign by the daily press, which they had already seized, it was modified after a few months, and on February 26, 1861, an imperial patent definitively consecrated the advent of this false liberalism which has dominated since over thirty years, the entire history of the Austrian Empire. The triumph of the Jews was assured; their action rested now on a legal basis. This triumph was due especially to the naive illusion of people of good faith who believed in all sincerity see in the Constitution of 1861 the starting point of an era of progress, equality and ratternity.

124 JEWISH AUSTRIA

At first, it must be admitted, the victors did proof of real skill. Sensing that their veritable aspirations would provoke horror and antipathy, They took great care to conceal them, to put them in provisional positions. evening under the bushel. They did, with a wise Lee density, the most reasoned, the most coldly calculated use of their faculties, so as not to frighten the Austrians whom they had set out to reduce to servitude. By humanitarian considerations proclaimed loudly, by honeyed arolla pines, they lulled attention so well that Shortly after waking, we were literally stunned by the path that they had traveled.

The Slavs, the Hungarians, the Romanians of Transylvania just like the Germans of Austria, became their prey, and bow before their insolent domination. One Half a century was enough to destroy the idea among the Austrians even of the homeland. Reading the sickening facts that we Let's summarize, we will clearly see the increasing misery. more generally to extinguish all patriotic fervor, in favor of exclusive of the Jewish race, which managed to absorb on its own all sources of social activity. It is especially to the Semites, cunning and invasive, which is due to the state of social breakdown in which Austria is currently struggling. It is their action, all the more dangerous because it has been underground, that the origin of anarchy must be traced back to amidst which the old monarchy sank six times centuries old. Like the player who seeks to intoxicate his partner to win it more easily, or rather for the They shamelessly plundered the people

Austro-Hungarians and took away their possessions, their freedoms, their rights, their honor. Even today they are not satisfied. What remains is still standing by truly humanitarian institutions, hinders their demoralizing action, their work of destruction. They strive to undermine them from the ground up and to accumulate at their place of the ruins where 'ploughman can pass his plough. All authority must be destroyed so that they can triumph easily; they are determined to destroy all the elements of resistance or vitality that would allow the Austrians to defend themselves.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 125

No obstacle discourages them; they maintain across the world, across the centuries, the unity of their race. The Talmud gave them a powerful organization to which modern progress has been unable to change. Hatred deep, ineradicable from everything that is not Jewish, the animated in the fight they wage against Christian societies yours, too divided to be able to fight with energy necessary.

Judaism, unchanging with regard to race, of the nationality has partly transformed in our time to the point from the point of view of beliefs. Mosaic doctrines have made place to rabbinism; and many Jews living in large cities transitioned from rabbinism to nihilism. So-called Reformed Jews profess the most extreme atheism absolute, free thought, or rather the most absolute negation complete freedom of all religious denominations. The final word One of their theories is materialism, which manifests itself in the capital of Austria with unprecedented audacity, with a somewhat unconscious absence of all restraint and of all modesty. Under the pressure of these doctrines, all the notion of good and evil fades from souls; nothing remains nothing that could dictate more morals to the people austere acts, more in keeping with human dignity. This it is not solely from a religious perspective that this Recent nihilism is wreaking havoc. In the in the fields of science, the arts, politics, and even in the sensual relations the degrading doctrines of the Negation and materialistic doubt make their influence felt. And it is by exceeding all the limits of what is possible that the Jews themselves provoked the reaction in Austria anti-Semitic. It is they who, through their own excesses, have created the Jewish question.

At this point, this question, at which nobody thought of thirty years ago, prime today, all the others. She dominates the demonstrations—popular, nationalist, or social movements. The aversion to The conflict between the Austrian people and the Semites does not originate from... Whatever one might say about clerical influences. It is racial hatred engendered by anything that can create disagreements between LL. men: a completely different origin rent, a completely different bloodline, different customs and traditions Completely dissimilar. Hatreds have resurfaced. with an ardor that the West cannot even imagine.

THE JEWS' CONQUEST OF AUSTRIA

How could Catholic Austria have suffered this? anointed the Israelite yoke? How did this population, she insisted on respecting the throne, religion, and laws left to be dominated by the proponents of revolutionary ideas, Patheism and the egalitarian level? The list of sins Israel's route is so long that it alone would suffice to fill volumes. Cries of anguish rise from all sides. Towards Heaven. The most peaceful, the friendliest men They rest, worry, and become agitated. The blind partisans tolerance and a false humanity shake their apathy. They are beginning to feel keenly their responsibility— They feel that their adherence— sion to the so-called liberal doctrines of the Jews becomes a an act of high treason against the Austrian fatherland, a veritable curse for themselves and for their children.

People began to think about it from all sides; they have sought to explain the incredible ease with which The conquest of the Empire by the Jews took place.

first aid for the Israelites (it wasn't Fe enough (noted at the beginning) was to attack the Christian faith, through the press, which they had initially monopolized in . hands. By lavishing on him attacks, by ridiculing her, they had, at one at one point, achieved such success that, during a For a time, the churches of Vienna remained deserted, and that worthy priests no longer dared to venture into the streets, for fear of being insulted. Then came the exploitation of the population by the major Jewish industrialists, who have destroys the palladium of humanity, the family, taking away from workers, what sustained them in their hardships, what comforted them in their misery. Having thus undermined all the The foundations of Christian society meant that Jews no longer had to to conceal. They showed themselves for who they truly are and have depicted wear and tear in all its forms. They have appropriated almost all social activity, and have not not, moreover, had for a single moment the generous thought of to make their fortune an instrument of liberation for the suffering classes. On the contrary, they made it the most a powerful instrument of oppression imaginable. Finally, freed from the burden of material concerns, they have deployed considerable energy to dominate public opinion, to hold the top jobs, the positions important. With the impudence of people puffed up by a Their success was too complete; they set to work to to definitively demolish everything that still made them obstacle. ;

All wholesale trade is in their hands;
They barely left the Viennese a few small houses of detail; they are still in the process of taking them away from them also. It would be pointless and superfluous to list them all the branches of trade that they have appropriated. It's best to say, in short, that they took everything from. commercial domain. Taking a further step, they... are geared towards industrial activity, the manufacturing of the most common items. In this area as well, they are having become the masters of the situation in all countries Austrians. Seeing this, a large number of Jews from Hungary, Poland, Russia, and Romania, jealous successes that their coreligionists were achieving in Vienna, descended upon the Austrian capital. In a short time In time, they managed to dislodge the small merchants like the small industrialists from the positions they held. Street They infiltrated street by street, leaving no one behind. to survive alongside them only a very small number of the elders traders and manufacturers.

2

128 JEWISH AUSTRIA

From the beginning, it had been difficult for the Austrians to to fight against them, because of the solidarity that is the The first principle among Jews. They had neither the skill nor the Capital needed to support the fight. Today it There can no longer even be any question of attempting to compete. Where some have everything and others have nothing, the struggle is no longer possible.

The small business owners, who worked from home, are they became laborers; they work on behalf of Jews, for a pittance.

We see a lot of these former small business owners, artisans or merchants, parking on street corners Vienna, doing the service with their numbered plates commission agents; they can be seen engaged in arduous tasks porter work or other similar jobs, to unless they preferred to emigrate or seek in the Suicide, an end to suffering. Poor Viennese, once so cheerful, so carefree, so easily content with little, and always having a joke ready! What became of them! In some districts, it can be said that the advantage that all those who, men or women, are Properly dressed, they are Jews. The threadbare garment is which in Vienna became the outward sign by which one recognizes oneself Christians are feeling this, at least in general. Everywhere. People who are intimately connected have come to take their seats convinced that behind their backs and their interests:

JEWISH AUSTRIA 129

Personally, nothing exists; everything was created for them. Exclusive advantage.

It's not only in Vienna that things are happening pass in this way; the same is true of the provinces. The town of Gablonz, for example, in the Iser valley, is one of the most important centers for manufacturing glassware and crystal; but it is also the center of a veritable Jewish colony, larger than in no other Bohemian city. Out of 70 houses of exports for glassworks there are 60 which are Jewish. The 8 or 10 Christian houses that still exist are at best of the second order; and some tend little by little to fall into the role of suppliers for major fashion houses. In addition, there are 12 lawyers in Gablonz, only one of whom is Christian. The proportion is the same for doctors.

The transformation took place in the same way. than in Vienna and all other major centers commercial and industrial. The Jews came to slaughter, like a malevolent cloud, over this once so flourishing, to establish export companies there. The Manufacturers, forced to accept their prices, became impoverished.

had, in the most complete way, a little bit. The workers, Areas exploited in turn, soon fell in the most appalling poverty. Currently, they earn 3 florins (6 francs) per week at most. How? Can they live on such minimal earnings? That's the question. which can only be understood by delving into the debts of these poor people. Seeing what becomes a poor family whose father receives only 6 francs per week, we retreat in fear before the consequences of this Jewish invasion. The same is more or less true in all the industrial centers of Austria. Gablonz is not one of them. than a typical example.

Does this mean, moreover, that the Jews limited themselves to monopolize trade and industry, at all levels of The scale? Is that where their work was limited?

130 JEWISH AUSTRIA

conquest and invasion? Or were they content with administration? to ter almost all industrial or financial institutions, banks, insurance companies, savings banks savings, businesses of all kinds, and collecting each year the largest share of income distributed to the shareholders of these companies? Have they declared themselves? satisfied when they saw most of the items in their crates others of the formidable is of the Austrian state and of the mortgage debts, all amounting to billions of orins.

That was not the case at all. Far from it.

Such resources, however enormous they may be, have not seemed sufficient to the sons of Israel, marching to conquest from Austria. It was necessary that the land belong to them. also, that the forests were their domain, that the political influence that property confers became their prerogative. The figures collected by the statistics we provide valuable lessons in this regard.

First, what is, according to the tables provided In our eyes, the number of Jews, the dualist monarchy? We are told that, out of 24 million inhabitants, Austria Cisleithana has 1,142,000 Jews, and Hungary has 780,000 out of 17.5 million inhabitants. In other words, In Austria, there are reportedly 48 Jews per 1,000 inhabitants, which is the highest percentage that exists in any country of the world. Such, at least, is the information that they provide us with the statistical tables drawn up in 1894 by Professor Jurascheck. But, whatever our confidence in the insights of the honorable statistician, we believe these figures are not completely accurate. They only understand, in fact, those who have openly declared Jewish, those who made it ostentatious—an act of adherence to mosaicism.

Moreover, we know that the people of Israel are afraid of official censuses. According to an old prophecy—tie, 11 must befall him on the day when one will know exactly how many children he has. That's what which explains the widespread opinion that there would have, in the Austro-Hungarian Empire, approximately 3 million of Jews. In Vienna, the capital of the monarchy Cisleithans, there are 120,000 of them, or about 10% of the population. There would therefore be eight to ten times more Jews than in France, although the total number the population and the area are roughly the even in both countries. Perhaps there is a little of exaggeration in this calculation; however we are justified in believing it to be substantially accurate, and as such it suffices to give an idea of how quickly the race has multiplied. In this state, which, according to its origins and its history, is Aryan and Catholic, where the great mass of the The Israelites, a population professing monarchical ideas appear to constitute the indigenous population today. The inhabitants born Christian and Austrian are now only helots.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 131

This is what this honest and good-natured people earned. his loyal love for freedom. The Jews are already owners of more than half of the houses in Vienna. If we only look at the property titles, there are 40% which belong to them. But, if we consult the state of the mortgage debts, which can easily lead to 70% of expropriations occur.

As for land ownership, it was forbidden to them, until 1849, to become purchasers. Since then, they have remarkably made up for lost time. The Baron of Rothschild alone owns about a quarter of the large property in Bohemia (seven times as much as the imperial island), not to mention what it also possesses—ment in the other provinces, in Lower Austria, in Moravia, Silesia, and Hungary.

The prohibition against Jews in Galicia (Poland) Austrian) to own the land lasted until 1867, at less so with regard to arable land.

132 JEWISH AUSTRIA

By that date of 1867, there were only 38 in all of Galicia Jewish landowners. However, three years after the following this prohibition, in 1870, there was already, in the province, 68 large Jewish landowners with the right to vote. In 1873, they numbered 289, having by consequently quadrupled; and in 1880, according to the information—Officially, the large Jewish landowners were at The number is 680 out of 3,700. The figures relating to the small unfortunately, the properties are even more significant. In the space of eighteen years, from 1874 to 1892, it was calculated that 43,000 small properties had passed into the hands of Jews. They currently own the most fertile land of the country; and more than 2 million inhabitants who were other-

The owners themselves serve as domes-Jewish practices on the former estates of their parents.

The decline of the rural classes over the last twenty years is absolutely undeniable in the VA empire and the
The primary cause of this deplorable state of affairs is the economic transformation that turned an agricultural country into capitalist country. The land has become a mere commodity. The land, which changes ownership at any time. The capi-Jewish socialism revolutionized both agriculture and industry. Activity, work, the economy no longer matter in Agricultural matter; capital is everything. Speculation has seized the ground, as she had already seized the pro-agricultural products; and the poor peasant became impotent to fight. Every day, on average, in Austria chiseled-thane, about thirty peasants, crushed under the weight of the debts, are forced to abandon their properties. Nothing nothing sadder than the sight of ruins, multiplied in the regions where Jews are numerous. There are localities where the peasants don't even own a piece of furniture, at most Strong reason, not a single piece of land. From their bed down to their carts and scythes, everything belongs to the Jews; and they go to the Jew to buy flour to make their bread. What will become of the rural classes in a few years? Twenty years? It's a fair question.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 133

when we see, in a single year, 12,000 Austrian farms female dogs passing into the hands of loan sharks.

The unspeakable misery revealed by such a situation has allowed an Israelite cattle dealer to say, with there was some likelihood that all he would have to do was make a sign by hand so that the most beautiful girl in the whole canton
A rural man came to his home seeking a position as a servant. According to probability calculations based on very serious, arable land and forests of certain provinces will, within twenty years, be, to a very large extent, the pose of the Jews, insofar as they do not belong to 'aristocracy.

At the same time as they were accumulating wealth,

In terms of movable and immovable property, Jews also aspired to positions and honors. They slipped into the
They held the highest public jobs and entered parliament.
sit in provincial and municipal assemblies.
They participate in the making of laws. In the arts, in music, in everything related to theatre, they have a dominant situation. As they have monopolized the critically, no one can aspire to capture the public's attention without their help, one could almost say without their consent. Men and women pay the price.
that they are demanding.

They got their hands on everything. Public safety, at Vienna was entrusted to Jewish police officers. No surprise there.
Therefore, it was expected to happen in the Austrian capital.
things that would be absolutely impossible elsewhere.

internal and external politics also seem to be of (of spring. They are found in all quarries) public, and often at the top of these careers. The place
The importance of the space they occupy there is absolutely disproportionate.
tioned to their number, so high indeed. At the University of Vienna, for example, as early as 1887, there were already 17
Jewish professors (docents) at the law faculty. Since
By that date, there must be at least a dozen of them.

134 JEWISH AUSTRIA

read. Law or medical students belonging to The Israelites are the most numerous. All the Jews who having completed their classical studies, they throw themselves into the islands.
liberal careers. They become lawyers, journalists or doctors. These three professions are, in a way, their exclusive domain. The number of these lawyers is so considerable that many of them, due to a lack of customers, engage in shady activities and thus deserve the attacks to which they are subjected, but which must be strong unsuitable for serious men of the profession.

E is considered in Vienna as the embodiment of evil, the
We can cite the Mephistopheles of civil society.
Moreover, a typical detail. A number of students Jews in law also attend medical school, in order to to harden one's heart by dissecting corpses.

Literature, and especially journalism, are literally flooded with Jews. Everything that today has a name, in Vienna, among the political editors or literary, is of Jewish origin. Of the 16 major newspapers of the daily newspapers published in Vienna, 10 belong to Jewish and are written and administered by them. The others are party organs. They have also monopolized almost all the weekly press.

And what about Jewish doctors in Vienna? In 1893, there were, in the capital of Austria, 794 Christian doctors and 763 Jewish doctors. Their number is increasing each year; it will soon surpass that of the doctors Christians. Authoritative writers have published horrible details of the abuses committed by these Semitic doctors vis-à-vis the women who come to consult them. Opposite Their practices have been recalled with great reason Words spoken by medical celebrities: Hec ars viros dedecet. The anger of the Viennese was unleashed. career, some time ago, when we learned that the young girls who came to a Jewish clinic to be to treat, even if it's just for a sore throat or a finger injury, forced to undress completely, in the presence of about thirty students from Semitic race. Such facts, it must be admitted, are absolutely typical for depicting Jewish character. This which does not, moreover, prevent the fact that in public services, The Jewish doctors are in the vast majority. All of them that the police use, with very few exceptions, are Jews, and even among military surgeons the Jews are extremely numerous.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 135

This, moreover, is what completes the revolution of the face of PAustria and change the appearance. of the Austrian society female dog. We want to talk about letters of nobility. granted to the Jews, with a kind of prodigality. Noble circles are filling up with Jewish upstarts. He does not could not imagine anything that would be likely to shake davan- It threatens the people's trust in the ruling classes. Nor could anything more dangerous be imagined? for the dynasty. Sometimes we look for the origin of ideas revolutionaries in Austria. Here is one of the most powerful!

It is clear that a state, divided by the quarrels of nationalities like Austria, weakened by other reasons again, it offers Jews a field of activity that is among the most fertile. In the midst of these life-or-death struggles, they maneuver completely at ease. In Vienna, they took part in the movement Germanic; in Prague, they are ostensibly fighting for the autonomy of the Slavs; in Trieste, they show themselves overtly irredentist. Everywhere they take part important to the struggles of parties and nationalities that they they push to the extreme, to take advantage of it according to their usual practice. In Hungary, they stir up and incite the Magyars against Austria; in Cisleithania, they preach to the Austrians the hatred against Hungary. Deep down, they hate everything. world, including Germans, Hungarians, and others Slavs, Protestants as much as Catholics, and not They only think about plundering the country. The government— The Austrian government is afraid of it; it doesn't dare to intervene.

136 JEWISH AUSTRIA

knowing full well that many MPs are at their wages.

It is primarily in the area of social issues, It is a singular thing that the people of Israel exercise their action political. Imbued with his own power, the Austrian Jew... ostensibly placed at the forefront among the combatants so much for the Pure cause he also makes himself the leader and the guide to what are called "intellectuals"; and to con- to more easily determine the direction of the movement, he said patriot. But his patriotism closely resembles attachment— The farmer's lie for his cow.

What we have just outlined would suffice, strictly speaking to give an accurate idea of the progress that has been made Jews in Austria for fifty years, and the influence dominant position they were able to take over the destinies of a empire in which, half a century ago, access to all They were forbidden from holding public office. To complete the to show even the less discerning the danger of this ever-increasing invasion, let's go back in a few words on what we have only indicated above, namely the growing number of Jewish students in all the higher education institutions. The wealth of the Jews allows them to do to give their children the most complete education, and to raising them higher and higher up to the most challenging situations view. The University of Vienna, this institution of origin essentially Catholic, has become, throughout the meaning of the word, a Jewish school. During the school year In 1863–64, it had only 382 Jewish students; By 1885–86, it already had 2,095. In the Universities of From Vienna and Prague, the listeners gathered around the pulpits of the medical school members belong for more than half to the Jewish nation. The Israelites, in their legal system, form more a quarter of all those attending the courses. (A Budapest, the proportion is even greater in favor Jews.)

JEWISH AUSTRIA 137

However, to understand what such things mean figures, we must not lose sight of the proportion digital relationship between the Christian population and the popes Jewish. Out of a total population of 24 million, the 1,200,000 Jews (to adopt the official figures), represent 5%. If we adopt a higher figure In relation to general opinion, we could not in any way This only happens in the proportion of 8%. However, Jewish students the medical schools of Vienna are included in the a proportion of 57%. That the readers themselves even the conclusion.

This proportion of 57% is also tending to increase. Again, judging by the number of students who... attend colleges and other educational institutions preparing for university studies. In Vienna, the Jews there include, in the total number, an enormous quantity.

Prague, the four German higher education institutions, the three royal schools and the four-classroom high school of Smichow together, at the end of the last school year, 2,460 schoolchildren. Of this total, 1,049 were Jewish. (41.2%), 857 Germans (36.7%), 523 Czechs (21.3%) and 22 students belonging to other nationalities. At the state college in Brody, out of 481 students, there are 137 Roman Catholics, 121 Greek Catholics and 223 Jews.

It is also worth adding that many of the Jewish schoolchildren are the sons of tavern owners established in Galicia. rag and scrap metal dealers, usurers and of street vendors. The sons of these people, who occupy such a tiny place in the world today,

They will one day be magistrates, legal experts, or doctors.
will be called upon by their duties to decide the fate of their fellow citizens.

Sad examples of this can be found in the way that Jewish doctors take advantage of the loopholes in the legislation—Austrian legislation concerning the treatment of the mentally ill. Nothing
It is no longer easier, with their complicity, than to carry out sequels.

138 JEWISH AUSTRIA

to be a rich man whose inheritance one covets or a politician who has become inconvenient for a cause or a other. One can therefore understand how widespread it is in Austria the disastrous habit of interning people who They have no right to this indignity. This is, in most cases cases of life imprisonment, without the poor prisoner did not violate any lawful provisions criminal charges and without him being able to defend himself. Almost all the doctors attached to the police stations of the ten—Nine districts of Vienna are of Jewish origin; this They are the ones who lend themselves to such horrible tasks, including the
In practice, this renders all constitutional laws illusory. on which the security of citizens depends. Not is It goes without saying that the owners—jailers of the houses private health insurance companies are mostly run by millionaires, like almost all Jews, moreover, when they engage in occupations that neglecting duty can make lucrative.

This is in no way out of patriotism, nor out of a spirit of devotion, that the Jew thus slips into the functions public; it's not even always driven by pecuniary ambition niary. He is often seen holding non-restrictive jobs.
fogs, which other citizens neglect, but which allow us to serve the cause of Judaism, to promote it to the extent possible and to help his coreligions—
No nepotism comparable to that of the Jews; no of closer solidarity. Everywhere the Jewish element is pushing forward forward; everywhere he exploits the situation to his advantage.
exclusive; and, as a result of this slow infiltration into all the ramifications of the social order, the life of Austria is infested on all sides with the Jewish spirit. That one wears Wherever you look, you'll find a Jew.

Social relationships are everywhere dominated by the Jews. Go to the city park, to the boulevards, to the Prater: mostly Jewish; open the newspapers for read the holiday chronicles, wedding announcements or of birth: the Jews, always the Jews. In the cities of waters, in Karlsbad, in Baden, in twenty other places,

JEWISH AUSTRIA 139

Jews everywhere and always. The most beautiful resorts in the vicinity of Vienna, at Semmering, at Kahlenberg, in Brühl, belong to them. The pile of fortune in their hands, the thirst for pleasures that... devoured, produced a complete reversal of all social habits.

However, this is not through work or exercise. of no special virtue that the Jews thus arrived at top of the ladder. It's not talent, it's not the science, nor the productive activity that led the population Jewish woman in the front row. It's Re ee the plot, the cunning, deceit, the ability to exploit others, rapacity insatiable, and completely unscrupulous. By appropriating shamelessly the fruit of their labor and activity fellow citizens, the Jews quickly managed to gather In their hands lie the wealth, the influence, the elements of domination. From nothing they became, in fifty years, everything in the Habsburg monarchy.

EXPLOITERS AND EXPLOITED

Despite the bitter complaints leveled against them From all sides, the Jews continue to present themselves as the defenders of all freedoms. As at the beginning of the invasion, whose rapid pro-sandstone, in the Jewish newspapers, we speak of the principles humanitarians, from the march of civilization which will provide – They say there are remedies for all suffering, Helpful advice in all perplexities, milk for childhood and a generous wine for old age. But this Verbose logomachy no longer manages to deceive per-sounds. Everyone in Austria now knows what leads to-feel these so-called liberal and humanitarian doctrines, which have led the population into such harsh servitude. It is not no one has the power to conceal the truth anymore, nor even to mitigate it. One only has to open their eyes to

140 JEWISH AUSTRIA

to see that Austria is delivered into the hands of an unscrupulous feudal system, ruthlessly sacrificing the country's fortune to the voracity of these "friends of humanity".

It is not without reason that they are also criticized for the wear and tear applied to food items. There are periods when the price of wheat falls to half of what it was the previous year; and yet the population does not pay less. The bread is cheaper; she pays a higher price instead. The Jews manage to win on both sides. They acc-

They used all the available grain, and once in possession of almost all of them set the prices as they see fit, at will, of their interests. No one benefits from it except them. The urban worker continues to pay dearly for bread; but the speculators got rich.

It is true that one tries to object that the price of wheat must adapt to the international rating. That's possible. But this only proves that there are Jews everywhere, and that they are the ones who dominate the major international markets. Moreover, in an agricultural country like Austria-Hungary, it's the local coast that should alone influence the price of bread. The international wheat market price only has a reason to exist insofar as it constitutes a kind of average between the prices of the various producing countries. VAR (Variable Arbitration for Sport) is being introduced into all odds, in Hungary or Cisleithania, as elsewhere. We have seen, in Budapest, in the spring of 1897, the price of corn fell to 3 florins thirty per quintal. Then, when the farmers had they sold their stocks at this derisory rate, the price would have risen. This same speculation was raised to a significant extent. It occurs almost every year, on all the categories of cereals,

To fully understand the seriousness of the illness from which he suffers in agricultural Austria, it must be remembered that out of 24 million of inhabitants, in Cisleithania, there are approximately 13 million men, or 54%, who are engaged in field work. Hungary, due to the nature of the soil and the character of the

For the population, agriculture has always been the main element of activity. However, on both sides of the Leitha, the misery in the villages is unspeakable. The peasant doesn't eat meat only once a week, on Sundays, and even then... Not always. He often lacks even bread.

In Hungary, the distress is even greater than in Cisleithanian Austria. Such sights must be seen up close. to believe they are possible.

Many Hungarian properties, insofar as they do not yet belong to the Jews, are leased by them, as is also done in Galicia; one can see Jewish farmers, whip in hand, watch over the islands plowmen or reapers, hunting them down as soon as they do I thought I'd take a minute's rest. Meanwhile, Jewish women assist their husbands by traveling the shod in a two-horse carriage, to see if one works; and their sons, armed with long swords, trot at Horse across the paths. What a heartbreaking sight! We must The washhouse, contemplated in the Hungarian puszta; one must have seen it. The Polish peasant, overcome with fatigue, had a piece of bread black in hand, sadly contemplating his children who have only a shirt as their sole garment. Anyone who seen these appalling paintings, unworthy of a century that He claims to be civilized, but can understand the intensity of hatred. which gave rise to anti-Semitism.

In Galicia and in certain cantons of Hungary, the Jew he owns inns and brandy outlets; he runs a There are few grocery or haberdashery shops. That's where, for The lower classes, the most dangerous group. These Moneylenders and retail merchants sell brandy on credit to the peasants; they calculate in advance what they will be paid the following year on the product of agricultural olive oil. From this way, and subject to exceptionally high interest rates When they are raised, they deprive the people of their last resources. lead him to lose his mind through the abuse of spirits, and reduce women and children to begging to beg. The ruined peasants turn to drink to to numb themselves; and it is, as always, the Jew alone who triumph amidst universal disarray.

What he does for the hoarding of grain, he also does for all the objects necessary for life. Under the name of Cartels, he organizes the monopoly for oil, the sugar, coal, etc. As for the meat of butchery, including wholesale trade, in large cities, is also in the hands of the Jews, the price of the Retail prices are absolutely exorbitant, although Vienna and Budapest are surrounded by agricultural areas. In short, the exploitation of the working and impoverished class by unscrupulous speculators could not be pushed any further far away. Never have honest and hardworking people been put Thus, a systematic process to enrich a single breed. Never. The facts have not demonstrated so clearly how much The speculative spirit of the Jews is deeply deplorable. For them, there was never any question of limiting production. using cartels – which could prove useful. He always acted to maintain prices at a high level or to make them rise even further.

Are factory workers happier?
workers' laws, which we discussed in a previous chapter, have, it is true, somewhat improved their sad condition. Not that their lot has become very dignified. of envy, but before the vote on these laws, he was absolutely Intolerable. The exploitation of children, in particular, was extreme. to the extreme. In textile industry centers, children had to work even at night, and replace, from From time to time, the weavers who were doing so well that badly in a corner of the workshop to sleep three or four hours, and then they would return to continue their work. However, these children, belonging to peasant families, arrived— every Monday they came from the most remote villages, bringing They put their week's food in a bag. They earned by A maximum of 2 florins (approximately 4 francs) per week: and when They sometimes succumbed to fatigue, fell asleep, the

The Jewish boss sprinkled them with cold water to put them back on foot.

Workers' wages have been so drastically reduced, prices of all mechanical or industrial products have so low, that it has become almost impossible to to live honestly from one's work. Social misery and the discontent has reached such a degree that one can fearing at any moment bloody clashes between exploits owners and exploited. By the ferocity it displays, and which truly surpasses that of carnivorous animals, the Austrian Jewry provokes outrage when it dares to speak of civilization and progress, In reality, it is remaining wild; it sows death through famine and excessive work; she is incapable of feeling human. His greatest pleasure is devouring the vain-cus, provided they belong to a Christian denomination Anne. For the exclusive satisfaction of her interests, she is ready to crush all her opponents, without the slightest worry of this dogma of human fraternity that she proclaimed so high in 1848. She even goes so far as to forget the right to imprint- A fundamental right of humanity: the right to live.

In terms of financial activity, the Jews have not was less disastrous for Austria. Not that EE establishments are poorly managed; quite the contrary. What they are criticized for above all, with great reason- Its sound, these are the stock market fluctuations that periodically remove she was saving what little she had managed to accumulate and keep. More than a quarter of a century has passed since the terrible crash of 1873; and yet the appalling breach of trust that this disaster has brought to light are not yet forgotten. The crash of 1873, the work of Jews, has undoubtedly been one of the economic disasters the most terrifying that history has ever recorded; and none of Those who witnessed it will never be able to forget it.

It was not uncommon, in those dark times, to see two or three young Israelite men, still beardless, formed themselves to kill in a "corporation", to draft articles of incorporation, to spread titles in the public domain, without having other resources, of a different fortune, a different investment than a table covering green with a green carpet and a few chairs, in a room on the ground floor or first floor of a beautiful house. It was the era of what was called... "foundations"; many businesses were conducted there based on nothing serious, and having no existence except in the imagination of their inventors. How can one be surprised—From then on, from the ruins that have accumulated? How can we be surprised, especially by the harmful influence they have? have exerted their influence on the entire situation and fueled hatreds. The profound disorganization they caused? political, in Austria, from 1873, such as the disorganization—economic nization. One is the fatal consequence of the other one.

144 JEWISH AUSTRIA

If the large exploiters have left such traces lasting from their passage, there are thousands of small ones whose daily influence has radically altered the public morals. In an inhabited Austrian province by nearly a million Jews, it is a common thing to to uncover the false testimonies presented in court. in this region there are people who do the job of Witnesses. For one or two florins, they appear. in all trials, and swear before God that a no one (whom they have never seen, whom they do not know) not) received from a Jew whom they designate by name, and who is present at the hearing, 100 or 200 florins and has committed to return them within six months. Fortunately, the The new Code of Civil Procedure leaves room for conscience judges have greater discretion. They It becomes possible to refute such testimonies. Previously, under the old procedural law, these The testimonies were valid; they had to be admitted. as truthful; and in this way, thousands of families have been reduced to the most extreme poverty.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 145

According to the last census conducted in 1890, the Jews were in Austria in the proportion of 4.8% of the population; they accounted for 62.9% among the people who were condemned there for usury.

The most appalling form that the The cruelty of the Jews is that which relates to the exploitation of human body, what they call the "human beast". We will discuss this specific point again in the following pages. vantes. Let us simply say here that, according to the accounts of Eyewitnesses, the way the Jews treat the peasants in Galicia absolutely surpasses all imagination. It would seem incredible if it weren't attested to by witnesses. trustworthy. Cases have been cited where the polo- farmers born, as interest on a small debt, had to hand over their creditors to Jewish creditors, who had the right to keep them in their service without their to pay no salary until the debt is extinguished.

It is solely, exclusively through exploitation that The Austrian Jew became rich. He did not work; he did not proof of no special merit. He never took charge nor He never handled a needle, an awl, or an X. the plow, neither sowed the fields, nor mowed the meadows. What fruitful work has he accomplished? Everything for him, and for himself alone. He became rich, infinitely richer than Christians, and at the expense of Christians. All that these had amassed through their labor, increased by their savings, and preserved with a thousand meticulous care, he them stripped them of it.

Who could be surprised that love of country has disappeared, that ardent hatreds had accumulated at the depths of hearts against a state of affairs that protects the Jewish atrocities, and their book bound hand and foot. Honest and honorable people?

The shift in public opinion that occurred in Austria thus confirms in every respect the lessons of History. Social upheavals arise from the observation-

146 JEWISH AUSTRIA

irritating tion of an excess of parasitism in the community nature, and especially because of this, recognized by the crowd, that a certain classes cost more than they bring in.

THE SEDUCTIONS

The cry of human conscience, rightly indignant, has deeply impressed all of Austria, in pre- the presence of a more shameful, more degrading, more

It's still painful, even more so than everything we've just said. The vast popular classes were moved by the sight of the hecatombs of thousands of young Christian girls, sacrificed-linked to the Semitic Minotaur. In the feeling of una-Nîmes: sorrows, shared disapproval, hatreds Nationalists have been forgotten. Germans, Slavs, Hungarians or Italians had previously felt rage in their hearts seeing the Jews absorb the vital forces of their country, and accumulate in their hands all the resources of the monarchy. However, weary of the war, they had finally They had gotten used to it. They had resigned themselves to picking up the crumbs. fallen from their hosts' table. Likewise, they had protested vigorously against the harmful influence exerted by the Jews on the destinies of the State, against venality that they introduced into public customs; and despite They had all eventually become accustomed to seeing everything. to become venal, jobs, dignities, titles, names and first names, the very honor.

But on the other hand, resounding shouts were... raised to Heaven, sobs arose all the breasts when we had to recognize and note the ravages caused by the venality of love. By the all-the power of money and the demoralizing influence of their with foul tastes, the Jews brought, in the minds of young women, conceptions of life that were unknown to older generations. In Austria more than in any other European country, respect for the

JEWISH AUSTRIA 147

The female population decreased; and the entire population felt the effects. humiliated by this change.

The Jews instilled in young women, in Austria, with its dissolute morals and deplorable habits, an unprecedented demoralization. The inherent baseness of their feelings, money, and their absolute lack of conscience predispose them singularly to the role of seducers. So prostitution lurks at every door, young girls who in big cities become so A large number of Jewish servants. There is little risk. to be mistaken in saying that the largest number of unfortunate girls who become corrupted and prostitute themselves in the major Austrian cities, owe their first fall.

It must be remembered, in fact, that most of those who come from the provinces to find work as servants, Vienna and Budapest are forced to enter the service Jewish families, given that many families Christian women are no longer in a position to pay for domestic. We can accept as certain that the 2 one and a half million Jews settled in Austria and Hungary have as many, if not more, maids at their service than in have the 38 million Austrians and Hungarians belonging to the Christian denominations. Let us add that the nine tenths of the young women in service are Christian; there There were very few Jewish servants. However, the established practices and well known to Israelite families in relation to their servants all too often exert control over the latter a harmful influence. It is not uncommon to see mothers Jewish women to take as maids of all work, according to the expression so widespread, young girls whose mission special, alongside their ordinary work, to satisfy the whims of the sons of the house. Not only the mother She knows and tolerates it; but she most often desires it herself that it be so. In his mind, it is a matter of preventing the Young people should not be [unclear] before their marriage. We do not Let's talk, of course, only about Jewish mothers and families

148 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Jewish women. Despite this special allocation, the salary of The good one is not increased. It is usually 10 florins (21 francs) per month. And all too often, when the The young girl is sent away to make room for another; she is constrained by acquired habits, to take refuge to live in one of the hospital houses, so many in the two capitals of the monarchy, which are held by the coreligionists of his former masters.

If some of these unfortunate women escape a Such a destiny is that the salutary advice of their parents manage to protect them from it, and that, from their On the other hand, the priests of rural parishes, in Bohemia all as in the German Aatnehe, do the most praiseworthy efforts to ensure that their young flock, when they leave their villages, be well prepared to fight against the dangers that threaten them in trying to win honestly their lives. These meritorious efforts are currently joined by the anti-Semitic indictments, so that finally, at

Where has this moral propaganda ended up, ladies?
Jewish women sometimes have some difficulty finding servants.
To get them, they often agree to their good things happen, twice a month, on Sunday night at Monday out of the house. That's good, we can see, a remedy which is no better than evil. One can judge that the morality of future wives, future mothers, does not increase much through this generous act of charity.

The relationship between Jewish employers and female workers
Christian women look very much like those of young men Jews with their mothers' maids. They are unhappytainted by the same immoral character, In Speaking of socialism in Austria, we have recounted the Li which were found in the investigation into the work of women. We have updated, we said, the ways of acting of an industrialist who occupied numerous workshops in his workshops apprentice girls aged fourteen to sixteen. When they had completed their two years of apprenticeship without the

With a lower salary, they could not obtain the passbook from him.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 149

of female worker, to which they were entitled, only on the condition of to sacrifice to him what Dumas called their "capital". exploits accomplished in this genre by another Jew are not no less typical. He alone exploited a thousand four hundred weaving looms in various localities of Silesia Austrian. However, he publicly boasted of having received in his counter, over the years, the intimate visit of more than a thousand of its female workers, women or young girls, married or single women, whom he had invited, one after the other, to
They came themselves to ask him for work. These visits In private matters, he brazenly referred to them as "commissions" to deduct from salaries.

The profound misery that reigns in the lab-laughing, the lack of bread, in the fullest sense of the term, explains these very frequently used processes all too well in Austria. As Mr. publicly stated Gregorig, deputy of Vienna, it has come to be admitted as a proven fact that Austrian workers generally only marry girls who have previously endowed by the Jews. Mr. Gregorig even employs a stronger expression. He said: "the girls put aside by the Jews as a commodity that no longer has value" (von Juden abgelegte Waare).

Marriage between Christians is by no means a guarantee against the sensual appetites of the Jews. The Talmud, it seems, only defends adultery when it involves of a Jewish woman. The defense does not apply to the wife of a Christian; for whoever is not a Jew, according to Rabbinic doctrine states that he is not legally married. This is the lively commentary on this saying from the Talmud: "The Jews alone are men; the others, all those who do not "They are not Jews, they are merely cattle seed." That's clearly, it's formal; no legal union, no pact. In their eyes, marriage is not considered possible. between livestock, that is to say, between all beings humans who are not Jewish. Hence, the rabbis naturally conclude that adultery with a

150 JEWISH AUSTRIA

A woman who is not Jewish does not constitute a crime. They are only asking that relations be maintained. secret, so as not to invite scorn and curse on Judaism.

This way of considering "human rights" resulted in Vienna seeing in the streets of many people, supposedly born to Christians, who have very pronounced Jewish types, and thus form a contrast with other members of their family. The hooked nose, the whole face, reveal to the eyes the less observant, an Israelite paternity. The same fact also reproduced in all holiday resorts where residents rent out homes for the summer to Jewish tenants.

Other incidents, less well-known but more atrocious. They, too, have often stirred Austrian hearts. reveal a state of affairs which elsewhere is not. They didn't even have the idea, and they show how audacious they were. Disgusting contempt for humanity has arrived, in this unfortunate country, the Jews in half a century. Bukovina, for example, in Galicia and in other provinces poor, when a ruined peasant cannot pay his daughters are the ones who pay the interest on his debt.

bodies as payment. The forced gift of their virginity alone has the power to prevent the father from being cast miserably upon the main road.

What, moreover, is the case in Vienna and other major cities? cities of Austria, the fate of young Christian girls, What if they don't belong to a wealthy family? That's what that court decisions teach us; that is what What does the sudden disappearance of so many young girls reveal to us? still minor. That is finally what he declares in these terms Mr. Gross-Hoffner: "The millionaire Jews, the Stock market speculators prefer to seek out The purest and most innocent young girls. Then, when the Jewish aristocracy freely abused these unfortunate, then only the Christian victims are abandoned to their misery and fall into the abyss of prostitution. As for the poor Jews, those of the lower classes, they excel at exploiting the role of inter-directors. They know how to find young girls for the Turkish harems and disreputable houses around the world.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 151

Thus, the further we go, the deeper we sink into this mire. Jewish woman from whom emanates a foul odor which eventually to stink up all of Austria. Certainly, among all the crimes that the sun illuminates, Christians have too often also their share; but never before has there been, in Austria, to accuse them of engaging in the export trade of Christian virgins. This shameful specialty which dishonors our century belongs to the Jews alone and in a way exclusive. We must let them have the infamy. For a long- For a time, we ignored the details. We saw young people girls, in large numbers, mysteriously disappear, without to know what became of them. This was the subject of the trial held in 1892. in the capital of Austrian Poland, in Lemberg, which we finally learned it.

Twenty-eight Jews were accused of kidnapping and trafficking young girls. These wretches had lured them into a trap skillfully prepared a large number of young Christians yours, most of whom were still attending school. they had promised them the most brilliant conditions for to convince them to go abroad. As soon as they had Once they crossed the border, they were treated as slaves and Any attempt to escape was brutally suppressed. Arrivals In Türkiye, they were sold to brothels. tuition at an average rate of one thousand marks each. Now, who owns similar houses in. Türkiye? The Jews alone; no others. Those of these The poor victims who tried to resist were imprisoned. in underground dungeons and rendered docile through force of mistreatment. When the police finally decided to After intervention, sixty of these young girls were freed.

152 JEWISH AUSTRIA

They were rescued from the clutches of these barbarians. But alas!
#: LEAL
They were completely lost, body and soul.

The trial lasted ten days. It brought to light details monstrous. It was clearly established that hundreds of young girls had been trained by this gang of Lemberg in shame, despair, illness and death. Due to gaps in the legislation, the perpetrators did not were sentenced to only insignificant punishments. The chief Isaac Schafenstein of the gang got off with a one-year sentence. imprisonment. All the others only a few months of confinement and they resumed their sinister ways to trade by simply adding a little more cunning and mystery. What was most revolting about this The sad thing is that the signatory of the sales contracts and delivery had the audacity to proclaim loudly, at At the start of the trial, his An culbabihte "You don't have to "Take care of me," he told the judges. "Let me sell some..." Clothes, fruit, calves or women, it doesn't matter. I'm in business; and nobody has anything to do with it. Speaking thus, the accused, as we know, was standing exactly on the grounds of Jewish morality, which allows for practice, with regard to human beings, any matter that is not forbidden by the Talmud with regard to animals.

By virtue of these maxims, which they adhere to too faithfully- In practice, vampires suck the most blood Reckless. They tear apart the body and degrade the young the ones they take when they have barely left childhood. Sometimes in one place, sometimes in another, they make them their prey, their plunder, and sell them as any other merchandise. "Clothes,

"calves or women, it doesn't matter," to employ Their language is new. We're watching them a little more closely, it is True. The arrests of these human flesh traffickers become quite frequent. The police seize them in company of peasant girls, still minors, to whom they promised well-paid positions, such as maids in good homes abroad. Girls from the

JEWISH AUSTRIA 153

the bourgeoisie are themselves driven by the perspective Dice for governesses. About ten years ago, the Jews only engaged in such operations in Galicia, in Bohemia, in Bukovina, and in certain parts of the Hungary. For some time now they have also been operating in the German provinces of Austria, especially in Styria and: Carinthia. At the beginning of July 1898, the the police headquarters in Prague, received a list of mar-women's rights belonging to the Jewish race, which are pre-.

appear to have come from Constantinople to do "business" in Bohemia. On the same date, the government of Galicia was also informed by the Austrian consulate in Buenos Aires

Areas that fifty of these traffickers of young girls were traveling to Austria, where they wanted to procure fresh merchandise for brothels

Argentiniens.

These are facts that everyone in Vienna knows.

Due to the very nature of things, he does not succeed in the public knowledge that only a tiny fraction of these horrific crimes – either the families of the young victims
They prefer to remain silent, to avoid shame, either because, Driven by poverty, they take their share of the price paid by the merchants, a price that varies between 50 and 600 florins per head, or rather per body, or finally that the poor girls, once they arrive at their destination, no longer have the courage to inform their parents about their fate Done. It is certain, in any case, that many of them, Pole, for one cause or another, no longer gives any sign life.

The extent to which this odious trade has spread indicates, to Without a doubt, thousands of wealthy Jews lend their support to those who exercise it consistently. In No criticism can be found in any Jewish newspaper, none at all.
word of blame regarding this trafficking, so deeply criminalnel. The guilty parties are not excluded from the community Jewish, nor even disavowed. It follows that their conduct. is, if not formally approved, at least looked at deemed permissible. Radical remedies should be applied.

154 JEWISH AUSTRIA

caux to such a state of affairs; but it appears that the great
The liberal principles proclaimed in 1848 opposed it.
Freedom of trade above all...

Sensual misdeeds, which the law apparently cannot punish, and, more generally, the abuses that Jews commit against women have powerfully contributed to the explosion the source of anger that gave rise to anti-Semitism Austrian. When you mention it in Vienna, the looks you get-
They are an expression of unspeakable hatred. That's where it needs to be.
to recognize, a feeling too natural to which man does not cannot be avoided, and this is something all races share. civilized or barbaric, white or black, for little that they have a sense of honor and dignity human. In this circumstance, the Austrian suffered the fate the blacks of the Congo, whose revolts, at the beginning of the invasion
The sion of white people, had as their main motive, as we know, the disrespectful treatment that the invaders inflicted on their wives and daughters. However, if the Negroes are forced, on African soil, to submit to the regime imposed on them by the victors, the Austrians, who had returned ideas from 1848, brought back by sad experiences to the reality of things, they intend to defend what man has of the most precious things in the world, his honor, his wife and his children. The opinion of honest people in all countries, the competitions for writers of great merit, are acquired by them on this field. Dr. Grebbert notably said: "What traps set by vulgar Jewish thieves for young girls Christians! What snares they sow in their path To steal their innocence! What sacrifices they make!

to accomplish, by this means, on the altars of their God Hidden! There are many chapters to be written on this subject; and Unfortunately, in light of the facts, the morality of
The Talmud appears to us in strange colors.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 155

THE ANTI-SEMITIC MOVEMENT

Faced with the ever-growing Jewish threat, Austria remained inactive for a long time and, in a way, hypnotized by a kind of mysterious terror. While the Jewish hive, bustling and buzzing, multiplied its attacks, government and parliamentary ostriches—
The birds hid their necks under their wings, thus seeking to to dismiss disturbing visions of the future. This was the initiative courageous of a few citizens who ultimately substituted—resistance to government action by organizing resistance tance. Men of heart and energy, concerned about the human dignity and rightly concerned about the fate of their
The children placed themselves without hesitation at the forefront of the stage to attempt the work of salvation.

They were few in number at the beginning;
at first seemed destined to break against inertia the masses and the ill will of the central power, including the main organs fought them vigorously.
On the other hand, those they attacked had had the strength that comes from long-standing possession of wealth and However, antisemitism, despite its weak beginnings, has since made considerable progress;
He found powerful people within the deliberative assemblies echoes.

The electoral reform, carried out after the fall of Taaffe's ministry, in 1893, the awakening of nationalism and the fervor of the socialist discussions could not to remain without influence on its development. It is up to It was on this date, in fact, that the movement took on an extension—a completely new sion. The revolt of public conscience has The Jews were surprised, and they took the long silence for an act of resignation. They believed themselves certain of the degeneration in Austria and hoped to continue leading without obstacles The Lances of this unfortunate country were at their leisure. It was above all the instinct for self-preservation which caused Numerous and energetic protests arose on all sides.

156 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Seeing that after taking away their lands and their houses, after stripping them of their money, the Jews took their wives and sold their daughters,
The Austrians understood that it was high time to rise to the challenge.
the head, and to close ranks to push back the enemy their rest. They set to work to put an end to to excessively long suffering. The struggle that has begun
It was thus inevitable: on the one hand, nationalities united by a common danger; on the other hand, the ambitious Jewish nation to dominate, eager to further increase her power, exhilarated by her successes to the point of becoming absolutely despotic, and driven by her instincts to ruin all those who were subjected to his touch.

When Jews claim that antisemitism is the a product of religious hatred taken to the extreme, they they are telling a lie and they are very aware of it account. He is among those indifferent to religion.
Indeed, that the most anti-Semites meet in Fi and the most determined. On the other hand, what is undeniable, that is because the Jewish press, in complicity with the governmentso-called liberal ments from 1861 to 1879, had organized a a relentless war against Christianity. It attacked in violent terms against the Church and its priests; but, having awareness of the decisive role played by religious faith With regard to the preservation of breeds, she refrained from to undermine the Mosaic faith.

The Jews, by spreading their literary poison throughout all the ranks of society, had boldly undertaken the
The dechristianization of Austria. The religious war which The complaint they are making today was made by themselves.
They wanted to take away the Christians' faith and their beliefs to weaken them, to take away all their strength resistance to corruption was impossible. that the Viennese do not end up realizing it accurate account; also, to react against demoralization the masses, the largest fraction of anti-Semites

It was organized under the leadership of Dr. Lueger, into a socialist-Christian party.

This party, on which the personality of its leader has a strong influence... has attracted attention lately, and which some members could be qualified today of opportunistic anti-Semites, has retained, at least in appearance- He possesses a genuine Austrian patriotism. some important advertising outlets, and opposes openly the masses who rallied to the phalanx socialist who obeys the orders of the Jewish leaders. The Christian Socialist Party has many representatives members of parliament, and holds a majority in Vienna City Council. He regimented in his ranks of the most popular members of the clergy, representatives prominent figures in modern science, as well as the survivors of the old Viennese bourgeoisie, of very numerous students and part of the teaching staff. The vast majority of the working masses also follow its flag.

The Austrians, and more specifically the Viennese, Dr. Lueger, leader of the socialists, like to compare them to Dr. Lueger- Christians, with Mr. Édouard Drumont, the eminent French writer. There are certainly many points of resemblance between the two tribunes of anti-Semitism. The absolute sincerity of convictions explains, for one as with the other, the influence they exerted from the beginning and that they still exert on the minds of the populace lations. Pursuing the same goal, they necessarily proceed of the same principles, and have also conquered by their love of country, undeniable rights, esteem public. But, upon closer examination of the two In models, the portraitist finds dissimilarities that he It is appropriate to emphasize this.

The author of "Jewish France" captures, across the ages, the thread of the underground activities of the Jews, which he analyzes and describes from the in the most precise way, by carefully separating the ques-religious interpretation of the race question, which takes precedence over all others others. He has the undisputed merit of having shown France unaware of the harmful influence of the Jews, in its origin and in his results. Dr. Lueger is quite different. With a verve that was somewhat empirical, without too much Preoccupied with the Talmud, he rushed to attack the Austrian Jews, by striking them with blows that made the delights of good Viennese. He updated the background of the back room where the ruin of their country was accomplished. In short, he relied, in his anti-Semitic propaganda, on the facts, which he was able to develop with fervor an unusual oratory style, so as to make them obvious for everyone. He sometimes has the weakness of resorting to provocations, In Viennese slang, of dubious taste. As for... Despite scholarly research, it does not appear that he ever took the trouble to do it.

Mr. Drumont awakened a sleeping France. He has raised the Jewish question in his country, which did not exist before him. Mr. Lueger, in Vienna, simply placed at the head of the masses who were already in motion. Like Mirabeau before him, he took the lead in a order of things that he had found existing, but within to which he brought order and clarity, in place of the Previous confusion. Psychologically speaking, it's about the secret of his immense Enbare is, in fact, the the secret of all great crowd-pleasers.

If we want to take the study of similarities further and the differences between the two tribunes, and to investigate which caused the crowds to swarm, we find ourselves led to point out yet another characteristic fact of an order very particular, but which may have played a decisive role in the eventful career of the mayor of Vienna. Here, Mr. Drumont has the disadvantage. The Viennese women, young or old, poor or rich, have met in a shared feeling of sympathy at with regard to Dr. Lueger. They nicknamed him after a common agreement "the handsome Charles" (der schæne Karl).

JEWISH AUSTRIA 159

The admirers of the anti-Semitic mayor are they-same known in Vienna as ZLueger-Amazonen; and this new kind of regiment includes almost the entire female population in the capital from Austria.

It is unnecessary to dwell at length on the consequences consequences of such popularity. "What a woman wants, "God wills it," says a well-known proverb. In politics As in any other matter, we have often had the opportunity to verify how true this saying is. What about many things in this world have come about through women, and only through them! The destiny of Doctor Lueger and, Consequently, the rise of antisemitism provides one New evidence. Women, enlisted under the banner The "handsome Charles" sounded the alarm for liberation. Thanks to them, the movement took on all appearances. of a social revolution whose early signs are already reveal, and that their children are prepared to accom- To fold. That was to be expected, moreover. In the struggle underway against society as a whole, women could not They had to remain indifferent. They were bound to take a party.

Almost all of them saw their husbands, their sons, their brothers bowed under the oppressive yoke. They on the other hand, they saw the price of all the necessary goods They are women whose lives are exaggerated to incredible proportions. protested vigorously against this price increase, as well as against the adulteration of food supplies, in short against all the evils that afflicted and still afflict Today the home ones Maybe also (because it "We have to say everything," the insolent luxury displayed by women Did Jewish women provoke feelings of envy, and is it not not unrelated to the development of antisemitism. We We could even add that there were unfortunate experiences Even more intimate factors also contributed to this. in all likelihood. Nevertheless, membership in almost unanimous support from Austrian women for the movement

160 JEWISH AUSTRIA

liberating is likely to inspire generous hopes Frances. There are, in a way, guarantees for the future there. which cannot be ignored. One can affirm, without fear of making a mistake, which most women who keep at a distance, yielding in this to the cruel necessities of life. They are anti-Semitic at heart; but they fear of losing their daily bread or compromising everything less the situation of their husbands, yoked under the Semitic yoke. Some of them are simply neurotic, with nothing but the worship of the golden calf in their hearts; this These are, in fact, exceptions. Generally speaking, the Austrian women have rallied to anti-Semitism and have worked with all their might to make him triumph.

Furthermore, let us add that the resistance movement Semitism is by no means confined within the boundaries of the Austrian capital; it extends throughout the Empire, and makes Significant progress has been made in all provinces. The Jewish actions having neglected no locality, the A reaction occurred everywhere. Alongside the bourgeoisie ruined, peasants driven from their huts, there are the anti-Semitic civil servants and schoolteachers. Also, Despite the strong pressure from above, it's no longer a crowd terrified trembling men, among whom no one dared formerly to have an opinion. They all rebelled; and the On voting days, they walk to the polls with a real discipline, to fulfill the duty imposed upon them the need to improve the lot of the people to which they belong. In these ranks, all spirit of servitude has disappeared. There, from Instead of degrading man, the Semitic scourge has record.

This had already happened on several occasions in the humanity's past is being renewed today with more vigor and animation. There is no need, in this book, to go back to ancient times to show that The Jewish threat has always existed, to see anti-Semitism develop in Greek cities and around the world Roman, in Asia Minor, in Egypt, in Cyrenaica and elsewhere; but when such diverse populations of origin and aspirations than those of the Austrian Empire unite before our eyes, by common agreement, with a view to In a struggle for life or death, one must necessarily 'to admit that such a fact has deep-seated causes that are worth hardly to be sought after, to be well known by the world threatened entirely.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 161

What happens, we ask, in the presence of a Also serious is all the declamations of the Jews, of their acolytes and their employees? The energetic resistance of Starving peoples give them a resounding rebuttal, of which Even the least attentive philanthropist should be moved.

It is easy to understand, therefore, the success that has been achieved in Let the Christian socialist idea come to pass. Placed on a terrain However well prepared, it was bound to germinate and prosper as she did. Some are criticized for Alongside this popular party, they are being intolerant. But to So what was the point of this famous tolerance which was formerly the watchword of the so-called liberator reformers
What fruits did it produce? What havoc did it wreak?
She did not cause any harm in Austria under the pretext of establishing equality.
between all citizens?

The Jew, we have sufficiently established in the lines which precede, does not include the doctrine of love of next. For him, the next one is exclusively his coreligionist. Anyone who is not Jewish is, in his eyes, a fellow Jew.
the enemy, and considering him in this way, he faithfully obeys the precepts from his sacred books. That is why, after Having been emancipated half a century ago, he did not benefit from the freedoms that were given to him only to turn around against their liberators and brutally oppress them.
As for being tolerant towards them, there is no
I thought about it for just a moment.

When we witnessed the despicable spectacles that took place taking place in Austria for forty years, one cannot to be astonished to see the fury of the people sometimes exceed

t

162 JEWISH AUSTRIA

all limits. Generous men grieve over this, but they feel powerless to oppose it; understanding the indigpopular nation, which they share, they feel that everything would compromise if the Jews believed they saw in their adversaries They were quick to notice the slightest sign of weakness. There was applause with enthusiasm for the work of emancipation accomplished at early nineteenth century for the chains of peoples. The bloody revolutions which were approved resulted in giving all classes of the Society of political rights. Let's not be too harsh on with regard to the acts of violence that are committed from time to time to another on this or that point of the Austrian empire; they do not are unfortunately only the fatal consequence of the protest raised by acts that are far more heinous, otherwise contrary to all divine laws and human.

During the year 1898, the Polish peasants, in a state of exaltation by the feeling of their suffering, exasperated especially Because of the exorbitant rise in the price of bread, they rushed to fairy Jews and mistreated a number of them. The authority intervened; martial law was proclaimed in thirty-three districts of the kingdom. The peasants were warned, to the sound of the drum, that all aggression of this nature would be immediately punished by death; and the executioner repaired to do its job. Justice has been served. fan that the law has placed at his disposal. We will not try not to describe the horrific scenes that saddened Neu-Sandec and its surroundings. The whole region was ablaze; the The flames of the fire reddened the entire horizon, illuminating-covering the scene of destruction. The houses, the inns especially were prey to the scourge; the shops run by the Jews were looted and their homes demolished. The army and the gendarmerie were making vain efforts to put an end to these scenes of savagery. One would truly have thought one was witnessing the revolt of the Negroes against the planters of America; and to Fundamentally, it was indeed the same cause producing the same effects. It was civil war in all its horror, with its most terrible consequences.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 163

Order has been restored. Many insurgents are fell dead in the fighting; others, in great numbers, were sentenced to forced labor by the courts; and The Jews, none of whom lost their lives, calmly resumed their nefarious work of plunder, usury and of infamy.

It has sometimes been said that with regard to the Jews From Austria, it is the small, the weak, the wretched who They pay for others. That's absolutely false. Everyone pays for his own account, given that there is not a single A Jew, among those to whom the people's anger is directed, who has not contributed, to the best of their ability, to the work of appropriation. The demands of the socialists Lists of Austrian Christians against the big exploiters who have become scandalously wealthy, apply also to the poor Jewish children who earned less, less benefited, but who nonetheless took part in the work of devastation. And if it is a matter of establishing fairly the responsibilities, it must be recognized that one of them falls to the other.

a large share went to members of the Austrian aristocracy who,
in their dealings with the powerful have always acted in order to encourage them, by accepting their lavish hospitality ity, and by seeking alliances with their daughters.

In the capital of Austria, there are many Jewish millionaires, almost all of whom left their village born with no other fortune than the price of a bunch of onions.
Most of them are originally from Poland or from Hungary. As for those known as the "great Jews," he
There are only three: Rothschild, Gutmann, and Reitzes.
The last two started their careers selling boxes of matches in the breweries of Vienna. Each one of them possesses more on its own than they possess together the 1012 convents (Xlæster) that exist in Austria.
Mr. Gutmann has amassed such considerable wealth—

164 JEWISH AUSTRIA.

rables by monopolizing trade in the capital coals. As for the Jew Reitzes, he owes his fame exclusively, to his stock market moves. A fourth Jew Austrian, who was also described as "great", the baron Hirsch is no longer of this world. He was the one who stripped the Türkiye is using its last resources, under the pretext of to build the Eastern railways. The Viennese in retained a sad memory, having suffered losses huge amounts on the purchase of securities known as lots Turks. It would nevertheless be unfair and childish, let us repeat, to They alone are responsible for the ruin of Pautche.
They certainly had their share; but their coreligions-naires in Cisleithan Austria, numbering 1,200,000,
They divided the rest among themselves and thus completed their work.

The Christian Socialist party began by to attack the big Jewish capitalists; he destroyed the first ring of this iron chain, and imposed at the same time Silence amidst the triumphant cries of the so-called liberal newspapers in reality Judeocratic. But his didn't stop there.

benevolent action. To do useful work, he had to go further. The more generous and truthful we had been, in fact—the more liberal they were towards the Jews, the more they became audacious, insolent, and brutally despotic. What Seeing this, the anti-Semites had no other choice. than resorting to drastic measures. Already, at the Council municipal authorities in Vienna, anti-Semites have a ma- a number that reaches almost two-thirds; they lack Just a few more votes to become the absolute masters of This assembly. But also the scenes that repeat themselves. almost every day at Vienna City Hall Ln any description. Insults are no longer enough for the advers- irreconcilable forces that are present; one in descended into a brawl. In parliament, the prevailing mood is the same, and the rhetoric of anti-Semites is just as violent; but acts of violence are less frequent. Members of Parliament are reserving all their passion, all their ardor, for conflicts between nationalities. There is no need, moreover, neither from the parliamentary gallery nor from the chamber of City Council meetings to propagate the doctrine anti-Semitic. The indictments against the Jews are given also free career in public meetings, where eloquent agitators, accustomed to stirring up crowds, preach the gospel of Redemption. It is true that they are often troubled, in the middle of their speeches, by linva- the sion of the socialists who, obeying a slogan, intro- they go into the meeting rooms to bring the disorder- Dr. But they rarely let themselves be seriously disturbed. and do not ultimately prevail.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 165

Moreover, anti-Semitic writings are being published in Vienna. of all kinds. In the most diverse forms, this literature penetrates to the deepest layers no to convince her that the company has the absolute right to repudiate those who are harmful to his intellectual, moral or material interests. In no country _of the world, without question, the interpretations of the Talmud are not placed, as much as in Austria, under the eyes of the public and subject to its judgment. The learned professor- Sister Rohling, who gave Féenule in this respect, had some numerous and very skilled disciples. There is more. All anti- A somewhat literate Austrian Semite knows that there are two The Talmud, both the Babylonian and Jerusalem Talmuds, and that the Israelite doctrine can be taught in two ways, one gentler and more humane, the other harder and more severe. The Babylonian Talmud, as is well known, originates from from Rabbi Aschi, rector at the school of Sora, on the Euphrates.

The fervor with which several scholars have debated on Talmudic doctrines led them to take care of everything especially the rites according to which the Jews proceed—would resort to human sacrifices to employ their religious uses of the blood of young Christians. In support of this thesis, which is propagated in numerous writings, and which has been developed in large volumes, the disciples of the doctor Rohling cites as evidence what seems to them conclusive:

166 = JEWISH AUSTRIA

1) statements made in court by Jews accused of murders, including murders of children born for religious purposes, and who have confessed the acts they were accused of;

2) the voluntary revelations of Jewish rabbis, converts to Christianity;

3) historical documents;

4) Finally, the testimonies that the tradition.

The propaganda carried out using these accusations to It bore fruit. As Passover approached, the parents Christians watch over their children; and many servants, frightened by the prospect of such sacrifices Fices prefer to brave misery, even hunger, rather the possibility of entering service among Jews. However, in Despite all the precautions taken, it often happened that Christian children disappeared in Poe's Passover. Is it really certain that it was the Jews who... abducted? Could we say that these are not overzealous anti-Semites who make them disappear temporarily—in order to make the infanticide theory plausible committed by Hebrews? Certainly, when one knows the religious fanaticism among Orthodox Jews makes one feel inclined to grant to the facts alleged by Dr. Rohling, his disciples and his predecessors, if not a complete faith and absolute, or at least the benefit of the doubt. But, we must say it frankly, the accusation seems to us so monstrous that, for our part, we refuse to believe it is factually founded.

Based on all the above, it is easy to understand the animosity that reigns in Austria against the Jews. best patriots, the most educated and the most eminent figures absolutely share these hostile sentiments. No amount of reasoning can dissuade them. Hatred against the Jews, as it exists in Austria, and the aver-

JEWISH AUSTRIA 167

the treatment they receive in other countries is sad episodes of the struggle for life. But, by its very nature, A struggle of this kind is the most ardent, the most relentless. that can be conceived. Those who pursue it are not very concerned about the choice of means, but only of their effectiveness. And as long as the need for a A radical change in the situation is taking place urgently To feel it, we must go all the way. Half- These measures would achieve nothing, would remedy nothing. Public opinion understands this; once it is raised, it will not stop. She knows that to fight effectively- the corruption of morals and the moral disorder which The country is suffering; it is the perpetrators of this evil who must be held accountable to take. If it were not so, the genius of evil, favored through the indifference of the citizens, he would continue his orgies. However, This is one of those forms of degradation that is tantamount to death, and against which the will of the people protests. men who have taken the lead in the anti- movement Semites became the idol of the population; their instruction The instructions are followed with promising punctuality. On the side of Mayor Dr. Lueger, let us mention the prince Alois Lichtenstein, Doctors Pattai and Gessmann, Psenner, Canon Scheicher and Messrs. Vergani, Gregorig, Schneider, Schlesinger and the scholar Deckert. HAS 'these men who are vigorously at the head of the The movement has attracted the support of numerous prominent figures. members of parliament and private individuals, that, by common agreement, the people's votes have placed them in the forefront of the scrum; you wanted to join in, to the extent of your forces, at the work of repair. In a vigorous effort,

The soul of the people is trying to pull itself together. It is asserting itself as alive and seeks to rebuild the network of vital forces if necessary for the future of the country.

However, a regrettable split occurred within this valiant resistance party. Some of those who had rallied to it were unable to remain loyal to the initial program. Politics got involved; the questions—nationality requirements, which complicate everything in Austria, have found in popular discontent an element favorable to their views. Many anti-Semites have declared highly that, in their opinion, it was the Jewish race that was needed to fight, and not the Israelite religion. The baptismal fonts—They say that the ailments have nothing to do with the movement. anti-Semite. The Jew, even when he abjures and is baptized, He remains Jewish. Judaism and the customs it entails. — That is the opinion of a fraction radical known in Vienna as Rassen Antisemite.

168 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Many dissidents did not stop there. For political reasons led to the split that occurred took on a completely different significance. The Christian socialists have preserved, in the heat of the struggle, with more or less devotion, the traditions of Austrian patriotism, based on loyalty to the ruling house. The national-Germans, on the other hand, have ostentatiously detached. Finding the opportune moment to spread out their aims, previously kept secret, were brought to light; they are not initially joined the anti-Jewish league only to try to rally all the discontented under the Germanic banner. This is the pace that it took, particularly from the very first hour. Mr. Schœnerer, the leader of the German nationalists. The anti-Semites soon realized that they were marching were fighting, unwittingly, under the flag of Great Britain. United Germany, alongside the Austrian separatists. 'Many of them, having noticed this mistake, re-linked themselves to the Christian socialists and abandoned frankly the nationalists of the Schœnerer school. But of new recruits came to replace them, and so it was formed this noisy, turbulent party of German nationalists, whose intransigence makes its functioning impossible of parliamentarism and gradually brings Austria back to the the need for a dictatorship. These anti-Semites, who are before All supporters of Pan-Germanism adopted the following motto:

"Through the purity of the race, to unity."

JEWISH AUSTRIA | 169

The split thus established within the large party of the protest, moreover, only served to make things narrower and more tightened the formidable circle of animosities against the Israelite people. The dissidents are not showing themselves at all. embarrassed when they are criticized for having changed their primitive opinion. On the contrary, they respond emphatically.

A loyal man honors himself by confessing without shame and without his change of opinion. To get out of this mess-They try to shift the responsibility onto the rulers.
the extent of the misdeeds committed by the Jews. "You have favored – they say – by not opposing you from the outset their exploits begin. Silence always has a bit of an effect.
of acquiescence.

The anti-Semitism of the pan-Germanic Austrians did not Moreover, it differs from the doctrines of pure anti-Semitism that they do not regret seeing the Jews at all to bring disorder to the state. This confusion benefits their views. We see them everywhere acting in concert with the revolutionary troublemakers, especially in the countries where Jews managed to quickly reach the material prosperity. They are even accused, rightly or wrongly, of material prosperity. reason, to make a pact with the Jews to hasten the triumph of their cause.

In any case, anti-Semitism is everywhere.
the strength of its expansion, and the number of its members It's growing bigger every day. So far, however, it hasn't achieved decisive results. He simply stemmed the tide.
the influence of the Jews and made their stay in Austria little pleasant. But he hasn't yet managed to start.
They seriously consider their position. Many people throughout In other circumstances, they proudly express their ideas and protesting their independence, they cannot evade to a veritable movement of terror that it is a matter of affirming openly declared this independence from the Jews.
far from it, despite all the efforts already tempted, that we touch the implementation of the program anti-Semite: "Destruction of Jewish influence in all the phases of social life. One could even say that, as a result of the incidents caused by the struggle of the nationalists In terms of factors, the ground gained has been partly lost again.

The strangest thing about this situation is that the Jews, despite the undeniable domination they operate throughout Austria, despite the monopolies which They seized, and are still complaining about, in their advertising bodies, persecutions which they claim to be victims. One of them had the incredible audacity to say, Just recently, it was revealed that Jews cannot content to enjoy the material possessions they have acquired. "He They still need the respect of the people around them.

In the struggle that has been ongoing for some twenty years, the The dilemma clearly arises as follows: Either these are the Aryans who must imprison their oppressors in ghettos like in the Middle Ages, or perhaps they are the ones who create them. will be confined by the Semites. Equality of situation does not It cannot exist between Jews and Christians; experience has shown this. demonstrated. When one finds oneself at the edge of a precipice, this It would be an act of madness or recklessness to walk in Before. Retreating is the only way out. Likewise When you've made a mistake, there's no room for hesitation; you must repair as quickly as possible the harm one has caused oneself- same and to others.

How to definitively resolve the Jewish question in Austria? That's the major difficulty of the current era. Many solutions have been proposed. Some of them are not Christian enough, the one that is sponsored by the Deputy Schneider, for example, and his fierce supporters rents. Voices are being raised recommending that the question in conjunction with oriental problems, and To repatriate the Israelites to the land they inhabited formerly. To this race, and to it alone, would then belong the care to demonstrate that she can live her own life. Naturally, to arrive at such a re- As a result, a prior agreement was reached between all the major powers.

sessions, between all European states. Will we manage to realize this agreement, and to set aside, for the good of Humanity, all the rivalries of interests? Who would dare To assert this? We have already been able to achieve results on various points international agreements. Will this be possible in a circumstance- Is the reprimand also that serious?

Opinion is almost unanimous among the anti-Semites, to be considered as an essential condition and paramount to the emancipation of Christians in Austria, enslaved today, the fulfillment of the two reforms following:

1) Absolute prohibition against all foreign Jews entering in the country;

2) voting on special legislation for those who are there already established. These are the two fundamental points of anti-Semitic program; and one is generally in agreement with Ed admitted that nothing serious could be done until they are achieved. Depriving Jews of equality rights granted to them in 1848, subjecting them to a special tax, abolish the Grain Exchange, prohibit cartel associations, excluding Jews from all. public sector jobs and all newspapers, do not admit them in higher education institutions than in a number proportional to total number they represent in relation to the population Austrian, such should be the basis of the new legislation, demanded by anti-Semites, as the only capable of resolving the issue.

The Jews, it must be said, are not very frightened by this person-prospect whose realization does not seem to them to be next. Mr. Hertzka, who sincerely acknowledges The impossibility of complete assimilation between Christians and Jews, argued in a heavily documented book due to a voluntary exodus of his coreligionists of Austria. His eloquent appeal found few adherents, even among Zionists. Jews prefer to rely on the arguments put forward in their favor outside of Austria. They have full confidence in the longevity of their domination and rely above all on the valuable support of Freemasonry and socialism.

?. It is about Theodor Herzl and his book Der Judenstaat, Versuch einer modernen Lösung der Judenfrage (The Jewish State) 1896. (Note Samizdat).

PLEAS FOR THE JEWS

The vehement attacks they are subjected to by anti-Semites could not leave the Jews indifferent-ments. Their silence could have been taken as an admission; however, To admit guilt would have been to voluntarily renounce the ascendancy they gained in the Austrian monarchy. Consequently, they entrusted the powerful organs of advertising which they have the task of energetically repelling they are responding to the reproaches leveled against them from all sides; and These newspapers most often resort to means seditious individuals attacking under the pretext of self-defense. the language they use every day is not only in with a view, in effect, to facilitate and continue Rs of absorption-Jewish organization; it tends above all to cast odious light on the organizations resistance movements, which are being attacked with the greatest violence in long and ardent diatribes.

This way of arguing, it must be acknowledged, to has had very little effect so far. The convictions are too pronounced on both sides to be likely to change. However, some Christians have been encountered who tried, unsuccessfully, to defend the Jews. Perhaps they were impressed by the mood combative in the newspapers in question. Probably also did they tremble before the permanent threat of the state of seat, as it was established in Galicia, to give a terrifying example.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 173

It is therefore understandable that there is hesitation in resorting to acts of violence that would be so harshly repressed; but from there to to allow himself to be convinced by the arguments of the Jewish press, he

It's a long way. Those on which cosmopolitans insist Moreover, they do not stray from the realm of banalities.
"The Jews – we are told in particular – are after all human beings; but, whatever the men may be, it is necessary
"try to live with them." There is undeniably something true in this philosophy of the semiism; only it has the disadvantage of not responding to Nothing. No one is thinking of inaugurating anything with regard to the Jews.
cannibalistic habits; they are simply asked not to torment others, not to exploit them with So much ferocity.

Perhaps we could add, in support of this argument-
The fact that Jews play a role in our modern society role determined by the secret designs of the Providence. Some fish farmers, for example, put in their pike ponds in a determined proportion, 8 to about 10%, so that they hunt down the other peas sons, carp and trout, and thus keep them in a permanent state of agitation, of movement essential to any conservation. It is, in fact, demonstrated by experience-only that, in ponds not stocked with pike, the Carp and trout lose all liveliness and reach a such a state of torpor that they even forget the law of the Reproduction. Their flesh is not edible. Who knows?
Perhaps the Jews fulfill the role in the world pike in the ponds. They certainly make a living from it.
task.

No one, moreover, thinks of disputing that, among Austrian Jews, one encounters sincere menimbued with humanitarian principles, and practicing without the slightest ulterior motive, all the manly virtues that are the glory of honest peoples, of populations worthy of Respect. But it has been observed, through centuries of experience, that among the Jews, the bad tendencies, the tastes of

174 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Plunder and exploitation are the norm, while among Christians, or rather, among all who is not Jewish, on the contrary, they are only found in a way exceptional. One could even say that the exceptions would be even rarer if contact with Jews did not It was not becoming contagious. Only those could renounce their characteristic ideas and habits which have never had any dealings with them.

One of the inherent traits of the Jewish character is, in particular to try to circumvent the laws, to skirt the Code, in a way to be able to commit all kinds of misdeeds with impunity. One However, they object, in their defense, that the criminal laws, like the laws, i.e., in Austria, are applicable to all citizens, whoever they may be, without distinction of caste, of religion or nationality. How then – he adds – could they commit all the acts they are told to commit? close, without falling foul of criminal law? Those Those who speak in this way willfully forget skill. however notorious, with which some men escaped exposed to all dangers. How can we expect to make people accept, by anyone who reflects, that the Jews, accustomed to walking without being moved by the sight of corpses, in order to achieve their goal, would be stopped by the inserted paragraphs in a criminal law? For them, nine times out of ten, that's the cunning prevails; and that is precisely what... allows one to triumphantly point out that the statis- Austrian law, in criminal matters, is of no consequence to them. unfavorable situation. From these statistics they make a large number display; and yet, despite all they put on skill to avoid being taken in cute the teachers- the changes that result from these official tables are "not as conclusive as they claim."

Without a doubt, the statistical data seem sometimes indicate that the number of Jews condemned for crimes have an average lower rate than the name- the Christians. But the difference is minimal; it is a matter of an infinitesimal fraction of one percent. Still not

JEWISH AUSTRIA 175

It doesn't produce it every year. There are years when the proportion is to their disadvantage, in such conditions minimal, it is true, than in the opposite case. One can say that the balance is established, at this point, between Jews and Christians, on the same basis as the number for each of the races in the total amount of the Austrian population. But This conclusion does not allow us to formulate a moral lesson. definitive; it has only very limited value. Each knows, indeed (and this is one of the most characteristic traits) of our deceitful civilization), that the crimes of lèse- humanity, in its most diverse forms, escapes, by their very continuity, to the action of the legislator. They are precisely the most heinous misdeeds which are not struck by the vengeful hand of Justice.

Another consideration, which is likely to diminish particularly the satisfaction shown by the Jews in the presence of prison statistics is drawn from elsewhere of the classification of punishable acts and how they are defined by law. The reprehensible acts committed most often, their motive is fraud. the acquisition of another's property through illicit means; among those who are committed by Christians, to On the contrary, it is necessary to take into account, in a human. In certain Cisleithan provinces, in the Upper and Lower Austria, for example, it is not uncommon to see all the young men of a village translated before the courts for punches or blows knives exchanged in a room or at the end of a fair – scenes of violence that have their epilogue before the courts. All these young people are condemned. condemned for crimes. But, in good conscience, their guilt – can overall bility be compared to that of a single bankrupt who ruined thousands of people in abusing their trust? Yet that's what it leads to. A comparative study of statistics. What conclusions can be drawn? Can we seriously draw any conclusions from this?

A fairly high percentage of mistakes are caused by passions.

176 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Along the same lines, it should not be forgotten that 69% of common crimes are caused by the misery, and that, as a result of the circumstances we have As indicated, this determining cause is much more More common among Christians than among Jews. Again It is worth noting that the violations of the law crimes committed by Jews most often relate to questions monetary transactions, and constitute acts that the Codes Austrians refer to them as misdemeanors (Vergehen), not crimes. Moreover, in a country such as Austria, where the race Israelite exercised an undeniable supremacy, where justice so easily puts itself at the service of politics, legislation lends itself to anything when those in power know how to use it with a real skill.

These are considerations that must be taken into account.

and yet the Jews take great care to set aside when they flaunt prison statistics. We cannot go into a multitude of details here which escape—most of these fall within our competence; however, we see documents being invoked which, in our opinions, cannot serve as convincing evidence, it is not It's not pointless to discuss them. One of the most prominent authors Lombroso is a famous figure among those who have dealt with these subjects. is particularly sympathetic to the children of Israel. But, while Lombroso put forward many original ideas, he He could never be considered a profound thinker. The observations he made were sometimes very superficial and dictated by theories at least debatable. For him, as for a number of Compared to its counterparts, criminology relies on physical signs. siques. He is of the opinion that genius, madness and trends criminals have mysterious links that connect them to a similar cause, which he calls Aebeneration. It is Perhaps very ingenious and very learned. But what conclusion—to draw from this for or against a category of men entirely? Lombroso often presents facts of which he does not draw any conclusions; and, on the other hand, it happens to him sometimes to formulate conclusions that are not based on | no specific facts.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 177

It is not only in the field of criminal law that The Jews intend to triumph. They readily claim all sorts of virtues, foremost among which they They place their attachment to family life on it. It is undeniable. that one finds more family intimacy in their home than in us. But the explanation is quite simple. The attitude hostile attitude they adopt towards the rest of humanity, and the aversion inspired by such an attitude, the constraints naturally tend to look within their own homes for a refuge, a necessary compensation. Intimacy within The house helps them cope with the enmity they provoke. outside.

To defend their cause, the Austrian Jews invoked and still consider the financial services they have provided to Austria. They emphasize the pioneering work they have accomplished when all economic resources were lacking; they insist on the fact that it was they who founded Austrian credit, demonstrating in this circumstances of true courage due to the lack of the prestige that Austria then enjoyed abroad. They they add that even today they support with all their to foster initiative and industrial enterprises. That's right, but a thousand voices are rising up at once for their to reply that it is much more in their personal interest that in the country where they made all these efforts and They completed all this work. They profited more from it than the general population of Austrian citizens. How then Should they be grateful to them in the slightest?

Anti-Semitism may not have such powerful roots, if there were no serious reasons to explain it and the justify. Who then buys the houses and furniture of the after having ruined them? Who then drives the peasant out of To his fathers' cottage? Who excites the young men to the Debauchery? Who commits fraudulent bankruptcies? Who deprives the worker of the benefits of his labor? Who possesses sede has the talent to capitalize on political passions to To fulfill one's own desires and satisfy one's interests? Who does? Stock market crashes? Who, after all, dreams of disorder and anarchy and pushes the parties to tear each other apart on all fronts The means? The Jew, always the Jew, whom we find wherever there is difficulty in doing so.

178: JEWISH AUSTRIA

He boasts of having founded the Austrian state credit system. But what dignity has he left to those who govern? Who doesn't remembers that Monsieur de Plener, taking possession from the Ministry of Finance, felt obliged to address Mr. Rothschild's installation visit? If the Austrian state has credit, the taxpayers of this state have become in A large part of them were slaves, the wage laborers of the Jews. They are reduced to begging in their own cities, in their own homes, in their furrows, the right to live. Moreover, if the Jews have succeeded in restoring Austria's creditworthiness, that is because the The ever-increasing mass of available capital

They are looking for a job everywhere. Since their founding, the Consolidated English stocks rose by about twenty percent. German annuities of sixteen percent, annuities Austrian women make up fifteen to twenty percent. The latter They were simply following the universal trend. He produced, in the field of movable assets, a enormous transformation in one: relatively very short time short. Circumstances changed rapidly: the Capital, enlarged by labor, struggles in a way against himself.

But what does the Austrian people gain from this? What profit? Has the population experienced this? The country is located in a state of exhaustion that justifies the most serious fears. And, in this mass of ruined lives, in the midst of all These starving men, the Jews, are growing old, surrounded by everything what makes a man happy and healthy, of all that which mainly contributes to doubling his arrogance. The Jews "Austrians, who avoid any regular work in the factories, live much longer than the Christians. The average life expectancy in Austria is for Christians aged twenty-six, and for Jews of thirty-six. The fundamental idea, innate in all Jews and deeply rooted in them, that they are part of the chosen people of God, this conviction that they are more than men, gives them a boldness with the help of which they dazzle short-sighted people. But that's also what has ended up provoking so much hatred. The Austrians have not could not, in the long run, bear the contempt shown to them by treating them as inferior beings.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 179

At socialist congresses, the Jews and their acolytes loudly proclaim that anti-Semitism is only one of the forms of reaction. "It suffices to be convinced of this – they say–to observe that, wherever it occurs, antisemitism has exclusively clerical origins and feudal." Starting from there, and while energetically pushing back the racial war waged against the Jews, they proclaim the existence of an exploiting class and an exploited class; then they conclude that class struggle is necessary. This is of a rather loose logic, since the exploiting classes are those who get rich without working, and whose Jews are the main representatives. It's a terrible

It is a lie to represent the anti-Semitic movement.
as not being directed against the most dangerous and the the most insatiable exploiters. In the presence of what has what happened in Austria, and what happens there every day, That's denying the obvious.

It is legitimate to be surprised that this obvious fact is sometimes contested. What illusions, it is true, do they indulge in Those who have the courage to express such ideas! "The the day when the Jew will resign himself – they say – to being nothing more than a
A man like us, he will become our brother. Let us open– Let us embrace him; let us realize, in all its truth, social equality and policy proclaimed by law, let us embrace the Jew for Let us merge with him. Let us enrich ourselves with his qualities. and let's put an end to the race war. Anti-Semitism has not never been to the countries where it has a meaning what–

180 JEWISH AUSTRIA

conch shell, something other than the weapon of a political party or the
the result of a poor economic situation."

This is how those who believe in the Reconciliation of races. How the Jews must laugh at What a kind heart they have reading such declamations! They love However, to be judged in this way. But the truth is quite different. The Jew, whatever he does, cannot change his nature; and just as Negroes cannot to bleach the color of their skin, it cannot meta– to transform in such a way as to adopt the way of thinking, of acting and to feel like an Aryan.

The Judeophile Austrians are divided into several categories. The largest is that of the workers socialists, used to blindly following those who shout the stronger. To them come all those who AR to take by sentences. A third category consists of timid and fearful people, who do not dare to resist the attacks and treachery of Israel, or who, not yet knowing for themselves the dangers of Judaism, they think they don't need to worry about it.

per. They act in this like someone who believes they have There's nothing to fear from the fire, because it's only declared in the next street. Finally come the people without con– science that people have embraced for money or sinecures,

...to whom a personal advantage was suggested. The clan the Judeophiles are complemented by the fraction of men of good faith, sincerely imbued with the sentiments of the human solidarity.

So that their combined efforts can lead to a
As a result, in order for anti-Semitism to disappear in Austria, First and foremost, Jews must renounce hatred.
the senseless animosity that drives them against all those who do not support them
They don't resemble each other; they would have to resign themselves to respecting the laws of nature prohibiting usury, the abuse of ee Theft, fraud. If they refuse to recognize the law of Christ, let them at least renounce following the regulations.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 181

rabbinical to return to the teachings of. mosaicism. Then, but only then, will they cease to be a danger to Christian peoples, a veritable scourge for the nations that gave them asylum and granted them citizens' rights.

WILL THE JEWS BE THE MASTERS OF EUROPE?

It pleased the Semites, in their ceaseless agitations, to They undermined the foundations of the old society. They created everything pieces the social question and posed it from its aspect the more frightening. Judaism is currently working with so much with such strength and such fervor, he strives to imprint with such zeal for a new direction for modern civilization, that certain social strata are gradually allowing themselves to be penetrated to unconsciously enter through his mind. We are witnessing a struggle deaf between two currents, cha of order, based on the Christian morals, and that of an upheaval which would confront the world with the unknown. Indeed, one can, to consider the solution in two different ways social question: either through progressive reform and peaceful through preventive legislation, either by revolution. Who will prevail, from the peaceful of humanity or of the rise of the forces of evil, causing bloody, endless orgies?

Socialism, as it is taking shape today in the horizon of human destinies, is, under certain reports, that a skillful combination of rabbi- precepts niques, aspirations that the Talmud bequeathed to those who professing their beliefs. The Jewish community felt threatened. created by the disclosure of his favorite doctrines, until then kept secret; she felt threatened in her dominion tion, in its riches, perhaps even in its existence. She sought a diversion by directing indiscomplaints against property in general and the Popular demands. Divide and rule.

182 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Unleashing passions against the nobility, the clergy and the Christian bourgeoisie, striving to demonstrate to what extent The distribution of wealth is unequal; to present it thus The Jewish woman, as if forming only one ring in the chain of social inequities: therein lies the tactic of socialism Jewish. Quite naturally, he adopted, on this occasion, of the spirit of domination tending to realize the old prophecies that foretold the reign of Israel. This is how that the Jews, in order to achieve their ends, were led to to seek in the blinded, fanatical masses, a counter-weight to the undeniable power of the Christian spirit. It is as well as they attempted to fight against the organization of the State, as it had been constituted by the experience of centuries. That nations tear each other apart, that is the dream of A Jew who wants to bring about a social cataclysm. By... linking it to social democracy, he believed that this was the that he would best find his way, and that with his help he would more surely achieve world domination. This psychological overview contains the central idea which animates and directs today's most formidable revolutionaries tionaires.

The question that arises can therefore be formulated in these terms. terms: will the Jews become the masters of Europe? For those who know, for those who think, the scenes which we are witnessing takes on a completely different meaning. when they appear in their true light, with their true physiognomy.

Let's admit it, moreover; the political circumstances ticks and social issues in the midst of which the old woman struggles

Europe offers Jews unparalleled means of action. The battleground seems to have been prepared specifically for them in the most favorable conditions. Also, with the with the resources they have at their disposal, do they easily become the masters of the situation. The Israelite Alliance is watching; it has in all the countries of the agencies and branches that embrace the The entire Earth is contained within a tightly woven network. The influence- The power of this wonderful organization is so great health that "the Alliance" is informed of the slightest incidents which occur, as soon as they can have for her a of no interest.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 183

In short, overall, the situation is such that one one of the most moderate Jews in Vienna, Dr. Louis Ernst did not hesitate to write verbatim, in a a brochure which, incidentally, was not confiscated: "The Jews, If they can stay united, they are strong enough. so that no one can stop them from ruining the states, to stop trade, to suspend all affairs; and, as they are spread over the whole surface of the globe, they can cast such a [force] on any state whatsoever The discrediting of Re absolutely hampered his actions. the most powerful governments would not be in a situation where they could resist for twenty-four hours if they had to... "Them, the entire Jewish race."

In the face of such claims, which have not been Having been denied, isn't it too easy to understand the audacity and the arrogance of some members of the community Israelite? Let us reflect on the effect that should to produce such situation reports that proclaim to the

He of civilized nations the omnipotence of the Jews to with regard to the strongest states, which are however tolerated. Then, let us remember, when reading this declaration- war ration so thinly disguised that the Catholic Church, identified as the principal enemy of the Jews, was at On the contrary, throughout the Middle Ages their only protection- trice, alone saved them more than once from a complete extermination.

Even today, one is certain to encounter against the resistance of the Holy See and to undermine its traditions when one places oneself, in the fight against the Judaism, on the terrain of racial diversity. The leaders of the Church resolutely condemn the Israelite doctrines;

184 JEWISH AUSTRIA

But they always protested against race wars.
It is nonetheless true, however, that in all writings emanating from the Jews, that they enter into the domain of the literature proper, or in the field of journalism On a daily basis, we constantly see the tendency to stifling Christianity in order to put Judaism at First plan. The instinct for domination is so strong in the children of Israel whom he makes forget the Island They remember the services rendered. They think of nothing else but to remove anything that might hinder them.

Why, indeed, these continuous attacks against the regenerative principles of the Christian religion, why these attacks on civil authority and much more to militarism, why these continual incitements directed at-seized upon the working classes against the upper echelons of the society? All of this, of course, is part of a plan.
pre-designed. It's a system cleverly designed for to replace the reign of religious ideas with the reign of money, conservative social foundations. The Jews set fire to the house, hoping that in the midst of the genocidal conflagration a new order of things would emerge, and that they would be the only ones to benefit from it.

Their reasoning is that of all revolutions.
naires: "Let's first overturn what exists; we will see after." Their attitude towards parties in Austria is inspired by the same point of view. The goal doesn't matter.
Finally, the program, the ideal of the parties. What interests them,
The question is whether or not they can derive any benefit from it.
any. They also speculate on this fact, noted by a long experience, that moral epidemics have have always been more contagious than epidemics physical, and have always developed much more quickly.

Whether one traces the history of Freemasonry in Austria, from 1743 to the present day. The alliance between the Freemasons

JEWISH AUSTRIA 185

And the Jews asserted themselves from the beginning. It was the Jews who played, from the very beginning, the leading role in the Freemasonry, as well as in false liberalism who is its ally. When will the hour of the ordeal arrive? supreme, when the fruit is ripe, the people of Israel will find—will undoubtedly be a way to assert its unity more than ever racial identity. Today's freethinking Jews have already warned that, for them too, at the decisive moment, the The lessons of the Talmud will be sacred. But let them take from them Keep watch. Joshua may not appear again then.

to stop, not this time the sun's movement, but fueled by the anger of the people.

This is, as everyone knows, the belief in the coming of a Messiah who especially separates Israelite beliefs from Christian doctrines. Not having wished to confess the divinity In the unity of Christ, they wait, as they waited already there Two thousand years ago, a redeemer who shouldn't, moreover, to come only for them and to accomplish the work of salvation only to their profit. What they hope for, what they believe they owe Waiting is the gift of a messianic empire over the Earth.

In this empire, they would naturally be the masters: and all the “impure” peoples, that is, non-Jewish peoples, their would be subject. That is how they understand and explain the prophecies. In their willful blindness—By remaining silent, they forget that everything that was predicted long ago by The prophecies of the prophets were fulfilled with the coming of Christ. refuse to believe it, and persist in waiting for “the real Messiah.” This belief in the appearance of a man powerful, which would place them on a pedestal, sustains their hope and gives them confidence in the future. While waiting—Meanwhile, they are trying to prepare the way for their Messiah by striving to clear the ground.

The people of Israel, who pride themselves on being “the chosen people”, employs peculiar methods to justify the favor of which he was the subject at a certain time. After a past of four thousand years ago, he now stands at the head of the silver aristocracy, the golden International, and at the same time the time of the Red International. How to explain this A strange coincidence? Is there any connection? between the two things? What does this behavior mean? Double understanding? As Mr. points out Cheliel in a scholarly dissertation on mosaicism at Throughout the ages and in modern times, there is a striking contradiction.

186 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Gold International strives to amass wealth incalculable. She wants neither health nor intellectual culture. that for her alone. There is no kindness of heart. question.

The Red International, on the contrary, proposes to but well-being, education and health for all world; she wants to raise the masses to the level from other classes: his point of view is also materialistic in an exclusively materialistic way.

The incompatibility of interests in order to achieve the goal Finally, the true reality, we glimpse it with an obvious clarity: the selfishness of some, the vilest of all passions, is the organization's most active solvent social; philanthropy towards others is the antithesis of this bestial vice.

If, therefore, the two Internationals were to succeed in to agree, if the one we initially designated under the name "silver aristocracy" could be used the Red International to achieve its goal; if, in In other words, it was possible for him, by relying on the working classes, to actually make eight million of Jews, the masters of the world, the logic of events indicates too clearly that the joy and triumph of Israel would only be short-lived.

History demonstrates, in fact, how the peoples, in their forward pushes, agree to do

JEWISH AUSTRIA 187

to pull the chariot that carries their destinies out of the rut, and that usurping hands or would attempt to embed—ber. The election of a Jew as president of the "United States "of Europe" which the Austrian Jews speak of is not a a fairly probable eventuality, but neither imminent enough for that Even the most vigilant anti-Semite has reason to be outraged.
The danger lies elsewhere. The Jew wants to become master of the world. He aspires to domination. An ambition of this genre in ancient Greece or in Rome of the time
The old ways led straight to exile. The most
The proud and strongest among them had to leave for a distant place, as soon as that they were suspected of aspiring to domination.

Jews have always been seen abusing their power, with regard to... other men, of what they believe to be their rights, and we live in an era where the absence of ideas general, the lack of a spirit of truth, lead to The unleashing of self-interest. The duels.
Unfortunately, these demented selfishnesses have nothing left.
that might surprise us. But we have the right to be astonished when one sees with what strange indifference the governments allow such theories to take root in the minds of the people. Under the pretext of fighting for the progress of humanity, and under the guise of progress in technical sciences, the Jews continue with their their usual tenacity, the work of destruction they have company. They are constituted, vis-à-vis the Christians, at the state of irreconcilable and bitter enemies who do not think than to destroy their faith, to corrupt their morals, to suck the blood of the people, in order to reduce them to misery, to dominate them more easily afterwards and turn them into legions of helots. They embark on this path under the cover of the socialist movement... The heart bleeds at the sight of this enormous lie.

The State's duty is to ensure that development
'The development of intellectual faculties does not enter into a contradiction with the destinies of humanity. It is, for him, at once, a moral duty and a political duty; it does not could not escape either one or the other. The governors initiatives, which ultimately have the same interest as the people, They should realize this in due course. Experience taught them that it is not through harsh measures, to with the help of laws that one can annihilate what is legitimate and truly grounded in the aspirations of the democracy. They cannot be eliminated any more than the Rome under the Caesars could not annihilate Christianity by surrendering Christians to wild beasts. As for the program absolutely insane, practically unworkable by the party socialist and its Jewish leaders, one cannot oppose it in too forceful a manner. It would achieve nothing less than In effect, it amounts to a veritable human slaughter. This is a of these monstrous attempts that conscience condemns it with genuine horror.

The Jewish race that has outlived so many vanished peoples from the surface of the world without leaving any trace, it-poses today, for almost all, of degenerates who are, deep down, truly ill. Their moral state is characterized especially by an exclusive feeling of all the others, through a thought constantly focused towards the same concerns. The spirit of gain, the desire for Domination drives away all other thoughts from their intelligence. any other affection, which is, as we know, the sign characteristic of an obsessive idea. Secondary disturbances issues that emerge from it, such as the obscene passion for Young Christian girls, cruelty towards the poor, a vindictive spirit, are episodic symptoms of their morbid state. The efforts made to put the hand on the whole world, to make themselves masters of Europe, likewise, emerges from this background, and completes all the manifestations of degeneration moral.

The Jews disregard the warnings which come to them from all sides. The storm sometimes rumbles long before it erupted. Austria, the only country they had managed to dominate completely, could not resist their contact; it is in complete disintegration. However the a reaction occurs. It only took a certain number courageous men, devoted to the great cause of humanity, show these unfortunate peoples the way salvation so that they feel the energy to shake their torpor and to march valiantly towards deliverance. The A resurgence of nationalist sentiment, coinciding with the revolt against the oppression from which the country has suffered for so long For a long time, it will complete their journey towards more destinies. prosperous.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 189

After Austria, will France be the next to appear?
as the designated victim of rabbinic maxims?
Is this the story of our beautiful France that has been written in letters of fire in the annals of the monarchy of Habsburg? Most of the Jews one encounters in The streets of Paris are named after Austrian or Jewish types. Polish. The number of these invaders of a new kind increases constantly; and, what no one would have They found it possible not long ago. a way to incite a part of the nation against the army emerging from its bowels. It's too easy to forget what Popular sentiment has understood this so well, namely that the Disorganization of the army would be the end of France. But This nefarious work—let us hope—will not be accomplished. to the very end. France will recover in due course under the benevolent impulse of all those who consider as a sacred duty to enlighten public opinion. If Austria, From the very beginning of the Jewish invasion, he had had, to guide himself on the terrain of resistance, such eloquent writers, As patriotic as the French anti-Semites, she does not... would not today offer the sad spectacle of 38 million Christians absorbed by a diligent effort to feed or Enriching 2 million unemployed Jews. That's what which gives us hope that the French will not be reduced to the same fate as the Austrians.

The social destiny of European peoples depends, it seems, depending on the attitude Russia will take

190 JEWISH AUSTRIA

in the Jewish question. The number of Jews residing in Russia's figure is over 4.5 million, or approximately two-thirds of the Jewish population in Europe. Gathered at those of Austria-Hungary, they constitute approximately the three-quarters of European Jews. The day they would be emancipated and where, consequently, Russia would be obsolete driven by liberalism, this would be an absolute reversal of the current order of things; it would be the end of a world. Indeed, by rushing into Europe, these millions of Jews would finally bring about the cataclysm they have been preparing for so long for a long time. This is precisely what explains the efforts that is being done, especially in Vienna, to achieve emancipation—tion of those who remain, in Russia, subject to laws exceptional.

Upon the accession to the throne of Alexander III's son, the The Jewish press in Vienna endeavored to scrutinize the character of the young sovereign, in an attempt to predict his decisions.

"A nature like that of Nicholas II—she said requested — is it really the right one for such soil? than that of Russia? Does it correspond to all the tasks humanitarian issues that fall to a tsar ascending to the A throne? For now, the salient trait of his character is enough. to make him feel heavily the responsibility that to bear the weight of the fate of so many millions of men oppressed. In the future, Nicholas II will need more strength again. He will have to call upon all his old-timers. intellectuals. Prince! Elevate your mind. Lift your eyes to High. Destiny places in your hands an almost immense power. Without precedent. You are, in a way, a God on Earth. Summon all your strength for the salvation of your country.

This is how the main Austrian organ the Israelite Alliance addressed the Emperor of Russia, during of his accession. Such language sufficiently demonstrates to what extent this association is imbued with the importance of the goal it pursues and the seriousness of the interests at stake connect.

JEWISH AUSTRIA 191

In the German Empire, Jews are relatively They are few in number. There are only 600,000 of them. Like everywhere else where they received the rights of citizens, they seized them there in

He had time for social activity. However, things are far from being as advanced in Germany as they are in Austria-Hungary. The national discipline of Germans opposed the Israelites, within the limits of the ossible, a formidable dike that is not easy to Oh

After the details we just went into,
Is there any need to insist further? Everyone understands that the Austrian people, as they that they become aware of their true condition, seek to get rid of the superfluities that have grafted onto the social organism. The Jewish question deserves thus an important place in the meditations of those who want to understand what feelings govern the popular masses by becoming disinterested in the fate of the State.
This is undoubtedly the one that has powerfully contributed to pushing old Austria towards one of these historical turning points that leave their mark on the lives of peoples.

VI THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT

POPULAR MOVEMENT – THE PAN-GERMANIC PROPAGANDA – SLAVES AND TEUTONS (THE CZECHS) – THE SLOVENES –

ITALIA IRREDENTA

The term nationalist revolution, often used to characterize the manifest acts and tendencies of The Austrian people, there is nothing exaggerated about it. It is not a arbitrary designation; it is an expression that corresponds to the truth. It is not rash, in fact, to assert that the the current situation of the multilingual monarchy presents the

The complete analogy has the one that preceded it, you dismember-Taking from the Ottoman Empire. The popular masses, who,
At first, they were somewhat held back by the fear of...
They let themselves be carried too far, they no longer keep to themselves today.
no measures. Regarding their demands, the vehicular activity... the way in which they promote them, defying absolute-any description. They are no longer, as they once were, small groups of sectarians rallying people of different nationalities pitting them against each other and striving to excite them further by fiery sermons; these are the people themselves

194 JEWISH AUSTRIA

even those who entered the race with enthusiasm irresistible. Popular consent has given to nationalist demands make a rise almost impossible to Stop now.

On all sides people want a fight, to the extent that The means at our disposal: either all-out war, or that which justifies and facilitates the opportunity. In any case, none nationality no longer wants to hear about compromise. They are irrevocably and unanimously disposed, reject institutions that do not provide satisfaction their aspirations, which are, moreover, powerless to to resolve the difficulties of the situation. Therefore, he constituted, in the presence of such a state of affairs, of the parties extremists who openly speak of separating from Austria to reunite with their motherland. The Germans, Italians, Romanians from Hungary, seeing outside the Empire, a greater Germany surrounded the prestige of success, an Italian state that has managed to achieve its national unity, a kingdom of Romania having at its head a Hohenzollern, naturally converge towards These centers of powerful attraction. Their gazes are constantly facing north, west, east, and south, everywhere, in short, anywhere but Austria.

DD

Other groups, more isolated and not having the same elements of attraction, such as the Czechs, the Slovenes, the Ruthenians, the Serbs, the Slovaks and the Croats, debate amidst a somewhat incoherent commotion rent, but with clearly defined programs. all tending towards complete or partial autonomy. base their conduct on this deeply rooted conviction that the national idea is not at all, as we have retension, a simple watchword that will soon be set aside, like so many other modern ideas. It is, In their opinion, the sole condition for existence and duration a people. Anyone—they say—who renounces their nationality or simply neglecting to support her makes herself despicable, and can now only serve as fertilizer for the ambition of others peoples. To act with indifference in such cases is to...

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT (05

to voluntarily condemn to decadence, to the peace of tombs.

Isn't it ultimately according to these principles that... How were the major European nations formed? France and England were the first to realize the ideal dream of every living nationality. Other peoples have followed their example and reached their goal. Why the movement in this sense, which has continued since the fifteenth century, Should it be suspended now? Why are the nationals—those who are dissatisfied with their lot should not Don't they have hope like the others? The current carries the peoples to concentrate on their respective territories. Therefore, it is not, strictly speaking, a phenomenon of the order policy taking shape on the horizon of the Austrian empire. What is happening before our eyes is the application of a law natural which has presided, in the most constant way, over the formation of all civilized states. And as this law it brings strength and energy to those who invoke it, like 4 gives them both the impetus towards the future and the courage of resistance, it follows that the peoples Austrians pursue their aspirations so ardently pursued a powerful entity, before which bend and must bend more and more, whatever happens, the centralist traditions of the old Danube Empire.

This observation, made by all men of good faith and sound judgment, has, in the circumstance, an important crucial point. It is more than sufficient to refute the assertions superficial views of those who do not see in the struggles passionate about Austro-Hungarian nationalities that the eff-Vescence provoked by excitable politicians. It demonstrates that if we were to stick to it, as we have too often tendencies to do so, based solely on the presentation of contemporary facts porains, without bothering to investigate their relationships fundamentals with the historical evolution of peoples, we would be very likely to misunderstand their true character.

196 JEWISH AUSTRIA

These fundamental considerations lead us to to examine, in a few quick words, the role played by the Jewish press on current events. Its main organs have powerfully contributed, as everyone knows, to to incite hatred, by pouring out, according to the vulgar expression, adding fuel to the fire. Even now they continue to exploit the efforts of the parties involved, with a view to to derive benefits for the "chosen people". That is how Jews are found in both camps, in the camp of Pan-Germanists, where they are most numerous, such as in that of the Slavs. They are also counted among the Italian irredentists. Having newspapers at their disposal Rich and powerful, they obviously could not resolve to to fade into oblivion and indifference. Their combative mood leuse would not accept it. However, it would be ridiculous- It's ridiculous to claim that the nationalist movement is the work of the Israelite revolutionaries. The Jews in undergo the effect, while also contributing to pushing it into the state sharp; but they did not create it. Moreover, many adherents of nationalism, and the most convinced among them, principal- palement among the Germans of Austria, consider rather antisemitism as one of the stones fundamentals of national thought, such as one of the main means of action that can be used by popular demands, and therefore as one of the great national conquests of this century.

The difficulties these fierce struggles cause for the Empire In distress, they communicate forces to their aggressors all new. Reconciliation, understanding between the Having diverse nationalities might be the best approach to improve the situation in Austria. But No one wants to hear about it, given that everyone understands the extent of the incompatibility of interests would jeopardize the chances of a sincere reconciliation. the day one would like to try it. The mistake that those who dream of an understanding between nationalities consist of precisely to not appreciate the factor accurately enough main popular currents, not to be held taking into account the momentum that the national awakening has gained. The criticism often leveled at Viennese governments to be hostile to the constitution of the Empire on a basis federalist, could be turned against those who seek to restore calm. "The remedy radical – those who are animated by such intentions – would be to gracefully separate what is heterogeneous, no longer seeking to maintain in a uniform mold of different nationalities, but of to give each of them a framework appropriate to its character clean room. In short, what is needed is not federalism.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 197

the historical provinces, but the federalism of the units national.

With excellent intentions, those who speak of the
This would probably lead to something, after a pause short enough to produce the disintegration they want avoid. Excessive agitation and its real causes do not do not allow us to foresee any other result. We can see at Strictly speaking, in a menagerie, the lion lives in a touching intimacy with the gazelle, the wolf with the lamb, the eagle with the partridge. But we will not make live in good integration of nations grouped by fortuitous circumstances in a confined space, and which They scream in terror at the sight of themselves mating. That's good, we don't We cannot stress this enough, a Hatonalist revolution... is accomplished within Austria, with all the islands the consequences it entails. No one can be mistaken about that.

The Austrian Empire comprised the following countries:

The archduchies of Upper and Lower Austria; the kingdoms of Bohemia, Galicia, and Dalmatia; the duchies of Styria, Carib, Carniola, Salzburg, of Bukovina and Silesia; the margraviates of Moravia and of Istria; the counties of Tyrol, Gorice and Gradisca; the Vorarlberg country; the city of Trieste and its territory.

The Kingdom of Saint Stephen comprises:

198 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Hungary; the Grand Duchy of Transylvania; the city free of Fiume and its territory; the kingdoms of Croatia and from Slovenia.

The following table shows the extent of these various countries and their population figures, according to the census of 1890.

- Country
- Lower Austria
- Upper Austria
- Salzburg
- Styria
- Carinthia
- Carniola
- Gorice and Gradisca
- Istria

Trieste and its territory

- Tyrol
- Vorarlberg
- Bohemia
- Moravia
- Silesia
- Galicia
- Bukovina

Dalmatia

Total :

AUSTRIA

Area in km²
19 8232

11,985

7,152

22,427

10,327

9,955

2917

4,953

94

26,685

2,602

51,948

22,221

5,146

78,496

10,451

12,832

300,024

Population

661,799

785 831

173,510

1,282,708

361,008

498 9538

220,308

317,610

157,466

812,696

116,073

5,843,094

2,276,870

605,649

6,607,816

646,591

527,426

23,895,413

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 199

HUNGARY

Country Area in km²? Population

Kingdom of Saint- 279 486 15 232 159

Etienne
Fiume and its 19,303,337 territory
Croatia and Slovenia 42,535 2,200,977

Total: 322,041 17,463,473

The total population of the Empire is therefore, in figures rounds, of 41,360,000 inhabitants, not including the military outside the country (in Bosnia and Herzegovina) number of approximately 25,000.

The following nationalities are represented:

Germans 10,852,000
Hungarians (Magyars) 7,540,000
Czechs, Slovaks 7,440,000
Polish 3,740,000
Ruthenians 3,486,000
Serbs and Croats 3,275,000
Romanians 2,825,000
Slovenians 1,271,000
740,000 Italians
Other 190,000

The Jews, spread across all these nationalities, are at number of 1,922,000, including 1,142,000 in Austria and 780,000 in Hungary (official figures).

200 JEWISH AUSTRIA

PAN-GERMANIC PROPAGANDA

For nearly twenty years, from 1879 to 1898, the press Viennese people were almost unanimous in praising the merits of the Austro-German alliance. She applauded both hands to the resolution, taken at the highest level, to link fortune from Austria to Germany. High-quality displays were displayed the conviction that outside of this very intimate link between For both countries, there was no chance of salvation.
the prestige of a unified Germany shone alone over the entire central Europe. Public opinion was not developing at Vienna, only in contact with Berlin. The legislation itself

It was inspired by the laws passed on the banks of the Spree. It was and so on until the day when propaganda, pushed to the extreme, wanted to completely replace the pan-Germanic idea with Austrian patriotism, and the fortune of the Hohenzollerns in that of the Habsburgs.

When things reached this point, the spirit of resistance to these Prussian-ophile tendencies developed in the ruling circles. The Crown's advisors are alarmed by this excessive propaganda and tried to react. There are very few polite men ticks, however, who clearly understood, in time useful, what sentiment did the vast majority of Aenende of Austria, by rallying to the ideas of the nationalists uncompromising lists. Very few of them saw clearly—the fatal consequences of this movement of opinion and have become aware of the separatist tendencies pursued by the leaders. However, it remains to be seen the pole-current trends, to consider, for example, those which are raised by the use of languages in the countries of mixed population, it is easy to see that, on the German side mands, the debate continues fiercely between île government and factious political groups, which pursue the exclusive triumph of their aims and seek to incite the masses against the government, without to consider for a single moment this collective interest of the populations of which the State is the authorized representative.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 201

If the language issue hadn't come at just the right time for to serve as a pretext, it is certain that the struggle would have committed nonetheless; it would have been worn on another terrain. Hence, the need to combine certain elements who nevertheless remained loyal to the Austrian cause, and to take into account the divergences of interest when intervening in the rivalries between Slavs and Teutons for the ne as much as possible in a way that is favorable to Austria, since we can't delete them. But from the beginning we could have, with a little more attention, understood the the seriousness of the mistake made the day one threw oneself into Germany's arms. It is now impossible to to seriously pursue, in Austria, a patriotic action tick; the intimate consent of the masses is lacking. In many popular layers, and especially in the most

a large part of the country's intellectual circles, the movement that initially appeared to be German nationalist, is had become overtly antidynastic. This is not the only-ment in Vienna and in the countries bordering the Upper Danube that this trend has developed among the masses inflamed by methodical propaganda. From close In the immediate vicinity, it spread to the Alpine provinces, in Styria and in Carinthia. Its peak was reached in the northern provinces, in Bohemia and Moravia, where coha-Along the borders of Germany, the two races irreconcilable.

Although to a lesser degree, the manifestations of irrepressible German nationalism also reveals itself thriving in North Tyrol, where they clash with Italian irredentism. Who would have believed, just a few years ago-what years, that German radicalism would take rooted among the faithful populations of Tyrol? In Silesia Also, the very compact population constantly directs-his gaze turned towards the borders of the neighboring Empire. In short, the Germans of Austria, numbering more than 9 millions, are almost all united in the se of Germanic nationality, some claiming the supremacy within the Empire; the others, aspiring highly to the separation of the German provinces of the monarchy and their reunion with Germany, that they proclaim their motherland. In ordinary times, Such an attitude would arouse general disapproval; one would would see it as a crime of high treason. But, in the middle of the political and social disorganization of the Empire, that's all simply the affirmation of the will of the people.

202 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The separatist projects of these followers of Germania irredenta have made, in recent times, immense progress. Countless new members, from groups influential politicians and prominent figures are came to strengthen, with unexpected brilliance, the party of apologists for a united Greater Germany; and, as the The crowd always needs to crystallize its feelings in a man who seems to embody her her desires and aspirations, she acclaims the knight of Schœnerer as the most authoritative representative of the pan-Germanic idea. Mr. Schœnerer, in fact, knew how to

The first is to constrain governments and majorities parliamentarians in Austria, to take into account the aspirations separatists, who once seemed to be nothing more than a vain and A dangerous theory. He turned it into a body, a living entity. and active, whose growing power is causing serious concern the sovereign's entourage. It was in Vienna itself, under the in the eyes of the central power, that the movement took birth sance. They thought they could stifle it by having the agitator condemned, by excluding him from Parliament. But the seed had already been sown. It germinated. The work continued to grow nonetheless.

The extreme party of these nationalists who recognize Emperor William II, for their leader, does not count however, only five members of parliament in the Chamber. But besides of them there are more than forty representatives German populists (Deutsche Volkspartei), and whose Their ideas, in essence, hardly differ from their own. Faced with these radical Austro-Germans, the other parties, in the pro-German vices of the monarchy, to bow or disappear. In German Bohemia, the four fifths-numbers of the population stand firmly grouped together behind the intransigents who put the German idea at the forefront above all. The old progressives have ceased to count. Now, among German populists, there are some who initially seemed inclined to compromise, a kind of reconciliation. But their voters disapprove of them one after another, so much so that that one of the organizers of the Pan-Germanic movement was able to say very recently, with the unanimous approval of his audience: "In the next elections, our party will have 60 to 70 representatives in the Chamber. Bohemia The North should expect to be the scene of the first fights and to play the main role in the movement. Only then will better days come, when the the center of our political activity will be transferred to borders of Prussia and Saxony.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 203

No one doubts that these hopes will be fulfilled; and one Indeed, one cannot doubt it, when one sees, in certain On occasion, entire Austrian cities were decked out in flags. of the German tricolor flag. As was said at the Parliamentary tribune: "The crisis, which dominates everything Austria, for the moment, is not, as one affects sometimes to say it, exclusively caused by a simple It's a question of languages. It's a deep-seated problem with deep roots. in the heart of the nation and threatens to shake the foundations of the State. No palliative can be of The Parliament we see before us is not "More than just a fleeting shadow. He is, in fact, dead."

These are indeed the ideas of the majority of the population. of the Empire. They all agree on one crucial point, if they divide themselves into many other categories. Slavs, Italians Germans, whoever they are and whatever their many put the national idea, that is to say, in short the separatist idea, above the Austrian idea, which finds itself relegated entirely to the background. Those who,

204 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Among the Germans, attempts were made to reconcile these two Such diverse points of view, increasingly risk, we as we just said, to contradict the the majority of their voters. Large property It itself is partly linked to national radicalism; and within the ranks of the Catholic party, the feeling of nationalities are also tending to awaken. The Socialist Party-Christian, which always has increasingly strong tendencies accentuated to get closer to the people, a Horse of struggles to maintain the masses, to whom anti-Semitism already seems unsuccessful on the patriotic front. The iman absolute possibility, observed by many people.
to shake off the heavy yoke of Judaism by means legal pressures are pushing most of those who have recognized this an inextricable situation where the adversaries of the State declare themselves.
Who would have thought, a few years ago, that things would come to [this? Who could have imagined that the the most peaceful citizens, the most accustomed to respect for the authority, which the parties that had hitherto been preserved private and governmental, from the Elbe to the banks of the Inn and all along the Danube, would take part to the struggle, and that no one would ask for the fight to end? Without Without a doubt, a state does not suddenly descend into chaos by A series of internal crises: but the revolution was in a latent state. makes continuous progress. Anyone with eyes for seeing and ears to hear is struck by the speed with which it is fulfilled. Within the administration and even from the army, we can clearly see the traces.

To achieve their goals, the Austrian Pan-Germanists use all means and display remarkable productivity of extraordinary imagination to vary the forms of their propaganda. They find powerful factors for this purpose in school associations (Deutsche Schulvereine) including One was dissolved by order of a higher authority. They managed to reattach A good part of the Jewish press has rallied to their cause. Vienna, whose attitude in this instance is entirely...

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 205

Less strange. Without openly endorsing the program of radical Pan-Germanism, the main daily organs The people are fighting for the supremacy of the Ales over all other nationalities, and thus maintain, as a party taken, a revolutionary situation. As if readily the radical press, the Judeo-German newspapers proclaim this day that the first duty of all citizens must fight relentlessly for well-being and the power of the German race, for security and the development of Germanic nationality in Austria. The expressions they use for this purpose are borrowed from military vocabulary. "The Germans from Austria – they say – in particular, are required to remain at the post (Wacht an der Donau) assigned to them against the Slavs.

Under these conditions, German nationalism appears everywhere. It was possible to measure, at the time of death Bismarck, the progress he made in the country since a few years. On this occasion, the nationalists have decided, in their assemblies, "that the year 1898 (according to their calculations for the year 2011, going back to the first The Cimbri and Teutons appeared in 113 BC. Jesus Christ) would be considered a year of national mourning and that the Austrians of German race should, therefore, refrain from appearing at any celebration, with the exception of those that would be given in a propaganda purpose. The Vienna city councilors are invited to propose to the Council that the name of Bismarck should be named after a street in the capital, and that a commemorative plaque should be placed on the facade of the palace Pallfy, where Bismarck lived during his last stay in Vienna. Finally, the steering committee of the associations students decided to observe a period of mourning on the occasion of the "Death of the chancellor."

In the eyes of the Austrian Germans, the prestige and the power of the German empire must pass well before the prestige and power of Austria. "That one dares to touch the parliamentary prerogatives of Germans, they cried, let nationality be placed Germanic under Czech domination! Let one resorting to absolutism or federalism. The government will then see how much he will have to fight, in all Austria, against the disorder in the streets. And if he believed by chance to be able to rely on the army's intervention, and to do to direct repeating rifles against the people, that he remember the revolts that took place in the barracks of Prague. Let him not forget that at some point the Czech soldiers and German soldiers fired at each other over others.

206 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Nothing could be clearer, for sure, but at the same time Nothing is more frightening than such statements. Unfortunately, they have all the strength on their side. powerful nationalist logic, so powerful in our century, in Austria as everywhere. That's the dominant idea of our time, ever since the Second French Empire so They greatly contributed to making it fashionable. The radicals Viennese people, as far as they are concerned, do not hesitate to to push this irresistible logic to its ultimate conclusion consequences. By their own admission, they do not find that they have there is no interest in being Austrians except insofar as Austria will have a German character. They are ready to repudiate their quality of Austrians the day when the Slavic majority, to which they deny any rights because they consider it to be of a race inferior to them, would come to gain the upper hand. as the governing rule of all majorities to him gives the ability. That's probably why, that's why to assert this Germanic predominance that the bad

Austrian patria sing, in their meetings, the Habsburg anthem (the Gott erhalte) to the tune of the German national anthem, (Deutschland, Deutschland über alles: Germany, Germany above all). Each time the fact occurred, the representative of the The government, which was attending the meetings, 'had the area evacuated' room, and numerous assistants, chosen from among those who are shown to be the most ardent in singing the German tune, have been imprisoned for several days. But neither the prospect of such treatment, nor the shootings have not been able to frighten anyone so far.

It is not only through the political press that pan-German propaganda continues actively. She is also extremely sharp on the field purely literary, and more generally in the intellectual world. Besides the movement fueled by the newspapers, in Vienna as in the provinces, the spread of books and writings of all kinds are organized with the aim of misleading the spirit of youth and to instill in them contempt for the Habsburg dynasty. Expertly compiled statistics combined are carefully arranged to demonstrate who wants to hear that, in all respects, Austria is inferior to Germany. The sciences, the arts, the commerce and public education are, according to this literature... erasure peddled at great expense, absolutely inferior in the Habsburg empire. This, it must be said, is a means of the most effective. No more terrible weapon could be imagined. There is, in fact, an obvious connection between Germany's material prosperity and the active role that this prosperity, moreover undeniable, assigns to Austrian Germans, on whom she visibly exerts influence with a power of attraction of the greatest.

All the works we are talking about, written by hand masters, true masterpieces of erudition, are proactively supported by the country's literary societies. They are, Fiea understood, published in Germany; but they are found in Austria in all private libraries, and often even in the opus libraries as well within both in the countryside and in large cities. The zeal of Acolytes get them into everywhere.

Similar ideas, although perhaps a little less advanced (let's say Germanophile ideas, otherwise pan-Germanic) also found access to the Univer-

city of Vienna, where some professors, of nationality German, preferably place in the hands of their students of works dealing with historical theses to the point from the point of view of their intimate feelings. Also, the united youth-university, which is itself largely German, Is she notoriously devoted to Pan-Germanism? With her fervor, she readily engages in bloody battles. to Slavic students, or to Jewish students, or even to young German classmates who remained devoted to Austria. It's civil war in the school classrooms. A bad omen for the fate of future generations! can state, without fear of being accused of exaggeration, that in the Austro-German intellectual world, the tendency the predominant view is to consider it an absurdity geographically, the existence of German provinces in outside the German Empire. Many officials The Austrians themselves were influenced by these ideas. An argument that has its importance, from the point of view Economic factors are often invoked in support of the argument. points out that the German population in Austria does not represents that 35% of the total population in Cisleithanie, and yet she pays every year to the Treasury. in the form of taxes, 20 million more florins than all other nationalities together. We leave to our Readers are free to judge such an argument.

Alongside pan-German propaganda, that which was done recently in De du protes-Tantrism corroborates the first and ultimately tends to the same end. Those who support the Protestant religion take as a pretext an effect that the Catholic Church Roman law is not national. It accepts as a principle equality between all Austrians, and does not recognize the German superiority.

Austrian Catholicism emerged triumphant from the ordeal, although the Masonic press favored the anti-Catholic movement. It had to be. What the instigator of the Kulturkampf was unable to obtain, at the time of his absolute power, in Lutheran Germany, its imitators They cannot hope for that in Catholic Austria.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 209

But the fact remains that this propaganda in favor of Protestantism contributed to inflaming passions. It is the result that agitators constantly strive for. As such, it is naturally part of the program drawn in 1882 by the Pan-Germanists, and which has undergone various modifications since then, but it has remained, Overall, the Gospel of their political faith.

This pan-Germanic program, which is also one of More detailed, it can be summarized as follows:

— "Abolition of the currently existing union between Austria and Hungary, incorporation of Dalmatia and provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina in the kingdom of Hungary, thus becoming tri-unitary; absolute separation between German Austria and Galicia on the one hand, the Bukovina on the other. Adoption, in the Cisleithan Empire thus reduced to narrow limits, of the German language as the sole official language; extension of electoral rights; law on the incompatibility of certain public functions accumulated; development of public education, budgetary economic reform; Lee service two years compulsory for all men who can read and writing; reorganization of the direct tax system and indirect.

Then came, as if the goal to be achieved was not fairly transparent, the part of the program to which the Pan-Germanists have made significant contributions since 1882 dede

"Strengthening the alliance with Germany through a treaty, no longer in the long term like the Triple Alliance, but eternal; creation of a customs union with the Empire Germanic, replacing the Austro- customs union Hungarian; construction of the Danube-Order Canal.

210 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The surplus relates to social or order issues purely domestic policy:

"Organization of the working classes into trade unions" professionals; creation of a freely elected Council of State, tasked with examining draft laws of order economic; operation of railways by the State and tariff reform; business corporations law; laws against the falsification of food products and industrial products, weights and measures; judicial reform; pricing of procedural costs and fees of lawyers; creation of penal colonies for vagrants bonds; measures against indebtedness and depreciation of small rural landholdings; law guaranteeing to peasants a minimum of goods protected from forced sales; safe-preserving Austrian influence in the countries bordering the Lower Danube; definitive annihilation of Jewish influence on everything related to public life.

We have already noticed, on the first reading, the points essential elements that have been modified since 1882, and which This shows how quickly ideas spread in Austria. The alliance is no longer a topic of discussion today. "eternal" with Germany, which seemed sufficient a while ago just a few years. This wish, so loudly expressed in 1882, was replaced by a declaration that never appeared in the printed programs, but is not part of them less the essence and the foundation, namely that the annexation to the German Empire of the provinces Germans from Austria must be considered as a An absolutely imprescriptible right. As for the union of customs... It is worth noting that both Empires have excluded by including, by common agreement, in the treaty of Austro-German trade, ultra-strict clauses tives. Regarding the other points of the program, This is not the place to examine them in detail. Let us limit ourselves- we should point out that the German radicals, like The socialists want to subject everything to government interference. rain of the State, and advocate complete absorption, by the central power, of all individual initiatives, of all the vital forces of the nation.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 21i

The social aspect of the program was clearly present. inserted to make it popular and gain its support lower classes. In AT, what the authors want From these statements, the propagators of the movement, they do not they no longer bother to conceal it: it's the sepa-

absolute ratio, among the various elements of which makes up the Empire. That's their real program, plain and simple. as possible; it is said loudly enough so that everyone hear it.

This state of mind results in the atmosphere Politics is charged with electricity, as evidenced by the island. conflict that recently erupted in Graz, the capital of Styria, between civil society and the garrison, composed of troops Bosnians. This serious matter has sparked debate. enthusiasts in the Viennese parliament. All the people subjected to military discipline, and who had taken part in demonstrations were subjected to a most thorough investigation severe; a number of reserve cadets, who were awaiting their appointment to the rank of officer, did not was included in the subsequent promotion; finally, thirty-seven reserve officers were, by court decision of honor of Gratz, declared stripped of their rank. Some of them, although of nationality Germans, were incorporated as ordinary soldiers into Slavic or Hungarian regiments. As a result, among Viennese students belonging to the national party-German, the resolution was taken to voluntarily renounce- He was assigned to the duties of a reserve officer. But he did not This project has been followed up. The young people in question finally declared that not only their resignation would have no political use, but that it would clumsy and harmful. Should we conclude from this that in the event of a pre-war situation could occur in the country. guard of accomplices, conspirators and traitors, all ready to favor the enemy?

212 JEWISH AUSTRIA

In any case, one can conclude from this fact, as from many others that it would be too long to mention here, that the movement is antidynastic in its aim and in its means. Austria, a simple geographical expression, is a state made up of bits and pieces. Therefore, the The efforts of the nationalists tend to demonstrate that the unitary aspirations of the Austro-German part of the Empire clashed with the interests of the Habsburgs, who they confuse – they say – with those of Slavic nationalities. He thus entered the minds of the Germans of Austria that this is a decisive struggle between the Germans and the Slaves of the monarchy. They draw their strength from the conviction that “the Aude brothers will not abandon them-will not. "The German Empire," they say, "will not allow not let the Germans of Austria fall into distress; For, at the critical moment, in the "hour of danger," one remembers—dra in Germany that it is not only about the fate of Austrian subjects, but of prestige and interests of the whole of Germany.

This is, without a doubt, the most delicate point of the The situation. The Germans of Austria count on Germany's support against the Government Austrian. Prince Alois of Liechtenstein himself stated, in a public meeting in Vienna, that the subsidies necessary for pan-German propaganda come from Berlin: he thought he was implying that it's about the banks of the Spree where the explanation must be sought acts of high treason that are committed on the banks of the Danube. Moreover, there is no shortage of spreading a barrage of details about alleged manipulations which would serve as a basis for secret operations. These statements would established on tangible facts and would appear as Current history, living history. Now, we believe that it There is at least a great deal of exaggeration there.

Because of the importance of the facts, the light they can throw into the nationalist question in Austria, and, apart from any other consideration, by resp=ct

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 213

For the sake of truth, it must be considered certain that the The German imperial government never interfered. at least since the nationalist movement tends to intensify, in Austria's internal affairs. His attitude in this regard has always been absolutely correct. recte. That there are ongoing relationships between the heads of Austrian parties and German Pan-Germanists, person—he is not unaware of it; that the Berlin agitators are supplying subsidies in cash are quite possible, although the days—Austrian pan-Germanist nationalists had to fight against administrative difficulties. But we must be clear, and To explain this clearly. Assuming that... Subsidies come from outside; it is important to specify this clearly. the origin.

A strong cou—

popular rant, pushing its waves from within to outside of the monarchy. It gave rise, as a logical consequence and Easy to predict, another current, even more powerful, acting from the outside in. We do not want to individualize quer as proof that the activity of the panger- association manique known as the All-Deutscher Verband. Most of his publications are banned in Austria. given that, from the Austrian point of view, they constitute acts of high treason. However, it was under the auspices of this association that the pan-Germanists Austrian-dogs meet periodically, taking care of garlic- their desire to travel to German territory, sometimes in one locality, sometimes another. Given the organization- sation of the All-Deutscher Verband, which extends over Germany The whole of Magne and all the German countries outside of it; being data on the personalities who support it worldwide literary and scientific worlds; finally, given the powerful influence that this association has gained over life national of Germany, it can be considered as the key figure of Germania irredenta. But as It does not contravene any law of the Holy Roman Empire, the The German government is powerless against it; it is without the power to oppose his action. He does not protect this association, but 1] does not create any obstacles for him. He does not He doesn't encourage it; he simply lets it happen.

214 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Furthermore, if the Al-Deutscher Verband is criticized, who has no official ties, to interfere in the Austria's internal affairs, what should we think of the approach made in July 1899 to the Emperor of Russia by a number of professors from the University city of Vienna, who felt compelled to protest, in a note collective, against the so-called persecutions of which would the object the Germans of the RACE By what right of the Viennese professors, whose functions should, It seems that, requiring extreme restraint, one allows oneself- do they commit similar acts which constitute, throughout the The force of the term, a true impertinence? Isn't there So there's not enough to do at the University to restore order. in the environments that affect them most closely?

It is no less true that the action of the A/!-Deutscher Verband created, within the governmental spheres of Vienna, an obvious unease that was first translated through a series of police harassments, preventive measures and repressive measures, which had their counter-

A fatal blow in Germany. Expulsions were carried out on both sides.
a number of workers who came from Berlin to Vienna, or from Vienna to Berlin, due to socialist unrest in other reasons of this kind. Following the disturbances which have taking place at the University of Vienna, the police prefect, acting- obviously with the prior authorization of the ministertère, proceeded with a stroke of the pen, in May 1896, to the dissolution of twenty student corporations, namely:

- 1) German students from North Moravia;
- 2) the German academic society Amicitia;
- 3) German students from Silesia (Opparia society);
- 4) German students from Bohemia (Herodnia):
- 5) the Hilaritas association;
- 6) the academic technical association Libertas;

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 215

- 7) The German Academic Society of Silesia oriental;
- 8) The academic roundtable of German students of Nikolsbourg (Turolia);
- 9) The Academic Technical Society of Students of Salzburg;
- 10 } the German academic association Normania;
- 11) The German Society for Advanced Studies
Philadelphia;
- 12) the German academic association Cheruscia;
- 13) the German academic association Rabenstein;
- 14) the German company Campia;
- 15 } the German association for higher education Ostmark;

- 16) the German academic round table Eisen;
- 17) the German academic society of technicians;
- 18} the German society for higher learning Gothia;
- 19) the German Society of the Academy of Fine Arts Athenaia;
- 20) Finally, the Academic Society of Upper Austria, Germania.

In April 1899, even more radical measures were taken. This time, it was no longer a question of associations between students, but from societies with an openly pan-Germanic and pursuing a well-defined political goal determined. The aim was to suppress the movement by In favor of Protestantism. Four associations of this nature were dissolved by a single decree. In At the same time, moreover, the Minister of the Interior... he ordered the officials under his command to prohibit the stay in Austria for foreigners "who are in the assemblies using anti-Austrian language or who intend- tion to take part in political meetings, when their past experiences may raise concerns that their participation in these meetings are of a nature to create excitement national and to cause a public danger.

It has not been forgotten that on this occasion there were dissenting opinions. things were on the verge of happening between the two

216 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The governments of Vienna and Berlin. The scathing criticism which they allowed themselves, regarding Austrian affairs, some of the most widely circulated German newspapers, the state the resulting animosity, and above all the countless details of the separatist movement have ended by calling into question, at some point, the alliance of two Empires, or at least their friendly relations. Other reasons, of a diplomatic nature, also came into play. shake the alliance. The Austrian Pan-Germanists have. The first to attempt to harm it. After having served, in the early years of its existence, as of a means of attracting the Austro-German people by the enchanting mirage of Germanic power, they are then shown to be quite willing to give it up, and, to approve of his disappearance. One of their own (or rather: one of their leaders) said in open parliament, regarding a recent incident: "Under the current circumstances, it does not It may be pleasant for us to see the reports. Tensions were low between the two empires. If the alliance were to to cease to exist, the forces which today consider themselves, within the German Empire, as if chained by This friendly bond would make them completely free again. would then intervene, with all their power, in the decisive struggles that Austria is currently supporting German national cause.

Anticipating and anticipating in advance the effect that would undoubtedly lead to the isolation of Adehe Cisleithan Germans speak openly about dismemberment of the monarchy as of a thing completely natural. They consider its collapse as inevitable and shamelessly address the question of knowing how it will be accomplished. It seems that this has been abandoned. in these circles, to the primitive idea of a block annexation by Germany, from all German states to Austria, believing that an immediate absorption of such vast territories toires would excessively increase the power of the house of Hohenzollern to the detriment of the other states of the Confederacy

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 217

Germanic deration. It was considered that an event of This type of thing would give rise to intense jealousies within United Germany. Those who profess this way of They therefore disapprove of the idea of mass annexation.

which appears to them as an overly ambitious combination. of Prussian statesmen. They assert, with great appearance of reason, that by acting in this way, one would put jeopardizing the authority of all other German dynasties.

In the face of these objections, and probably obeying- in response to a slogan of the All-Deutscher Verband, the Pan-Germanists currently believe in the necessity of proceed with the partition of German Austria (including its Slavic annexes) between the neighboring German states of various provinces. This is with a view to a solution to this the kind where we have already drawn up geographical maps where

The conditions of the sharing are indicated in advance.

Bavaria would take over Salzburg, Vorarlberg and the Tyrol, which she already possessed in the fifteenth and sixteenth century. Prussia would have Silesia and Moravia. Saxony Bohemia would be annexed. In this way the Czechs of Bohemia, numbering around 3 million, would be easily increased by the 4 million Saxons, gathered at the 2 millions of Germans who live in Bohemia. In addition, the Czechs would find themselves cut in two. Prussia would only have to reduce those in Moravia, the others being delivered to Saxony. They would remain in southern Austria, the provinces of Styria, Carinthia and Carniola, 'which could constitute an independent, self-governing state' by a German prince who resided in Graz, and who would have It was quick, without a doubt, to subjugate the Slovenians of the Carniola.

These are combinations that can be strong ingenious, but nonetheless a sovereign impudence to display in broad daylight while the empire Austria still exists, headed by a sovereign residing in Vienna. The mere fact that similar cards can be freely displayed in the windows of German booksellers mands demonstrates the little importance that is placed on it in Germany of the Austrian alliance. The House of Habsburg... would find, according to the Pan-Germanists, reduced to the possession of the Cisleithanian provinces whose population is essentially Slavic, like Galicia and Bukovina. would deign to leave him Hungary as well, by granting him full latitude to increase its power at the expense of the Türkiye, on the Bosnian border side.

218 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Those who admit today the possibility of similar redrawings of the map of Central Europe seem to believe that Germania will only have to open the mouth, at the death of Emperor Franz Joseph, and that The fruits will fall fully ripe from the lobe branches Austrian, without needing to shake it. It will be It is fair to say that, in our opinion, things will not go as well. neither quickly, nor especially so easily. The struggle between the Habsburgs and Hohenzollerns for supremacy in Germany has already lasted for a century and a half. It seems It is likely that it will not end abruptly like this. that, as if by magic. It will take, to put an end to it, a great war, the... results alone will have the power to modify the appearance in this way of the European configuration. On the other hand, the followers of the United Greater Germany too readily forget that Germany is not alone in Europe. The dismemberment The decline of the old Danubian Empire is keenly felt by vital interests of all the states that closely border it or From afar. Otherwise, what would mean what we call European balance?

SLAVES AND TEUTONS (THE CZECHS)

It is demonstrated, by indisputable facts, that the party The German centralist is totally powerless to govern the vessel of the state, despite its "countless capabilities" whom he claims to count in his ranks, but who do not want nothing to learn and nothing to forget, according to the historical saying. known, and willfully closes his eyes to reality. This party, long the undisputed dominant force, refuses all concession. He intends to retain his previous position. while everything has radically changed in Austria. the all-powerful logic of facts and the chain of events natural tendencies have led to the centralized state, which led the Germans, a composite state where all the nationalities possess the same rights and demand a complete equality.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 219

The Slavic nations of Austria managed to emancipate themselves ciper; they shook off Germanic tutelage and are working, Each on their own, to form their unit. The mission civilizing mission that their [states] had attributed to themselves in relation to them The former dominant class has definitively come to an end forever. The Germanic avant-garde, established in Slavic countries, did not can no longer continue his work. It is up to the Austrian Slavs— dogs themselves, which it is now up to develop— through civilization in the lands they inhabit; and we Today we are witnessing the efforts they are multiplying, with tireless patience, to bring forth, from each nation—uniformity, a government that meets the highest standards legitimate, which will guide them towards the goal assigned to them by genius of their race.

The Czech nation, more than any other perhaps, has faithfully preserved its own character and charm of originality. The girl has her own literature, her own history. She is proud of its writers and gathers around the men who maintain its traditions. At any time, it has not imbued with German civilization to the extent necessary to derive general principles. It does not did not allow her core ideas to be shaken, in her fundamental convictions, even at the time when she was enslaved by the centralist governments of Vienna. This is how two clashes occurred in Bohemia. currents which, without ever meeting, determine a absolutely inevitable, absolutely irrerecognizable antagonism targetable, between the Austrian institutions, in which German exclusivism predominates, and the Re Czech nationals. Now, Palacki's compatriots, from Rieger and so many other eminent men, have the cult innate to their historical rights; they want, whatever it may be arrives, to make their country an autonomous state, having its independent government, its own life, its representatives authorized stakeholders. In short, they are demanding a situation analogous to that of Hungary towards Austria.

220 JEWISH AUSTRIA

It is on this ground of a bohemian constitution, based on historical law, that the struggle between Czechs and Germans. The former want to be at them in their own country; the others intend to take advantage of alleged prerogatives that the tradition acquired in bureaucratic careers, the numerous relationships that necessarily result from the mania-public affairs management, and other advantages as well which they derive, if we are to believe them, from a so-called superiority the essence of Germanic civilization. The Germans, in By virtue of these claims, they dispute the Czech language a right recently granted to him by an order ministerial to be employed in administrative matters tradables, just like the German language. From their On the other hand, the Czechs intend to repudiate definitively a political system that no longer meets their aspirations tions. They oppose all attempts at rapprochement—ment, insofar as they are based on inequality between the races, an insurmountable barrier. And, like their resistance—tance is directed against oligarchic institutions and They are outdated, yet they are the ones who defend the cause of progress. and democracy in Cisleithan Austria. The constitution tuition of a Czech state, under the conditions in which they what they demand would be equivalent to a victory for justice and the liberal ideas.

The language ordinances, so violently attacked—principles established by the Pan-Germanists laid the foundation for equality. unity between the Austrian peoples. If they were to be

PEOPLE

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 221

If these laws are repealed, the Czechs would be forced to resort to to extreme means. With the help of radicals, of Democratic socialists, Ruthenians, South Slavs, they would stage a most lively commotion in in favor of universal suffrage and direct elections, which would bring a Slavic majority into the chamber.
They have therefore reached an inexpressible degree of acuity. The
The coalition ministry has demonstrated that one cannot to govern Austria against the Czechs; and the fate of His successors have demonstrated, on the other hand, that one can even less so to govern it against the Germans. Now, I am absolutely certain that it would be foolish to want to resort to an outdated absolutism, totally powerless to—today, to govern both against the Germans and against the Czechs. So we need to look for something else. The unanimous will of a valiant people, aspiring to its Independence can no longer be set aside.
Sooner or later, whatever we want or do, it will be necessary. to satisfy him. The big question is to know how to
In what manner and under what conditions.

The party known as the Czechs did not He, for his part, sees no danger. Dissatisfied with the present situation, he dreams of a more prosperous future and busies himself preparing for it.
This, moreover, is the imperative of the younger generations.
satisfied, who want to achieve a better fate.
Unfortunately, the efforts of this advanced party, which has enlarged by the addition of an even more radical fraction, are not as vigorously supported as he wished hoped for. The bohemian aristocracy does not lend him its support. who alone could hasten the fulfillment of the will national. She fears seeing it disappear, through development-natural occurrence of the facts, the prerogatives due that still ensures the current regime.

Meanwhile, the nationalist idea is making a strong impact on gateway to the old Habsburg empire. The Czechs march at the forefront of the movement which, at a certain point At this hour, it manifested itself throughout Europe, and which, after having received satisfaction in the East, in Italy, in Germany, must necessarily also lead to the following regions Slavs of Central Austria. Of all the aspirations that political unrest is emerging in Europe. which rightly concern those in power, there is no is not more powerful, more active, more current especially. Oppressed nationalities want at all costs to be recognized and constituted in full independence; they want to establish their autonomy. As for 'the Czechs, this trend is emerging in Moravia, where they However, they are more scattered, just as in Bohemia. Dr. Forscht once said it in parliament Vienna:

222 JEWISH AUSTRIA

"The sole reason for the existence of the Austrian Empire is the mission incumbent upon him to satisfy the needs inevitable nationalities. The struggles that we support-no, not currently, and those that we will have to support Again, they are nothing more than the symptom and the precursor. runner of a happier future. All that is viable must, we are aware, before revealing itself in full light, suffering, and enduring pain. We must so let us hope, after so many misfortunes, that for Austria A new era will soon emerge, an age of political renaissance. It is in this hope that we Let us bravely support the current struggles. If the pilots who are piloting the Austrian ship (we are not saying as the state officials who govern, but the factors well-known figures who actually hold political power tics) know how to understand the important-Given the current movement's momentum, it is quite possible that the

The ship thankfully reached the port. Otherwise, everything would have been irretrievably compromised.

It is impossible to escape this dilemma. Anyone has heart, anyone who conscientiously observes the in this situation, understands that the Slavs must resist to the very end. They must stand firm [at where They have remained steadfast for a thousand years.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 223

Bohemia assumed an exceptional position in the Slavic world. tional, a place of honor that she will not leave. Always the first to face danger, she claims the right to stay there. It was already the same in the time of Charlemagne, while the Germanic element had conquered in Europe an influence that seemed to be due to everything absorb. It was at this date, the Byzantine emperors who considered ways to organize resistance against Germanism. It is the same spirit that inspires Today, the Czechs. They know that future struggles Those who seek world domination will not be delivered. not only with the help of armies and fleets but also, and especially perhaps, through the intellectual development of peoples. The progress of enlightenment which, among them, cements and fe the national alu, makes them all the more difficult to endure the excesses of the Austro- bureaucratic system dog. As one of their leaders recently said, the Dr. Hérold: "If the spectacle we were shown The witnesses in Eger had to renew their testimony; we would be within our rights. to ask ourselves if such scandals belong to the Asian customs or European civilization. Never Such cowardice, never has such baseness been seen before. cynically displayed by the administration's employees and judicial officials.

This, above all, contributes to giving this fight A serious aspect of this is that the Youth Party- The Czechs are trying to dislodge the German officials. positions they hold in such large numbers. The Czechs took control of the municipalities in Prague and everywhere else they were able to do so. However, this is still just the beginning. The statistics of Central government reports reveal that in Prague, 90% of The officials are German. That's why, in

In all deliberative assemblies, there is much talk of the need for a relentless struggle, a real fight for existence. It is, in fact, nothing less. If Sad as it is to observe such a state of affairs, the two peoples united under the same rule, and living in the same country, have come to consider as a vital principle: the obligation to fight relentlessly against each other. Prague was, two centuries ago, a completely Slavic city; it was only as a result of circumstances—painful criticisms for the Czech nationality that she has has been Germanized. "Since the awakening of this nationality — "Everything German," say the Czechs today. in Prague must be set aside at all costs. Such development—historical progress was previously made in other cities, such as Budapest, Agram, Trieste, Lemberg. The capital of Bohemia owes it to itself to to follow the same example." In short, as we can see, This struggle, which has the appearance of a political struggle, is in at the same time and perhaps above all a social struggle.

224 JEWISH AUSTRIA

As for the consequences it may entail, they appear too clearly, to leave room for the slightest doubt. Just as the Germans of Austria rule their gaze towards Berlin, likewise the Czechs turn eyes towards Saint Petersburg, seeing in Russia their natural protector. However, the ruling circles, in the empire of the tsars, they showed no signs of urgency whatsoever to put an end to this matter. They want, in the great Empire of North, avoid as much as possible any conflict with the Governments of Vienna and Budapest. We are keen on this that the Western Slavs are temporarily standing tranquil. Pan-Slavism is more patient than panger-Manism. He does not abdicate; he awaits his moment. One believes that the situation still needs to mature and to to draw more clearly. We want to leave it to the nationalities Slavs, taking the time to develop more fully, so that, when the time comes, those who will come to their aid find in them truly effective support. Russia gathers information regarding this Austro-Slavic question.

Firstly, there is a lack of information in the case of Mr. de Wenceslas, such as The impatient Czechs would like to reinstate it, a pretense-national front on which they can pose the crown. Failing that, the Czechs remain faithful so far, at least in very large numbers. The majority belonged to the House of Habsburg. From their point of view, the establishment of an autonomous Czech state is by no means incompatible with their dynastic sentiments. They only ask the Head of the House of Austria to come to Prague to be crowned King of Bohemia. Calls for Russia's protection are renewed without ceases; but perhaps, in essence, they are merely the manifestation—the expression of anger and discontent caused by the attitude of the Germans. Behind the threats, a separation simply conceals anti-germ demonstrations. Maniques. The bohemian nation does not want to disappear. the ocean of Pan-Slavism. It wants to survive in the midst of independence, with its language, its history, its literature proper. Many Czechs, without breaking in any Slavic solidarity, and while being ready to be part of a Slavic confederation on bases similar to those of the former Germanic confederation, apprehend that Russia only wants to sponsor them for the to reconnect with the great Russian homeland. They fear the a request that could be made of them to sacrifice their language and their Czech literature to adopt the Russian language. But this is a sacrifice—they say—above their forces; and if the Habsburg dynasty rid them of the German officials, if it constituted a kingdom of Bohemia, as it constituted a kingdom of Hungary, they would be delighted to recognize the Emperor of Austria as King of Bohemia.

On the other hand, however, it is easy to understand that The Czechs, like all Slavs in Austria, felt to develop in them a feeling of legitimate pride when they saw Russia reach a degree of power unexpected. It is therefore not only the desire for self-Economy is also the intimate awareness of solidarity. Slavic interests that inspire and direct their resistance against those who have treated them for so long and still treat them as belonging to an inferior race. By force brutal, with unjustified arrogance, they resolutely the law. In this contrast lies, for all of Europe, the The true meaning of the struggles taking place in Austria. the decisive hour, as hoped in some circles, the Russia could not remain inert or insensitive; she would not could not allow the triumph of iniquity.

Multiple complications of various kinds, and counteracting each other, that's the true image of the The Czech question. The major, undisputed point is the civil war which it provokes in Bohemia in the state permanent.

To try to put an end to it, some Pan-Germanists oppose attempts to establish a Slavic state From Bohemia, the idea of dividing the kingdom into two parts, at least one of them, the one where the Germans are the most numerous, may later gather at the Great-Germany. It's pure madness, do we need to say it? that an attempt of this kind, at a time when the sentiment-The concept of nationality is powerful enough to make someone crack. all the institutions of a six-century-old empire. The struggles supported by German Austria against the Slavic Bohemians have just as little chance of success as those which were once supported against Hungary. Historical borders, created by nature and confirmed by... guided by a history that is lost in the mists of time, can no longer be modified arbitrarily. In examining the situation without bias, without preconceived ideas, The Court of Vienna itself will acknowledge that it has everything interest in allowing German influence to weaken in Bohemia. In this way she would deprive Prussia of all hope to one day be able to claim this country as a dependency of the German Empire.

The question at the moment is this:
Would the German Empire allow it, without hindrance, to establish a Czech state on its borders? Geographical-

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 227

In a manner of speaking, this state would sink like a wedge between the Austro-German countries and the German Empire. But he would include large German minorities within its borders who would not shrink from the horrors of war civil. Germany, for the time being, is merely observing with a watchful eye the internal commotions of this part of Austria; but she follows them with passion, without losing her monitoring to fall asleep for even a single moment; that is precisely which makes the situation so serious for the Austrian Empire.

THE SLOVENS

Although they are very few in number, the Slovenians nevertheless seem destined to play an important role in the grouping of peoples, as predicted by the future. It is only in the last few years since this small nation, after having long—for a time he led a rather tormented existence, after having languished under German rule while retaining its vitality intact, has regained enough strength to repel the efforts what Germanism is doing in order to completely stifle it. Living in compact groups in Carniola, more scattered throughout Lower Styria and Istria, it represents, within Cisleithan Austria, the isolated South Slavic element in this part of the Empire. But from there she extends her hand to the southern Slavs of the Adriatic coast, and thus presents itself as the most advanced post of 25 Millions of men. That, in fact, is the exact figure. to which this population of southern Slavs is drawn, whose importance for the organization cannot be ignored shaping the future of Europe.

The various governments that have succeeded one another in Vienna has become accustomed to regarding the Slovenian people as a negligible quantity, and some of them have even pushed their blindness to the point of not understanding to describe the task that this people has to fulfill within the monarchy

228 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Shit. They forgot that, often, it's the little people that make history. Above all, it is important to appreciate the task assigned to the Slovenes by the geographical situation of countries they occupy; that is to say, it belongs to them contribute to protecting the Adriatic coastline from the the surge of pan-Germanic Germany, whose program—I understand the possession of a territory with access to this sea, a perpetual object of envy on the part of the Germans.

What would Germany be doing in this country whose inhabitants are mostly Slavic, and their coasts are populated by Italians?

The Slovenian nation numbers only 1,270,000 people; but it may one day become of real importance to the destinies of Austria. This is the very clear feeling of the Slavic solidarity which gives him the strength to resist as she does so in response to the centralizing actions of the Germans, living side by side with them in Lower Styria and a notable part of Carniola.

Because of their small numbers, the Slovenes oppose resolutely committed to the autonomy demanded from various quarters by the Austrian countries. They feel that she would suffocate them. This What they are asking for is autonomy for nationalities. They have great care was taken to establish a difference, albeit a subtle one. Moreover, between these two conceptions. As for the goal they Currently, it is based on the nationalist idea. which leads them to desire union with the Croats, on the historical basis of a Croatian state.

This is what they are ardently demanding today, their politicians. All the leaders listened to from the The Slovenian nation unhesitatingly became the apostles of unity with Croatia. They believe that joint action by Having two populations is essential for organizing in southern Austria and Hungary, a league powerful of the South Slavic peoples, in a position to defend and to effectively protect their interests.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 229

As for the Croats, their aims concern more specifically to the unrest that is emerging in Hungary. We will discuss this further in a special chapter of in a more explicit way.

ITALIA IRREDENTA

There is another nationality that was the first to fight against German domination, and who today still fomenting at the heart of the Habsburg monarchy of perpetual unrest. For centuries, history has recorded what the writers, in their figurative language, say in the decline of the Germans in the Peninsula Italics. Then one day, the French army crossed the Alsace, and came to pronounce the great word, Paffranchie so long awaited. We don't have to go back here on events that are still in all the memoirs. No one has forgotten the two campaigns of 1859 and 1866 cost Austria the possessions of the Lombardy and Veneto. However, some Italians still remained in the southern provinces of Austria, under Habsburg rule; and since for a quarter of a century, they have been constantly demanding their autonomy. nomy, while waiting for something better. From Trieste and Trentino, the movement spread to all inhabited districts. by Italians. Popular opinion has taken some steps in this regard increasingly pronounced trends. L'/'ralia irredenta to formulated his program in the most uncompromising, demanding its outright annexation to the motherland.

The demands made by the Italian MPs at the parliamentary proceedings are, moreover, highly instructive. They show how much the population's complaints that they represent are justified. It is impossible not to see that it is no wonder that they were sacrificed with such negligence the interests of those who nevertheless had the same rights that all other citizens of the Empire, but which had the misfortune of not being the most numerous. In the northern part of Tyrol and in Istria, various very distinct nationalities have long clashed against each other, without the central power having considered intervening to prevent the weakest from being odiously oppressed by others. The Croats and the Slovenians abused their power in the localities where they dominate in numbers, just as much as the Germans in North Tyrol. That would have been the natural role of the Viennese government to restore calm, by imposing. He emphasized respect for the law and mutual tolerance to all. He did not. He couldn't understand it; he himself, in Dalmatia, didn't hold no account of the existence of the Italians, to which they there are few in number. It is therefore not surprising that legitimate claims arise with a violence that is all too understandable.

230 JEWISH AUSTRIA

It is especially in Trentino that the situation of Italians is truly intolerable. Since a series of anti-their deputies abstained from taking part in the deliberations resolutions of the Diet of Tyrol. Some of them requested that the legislation relating to Provincial Diets ciales, i.e., Edifice, that independent commissions they sit in Innsbruck and Trent, leaving the Diet only the rare cases that are common to both parties of country. Others go further. They want Tyrol to be divided into two parts, and that the Italian Tyrol have its Diet special, its Italian courts, its autonomous administrations— They point out that the Hungarians enjoy a complete autonomy, which the Poles were able to obtain a situation that allowed them to dominate for a time in government areas, and that the Czechs to In turn, they managed to maintain their supremacy. German in the countries they inhabit. This is, in the southern Austria as well, to redress an injustice which has lasted for centuries; and the very energy with which The fact that this struggle is supported is sufficient proof of the strength of an isolated faction that does not intend to give up its national existence.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 231

"Why," the Italians ask, "are we forced to..." we suffer, in schools, before the courts and in all Administrations, the use of a foreign language? We have been asking for high schools and schools for a long time. normal schools and higher education institutions in language Italian, in the Italian districts." However, despite these They note with regret that there are incessant complaints, but nothing has changed. nothing has been done in terms of education, for the Italian population of Trentino. The population, den Suspicious, one is left wondering whether, in Austria, legality exists between citizens. The creation of an Italian University—enne seems to them a legitimate desideratum, in the same way that a national administration; they demand it as a way to put an end to the false situation that has been created to the Italians and to compensate them for unfair treatment that were inflicted upon them.

In Dalmatia, as we have said, there are very few Italians.

numerous. There, they suffer from the general malaise, that is to say, from abandonment in which the Austrian government leaves this province. 1 no one has yet been encountered statesman in Vienna who had thought of taking care of her Not seriously. She doesn't have any paths yet. of iron that puts it in communication with the center of The Empire had no roads in good condition. The waterways did not are not regularized. Everything there is still in a deplorable state. the rable where the Venetians and the Turks left it. To the point of From a political and national perspective, things are even worse. At each election, officials engage in acts of truly unprecedented pressure and commit illegal acts the most scandalous. These are not the constitutional laws— Those who preside over the government of this country: it is Pure and simple arbitrariness. Citizens who allow themselves The singing of Italian songs is abruptly cut short. in prison; emigrations are constant. The

232 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Dalmatia is the only province of the Empire that has a military government.

In short, the complaints and grievances of the Italians Austria's actions are neither unmotivated nor excessive, even as regards Tyrol, that is to say the province where they are relatively the least unfortunate. The Tyrolean unit is pure fiction, given the differences fundamental differences between the two very distinct parts of this countries, each of which is occupied by a very large population homogeneous and very compact. The Italian Tyrol should have its separate administration for a long time, its existence independent of that of German Tyrol. The No. administrative action could be carried out without raising the least This difficulty. It would put an end to many troubles. If one wants to ensure peace reigns in the province of Tyrol, it is necessary to avoid with great care anything that might arouse sensitivities of one of the two races that live there side by side. It is necessary that Neither can claim to be oppressed, and that in In no case does force prevail over law.

The Austrian government has so far been very reserved in his attitude towards the Italians. In a recent conference with the President of the Council, the Nationalist MPs told him, without mincing words, that the The Italian club would openly switch to the opposition; to which Count Thun, while acknowledging this declaration, has responded by expressing the hope that separatist passions would calm down, or at least take on a form more softened. But the Italian deputies pointed out to him, For their part, they felt that we had probably acted in a rather unreasonable way. skillful, since they were bringing in people who, until then, had by no means been irreconcilable, to the point of rebelling against real persecutions and to declare herself frank—their opponents.

And indeed, the characteristic aspect of the claims The Italians' position is to have discontent as their support. general trend that is revealed in irredentist aspirations. If, unlike what is happening within the ranks of the Germania irredenta, these aspirations had only a few weak repercussions, the fault lies exclusively attributable to the indifference of their compatriots on the other side on the side of the Alps. The Germans are making a lot of noise about the complaints from their Austrian counterparts; the Italians On the contrary, those that are formulated go unanswered. by the Italians of Austria. Moreover, all the claims—actions coming from this direction are vigorously repressed. measures taken by the Viennese government. The actions of the authorities The presence of female dogs is felt much more harshly in Trieste. than everywhere else, and especially in German cities. It is from this overly forceful repression that resulted in the peculiar way in which they are treated in Austria Italian workers. Although they are, ultimately, Austrians, they are considered from all sides, in the Empire, like foreigners. When we say that it exists an economic struggle between German workers and Italian workers, given that the latter have less needs, and consequently are content with lower wages, one only tells part of the truth. The Italian worker works better and does much more work than the worker German. But, at the same time, one must realize One thing is certain: the violent attacks to which Italian workers are subjected Austria is not designed to instill in them the idea of the Austrian homeland. In the autumn, when work is scarce in Vienna, they return home with rage in their hearts.

THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT 233

In the Vienna parliament, there are few Italian deputies.

listened to. Their group is too small to force attention. But in the Austro-Italian provinces one signals from time to time the intense nationalist unrest organized by the Italia Irredenta party. The leaders of the movement highlights the need, for Italians, to unite in a group to defend themselves. In one of its first sessions of 1899, the Municipal Council of the capital of Istria decided to have a photo taken in the hall of

234 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Advice a commemorative plaque with the inscription next:

On January 15, 1899,
the members of parliament and mayors of Istria, of Trieste and eastern Friuli, gathered in this room, affirmed contrary to the claims of other races, the Italian character, indelible for a thousand years, of the region between the Julian Alps and the sea.

The Italian demonstrations, although one assigns to Vienna thus reveals that it attaches little importance to it. something more than just an explosion of local anger. They indicate that at the appropriate time the Austro-Italian provinces were attached to Italy without resistance. It would be to misunderstand its seriousness to see it as simply a movement organized by nee agitators. It's the uprising of an entire population. the feelings present for Austria symptoms unsettling. The Quirinal's policy, which neglects it with incredible indifference, does not, however, make him to forget his age-old hatreds against oppression.

Thus, whichever way one turns, one does not see in Austria, which has nationalities dissatisfied with their lot, and As a natural consequence, hostile neighbors next door of its borders. It doesn't have a single one that belongs to it. Really nice, really friendly. Everyone feels that The time will come when they will seriously consider... to divide his spoils; and, if they do not seek to hasten this At least for the moment they are ready not to let him escape. That's what you must never forget if you want to recognize oneself amidst the changes taking place felt within the Austro-Hungarian populations.

VII

THE POLISH AND THE RUTHENES

POLISH EXCLUSIVITY IN THE EMPIRE – THE RUTHEANS – PUBLIC EDUCATION – REMINISCENCES – AN OVERVIEW

The Poles have long occupied Austria an entirely exceptional situation. Galicia, however, is beautiful to be nominally a province of the Empire, having a government that obeys the orders of its ministers Viennese, and sending his deputies to sit in Parliament Cisleithan. Nevertheless, it constitutes, throughout all of it, a country apart, enjoying a true autonomy. The inhabitants of Galicia have constantly in given the realization of their Polish national aspirations. For them, this is the first and last word of wisdom. politics, the supreme and in some ways exclusive goal of all their efforts.

Moreover, the Austrian government has never nothing has been done to combat this trend, it seems, On the contrary, at a certain time, encouraging everything his power, as if he had seen it as a way to work to the weakening of the two neighboring empires. Perhaps also, in the midst of the fierce struggle in which the other nationalities of the monarchy, he deemed prudent to to win over the Poles, believing they could count on their recognition. Nevertheless, Emperor Francis-Joseph gave personally, in every circumstance the most blatant evidence of his sympathy for the Polish cause. By a special decree, which he didn't even had it countersigned by the ministers, in order to clearly show that it was his work and the result of his sole initiative, he has restored to the Poles of Galicia the use of their language in schools, the administration, the courts. Public documents are written in Polish; justice is administered in the country's national language; children are raised like in the days when Poland had its kings. They speak to at school, just like in their families, the language of Sobyeski and Kozciusko. The Polish press, which taking into account numerous and important bodies, concludes to nurture in everyone's hearts the feeling of Nationality.

236 JEWISH AUSTRIA

As if he feared that it still wouldn't be enough, In 1880, François-Joseph made his mark within the provinces of the Austrian Poland, a trip that was for him a A true triumph, and one that has the newspapers badly affected. informed from all over Europe, an opportunity to compare the situation of Austrian Poland with that of the Duchy of Posen and the Grand Duchy of Warsaw. That is what gives the question a very special importance. By the the fact that Austrian Poland alone enjoyed autonomy more absolute and that its politicians sit in the advice from the sovereign, the two co-partitioning Empires, Germany and Russia are required to pay close attention—they are concerned about the state of mind, if they want to avoid the progress that could, at certain times, give rise to the idea of a Poland reconstituted as a kingdom, under the rule of an archduke of Austria. This, as everyone knows, is a dream of the Court Vienna has long cherished and to the realization of which had rallied, at least outwardly, many Influential Poles.

THE POLISHES AND THE RUTHEANS 237

Things have, in some respects, changed. since the accession of Emperor Nicholas II in Russia. The Alexander III's successor acted liberally; he showed himself to be conciliatory towards the Poles, left a large number of exiles returned to their homes. He has broken, in short, with the system of severity and vexations that had weighed so heavily on relations between the Russian Government and the inhabitants of the Duchy of Warsaw. He too, like Franz Joseph, accomplished a journey through the Polish provinces of his empire; and, by his chivalrous attitude, by the confidence he has demonstrated in Polish loyalty, he provoked the enthusiasm of the people.

What future awaits Polish nationality? If the Poland was supposed to be reconstituted one day, it seems unlikely

It is likely that this is for the benefit of a family member. of the Habsburgs. Politics has, nowadays, come back to haunt us.
unforeseen events that often disrupt forecasts human wisdom.

Let's be frank about it. Galicia is not in no way constituted or administered in accordance with democratic traditions of our modern times.
The Polish aristocracy plays a dominant role there. The ideas social, as understood in Western countries rates, are completely relegated to the background. The nobility, rich and powerful, exerts its influence throughout the province an undisputed influence, against which it would be difficult to fight. This explains, in large part, the attitude of Polish deputies within the Austrian Parliament dog, and this justifies the criticisms of which this attitude has been Object. The evidence they have consistently demonstrated, when questions of domestic political freedom arise are found in play, and they have been criticized quite often.
People were also moved by the opposition they put forward.

238 JEWISH AUSTRIA

with persistence in all electoral reform projects, likely to facilitate expression for the working classes of their wishes and aspirations. It was necessary to constantly-How to deal with the hostile tactics of the Polish Club when they tried to raise up in the Austrian Reichsrath Reform projects in a democratic direction. Fraud.
so often committed, so often reported in operas electoral matters seem to them a natural thing, of which there is no There's no need to worry. Still full of memories from the past, representatives of the Polish nobility would undoubtedly be very ready to ride a horse, even today, and to gather, sword in hand, to electing a monarch, as in the most brilliant days of a a past that will not be erased from their memory.

So what does it matter to them what is happening in Austria?
They only take care of it as much as the decisions made or past events can have an influence genuine on the future of their nationality. By trend Instinctively, they belong to the Conservative Party.
In reality, in practice, they have always supported the government yesterday, whoever the men were who occupied power. Wasn't that the true way to be always favored and to obtain for Galicia what they Did they want it? We even saw them once consent to to vote on certain laws that did not have their approval, provided they were not applicable to Galicia. They were willing for them to be put into effect in the the rest of the Empire, provided that their country was exempt.

This is what ultimately creates true unity.
their conduct. They were bitterly criticized for being fickle, one day allying themselves with the German party, the next to the Czechs, to declare themselves hostile to parliamentarism and to use it, however, to their own advantage with a real skill. That shows a poor understanding of them and a disregard for the
They are driven by a sense of their nationality, which guides all their actions.
do not want to remain Austrians; but, provided they do not

THE POLISHES AND THE RUTHEANS 239

they are not conspiring against the monarchy that granted them their frankly, (their conscience makes no reproach to them).
Let the Czechs and Germans fight each other and They're tearing each other apart, that's their business. The Poles, on the other hand, they only need to take advantage of these internal disputes to consolidate-
They are increasingly laying the foundations of their autonomy. They know that the victorious party, whoever it may be, will need their voices. In the higher interest of the Polish cause, they practice the politics of opportunism. It was at the German or Czech politicians to know
The advance, what to expect. The Poles have no interest to facilitate neither the establishment of their national predominance. Their useful role is to approach to successively address all parties without favoring any of them None exclusively. It's the conduct they have consistently held since they have been sitting in Parliament;
It was the only one they had to maintain, from their point of view.
To be honest. Where some people wanted to see...
On the one hand, it was seen as a kind of betrayal; on the contrary, there was only one
A noteworthy loyalty to the Polish cause. Under this
In their report, they didn't change one bit. What they were Forty years ago, they were still there today, they are still there today.
will still be there tomorrow.

The anger expressed by German parliamentarians or Czechs is the best proof that they have reached their but and let no one be mistaken. On every occasion, he makes himself known-a veritable hostility, which sometimes goes as far as an explosion of veritable rage, but which nevertheless has the merit of provoking wishes of absolutely significant frankness. German nationalists are loudly demanding that the Poles should be separated from the rest of the Empire. That's enough. To clearly establish the absolute incompatibility of the feelings, differences and aspirations between the German population and the Polish nationality. They can live temporarily side by side, as long as circumstances require it-will; deep down, they will always have the same desire in their hearts. namely, to have nothing in common.

240 JEWISH AUSTRIA

There is something else, moreover, that must be noted in great honor to the Poles. Whatever their differences they have suffered more than anyone else, they possess an undeniable quality, to which they give They readily pay homage to their most bitter adversaries. are of unwavering solidarity, of a community ideas demonstrating sound political discipline. knows they are incapable of vileness, of anything that could to resemble a betrayal. The supporters of annexation to The German Empire cannot count on them at any time. prizes to help them realize their projects. Hence also the the trust shown to them in the highest circles government bodies of Vienna.

At a certain time, there were no fewer than four ministers of Polish nationality in the Austrian Cabinet; and the advantages, however modest, that they knew obtaining for their country naturally motivated the jealousy from other nationalities. It's not just Vienna, that the Poles managed to take their place in the dominant spheres. Skilled at propelling themselves forward, Intelligent and skillful, they know how to take a real advantage everywhere; influence; and it is not uncommon to see them sitting on various points of the globe, in the highest positions.

THE RUTHENES

It is regrettable that the Poles do not seem to be able to...

willing to understand in others the feeling of the national duty they themselves profess to such a high degree. One can apply to their conduct towards the Ruthenians, for example, what is often said of Hungarians vis-à-vis Romanians and Croats. There are Galicia and Bukovina: 3.5 million Ruthenians against 3,740,000 Poles. It would therefore seem natural that a certain place was given to the Ruthenians in the country's administration. However, this is not the case. The element Ruthenian is completely relegated to the background; the Poles alone govern and administer as if they were the only inhabitants of the region. The Ruthenians arrive only with great difficulty, and at the cost of patients efforts, to sometimes be worth some of their retentions. This was explained, for a long time, by the ardent resistance of the Poles against the Russians, whose Ruthenians are very similar in their approach to customs and trends, and towards which they are visibly directed their sympathies. As things stand, after the sort of rapprochement that took place between Poles and Russians, this bias has lost none of its absolute nature.

THE POLISHES AND THE RUTHEANS 241

In Galicia, just as in the other provinces
In mixed populations, the issue of languages plays a role predominant and introduced into public relations a disruptive element. Things have come to this to the point that the Ruthenians ostentatiously patronize a project for the administrative division of the monarchy over entirely different bases than those that exist today. At place of the current division into provinces, corresponding to the former kingdoms or duchies grouped within the Empire, it gave them it would seem more natural to introduce the division based on the community of language and nationality (individuals national (to use their favorite expression). This will only happen – they say – when things are Once we reach this point, it will be possible to pass a law in Austria. on the use of languages and to create between peoples peaceful relations. It's an idea that has, we must to recognize, something that is attractive at first glance.

The language question in Galicia is not only,
Indeed, it is a national issue; it seems that it is also

And perhaps most importantly, a social issue. Language Polish is that of the upper classes, of the aristocracy noble, of the government; the Ruthenian language is that of a fairly large population, but composed of pro-Letters. However much Polish painters may show us, in famous paintings, a great lord and a common man holding hands. Such brotherhood can occur at a critical time, at a moment of general uprising and hope-killing. In the practical aspects of life, the Ruthenians and their language are discussed with a certain disdain by the Poles; and even in certain exclusively Ruthenian communes, the influence government inspectors were large enough to provide Polish education to the children of people. That is why the Ruthenians are demanding division of Austria in provinces organized according to the individuals national dualities. They want, in the words of one of their deputies, to constitute, in the Austrian state, a Ruthenian province, entirely distinct from Galicia.

242 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Perhaps, from the Austrian point of view, it would be wise to grant their desires, to give them a certain autonomy. Perhaps in this way we could achieve to awaken in them a genuine Austrian patriotism, and especially to temper their strong sympathies for Russia. The test would be worth doing. It would, in any case, to cease a state of affairs that the Poles claim to be based on historical law. At the time of the government absolute, under the domination of a central government The Viennese, the Ruthenians, were much happier that under the current regime; and as long as things do not will not change radically, they do not expect any improvement to their lot.

The Polish aristocracy, so adept in other respects, It seems ill-advised in this circumstance. She would have We need help within to combat the Jewish peril. which is one of the major problems in the situation. It will soon be powerless, if she is not careful, to carry out the relay social change in the country. What to do in certain localities where Jews are in the majority? There is a city, by for example, populated by 94% Jews and only 6% of Christians. Is it necessary to add that the social body Does the whole world suffer from it? Thanks to the disastrous activity Spread by the Jews, alcoholism caused unprecedented devastation. Most hostels in Polish villages are leased by them. They buy the peasants' wheat in exchange for the brandy they supply them; They gradually took control of all commerce and everything industry. The consequence of this invasion has not been not kept waiting. Misery is widespread in the country; the mass desertion of the population; Emigration begins of enormous proportions; and many of those who remain People in the country are resorting to acts of desperation. We have seen recently Ruthenian peasants threw themselves under the wheels of the locomotive, because the authorities were preventing them to emigrate.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

Under such conditions, it is easy to understand, the constitution of a powerful third estate, upon which the nobility can rely with confidence to raise the The moral level of the country has become extremely difficult. The task is all the more arduous because the main means action in such an instance, namely the development public education is extremely neglected. Sad admissions were made in this regard by a Galician deputy, Mr. de Gniewosz, exercising the functions of rapporteur for the public education budget, during one of the last parliamentary sessions; and his confessions are all the more serious because they all rely on the official documents that the honourable rapporteur has communicated screwed in the Chamber. However, it follows that Galicia is undoubtedly one of the provinces of the Austrian Empire where the state of education leaves the most to be desired. There are in the country 700,000 children registered as having to go to school, and who are materially unable to attend to return, because in 21,500 municipalities there is none school. In addition, 400 formerly existing schools had to be closed because there was a shortage of teachers; finally in 1,000 of those that are currently operating, the teaching instruction is given by teachers who only have Insufficient knowledge and no qualifications. This The teachers' strike is caused by the cramped conditions. salaries.

244 JEWISH AUSTRIA

This is a most deplorable state of affairs. In the publicly reporting as F Va did, Mr. de Gniewosz thought he would be doing his wife a real service country. He wanted to provoke a movement of public opinion which could become the starting point for useful measures to to bring a remedy to the ailment. In any case, one must be surprised that the governors of the province, who are themselves Poles, members of the Diet, deputies, had The Government allowed things to get to this point. Vienna's central office would certainly have been willing to to act if he had been asked to do so in a timely manner. Certainly, it seems It's hard to admit that things could be so bad state s1, it had been insisted upon, in the highest Polish circles, to But things turned out differently.

Leaving 2,500 municipalities without schools, being forced to closing the schools of another 400, due to a lack of teachers, is This is truly a fact that could have been prevented, otherwise Completely, at least to some extent. And when we see the Diet, instead of thinking about teaching of the people, decree that children who attend the High schools will have a brilliant, rather expensive uniform, we will not can't help but wonder if there isn't something to specify- creating a deliberate contrast, to establish a greater distance in greater numbers among the sons of the Szlachta (lesser nobility) rural) and the offspring of the working classes. The Galicia found funds to build and maintain museums, universities, academies. It shows itself very proud of these designated organs of an advanced civilization. How does she suffer from having her name appear first? ranks among illiterate countries, given that 90% of its

THE POLISHES AND THE RUTHEANS 245

The population can neither read nor write? How? does she bear the shame of being one of the provinces where the law Doesn't primary education exist?

The disastrous consequences are having a cruel impact. on her, moreover. It's no longer just the peasants, These are also the small landowners who are among the hands of the usurers. Inept at defending themselves against the At the hands of the Jews, they surrendered bound hand and foot. to the lenders who exploit them unscrupulously and who gradually reduce the entire country to despair, to the misery, placing the people in the sad alternative of choosing between death or emigration. Is it any wonder that From time to time explosions occur, which Dr. Is the people's nation overstepping its bounds? Without a doubt, it must be done. blame as severely, as energetically as possible ble anti-Semitic peasant revolts when they result in massacres, violence, bloodshed, and

These seem to be the prelude to a full-blown civil war. Without a doubt Without a doubt, the people must be taught to respect the law and not to not to take justice into his own hands. But the real remedy would consist above all in uprooting the populations Galician women under the yoke of alcoholism on the one hand, loans exaggerated on the other hand. It would be appropriate for all forces the vibrant people of the country agree to unite in the accomplishment-sowing of this work of salvation. It is only by giving to the Galician peasants, to the workers of the cities and of campaigns, to all the working classes of the country, the A sense of their human dignity, through education and a good example, that one could regenerate a country which Ultimately, it possesses all the necessary qualities to to achieve progress.

Until now, we have been too exclusively concerned with the the Polish question from an external point of view; and we have strived to diminish German influence as much as possible nique in the localities where it could still exist. Wherever it was possible to replace the German workers, who had infiltrated Poland, through Polish workers, one did it eagerly. Perhaps we will gradually succeed in little, in this way, to endow Galicia with a class average, which until now has been lacking. The workers, in becoming bosses themselves, by acquiring a certain instruction will eventually, we must hope at least, by to constitute a third estate whose absence is becoming too apparent

246 JEWISH AUSTRIA

I really want to feel better about not having been noticed since long by the country's true friends. It would be a enormous service rendered to the Polish cause.

REMINISCENCES

The national sentiment of the Polish people has been maintained resilient through all trials, and constituted the a true unity of their history. In support of this understanding— In this regard, it is important to emphasize the interesting conclusions— insights that emerge from a book by Mr. Kozmian, Polish publicist, devoted to the events of 1863. The Poles of Galicia were initially very hesitant to They joined their fellow Russians. They understood that nothing good could come from this uprising for the Polish cause; they blamed him in their hearts; and it was only on a coded telegram received from the hotel Lambert, by Mr. Kozmian himself, whom the nobility Galician woman finally gave her support to a movement— which she found absolutely premature and insufficiently It was prepared. How can this turnaround be explained? How can this be justified in the eyes of the world and of history? the self—denial that this aristocracy was giving itself Galician, so deeply patriotic, and at the same time so Intelligent and so thoughtful? Quite simply. She has summer, if not pushed forward, at least tacitly encouraged by the Austrian Government, in whom she has I thought I saw the benevolent support that Poland needed. And on the other hand, she believed she could count on France.

THE POLISHES AND THE RUTHEANS 247

It is this double illusion, understandable, moreover, in due to the circumstances, which dictated his conduct.

Mr. Kozmian seeks to explain the errors that were committed at that time. "They can," he said to be recorded by the writers of the time; but the facts that they have but hardly deserve attention of History." On both sides, in fact, it appears that one exhausted himself in vain efforts to know thoughts which have always remained mysterious. The Poles, by the intervention of Prince Czartoriski, multiplied their attempts to persuade Emperor Napoleon III to to embrace their cause. The emperor, for his part, was waiting that events took a decisive turn, and that An opportunity arose for him to intervene usefully. He had implied that his attitude would depend on that of Austria and England, to whom he had asked what they intended to do and who had not responded clearly enough. However, with its habits studies of not rushing anything, always wanting to reserve the the right to decide at his own time, he avoided discouraging the Polish. His ministers, his advisors, in particular Messrs. Walewski and Drouyn de Lhuys had been sounded out; and these had, without committing to anything, lavished expressions of sympathy that had been taken at Serious. This is, as we said, according to a dispatch from the Hotel Lambert, which the Galicians associated with, defined-actively to the insurrection, in order to take away from it what it could have been too local, and give it the character of a national struggle.

It seems certain that Poland counted, until the very end, on a French intervention, as well as on Austria's support. She hoped that the 1863 uprising would provoke a European war, and consequently a congress where his fate would be decided. No one is unaware of this. to what extent events deceived his expectations. Emperor Napoleon III did not move; and as for Austria, for its part, limited itself to exchanging goods with Russia.

248 JEWISH AUSTRIA

diplomatic notes that only served to demonstrate his embarrassment. Prince Gortschakoff, in one of his In response, he felt compelled to remind him that in 1849, When Hungary rose up, it was a Russian army who had saved the Habsburg throne at the Battle of Villagos. The Russian chancellor was asking if Austria did not He did not believe the time had come to express his gratitude. This was achieved by helping the Tsar restore order in Warsaw. invitation, addressed to a power that had ostensibly- the committees were encouraged Polish people gathered publicly in Vienna without putting no obstacle to the action, demonstrated that in Saint- In Petersburg, we weren't fooled by the double game played by the Vienna Cabinet. In any case, he felt eagerly await the irony hidden beneath the courteous words of Prince Gortschakoff.

To give an appearance of satisfaction to the great Northern Empire, the Austrian Government took certain precautionary measures which, arriving late, do not could lead to nothing. Some arrests were made. isolated incidents that were not maintained; and believing no doubt having thus sufficiently saved appearances. we allowed things to form quietly on the borders of armed groups that entered Russian territory in view and everyone knew it. The Austrian authorities fer- They closed their eyes and pretended not to hear anything. By acting in this way, they were obeying an order that had come from above. What was impossible in 1863 could, in the opinion of certain influential figures, becoming possible later. It was therefore necessary to let people believe to the Galicians that Austria would sooner or later become the liberator of Poland.

OVERVIEW

The Galician nobility took very skillful advantage of this situation. that concerns her, prevailing states of mind to

THE POLISHES AND THE RUTHEANS 249

Vienna. She managed to build a powerful group there which took a dominant share in the government of Austria. Although she did not reconstitute the Kingdom of Poland, she knew how to at the very least make Galicia a real country independent, where one lives on memories of the past and hopes for the future. The Poles of Galicia have nothing to to envy no one in terms of political autonomy tick. But, it cannot be stressed enough, they have a lot to to gain from the point of view of true civilization; and for To achieve this, they would first need to change the state social system based on prerogatives that are not fundamentally a revival of medieval customs. The work The people are prey to the Jews, insofar as they are not absorbed by the nobility. The social and economic constitution The identity of a country is not, it is true, an arbitrary thing, variable according to the desires of a caste; in Galicia and in Bukovina more than anywhere else, it is determined by a set of 4 circumstances which must be taken into account account. However, as the investigation public would raise the intellectual level of people Polish and Ruthenian, they would become aware of the actual condition and would collect the essential elements to the improvement of their lot. If therefore the caste ambitious, which dominates in Lemberg and Krakow, shows itself rebellious against any action where the future of the people is at stake, it is because his intervention would encounter numerous interests, would thwart the covetousness, which all conspire together to obstruct the march of progress. What results from this? Is it? In the absence of a strong impulse emanating from the country's elite, the causes that once led to the division of Poland remains intact.

VIII HUNGARY

OVERVIEW – THE UNION OF HUNGARY WITH AUSTRIA – JEWISH HUNGARY – THE NATIONAL WRESTLING – THE ROMANIANS – THE

| CROATES

The kingdom of Saint-Etienne offers the observer impartial, the same spectacle of unrest and agitation policies that the Austrian Empire, although to a degree one at least. If the internal dissension has not reached Given the intensity on both sides of the Leitha, it is necessary to... to seek the cause exclusively in extreme severity with which all movements are repressed in Hungary comments that would be likely to hinder the work of "Hungarianization". Everything that is not Hungarian by race or trends must become re: such is the law; This is the goal pursued with unprecedented tenacity. The severity in this regard quickly becomes excessive when it comes to fighting the slightest inclination to wear an attack on Jewish domination. The Judeo-liberal caste is all-powerful in the kingdom of Saint-Etienne, more even though in Austria.

252 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Magyars, so proud of their nationality, seem However, they have forgotten their origin. Whether they are of race

Finnish or Ugric, therefore close relatives Siberian Vogoules, or perhaps Vambéry is right in claiming that they are of Turkish race, it is certain that they do not they no longer live, as in the past, from their national life, but that they have embraced in all things the views and desires of Jews. These, with their usual skill, have Hungarianized to become masters of the country, who unfortunately—Fortunately, they hardly benefited from it. The Hungarian people, in its broad lower layers, has remained at a degree of very low cultivation, much lower than that of others peoples of the Lower Danube, such as the Romanians and the Bulgarians. There is great misery in the plains of Hungary.
The population, almost entirely devoted to agriculture ture, shows little taste for industrial work, to which The government is seeking to initiate it. By PRE's own admission...
The Hungarian province is suffering. The old source of wealth that long seemed inexhaustible, agriculture ture, must withstand the fierce competition it faces from the foreign products.

In the face of this misery in the countryside,
the rapid and continuous expansion of the capital, Budapest presents a striking contrast. There is reason to be concerned about this.
all the more striking given that, generally speaking, all the works that have been carried out, public works and works private companies were financed through loans. The resources of countries would have been completely insufficient. It was necessary to do call for credit. Little by little, moreover, the government strives to develop industry, in order to compensate for the decline in agricultural incomes; but the transformation
The desired outcome is achieved only very slowly in this area.

Things, however, move faster on the field politics. As everywhere Jews dominate, the partisan passions have taken on a feverish intensity in Hungary unhealthy, which most often translates into fierce struggles and passionate members of parliament. A change as well

IN HUNGARY

T Air LIVVIN VIA

tn
A

radical than that which has been accomplished since 1848, and especially since 1867, could not, in truth, have been achieved without the use of the force, which always leaves behind a desire to re-sailles. It is therefore not at all surprising that the Hungarians have today a reputation for being prone to violence and to arbitrariness in the exercise of authority. Let's not forget However, to pay homage to the truth by placing the excuse alongside the brutal statement of facts. Any transformation information achieved in a state where homogeneity is This flaw inevitably offends certain interests, certain feelings... ments, to satisfy others. She cannot concent- to combine the elements of a unit that is difficult to constitute without to provoke discontent and contradiction. However, this The Magyars are trying to stifle the discontent. demonstration; and to the contradiction, they oppose the rape- ence, that is to say the right of those who cannot find it others.

As the Germans do in Austria, the Hungarians, although they are actually a minority in the countries strive to exert absolute supremacy, without counterweight, without control, over all other peoples grouped under the same laws. During the last elections In Hungary, truly horrific acts have occurred. Political pressure and violence have never been pushed that far. The Catholic-Popular Party has been in somehow repressed into the ground. The Slavs, the Romanians and other non-Magyar Hungarians, were, to a small extent Nearly one hundred people were injured during the election period; Fifty to sixty were killed; it was necessary to call in the army to restore order. The Austrian regiments came to Hungary, by order of the Hungarian ministers, lend a hand so that the will of the country is put into action in the powerlessness to make themselves heard.

254 JEWISH AUSTRIA

THE UNION OF HUNGARY WITH AUSTRIA

We don't need to remind you in er circumstances led to the formation, in its current form, of the Kingdom of Hungary. None of those who are so much so

Those who are not well-informed about contemporary history have not forgotten it. When old Austria was crushed on the field of Battle of Sadowa, the Hungarians, who had contributed to the disaster due to the attitude of their troops towards the enemy, wanted to take advantage of the crisis that he was going through the Habsburg empire. They wanted to be independent. However, the Hungarian state remained linked to Austria by a number of institutions common to both halves of the Empire, such as the army, the customs union and commercial, the monetary unit, the Austro-Hungarian Bank, and other points of lesser importance, This pact, concluded in 1867, and known as the Austro-Hungarian, sets the importance of the contributions made. to the responsibility of each of the contracting parties for the inter-army expenses and other common costs. However, when it came to renewing this compromise recently For a period of ten years, he manifested himself in both ways On the side of the anger, one might have thought that two irreconcilable adversaries were present, instead of two states that ultimately have the same advantage in remaining united. In Hungary, we have seen very political groups powerful, believing that their country would be wronged in its interests in favor of the other, to request, in terms of a extreme violence, the complete separation of the two halves of the Empire, which would have retained no other link than that, purely honorary, of a personal union under the same sovereign.

Within the narrow framework in which we are forced to move, we can only sketch in broad strokes the causes of these passionate disagreements. Traditional hatreds traditional relations between Germans and Hungarians naturally play a role there. one element plays a major role; but one must also play a major role on.

>>
has

©
z

0 7 ee

Ed
N
A

taking into account the desire expressed, in antidynas circles—ticks, to weaken the power of the Empire. Nevertheless, that in these tendencies towards absolute separation, it is necessary to see that the effervescence of an artificial agitation maintained, into which certain principles are mixed policies of a special nature.

Hungarian statesmen present as a an indispensable condition of Austro-Hungarian dualism, which it there is, on both sides of the Leitha, a Dominant nationality; German nationality in Cisleithania, Hungarian nationality in Transleithania. However,
 Can we honestly say that the German population—:
 Who currently plays the dominant role in Austria?
 It would be more accurate to say that she gradually lost her leading individual and that domestic policy of Austria today consists of a life-or-death struggle between the Germanic and Slavic peoples. This is not only, in the current state of affairs, a special issue for Austria Cisleithane; this is a matter of extreme gravity which can, at a given moment, exert a decisive influence on the fate of the compromise. The Hungarians do not want to no price to consider the possibility of a triumph of Slavs in Austria. In this case, indeed, dualism
 The Austro-Hungarian system, as it exists today, could be
 They would not consent to it.
 The establishment of an independent Czech kingdom, which would be sanctioned by the coronation of the emperor as king of Bohemia, seems incompatible with the foundations upon which the union between the two parts of the Empire. In the opinion of the Hungarians, if the
 If the constitution of a Czech kingdom were to be established, it would not
 They would have no other option but to demand the absolute independence of Hungary, completely separated from Austria.

The governmental system followed in Hungary in
 In the last twenty years, he has made two big mistakes.
 On the one hand, billions have been spent to give this

256 JEWISH AUSTRIA

a multilingual kingdom with a pompous national-Hungarian veneer;

and the resulting burdens weigh heavily on the mass of the people devoted to agriculture, to such an extent that in Despite protective rights pushed to the extreme, a part of the population is literally threatened in its existence. On the other hand, everything possible has been done. to imagine throwing into the opposition, or even into a preconceived hostility, the non-Hungarian majority of the country, to instead of winning her over with sympathetic feelings. The Hungary does not possess the necessary means of action to have an independent army nor to follow a Independent foreign policy. A Hungarian army- The Croatian army would contain barely a third of Hungarian soldiers. two other thirds would be declared enemies.

Did the anti-Slavic policy at least have any effect? the result of reconciling the Germans of Austria with the Magyars? Not in the slightest. The Germans, as that nationalists do not see, in the union with Hungary that a means of stirring up public opinion, of presenting the kingdom of Saint-Etienne like a parasite, gnawing away for centuries the Austrian state. The Austrian anti-Semites dogs rally to the nationalists to give free career to their hatred against the State which they call Judeo-Hungarian. It was under these conditions that the compromise The Austro-Hungarian treaty was renewed in 1899, that is to say, two years after the expiry of the pact, with the approval of parliament-Hungarian ment, whose members are almost all Magyars, still display dynastic sentiments. But, in Regarding Cisleithan Austria, the divisions of parliament and the obstruction by the Germans did not allowed the compromise to be voted on by the deputies. renewal was decreed by the emperor, by virtue of Article 14 of the Constitution, which authorizes the power executive branch to act as needed, when the country's interest demands it. without the consent of the legislative bodies.

In short, despite this pact of unity, hatred continues to to subsist between the two halves of the Empire.

0 pr) eo
(e) D
A NEITHER

JEWISH HUNGARY

The important role played by Jews in Hungary can only be compared to the one they play in Galicia, the province most subject to their influence that exists in Austria. The Hungarian Jews number 800,000. approximately. They absorbed almost all social activity of the country, and have also come to exercise a preponder- absolutely undisputed leadership in public life, even apart from material interests. The inevitable effect The outcome of this domination was what was naturally expected. It is the same everywhere the children of Israel reach this degree of power, the peasants in the countryside, the The middle class in the cities are absolutely ruined. The money is concentrated in the coffers of the Jews. The castles and the Thousands of farms have passed through their hands. Usury has everything destroyed, everything ruined, everything drawn to it, like leprosy incurable.

Dr. Horsky recently wrote: "In In 1862, Jews did not own an inch of land in Hungary; currently a third of the land of the entire kingdom It belongs to them. The county of Nyitra is entirely theirs. Three Jews alone own 100,000 hectares. According to According to official statistics, there are 3,192 large properties. From this total, the Jews found a way, in thirty years, to acquire a third; they own 1,031. When two opponents are grappling – says the pro- verb – a third thief appears who laughs at their expense. The Magyars were fighting against the Germans and the Slavs. They argued over language supremacy and political domination in Hungary. The Jew passed between them and took everything.

What becomes of them amidst this invasion? Progressive, the Hungarian aristocracy? Certainly, there are still wealthy nobles, who were able to retain their properties heritage. But their number is decreasing year by year year. Many of them had to sell their land and

258 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Their castles. But who is the buyer? Nine times out of ten It is the Jew. Others, to save themselves from ruin, decide to contract wealthy marriages; and who marry-They? A daughter of Israel. That is the most salient aspect of the Modern life in Hungary. Marriages between aristocrats ruined and Jewish are multiplying beyond all expression.

This is how Hungary is becoming Judaized. Financial activity Worldly skill is added to this. The wealthy Jew makes his daughter, so that she might marry a Christian nobleman.

It must be acknowledged that civil laws in Hungary, greatly facilitate the task of the Israelites. The legislation-mortgage ion in particular, skillfully exploited by the capital holders, allowed them to strip the peasants and the petty bourgeoisie, and to take away their land and the shops that provided them with a living. The poor people thus find themselves at the mercy of Jewish masters to whom they are not more than the tenants, and who subject them to all sorts of humiliations. Furthermore, upon a simple request written on paper stamped with 50 kreuzers, it is permissible to changing a Jewish name to a Christian name. The Jews, To give the impression, they thus Magyarize themselves, and believe to act patriotically. The number of those who took
In this way, Hungarian names number in the thousands.

The practice of usury in all its forms and in all conditions have passed to a degree which no one can
To form an opinion. It has absolutely no limits. To act With this audacity, with this frightening shamelessness, one must that the Jews have, more than anywhere else, the idea well deeply ingrained belief that they are dealing with beings of an inferior race.
The contempt they show to the Hungarian inhabitants leads one to believe that everything is fine with them and that they have nothing to spare. One wonders how a people However proud the Hungarians may have been, they allowed themselves to be dominated. mastering it to that extent. Perhaps it's simply the effect of the misery that stripped him of all strength to resist.

N
A
D

The same cause must be attributed to the progress of agrarian socialism that the Jews created within the Hungarian countryside. Activity being much less in the factories on this side of the Leitha, there was no Catholicism has no place to concern itself with workers' socialism.
tried in vain to fight against these doctrines by placing him, too, at the head of a popular movement which he wanted to lead. Socialism, bolder in its means of action, more adept at flattering the bad the passions of the people, easily prevailed.

Through the political propaganda carried out in this regard, by the usurious loans, through industrial and financial activity, the The Jews became the undisputed masters in Hungary. governments themselves have fallen under their domination nation, as a result of skillfully executed financial operations carried out. They are completely dependent on the Jews, and the The people have no help to expect from them. The anti-Mitism attempted to oppose this absorption of forces vibrant life of the country. But he was crushed by brute force, at Paide used extraordinary means. He was supported in vain by the party called the people's party, within the Hungarian Parliament. The brave men enlisted under this banner are far too weak to make their voices heard. especially since the capital's press is entirely monopolized by those they would like to fight. Nothing only indicates, in the current situation, the Hungary has the opportunity to escape the yoke anytime soon of Israel. Undoubtedly, there are a certain number elite men among the people's chosen. The nation Hungarian, taken as a whole, is to be honored. neat and possesses remarkable qualities. She is hardworking leuse, heroic in times of danger, accessible to all noble ideas. But she lacked strength of character. sufficient to repel the A of Jewish corruption which has invaded everything; and above all, it would be powerless to dominate the other nationalities if the Jews declared themselves against it.

260 JEWISH AUSTRIA

NATIONAL WRESTLING

The Magyars, who number approximately 7 million, and consequently form only a minority in the State Hungarians govern a country of 17 million people. claim to be able to Magyarize other nationalities. that is to say, to make them abandon their language, their habits studies, their national life. Hence the ardent struggles, the passionate resistance, an absolutely chaotic. These national struggles, however, have not, it must be said To put it bluntly, the harshness that characterizes them in Austria. Indeed, the Germans from Hungary, Serbs, Slovaks, so jealous that they may be of their nationality, are in reality too poorly supported, and above all too isolated from each other to that their resistance to the Ibn where Judeo-Hungarian had some chance of achieving a significant result.

The Romanians and the Croats remain. The latter form a kingdom of Croatia-Slovenia whose administration The territory is freed from the influence of the Magyars, and whose the situation, vis-à-vis the Government of Budapest, is at almost identical to that of Hungary itself vis-screws of the Austrian Empire. As for the three million of Romanians, who live in the plains of Transylvania, of the Banat at the foot of the Carpathians, they possess three cities of a of some importance, Hermanstadt, Clausenbourg and Kronstadt. In these three centers, nationalist agitation Romanian is all the more vibrant because the population holds its eyes fixed beyond the Carpathians, the border between the Hungary and the Kingdom of Romania.

THE ROMANIANS

Transylvania's autonomy was abolished by the Magyars, so that the Romanian population was, by that very fact, deprived of what constituted the best protection of its national existence. Currently the

{

ND
O\
has

Romanians are victims of truly oppressive behavior. intolerable. Consequently, a current formed among them. ideas tending towards the annexation of Transylvania to the mother-homeland, that is to say, the Kingdom of Romania. It is the an inevitable consequence of the oppression they are subjected to times. This separatist trend has taken on such proportions-statements that an Austrian MP recently made the initiative of an interpellation in this regard within the Austro-Hungarian delegations. It was indeed necessary to act in this way. since neither the Romanians, despite their respectable number of three million, neither the Slovaks, nor do they have representatives legal matters in the Parliament of Budapest.

The fact remains that this fact, of seeing a nationality of 3 million men, which is encompassed in the Hungarian state, forced to turn to Romanians Austrians to make their grievances heard, is sufficient-characteristic of the state of affairs existing in Hungary. This gentle fact that the non-Hungarian peoples They are not exaggerating when they say that there can be no question of genuine equality between the various nationalities. The the fiction, so dear to the Magyars, of a unitary Hungarian state, inevitably leads to such violence, such abuses of power. Never the Romanians, nor the Serbs, nor any other nationalities that constitute the majority in Hungary, will not voluntarily renounce their individuality national identity. The Magyars know this very well. It doesn't matter to them There are no other resources left besides brute force, and they make use of them. widely used.

In Budapest, there is absolutely no concern about knowing if, by acting in this way, one does not cause the most harm serious about the general interests of the monarchy. No one does not ignore, for example, from the point of view of inter- relations national, what importance is attached, in Vienna, to maintaining good relations with Romania; and However, the Hungarians, by the brutality with which they oppress the Romanians, work without interruption at destroy the ties of good neighborliness with the young kingdom from Romania. They seize every opportunity to to accentuate their way of being in this regard. That is how in fussy neighbors, they raise every conceivable difficulty import duties in Austria-Hungary on products Romanians.

262 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Romanian-Moldavians truly form a nation valiant, and worthy of genuine sympathy. Since the two principalities of Romania and Moldova, united by made in 1859, saw their union legally consecrated in 1861, and that they began to have full awareness of their national life, they have constantly remained faithful to their mission of maintaining order and Freedom, in Eastern Europe. From an intellectual point of view as well as in terms of equipment, they made quick progress, during the reign of King Charles I. This young Latin people, descendants of colonists established in Dacia by Trajan could serve as an example from more than one point of view. to some of his older and more powerful brothers POccident. He deserves to realize his dreams of national unity-nale, reminding him of those of his brothers who groan under Hungarian rule.

THE CROTANS

The Croatians, as we indicated above, enjoy the benefits of an administration that escapes the influence of the Hungarians. They possess autonomy fairly extensive within the Kingdom of Hungary. However, In some respects, they are still subject to the tutelage of the Magyars, whose flag they abhor. On the occasion of the celebrations commemorating the thousandth anniversary of the capture of possession of the country by the Magyars, the Croatian students from the University of Prague published a protest con- to celebrate these holidays. "We cannot see - they said - among other things, that a tribute was paid to the triumph of brute force over justice, of savigerie on intellectual culture, of lies about ve- rity. Even today, after a thousand years have passed, the strength and lies are the foundations of the power exercised by Magyar hegemony over the Slavic peoples of Hungary. As Croats, as Slavs, as men, we Let us condemn this festival of violence and immorality. Europe, we are convinced, possesses at one to a fairly high degree the sense of law and justice, for to welcome this protest as it should be received 4 the Croatian youth.

{

HUNGARY 263

Following the example of the Czechs in Austria, the Croats invoke undeniable historical rights in favor of the absolute independence they demand. They are not Hungarians; they never wanted to be, however weak they may be the link that connects them to the monarchy of Saint-Étienne, they intend to break it. Croatian politics pursues a goal clearly determined. Croatia, Slovenia, Istria, the Dalmatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina must, according to the adopted program, to be brought together one day under the same banner, and form a single state, within the Habsburg monarchy. This unitary state, having the character of Croatian national character, would have its center in Agram, which is already currently the center of intellectual life in Croatia. It would retain certain common interests with Croatia. the other parts of the monarchy, and would resolve them with one mutual agreement with them. The Slovenian delegates already committed to this unification program; and the demands that they have formulated have no other purpose than to break the links that subjugate the lands inhabited by Slovenes to the domination of the Austrian Germans. By right Undoubtedly, the Austrian lands inhabited by Slovenes belong to Croatia.

The national questions raised on the banks of The Adriatic are, moreover, too complex for us to can hope to solve them well in advance. In these maritime regions, political and national unrest tend towards often contradictory goals, and are com-

264 JEWISH AUSTRIA

They also raise religious questions. While I, the Croats of Agram, aspire, as we have just said. to say, to the formation of a South Slavic state under the rule of the Habsburgs, a movement in the opposite direction is emerging for some time now in the southern part of the Dalmatia, in favor of the Prince of Montenegro and a Kingdom of Greater Serbia. From Raäguse to Cattaro, notably- The entire Serbian population is fighting against the administration. Austrian tration and fervently hopes for the proclamation- the appointment of the Prince of Montenegro as king, as well as the unification of all Orthodox Serb countries into one kingdom unitary.

The efforts made by the South Slavs to unite have However, they do have one thing in common. They all want to put an end to their fragmentation, their scattering, which is the result of Hungarian domination. Indeed, it was the Magyars

yes, by their appearance in Europe, changed the course of born of the South Slavic race, sinking, like a corner, in the middle of the populations they have subjected to their yoke. The founding of a Slavic empire seemed all indicated between the Adriatic Sea and the plains of the Lower Danube. It was the perfect solution before the arrival Hungarians a thousand years ago. The South Slavs are currently seeking to extricate themselves from the conditions contrary to the destiny that the past has made for them.

IX

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY – IN CASE OF WAR

MILITARY REORGANIZATION AFTER SADOWA – THE MANEUVERS – THE JEWS IN THE ARMY – THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY CAN SHE ESCAPE THE INFLUENCES? NATIONALIST STRUGGLES?

The active army in Austria-Hungary was formed, on a footing of peace, to 385,210 men, including 24,538 officers. Adding to this the officers of the reserve and the Landwehr (territorial army) riale}, not included in the Landsturm, the total strength, on The war effort would have numbered approximately 1,872,000 men. Officers and soldiers. How is this army recruited? What has been his attitude in the past? To what extent? Could such influence be accessible in the event of war? That's what we need to examine quickly.

MILITARY REGORGANIZATION AFTER SADOWA

It was only after the disastrous campaign of 1866, and when the foundations on which today rests

266 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The dualistic edifice had been fixed, that serious thought was given to... semement to make use of the experiences of the years previous ones to reorganize the military forces of the monarchy. Above all, efforts were made to realize the idea often issued by the old Marshal Radetzky, in constituting killing a truly popular army, organized according to the modern system. Compulsory military service was decreed; it became the basis for army recruitment. At the same time, the Landwehr was created on both sides of the Leitha. Then, the reform activity, deployed for this purpose in the upper echelons, it spread to all branches of Military administration.

In the midst of this reconstruction work, something happened. The Franco-German war broke out unexpectedly. The various twists and turns of this struggle between two great nations revealed to all of Europe points of view in large part new, in any case very surprising for the most. Events demonstrated, with clarity striking, the decisive influence that it exerts on the fate of the war, the speed of mobilization, as well as the immediate concentration of the army at the border. We live, in light of the facts, how important it is to maintain the forces of a nation always ready to fight in first signal, and to prepare in a way for success the advance. Tactical experiments, relating to how to command large armed forces and ensure their supply—the measures to be taken to bring them together on time desired on the same point and use them in the best possible conditions came to provoke everything naturally, the universal interest.

The major lessons provided by the events of 1870–71, were put to good use in Austria. They were used to continue the work of military reorganization started after 1866.

First and foremost, attention was paid to armaments and the equipment. The artillery was given cannons of bronze-steel, which at the time seemed to meet all the modern requirements. But as has been brought about since, in France and Germany, major improvements to the construction of cannons, Austrian artillery is no more today, commensurate with the progress made in other countries. The need for a renewed effort is becoming increasingly apparent. to feel. The rapid-fire cannon, currently under study, and the one that has a chance of being adopted is the 75 mm caliber. 10 meters; the manufacturing material is an amalgam of bronze and steel. The complete overhaul of the artillery is revised in the budget for a sum of 40 million ARE to be spread over several exercises. The infantry was equipped with repeating rifles, according to the Manlicher system; its weaponry seems very worthy of entering in parallel with that of other states. Care was taken to take into account, for this weaponry, experiments were conducted in 1870-71, and to establish uniformity of caliber throughout the army. Finally The adoption of smokeless powder came, provisionallyat least, to conclude the series of improvements for this which concerns the infantry.

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 267

All questions relating to the equipment of troops and the transport of supplies were also studied with meticulous care. Particular attention was paid to-everything to organize the supply in such a way as complete as possible and to create means of trans-space-saving ports.

At the same time as this dual task was being accomplished, great care was taken in the practical instruction of officer corps; and the results have so far responded to the expectations of the highest levels of government. The Au-Hungary has a corps of officers that is led by Their highest point is the feeling of honor. They all do, with an indefatigable effort, which depends on them to form the soldiers in their image, by instilling in them the idea of Dedication and sacrifice. All army officers active, at whatever rank they may have attained, are educated, serious, simple in their way of life, of absolute moral and character correction.

268 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The failures that have occurred recently are produced among reserve officers. and of the Landwehr, where the military spirit inevitably suffered contaregion of the quarrels that divide the Austrian nationalities-nes. This observation is of great importance for whoanyone familiar with the organization of the Austro-Hungarian army, whose officers, in peacetime, are relatively few important. However, it is a certain, proven fact. Number reserve officers voluntarily renounce their grade, for one reason or another. The number of these resignations reaches and sometimes even exceeds two cents per year. Other facts also corroborate the indications that emerge from these trends. The population of Gratz having felt compelled to protest recently against the presence, in this German city, of troops Bosnians, a number of young men, who were Reserve officers took part in the demonstrations. were brought before the court-martial, numbering thirty-seven; but it is certain that the number of those who what they had demonstrated was far more considerable. discussions that took place on this subject within parliament made the strange physiological conditions keenly felt logical and especially psychological aspects of a hetero- army gene like that of Pantehe Honeie They have clear- has been established that there is no means of prevention, no moral rhyphylaxis likely to prevent contagion eee which reaches military personnel doing at the same time part of civil society.

In the eyes of the officers of the active army, this, in despite the diversity of its origins, it remains no less the school of patriotism and discipline. All their efforts (we must do them this justice}, tend to give him this noble character, by perfecting the moral education of men placed under their command. And on the other hand, if one takes into account, moreover, the scarcity of financial resources of the information available to the military administration, it is necessary acknowledging that the results obtained demonstrate a wise use of funds. The ordinary war budget amounts to at approximately 150 million florins, that of the navy at 14 only millions. It is true that the budgeted forecasts- taires are generally outdated by challenge accounts- end-of-year gifts. But, all things considered, we arrive at to do a lot and achieve great results with limited resources.

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 269

THE MANEUVERS

Among ordinary expenses, those that are allocated each year to the collective maneuvers of several

Army corps are of real importance. These maneuvers indeed constitute a decisive test to determine the level of education in the army. And it is undeniable that serious progress has been made in this area sight. The foreigner was struck by it and was not without drawing some benefit from it. certain lessons. The Austrian maneuvers did not are by no means parade exercises; they are not designed to capture the imagination. They are truly amazing. serious study jets, based on technical data well suited to the possibility of war; and they provide each corps commander the opportunity to showcase his true abilities by letting him Full freedom of movement. Supreme leadership maneuvers are being attempted to introduce into these exercises a wide variety, either by choosing specific locations particularly interesting from a military point of view, either in as various assumptions as a point of so operations, or finally by grouping in a way

It differentiates the troops that take part in the operations. It is worth recalling that it was the Austro- army Hungarian, which inaugurated the first plu- maneuver several army corps assembled, simultaneously putting at the ordeal the military supply corps responsible for providing large masses of soldiers; she was also the first to staged mock sieges, attack and defense fortresses requiring the use of heavy artillery caliber, thus creating interesting topics for research and studies to continue in peacetime. Great cavalry maneuvers also took place, both for to train troops in the service of scouts on the front of The army was only there to accustom them to tactical marching. horsemen gathered in large numbers. For the troops who were unable to take part in the major maneuvers In the finals, special exercises take place according to the same system.

270 JEWISH AUSTRIA

JEWS IN THE ARMY

From various quarters in Vienna, a danger is being reported. public the considerable number of existing Jewish officers within the army. A few years ago, we were talking about counted 2,179, out of a total of 25,897. Since then, their

The number must have increased considerably.
judging by the ever-increasing number of students who,
Upon leaving school, they take the exam that grants them the one-year volunteering. But these are, as we know, these one-year volunteers who provide the main contingent young officers for the reserve leadership.

Although it is generally agreed to admit that bravery is not precisely the salient side of Israelite character and that, on the other hand, the physical constitution the sique of the Jewish race is not well suited to the endurance of fatigue and deprivations of all kinds that forced labor entails
It seems very difficult to assess the profession of arms.
with complete impartiality to what extent are the assertions made in this regard by nationalists Austrians. Bravery, in particular, is a very important quality.
personal opinion. To comment on this matter in a personal manner.
Fairness requires individualization instead of generalization.
as we usually do.

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 271

Moreover, the reported drawbacks are indeed less in the active army than in the reserve. Contrary-in relation to what is happening in France and Italy, the ranks senior officers in Austria-Hungary are not accessible to the Israelites. There are only very rare personsnactivities which, for special reasons, are an exception to this rule. And even in the junior officer ranks-dull, they are relatively few in number in the active army, whereas on the contrary, as we have
He said they are swarming in the reserve.

The gravity of the role incumbent upon the Jews is entirely different.
in the very important service of supplying the army.
It is they, we know, who gather in their hands all sources of commercial activity in Austria, and which must consequently supply the army, in wartime, which is essential for him. However, we already have on several occasions, in this respect, sad experiments have taken place Things. How much the state has been robbed by suppliers Israelites during the Italian War in 1859, all those who those who are aware of contemporary history know it for a long time. Moneylenders, in agreement with the suppliers-their designated army representatives had been paid sums enormous sums for delivering nothing to the military command.

It was later learned that entire herds of cattle, considerable supplies of bread and wine had been Part of it was sold to the enemy. The surplus had not been delivered.
To whom it may concern. The Jew Moïse Basevi and his associates FREE, too happy to seek their salvation in the suite.

CAN THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY TO ESCAPE THE INFLUENCE OF STRUGGLES NATIONALISTS?

The big question, the one that takes precedence over all others, is In military matters, the question is whether the Austro- army Hungary suffered the effects of the struggles between nationalities which are becoming increasingly pronounced in the monarchy of Habsburg. As a result of its recruitment method, this Is the army capable of resisting the Nationalist influences? And, if we can conclude that she is necessarily subject to them, in what way, in To what extent are these influences felt? That is the

272 JEWISH AUSTRIA

A serious problem lies before us.

To try and solve it, with full knowledge of because, using facts recognized as accurate, we do not believe to do better than resorting to a published memorandum in Munich by Mr. Karl Schwarzenberg, whose high His competence cannot be questioned by anyone.
We only have reservations on one crucial point.
The author believes he must seek an island as a remedy for the ills he signals a return to German supremacy. We do not we would, of course, associate ourselves with such conclusions-we were. But, as for the facts and details, we borrowed them-Tons to Mr. Schwarzenberg. Here is a brief excerpt from his interesting work:

"In no army in Europe," he said, among other things. the author - differences in nationality do not create such serious and just as numerous difficulties as in Austria-Hungary. Indeed, no fewer than eleven languages are spoken there.
various languages in this army: German, Hungarian, the Czech, Polish, Ruthenian, Croatian, Slovenian, Italian, Serbian, Romanian, and Slovak. The Germans make up a third of the army. But for a long time now the fight against Germanism is underway on all points of the monarchy. It continues as a clear plan—a carefully planned path, which has already led to very promising results. However, it turns out (and this is the side singular of the question) that the German language alone can provide to all these nationalities in contact under the flag: a way to reach an agreement.

“It’s not just from today, moreover, that the disastrous effects of these are noticeable in the army

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 273

nationalist struggles. From 1820 to 1840, at a time when it was necessary to quell the uprisings in Italy, Galicia, and Croatia, it was necessary to acknowledge, in all the regiments which signs did not belong to the Germanic nationality unequivocal signs of political unrest and disagreement. These were already the preludes to the storm that was to break in 1848 and which shook the monarchy to its very foundations. From all sides the nationalist movement is developed with a rapidity that also drew into its various parts of the army. He was no longer even able to—It was possible for the State, in 1848, to resort to the means that had previously edily successful on several occasions, namely to hold Italy defeated by the Poles, Bohemia by the Italians, the Hungary by the Czechs. Everything that wasn't German. was clearly tending to crack down on German nationality nic. Therefore, there is no reason to be surprised by what is pro—then, as a result of the universal mistrust towards the central administration. Among the troops who, in Vienna, refused to obey; it turned out that some were used to to be counted among the best and most solid. In Italy, in Radetzky's army, several battalions of Italian nationals went over to the enemy, namely: two battalions of the Archduke Albert's regiment in Cremona; one and a half companies of the Haugwitz regiment in Brescia; the entire garrisons of Treviso, Udine and Palma—Nuova, and finally the sailors' corps in Venice. All told, 20,000 men (a third of the army) They abandoned their flag in defiance of their oaths.

"It was in Schwechat (near Vienna), in 1848, that imperial troops were present for the first time brought to fight against each other. Twenty-six infantry battalions and fifty-nine squadrons of The cavalry had gone to swell the ranks of the insurgents. The only Hungarian regiment that remained faithful to its duty, in Transylvania, despite the existing disagreement between its love of country and obedience to its leaders, was the 51st Infantry Regiment Archduke Charles Ferdinand.

274 JEWISH AUSTRIA

All the surplus of the army, of this army which until then had been so disciplined, so loyal to the flag, had passed to the enemy. 70,000 men, with their generals and their With their general staffs at the forefront, they thus did an about-face and refused to Defending the Viennese government. Local patriotism, love of nationality, which had been successfully suppressed Until then, suddenly exploded. Loyalty to the dynasty, which once dominated everything, was relegated to background.

"That's not all. The consequences of this state Their spirit soon revealed itself in the struggles as well. committed against foreigners. The sympathies of the Czechs and the South Slavs for Russia, so vibrant in the Carniola, Carinthia, Croatia, Slovenia and the part Hungarian and Serbian, emerged very clearly in 1854, during the deployment of troops which took place in Galicia. The regiments from the provinces that we those who have just quoted did not conceal their feelings, without to worry about whether or not they were at the border.

"Also in 1859, during the Italian campaign, the the attitudes of the various nationalities exerted a serious influence on the army's attitude. The enthusiasm- siasm, which so often constitutes one of the main elements of success, the dedication that sustains men to sacrifice to the last drop of their blood for Military honor was almost entirely lacking. Most of the Austrian nationalities were visibly hostile to Austria on this occasion; and, of 61,000 of the soldiers, only 12,000 took part in the battle of Magenta. The attack directed against the city by the brigade Kintzel failed due to the fault of the Sigismund regiment. composed largely of Italians. Two regiments Hungarians fled into the streets, a third was made

A prisoner, without having fired a single shot.
The Austrians themselves admitted to 4000 missing persons.
Magenta, and 7,000 at Solferino. Regarding this
In the last battle, the Wasa Regiment No. 60 was the cause

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 275

the main reason for the defeat of the Austrian army. The treaty of The peace treaty of Villafranca, by a special article, decreed amnesty. for the soldiers who had allowed themselves to be taken prisoner of war without having fought seriously. Through the application sincere in this article, which assured them of a free return in their homes, it was learned, that thousands of Austrian soldiers had surrendered, in a way, without putting up a fight.

"In the Croatian districts bordering the frontier, Public opinion was so hostile to the government that... officers were caught taking part in demonstrations Russophiles. In the former military borderlands of Slovenia and of Dalmatia, the governor has, in a way, provoked similar feelings in himself.

The people and the soldiers glorified, under the protection of

The Greek Church, the great Slavic Empire, whose leader political and military matters were naturally the responsibility of the Tsar.
Russia. It was necessary, in order to quell the unrest in Dalmatia and in Galicia, to replace the Slavic troops, who were clinging to it garrison, Hungarian and German regiments.

"Is it surprising, in such circumstances, that the
The Austro-German War of 1866 provided the opportunity to to observe the same symptoms as in 1859, and to to find the same provisions within the army Nationalists? In the battles fought from June 26 to 30, 40,000 men, none of whom had received the slightest wounded, were taken prisoner; at Koeniggratz (Sadowa) 18,000 were also taken into captivity in the same conditions. In the Army of Main, the regiments Italians, particularly during the Battle of Aschaffenburg, passed by, band playing, with all their gear, to the enemy. In Upper Silesia, it formed, with the help of deserters, a Hungarian legion under the command of Klapka, all ready to invade her own homeland.

"In short, in most wars where there are—had committed the honor and interests of Austria, the Most nationalities have demonstrated, by abandoning the

276 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Habsburg flag, how little they cared about the prosperity of the monarchy. They proved, in the same way suddenly, popular sentiments of the various pro-Vinces finds his faithful echo in the ranks of the army.
How much more so are such trends not-
They are not widespread among soldiers today.
now that military service is reduced to a duration three years. ES dement such a short stay at the barracks ne can change anyone's political convictions also deeply rooted. Given such hatred of all these Are there nationalist groups opposed to the Germanic element?
It is not surprising that the maintenance of the German language as the official language of the army, may give them the impression of a A thorn in the side? However, if German remains the
In addition, each regiment has the language of command.
its special language. In all regiments of the army Austro-Hungarian commune, orders are given in German; but for military training, field service, the shooting, or in any circumstance unrelated to regular service To link, one speaks in the language of the regiment. At one the regiments are recruited from certain districts mined, always the same. That's why in some the
The majority of the soldiers are German, in another they are Slavic. There are also some recruits, in fairly large numbers.
many, who only know their mother tongue, Italian, Croatian, etc. According to the language of the regiment, one speaks colloquially of a regiment and or a regi-Czech, Galician, Hungarian, or Croatian. All natural-These language differences inevitably lead to... numerous and rather significant difficulties. He can very easily it may happen, for example, that in a maneuver, the cava-the liers cannot come to an agreement with the infantry; it is not It's also not possible to choose the first soldier who comes along.
to perform courier or orderly service in outside of the army faction to which he belongs.

"How difficult does such a state of affairs make the execution of orders during major maneuvers of autumn, to what extent the supreme direction of these maneuvers constantly encounter complications reborn, we notice it more and more each year in more. A spectator of the 1885 maneuvers in Bohemia, tells curious things about this confusion of languages. A cavalry patrol, in particular, had approached a battery to which she transmitted a notice by Czech language. The battery commander made him, from On his side, a question in German. He received for all The answer to this word is: nerozumim (I don't understand). Then came Polish uhlands, tasked with to convey another opinion, which they naturally did in Polish. And as the battery commander their asked if they didn't understand German, they they in turn replied: #eznam (I don't understand). Finally, Hungarian hussars arrived, who seemed to bring some obviously important news, and who spoke in the Hungarian language. Again he They were asked questions in German, and the answer was the same for the third time: #emtudok (I don't I don't understand).

"Even more disastrous experiences under this reports took place in November 1897, in Totis, under the eyes of Emperor Wilhelm II. The Reports Department was completely unable to function, as a result of absolute ignorance of the German language, even of the part of staff officers. The honveds (territorial Hungarian) especially, did not understand one The word for the orders given in German.

"In an attempt to destroy the special character of a regime—how we are currently trying to mix it, in a A certain proportion, the various nationalities. That's how it is. that the 73rd Infantry Regiment (Egeraner) quartered at Prague, and composed until then almost entirely of Germans, has recently received many Polish recruits. No account is taken of what by Such mixtures only serve to inflame hatreds.

278 JEWISH AUSTRIA

national; at the slightest opportunity, among people whose Early education has most often left much to be desired, raise heated debates; it is not even uncommon that It escalates to violence. This is deeply regrettable.

This became apparent in serious circumstances; and We saw it again recently during the unrest in Prague.
Not only was blood shed inside the barracks;
but some companies, which had been ordered They absolutely refused to march against the Czechs.
to do it. In Sistow, a lieutenant in a Czech regiment, seeing that stones were being thrown from the windows of the houses, furniture, pieces of iron, on the troop, wanted resorting to force to restore order. After having threatened to shoot on several occasions, without getting any
As a result, he ordered the fire. Only two shots.

They left. He gave the order to fire a second time; all The soldiers, without exception, fired into the air. How many times has it not been Didn't we see, in the most critical hours, the soldiers Czechs tasked with blocking the streets, fraternizing with the donkey right under the noses of their officers! Which demonstrates the best way to understand how little the government relies on the troops in difficult times, that is, for to suppress the unrest taking place in a part of the country, he constantly resorts to regiments speaking another language. In Graz, for example, where disturbances were taking place almost insignificant, they marched against the people Bosnian battalions. This fact, as well as others, serious incidents, such as the murder of German non-commissioned officers by Czech reservists, and the execution of several soldiers under the state of siege law, were subjected to noisy complaints, on the part of MP Wolf, to the Bohemian diet.

"As for the officers, most of those who are not German nationals are more willing to talk in their native language, and do not use German somewhat reluctantly. What shall we say about reserve officers, who, in their civilian careers,

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 279

openly express their wishes for citizenship in to which they belong, and relegate to the background the idea of a large and prosperous Austria? What influence—
What influence can such men exert over the soldiers?
Wartime! The military administration is striving, for some years now, to ensure that the commands troops and staff officers do not belong do not take into account the nationality of the soldiers placed under their orders. We only need to consult the military directory. According to the names of the ee we will see that indeed this rule is generally observed. Lately we have also endeavored not to place outgoing officers military schools and cadets in regiments belonging to a nationality other than their own. We extend even this precaution today for officers of reserve. This clearly demonstrates that the management The army's supreme commander understood the danger we would be facing. exposed if the head of a regiment, his officers and his The men all belonged to the same nationality. But, On the other hand, it resulted that camaraderie, formerly Legendary, within the officer corps, tends to decrease. She still mentions it in official toasts, adding that she is driven by the dynastic idea. In reality, the aspirations Nationalists killed her. The old camaraderie, in the in the noblest sense of the word, hardly exists anymore except among the old officers, who already belonged to the army before 1866.

"When compulsory military service was introduced In Hungary, in 1868, the Magyars obtained, to their great joy, the organization of a Landwehr exclusively Transleithana and using Hungarian as its language of service. They also obtained, equally to their great satisfaction, a Hungarian Ministry of National Defence: the use of the Croatian language for Croatian regiments was also granted. The Hungarian Landwehr, which carries in the country the name honved according to the memories of 1849, includes all recruits who were not admitted in the joint army. In addition, all soldiers of Hungarian national who served in the joint army are part of it after ten years of service; and then, instead to have German as the official language of the command They immediately have Hungarian or Croatian. The honveds have a special and completely separate situation in the army. They have flags in the honour colours. large. They have their own educational establishments military. Officers of Hungarian origin enter with their preferred choice among the Honveds, while their The number is relatively very small in the common army. If we add to all the above that the army of bonveds cannot be called to a service see Le that with the special authorization of the Hungarian Chambers, It is easy to recognize how such a way of comto take the relationships common to both halves of the monarchy does not correspond well to the ideas and aspirations of those who dream of the unity of a dynastic army.

280 JEWISH AUSTRIA

"Let's now take a look at the future. So far Germany and Austria were united by ties historical so narrow that the Battle of Kæniggraetz itself-Even so, in some respects, nothing could be changed. But The more German influence wanes, the more, in Austria, to that of the Slavs and Magyars, plus the ancient unity of The state tended to disappear under the Habsburg monarchy.
and the more naturally the existing bonds loosen between the two Empires. Furthermore, the importance diminishes.
of the brotherhood in arms with troops animated by a spirit such as that of the army without any serious man, and especially no Austrian officer, is able to assert that the opposing trends of Political parties do not dominate the army, nor do they... do not exert a dangerous influence on discipline. If such a state of affairs could not have been prevented at the time.
where the soldiers remained for many years under the flags and where intellectual activity was far from being what it is Given what she has become since then, how could one even consider

THE AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN ARMY 281

to put an obstacle, now that the duration of service is Re lesser, and where the culture of the mind has widespread, even among the lower classes? As well as
As we just mentioned above, the events that took place are produced in 1848, 1859, and 1866 and can make predict those that might occur new in the future.

"In the face of the fervor with which each nation-the society pursues exclusively the fulfillment of its desires; in the presence of intimate relations between the people and the army, and complications of international politics, it is clearly impossible to count with certainty on the army. Significant demonstrations are expected to take place from the Czechs and Hungarians in favor of the France, and on behalf of the South Slavs in favor of the Russia, in the event that Austria were involved in a war with one or the other of these states. These are considerations with which Austria's allies have to count just as much as herself. Consider the feelings that the Czechs would experience, with their hatred rooted in opposition to everything German, the day when Austria would send its armies to the battlefield, to alongside those of Germany. To lend aid and assistance to the German Empire, that would be a real crime in the eyes of Slavs and Magyars. Much more than that was seen during the major maneuvers, the individual bravery The soldiers' duel would be somehow annihilated, in the event of a new war, due to the lack of agreement which would weigh so heavily on the decisions of the command-supreme ment. The result would unfortunately not be doubtful.

"It must be acknowledged and openly confessed."

No other state in Europe possesses such a difficult army. to lead only the Austro-Hungarian army. On no point of the. world it is not so difficult, in the presence of the struggle of nationalities that only think of tearing each other apart, of organa- to create an army animated by a single spirit and only thinks of maintaining high and firm the honor of flag ".

282 JEWISH AUSTRIA

That is Mr. Schwarzenberg's opinion.

In the event of war, it would also be necessary to consider taking into account the feelings and attitudes of the population Austrians vis-à-vis the enemy army. Some countries would be willing to fraternize with her. In the Islands In other cases, one would encounter roughly indifference absolute power relating to the destinies of the State. On the other hand, the the government would have a duty to protect the 2 million Jews against the anger of the people, who would want without any no doubt taking advantage of the absence of troops held at borders to plunder all Jewish settlements. It would be essential to keep one or more inside. two army corps tasked with maintaining order and to prevent civil war from breaking out at the same time as foreign war.

... AUSTRIA ON.
THE EUROPEAN CHESSBOARD

AUSTRIA AND THE NATIONALITIES – AUSTRIA AND GERMANY – GERMANY
– THE INFLUENCE OF DOMESTIC POLICY

AUSTRIA'S POSITION ON ITS POLICY
FOREIGN – FRANCE AND RUSSIA – ITALY – AUSTRIA AND FRANCE – THE RUSSIA AND AUSTRIA – THE CHRISTIAN EAST

Everything fits together within the implacable logic that governs the the destinies of a people; and the internal history of a state composite, as Austria-Hungary clearly explains–
In the eyes of the impartial observer, the phases stranger, on the surface, than its external history. If However turbulent the destinies may have been in this last respect, of the Habsburg monarchy for half a century,
They offer as a whole a unified character that It is impossible to ignore. Disastrous wars that she supported against Italy and Germany were not, Indeed, that the necessary result of the great principles who direct, nowadays, the movements and aspirations tions of the peoples, in all parts of Europe.

284 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The popular currents, which we have pointed out in the previous problems and which we tried to Describing the irresistible force can be summarized in two points.
very simple ideas, – ethnic unity and concentration of Races on their territories, pee. Such are, in reality, the foundations of the movement that leads civilized peoples amidst their ceaseless transformations. Only errors may have been made in the application of these principles fundamental principles, that numerous errors have sometimes distorted the meaning and scope; it was almost inevitable– table in a period of trial and error and uncertainty.

But that doesn't change the fundamental issue; and one is forced to acknowledge that there are very few events, among those that History has recorded in the second mid-19th century, which do not find their explanation in the irresistible force of nationalist currents. The desire to concentrate within their natural limits pushes in before all peoples; he inspires them in the constitution of their social status, and ultimately march in concert with the the most immediate interests of national dynasties. After the violent concussions of the early years of this century, the progress of enlightenment has led to various groups of common origin the means of recognizing each other and of to bring closer. The feeling of the right to exist, that is to say—to speak to national life, has infiltrated the pro-foundations of humanity. The heart of Europe has shaken, under this powerful impetus, at the same time as the Christian East. Italy and Germany wanted to proceed—to the constitution of their unity, just like Greece and the peoples living along the Lower Danube. And as, from our “These days, it is the nations themselves that draw, all at less in broad strokes, the direction of their policy foreign statesmen were unable to accomplish great things than by following the trends that their revealed, as it progressed, the march of the civilization.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 285

Sadowa, Sedan, the Congress of Berlin, are just... stages in this uninterrupted march. Without a doubt, it As we have just said, there have been mistakes. committed; there have been fluctuations, hesitations Inevitable setbacks. The question of Alsace-Lorraine, for example, will remain for a long time to come, for Germany, and indeed the whole of Europe, is a serious cause. Embarrassment. Ethnically speaking, Alsatians are not Germans; history is there to confirm it. But he in 1870 it was much less a question of a genuine issue of nationality for Mr. Bismarck and the Hohenzollern, a triumph of the Germanic ideal. In speaking loudly of reuniting so-called “brothers” subjected to foreign domination, fon cher—above all, it is a cause to train “the soul German” in a current of more or less pan-Germanism less diffuse. It was necessary to group forces and concentrate the aspirations of all the Teutonic countries in order to direct their joint efforts towards a single goal through moral effect and material from the annexation of the two provinces taken from the France. They were already considering how to overflow later this passion for Germanic unity over the countries really aHemands outside the borders of the new empire.

(Deutschland in den Sattel heben; reiten wird es dann schon selber.)

But, even in the deliberate errors that it points out impartial history, even in the excesses of a chauvinist artificially overexcited nism, we find the characteristics distinctive features of the dominant nationalist politics, For fifty years, contemporary events. This
It is no longer a matter of chance, nor is it the ambition of the kings who preside.
today at the helm of states, no more than at their formation. The unitary aspirations of nations are inherent in them an impulsive force that breaks all resistance; they
The lenen blends in with those of the houses reigning, and thus complete the tacit pact concluded between the peoples and their sovereigns. The role of

286 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The fundamental nature of dynasties is the same as that of democracies.
national. It consists of creating groups and their territories. There is, in a way, a law there.
natural, itself determined by a set of ethnic circumstances and major civilizing currents that no one can make disappear, nor modify at will.
All of contemporary history is there, for what it is worth.
It notably encompasses central and southeastern Europe.
constitutes the necessary link between past events and the program for the future.

The Directorate of External Affairs was formerly the a monopoly held by a few diplomats. Nowadays, it's a austere science, a delicate and difficult art that cannot deviate of its natural ways. Thanks to its action, the organization of the contemporary world is more learned, more complex than before. We are no longer in the time when...
Princely marriages, skillfully arranged, were enough to to increase the possessions of a state, where combinations the strangest and often the most disloyal served as guiding principles, where intrigue reigned supreme and duplicity. Politics has ceased to be a work mysterious, demanding shadows and silence. She makes herself at A big day, under pressure from public opinion. The
The interests of the people have, nowadays, more weight in the balance of destinies that the actions of the most diplomats proven.

The great art in politics is to act in such a way as to inspire. Trust. When achieved, it's a success all the more significant. greater than, one might think, the confidence does not It cannot be commanded. It results rather from an impression, of a feeling, a line of reasoning, or even a fact insignificant. It is hard to conquer; and yet It takes very little to shake him, when the reality of things, The incompatibility of interests makes its continuation too difficult. difficult. Austria has often experienced this in these recent years.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 287

AUSTRIA AND GERMANY

While it is true to say that it was difficult to scrutinize the "Thoughts behind the back of this terrible statesman" who was the founder of the German Empire, he is not less true than Austria-Hungary learned the hard way the cost of a policy that forgets the lessons of the past, contrary to reason, and leaving aside the appreciation the most basic of future possibilities. To be clear to judge the facts and circumstances that gave rise the Austro-German alliance, it is not without interest to examine—to change the relationships that existed after the Congress of Berlin, between Russia and Germany.

In the year 1879, the Emperor of Russia, regarding a simple matter of border regularization, he wrote to his not Emperor William, three letters, all more each more violent than the last. William I transmitted these letters to Mr. Bismarck, who was then making a The chancellor took a cure at Gastein and asked him for advice. replied that, if these letters were to be considered as because it was an official matter, there was only one answer. to do there, namely to order the mobilization. But, he added— They do not bear the signature of any minister; they are Personal letters from sovereign to sovereign. The opinion The chancellor's task was therefore to ask the tsar to abstain. to write such letters, or, failing that, to send them to their address by ordinary and regular means. William I, who was primarily concerned with maintaining peace, he immediately left for Russia, where he had with his imperial nephew, a confidential interview. We never knew what the two emperors had said to each other; but the result of their

The interview revealed that Alexander III subsequently did not write any further.
of letters similar to those that had caused such a Great emotion.

At the same time, the German Chancellor undertook,
I too had a sudden trip. But it wasn't to Russia.
He went there; it was to Vienna. He appointed Count Andrassy

288 JEWISH AUSTRIA

aware of everything that had just happened, and made him observe that, according to the tone of the emperor's letters Alexander, it seemed obvious that Russia was preparing to to conclude an alliance with France, if it had not already done so concluded. Count Andrassy shared this opinion and declared ready to sign the Austro-German alliance treaty that Mr. Bismarck presented to him. The signatures a preliminary draft, hastily written, were exchanged commissioned on September 24, 1879, at Schönbrunn. And a few Days later, on October 7, the final treaty was signed by the German ambassador, Prince of Reuss.

The most characteristic aspect of this case, that is that neither the German emperor nor the emperor
The Austrians were not very enthusiastic about the actions of their ministers. Neither of them put any eagerness to access it, and showed no eagerness to do so.
joy at being allies. Andrassy even had great difficulty in to convince Emperor Franz Joseph of the excellence of treaty. The old Emperor William, as evidenced by a letter addressed by the German chancellor to his His colleague from Vienna, for his part, had been painfully affected. to be forced to choose between his two neighbors; he refused for as long as possible to believe that the moment
The habit of acting had come. "The habit," added Monsieur de Bismarck – has enormous power in our country, which is growing with age. As a result, one hesitates to think that a change may be necessary.

The alliances formed between monarchs often did not, as experience has shown, that a value res-A string. To give them strength and durability, it is necessary to... consent of the people, drawing inspiration from a set of Specific reasons. In what state of mind was it concluded?

The Austro-German alliance of October 1879 >? From the part of Mr. Bismarck, who was its promoter, the decision was obviously only made as a result of a deep calculation. From Count Andrassy, to the con-milking, there was greater eagerness, a more great satisfaction. By placing his hand in that of the German chancellor Andrassy remembered above all that he was Hungarians, and that Hungary had been defeated by Russia on the battlefield of Villagos. It was in this feeling—a piece of Hungarian chauvinism that impartial history will find the true origin of the Austro-German pact. Even today, after so many years have passed and Despite the events that have occurred, Hungarians do not forget that These were the 100,000 Russian soldiers sent to the aid of the Austrian imperial army, in 1849, which decided on the The aftermath of the revolution in the kingdom of Saint-Étienne. the resentment they felt has never faded; and Count Andrassy, who had taken such an important part to the national struggle of 1848–49, was influenced by it thirty years later, perhaps without even realizing it himself. If he had not been so blinded by Magyar passions, if his spirit had not been embittered by the sufferings of exile which had been imposed upon him, he would certainly have put less eagerness to sign the alliance treaty. His

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 289

His keen observation and alertness would have signaled the danger of the The attraction that Germany was inevitably bound to have to exert control over the German populations of Austria. He would have understood that William I's advisor had done to enter, it seems, into this possibility in the sphere of his calculations and would have considered himself warned. History, by coldly weighing all these considerations tions, assigns to Count Jules Andrassy the preponderant place—rent that is due to her among the Hungarian patriots; but she the judge severely as Minister of Foreign Affairs governments of the Habsburg monarchy.

It must also be acknowledged that the alliance of the two Empires was based, from the very beginning, on an extreme spirit—peacefully. This is so true that the ultimate accession—Italy's withdrawal from the Austro-German pact could not modify the tendencies that had been instilled in him by the emperor Franz Joseph. Russia having greatly declined the invitation to serve as a springboard for the expansion of the Germanic power, Germany, eager for consumption to consolidate her conquests and finally enjoy the rest she needed, naturally sought to rely on another ally. On the other hand, Austria had just committed in the Balkan Peninsula; she had achieved an of Bosnia-Herzegovina, which the Congress of Berlin Italy had given it a mission to civilize. Italy had done so in Tunis. a discouraging experience. In such conditions- tions, diplomatic relations between the three powers was, so to speak, Christopher's egg Columbus. All three of them needed to to gather in the shelter of peace.

However, that was only one side of the issue. Austria-Hungary, for its part, had not surrendered taking into account the disastrous results that such a policy would have to exert influence on the development of its internal affairs. The fundamental idea that guided the conclusion of the Austro-German alliance, far from promoting power and Austria's prosperity, on the contrary, was fruitful in The consequences were absolutely disastrous for her. The first and most serious of these consequences was, no one Ignorance, the awakening of the nationalist and particularist spirit among the Germans as well as among the Slavs of Austria. The The treaty of 1879 came to throw a flammable essence between the two centers of intersecting nationalist movements in the opposite direction. The signatories of the alliance believed to be able to rely on each other to serve their projects. It was difficult, given that the task to be completed was double: the Germans primarily wanted to warn the effects of a Franco-Russian agreement, and at the same time to prevent France and Austria from revisiting the facts accomplished. The Austrians, while showing less of With foresight, they were primarily concerned with clearing the way route towards the east.

The effects of these contradictory trends have not was slow to reveal itself. The Germans of Austria, moreover, contributed themselves to making the alliance unpopular by the exaggeration and strange exuberance with which they have glorified, for many years, everything that happened there connected, directly or indirectly, in particular the interviews of emperors. Good taste and political tact would have demanded it. that the noisy phraseology of unofficial organs and telegraph agencies. In the Along the same lines, we cannot ignore the imprudent, strange generosity shown by the the Austrian government towards all those who saw the alliance with Germany as the only way out of salvation for Austria. From 1879 to 1896, that is to say For years, it was enough to obtain favors government officials in Vienna, to swoon with admiration in front of a Prussian helmet or to bend one's back under the Berlin rods. Anyone, on the other hand, who allowed himself to express doubt about the excellence of this orientation diplomatic, found himself immediately exposed to the mad-administrative matters. The person writing these lines, by for example, although he had been a humble man all his life as a publicist, he had to resign himself, for many years, to living in Austria under close police surveillance, because he had made the unforgivable mistake of not loving Triple E.

The great flaw of Austrian foreign policy-Hungarian, it is, ultimately, about not having taken, as She should have, in very serious consideration, the consequences possible consequences of a potential victory won by The Triple Alliance over the Tsarist Empire and France. Austrian diplomacy, somehow hypnotized by influenced by Berlin, he felt compelled to spend all his skill in challenging the Muscovite Empire for control of small states of Christian Po. Although they are in predominantly Orthodox, she has striven to place them under its influence and to remove them from that of the tsars. In the She had gone down the wrong path she had chosen, and she swelled up. pride in savoring the glorious predictions that They offered auguries concerning future victories.

292 JEWISH AUSTRIA

more or less sincere. However, when you look at it more closely In reality, nothing is truly appalling, in its grandiose horror. like a picture of a European war and especially of its consequences, as outlined by writers designated members of the Austro-German alliance. "Admitting, by for example – said Baron von Sacken – that France and the Russia's allies are completely defeated by the forces armies of the two central empires, and that the capitals (Paris, Saint Petersburg, Moscow) are occupied, this Would triumph be enough for the future? No; it will be necessary to ensure that the Russian and French armies cannot They will never be reorganized. They will have to be occupied militarily. the two countries in such a way as not to allow them a revival offensive, and to prevent it, place garrisons in all cities of any importance, in all the shopping and industrial centers, destroy fleets, * destroy the arsenals, in short, dry up all sources of life and resurrection.

If things were to come to that, what advantages would there be? would she find Austria? Did she believe, by any chance, that Germany, which had become all-powerful in Europe, would let triumph beside her, and would not have the task of Reduce it, too, to nothing? If we had thought about it more carefully, at the Ballplatz, it would have been acknowledged that Austria did not, in definitively, there is no point in defeating France and Russia. concert with Germany. Its real interest would be to to remain neutral, to maintain a balance between the two Great empires that surround it.

Gradually, under the influence of time and circumstances– tances, the original idea that had dictated the count's conduct Andrassy underwent a visible transformation. In the pro– Vences Eniddes' pan-Germanic propaganda engendered trends in the provinces For the Slavs, with the exception of Galicia, the opportunity seemed opportune to applaud Russia for its friendly agreement with France. It was, nine, when this dual current of ideas became clear in all its clarity, that the policy of Austria appeared with its true character, its illusions and their dangers. Inspiration had triumphed over the reasoning; she had positioned herself, with an incredible lightness, in a most unpredictable situation. She had disregarding the invariable rules of common sense and logic to engage in combinations that experience has not completely unjustified.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 293

This is what the courageous voices that rose up in the Austrian press female dog and at the parliamentary podium. The defenders of The alliance did indeed invoke, in support of their argument, the remembering what happened in 1866, during the conclusion-peace agreement. William I and his entourage wanted to take northern Bohemia and Silesia from Austria. The chancellor alone opposed it, pointing out that he did not Austria shouldn't be humiliated too much; he was wiser and It would be wiser to grant him a rather gentle peace.

This evocation of memories from 1866 did not succeed, Despite everything, it rekindled enthusiasm in its waning stages. conduct taken by Germany on the occasion of its treaty trade with Russia contributed powerfully to to further exacerbate Austria's resentment. As we have already said in the chapter devoted to the economic situation, Germany has some wheat Russia the same favors as those of Austria-Hungary, while the dualist monarchy believed it had obtained from her ally a favor that would be exclusive to her - reserved. But scarcely had they found consolation in Vienna from This disappointment was followed by the public revelation of the the statesman's grand, "inner" thought He had concluded a treaty of reinstatement with Russia. diplomatic dealings without the knowledge of its allies. As soon as this became known, In Vienna, indignation knew no bounds. All long-suppressed anger was unleashed with a unprecedented violence, both in the camp of the unofficials and in independent spheres. As for the spheres of the

294 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Cour, they had already heard about it for some time. not, it is true, through ordinary diplomatic channels.

A member of a ruling family, related to the sovereign of one of the German kingdoms, had given knowledge to the Emperor of Austria. Thus Francis-Joseph learned that his loyalty had been poorly rewarded. thought, and that it had been permissible for Russia to harm the the most immediate interests of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, with the consent and benevolent neutrality of Germany.

What exactly were the clauses and stipulations of this Secret treaty? How long did it remain in force? Under what circumstances was it denounced? We find no precise answer to the two pre-nor in official statements have addressed these questions. made in Berlin in 1896, nor in the parliamentary debates which took place in Vienna and Budapest, nor in the organs Austrians bribed by foreign chancelleries.

From a careful examination of the circumstances it seems resulting in the secret agreement not having lasted long. It appears to have actually existed only from 1887 to 1890. What is absolutely certain is that, if she has not been renewed, it is because the government of Saint-Petersburg, understanding what the situation had Strangely, he categorically refused to extend it. The official statements that were made from the podium Germanic, at the time the fact was revealed, tended to dispel the clouds that this dual attitude of Germany could cast doubt on the nature of Austro- relations Germans. They were only able to achieve this by disapproving highly the conduct of Mr. de's predecessor Caprivi. On this occasion, the government of the empire Germany has formally promised to be loyal in the future to its commitments to Austria. Indeed the only way to reassure his ally.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 295

Under the weight of the disappointment caused by the discovery of this indiscretion, and in the presence of propaganda pan-Germanic, that is to say anti-dynastic, in the German provinces of the Empire, it had to be acknowledged, in the upper echelons of Austrian society, which had been done Wrong track. We seemed disconcerted by this failure. The Triple Alliance, so long celebrated as the unshakeable foundation- The label of Austro-Hungarian policy ceased to appear prominently featured in official speeches. The emperor Franz Joseph, in the speech delivered on May 11 In 1898, at the opening of the delegations, he did not do the slightest thing. allusion. He merely stated that the relations of the monarchy with all the powers, and especially with The neighboring states were better. Not a word from more. And on the other hand, Emperor William, at the closing of the The German Parliament also observed the same reserved, kept the same silence in the speech he had pronounced.

Other facts, quite numerous, and some of which date back to an earlier date, are no less significant. It has been widely noted, for example, that during a trip by the German emperor to Hungary, We arranged for him to go directly From Berlin to Budapest, without going through Vienna. (That was for avoid pro-German demonstrations by the population (Viennese.) We will not stop at recording all the incidents that followed the cooling of the relations between the two emperors and between the two Cabinets. In Vienna, they do not hesitate to return Germany responsible for the difficulties encountered, In recent years, domestic policy Austria. A political figure, very well informed about this that is happening, he didn't even hesitate to say: "The first the war that Austria will now have to support will be directed against the German Empire.

296 JEWISH AUSTRIA

This, it seems, is the epilogue of an alliance which, during seventeen years old, filled the world with the noise of his importance.

GERMANY

The considerations that motivate statesmen Germans are of such a nature that there can be no doubt about the course of action to take. Finding in the the current constitution of Germany the determining reasons—Nantes, pursuing a realistic policy, continues its views overall, in line with national aspirations and the The country's practical needs. The German Empire... thus offers the rare example of a state that resolutely enters in the economic phase at the very moment when the people, evolving towards national unity, is visibly preparing for a war of conquest against the eastern neighbor. is preparing to challenge England for commercial supremacy commercial, invades most European markets, extends its colonial domain and at the same time finds in its military organization of sufficient forces to maintain the people in a kind of erethism towards the struggles external. In short, he wants to do something big, too big.

perhaps; because the chances of success are obviously less today than in the past. The turnaround which diplomatic circles have made it clear that... as radical as it is difficult to comment on, if one does not took into account the more precise notions that have been acquired Austria and Russia on the strength of German expansion-nic. The way in which the conduct of their Foreign Affairs, in recent years, proves it superabundantly.

The rapid development of German power insists that the entire nation contribute to the effort common in order to achieve the goal pursued with so much Constance. The Hohenzollerns are meeting today, again, with the masses sharing the same desire, in the same trend. They understood that their dynastic interests are intertwined with those of the nation; and the mission they fulfill, pursued with formidable means of action, constitutes at the heart of Europe, the great problem whose solution lies with a future that is more or less near.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 297*

Circumstances, it is true, served politics. Germanic as much as, to say the least, the talents and energy of the statesmen of Berlin. It is often believed to be able to explain the sudden rise of Germany in involving only the profound Machiavellianism of Bismarck. He certainly played a large part in it; but at He alone would certainly have been insufficient. The nation German had within itself an impetus force subject to laws of absolute rigor. The Chancellor relied on this strength.

Austria was in reality merely a puppet between his hands and he knew how to bring Italy, as well as Russia itself- even, to act in a way that corroborates his plans. With a With marvelous skill, he had managed to completely isolate France, to divert the entire continent from supporting it rescue, without any power ever having been rewarded thinking of the services she had thus rendered him. In the presence Given such facts, it is all too understandable that various States, in leaving to Germany the task of guarding RUN in Alsace-

Lorraine, may have wanted to try to derive other advantages from Accomplished events. The diplomat's methods of action. The Germans ended up giving everyone something to think about. However, when we started to think about it, it was already quite late. The successes of the famous statesman, since 1864 until his downfall, were largely due to weakness, to the inadequacy of his opponents.

German unity, despite everything, does not remain less the cornerstone of contemporary history, one of the foundations on which the building currently rests European. It was said one day in Frankfurt: a Prussia that would deny Frederick's legacy. He would not deserve it. to exist in Europe. It is worth recalling in this regard that the true effects produced by the genius of men are most often only recognized and observed after their death. The thoughts of Frederick II and Stein-Hardenberg's works were only produced between 1850 and 1890. At that time Only at that time was it possible to appreciate them at their fair value, because they then passed into the domain of sn As for the future, I am certain that in Germany it will have to dominate, during the twentieth century, the spirit of the promoters of unity Germanic.

298 JEWISH AUSTRIA

From time to time, however, certain incidents arise which might suggest that German unity rests on less solid foundations than is generally believed-The German confederate princes are jealous. of their sovereignty; they carefully ensure that that it be respected. Bavaria, in particular, has not never shown to be very enthusiastic or very affectionate towards Prussia. Moreover, it occupies a very particular position. special, and in a way privileged, in the new empire. It is the greatest power in Germany. South; it is clearly tasked with preventing the Empire Germanic should not become Prussian, especially since the Prussia is, in short, the least German of all states. the Empire, since it counts in its ethnic essence many Slavic elements.

But to conclude from this that German unity is Threatened, or even at risk of being so, is a long, long way off. the principle of unity does not rest on the will of sovereigns nor on the ambition they may have to extend their authority. This principle, on the contrary, subordinates all personal or particularistic consideration of the idea of National solidarity. The unitary movement has become too powerful, too uniform, in all the confederated countries, so that it can be stopped in its tracks.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 299

Let us add that anyone who has had the opportunity to approach Emperor William IT and to know him personally—ment, always recognized in him a sovereign whose nobility of spirit and high character cannot be little known. Daue, one cannot say it too much, to know to assess one's opponents impartially and to recognize their qualities. Perhaps a day will come when the question of Alsace-Lorraine, however fraught with danger it may seem Currently, it will be resolved by the triumph of the spirit active force that animates this monarch. The spirit of initiative of Germany's independence from its concepts ions, the breadth of his views, are no secret to person.

We are gradually seeing Germany arrive at this community of views, to this concentration of power which appear to precede, in the confederations more or less homogeneous, the accomplishment of a new work of unitary organization. The excess of its vitality a state, which economic labor does not absorb, seems to revive in the deep popular strata of the Island a movement that leads it towards national development. Drawing its strength from within itself, Germany is increasingly indulging in pan-Germanism. However, this policy, imposed upon him by the will of the people, inevitably entails dangers to the tranquility of its neighbors. It forces diplomats to keep a watchful eye on the maintaining a certain balance between nations for to prevent any of them from threatening common security. In this state, the conditions for his future attempts expansions must be appreciated at their true value. under penalty of exposing the whole of Europe to serious miscalculations, the consequences of which would be more Es in the current political constellation, that all the events that preceded and prepared the formation of the German Empire. Not to mention the development of its economic power, was able to note the increase-continuous deployment of its military forces to see that the

300 JEWISH AUSTRIA

France cannot compete with her on this front. This increase is, in fact, the natural result of growth population growth. Germany currently has-a population of 53 million, which increases every 500,000 per year. France only has 38 million. remain stationary. It is essential to take into account, and a major factor, this dual phenomenon is important for many. to understand the direction of European policy. If Moreover, Germany wants to be able to one day do a war in which it is able to deploy all his strength, Rudi, that it be a war in which all the The Germans will give their assent; in other words, a A truly national war.

THE INFLUENCE OF POLITICS INTERIOR OF AUSTRIA ON HIS FOREIGN POLICY

Among the many struggles that the Emperor Franz Joseph had to support during his reign fiftieth anniversary, one of the most decisive was, as we have seen We know, the one that occurred between Prussia and Austria, relative to supremacy in Germany. In the past, this supremacy had unquestionably belonged to the house of the Habsburgs. By expelling Austria from the Confederation-Germanic ration, the minister of William I" modified profoundly, therefore, the situation in the center of Europe. And when, thirteen years later, he himself came to Vienna, to extend a friendly hand to Austria, by proposing the alliance with the German Empire was, for many of Austrians, a cruel ordeal to forget Sadowa's memories to pay homage to the grandeur of the new German Empire.

A state's foreign policy cannot, without serious disadvantages, being independent of her concussions laughs. It would be just as well to try and make a a watch whose springs were said to be broken. However, it has tried for a long time in Vienna. It was believed that in the face of a completely abnormal internal situation, one could follow—a foreign policy shielded from repercussions. But at the In the long run, it has become obvious to the less attentive that the internal disagreements between the various factions of The Empire inevitably exerts a direct influence, we We should say fatal, on its relations with neighboring countries. They make them difficult, and sometimes even dangerous.

Who, then, can seriously rely on, from the outside, the alliance and friendship of such a divided state, and within which the Is this disarray making new progress every day? And what about other things? For Austria, what value can the alliance of Germany, whereas it is the native Germans themselves, pushing with all their might, with all their power, to the dismemberment of the Cisleithan Empire? On the other hand, the growing power of the Slavic element, in the Habsburg monarchy, completely distorted the driving forces behind the Austro-German alliance. The consent—the mass no longer supports it, nor on one side m of the other. The pact seems to have been torn apart by the mutual attitude of two countries.

— From the outset, as we just said, the vast majority the Austro-Hungarian populations showed little friendly, and even in some respects decidedly hostile to the direction given, in 1879, to the foreign policy of the monarchy. As for the Austro—The Germans who initially applauded it, for two reasons one: either they admit they were wrong in approving the treaty signed by Count Andrassy; or they have grown accustomed to regarding the German emperor as their sovereign; and they proclaim Him loudly.

Such conduct undoubtedly constitutes an act of betrayal of their Austrian homeland; however, he It must be acknowledged that they are acting with absolute logic. from the point of view of modern ideas. For each state that followed a wrong path, which depleted his strength

To scatter and divide, sooner or later the hour of inevitable punishments. To justify this view, In its application to Austria, it suffices to note that, in Sonbee of his provinces, the spirit of resistance to Dynastic interests ultimately prevailed. The forces that Pan-Germanism in Austria is quite powerful health measures to create chaos at the desired moment. Therefore, Active external action will not be without very serious consequences. difficulties within. The Austro-Hungarian peoples, that separate them from one another by so many differences of ideas, character, and sympathies, have too much feeling—their destiny is not today to exhaust their forces in wars contrary to their intentions, to obey impulses outside of movements who train them. That is the crucial fact; and that is why the threatening fear of a crisis that could to become deadly.

The question remains whether the Habsburg monarchy will be able to relying for a long time on a parliamentary majority which, ostensibly, refused no sacrifice for the Triple An alliance that, in reality, played a double game; because it is acquired with heart and devotion to the Franco— cause Slave. She financially supported the friendly agreement with: Germany; but deep down, she cherishes an ideal quite different. The Czechs of Bohemia and Moravia, all like the Poles, the Ruthenians, the Croats and the Slovenians harbor an ineradicable hatred in their hearts against the Germans. That is the danger, and at the same time the scandal of the policy followed at Ballplatz during a twenty years.

All the statesmen who have led in this direction Austrian foreign policy, Count Kalnoky like Count Andrassy, and Count Goluchowski to In turn, like the first two, they had to fight against difficulties which, at certain times, threatened more of once becoming insurmountable. The struggle of nationalities, which, year after year, are escalating in violence, has often made the task they strive for very difficult for them They were trying to fill in. The Cisleithan prime ministers, in

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 303

Indeed, notably Count Taaffe and many others Count Badeni, have more than once shown themselves to be more concerned with satisfying the Slavic and clerical Abe than to meet the demands of diplomacy.

Some supporters of the Austro-German alliance, do not understanding nothing of the repugnance felt by the Slavs They blamed them for engaging in an anti-Russian policy. too often of their opposition without making themselves sufficiently aware- It takes into account the motives that inspire it. It is not for them It never seems to have occurred to anyone to examine whether the conditions new ones created in Germany by the substitution of Hohenzollern to the Habsburgs at the head of the German people did not necessarily include another way of seeing things. Wasn't there reason to foresee that a time would come when looking after their interests would place them, by the very force of things, the Habsburg dynasty and the Hohenzol- They would be placed opposite each other, and would make them adversaries. Inevitably irreconcilable?

FRANCE AND RUSSIA

The German victories in 1870 had placed at The center of Europe, the axis of international politics. They had taken him through Berlin and Vienna. Wisdom and the Tsar Alexander III moved it for his own good reason; he will Now from Paris to the capital of the Slavic world. At the hour where Europe was undeniably subject to the supremacy of Germany and Russia did not want all peoples from the continent got used to receiving the word order in Berlin; and she frankly extended her hand to the France. Russia entered the scene with its 110 million of men, blindly obeying the will of their sovereign. France, for its part, had already reorganized its military forces; and between the two, the Slavic peoples forming an unbroken line from northeast to south-eastern Europe, had rallied voluntarily, in their national autonomy, centered around the great hearth of the family Slavic. It was impossible that the world would not be struck by the The sheer number of forces involved presented an impressive spectacle. We immediately understood that one of the greatest events of modern history had just taken place; and the deepest disturbance was thrown into the Austro-German policy.

304 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Alexander III, the peaceful tsar, was not just a great sovereign, concerned with happiness and prosperity of his people. He was above all an honest man and loyal. However, we know the contents of his will. Tick: understanding and friendship with France must in the future to be the fundamental basis of Russian policy. Despite all the changes in ministries in France, despite all the obstacles that might arise, this base must be invariably maintained for as long as the French politics, domestically, will repudiate socialism revolutionary and will maintain the essential principles social order. As long as he lived, Alexander III made himself a duty to remain faithful to this course of action. However, Today, nothing has changed in this regard. The Tsar Nicolas II follows the same policy as his father, from whom he inherited the devoted admirer declared on several occasions. amidst the uncertainties and perils that are causing concern, at From other points of view, the whole world, the young souvenir-Rain, in line with popular sentiment in Russia, maintains as the guarantee the highest level of peace European, the powerful alliance of the Russian Empire with the France.

Even apart from the multiple interests that Russia is forced to defend itself on the political front Strictly speaking, the boldness with which Germany has tempted, at a certain time, to place a sort of burden on her financial vassalage would have been enough to open his eyes rulers. Whatever objections may be raised by certain moralists regarding the intervention of French fairy, it's important not to be seduced through the skillful maneuvers of the alliance's enemies those who understand their powerlessness all too well facing these two large, closely united countries,

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS | 305

The use of French capital in Russia is not, at Moreover, there is only one criticism that the Austrian opponents of the alliance have repeatedly voiced their opposition to France.

"How," they exclaimed, "is French democracy?" Doesn't she feel a sense of shame when she puts on her hand in hand with an autocrat? How can a republic Can it ally itself with a despotic empire? And from there to to conclude that France would sooner or later repent of such a An alliance was just a small step. We took it naturally. without asking whether Germany, too, had first felt some shame in allying herself with the empire autocrat of Russia, while the alliance of the three emperors
From 1871 to 1878, the reurs formed the basis of the policy
German. No one thought to look for the Government Russian too despotic that the day he distanced himself from Germany to get closer to France. A truth of one
"On one side, error on the other," Pascal had already said in his time.
What is perfect in the center of Europe becomes bad in The West. Such is the logic of human passions.
Let's not dwell on it. In Berlin as in Vienna, people showed themselves off.
happy with the Russian alliance. Why wouldn't it be the same for Even in Paris?

To try to make their arguments more acceptable and their more striking thesis, the same criticisms in that the French have gradually become accustomed to playing on the on the international stage, the role that Russia assigns them.
In Eastern Europe, they say, Germany stands coldly keeping to himself so as not to arouse sensitivities of Russia; and it is the Franco-Russian alliance that... attitude in these regions. The Russians, therefore (This is the conclusion reached by the opponents) of the alliance), know very well what the friendship of the

306 JEWISH AUSTRIA

France; but the French have so far received only promises. In support of this opinion, they assert that the Russia will never support France against Germany and that she didn't really agree with the Republic, which was the day it was a question of countering England. It is no less true – they add – that the Russia skillfully played its game between Germany and France, in order to immobilize them both, while she took a giant step forward on the route to Asia.

On closer inspection, it does not seem to us doubtful that the preceding considerations contain a grain of truth amidst some errors. In his in principle, as in its general features, the alliance between the Russia and France are to their adversaries what.

The Austro-German alliance was for themselves at at a time when they were isolated. We can conclude that, Drawing on the lessons of history, the two states have contracted an alliance that was both conservative and defensive, aimed at the balance of power in Europe.
Provided that the agreement can be lasting, so that it does not
It is necessary to avoid creating dangerous illusions; we must do everything the necessity that, in principle, it be peaceful. Such is the teachingarrangements determined by the immediate interests of both powers. At the forefront of our interests Let's talk about, of course, resistance to appetites.
worrying to England, which would not ask, if we allowed it to happen, only to appropriate a significant part of the known world. The alliance for stands entirely natural-truly confronted by his usurpations and his covetousness. Sooner or Later, Germany, aligning itself, as it had already done,
For the first time, on the side of the two allied states, it will include
She too is aware of the danger that transactions pose to the freedom of freedom.
tions, exchanges, trade and navigation, this tyranny that England, with the help of its powerful fleets, strives to do so across the entire universe.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 307

In this regard, it would be highly desirable for the agreement of the France's alliance with Russia has the character of a combination more effective, deliberate, corroborating the military convention to keep quiet without giving it a threatening appearance for anyone So be it. He would gain in dignity and strength. Also Would it be appropriate not to Cube that the links comr-cils have always greatly influenced the duration and the soli-the strength of political and diplomatic ties, and consequently they are more likely to be linked than they are today the material interests of the two countries.

3

ITALY

France and Italy, whatever their differences may have been,
From different eras, they are fundamentally two sister nations which,
for a thousand reasons, each more conclusive than the last

Others should constantly strive to reach an agreement. Under this report, the trade agreement that was concluded between them The end of 1898 is an excellent omen. It allows to hope that the future will be as we wish it to be. The Russian politics had always tended to favor understanding RAT and, if we are to believe the information trustworthy, the conclusion of the trade treaty which what we just talked about is largely due to the efforts of the Russian ambassador, Mr. de Nelidow, who worked diligently in Rome to bring about a rapprochement between the two Latin nations.

In Vienna, the possibility of a closer agreement between France and Italy is being considered as an event which deserves the utmost attention; one has always considered, i.e., Italy's accession to the Triplice as being subject to caution and intended not to last. In the possibilities that are linked to this

A delicate question, the comings and goings of the members of the Napoleonic studies are being observed by diplomats Austrians with meticulous care. The sympathies of the

308 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Austrian court is indeed exclusively devoted to the family of Orléans.

Let's not go back to the incidents that motivated, to some extent, the accusation of ingratitude directed at Italy's loyalty to the nation that helped it conquer its independence on the battlefields. Let us not Let's not stop there, either, from relating the multiple consequences of the anti-French policy from an economic point of view. Let us simply state, as one might do in With all due assurance, that the current constellation of Europe, considered in its broad outlines, advises Italy to to return frankly to friendship for those who have been, to the decisive hour, his brothers and his supporters against age-old enemies. An illustrious English statesman, Cobden, completely disinterested in the matter, himself-even gave this advice to the Italians.

Indeed, for both nations, this concerns the future of Latin races, so threatened by the Germanic world and the the Anglo-Saxon world. The Great-"United Germany, as everyone knows, is tending to gain a foothold on The Adriatic; and the gradual weakening of Austria Unfortunately, it flattens the roads. However, Trieste is well near Venice; and the Lombards are of noble origin Teutonic. Nothing would therefore seem easier to achieve. that this dream of Germany, if nothing were to come and disrupt it obstacle. As for Italy's cooperation with Austria, Let's just say what everyone understands without eine. It is absolutely contrary to all previous ones braués as well as to the very essence of things which are accomplished within the Polynomial Empire.

One grievance remains, stemming from France's colonial past: But, on closer examination, this grievance itself is far from to have the gravity that some have tried to attribute to it In some respects, Italy has no interest in opposing it. biased towards the civilizing mission undertaken by France, in Tunis, just as France could not be jealous of to see the Italians establish themselves on the Red Sea.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 309

All things considered, there is no difference between Italy and the France, not only no cause for war, but even 'no cause for quarrel or coldness. One can see, at On the contrary, as soon as one examines the situation with impar-legality, numerous reasons that govern the agreement to two countries, in the name of their dearest interests. After a a certain time when foreign influence had prevailed From other perspectives, public opinion, in Rome as in Paris, tends, it seems, to engage again in this way.

AUSTRIA AND FRANCE

Did the Habsburg monarchy, for its part, have a any interest in seeing Sabaiblr's power France? And, conversely, does France have a motive seriousness to rejoice in any diminution whatsoever within the power of the Austro-Hungarian Empire? In

In other words, would Richelieu's policy still be opportune = our duty? We don't think so; and null A politician of good faith would not think so either. However, the national struggles that continue at the inter- The Austrian people cannot fail to exercise a influence on the foreign policy of the monarchy dualistic; and this influence is of such a nature that France could not remain indifferent to it.

The Vienna Cabinet, under the inspiration of Mr. Bismarck cooperated, to the best of his ability, in the erasure of France. He did not realize the misfortunes that he could, by this conduct, bring upon his country; and it is permissible to be astonished by this. How could it not have I didn't understand that, if France were to be crushed in a In a new war, Austria would inevitably become the vassal of the powerful Germanic Empire, which would no longer So there are no counterweights in Central Europe?

310 JEWISH AUSTRIA

the current constellation of the European chessboard has not altered the state of affairs to the advantage of the monarchy of the Habsburg. Quite the contrary; the dangers that they create in this monarchy, already so often tested, the probabilities of the future, have only grown instead of diminishing. One eventually realized it at the Ballplatz; and in the presence of the In this peril, Los has striven to mitigate its seriousness by setting, at less in their essential lines, the foundations of a new action outside.

The intervention of the chivalrous sovereign of Austria, so rightly surrounded by universal affection, maintenance, we are not unaware of, in some minds, the hope of an agreement with the Tsarist empire, and made believe to the possibility of a new Triple Alliance between the France, Austria, and Russia. It is even, at the moment currently, in Vienna, politicians who work at to establish this alliance on the basis of a permanent agreement nent and not possible.

It seems to us, in truth, that this is going a bit too fast and A bit far-fetched. First of all, the Franco-Russian alliance is sufficient. perfectly to itself; there is no need to admit new members. Then it's very difficult to believe that Austria could ostentatiously separate itself from Germany, at least in the short term. Too many interests bind them together the two Empires; and these interests, to be of one economic order, are no less worthy of a Serious attention. Half of the foreign trade of Austria-Hungary is formed through the borders of Germany; a very large part of its funds the state and its listed securities are in the hands of German savings. However, the total of these investments made in This amounts to 4 billion florins. It follows that Germany, in the event of an open break between the two Empires would have very powerful means to starve his former ally, which again, in turn, making the difficulties increasingly acute internal cults amidst which Austria is struggling.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 311

On the other hand, France could not agree, in view of joint action, with a country such as the Empire moribund, that as much as Russia would take the initiative of this three-way agreement.

In the event of a war between Austria and Germany and France would have to follow a course of action very precise, which would determine the attitude of the Slavic Empire. Without the cooperation of the Russian armed forces, it would have to resigning to strict neutrality. Relying on the regimes-German ments of the Austrian army, in such a case, one would count in Paris on what Carlyle calls "playful appearances"; we would have as allies shadows that would vanish to the sounds of the Lieb hymn? Vaterland or other German war songs. At However, France has no need to interfere in the complications of the dispute that exists in a permanent state in the east of Europe. Whatever might happen in these regions Eastern states, whether autonomous states expand or... constitute again, she is not directly affected by it neither in its political influence, nor in its trade or in his industry.

RUSSIA AND AUSTRIA

The old antagonism that existed between Austria and the Russia, while they were fiercely arguing

Has the dominant influence in the East completely disappeared?
ru, as a result of the joint efforts made for this purpose by
The two sovereigns? Has it given way to true unity?
Of views? Who could say? Russia, by the treaty of San Stefano, which she had skillfully prepared, showed She clearly states what she wants. Her goal is to have outlets to the southern seas, as well as to exercise an undisputed protectorate over all Slavic peoples belonging to the Orthodox religion. In many respects, his aspirations intersect, in this respect, with those of

312 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Austria, which seeks to rediscover itself in the Slavic world, between the Lower Danube and the Adriatic, what it lost at center of Europe.

To try to exaggerate the importance of what is called The Austro-Russian entente, we like to cite the collective note by which the two Empires congratulated each other agreed, the governments of Belgrade, Sofia, of Bucharest and Cetinje, because of their wise attitude during the Greco-Turkish War. Is this really the right path in which could walk together for a long time Austria and Russia to agree on everything that Does it touch on the affairs of Eastern Europe? Many minds
They think about it and doubt it.

In recent years, it has been impossible to mis-to understand Russia's attitude towards the monarchy
The Habsburgs were constantly free from any hostile tendency, no doubt out of respect for the august Franz Joseph's personality (1%). There is all the more Instead of rejoicing, the press of the IPs previously the country neglected no opportunity to try to embitter the Austro-Russian reports. Most of the press organs Austrians had seemed to take pleasure in creating, through the violence in their language, a real unease between Vienna and Saint Petersburg. Without taking into account the wishes yet well known to the vast majority of the population-tion, which aspires to the maintenance of peace, they strove to Every day creates causes for conflict. As a result of this deplorable intervention by the Jewish press, the antagon-Austro-Russian nationalism, which was part of it, had as its objective principal, much less the interests of the Austrian Feat

Honeiote that the emancipation of the Jews in Russia. This antagonism, now largely extinct, has also has been powered, as we have already had the opportunity to to say, by the resentment of the Hungarians towards the Russia, in remembrance of that power's intervention in 1849. Now it seems that this intervention at one of the the most critical hours in Austrian history should have

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 313

to inspire entirely different feelings in loyal patriots attached to the ruling House of Habsburg. By what This empire, which has a strange forgetfulness of all generous notions, which had been saved by Russian weapons, did he suffer nothing? more eager than to revolutionize Poland in 1863, in order to to detach it from the Russian Empire? And how can one to come to understand that at the time of Alexan's death-Dr. III, one of the senior officials of the Austrian Ministry Foreign Affairs dog, Mr. de Doszy, had done to spread in the press controlled by his coreligionists the the most violent insults against the august father of Nicholas II?

To explain such inconsistency, we should
To utter such an impropriety, one must remember one of the famous maxims of La Rochefoucauld, saying that: "The men are not only willing to lose the They remember both the kindnesses and the insults. They come to hate.
those who forced them, and to cease hating those who committed outrages. The application to reward good and to avenge themselves for evil seems to them a servitude to which they have difficulty submitting. For a time, the Austria's conduct appeared all too consistent with this a disheartening sentence. If, currently, Austrian diplomacy-Hungarian's main concern, as is rational to Assuming this, the amicable delimitation of spheres of influence In Eastern Europe, it must be recognized that the the conciliatory means to which it resorts make great honor to the flexibility of his talents.

THE CHRISTIAN EAST

While calm seems to have returned to the minds of those who guide the destinies of peoples within the an island in the Balkans and in southeastern Europe, this

The result is perhaps less explained by a patient resignation on their part, through this conviction

314 JEWISH AUSTRIA

that Russia is currently directing its attention, in a way almost exclusively, on the Asian side. Regarding In the Balkan countries, she seems momentarily to be to lose interest; she relaxed surveillance somewhat that she formerly exercised over them. And this is certain, moreover, that nothing will counterbalance, among these Slavic peoples, the national sentiment that draws them into the orbit of its influence. Even in Serbia, popular trends have not They have lost none of their vivacity in this direction. Sometimes, without a doubt, in Belgrade, within a fairly small circle, of stronger sympathies are emerging in favor of Austria, especially since Queen Nathalie is no longer in a position to exert, as in the past, an influence dominant over the young king's mind. We remember, at Belgrade, that present-day Serbia is a creation of Austria. One of its former regents has just died readily recounted to whom he had addressed himself at the Congress of Berlin, to proclaim the independence of Serbia and to give the country the borders that have been assigned to it. Its protector in Berlin, his defender before Congress, was Count Andrassy. The former King Milan, for his part, can say to his son what would have been the consequences for Serbia—consequences of the defeats he had suffered, if the count Khevenhüler, sent by the Emperor of Austria, had not penetrated into the victor's camp, and had not made himself heard to the Prince of Battenberg words that stopped him in his victorious march. Not only the royal crown was placed on the heads of the Obrenoviches by Austria, but it was she who maintained this dynasty in the midst of the crises that nearly claimed his life more than once. It is therefore understandable that the Serbian royal family and the Court She herself remembers the services rendered by Austria. But the mass of the population is not less animated by Russophile sentiments than anything can uproot; and it is deeply regrettable that a The ruling dynasty thus puts itself in opposition to the island. national sentiment.

As for Bulgaria, which owes its freedom, even its very existence, to tence, to Russia, and exclusively to her, one could believe a that moment she would renew, in the face of loss. the DA show by the Austrian monarchy, the day when one of his most influential ministers was not afraid to say that she astonished the world with her ingratitude. The prince Ferdinand of Coburg, who is a gentleman from head to toe head, however, had the wisdom to understand the aspirations- to his people and to give them full satisfaction. With a perfect understanding of the situation, he frankly- Bulgaria was placed back under Russian influence, somewhat personal sacrifices that he had to make for this purpose.

Moreover, there is a powerful motif which, even outside of of all religious questions, of all racial affinities, would be enough to throw all the peoples of the Balkans into the arms of Russia. It's the deep hatred they all have for the Hungarians. Although the states of L'inisule are the neighbors of the Danubian Empire and that the nature of things invites them to sell their products on this side, the policy Hungary's ultra-protectionist approach to trade commercial forces them to make enormous expenditures, to contract debts to build railways that connect them to the sea. It is by sea that they sell their products. Such ways of acting from their neighbors naturally return the favor and will make their friendship increasingly precious to them. from Russia.

Peace in the East seems assured, according to all the human forecasts, as long as Austria and the Russia will agree to protect it and to prevent that the principles on which it is based are being undermined rests. Austria does not want to admit that a power any entity acquires too much east of its borders large predominance, which would be incompatible with the independence of small states. Unfortunately, there exists For her, this is a black mark that weighs on her policy and will motivate his concerns for many years

316 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Again. Possession of Thessaloniki seemed indispensable to him. for the consolidation of its problematic power in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The flood of the Austro- invasion

Jewish people would thus be drawn to the shopping center in the southeast. then it would spread its radiance across the South Slavic world. Now, Thessaloniki is also coveted by the Serbs, the Bulgarians and the Greeks, who are willing to engage in a struggle for this purpose dead. The battle that will one day be fought for possession The Salonika will ignite a terrible fire that all the art of diplomacy will have much of struggled to extinguish. How much this inevitable solution would have could have been hastened, and made definitive, at the time of the Treaty of San Stefano, liberating the Slavs from the Aegean Sea to the Danube!

The role played by the Austro- monarchy was surprising. Hungarian in the Cretan question. Initially, at the example- unlike the other great powers, it sent its ships buckets in the Cretan waters, to demonstrate that in all Given the circumstances, she is ready to put her interests in the... Mediterranean. But she didn't want to leave them there during the day where Russia has proposed the nomination of Prince George of Greece as governor of Crete. That day, she withdrawn from the European concert and did not follow up on the Russophile tendencies she had previously displayed.

Apart from the legitimate claims of Hellenism, Moreover, what a lot the Congress of Berlin left behind! unresolved, or poorly resolved! How many errors have been committed! put in place by the plenipotentiaries of the great powers 1878! If we consider only Austria-Hungary, for example- How much bloodshed and embarrassment could have been spared him! if she had not accepted the mandate to occupy Bosnia and Herzegovina in the name of Europe. These two provinces She conquered the Turco-Slavs with the help of the heaviest sacrifices; and yet they do not belong to her. She is installed there only as an agent of the powers European. On the other hand, some fragments of territory- the tax had been allocated to Montenegro; it too had to

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 317

to conquer them. Blood has flowed again; at Dulcigno he has It was necessary for the European fleets to intervene. Then it was Greece's turn. He had been granted, as compensation for its rejected demands by the Congress, Thessaly, and some of the worst. News struggles, new battles. As for the separation against nature of eastern Romania and Bulgaria, it has gave rise, firstly, to the war between Serbia and the Bulgaria, then, with the revolution... That's not all. The reforms passed by Congress for what was left to Turkey resulted in the silent massacres in Armenia, to the Cretan uprising, to the Greco-Turkish war. In short, In twenty years, the so-called peaceful Congress of Berlin has done to shed more tears and more blood than war, however, so deadly, between Russia and the Empire Ottoman in 18/7.

He divided the lands arbitrarily and illogically. which were designed to remain compact and homogeneous. He has divided into two parts, one part of Albania, which is inhabited by a population of Serbian origin. The smallest of these two parts was allocated to Montenegro; the The surplus remained under Ottoman rule. From [to ongoing unrest. The Serbian and Albanian women are victims of the errors and mistakes of the diplomacy, which sought to resolve Eastern issues without a thorough enough understanding of social conditions, confesses the sional and ethnographic aspects that needed to be taken into account. The work, accomplished in 1878 by the Treaty of Berlin, is It needs to be completely redone.

The constitution of small autonomous states, as it has been partly accomplished under the action of time, is the visible indication of what remains to be accomplished, as the Civilization progresses. Essential to the European balance. In Europe, small states cushion the shocks, inevitable in a At a given moment, between the great powers. By their In large numbers, their national spirit will make it more difficult coalitions that could too easily become the cause serious problems.

318 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The situation in Austria, from the point of view of the. foreign policy, it must be acknowledged, is one of the most delicate. The peoples of the Empire, divided roughly on all the questions can be difficult to find Austria agrees to act in the name of the general interest. In short, she arrived at one of those psychological moments situations where she would need the devotion of all her naked; and yet it is certain that she is condemned to immobility due to its internal divisions.

The current situation in Europe would promptlythe disappearance of a state, half of which, in the event of conflict with a foreign power, would first consider strangling the other half before worrying about the defense of the territory. Germany, Italy and Romania on the one hand, Russia, on the other hand, exerts influence over the Austrian nationalities.
Hungarian and Hungarian forces a centrifugal action which, rising from the deep layers of the population to the surface, ends by piercing the cloak of historical traditions, including Each day takes away a fragment. In this extreme peril,
The dualist monarchy must withdraw into a reserve absolute, with prudent circumspection. A war, Whatever it may be, it would provoke a crisis within its ranks whose seriousness it would be childish to ignore.

However, there will come a time when, according to all appearances,
In the event, the monarchy will not be able to escape the event.
The reality of an armed struggle. At that moment, everyone... predicts. The action of international politics will know the to take advantage of. In the European crisis that will begin So, France and Russia will inevitably have their role; and The course of action they will follow will appear with this particular character that events derive from circumstances.

XI THE EASTWIDE PUSH

UNREST IN THE STATES BALKANICS – THE JEWS IN THESALONIKI – THE BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA

After dominating all of central Europe, the
The Habsburg monarchy is now reduced to... to ask if she will be drowned in the Slavic ocean and the panger-manism, or if she will be able to carve out a space for herself, in the middle of the conflict of nationalities, a new empire in the east of the continent Whether German power or Slavic power, there is no there is no other alternative to escape the current chaos. However, the the constitution of Europe, as it must necessarily be:
resulting from the evolution of modern peoples, is quite progress so that we can outline the main points.
FAeiche no longer has the resource to reject itself today.

towards the West; there it would encounter Pan-Germanism, who wants to get rid of her, in order to eliminate the Island main obstacle to its expansion.

Too weak to oppose the development of the German power, the dualist monarchy seeks to delaying the hour of triumph of the Slavic cause, as we includes Moscow. Moreover, he must, under penalty to stifle, to secure outlets on the eastern side; and by Given the circumstances, she strives to exercise her influence, to some extent, on the conditions in which the peoples living along the Lower Danube, and those from Southeast Europe now intend to assert their national existence.

320 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Who will hold influence in the near future? dominant among Christian populations of The Orient? That's the big problem to solve; that's what which disturbs the sleep of Austrian diplomats when Their thoughts are moving in that direction. Austria and the Russia is vying with itself in its efforts to try to maintain so much Although a flawed, artificial balance. But the ideas work. faster than men and the solutions of the future are will somehow realize this on their own, by the only action of time and the logic of a movement which has based on the immediate interests of the people.

Austria's eastern concerns have began to reveal itself as early as 1854-55, when its troops occupied Romania to resist the Russian encroachments in these regions. From this At that moment, she was obeying the current that carried her along. today. "Drang nach Osten!" had said in 1878 the German chancellor; he was right.

A provisional agreement was reached at the Congress of Berlin, by entrusting Austria-Hungary with the task of occupying and to administer two South Slavic countries, Bosnia and Herzegovina. This was simultaneously a way of diminishing the Empire Turkish without completely stripping it, and pushing the monarchy dualistic in this path assigned to him by politics

Prussian-German. The push towards the East was thus
It had begun; the first step had been taken.

The political world in Vienna was not mistaken about the scope of this event. The German party, supposedly constitutional, who was in power, wanted to oppose this introduction of new Slavic countries into the Empire

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 321

multilingual. But that would mean running up against some very firm resolutions arrested within the circles of the Court. It was therefore obvious that Austria was a state where nationalities did not German women had to satisfy their aspirations in the same way.
A title that the Germans themselves. The Cabinet Auersperg (a German centralist) resigned, and Count Taaffe was tasked with forming a new ministry. A simultaneous reversal therefore occurred in the domestic policy and in foreign policy.

The timing couldn't have been better, either.
Everywhere in the East, questions of the most serious nature sought attention; and if Austria-Hungary wanted to try to establish its influence in the Balkan countries, the
The time had come to take a stand. It is true that she had done nothing to justify this influence to which she claimed so openly. While Russia had paid rivers of blood and lavished his treasures to free the Slavic peoples, Austria-Hungary, still torn apart in a thousand opposing meanings through contradictory tendencies of her subjects, had been unable to settle on any resolution. She had not had the energy to defend the integrity of the Empire Ottoman, which, from a realistic point of view, from the point of view
In practice, it ultimately constituted its best safeguard.
She had also failed to decisively take control of the liberating flag and to take the lead of the movement

our liberation of the Christian peoples of the peninsula Ebeue, having done nothing for either Turkey or For Christians, what was she demanding in 1878?
claimed to oppose the fact that: Russia became too powerful, by grouping the southern world under its protection entire slave.

That was relying too much on the ingratitude of men, it was inviting those whom Russia had freed to turn against their benefactress. It was especially (and This was the main means of action she used. (so far) speculate on the jealousies and rivalries between the small, newly founded states in Eastern Europe. This game

322 JEWISH AUSTRIA

At first, he succeeded better than she could have hoped: Belgrade, King Milan, no doubt out of gratitude for the Viennese bankers who had extended him credit personnel at the same time as in the Kingdom of Serbia, as its best efforts of Austrian diplomacy female dog. He was letting in, according to a well-worn expression, Serbia within the sphere of action of Austro- policy Hungarian, without worrying about whether public opinion The public, within the country, ratified this deviation. brought to the course of action followed by the heroes of the great struggle for liberation.

At the same time, and by the same means, the influence- Austrian influence was attempting to establish itself in Sofia, with the unspoken sentiment of the Prince of Battenberg, while the The road leading from the sea to Cetinje seemed well-made. to facilitate friendly relations between the Court of Vienna and that of Montenegro. And as, on the left bank of the Danube, King Charles of Romania, because of the alliance Austro-German, he too was careful not to offend Austria-Hungary, It seemed that, for the moment, she had all the advantages. in his game, and that everything had to contribute, momentarily at least, to the success of his plans.

Unfortunately for her, her plans are too easy to to see through. We can see all too clearly the idea that guides it; and its interests are in too direct opposition to those of populations over whom it seeks to impose its influence. Go ahead and try to persuade the Slavs of the Balkans, the Greeks of Macedonia, to the inhabitants of the Black Mountains, that they have any interest whatsoever in subordinating their destinies to those of the House of Habsburg. Above all, they will will ask what she did for them in the past, this that she is able to do for them in the future. In their instinctive reaction against the convoluted politics Austro-Hungarian, all the peoples of the East have conscious- something that the polyglot Empire, powerless to maintain

The union and understanding under Pius I did not have the necessary prestige. to establish balance outside. They understand-

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 323

They state that he has absolutely no mission to intervene between them, and that it is up to them to know how to resolve their family issues. The Bosnians themselves, we can be sure, if their The voice is not stifled, and if Slavic solidarity succeeds They still have some progress to make, and will not hesitate to demand their admission into the great Slavic family with the same insistence that the French put on demanding for their brothers from Alsace-Lorraine, the return to the French homeland, or that the Germans of Austria, put in to ask the right to sit at the hearth of the Germanic family.

First and foremost, indeed, above all the little rivalries, of all the power struggles, there is a necessity imposed on all these peoples. To be in as a measure to assert their nationality forcefully, he They need to free themselves from all foreign influences which would like to try to attach themselves to their national body. They did not shake off the yoke of the Turks only to fall back under it. the leadership of the Austrians and Hungarians.

UNREST IN THE STATES AND THE BALKAN COUNTRIES

So far, Austrian diplomacy, in its attempts that she did to extend her hand eastward, was seen forced to conceal her intentions. She invoked at times the looking after his material interests, the need to open outlets for its trade, sometimes the demands of its de-political defense. In reality, it has constantly found itself obliged to be mindful of the sensitivities of the Russia. Forced as it is to acknowledge that there is no a place for her in Germany next to triumphant Prussia-Phante, she has always tried to demonstrate that there is room in the East for her and for Russia. But here again, not Does she not encounter adversaries of the peoples? fighting for their national independence? It is increasingly more evident than the aspirations of the peoples placed between the

The sea and the Lower Danube tend towards a social state that different from that of nations grouped under the laws of The polyglot Habsburg Empire. The force of circumstances will therefore probably nullify any aim of Austria-Hungary's shift towards the Orthodox East. A thousand reasons feelings, religion, instinct, interests, drive these peoples towards Russia. None, except perhaps the fear of displeasing a powerful neighbor, does not push towards Austria-Hungary has populations that do not have with it nothing in common.

Let's not talk, for the moment, about those whose nationality The nature of this is clearly accentuated. There are others where the the question of the nation's future arises in the form of a question mark. What will become of, for example, the Macedonia, where three nationalities coexist in roughly of equal strength? That's where they pile up Clouds heralding the storm. Albania also constitutes... a center of unrest likely to become the point of the starting point of serious complications. The southern part- The country's national identity is considered by the Greeks as making part of irredentist Greece. Its inhabitants feel attracted to Greece, not only by the language and the customs, but through a community of memories. The North and the East, on the contrary, belong to the Slavic race; and for Adding to the confusion, something is happening in Albania movement analogous to that which preceded independence dance from Serbia and Bulgaria. They are asking for various aspects of the creation of a self-governing Albanian province nome, or rather of a new nation-state under the sovereignty the sultan's sovereignty. Now, what could Austria hope for- Hungary for the development of its influence in Amidst such complications? If it is difficult to reconcile the diverse interests, to reconcile the trends contrary to what we have just indicated, it is on the other hand one point on which everyone agrees, in Macedonia, just like Albania. Nobody wants to hear talk of an intervention by Austria-Hungary.

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 325

No one would understand that the Habsburg Empire considered exerting some influence on the destin- born in those countries. If the Albanians believed they needed of a protector, they would preferably turn to the Prince of Montenegro. It would seem natural for them to see him fight alongside them and embrace their cause.

The peoples who inhabit the Balkan Peninsula have all the same love for independence. It's for the to be satisfied that they strongly affirm their nationality. not to then drown her in an ocean of diverse nationalities, under the rule of a dynasty German. The future, whether we like it or not, belongs to the the formation of new national communities. The results obtained in those that exist today are quite encouraging, ultimately, for one to persevere in this path.

The Serbs alone are still agitated, perhaps because that they are in more immediate contact with the empire from Austria and that they are therefore more exposed to to see the power struggles between the renewed Russian trends and Austro-Hungarian trends. The The Obrenovitch house apparently enjoys playing the bank game.

On the summit of the Black Mountains, we do not know Not the hesitations, the annoying alternatives. Instructed by an already long experience, inspired by a heroism that the The weather hasn't cooled down, Prince Nicholas is making his voice heard without The rallying cry ceases. If his advice were followed, if His patriotic projects were realized, all the Slavs inhabiting the lands located between the Black Sea and the Adriatic would form a compact, fairly strong group to withstand all encroachments, powerful enough and might be homogeneous enough to take away from anyone to cause the slightest harm to the existence of these vibrant nationalities.

This prince is a likeable figure. Nicolas, whom Europe has barely glimpsed on several occasions, and whose literary activity has attracted much more attention that of his qualities as a soldier and patriot. His sympathies have never varied; he has never been seen to waver between Vienna and Saint Petersburg. From all eternity he understood, with the ardent patriotism that forms the basis of his character, that Russia alone was the true friend of the Slavs, that only she had both the power and the will to do real sacrifices for their cause, and that to it alone they owed their emancipation. Judging, moreover, with bloody-cold, and without the slightest illusion, the current state of affairs, he is perfectly aware of what makes the Persian the danger of the Eastern Question. That is why he would like to group, in one form or another, so as to thus creating a sufficient resistance force, all countries emancipated from Turkish domination. The key to the question of the Balkans would thus be in the Balkan capitals themselves—same.

326 JEWISH AUSTRIA

If it is true, as is claimed, that Prince Michael of Serbia also once professed similar ideas; The result would be that the fundamental thought of what we have named the Balkan League would present itself under the patronage of two figures of a political nature very pronounced. It was also, indirectly, Éobiton from a German scholar, Mr. Mommsen, who expressed the idea, moreover highly debatable, that there is no room, In our modern societies, for small states. The day where the independence of those who exist today in the east Europe would be seriously threatened, they would not have no other recourse than to unite, to enter into contracts with each other strong bonds, mutual support, in a the word to oppose the aggressor with military resources and financial resources befitting a great state.

Russia is merely exercising towards them a kind and friendly protection, without thinking of constituting to kill again this unit of the Slavic world which is one of the problems of the future. How will they be addressed, at the moment of the peril, the groups of peoples scattered across the immense space that stretches from north to south, from the Neva on the shores of the Black Sea, from the Balkans to the Adriatic? How will the concentration of Slavic forces take place, the The day when circumstances demand it? That's the secret of the Providence. We could not, at this moment, formulate at In this regard, there are only vague hypotheses. What is certain is this What is beyond discussion is that Serbs and Bulgarians, Montenegrins and Albanians, South Slavs and

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 327

The northern Slavs all share, deep down in their souls, the same aspirations. rations, deep down the same hopes. Could it be, In its infancy, the true solidarity of the Slavic world? There is to one of these movements against which would break all opposing efforts. Austria-Hungary has nothing to to hope for it.

THE JEWS IN THESALONIKI

Consider the amount of effort that the monarchy Austro-Hungarian forces have already deployed to gain a foothold in the Balkans; let us reflect especially on the revolts which are produced in Bosnia-Herzegovina from the very first hours of occupation, and the consequences that could leading to the future invasion of the former provinces Turks by the Jews whom the Austro-Hungarian army dragged after her! There you will find, along with its accessories, the the beginning of this political orientation which determines the Drive eastward, the Drang nach Osten. Whether she wills it or not, the dualist monarchy now has its social state inextricably linked to Judaism. The children of Israel, no pleased to have extended their sphere of activity to all the provinces of the monarchy, are still seeking inter- to move towards shores where it would implant the ideas and the aspirations that contributed to its greatness in past centuries. They want to make him plant his flag on the banks of this sea where she would find herself facing all the memories of ancient Greece, but where nothing would be reminiscent of what was once the Holy Roman Empire.

328 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Certainly, from the Israelite point of view, the calculation is clever, and can only be beneficial to the expansion of Judaism. The taking possession of Thessaloniki, further emphasizing plus Austro-Hungarian cosmopolitanism, would be equivalent to a The undeniable failure of Russian influence in the East. The 2 millions of Austro-Hungarian Jews, to whom would come to join the Jews of Romania, would resolutely try to hindering definitive training and development representation of Bulgarian, Greek, Serbian, Montenegrin nationalities Negrine. The care of their interests would absorb them to the point to make them hostile to any idea of respect for existence national identity of these small Slavic peoples. They felt- would be too powerful, moreover, to even consider stopping now faced with no consideration other than that of the Gain at any cost. Within these populations, among whom Prosperity has not yet had time to develop. It would be a game for them to break down all the obstacles. to erase all national sensitivities, and not to leave the natives with no other role than that of mere instruments Blind and unconscious. That's what they've been doing ever since fifty years in the Austro-Hungarian countries.

Without a doubt, popular sentiment would rise up against them if they wanted to confront him too directly quickly. But who can say that in the long run, under the a constant barrage of temptations, the concern for preoccupations material actions would not succeed in extinguishing, in the heart of nations not yet matured by the trials of the life, any sense of dignity, without them even realizing it have they been reported?

It is this nefarious work that would be accomplished by the infallible-Jewish cosmopolitanism, hidden behind the banner Austro-Hungarian, if he felt supported and encouraged as it would be by the possession of Thessaloniki. We have too used to seeing only the side of the Eastern Question purely political. We haven't observed the work enough. underground activity in this regard by the people who call themselves supranational. Russia alone seems to have understood this.

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 329

But she shouldn't be mistaken. She will meet him without ceases in the ranks of her adversaries; and the struggle that she will still have to support in order to play the role in the East that it belonging will not only be of a military nature or diplomatic; it will be even more of a social struggle: the The war of unbridled cosmopolitanism against the patriotism

When we consider it from its various aspects and when we doesn't shy away from addressing it in its true light, which leads to to conclude that the Eastern Question lies primarily in determining whether the Austro-Hungarian Jews, having been surrendered bold because of their past successes, will be repelled by the explosion of Slavic national sentiment, or whether they will extend the hand on these peoples born yesterday into civilization. From the The solution that will be given to this question depends on, one can To affirm it, the salvation or ruin of the Christian East. While that rival claims are asserting themselves within the Balkans, that Greece seeks to extend the domain of the panhellenism, that nationalities stir in the ferment From their youthful exuberance, the Austro-Hungarian Jew... glides across this land where he aspires to reign one day in master. Therein lies the danger that we seem to forget too often, and to which these countries cannot be exposed without opening for them the era of adventures and disillusionments.

Ultimately, what is national consciousness? This is nothing other than the affirmation of rights and of common interests of all men grouped on a same territory and speaking the same language. However, the day when this consciousness would be drowned in the turbulent waves of the cosmopolitanism, how would it be possible to begin or to pursue with some chance of success an action any kind of consensus, based on the unanimous sentiment of the masses? To make them durable, to make them solid and permanent the happy transformations that the second half of the The nineteenth century saw the achievements within the peoples Balkan, it is important that nothing disturbs these young states in the organization of their social life. It is

330 JEWISH AUSTRIA

It is essential that they be able to go about their business, together and in solidarity complete freedom, to the work of peace and progress which demands all their attention, all their most diligent care. But it is precisely this feeling of solidarity, this bond, that powerful that must unite peoples in the same path would destroy in its germ the deleterious action of Austro-Hungarian Jews.

They now have invasive tendencies that... make the boundaries within which they find them too narrow are temporarily locked up. Instinctively they wear their gazes on the other side of these borders. Now, where Go? In which direction should they focus their activity? Westward From Europe, there's nothing they can do. Germany has its 600,000 Jews who possess capital exceeding that that the Israelites of Austria-Hungary possess. To the north, Russia keeps its door stubbornly closed. Only one Their remaining outlet was the East. Since the monarchy Austro-Hungarian forces set foot in the provinces Bosnians, they suggest to him the idea of going all the way to Thessaloniki. They are, in a way, making it a patriotic duty for him.

they are so ingenious in explaining to him the reasons that They must push it in that direction. A recent memorandum addressed to the Austro-Hungarian delegations by the association Viennese industrialists fully enlighten us on this subject.
"The possession of Thessaloniki by a foreign power —"
It is stated in this report that this would close our outlet.
natural towards the Aegean Sea. It would take away all our hope.
to bring us closer to the trade routes leading to the Suez Canal and would inevitably lead to the loss of all political and commercial relations with the Balkan countries. We would be confined, in a way. forever confined to our slightly advanced situation—geuse at the bottom of a gulf on the Adriatic. Now, in order for Austria could itself take possession of Thessaloniki, as well as to prevent any other
The power to seize it, the only effective way is to have a sufficiently strong fleet. It's also

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 331

Time is the least expensive way. A hand attack Arming them by land would require a very long campaign Expensive. A military march in a confined area, without a marked road, with Albania on the flank of our columns, would be a perilous and perhaps unsound undertaking possible outcome. To seize Apona, that is to say from an eminently strategic position, which would serve us as a starting point for Albanian trade, the Possession of a powerful fleet would also be indispensable conceivable. If our eastern neighbors were to seize this In this position, Austria-Hungary would be forever condemned to remain a continental power and should renounce all maritime expansion.

From Austria's specific point of view, it is necessary to recognize—
It is clear that this thesis is admirably reasoned.
The industrialists who drafted it had perfectly considered the needs of the sector.
They explored all facets of the issue; they understood and acted on them.
to grasp the true scope. Count Andrassy, at the time of the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina govine, had already hinted that one day or another the monarchy could extend its possessions up to Thessaloniki. Not wanting to provoke too much opposition
In addition to this, he limited himself to building railway lines.
in that direction.

As long as Austria does not further accentuate its ambitions, no one will think of opposing them. Let the monarchy is striving to gain a foothold on the shores of the Aegean Sea as a commercial power, which it seeks to obtain an ice cream for his productions, that's where a goal that no one will forcibly obstruct. But As for establishing herself there as the sovereign dominatrix, that is a difficult task which she would do wisely not to become attached so quickly.

It would not only clash with the No of outside, but even to the one that manifests itself inside. The taking of possession of the Bosnian provinces has already made

332 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Austria-Hungary, a Balkan state. And the consequences... The consequences of this occupation often cause significant incidents. The Austro-German liberals did not have never completely relinquished the resistance they opposed were used in the decisions of the Congress of Berlin, when they were communicated to the Cisleithan Parliament. All Just recently, disturbances occurred in Gratz, where the population was protesting vigorously against the presence Bosnian troops garrisoned in this city. a significant portion of the German population, in all the provinces openly blame this resurgence of eee slave in the Empire.

BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA

The current of opinion hostile to the occupation of the Bosnia and Herzegovina clashed, from the very first day, with this As we have said, to a very firm bias, on the part of the Austrian Court. The upper echelons have always manifested the most formal desire to keep at hand army, under the rule of the Habsburgs, the two countries detached from Turkey. Count Andrassy was not, in the circumstance, that the sovereign's spokesperson. Perhaps, As a Hungarian, didn't he care a great deal about the occupation of the two provinces. But, however influential he was At that time, he understood that if he showed the slightest resistance to desires. From above, it would be replaced without Delay at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. A diplomat more submissive, or perhaps even a general, would have come To sit in the Ballplatz palace and everything would have been said. Let us

I also remember the campaign that was carried out at the time, not only in the unofficial Viennese press, but also in that of Dei The leaves to the devotion of Germany had orders to show Austria, on the
The path leading to Thessaloniki, the natural direction, necessary for Austro-Hungarian policy. It was, it must be

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 333

To acknowledge it, wonderfully reasoned; and politics
German, in this instance, demonstrated a Implacable logic. Once Austria-Hungary was involved In the Eastern machinery, indeed, 1 liter was becoming increasingly important to him.
more difficult, let's even say frankly impossible, to make a turnaround and try to resume in Germany plays a role of some importance. As The Habsburgs advanced eastward and established themselves in the
In the Slavic world, it becomes clear to everyone that there is no no more room for them in the Germanic world. The Hohenzollern appear alone at the top of the structure.

The famous remark by the German diplomat regarding the the eastward push (Drang nach Osten) did not occur It could not have any other meaning. Bosnia has found conveniently within reach of the diplomats to serve bait for a ruling family that was searching everywhere means to compensate, to some extent, for the losses territorial issues previously experienced. The territory of
With the Empire diminished, the Habsburgs were keen to to enlarge it on the other side. As the count said Andrassy to the delegations: "For once Austria-Hungary acquires two new provinces instead of one "To lose, you mustn't let him down." That's the gist of it.
reasoning. This was the idea that decided the emperor, in 1878, to accept the mandate entrusted to him by the Congress of Berlin. And, we must acknowledge, from the point of view of the dynasty, the pan-Germanic agitation that occurred since in Vienna itself and in all the Austro-Germans are not made to change their way of seeing things.

The incidents that preceded the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by PADnicietonare have moreover Eeon's comments were very contradictory to various reprises; in Germany, Mr. de was criticized

Bismarck was criticized for having offended Russia without sufficient grounds. for having provoked the bad mood of the great Empire in with regard to Germany. "Why," he was asked, Why did they give these two provinces to Austria?

334 JEWISH AUSTRIA

to so resolutely deprive Russia of the advantages that it could, what the French war was supposed to provide him in order to deliver Bulgaria, and precisely, at the same time, filling the Austria's territorial ambitions? What reasons Could the German chancellor have given to the prince "Gortschakoff to explain this behavior?" However, pen- while people were speaking like this in Berlin, the unofficial Viennese people claimed that the occupation of Bosnia and of Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary was a conventional thing- naked with Russia itself, during the interview of emperors in Reichstadt. Russian diplomats were said to be there. consented to, it was assured, in order to obtain neutrality Austria during the war against Turkey. That was the reward for his inaction. And the proof. that it was so, add those who gave this The explanation is that the representatives of Russia at Congress raised no objections when it was the question of entrusting Austria-Hungary with the care to administer both countries.

These claims are unfounded. It could have been question in Reichstadt of the planned occupation from this era. But nothing has been concluded that could bind the International law. The arrangements concluded under this law. relations with Berlin have never had anything but an essential character- provisional element. Austrian diplomacy is withdrawing- had she, for twenty years, maintained such a cautious reserve if she did not believe she had to obey obligations Top-tier international organizations? Indeed, there has been no question, at the Berlin Congress, that the administration the two provinces by the Habsburg monarchy, no not a definitive annexation. And what would seem to prove that this was indeed how the Emperor of Russia himself- Even Reichstadt understood it; that was the response given. a few years, by Alexander III, to an Austrian diplomat- dog that had been sent on a mission to Saint Petersburg to probe its dispositions with a view to a definite annexation nitive. "That would be fatal," the Tsar simply replied.

It is indeed true that it is an absolute mistake to believe that the terms of an agreement have been previously stipulated based on the right of possession.

The 1878 arrangement, considered in Vienna, despite everything, seemingly definitive, has gradually transformed into a de facto annexation. Austria-Hungary is acting as if Bosnia and Herzegovina belonged to him clean. It produces fine, well-disciplined regiments, which it incorporates into its army. But this annexation is illegal; the question remains open. The administration—Moreover, the treatment of these countries continues to be absolutely distinct from that of the rest of the monarchy. They do not send of delegates neither to the Cisleithan Parliament, nor to the Parliament Hungarian, and are placed under the direct authority of the Emperor, who had them administered by a member of the joint ministry of the Empire. Regarding the budget of the “occupied countries” (that’s the official name we (gives them), it is also set separately. We switch it—the Austro-Hungarian delegations as a simple information.

As for the population, it includes elements that would certainly make true assimilation very difficult Independence from Austria-Hungary: 571,900 Orthodox Christians and 492,710 Muslims, or more than one million belonging to a religion different from that of the Court and the majority of the population of Austria. There are only 265,788 Catholics liques and 5,805 Jews. The Orthodox element therefore plays a considerable role in these countries; and, consequently, their tendencies draw them much more towards Russia and the Slavic world as towards the Germanic or Hungarian world.

There is more. From a purely Austrian point of view, the Twenty years of occupation cost the monarchy 500 millions of florins, not counting the expenses incurred in 1878 for the war of occupation. However, despite the enormous sums involved

Despite the resources that have been spent, we haven't even achieved anything. For twenty years, to erase the traces of the Ottoman domination. One might therefore rightly ask: right if the result obtained is commensurate with the sacrifices which have been done. Austria has not yet implemented it in Bosnia and in Herzegovina the same tax system as in the Austro-Hungarian provinces. The tithe system, if far removed from modern financial practices, continues to be in force in Sarajevo.

Far from it, in fact, being the only one a vestige of the past that still remains opposite the current civilization. According to official budget figures, the people in Bosnia only pay the Austrian state 19,500,000 florins, or approximately 12 florins and 50 kreuzers per resident. But this tax burden, which would be relatively of little importance, is more than doubled as a result of the shave which has persisted, after twenty years of occupation, for the benefit begs, agas and other large landowners. The peasants must hand over a third of their harvests; and in the worst years, this rede- The total comes back to around 20 million. This is the country's situation from the point of view of expenses imposed on the population. This is in the Serbian newspapers and Dalmatian aliens, we need to find out more about this situation. The Viennese newspapers, when they talk about the occupied provinces, generally engage in ver-glowing reports on the benefits of administration Austrian. That's not where you should look for the truth. true. Austria would be greatly mistaken if it believed to have won the sympathies of these peoples.

Civil servants are not, in general, sufficiently at current desires and real needs of the population. According to the latest statistics, Austria-Hungary maintains 2,586 employees in Bosnia and Herzegovina and civil servants. However, of this number, only 560 are civil servants. natives, who still only occupy the functions lower. The other 2,000 come from all points of the Empire, and among them only 12 belong to the Orthodox religion, which is, as we have said, that of the vast majority of Bosnians. Foreigners

THE EASTWIDE PUSH 337

They also came in large numbers to settle in the country. with the obvious desire to exploit its natural resources. Out of 23 inhabitants, there is one foreigner. Finally (last trait which (completes the table), the police state is extremely severe in both provinces. The gendarmerie rules there. as masters and the slightest criticism against the state of affairs current practices are severely punished.

These details are enough to give a fairly accurate idea difficulties encountered by the civilizing mission that Austria-Hungary undertook in Bosnia and in Herzegovina. Undoubtedly, progress has been made. considerable over the past twenty years, from 1879 to 1899. Agriculture The situation has improved; there is a glimmer of success. from the point of view of industrial activity; and teaching The public is undeniably making progress. But this is far from the case. be sufficient. Not only the work of assimilation

Strictly speaking, it hasn't made any progress; ideas, customs, His aspirations, his future plans, everything remains different. Bosnians and Flerzegovina residents may submit to Austrian domination; they can even recognize which has benefited the country; they will not be any more so for it. willing to enter permanently. this chaos of peoples who make up the Danubian Empire. They know that the The legacy of this monarchy trembles on its foundations, and that sooner or later there will be rifts which will question everything. Without explicitly saying that they They are eagerly awaiting this moment, we can say that they would see him approach without sorrow. Was this truly the one of those who so desperately desired provinces that would break away from inspired at the first signal from outside, and without the the slightest hope of return?

XII THE AUSTRIAN PRESS

HISTORY OF THE AUSTRIAN PRESS – THE JEWISH PRESS – THE ANTI-JEWISH PRESS –
THE CURRENT ATTITUDE OF THE PRESS

VIENNA – THE ADMINISTRATIVE SYSTEM

The history of the Austrian press is so closely linked to the history of the monarchy for the past forty years that he would impossible to separate one from the other. To trace back in a complete way the various phases it has gone through, it It would also be necessary to summarize all the twists and turns of the public life in the Habsburg Empire, recalling all the changes that the Constitution has undergone, as well as all the acts of some importance that have been carried out on the political, economic and social terrain.

However, in the already gigantic picture that one evokes a similar task for a unitary and centralized country like France, or England, oppose the one that must be forced— How to offer an empire where so many people speak of completely dissimilar idioms, manifest opposing aspirations, professing different religions and envision the future in entirely new colors distinct from one another. Throw away, in an attempt to...

340 JEWISH AUSTRIA

to get an idea, a quick glance at all the newspapers published in Cisleithan Austria. You You will find there not only all the languages spoken in the monarchy, but above all the faithful echo of all the nationalist or religious tendencies that are in conflict the influence, and the mirror where Rs, with a marvel—their accuracy, all the aspirations that emerge in the extent of this vast territory.

It's not exclusively the Germans. of Austria who express their opinions through the press and publish newspapers for the purpose of propaganda large. The other nationalities, who so rightly demand their place in the sun within the Habsburg monarchy, have also their eloquent and dedicated press which makes to know their thoughts, their desires, their regrets, their complaints and their ambitions. The Czechs, whose

Politics deserves the highest degree of attention, they have the newspapers, written in the Bohemian national idiom, of which Palacki and Rieger have brought the job back into fashion in a way so brilliant. The Poles also have their organs of advertising that maintains at home, with continuity unaltered Polish idiom, the great historical memories Risks of the past, hopes for the future. The Ruthenians They also have their newspapers, just as they have their churches. In In the southern provinces of the Empire, one finds leaves

Italian and Croatian women who echo the aspirations policies of these countries, so little Austrian in reality.

N

And, to return to the press of the center of the Empire, to the one that claims to represent all the intelligence and all the wisdom of the monarchy, what Doesn't this infinite diversity of opinions reflect in its columns! Since the so-called vague and indecisive liberalism from the middle of this century to the most advanced socialism, from free thought in its most frank expression and the most audacious, even to the point of Catholic convictions more fervent, since the devotion to the dynasty even to the separatist tendencies of those who work

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 341

for annexation to Germany, all the political nuances ticks, nationalists, revolutionaries, find in the
The German press in Vienna gave it a resounding echo.

This is indeed the undulating and diverse spectacle of this a two-headed monarchy, looking both towards the East Mysterious and westward-facing. A border state that could have save Europe by a certain date by erecting a bulwark to the Muslim invasion, but which currently powerless to save himself from a dissolution from which he
The press carries the germs within itself.
Austrian is indeed the most accurate and the most complete chaos, this mass of peoples in the middle in which passions seethe and clash more opposed.

The origins of this multilingual press date back to [date].
recent. Among the advertising outlets that have today of real importance, no one can boast of going back more than thirty-five or forty years. That's not, Indeed, it was only from 1861 onwards that newspapers... are multiplying in Austria and the press has taken a genuine Elo npenene Some newspapers were circulating however in Austria at an earlier date, but in very a small number. And even then, they could only write what was tolerated by the censors. As for telling the truth, that was unnecessary.

Don't even think about it, under penalty of exposing yourself to the most serious consequences of embarrassment, as he himself experienced to his own detriment Wanderer, the only newspaper (or almost the only one) that dared, at this at the time, to express the public's feelings frankly.
Finally, after 1859, events made it clear to Vienna, that it was necessary to seek support elsewhere, that could not-were no longer going to offer anything to the privileged classes on their own.
constitutional foundations were once again revised;
and Mr. de Schmerling became President of the Council.

It is from this moment that the true date of Austria established a constitutional regime; that is It is also from this moment that freedom of the press dates. Now, the

342 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Austrian press has attributed to itself missions very different, depending on the nationality in the city belongs. She was, in every sense of the word, the torch that illuminates and the torch that ignites the fire.
Czech, Polish, and other newspapers have awakened and encouraged a spirit of autonomy among the populations of Bohemia, Poland, Moravia. They prevented the use of the German language to become general, like the
The centralizing ministers in Vienna wanted this.
The nationalist and local press generally did its duty with deep conviction. It seems to us that at the point
From the perspective of the greater interests of civilization and liberty, Their action was beneficial and fruitful. But, because even the language in which these newspapers are written, their influence did not extend beyond Austria. They were not read and discussed in Paris, in London, Berlin, like those published in German in the capital of Au he Of those we we need to take care of it in a more special way.

THE JEWISH PRESS

s

For twenty-five years, from 1861 to 1886, the press Viennese belonged almost exclusively to the party so-called liberal, that is to say, to the German centralist party;
It was run by Jews. All the major newspapers of Vienna, all those who mattered, not only in Austria, but in the world, they described themselves of liberals. They did not hesitate to criticize bitterly—lying about the reactionary tendencies they attributed to their political opponents; and, possessing financial resources—covering considerable areas, they had managed to exert a real monopoly with regard to the direction of public opinion public. They abused it by distorting popular opinion, to instill in him the most regrettable ideas. Under a The only report, L, showed themselves to be true to their origin: they fought vigorously to prevent any attempt to a return to the system that existed in Austria before 1848. But We can honestly say that this is the only service real that they have rendered to the cause of civilization and progress leaves that could have done so much good with the help of powerful financial resources made available to them.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 343

What became of this in Austria, under their influence? grand image of the Fatherland which, for noble hearts, Should patriotism be the object of affectionate worship? Austrian has greatly diminished; and the action of the press Jewishness is not unrelated to this result.

At first, he met some men from great courage and great talent who threw themselves into the literary melee alongside the Jews and attempted to fight against the omnipotence they saw them conquering.

The history of this press has recorded the names of ©.—F. Berg, Antoine Langer and a few other writers who had undertaken this worthy task. Unfortunately, These valiant champions were unable to sustain the fight. Attacked mercilessly by adversaries allied with each other, overwhelmed with insults, steeped in disgust, and above all lukewarmly supported by popular indifference, they felt powerless to fight against the obstacles of all nature, which was opposed to them. They disappeared, some to end their days in mental asylums, the others to finally succumb to misery and to despair. Feeling surrounded by an impure atmosphere, Too difficult to breathe, they were broken in a struggle unequal.

So, after these initial attempts, it was necessary to wait that public sentiment should revolt of its own accord, that the | Christian women voiced a violent protest-tation against the brutal and intolerant despotism of Jewish journalists. Under the ministry of Count Taaffe only around 1885, as we shall see later, the The fight was able to be resumed and antisemitism reached a

344 JEWISH AUSTRIA

a true power. But, for a quarter of a century, the Jews were, exclusively, absolutely masters of the They skillfully manipulated public opinion on the ground. consumed, have brought their elected representatives into parliament, and have presented to Europe an Austria that no longer resembled in no way resembling that of the past.

The Jewish press had established itself as a true an army constantly ready to fight against the population Austrian, without wondering if at the same time she She was not attacking the Empire's bases. She had organized, to defend its interests, a literary association, the Concordia, which was virtually inaccessible to Christian journalists; and, to better ensure its influence-to influence minds, the political press had taken care to... also to address the representation of the material interests of ays, by providing very detailed information on financial institutions, on companies railways, industrial associations, companies insurance and other similar services. She gradually became accustomed to It's a real specialty of giving the public... advice that is often sound, often very motivated, on the matters that might be of interest to him. In To a certain extent, it would have been a useful service. But under This report, too, has seen the Jewish press go too far and have done a harmful use of his influence. By taking part in all The stock market crashes ruined the people who had been rather ill-advised to follow his advice.

Has she fulfilled her mission better under other circumstances? reports? Did she serve Austria's interests to the point From an international relations perspective? Did she make use of its undeniable ascendancy in creating Austria useful connections, to gain his sympathy, to try to create a situation for him in Europe worthy of his past? That's the role that a truly patriotic press, devoted to the interests of the country. She allegedly tried to atone for her abusive supremacy-sive and its despotism re by great services returned to the country. However, its activity, from the point of view of relations International actions, on the contrary, have been absolutely detrimental. Russia had saved the monarchy in 1849, and did not ask- He was only concerned with living in harmony with his neighbors. The Austrian press gave her a poor reception. We cannot... we can better highlight the consequences of his attitude by recalling the tension that occurred in the relations between the two countries and which almost jeopardized the. World peace. And what was the real motive for this war? press? The Israelite Alliance had decided that it was necessary to work first and foremost towards the liberation of the Jews of Russia. The entire Austrian press followed the watchword in publishing vehement declamations against the horrors Siberia and the abuses of power voluntarily attributed to They were connected to the ruling circles of the Russian Empire. One does not did not think to ask why these same tsars, who had, on their own initiative, freed the serfs and protected the peasants, were strict with the Jews. They were voluntarily established throughout the empire. from Austria, with the help of numerous eloquent articles, the belief in legends that depicted Russia as a wild country, where everyone was left to fend for themselves, feet and bound hand and foot, at the will of a small number of tyrants.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 345

On this occasion, more than ever, the Jewish press of Vienna demonstrated its absolute power over public opinion public. She managed to create such a current of animosity against Russia, that no one dared to fight against these harmful trends. Whether they like it or not, the monarchy of Habsburg, without even retaining, in the official organs- heavens, diplomatic niceties, found himself during fifteen years constituted in a state of latent hostility against The Empire. Until the death of Emperor Alexander III, no effort was made in the ruling circles of Vienna to stop the torrents of insults directed against him by Jewish journalists.

If the Viennese press played such a role, malevolent and detrimental, with regard to relations between Austria-

346 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Hungary and the Northern Empire, all the more so should have- it will act similarly towards France. Sometimes by way of fake news, sometimes through slanderous insinuations- sometimes, finally, through feverish philippics, one began to heap hatred and insults upon her, without the slightest concern for the truth. The disdainful silence that the French press, in its carefree indifference, to this overflowing with malice, he failed to put it there a term. Instead of understanding what is noble and Generous, after all, in such an attitude, the Jews Viennese and Pestoian redoubled their hateful ardor in their attacks. To criticize bitterly, excessively, everything that happening in France, spewing the venom of their spittle filthy against the French nation and those who preside over Their destinies, it all seems quite simple to them, safe from everything reply. And, strangely enough, they are not, as one might say, One might believe it, according to German nationalist newspapers. Austria, which is taking these passionate criticisms as a specialty. It is Jewish journalists who engage in Such attacks. For them, it seems, it's too much. The burden of recognition. The memory of services that France rendered to their cause, there are more than a century, weighs too heavily on their shoulders; they shake off like a crushing burden and take their revenge on their way, like petty minds and hearts These shriveled individuals take their revenge on their benefactors. These same men, formerly treated as helots, who should have devoted themselves to the France, an eternal gratitude, are the first to to heap insults upon him, and to spread rumors about him the most odious lies.

On the other hand, any claim by a French journalist to examine, even if only in a simple telegram- phique, what happens in their country seems absolutely monstrous. Whatever the calm form and even leniently, with this note being written, they look at it as absolutely inappropriate, from the moment it is directed against them. Freedom only exists in their eyes, if...

for Jewish journalists. Anyone who doesn't fit into This category doesn't deserve the slightest consideration. One
A foreign journalist in Vienna is an outcast throughout the
The force of the term. The correspondents of French newspapers especially in the Austrian capital, they do not enjoy of zero tolerance. It's one of two things: either they must to put their writing skills at the service of the ministerial office of the press, or ik risk every day, not of being expelled, but to be subjected to the most serious indignities, and to to find oneself unable to live. Servility or persecut, there is no middle ground. This was decided, with the support of the state police, the Judeo-Viennese caste.

Under these conditions, it is understandable that the newspapers those from Germany are practically the only ones who are They were very well informed about Austrian affairs. Thanks to the identity of the language and the large number of collaborators Austrians, anonymous and unknown, who put themselves so willingly at their service, they at least manage not to to ignore nothing of what is happening, except to think what they they want feedback that is passed on to them.

From a purely professional standpoint, the
The Viennese press is wonderfully organized. has correspondents everywhere and provides them with the subsidies needed for them to send him precise, detailed telegrams, whenever the opportunity arose presents itself. The most important organs of Vienna They have thus made a specialty of discussions on the international politics, which they know thoroughly and which they sometimes deal with it in a truly remarkable way.
Unfortunately, all these qualities are undeniable, but purely form, are spoiled by the bias of treating all things exclusively from the point of view of Jewish interests.

Let's return to the actions of the press within the country, to the role that she played, in her own country. Here again, we We are forced to say it, we find ourselves in the presence of of a dissolving action, of a harmful and anti-patriotic role

348 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Tick. Very ardent and very passionate in the directed attack against certain classes, against certain categories of citizens, she has always seemed incapable of feeling one of these generous impulses, as sometimes seen in the press from other countries and which groups all the opinion bodies public in a joint action, in an agreement for the public good. Don't ask for anything similar to Jewish newspapers of Austria. Criticism, denial, hatred, These are their methods of action. Regardless of eloquence. which fill the pages devoted to the glorification of their cause, regardless of their undeniable talent some of the editors of the Viennese Jewish press, Reading it, one senses that the sacred fire is absolutely lacking. Beautiful periods skillfully aligned, reasoning ments as far as the eye can see, humanitarian considerations and their ics. As long as we want them. But they are declamations that leave the reader cold and indifferent. knows that the exclusive pursuit of Jewish interests alone guides all his actions, all his thoughts, both from the point of view of international relations, as well as from a factual point of view economic and domestic policy of the country.

The Jewish press in Vienna sold everything, put a price on everything. artistic renown as well as fortune in the business. No intellectual product, no work of art has could have come into being and reached the public's attention without passing through The Crucible of the Jewish Press, without having to endure its critics or those who pay for their approval. Whether an artist has He wanted to win the public's vote, he needed all necessity, bowing before the omnipotence of the day- Hebrew journalists. That a young actress, a musician, a talented singer wanted to make her debut and risking it in front of a more or less full house, she didn't dared to do it, most often, only after paying his price. to the desires of Israel. Otherwise, she would have feared decorating in a way almost certainly. It was the restored despotic tyranny. this time for the benefit of the Jews, and brutally exercised by them in all its fullness. Nothing could escape their whim, their uncontrolled and unchecked omnipotence limits. Just as Warwick had become in England- land the kingmaker, they alone were in Vienna, the reputation builders. In whatever situation one finds oneself found, in whatever career one might want to seek the Success or fortune, you had to go through their ordeal. Caudines. Politicians or café dancers- concerts, writers or dramatic artists, painters or composers of polkas, no one could claim the celebrity if he had not received from the ruling caste the permit to circulation. No one had the right to have talent, to do it to know the public if he had not humbly prostrated himself First, before the God of Israel. Anyone in Vienna who did not pay the tribute should at least expect to see the conspiracy of silence being hatched against him. "No one "Only we and our friends will have wit."

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 349

As revealed by its results, the press Viennese society, dominated by Judaism, was absolutely Disastrous. It is a work of death that she has accomplished. Around her, outside of her, emptiness. In all the classes of the population, the seeds of hatred, the seeds of discord and jealousy, dissolution, decomposition. It took nothing less than the confusion of spirits, suddenly awakened after a centuries-long sleep, to facilitate the duration of a monopoly that has also been exercised boldly for a quarter of a century, and who, even today, it is not yet destroyed, whatever the violence of the movement unleashed against him.

THE ANTI-JEWISH PRESS

The rise to power, in 1879, of Count Taaffe, to which, rightly or wrongly, were attributed anti-Semitic tendencies, dealt the first blow to this unlimited despotism, and gave public discussions a completely new twist. We understood instinctively-the spell was broken, that the dominators were going to be reduced to competing for the position with others, than in In short, the internet was abuzz with new shows. The Jewish press was the first to understand this; it tried to draw from it, by accentuating his oppositional attitude, by shouting to [a reaction, by attributing to his political opponents ideas they had never had, a resurgence in popularity. It was an admission that she felt threatened, that she was fighting 'for the preservation of its abusive privileges.

350 JEWISH AUSTRIA

From all sides, indeed, as if by the result of a tacit agreement, and in any case by the backlash of a return

Absolutely inevitable, anti-Semitism was born. We were fed up with this silent adoration to which we had consented without a word for more than twenty-five years. We were determined, if not to break the idol again, then everything at less to demolish his pedestal somewhat. The Jews, After all, they had nothing to complain about. Usually, the reign of any party, whatever it may be, does not last that long. Their The domination had been longer and, above all, less contested, when Viennese public sentiment, seeing with astonishment the purely negative results of such a long reign, awoke from his torpor and convinced himself that he was time to look for another hoc However, a few more years passed before that this movement took on a body and acquired a form tangible through the founding of newspapers intended to fight the Jewish monopoly. It was only in 1888 that Make serious initial attempts in this regard. popular sentiment had had time to assert itself, to to develop; it only lacked the organs capable of... capable of giving it a vigorous boost by making the Jewish press responsible for all the ills from which he suffered the population. It was one exaggeration opposed to another. But in politics, those who want the end want the means. If one If you want to have any chance of hitting the mark, you must, before everything, hit hard.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 351

!

It was Mr. Vergani, deputy for Lower Austria, who was one of the first to embark on this path by founding in 1881 the Deutsches Volksblatt, an anti-Semitic newspaper, appeared twice a day. List the attacks he was subjected to. confronted from the very first hour, depicting the violence furious at the passions that arose against him, would difficult thing. One does not count the waves of the sea; one Don't try to describe the battles the winds are waging. unleashed one stormy day. On the head of this first opponent who bravely entered the closed field, the visor The discovery triggered a barrage of Jewish anger. But the movement he had initiated was growing each day of importance and vibrancy; his example encountered many imitators. We saw them run wild, at within the Austrian population, all the angers aggravated raised for twenty-five years against a monopoly of au-all the more odious because of its sole result, in the general opinion, had been to confiscate for the exclusive benefit of the Jewish community all the conquests that the people had sealed in 1848 of his blood. After having been, in the fullest sense of the word, The masters of the country, the Jews, suddenly found themselves in charge of all the sins of the world. And under the protection of the flag anti-Semitic theories emerged from certain leaders of antidynastic parties that could not find a better a way to make their cause triumph. That's how the newspapers which are today the proven organs of the party They began by showing themselves to be anti-mites, in order to flatter popular passions and to put themselves able to take advantage of it. Strange thing! The Jews had prepared the ground; but out of a kind of modesty who still had some dignity after all, they had not I didn't dare to clearly formulate this idea that the provinces Germans of Austria should join the Empire Germanic. They had limited themselves to sowing the seeds in people's minds dissolving seeds of skepticism and indifference to with regard to the Habsburg throne, but they had backed down faced with the consequences of their own doctrines. He was reserved for their opponents to clearly the conclusions from the premises they laid out; and the anti-Semitism, which, in 2 other circumstances, could have accomplished exclusively a work of a moral and orderly nature economic, thus found itself associated with a work of high international politics.

352 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Jews, for their part, wanted to regain the ground lost, they adopted a new attitude towards their opponents. In order to exploit the spheres in their own way threatening the lower classes, and to give satisfaction to the passions of the masses, they created several di tasked with pleading, with all the desired eloquence, the because of socialism. It wasn't there yet, just like the former abuse of the literary monopoly, which was a consequence of their spirit of domination.

In any case, the anti-Semitic press is today in favor, also in the Cisleithanian provinces, where she account of numerous bodies, that in the capital of Austria. Public opinion has become accustomed to seeing it as the instrument-essential to fighting corruption, the more powerful to defend society's rights

Christian, and the means of arriving at the solution to the question-Jewish tradition by shedding light on all the points that it raises. It is true that others saw it primarily as a means of perpetuating political unrest and thus hastening the Dissolution of the Empire.

For one reason or another, probably even as a result of a combination of various causes, the
The antisemitic press has thus gained influence over public opinion an ascendancy she will never lose again. However, to put it simply truthfully, frankly, impartially, we We must recognize that she owes her success much more to the circumstances surrounding his birth, and perhaps also to the fervent conviction of those who write, to their sincerity, that to the extent of the information the elements it contains. In this respect, it is undeniably tablement in a state of inferiority vis-à-vis the great

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 353

Jewish newspapers, which have found a way, so far, to be and to remain much more interesting. This advantage
The indisputable nature of this is not, moreover, due to superiority. talent or intelligence. The Jews claim it willingly, we are well aware of that; but men Those who are sincere do not share their opinion. If they have in their ranks writers of great merit, their adversaries do not They yield in no way in this respect. The difference stems from exclusively on the importance of financial resources which the Jewish press has at its disposal, and which allow it to be promptly, accurately informed about everything that passes over any point in the world, to organize telegraph services on a large scale, to ensure the Fi ustres collaborators competition, to always hold, in
In short, the head of the movement.

Since its founding, the Jewish press has always had of considerable capital and this state of affairs has not Hated ever since. Quite the contrary, it has become the official organ wealthy bankers, powerful financial companies, she has seen its resources constantly increase and its Information resources are growing. Anti-Semitic newspapers, On the contrary, most of them had to fight against embarrassment financial, to suffer all sorts of vicissitudes, especially more than they had to renounce voluntarily: to certain revenue streams that had enriched their competitors. On the other hand, the commercial and industrial movement being always dominated by Jews, the advertisements, which are so lucrative for cosmopolitan newspapers, escaped Nine times out of ten, they go to anti-Semitic organizations. The merchants—Merchants and industrialists naturally preferred to deal with their fellow believers, rather than those who fought them. In short, if we take into account the difficulties to overcome and that they The anti-Semitic newspapers knew in advance. accomplished, by the mere fact of having lived and having ensured the The very foundations of their existence, a true miracle. They have the They have the right to be proud of it.

354 JEWISH AUSTRIA

THE CURRENT ATTITUDE FROM THE VIENNA PRESS

Seeing the nationalists and anti-Semites despise the insults, and calmly follow the path they have chosen traced, many Jewish journalists understood that they they had to renounce the arrogant and haughty tone with which they had gotten used to it. They softened their style and modified the note of their controversies. If one finds too much of it, too— There is still a wave of violence and deplorable exaggerations, At least one senses a concern to respond to opponents who have serious arguments at their disposal. Personalities are no longer a mode of Sufficient discussion; what's needed are reasoning, facts, evidence. In this way, at least, journalism Viennese finds himself reduced to his essential task, that of intelligence—to educate the public, not to impose on them, in the name of absolutely questionable authority, dogmas that facts, contrary to his ideas.

The Viennese, out of habit, and some provincials by dilettantism, they still read the Jewish newspapers which have con— reserved, as we have explained, a real impor— tance. But they no longer read them with the same eyes, with the same tendency of mind; and after having taken note of it— session, they bring these opinions into contact, for the to control them and subject them to healthy criticism, those of newspapers with the opposite viewpoint. On all the questions, there is now a contradictory debate.

However, there is a category of readers in Austria,
For Sauele, the Jewish press still preserved in some way thus losing the monopoly on the influence it once wielded.
We want to talk about some German gold.

for which the Jewish press has remained above all Czechs, Italians, Poles and other opponents. Nourished, since their entry into the career, from this reading which has always seemed to them to recognize-Fortunately, they did not sufficiently realize the changes that have taken place within public opinion public. Accustomed to seeing the major Jewish newspapers of Vienna to enjoy the privileges they now share with others, but which they enjoyed alone for a long time and without sharing, they retained for themselves a kind of respect superstitious. It is to this line of thinking that we must refer. the well-known word of Doctor de Gautsch, which was a moment president of the Council after having long held the Office of Public Instruction: "Without the assistance From the New Free Press, one cannot govern in Austria." Mr. de Gautsch, it is true, had to acknowledge-to realize that, even with this competition, one is not always confident that he could govern for a long time. But his opinion

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 355

It remains significant nonetheless.

From the specific point of view of the profession, if permitted to use this term, the Viennese press, in its Together, she demonstrates real skill. She knows what she's doing.
as is appropriate to seduce the reader and fix his Attention. The main organs, to whatever nuance they belong, excellent in the art of layout, to which, incidentally, lends itself wonderfully to the format that they adopted. To present their ideas and develop They like to write long articles about their arguments, the most often without a signature. It should be added that this was the case in both camps.
one encounters eminent writers, whose pen eloquent and incisive, she knows how to address all the subjects she discusses.
touch on a powerful interest.

Pure and simple information, the intelligence provided in a concise or telegraphic style, holds little weight space in the columns of Viennese newspapers. The public The Austrian is inclined towards political struggles; he wants to find-to see the echo in the organs that are made available to it. The passion that he himself brings to his assessments of men and things, and which is fundamentally very complex understandable in an Empire where such things happen implausible, must therefore naturally be reflected in the newspapers.

356 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Today, the Jewish newspapers of Vienna, a few With few exceptions, they enlisted in the ranks of those who fight to eliminate abuses and strive to to shed light on the true situation of the classes At the same time, their language became more moderate towards Russia. The current configuration of The European chessboard inspired Austrian diplomats These were salutary reflections; it was entirely appropriate that the press, at in turn, so as not to put himself in opposition to the desires expressed at the Ballplatz, should cease to show aggressive and violent, as in the past, towards the power-

The Holy Roman Empire had become an ally of France. It was much more Moreover, he was adept at submitting willingly, in at least in appearance, given the facts, unless one undermines subtly, through disguised attacks, a state of affairs against eo can no longer do anything overtly.
That is why the language modification to which we let us allude, is manifest, even among the organs Viennese who are suspected, rightly or wrongly, of being in ongoing relations with the Berlin chancellery.

Forced to summarize, so as not to go off-topic that we have outlined for ourselves, let us simply list them-rer the main daily newspapers that are published in Vienna, in the official journal, the Wiener Zeitung.
Each of these newspapers, with one or two exceptions, publishes two editions every day, one in the morning, the other around three o'clock in the afternoon. Of the sixteen sheets which Ten of them are Jewish, all more or less Francophobic.
know :

1) The New Free Press (Neue Freie Presse), the the most important of the Austrian newspapers and without a doubt among the best-written bones in Europe; The New Free Press owes its importance not only to talent of his collaborators and to the fame of some of them of them, but above all to the scale and variety of its political, literary, artistic, financial information industrial, commercial and agricultural. Dedicated to the cause of this

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 357

which is called the Triple Alliance, like most of the major Viennese newspapers, the New Press, support within German hegemony against aspirations Slaves. Print run: 38,000 copies.

2) The Fremdenblatt, due to its ongoing relationships together with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, deals with preference for international political issues, which there are, moreover, treated in a very diplomatic style appreciated by the highest circles. Rene also knew how to—how to surround yourself with collaborators who have a real authority in artistic matters. He thus established a double dog, being very widely read at times in the Austrian aristocracy female dog and in the art world. Print run: 10,000 examples.

3) The Neues Wiener Tagblatt, which mainly recruits its readers in the lower middle class, sometimes appears with sixty pages, of which twelve or fifteen are devoted to Editorial articles. The remainder is filled with advertisements. These are indeed the advertisements (especially the small ones). advertisements) which facilitated its initial success. Some Some of them are very popular in the world of romance. Print run: 36,000 copies.

4) The Wiener Tagblatt is notable for its violence of language that is noted especially in articles due to the light from its editor-in-chief, Mr. Szeps, whose Emille is allied, as we know, to that of Monsieur Clemenceau.

5) The Volks Zeitung (formerly Vorstadt Zeitung) follows the same line of conduct as the Neues Wiener Tagblatt. Quite widespread in Lower Austria.

6) The Reichswebhr, an unofficial newspaper, which deals with especially domestic policy issues and The military, took over from the old press, founded long ago by Mr. Zang. Its goal is to unite the conservative forces around the principle of the monarchy unitary.

358 JEWISH AUSTRIA

7) The Wiener Journal is aimed more specifically at, as its name suggests, to the Viennese population. Its local news, his attitude towards his reviews social and legal matters, always very carefully arranged, have earned a success that resulted in a relatively high print run Important, 30 to 32,000 copies.

8) Extrablatt is very widespread in the lower classes wealthy. It appears morning and evening with an illustration in the style of front page, reproducing the day's event.

9) The Arbeiter Zeitung (Workers' Newspaper), directed by Dr. Victor Adler, is the principal organ of Austrian socialists. His vehement language is of a nature to make a vivid impression on some of its readers.

10) The Wiener Allgemeine Zeitung is more concerned particularly financial matters and controversies against anti-Semites.

Alongside these ten Jewish newspapers, six others were published. organs belonging to nationalist groups, conserva- Whether they are anti-Semites or anti-Semites, to know:

1) The Fatherland, which plays the role of the Universe in Paris, with even more pronounced trends to the point of From a political point of view. It is the clerical and feudal organ by Excellency.

2) The Deutsches Volksblatt, an anti-Semitic publication, directed by Mr. Ernest Vergani, who was the true initiator of the anti-Jewish movement in Austria, on the advertising field.

3) The Deutsche Zeitung, formerly a liberal Jewish publication, has been acquired by some members of the nationalist party German; moderate anti-Semite.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 359

4) The Ost Deutsche Rundschau (German Review) (from the East), a very pronounced pan-Germanic organ. Thing singular! Although published in Vienna, this newspaper bears above its title, the Prussian eagle.

5) The Reichspost, a clerical, anti-Semitic newspaper, defends the cause of the Germans of Austria on the ground patriotic.

6) The Weltblatt, a voluminous newspaper, publishing Preference for sensational local news, mixed feelings Clericalism and somewhat tinged with socialism. Like PExtrablatt, which we have just named above, the Weltblatt publishes an illustration on the front page. It is very common in the villages of German Austria.

Following this list of daily newspapers, Let us add a few words relating to the Viennese press weekly. The weekly political sheets are numerous. Among them, we can mention Sonn und Montags. Zeitung (Sunday and Monday newspaper), and the Wochenschrift (weekly bulletin), directed, one by Mr. Scharf, the other by Rabbi M. Bloch. They They are both distinguished by the violence of their attacks against the leaders of the anti-Semitic party.

Let us also mention the Unverfälschte Deutsche Worte, radical bi-monthly organ of the nationalist Germans of the the most advanced nuance. This publication, directed by Messrs. Wolf and Iro, MPs from the extreme party that wants the reunification with the German Empire, is often confiscated by order of the Public Prosecutor's Office. That is, in the fullest sense of the term, an organ of high treason from the Austrian point of view. Highly regarded in Vienna and especially in Bohemia German as in the two Alpine provinces.

There are many special newspapers, most of the corporations in Austria having their organ, sometimes several. Almost all of these publications are directed by Jewish publicists, as well as society newspapers illustrated. These, to use a typical expression which will make our thoughts, do great in pornography; and one is entitled to be astonished that such things are permitted in such a civilized country.

360 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Political satire in Vienna is primarily embodied by the Kikeriki, founded by ©. F. Berg, and whose pronouncements, in prose and in verse, Viennese jargon, delight the anti-Semites of suburbs.

Viennese publications in French are intended to inform foreign newspapers about what is happening passes through Austria. Experience has shown that a an independent French newspaper, in Vienna, addressing the public, cannot exist at all, due to a lack of numbers sufficient readership to cover costs. The Correspondence political dance (French edition of the Politische Correspondenz) is edited by Mr. Schiel, head of section to the Presidency of the Council of Ministers. This information body, for the use of foreign newspapers which They draw inspiration from unofficial sources, it's all very special-distinguished, for many years, by attacks against Russia, under Alexander III.

Finally, it should be noted that all those who have taken care of French advertising in Vienna, for about thirty years, with the exception of the civil servant we just mentioned to name, all perished in misery, or were judged to plans to leave Austria to escape trouble without number, which had been insidiously created for them.

The Hungarian press has not escaped the fate of the press

Austrian. In Budapest, advertising is, today again, almost exclusively Jewish, and began to service of the so-called liberal cause. The attempts made to Budapest to oppose the Israelite phalanx organs Independents have failed.

THE AUSTRIAN PRESS 361

THE ADMINISTRATIVE SYSTEM

The development that Austrian journalism has undergone is all the more wonderful because he had to fight against difficult obstacles. It seemed, for a time, that anything that could harm freedom of the press had been deliberately brought together to try and silence her. To the point of From a financial perspective, the stamp duty and the security deposit; at the point of From an administrative point of view, confiscation; from a judicial point of view—area, numerous trials; such was the case for a certain At the time, the regime to which the press was subjected, and under the empire of which she nevertheless found a way to prosper nonetheless.

The security deposit was the first to disappear, some time ago. years only. Until then, all the newspapers that dealt with it—pay for political, religious or social issues, y were required. The special agricultural sheets, industry, financial economics, etc., were the only sectors involved. exempted, and even then only on the condition that their character of special organs was duly recognized and noted by the authorities.

As for the stamp duty, it continues to be imposed on the press. Austrian; it is a heavy burden, given that each each copy must bear a stamp of one (2 (approximately cents). A newspaper with a circulation of 10,000 copies, For example, he therefore has 200 francs to pay every day to stamp, or 400 francs for both editions. As for the Foreign newspapers, undoubtedly considered as a harmful merchandise whose import we wish to prevent tation, they are subject to the stamp duty of 2 kreuzers on their entry into the territory of the Empire. This set of fiscal measures have such a strong political purpose that the stamp does not was never considered in Austria as a tax of its own—"It's not a tax," as they used to say. "To say so is a kind of endorsement."

One last word before ending this chapter. It will...
 It remains to discuss the administrative and disciplinary measures. which still exist in Austrian legislation on the press, namely: preventive seizure or confiscation, applicable to brochures as well as newspapers, and the Prohibition of peddling. Seizure does not necessarily imply a legal action, although it is sometimes the prelude. It happens, in most of these cases, that the authority simply wants to prevent a newspaper from being distributed to its ordinary readers or those widespread in the public. So, by order of the prosecutor's office or simply by order of the police, the entire edition is entered at the printing press or at The newspaper office. This has no further consequences than to prevent the seized copies from being put on sale. Dr.
 the administration of the confiscated newspaper believes it should
 She protested. She went to court to have the seizure lifted.
 But what advantage does she gain from it? The judgment is not realized after a few weeks, or even a few months, when the incident is forgotten. Even though the
 The plaintiffs win their case, but they are no less suffered a considerable loss.

At a certain date, confiscations were so frequent that up to thirty were counted in one same day. Following complaints that arose from On all sides, a Minister of Justice, Count Gleisbach, had promised parliament that no further seizures would take place without being accompanied by legal action. This The promise was not kept. This was understood, no doubt, that press trials always provoked a kind
 The year that was best avoided. As for the ban Peddling has been attempted many times, on the part of the parliamentary opposition, to get the ministers to do it to put an end to it. So far these attempts have remained unsuccessful.

XIII

FRENCH CAPITAL
 IN AUSTRIA

THE IMPORTANCE OF INVESTMENTS – THE STOCK MARKET FROM VIENNA – ANNUITIES AND VALUES
MISCELLANEOUS

France has financial interests in Austria-Hungary much more considerable than one might think Generally. Out of the nine billion francs in securities of the Austro-Hungarians classified abroad, there are at least half, that is to say four and a half billion between the French hands. It is even the opinion, in certain circles competent authorities in Vienna, that this figure should not be considered Derelict as a minimum. As it is, in any case, it would be more than enough to explain the worried attention with France is following the events that are unfolding in this country. She has, as we can see, an interest there. enormous, more considerable, in this respect, than that of Germany. A significant portion of French capital, thus invested in Austria-Hungary, they are committed to annuities Austrian or Hungarian, with credit as collateral of the State. It is therefore understandable that the solution which will be given to the political problems posed by the events aspects within the dualist monarchy, either examined with As much attention in France as in Germany.

364 JEWISH AUSTRIA

To speak only of the most recent events, without speaking difficult phases that the cre- said the public, certain incidents have rightly awakened the suspicion of French capitalists. It seemed, to various indeed, the Austrian government has been showed hesitation, at the time when they occurred in Austria anti-capitalist demonstrations. The projects... known for their aim to seize control of major railway networks best possible account, the law he presented relating to- regarding lotteries, the promises made on the occasion loans intended for monetary reform, and well other things have also allowed us to think and to say that, knowingly or unknowingly, some ministers The Austrians themselves were driven by tendencies anti-capitalists.

Is it any wonder that the public was moved by the presence of the project that the government had prepared for the buyout the paths of E and which he had to remove as a result of the Protests raised from all sides? The character The unfairness of this project was all the more evident given that the conditions under which buybacks can be carried out networks are clearly enshrined in the acts of concessions. Could it be admitted that provisions legislative changes are shaking the foundations of the law, to a era when the supporters of revolutionary socialism are already striving, in all parts of Europe, to attack The essential principles of property? The bill in The question was withdrawn under pressure from public opinion.

The bill relating to the ownership of sums proceeding from the drawing of lottery values and unclaimed by holders of the securities constituted a veritable confiscation; it was also open to criticism from a moral point of view than from a strictly legal point of view. So far, the lots Unclaimed debts remained the property of the debtors. However,

FRENCH CAPITAL 365

Then one fine day the State declares that the Companies issuing bundled securities already have enough privileges, and that it seems good to him to take them away from his profiting from these extraordinary recipes. It was, in reality, a matter of to get their hands on 30 million florins representing the sum of the values drawn and not claimed by the holders. Even if it were true that the available sums of This chef belongs to the entire public, it is not in in all cases that by agreement with the issuers of the securities that the State could claim it, and not by a simple confiscation, solely by virtue of his illegal desire. The claim Expressed in this way, it was absolutely unprecedented.

What more can be said about the way the government has given in response to the monetary law passed in 1892? The securities Theoretically, the amounts paid in crowns are due. in gold. In practice, they have so far been paid in white crowns, in silver or paper florins. The premium on gold is therefore borne by the holders of these securities, so that the new monetary standard does not differs in no way, from the point of view of randomness, from the old Austro-Hungarian value based on the forced circulation of the

Fiat currency. (See more information)
(in the chapter on the economic and social situation).

Anti-capitalist tendencies seem poised to break down doors and penetrate the councils of the bourgeoisie. In other times, legislative customs such as those we just talked about would simply have caused astonishment. Today they produce a real disruption among those involved. Thanks to the appearance of ambiguous figures from various successive ministries, the fight for social work continues relentlessly without encountering other obstacles besides the resistance of the capitalists themselves.

366 JEWISH AUSTRIA

THE VIENNA STOCK EXCHANGE

If we want to make a sound judgment about what is happening on the Stock Exchange from Vienna and to that of Budapest, which is considered as being the exclusive domain of the Jews, it is necessary to avoid proceeding by comparison with the market in Paris; conditions are different in many ways and the point of view must be changed. In Vienna there are still influences strong enough to distort the situation and render illusory the natural law of supply and demand. It is also necessary to point out this particularity of the Viennese market, that a special value, the share of a credit institution specializing in movable property, is recognized by all the world as the true regulator of the market. It is therefore easy for the financial group that represents this value of making rain and sunshine according to one's needs. Moreover, some speculators have become the masters of the Viennese market; one could say that they there constitute a specialty that is not very favorable to the interests of the country. The influence of these speculators is not exerted, it is true, that on a limited number of values of which they take turns handling it exclusively.

In some respects, the Vienna Stock Exchange is a very political market. The stock market is highly political. When Russia... a few years ago, he took out large loans in Paris, a general downward trend occurred regularly in Vienna a few days before the broadcast. Number of Viennese speculators at that time considered a downward commitment as a kind of free bonus. They wanted to strive to prove to the world that the other European markets did not participate in any way in a way that reflects the enthusiasm of the French public. We were able, in this on this occasion, to observe the existence of a genuine organization obeying an order that came from Berlin and London. However, if we consider that, in certain cases, the The financial business market can have an influence serious on the conduct of political affairs, and that he can circumstances can easily arise where there is a real connection between financial interests and the major national interests, one can understand the danger of an organization a situation in which, alongside financial matters, foreign political influences are also evolving pronounced.

FRENCH CAPITAL 367

The influence of German bankers on business Austria-Hungary's financial situation is not without its challenges. serious drawbacks. Their action is characteristic for Austria's economic situation. For a fairly A large number of Austrian stocks, the prices are dictated in Berlin. We said at the beginning of this chapter that France held approximately half of the Austro-Hungarians placed abroad. The other half, representing more than four billion is divided between Germany, the Switzerland, Holland and Belgium; but the largest share, at least two-thirds of it is located in Germany.

In many cases, German Jews are not, as As we know, depositors of foreign capital, are subject to... focusing less on the ranking of values than on opportunities to resell them at a profit. It would also be unfair to say that their intervention in the affairs of Austria is devoid of all usefulness. The control they exercise, in their advertising bodies, has asserted itself in in many cases in the public interest. It has been noted, in particular-ly, the refusal of the German markets, in these last time to absorb Austrian annuities at 3.5% in value of crowns, due to the uncertainties that the exchange rate fluctuations.

Annuities and Miscellaneous Assets

In general terms, and setting aside considerations—Political discussions, it can be said that French savings have not didn't have too much to regret about having invested his capital in the affairs of Austria and Hungary. Regarding especially state annuities, the acquired results are due,

368 JEWISH AUSTRIA

largely, to this era of peace which has lasted for more thirty years. Bond prices have risen in unexpected proportions.

We believe it is necessary to reproduce here the list of principals pale affairs, Austrian and Hungarian, whose titles a significant portion of which are located in France:

- Austrian annuity at 4% in gold;
- common annuity at 4.20%;
- annuities at 4% and 3.5% in crown value;
- Austrian state-owned lands;
- Hungarian annuity 4% in gold;
- Austrian and Hungarian railway titles converted into state annuities;
- government lottery securities;
- shares and bonds of the Southern Railway Austria (ancient Lombards);
- shares and bonds of the Railway Company Austrians (Staatsbahn);
- shares of the Lemberg–Czernowitz railway– Jassy.;
- shares of the Austrian Land Credit;
- shares of the Bank of the Austrian Countries;

- shares of the Central Bank of Land Credit Austrian;
- shares of the Hungarian Land Credit;
- shares of Wiener Bank Gesellschaft;
- shares of the Bank of Hungarian Countries;
- shares of the Franco-Hungarian Company;
- shares and bonds of the Société minière des Alpes Austrian (the Alpine);
- shares and bonds of the Trifail Mining Company and the Urikany Coal Mining Company;
- shares of about ten insurance companies.

The amount of Austrian state pensions and Hungarian, classified in French portfolios, is valued at 950 million guilders, or approximately 2 billion francs. It is in these annuities, of the most diverse types, that French savings have committed the most capital. The 4% gold Austrian, whose outstanding securities represent approximately one billion francs, to its main market at Paris; it is classified almost entirely in France. The 4% gold Hungarian, whose emissions amount to 682 million florins, also found a place in wallets French. For this reason, no doubt, this type of annuity has been chosen for the broadcasts made under the pretext of restoring the circulation of metal in Austria-Hungary; at the time where these loans were issued, the Austro-German alliance was in full swing; it was therefore with French gold that shells were forged in Austrian arsenals. intended to massacre his children on the battlefields. The success of these loans was the triumph and the leader- of the work of international Jewry. As she said so in fact, a speaker at a recent session of the Society political economy in Paris: "One cannot disin- to be completely interested in what the capitalists of his country, especially when they entrust their savings to foreigners notoriously hostile to its interests nationals. In such circumstances, one could report on the attitude of foreign governments towards France, a frankly hostile attitude among Some, not very likeable in others. Those who don't do not strive to harm us, do not strive by no means, in any case, to show themselves to be favorable to our interests. We must therefore ensure, if the money is, As they say, the sinews of war, let ours not be used not to equip the armies or to increase the influences that can fight ours.

FRENCH CAPITAL 369

The negative outcome of the monetary reform had to In effect, however, it makes acclimatization difficult in France of new securities at 4% and 3.5% in value crowns, the creation of which is risky in part at a rate that was previously unknown in Austria-Hungary, caused heated discussions. Indeed, no one dares to proceed with the conversion of the 4% into gold, for fear that the reducing the interest rate does not result in the downgrading of value; but it was judged appropriately to to create a type of 3.5% in crown value, that is to- to say payable in cash or paper. The logic of these facts is debatable, we will agree; it is not of a nature to give a high idea of the design power of the honourable minister who took charge of the issue of the rate of interest and has, in a way, made it his specialty. Therefore, only a very small quantity circulates in France. of securities of this annuity, no more than of the annuity, called common at 4.2%, also payable in cash or in paper.

370 JEWISH AUSTRIA

Moreover, the lack of sincerity is revealed in the entire financial economy. The monetary reform- To remain silent, as we have said, is a fiction; the golden crown doesn't actually exist. As for a balanced budget, nothing more questionable than the arguments intended to to prove its existence. Despite the enormous increase tax revenues, the Government resorts to new calves borrowed from Jet continu, even in the years when the Ordinary budgets are liquidated as revenue surpluses. Annuity issuances made on both sides of the Leitha, for about ten years, have exceeded one billion of crowns.

If, moreover, we want to examine the question of to know to what extent Austrian annuities and Hungarian values can be considered as investments, one must be fully convinced of the decisive influence—the impact that these events will inevitably have on their future of international politics. The fate of rentiers is inextricably linked to that of the debtor state, expected that they have no other guarantee than the maintenance of its power and its integrity. Now, it cannot be denied that Austria is the most threatened European state.

FRENCH CAPITAL 37.1

French savings hold almost all of the Austrian state bonds issued in 1866 in the form of obligations at 5%. So far, she has only had reason to be pleased. This value is guaranteed in certain areas of both States of Austria and Hungary, as well as all assets of The issuing institution is the Austrian Land Credit Bank. results from various judicial consultations that the domains are not convertible. The amortization plan—The original plan was modified as a result of an agreement between the “curator” of the creditors and the Crédit Foncier, with a view to to ensure compliance with the deadlines set for reimbursement—the fact that the issuing institution had wanted to hasten.

One of the most unfortunate companies to which French shareholders have never participated, it's an island Southern Austrian Railway (formerly Lombard). The The nominal value of the share capital amounts to 375 million. francs, divided into 750,000 shares of 500 francs each. However, the price of these securities has fallen to 150 francs; for In the 1898 financial year, they were allocated a dividend of one franc, representing 0.2% of the capital. And that dividend again. can it only be obtained through manipulations of all sorts, and to the detriment of good farming practices. The The high cost of transport on the Südbahn lines is such that that the commercial movement has a lot to suffer from in the southern provinces of Austria, and that of stormy debates have taken place on this subject more than once in the provincial diets as within parliament. However, at the beginning, it was a company that seemed must be fruitful and prosperous, due to the monopoly which was guaranteed to him for communications between the LL and Trieste, the great seaport of the Empire. On the other hand, the financial power of a company where the The Rothschild house had a dominant influence from the beginning.

Nantes was beyond doubt for anyone. The shares were trading at extremely high prices; it was distributed dividends of 6 to 8.5%, requiring employment of 108 million francs in just a few years. But the

372 JEWISH AUSTRIA

The truth inevitably came to light. Then the dividends fluctuated. in the strangest way. For a few years they didn't were more than 1.5%, then in 1875 they ceased everything at A blow; for six years none were distributed. The Priority obligations were now only found to be difficult to enforce. takers; they fell, in France, to 50% of their face value and even below. The Company attempted a new effort; in 1865 and 1866 it issued 6% bonds, but which actually yielded 10%. Due to the rate of. the very high interest at that time, the issuance of bonds The operations were carried out under absolutely expensive. The Company has not withdrawn any of its loans that a small part of their face value.

In the meantime, there had been the transfer of the Lombard network-Venetian to Italy; and this cession had been made in poor conditions. The sum of eleven million, which The amount paid annually to the Italian government is insufficient. to cover the interest on the invested capital.

The mistakes made at the beginning are keenly felt. today; and their deplorable consequences will be heightened tensions will be reached when it comes to selling the network to State. To ensure the servicing of the 3% bonds, and well that bondholders have to bear the 10% tax on the coupons, the Company was forced to constitute- to kill a special fund for which it is levied each year a fraction per share on the amount of benefits. In addition, serious modifications were made- tions to the statutes for the amortization of: shares. Until now, this amortization was achieved by means of drawing lots; and in this way he met at least a number of shareholders whose shares were reimbursed at their face value. Currently, at On the contrary, the Company is authorized to buy back on the Stock Exchange the securities that it must redeem up to the amount of half of the share capital. It buys them back at prices depreciated; under the pretext of being able to pay a dividend to shareholders, it gives the PEs their chance to be reimbursed at the rates of the past.

The situation is, therefore, in reality, absolutely disastrous. It's a mess, and we're surprised that things could have come to this.

B. A railway network that measures 2,200 kilometers, which has the budget of a small state and earns an average of 100,000 florins per day, should to provide its shareholders with even more guaranteed income that its traffic is constantly growing. But what to do when you have a debt of 2 billion 200,000 francs, and that it is necessary, under To avoid permanently losing all credit, consider first To satisfy creditors before thinking about shareholders? In reality, it is the bondholders who own the network. They will receive the lion's share of the prize purchase the day the Government decides to be exercise of his right.

It was indeed French gold that was used to build the network but following countless stock market crashes to which these values have given rise since many Over the years, French carriers have gotten rid of them; these are German shareholders and some speculators Viennese who own = burd'hui the titles.

It is fair to recognize, on the other hand, that savings French made some good deals by acquiring the bonds tions that provided him with sufficient income. It is at benefit bondholders precisely that shareholders have were sacrificed.

The Austro-Hungarian Railway Company
The state (Staatsbahn, Austrians) was, from the beginning, very prospered; and this excellent situation has not diminished. This society was founded in 1855, when the State, Pressed by urgent financial needs, he found himself forced to give up, after an experience of thirteen years, to the direct operation system of railway lines. The Society, whose founders were mostly French capitalists paid the State barely more than half of what he had spent on the construction and network installation.

As we just said, this company has always been prosperous; and this prosperity has always been increasing—health as a result of the construction of additional lines, particularly in Bohemia. The share capital, which is 275 millions of francs, divided into 500-franc bonds, produced a fairly regular income. The Sn it are which, like the shares themselves, have become securities of all rest, occupying a good place in the door—French sheets. The Company, in addition to its railway network, still owns a private domain (mines, forests, factories) which appears on the balance sheet for a total value of 30,600,000 di. Network operation has always worked at the general satisfaction.

The French and Austrians lived in perfect harmony. within the Board of Directors, when suddenly, in In 1890, a movement occurred, seemingly based on the rights of the Austrians, and tending to make of the Staatsbahn, an Austrian company, by reducing the Rights and prerogatives of the Paris committee. This movement that opinion could, at a stretch, have been justified in some way if he hadn't called upon her for help, to stir up passions, the the most extravagant calumnies. He was also wrong unforgivable to rely on the most speculative shameless. It was primarily, above all, about expelling the French president, although his attitude towards the The company would always have been absolutely proper. resorted to a vicious smear campaign which was, of course, bound to result in a stock market coup of a Uncommon audacity. The leaders of this campaign put large quantities of securities up for sale on a short basis and thus produced a huge drop in prices. Viennese newspapers got involved, with their skillful hatreds—maintained, and did not hesitate to say that the fortune shareholders were lost through France's fault, and that the situation of the Here themselves was seriously compromised. All the speculators in Vienna began of the game, and took advantage of the shareholders' panic French to bring in titles from Paris.

FRENCH CAPITAL 375

The meticulously planned attack finally succeeded. The chairman of the board of directors resigned. and was replaced by Mr. de Taussig, director of the Austrian Land Credit. Immediately, the goal being Once that was achieved, things returned to normal; and the people of good faith were able to realize the falsity of the accusations made so loudly. Not only was he distributed—that year, as usual, a deposit of 12 fifty francs to the shareholders; but the new The administration deemed it appropriate to distribute to the shareholders a supplementary dividend. No coupon payments remained. in distress. The company had not ceased to be prosperous.

That Austria wished to take control of this large network, that's easily understood; but it should not have forgotten that, without the help of capital French, its most important railway lines would not have could have been built in a timely manner. Consequently, it could have, in claiming what she considered as a right, to use honest methods and resort to Friendly gestures. That wouldn't have hurt.

The organization of the Company has, moreover, remained pretty much what it was before: Monsieur de Taussig presides over the Board of Directors in Vienna. But there is still in Paris a committee including Mr. Charles Mallet is president, and Mr. Henri Germain, vice-president.

Shortly after the stock market crash we have just described the talk took place following lengthy negotiations and the difficult separation of the Austrian lines and the Hungarian lines. Hungary, to remain property—silence of his network, pays a fixed annual annuity to the Company.

376, JEWISH AUSTRIA

The Lemberg-Czernowitz-Jassy railway is, like the Stzatsbahn, a very successful company. Shares of this Company have been introduced in France.

a few years ago, by the Austrian Federal Bank, to prices that have since risen by approximately 40%. The company is receiving support from the Romanian government. annual compensation in gold, for the price of the line of Moldova, which he took possession of by force. She recently lost a lawsuit against the tax authorities. Austrian for a matter of back taxes. She paid using only its reserves, the sum claimed, a million florins, without the shareholders' income having had to suffer from it. The Lemberg-Czernowitz network is currently operated by the State, on behalf of the Company. The only objection that can be raised to Regarding the titles, the point is that the railway lines are located in the regions most exposed in the event of war.

The Austrian state seems to have, for the moment, less, having abandoned his earlier plans to buy back the large private networks. He is waiting for the opportune moment for the success of his plans; and he can all the better expect than for the two most extensive networks (Austrian and Lombards) the primary condition of the buyout is from the outset presently achieved. Public authorities have the right to They are trying to address the issue of the buyout. However, they are hampered by the clauses contained in the concession agreements. In the specifications, the financial conditions of the acquisition were clearly indicated. The price calculation must have for .base, as we know, the net income of the seven last few years, after deducting the products realized during the two weakest years. However, under the pretext to group the stipulations into a single piece of legislation contained in the various concession agreements, the government had prepared, a few years ago, a project to The law that speaks too heavily in his favor. He had wanted, he said, interpreting certain somewhat dubious clauses: In fact, he was preparing an act of plunder. But the

FRENCH CAPITAL 377

The mere announcement of this project sparked outrage from all sides in Berlin. as in Vienna, such protests that its authors They did not dare submit it to parliament. Furthermore, regarding the takeover of the Austrians and the Northwest conditions can only be favorable. rables, in the current state of affairs. As for the Sădbabn, Various opposing influences are in conflict; and the outcome of the The question is dubious. Share capital can, in any case, to be considered largely lost.

When the opportune time for buybacks arrives, he will not
It seems beyond doubt that the current titles will be replaced. by others, issued in the name of the State, and guaranteed by mortgage registrations on their assets, unlike what happened in Hungary. In the kingdom of Saint-Etienne, indeed, the Government has bought back some private lines, and simply gave, in some cases, in exchange, Hungarian bonds, without the slightest special guarantee.

Apart from the Austrian railways, savings French is still interested in many business in the Dualist Empire. It notably absorbed a large portion of the Hungarian loan securities of the railways in 1887. This loan, with a capital of 455 million francs, yields 4.5% annual interest, pays'bles an or. In the presence of the enormous financial operations-candles that the kingdom of Saint Stephen has made since a over a dozen years, it would be difficult to specify the value actual value of the securities in question.

Among Austrian credit institutions and Hungarian titles whose titles circulate in France, we must mention in first line, as one of the oldest and most solid, the Austrian Land Credit. This institution has was created, with the help of French capital, by a few administrators traders of Crédit Foncier de France. After a certain During a period of prosperity, it nearly sank into crisis.
1873. Fortunately, he met at that time.

378 JEWISH AUSTRIA

critic, a man who possessed both courage and skill to get the business back on track. It was Mr. Moser, the former governor of Crédit Foncier, who, upon his death, left his heirs only a modest fortune. Several years were devoted by him to the recovery of this large establishment, and in particular the need for repairs to recover the considerable losses he had suffered. Throughout During this time, the shareholders received no dividends.
When the sanitation work was completed, Mr. de Taussig took over the management of affairs. He made Austrian mortgage credit, a professional establishment exceptional peril.

Let us not forget, moreover, that in the enormous reserves of this establishment are listed, as far as possible Judging by this, the essential provisions for the bonus of repayment of bonds, which provisions, similar to those of Crédit foncier de France, could not to generate a bonus for shareholders. On the other hand, the Land deals only bring in a quarter of the company about its annual profits. The surplus of its His income comes from regular banking transactions. and issuances or conversions. The securities are among the best classified.

The Bank of the Austrian Countries, founded in 1880, in maintained its position intact and managed to conquer Austria an important place which seems definitively assured In Vienna, they had initially thought they saw in her the instrument intended to end the monopoly of capital Jews, especially with regard to their relationship with the State. Perhaps that was the intention of its creator for a time. But he soon gave it up; it had become impossible to give the Bank a trend, political or religious-ordinary, unremarkable. She had to limit herself to becoming what she has remained, as it still is today, an established-credit union enjoying genuine prosperity. actions have affected, without the slightest interruption, dividends averaging 6.25%. Thanks to the upward trend which she acquired in the business world, in Vienna, particularly in the wheat, sugar and 1 markets irons, almost all of his income comes from his day-to-day business. Its branches in Paris, Prague, and Bucharest and Thessaloniki are among the most prosperous. It is she which was carried out on behalf of the Government Austrian, the acquisition of the large network in Western Austria, and contributed, to a large extent, to the establishment, in Austria and the East, very extensive railway networks important.

FRENCH CAPITAL 379

She had under her patronage for many years the Austrian Central Mortgage Bank, whose stocks were almost entirely in his portfolio. It was only in 1894 that she introduced these shares on the French market, where they found buyers at Prices have risen considerably since then. The activity of the

The central bank we deal with has always been limited to mortgage lending matters, excluding all other companies. The bonds it issued exceed-The total sum of 30 million florins is felt. The essence mortgage lending matters being, as is known, the progressive income, the situation of this company seems to us Safe from all risks. But one criticism can be leveled at it.
very justified: no French shareholder appears in its Board of Directors, although French savings represents the largest part of the capital of which it has.

The Hungarian Credit Federation (Mortgage Bank) Hungarian) also owes its existence to the capital that His FE ndabrs came to France to look for them. This established-the sement enjoys a good reputation and has not suffered, since 1880, of serious setbacks.

We will only mention, for the record, three entries.
assets that have disappeared from the financial scene: the Bank of Hungarian country, the Wiener Bank Gesellschaft, and the Company of Franco-Hungarian insurance. The twists and turns that have

380 JEWISH AUSTRIA

crossings through these establishments have caused losses important to the holders of the securities.

Now let's get to two big matters industrials in which French capital is heavily involved, namely: the Mining and Metallurgy Company Austrian Alps (V'Alpine), and the Society Trifail Pouilière. The issuance of Alpine shares at gave rise to rampant speculation. The share capital, subscribed
For the most part in Lyon, it is 30 million
RER tickets divided into 300,000 individual tickets. It arrived this time.
Again, this has happened so many times in Austria.
While the French shareholder islands, discouraged from not receiving no dividends, they sold their shares at low prices.
Viennese and Jewish speculators seized them, were electing members of the Board of Directors and they alone benefited from the rise in prices, cleverly revoked at the time they chose. A few capitalists

Anieass alone, better inspired than the others, were able to seize the opportune moment for Sn pe their titles in de good conditions.

The Trifail Company, whose main coal-swimming areas are located in the southern provinces of Austria was founded by a few prominent figures. French and Austrian women from the Sädbabn, at the time when Mr. Bontoux ran this company. His beginnings did not were not happy, as a result of some rather serious mistakes which were committed within the administration; and during what- In recent years, stock prices, on which there was no no transactions, they weren't even listed in the stock exchange. The company was able to recover around 1889; dividends Between seven and nine florins were distributed to the shareholders, and Today, stocks are well-ranked. Bonds, which together represent approximately 6 million florins, are almost all in the hands of capitalists French. The share capital, which was seven, went to Initially, it was reduced to 4,900,000 florins. The properties social issues have increased in recent years.

FRENCH CAPITAL 381

new coal mines, notably those of Gran, in Hungary. But these coal mines have since been sold to a Hungarian company, which paid a certain amount number of shares it had issued and that the public had rejected due to the disrepute surrounding the case.

In 1891, French savings were invited, by... high-profile advertisements, to subscribe to the securities of a company coal mine takeover in Urikany, Hungary. The capital The initial amount, three million, was fully provided. Indeed, by French shareholders. But the affair was First, it was poorly managed by its founders, who seemed to have only thought of establishing surcharges in their favor. Fortunately, accurate and truthful information was provided. were published by the French press; and, in 1891, Île The board of directors was overturned. The new board, composed of honest and capable people, it deals with repairs to rectify the mistakes made; and, under these conditions, the case does not appear to be without chances of success in the future.

Significant French capital is being invested, in Austria, in various insurance companies, such as the Alliance-Life, the Danube, the two Phoenixes, the General, the Real estate companies and others. These companies had very different fates. various. Some never gave to their shareholders the slightest cause for concern; others, at On the contrary, they had a turbulent existence.

Now, having reached the end of this special chapter, we take a retrospective look at all the Austrian or Hungarian affairs in which are Having committed French capital, we are forced, to pay homage to the truth, to recognize that the far outweighs the evil. As for what Regarding bonds, investments generally have, It has been very fruitful; in addition to their guaranteed income, the security holders benefited from substantial capital gains maple trees, which can amount to hundreds of millions. Shareholders, on the other hand, had a destiny less enviable. Not to mention the companies that have sunk, many others, even those who are prosperous today, they have gone through critical times where panicked shareholders were throwing their shares onto the market at depreciated prices. Are there many, among those who had the courage or the financial means to witness without being moved the numerous crises that have Those who suffered at the hands of the Viennese market? Those who kept their cool They only have to wait and keep their titles. congratulate them; because, in most cases, they were able to achieve also serious benefits. It is up to each individual to compare. to compare present conditions with those of the past, and to assess- to assess, in each special case, the real chances for the future. They seem, for the moment, to be in favor of the stocks mortgages and various securities that had the opportunity to demonstrate vitality.

382 JEWISH AUSTRIA

XIV

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS

Unhappy Austria! Unhappy Empire! In comparing his current situation with the one he held in In Europe thirty years ago, it is easy to see, from the first at a glance, how far he had fallen, and to measure all that that it has lost in prestige, in real power, in cohesion. What has become of his right to exist in the midst of the States which surround it and which are all based on the principle of nationalities? Everything conspired to weaken it: political causes ticks, economic causes, protests against abuses and nameless plundering, such are the origins of great movement which is taking place in the empire of Habsburg. All of this is mixed up, confused; and the resistance- The people's resentment against the central power provokes a crisis serious enough that we can see it, without the The slightest exaggeration, the symptoms of a true revo- political and social solution.

The guarantees that the nationalities, grouped under the The scepter of the Habsburgs, had to be found in the laws constitutional ones have never been anything but a decoy, a trompe-l'œil. Applied and especially interpreted as They were, these fundamental laws have remained the state of fiction, or rather fable. Public opinion, emancipated from Jewish tutelage, she subjected them to her free will. examination; and the scaffolding of chimerical promises, of grand principles that remained in the realm of illusions, collapsed like a mountain of sand. Who could Are we currently considering rebuilding it? A thousand circumstances well-known figures oppose it. The current regime, like a old building constantly being dismantled, under the pretext of repair gradually gives way to absolutism.

384 INDEX

The administrative machinery is falling apart. The cowardice the conscience is such that the most The basics of duty are lacking. Trust The justice system is shaken. Respect for authority has disappeared. The accumulated anger erupts against the State police, supposedly secret, whose activity, put to serving private passions and hatreds, degenerated into a veritable manhunt, organized on the largest scale. The imperial police, driven by passions, encouraged by long-standing impunity, no longer even the instinct to at least try to do something useful. That is too often out of mere frivolity or to gain money, that she engages in criminal schemes, even in foreign territory. Its oligarchic activity is undoubtedly one of the major causes that motivated the decline in political morals, and contributed to the decadence of the State through the revolt of consciences.

If the Austrian people, feeling that honor and Even the lives of citizens are no longer safe, uninterested in the existence and greatness of the State olyglotte, there are, moreover, other unnamed reasons for this. Those who do not escape their sound judgment. The state economic and social development in the country is one of the main factors that must be taken into account if one wants to determine precisely the discontent that has taken hold of people's minds. Large estates, like As we have said, it occupies about a third of Austrian land; and thanks to the current electoral system, the influence the policies of feudal landowners necessarily clash with all progress in the democratic direction. However, there is a conservative whose intervention, on many occasions In circumstances, it is genuinely useful. The great evil, in On the other hand, and there is no remedy for this, is that the product of work accumulates almost exclusively in a small number of hands. Savings do not exist in the classes inferior; it only brings well-being and comfort to a a small minority of the population, the Jews, who eventually to absorb almost all social activity.

INDEX 385

Due to multiple circumstances, including prominently featured are the significant debts taxes, which particularly burden small and medium-sized properties, as well as the enormous tax burden, the number of small farmers, like those of the petty bourgeoisie, are decreasing year after year, to alarming proportions. Pauperism is wreaking havoc among the population. with all its material and moral consequences. Agriculture, powerless to fight against competition foreign wheat, sees a significant decrease in revenues nudes that she used to produce; and the industrial fortune, based based on the cheapness of products, is built to the great detri-workers' rights. The deficit in state finances, disguised in vain under various forms, has passed into the state permanent. Monetary reform has so far only resulted in substitute silver or nickel coins for the currency fiduciary; and as for loans made in gold coin, they seem to have had no other purpose than to constitute a Reserve in case of war. Foreign trade, well that the balance be established, however imperfectly, between the exports tariffs and imports, cause all sensible people to serious apprehensions, half of the exchanges take place—killing at the borders of a single country.

However, precisely because the struggle continues on the On both the economic and political fronts, the socialist movement, which is becoming increasingly pronounced in Austria, offers all the symptoms of a general malaise and denotes, in all classes, an overexcitement

386 INDEX

The unrest tends, above all, to highlight the Workers' wages, which the Jews have reduced to the lowest level extreme poverty. The scene is so heartbreaking that the State socialism came at just the right time to stop, as far as possible, the loss of strength female workers of the country. Today, we are witnessing the singular the spectacle that the Jews are giving us by passing themselves at the head this socialist movement motivated by their practices revolting, and striving to direct it to prevent the social demands must be addressed effectively. That's where it's necessary. to acknowledge, that lies the gravity of the situation economic. On the one hand, the Ecility with which the Jews seized the Austro-Hungarian Empire, where their domin—nation, long undisputed, is still today at its peak remains a subject of astonishment for the impartial observers; on the other hand, the resources deployed work by them, with infernal skill, to act on the passions of the proletariat through socialist agitations, reveal enough of what efforts they are likely to to conquer world empire.

Step by step, the Jews, since 1848, have followed their gradual march; they concentrated in their hands all the material resources of Austria and the Hungary. Finance, the press, political influences, Everything belongs to them. Wholesale and large-scale trade industry constitutes an undisputed domain for them, of even that a very significant portion of retail trade and small industry. Arable land, hunting grounds, the The peaches, the forests, are gradually falling into their hands. took out mortgages on properties that they could not share of interest from government debt or private securities.

They're the ones who make the most money.
They make and break reputations with the help of their newspapers.
literary, artistic and other; they clutter all the liberal careers and public service. They manage-This leads to people being put behind bars, often for life.
in their mental asylums, people whose health

INDEX 387

Their physical and moral condition leaves nothing to be desired. They exercise on those Austrians who were able to resist their attacks amount to a kind of economic boycott, by depriving them of all customers and credit. They set the price of all food items, adulterate the food, favor-They raise alcoholism. Every year they expel, in On average, 10,000 to 12,000 farmers from their farms or their huts, excite the Svble in the stock market game and bring about They devoted everything to their one true deity: money. Finally, they have have offended the religious feelings of the people, and have 'crowned their exploits by destroying the family,' in destroying patriotism.

In this Austrian homeland, which is not their own, they stripped their hosts of all their possessions, of all their enjoyments, and never gave to the workers that which was literally indispensable to them in order not to Not to starve. It was time for antisemitism to rise.
his banner to try to put an end to such horrors. But, on the other hand, by contrasting the infinitesimal domination-
The Jewish nation's energetic resistance provokes...
New explosions of hatred and Ga pointed the finger.
the abyss into which Austria is being drawn by this latent civil war.

The horror that the lamentable
The spectacle of ruins piled up by so many excesses... made all the more accessible to the suggestions of those who present the cult of nationalism as the only A way to achieve a more prosperous future. Power Jewish women could only grow up sheltered from internal struggles which, by fragmenting the country's vital forces, they had left the
This gives free rein to those responsible for the economic unrest.
the day these scattered forces attempted to reunite, the
A terrible and merciless battle has begun. Currently This brings together, at all points in the territory, the enemy races. The Slavs, overwhelmed for centuries by the Germanic tide, they demand their autonomy; and of On their side, the Germans, seeing the supremacy of the government-

388 INDEX

To escape them, they turn to their brothers of the outside, welcoming them with open arms. The Italians and the Romanians from Bukovina draw inspiration from feelings analogous.

In the North, things are changing. The Poles Austrians, enjoying complete autonomy in their Kingdom of Galicia, have no reason to take part in a movement which is drawing other Austrian peoples to the conquest of national autonomy. They remain provisional-loyal to the dynasty, but still hopeful of to re-establish Poland, which would separate Russia from the center European. The political influence they wield in Vienna is countered, to a small extent, by the attitude of Ruthenians, who are protesting against the situation created in their to the detriment of the Poles in Bukovina, and profess openly expressing sympathies for Russia.

The constitution of the Cisleithan Empire on the basis of federalists, including the autonomy of national units appears to some politicians as having all the characteristics of a desirable solution, of a principle beneficial. That is not our opinion. In our view, the link which would unite the federated peoples under the dynasty without delay not to be broken either as a result of previous conflicts on points that would require a common agreement (such as that the conflicts raised by the Austro-Hungarian, for example), either in a war against a or several neighboring states.

Hungary, for its part, will not escape any more than The Cisleithan Empire, with its nationalist fervor, has had its effects. are being felt more keenly every day. The elements heterogeneous components of which it is composed are agglomerated in unfavorable conditions for a number of them. The resistance of the Romanians of Transylvania and the hostile attitude of the Croats does not demonstrate anything else thing. According to the fatal law of political evolution, Hungary is forced into a crisis that will finally put it in harmony with the aspirations of the modern spirit.

It is fair to note, moreover, that it is in Hungary, or, to speak more precisely, among the Hungarians, among whom one still encounters the most attachment for the ruling house. That is where the dynastic spirit remained entrenched. In other parts of the monarchy Austro-Hungarian, the prevailing feeling is a profound Respect for Augustus, the emperor's personality Franz Joseph. But this personal link that connects the memory-rain to its people does not exclude concerns to the point of Looking to the future. What will happen when Franz Joseph will no longer be there, like a link between peoples? The concerns that are emerging in this regard are perfectly justified.

Fortunately, the political excitements of all nature has not been able to weaken the ranks of the army permanent, respect for discipline and obedience to military regulations. It is, however, accepted, in a way nee, that it was impossible for him to escape the influence—the harmful influence of nationalist struggles. Rightly or wrongly, Each hopes to meet followers at the decisive moment. fervent within the army. The Germans, even more so that the Russophile Slavs cling to this hope.

The alliance between Austria and Germany produced, in Indeed, the consequences that the Viennese statesmen They were unable to foresee or prevent it. Austria suffered as a result. the inevitable effect of the current policies international; it is driven by the major currents popular. The future, whether we like it or not, lies in triumph of nationalism. Now, this idea, universally dominant throughout Europe, is directly contrary in its very essence, to the one who presided, there are centuries, to the constitution of an Eastern Empire, to the formation—tion of the Austrian state. This grouping of diverse peoples under the same flag no longer has any reason to exist the day when Nationalities are demanding autonomy. We have not advised that Austria and Germany could be united through bonds of friendship that in the aftermath of the Congress of Berlin. This follows the initial steps taken by Austria. on the road to the East, and when the tension of the Russo-German relations, that the idea of the alliance between Austria and Germany fascinated some men of the state. We now know that the event did not justified their predictions.

